"BILLION DOLLAR RAIN" FALLS HERE SATURDAY

The Review has been speaking of the recent rains as "Million Dollar Rains", and now we are confronted with another problem. Saturday night a three inch rain fell here, and a good subscriber says for us to call it a "Billion Dollar Rain", so we are following his advice, and if the rain was not that valuable it is not our fault. But to say the least, it was a ground-soaker and a gully-washer. With such a splendid season, crop prospects are very promising, and everybody's smiling.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION AT BRECKENRIDGE ANNOUNCED

The district convention of the American Legion will convene at Breckenridge, Saturday and Sunday, and the Tommie Aiken Post of Cross Plains hopes to win the attendance cup this time. Every member of the local post who can do so are urged to attend. The meeting will be worth a visit. Judge Paul V. Harrell, commander of the local organization, says a big program has been arranged and a good time is in store for all.

THIRTY IN GRADUATING CLASS THIS YEAR

Thirty members of the graduating class heard Dr. D. W. Arnett deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the high school auditorium Sunday night. The house was filled to seating capacity. The message was an inspiration, not only to the graduates, but to all present. It was ably prepared and well delivered. Members of the class are as follows:

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Wednesday night, Rev. S. P. Collins delivered the graduating address to the elementary class, composed of 34 members. They were attired in class dress and were a promising looking crowd of youngsters. Rev. Collins made an interesting address. Supt. Haggard presented the diplomas. The class roll is as follows:

Milton Antry, Mack Bingham, Jimmie Baum, Frank Cross, James Cross, Carl Childs, Ralph Chandler, Leonard Davidson, Tommy Holden, Edward Henkel, Harlan Lacy, Howard Price, W. J. Sipes, Clyde Walker, Volley Joe Williams, Marvin Yarbrough, Hazel Clifton, Louise Cunningham, Olive Harlow, Maurine Harris, Ernestine Hestup, Opal Mae Jones, Martha Jackson, Wida Mc Lain, Pearl McDowell, Kathryn Rose Pinner, Eulene Tate, Ruby Mae Travis, Loretta Vestal, Juakama Westerman, Burdette Williams, Opal Young, Bobby Dawn Yeager, Frances Cole.

Kathryn Rose Pinner, valedictorian. Leonard Davidson, Salutatorian.

Tonight (Thursday) the senior class will receive their diplomas.

GOOD SHOWING IN BRYANT'S WILDCAT

The discovery of an oil sand carrying live oil which was found in the Tom Bryant wild-cat on T. N. Pinkston lease four miles northeast, at 1452 feet, turned the attention of local operators to this deep test. The oil sand found was about six feet deep, but was lost when continued drilling encountered heavy water sand.

In the Eubank pool south of Cross Cut, Cranfill-Reynolds, completed their Keller No. 2 for small well, which failed to flow following a shot and will be put on pump. Cranfill Reynolds No. 3 Eubank is nearing sand, and their No. 1 A, offsetting Bradstreet-Mahlstedt well, is also nearing sand. Their No. 2 A Eubank is drilling, offsetting the big well, and Sinclair Oil Co. is drilling on offset on the Eubank.

LETTER FROM BLANTON

To Citizens of Callahan County:

The western half of Texas has never had a representative in the U. S. Senate. Why? In practically all States there is an unwritten law that two Senators must come from different halves of the state. I am the only candidate from the western half of Texas. I have represented in congress two different districts embracing 69 counties running from Mineral Wells to El Paso. I know our problems. If West Texas will stand behind me, and let me use my time campaigning East Texas, I will get enough votes to elect me. I will highly appreciate it if my friends will organize their precincts for me, and also if they will write all of their friends scattered over Texas in my behalf.

Gratefully your,
THOMAS L. BLANTON

TO VISIT HOLY LAND

Cecil A. Latief plans to leave the first of next week on an extended visit in the Holy Land, where some of his people live.

WHAT'S YOUR ANSWER?

The question is often asked, "why don't you build a home?", and the answer is often "I would, but I am not able." And yet the rent paid for a few years will build a home. A friend stated recently, "I have paid enough rent in the past five years to build a home". That is often true. Let us figure with you. Own your own home.

Is business quiet in Cross Plains? Well, if you think so, just get in your car and drive around over the state a few days, and you will be convinced that Cross Plains is a lively town, compared with most of them, and business promises to get much better this fall.

HOTEL MAN HERE TO DISCUSS BUILDING PLANS

H. L. Mobley, of Cisco, who owns several modern hotels in West Texas, was here Tuesday, and met with local citizens to discuss plans for building a modern fire-proof hotel in Cross Plains, which would cost near $100,000. A committee composed of M. E. Wakefield, J. A. Barr, Tom Bryant, Tom Anderson and A. C. Dodson, was appointed to see what could be done relative to raising a bonus and securing a building site, and this committee is now at work. In a few days it is hoped that a sufficient bonus will be subscribed to assure the hotel. This committee will likely call and see you, but in case they miss you, get in touch with them, if you are interested in the proposed hotel. Don't say "let George do it" but help put this over.

Chas. Hemphill and Ike Kendrick made a business trip to Waco this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Hackney of Dallas, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Durringer.

John Bryant spent the week end in Moody.

T. W. C. COUPLE TO GO TO NEW YORK FOR YEAR

(Fort Worth Star Telegram)

H. B. Hardt, who has been professor of physical sciences at Texas Woman's College for the last four years, will enter Columbia University in the Fall to begin work toward his degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardt will leave at the close of the school term for a visit in San Antonio and then go by boat from New Orleans to New York the last of June.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hardt have been active participants in the social life of the college and community during their residence here. Mr. Hardt has been sponsor for three years of the class which will be graduated in June. He also was superintendent of the senior department of the Polytechnic Methodist church.

Mrs. Hardt is sponsor of the Panther City Club, an organization of Fort Worth students.

Mr. Hardt received his Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from Southwestern University, Georgetown. He studied two summers in the graduate school of the University of Colorado, Boulder Colo., and for one year was principal of Bastrop High School and then superintendent of De Leon schools.

In New York Mr. and Mrs. Hardt will reside at Madison Square Church House, where Mr. Hardt will be director of boys work.

Mrs. Hardt is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jno. Tyson of Cross Plains.

SHERMAN GEHRETT DEAD

Sherman Gehrett, drilling contractor of Cisco, who formerly lived here, died in Abilene hospital Wednesday night, and will be buried at Santa Anna Friday afternoon. The Masons of Cross Plains will be in charge of the service. His many friends here join his loved ones in their sorrow.

CLEANING CEMETERY

Uncle Marion Moore is directing the work of cleaning the cemetery grounds, which have been neglected for some time, and he states that he is going to have to have more money to finish the work, so all those who are interested in the cemetery should see him at once and contribute on the fund that is being subscribed for that purpose. It is a shame to neglect the resting place of those dear to us, and we should arouse from our seeming lethargy and see that sufficient money is raised to properly clean and beautify the grounds—and keep them that way. See Uncle Marion at once and help with this fund if you have the interest, and of course you have. But don't forget it.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

Rousing the footman, Thorpe examined the unoccupied rooms carefully and found nothing to alarm him. At any moment he expected to come upon the vigilant Yeatman, whose absence was probably of a nature to be accounted for. Soon the business of the household began.

It was Payson Grant who had the most vivid shock. He awoke at nine the better for a deep sleep. Those late hours, he thought, played the deuce with him. Hereafter he would retire reasonably early.

He was making new resolutions with all the reckless abandon of an insouciant man, when he perceived a folded piece of paper just inside his door. Idly he stooped down and picked it up. He knew in a moment that angular and unmistakable writing.

"Do not think, because I have so far kept out of sight, that I am out of reach. I am nearer than you imagine. There are bad days coming for you."

F. W. S.

Payson Grant was oppressed with a sense of physical fear that overpowered any emotion he had before experienced. He had guarded himself with the utmost care and yet Sutton must have been within a few feet of him as he slept. But for the bolts of fine steel securing the door he would have been killed. Even now the convict might be outside. The cunning criminal would devise just such a plan, hoping to get his man as he rushed out to summon help.

The other door in the room led to a dressing-room beyond which was Natica's suite. Perhaps, even now, Sutton was crouching there ready for vengeance.

He took up the telephone and spoke with Thorpe.

"Send Mr. Yeatman here immediately," he commanded. He had been a fool not to tell the detective about Frank Sutton. What was the guarding of the jewels of his guests compared with his own safety? Yeatman's very presence would bring comfort.

"Mr. Yeatman is not in the house sir," Thorpe answered him. "His bed has not been occupied. The grounds are being searched now."

"Why?" Grant asked. It seemed odd that before he had told Thorpe he wanted Yeatman a search had been begun.

"The two dogs were poisoned last night," Thorpe answered, "and I suspected burglars."

"Have you looked through the house thoroughly?" Grant was distracted at the news.

"I went into every room where guests were not sleeping. Nothing seemed disturbed. I don't think they got in."

"Yes, they did, you d-d fool," shouted his frightened employer. He hung up the instrument with hands that trembled. What folly for this snuggly butler to assure there had been no prowlers inside the house. The death of the dogs showed calculated malice. While Yeatman absented himself, a potential murderer had stalked the quiet corridors. It did not occur to Grant that the detective had been attacked. He was used to regarding the police and their allies as resolute men from whom criminals fled.

He wanted to talk to Natica, but between them was the dressing-room whose door he dared not open. He called up Thorpe again. "Come to my room at once," he commanded.

"Look here," he began, taking no notice of the butler's odd manner "you were wrong about thinking no body got in last night. They did. I've proof of it. I want every place searched thoroughly." Grant pointed to the door of the dressing-room. "Just take a look in there and see if the window was forced." His fingers closed around the butt of his revolver in the dressing-gown pocket as the man flung open the door.

"Everything seems all right, sir," Thorpe reported.

"You are sure the dogs were poisoned?"

"Yes, sir," Thorpe answered, "and I'd like to get my hands on the men who did it."

"Well, keep a sharp lookout and you may get the chance. Keep everything as quiet as you can till Yeatman comes, and then send him to me."

Thorpe took his stately leave of the frightened man and met the housekeeper in the passage outside the room.

"It's a funny thing," she remarked, "but Mademoiselle Dupin has gone and her bed hasn't been slept in. All her things are gone, and I found this note on a table in the hall; it's her writing."

Natica was surprised at her husband's visit. She was uneasy when she heard of Yeatman's absence, and startled when she learned of the death of the dogs. Had she taken the detective too much on trust, she wondered.

"I don't think you need be alarmed about that. He'll come back."

"That's the least of my troubles," he said gloomily. "Just read that."

"It certainly looks like Frank's writing," she exclaimed.

"It is his writing," he declared.

"Could I be mistaken? He pushed it under the door while I was lying there asleep. My God! Nat, don't you see how close we've been to murder? He must have stood there in the dead of the night trying to pick the lock. I shouldn't have stood a chance. You know how strong the brute is!"

"Well, we're not murdered," she said soothingly.

"And he's not caught. Something's got to be done. What are our precautions worth if he can get in and threaten me in my own house?"

She broke off to answer the telephone. When she put it down he could see she had received disturbing news.

"What is it?" he demanded eagerly.

"I don't understand it at all," she said, frowning. "Mademoiselle Dupin has gone. Miss Brewster is sending up a note she thinks Mademoiselle wrote and left on a hall table."

"My God!" her husband cried. "More mystery. First Yeatman, and now the French woman. Odd she had to go off like that. By heck Nat, perhaps she cleared out with Yeatman. He wasn't American born."

Between Them Was the Dressing Room Whose Door He Dared Not Open.

He saw his wife turn pale. The thought horrified her. For if these two had gone it meant that they had succeeded in robbing some of Natica's guests. So humiliated, did she feel that Payson Grant found himself bulldozed from the room.

At breakfast the talk was of politics. None had heard of the dead dogs, or were sufficiently interested in the accountant to mention him.

Anthony Trent was down. He wanted to know if Yeatman had been found, what effect Sutton's threat had had upon Grant, and if Mademoiselle Dupin's departure had caused comment. But he got no satisfaction at breakfast. There was a furtive, crafty look about his host, who had evidently steered himself to betray a jovial heartiness which tasked his energies to enact.

Most of the ladies remained in their rooms. Few of them were slim, and the no-breakfast fad appealed to them as the logical thing. They were all charmed at receiving visits from pretty Natica Grant.

Natica went from the room of the last one of these estimable women, breathing sighs of relief. She had inspected the jewel cases of them all, and not a piece was missing. The elopement theory was worth considering after all; Mr. Yeatman might still be guiltless of theft, no matter how careless in matters of the heart.

It was at high noon a gardener discovered Pierre Redlich. The Grants were favored with luck. The guests had gone to the Allenhurst Casino to hear the band.

When the detective had recovered from his cramp, and his bruises and scratches had been dressed, he gave a graphic description to his employer. Suspecting that strangers were in the grounds, he had crept quietly along the silent paths, only to run into several evil men. His fight had been heroic. In the end he had been beaten by numbers and thrown over the wall. There was one tall man, a giant, who had been particularly active.

To Payson Grant's ears this could mean only Sutton. Sutton was a big man. He was doubly certain now Yeatman begged to be allowed to snatch a few hours of sleep before he took his tasks up again.

"That's a great relief," Natica said when he had gone.

"I don't see it," Grant said crossly.

"I don't believe Frank ever got in this house at all."

"I'd know his writing anywhere," her husband said stubbornly. "I tell you, Nat, I can feel him here. This thing is going to drive me crazy."

She looked at him impatiently. Man had always seemed to Natica the inferior sex.

"Don't let it make you stupid to night when the Bixels come to dinner."

"I'm mighty glad it isn't a costume dance," he commented. "I'll swear if it were he'd manage to get in somehow. I's no good calling me down. I'm not built for this sort of life. I don't mind a fight if I've got to get into one. It's the suspense that gets me. That chateau scheme of yours begins to sound pretty good to me. I think I ought to get away for a bit of a change."

"You take it too much to heart that letter was sent to frighten you and you're playing his game by being so scared. He can't possibly be any where near us."

Under her influence Payson grew more cheerful. He envied her the courage she always showed. At lunch, no one would have guessed that she had a care in the world. Natica had declared he was out of danger; in sensibly he began to incline to her belief. The presence of other men heartened him and the cocktails had brought him courage. He hoped there would be no mention of crime during the meal. Trent brought up the subject.

"I haven't noticed the dogs today," he observed. "Usually they look through the windows as we are eating."

Mr. Gimbert could not hold back his direct news.

"Some scoundrel poisoned them in the night. Looks like the work of a gang of crooks to me."

"I'm glad it's nothing so alarming," Natica said. "A careless gardener is to blame. He put poisoned beans in the moles runs."

"Dogs don't eat beans," said old Gimbert.

"It was the poisoned moles they ate," Natica said, explaining.

Brewster loudly declared the notion of alredules eating dead moles.

"This," said Brewster, conscious that he held the table, "this is just what I have been expecting. If my worthy host and I were in the burglary business we should mark down just such a house as this."

"Nonsense," Grant exclaimed crossly.

"We certainly should," Brewster retorted. "The loot is right here. Last night when I looked round the table I said, 'This place is a magnet that will attract high-grade crooks. Killing the dogs is the first precaution. Very likely they were scared away before they could get in. Does that mean they've given us up? Not by a long shot. They imagine that we shan't expect them tonight because they failed last night. Ladies and gentlemen, tonight's the night.'"

"You're crazy," Grant declared rudely.

"I think it's good reasoning," Anthony Trent remarked.

"Well, I'll be there," said old Gimbert. "You can count on me. While some of these lily-fingered experts here were at grammar school, I was trailing Geronimo. Many an Apache I've killed. As for these society burglars, I'd eat 'em up."

"What can be more reassuring than that?" Grant said. He was making an effort to seem at ease. "Godfather, you're elected to patrol the main corridors tonight. You punch the clock at eight and knock off when the help gets up."

"Sure," said Gimbert. "I'll do it rather than let the ladies get nervous." He turned to Anthony Trent. "What about you, young fellow?"

"I'll watch outside," said Trent. "I've a grudge of my own against dog poisoners."

"Fine," said Grant heartily. The program suited him. "I'll call you bluff on that."

Things were turning out very well for Anthony Trent. It would create no astonishment or suspicion now if he were to be seen prowling about the grounds. He believed, with Brewster, although he had private information which the other did not possess, that Pierre Redlich would make his raid tonight.

"This talk is making the ladies nervous," Grant declared. "If burglars come we shall be ready to them; but it's a million to one they won't come. For heaven's sake, let's talk about something else."

A Cold Day

Going through Montana recently we got into conversation with a native son of that great state. "Gets pretty cold up here in the winter, doesn't it?" we observed, with considerable originality.

"Well," replied the Montanan "there's a statue of Old Man Wilbaugh, the pioneer cattle king, on a little hill over in Golden valley. There he stands with his hands hanging helplessly at his sides, while he gazes forever across the plains he loved. But, believe me or not, it got so blamed cold up here once last winter that the old man had to keep his hands in his pants pockets all day long."—Harry Daniel, in Thrift Magazine.

ONE factor more than any other will determine the number of miles left in your car. That factor is lubrication. Feed your motor the right oil regularly and you'll prolong its life indefinitely. Feed it the wrong oil—then watch it wear out.

Conoco Motor Oil specializes in keeping cars young. It protects the moving parts—thus reducing wear and tear and staving off "old age." Conoco Motor Oil fights friction—the motor's worst enemy—and clings to the cylinder walls with its constant oily film under practically all conditions of motor operation and strain.

There's a particular grade of Conoco for your motor. Ask for it.

A GOOD PLACE TO TRADE

DRESSY DOTS. (By Coker)

Dressy churches are doing things this year. Sunday, May 6th, was a big day at the First Baptist, Rev. Harvey Dennis of Cross Plains, preached at 11 o'clock. Dinner was served to all present. At 1:30 P. M. we began singing. The Beady class conducted by Prof. Bingham, was present, also some good singers from Cross Plains and other places. At 2:30 we rested while the children gave a nice program, after which we sang another hour. Rev. Dennis preached again at the evening hour.

The Baptist people are planning a Children's Day program for the 1st Sunday in June.

On Sunday, May 20th, Sunday School at all churches at 10 A. M. At 11 at First Methodist, Rev. G. C. Williams will preach from "What Then Shall I do with Jesus, Who is Called Christ?" Front seats reserved for men. At the evening hour the young people will give a Mother's Day program.

"If you would know the moral of a community, watch its churches.

It was a great day in the life of Woodrow Wilson when he changed the time of day throughout America. But the weather man can change a den of hungry wolves into a flock of mocking birds. About the only sound heard around Dressy for some time past was a series of low hungry growls and an occasional snarl, but since the rains it sounds like a whistling contest.

Hugh McDermott is talking of opening a Slip Up and Grab Store at Dressy. It will necessarily be Helpy-Selfy style, as Hugh has so many good ones to tell, he couldn't find time to wait on trade.

We are reasonably sure that Fred Stacy will announce for city marshal right away, as he has been seen riding horse-back quite a bit lately.

Norrell Long will probably be our next Street Commissioner, as he has already learned to have someone else to do the most of the work.

Henry Riggs would be a good man for mayor, as he is about the only man in town that stays at home long enough to be found, in case he is needed.

Ed Henderson now has a 1928 Polie muddle dog in his kennel. It remains to be seen which will be champion, he or Jack.

We are informed that Prof. Clarence Martin of Cross Plains, has been employed as principal of Dressy public school for the 1928 and 1929 term. We

FORTY-TWO PARTY

Mrs. Geo. B. Scott was hostess to the forty-two club last week.

Mrs. J. A. Johnson of San Angelo, was named as honor guest.

A dainty collation was passed to the following: Mmes. Hunter, Martin Neeb, Wilkinson, Williams, Bean, Preston, and J. A. Johnson.

Did you let Mother's Day slip by and forget to remember her? If so, it is not too late yet. Send her a box of flowers, candy or some little remembrance to let her know that you have not forgotten her. We are not talking for the benefit of those who have flowers, candy and etc. to sell, but we are speaking in the interest of the mothers—your best earthly friend, and mine. In this busy life, we are too prone to forget her, or rather neglect her. We are most all guilty of this neglect, but let's decide now to give more thought and attention to her.

Tale of Village Firemen

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor: I won't give you hint as to the identity of the town where the scene of this little article is laid only to say that it is a suburb of the largest city east of Green River, Wyoming, and can be reached by motor from the midst of the large city referred to in 35 minutes.

Well, like practically every town of a population of 12 and upwards this town has got a fire dept. and like a whole lot of them, this fire dept. is what is known as a volunteer fire dept. which means that the members ain't supposed to get nothing but glory. Well, they's a man living in this town who is in the theatrical business in one way and another and one day the chief of the fire dept. asked him would he join the fire dept. and he says yes on acct. of being public spirited. So he bought himself a rubber coat and a helmet and a pair of rubber boots and staid home several nights with the windows open so as he would sure and hear what is known in the town as the siren.

Well, the siren did not blow and did not blow and finally our hero, who we will call Mr. Kloot, recd. a card saying they would be a meeting of the dept. at the fire house the following night and would he please try and attend. The dept. meets once every 2 weeks to disgust prohibition. Well, Mr. Kloot attended the meeting and pretty near all the members was there and he knowed the most of them. The chief is a building contractor and the asst. chief is the town's most prominent plumber. Others who he recognized was all well known citizens in various walks of life. Amongst them was a dentist, the supt. of the gas company, a plasterer, a painter, a mason, a paper hanger, an insurance man and etc.

Well, they sat around the whole evening and disgusted prohibition and the siren did not blow, but the meeting could not of been adjourned more than 5 or 10 minutes when it did blow and the firemen rushed back to the fire house and climb aboard the 3 vehicles with which the dept. is equipped.

Mr. Kloot happened to board the same vehicle as the chief and the both of them was right close to the driver. "Whose place is it?" shouted the chief as the vehicle tore recklessly down—Boulevard. "L. M. Taylor's," the driver shouted back. L. M. Taylor being the town's millionaire, worth more than $150,000. "Well, what's your hurry?" shouted the chief and the driver slowed down a little, while Mr. Kloot did not know what to think.

Well, they got to the fire and it did not look like a very big fire for such a big house and in fact Mr. Taylor's Chinese help had just about put it out with the aid of a few seltzer bottles, but the fire dept. seemed to think the danger was nowhere near over and while some of them connected a couple of sections of hose with the nearest hydrants, others entered the house through the front and back doors and up ladders through the 2d story windows and begin wielding their axes vs. walls, closets and etc. One stream of water was turned on the entire upstairs and another on the ground floor and in a few minutes the family and the servants and the firemen moving hither and thither was instinctively shouting shlp aho.

Mr. Kloot strayed into the bathroom and found the asst. chief cutting holes in the different pipes. "Safety first," said the asst. chief. "Many a home has burned to the ground on acct of hidden flames in the plumbing." Mr. Kloot walked into a master bedroom on the 2d floor and seen 2 firemen with axes excavating the floor. "Safety first," said one of them. "If we should all half to go downstairs in a hurry, they'd be a panic on the stairs so it is best to have a place big enough to drop through."

Mr. Kloot encountered Mr. Taylor, the owner of the house. A couple of firemen was talking to him. "Was you covered by insurance?" asked one of them. "Not fully," says Mr. Taylor. "Well," says the fireman, "this should ought to learn you a lesson." "This fire," said the other fireman to Mr. Taylor, "was caused by defective wiring. If you would use gas for light a thing like this could not happen."

Mr. Kloot next met Mrs. Taylor and her two kids in company with still another fireman. The lady and the kids was open mouthed with horror, and the fireman was looking into their mouths. "Madam," he says, "you have got an advanced case of pyorrhea and your kids has got cavities that makes the grand canyon look like a dimple. It is a good thing it happened to drop in."

In the early hours of the morning the firemen decided they was nothing more to be done and left what might now be laughingly referred to as the house. Mr. Kloot was the last to leave and Mr. Taylor accompanied him to what had formerly been the front door.

"I feel like I had been giving a old-fashioned at home," said Mr. Taylor and pulled out of his pocket a small pack of cards, the business cards of the town's volunteer fire dept. Next morning Mr. Kloot called up the chief and submitted his resignation.

DADDY RACCOONS

"Of course it's true," said Mother Raccoon, "that we do like everything zizz and clean."

"But we put our feet in water to make it nice and soft—oh, it is so delicious when it is soft."

"We don't eat anything that isn't clean, do we, mother?"

"You are right, my dears," said their mother. She sat up high in a tree without any leaves even though it was summer time. She liked an old tree like this quite the best of all.

"It's so delightful," she said, "to keep house in a dead tree."

"And Daddy Raccoon, you are such a pleasant gentleman, and help so nicely with the marketing."

How the raccoon (chirp) laughed and played. And what a fine meal they had!

"When the summer is further along we'll have fun," said Daddy Raccoon.

"Why?" the children asked.

"Ah, then we'll steal corn from the corn fields. We'll go a-visiting where we can get goodies and summer vegetables from farmers."

"They don't ask us to come, it is true, but we don't bother about such little trifles as invitations."

They had a happy family party, eating and chatting, and this was the Daddy Raccoons have been known to do that, but once the children are a little bit older the daddy raccoons join their happy families, and the mother raccoons are quite pleased with it this way.

Airplanes and Boomerangs

It seems a downright anomaly to go to the primitive inhabitants of Australia for points on an airplane, yet that is precisely what was done at one stage of the development of aviation. The fundamental principle of the airplane is both old and simple, having been discovered by the Bushmen of the Antipodes and embodied by them in the boomerang, which, by meeting in its flight the air at a slight angle, got a "lift."

The trajectory of the boomerang may be in part horizontal or may even rise as a result of this lift. Any surface that is more or less flat, which travels at a slight angle through the air, tends to lift. If the section has a slight camber, or convex curve, the lift is increased. Better results are obtained if a body of appreciable thickness is used instead of a thin sheet. Investigation will reveal little difference between the wing section of a boomerang made by the Bushmen or whittled by an American boy after he has visited the circus and has witnessed the "stunts" of the boomerang thrower.

Why Worry?

In one of the infant classes of a certain large school the teacher had noticed that a great friendship existed between John and little Joan, two of her pupils.

John was a bright youngster, but he wasn't disposed to work overhard, and his teacher had said that unless he worked harder he would not be moved up at the end of the year.

"You must try harder," she told him, "or you won't pass. And if you have to stay here another term you'll lose little Joan. How'd you like that?"

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-44. GOLDEN TEXT—He taught them as one having authority.

1. The Parable of the Husbandmen (vv. 1-12).

2. The vineyard (v. 1), represented Israel (See Ps. 80 and Isa. 5).

3. Messengers (vv. 2-5) represented the prophets whom God sent to Israel, even including John the Baptist.

4. The Son (vv. 6-8) represented Jesus Himself.

5. The judgment of the Lord of the vineyard (v. 9). This represented the time when the Jews shall be brought to account for their treatment of the servants of God and of Jesus Himself.

6. The Tribute Money (vv. 13-17).

7. The Resurrection of the Dead (vv. 18-27).

8. The Law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 25:5). They propose the case of a woman married successively to seven brothers. They ask whose wife she will be in the resurrection.

9. The case proposed (vv. 19-23). The law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 25:5). ### Lasting Negatives

It is certain that a motion picture negative will last at least thirty years, for there is in existence now the original picture of the inauguration of President McKinley, in 1897, and from that negative perfectly good copies can be made today. There are motion pictures of all our Presidents since that time, carefully stored. There are wonderful pictures of the part we played in the World War, and of other recent events in our history. Scientists and film experts hazard the opinion that a roll of negative film, kept in a proper temperature and a certain degree of humidity, or moisture, might be preserved for 200 or 300 years, or perhaps indefinitely. But only time will answer the question accurately.

CLOTHES IDEAS FROM ABROAD

By Mae Martin

Last fall when I was in France, I admired the dress which the daughter of our hostess was wearing, and she confessed it was three years old, originally rose-beige, now dyed a rich, deep shade of red!

Most of us have dresses which, if allowed to remain their original color, are discarded or seldom worn. Redyed, they become favorites again.

Just get a package or two of true, fadeless Diamond Dyes, and try your hand at tinting or dyeing. You'll be amazed to see how easy it is to use Diamond Dyes. They never disappear. The "know-how" is in the dyes. They are real dyes like those used when the cloth was made. They never give things that redyed look, like make-shift, inferior dyes. The more than sixty colors you can get from them include everything that's fashionable.

My new 64-page illustrated book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of money-saving hints for renewing clothes and draperies. It's FREE. Write for it, NOW, to Mae Martin, Home Service Dept., Diamond Dyes Burlington, Vermont.

Sorting Mail in the Air

An airplane specially designed for the rapid transport of mails is being tested by the British air ministry. It will carry, besides the pilot and an engineer, a postal sorter, who will continue his work while flying at 100 miles an hour.

This latest type of mail airplane is fitted with parachutes, and instead of the usual tail skid has a steerable tail wheel, with powerful brakes to help pull the machine up quickly on alighting at small aerodromes. A central engine room contains two Napier engines, each of 500 horse power.

Famous Conspiracy

In British history the Cato street conspiracy was a conspiracy under the lead of Arthur Thistlewood, which aimed to assassinate Castlereagh and other ministers. The plot was discovered February 23, 1820, at the rendezvous, Cato street, near Edgeware road, London. It is also called the Thistlewood conspiracy.

She replied sweetly: "I use for the lips, truth; for the voice, prayer; for the eyes, pity; for the hands, charity; for the figure, uprightness, and for the heart, love."—Jerry Fleishman.

REFRIGERATOR RESERVES

With a good-sized refrigerator one may have on hand for many dishes supplies which help out on the daily menus. Fresh coconut is so far superior to the dried or the canned variety that the labor to prepare it is not considered. Pick out a heavy nut that seems to be well filled with coconut water, puncture one of the soft eyes, wiping around it carefully, then invert over a measuring cup or bowl to save every drop of the precious fluid. After the nut is drained, crack with a hammer or drop on a stone walk to break. Free the meat carefully of all the brown skin with a sharp knife, then proceed to grate the white meat. It may be ground in the meat grinder, but it is much more delicate and keeps better grated. After grating add enough sugar to it to sweeten and keep it, cover with a saucer or place in a can with a cover and place in the ice chest where the temperature is about the same. You may use this, a tablespoonful or two at a time for salads, cakes, puddings or candies and it will keep fresh and sweet for two weeks or more.

The water is considered a great delicacy as a drink, and used with the fresh grated nut as a salad dressing with grated carrots, nothing can be more tasty. Add a very little lemon juice and salt with a dash of paprika or cayenne.

There are so many drinks that may be prepared and kept in the ice chest, to be used on a moment's notice. Here is one:

Cocoa Sirup.—Boil together two cupfuls of sugar, one-third of a cupful of cocoa, and one cupful of boiling water for five minutes. When cold add a teaspoonful of vanilla or a pinch of cinnamon. Put away on ice in a glass jar. When serving add milk and top with a spoonful of whipped cream. The children are fond of this drink.

Here and There.

Ideas, suggestions, recipes and hints on serving, cooking, and care of a home are always exchanged when a group of women who care for such mundane affairs gather. One of the pleasures of travel, to a home lover, is seeing other architecture, furnishings, arrangement of homes, as well as different foods peculiar to the locality.

As the kitchen is the heart of the home, where the food which makes or mars our lives is prepared, it behooves every thinking woman to put intelligent thought upon it, whether she is a mistress of a household of fifteen servants or the head of a servantless home. Very often, where much wealth is, too little intelligent thought is given to the food for the family. Puny, anemic, willful children, result from improper foods. Flocks of precious lives are warped or utterly ruined by improper feeding. Each child should be studied, as each has an individuality of his own. Some foods agree and others do not.

If the teeth of this generation last to twenty years of age, the practice of giving little children all-day suckers and ice cream cones so frequently will have to be stopped.

Sweets are craved by the average child, but it may become an obsession, just as the beverage habit controls those who get into its toils. A bit of pure candy after a meal is not injurious, but the constant eating indulged in by the children seen in public places, even with nurses or mothers, is nothing short of criminal.

Children are not allowed to develop strong, white teeth by being given food that is hard enough to take good mastication. Whole wheat, cooked until the starch is cooked and given with top milk, is one of the best possible foods for the teeth as well as growing babies. Teach children to chew, chew and then chew when they first begin to eat solid foods. Such a habit can be formed as well as a poor one of soaking foods, and eating everything soft and easily bolted.

Few cooks take the trouble to remove the sinews from the legs of the turkey. It is a very simple process and the meat is made vastly more palatable. Make an incision in each leg just where the scaly portion begins, bend the leg back sharply and with a hook or stout fork pull out the tendons. They may cut off, allowing a little surplus skin for shrinkage.

For sandwich filling for brown bread slices: Cut into rounds. Soften a three-ounce cake of cream cheese, adding cream to make it soft to spread, season with salt, paprika and a tablespoonful of minced mint leaves. Spread on the bread, garnish the rounds with a sprig of fresh mint dipped in egg and sugar. Nice for open sandwiches.

PAJAMAS OF GORGEOUS PRINTS; SUIT OR ENSEMBLE IS CORRECT

ENTHUSIASM for gay color knows no bounds these days. Even our homes are done in bright lacquer shades. Colorful kitchens, including the utensils therein, colorful bath rooms, colorful living rooms, says the modernistic interior decorator.

What has all this to do with women's fashions? Just this, the spirit of color has so taken possession of midlady that she dresses up to her environment, becoming, as it were, a part of the picture. Every one will agree that the young woman photographed here, posing in so gorgeously gay a pajama ensemble, would be an ornament to any home, fitting into the color scheme most decoratively. Note we say "ensemble," because no doubt if one were to peep into the boudoir of resist their lure? So here we are, back to where we started—suit or ensemble, which shall it be?

As the matter now stands, statistics show that suits are taking especially with the younger set. The slim, lithe youthful figure, that can wear a suit to perfection, and knows it can be coming out in either a classic tailleur choosing between navy or oxford gray, the latter being a new color "fad" this season, or if not this then a twice two-piece which glories in a list of "tricky" details, like the suit of coral brown tweed, two views of which are here given. Upon giving close scrutiny to this nobby tweed suit, one discovers a belt across the back of the jacket only, a stitched yoke and slot-seamed pockets, each of which express a note this young modern, one would discover there a matching coolie coat, for most pajamas nowadays are styled in three-piece sets. Especially does the sleeveless pajama blouse depend upon a picturesque coat to lend it a more formal aspect, should occasion demand.

The entrancing lounging pajama costume in the picture indeed tells a colorful story, for it is vivid both as to line and design. For those dreamy afternoons when summer hums a happy tune and "all's well with the world," what so apropos for a lounging robe as this one in the illustration, whose joyous silk print seems to have gathered nature's most beautiful tones and tints of fruit and flower into its patterning?

It's stylish to be sleeveless this season. Simple daytime frocks, sports clothes, pajama ensemble, all emphasize the mode of sleevelessness. Of of ultra- chic. There's a kick plait at the back of the skirt, had you noticed that? Oh, there's no doubt about it, suits this season are flinging a mighty challenge to the much exploited ensemble costumes.

If you are an ensemble enthusiast, and where is the woman who is not, look at this one in the picture to the right. It's almost a complete daytime wardrobe in itself. There's its seven-eighths length coat for instance—it will serve admirably as a separate wrap, the whole spring and summer through. The skirt is attached to a bodice and that means it can be worn with one blouse, then another and another. That's why an ensemble is one economical buy, at any price. It is so adaptable to mood and occasion.

Seeing that it is fashionable for one's blouse to match one's coat lining, the blouse and coat lining of gay-patterned crepe which envelops this course if midlady is entertaining a chic and modern guest, she will don the ever-ready graceful flowing-sleeved coat afore mentioned, but for solid home comfort on torrid days she will find her sleeveless pajama blouse much to her liking.

The fact that this ensemble is of printed design bespeaks the importance of prints in the mode. The world of fashion is reveling in prints—prints for every occasion. Not only is the printed ensemble a factor in the home, but coats, hats, scarfs and even the pocketbooks we carry are now made of flamboyant prints—parasols, too, if you please.

Which shall it be, a two-piece suit or a several-piece ensemble, for the all-around "milky" costume? Apparently it is not the intention of the mode to answer this question, leaving it for women of fashion to decide for themselves.

Which, of course, keeps everybody guessing, more especially since suits are flaunting so many unusual and beguiling features this season and as for ensembles, well, where is she who can navy cloth ensemble does that very thing. It is significant that this costume be carried out in navy, for navy is really a very smart color this season. Especially is navy a favorite with the better dressed class. Both separate coats and ensembles carried out all in navy are quite patriotic at this moment.

So outstanding is navy that hats, shoes and pocketbooks are in this color, carrying out the ensemble theme from head to foot. The navy favored is an animated blue, the tone that is so generally becoming.

STUDEBAKER'S $795 ERSKINE SIX

Sets Ten New Records by Traveling 1000 miles in 984 minutes

ON April 26, two strictly stock Erskine Club Sedans each traveled 1000 miles in less than 1000 consecutive minutes.

The run took place at Atlantic City Speedway, and was supervised by officials of the American Automobile Assn. who verified the stock design of the cars.

As a result, ten new records for stock cars under $1000 were established by the Erskine Six. And Studebaker has demonstrated that its 76-year-old traditions for careful building are carried through in the design, materials and workmanship of this low-priced fine car—named for Albert Russel Erskine, Studebaker's president. That is why this car was able to travel 1000 miles at better than a mile a minute—why you can drive your Erskine Six 40 miles an hour even when NEW—why the Erskine is so economical to maintain and to operate.

A drive in the New Erskine will introduce you to a type of performance as sensational for its price class as that of the World's Champion Commander is to the field of higher priced cars.

Dealers' Opportunities

Studebaker assists dealers to conduct their business on a profitable basis—sales training—financing—used car merchandising—advertising—helps—accounting—service—etc. No wonder Studebaker-Erskine dealers make money with these 4 great lines: The new President E.R., $1985 to $2485. The World's Champion Commander, $1435 to $1625. The new Dictator, $1195 to $1395. The new Erskine Six, $795 to $965. Write or wire NOW for complete, confidential information if there is no dealer in your town or if you wish to move to a town where the Studebaker-Erskine franchise is available.

FREE "Trip Through Studebaker Factories"

Every car owner, every family with children in grade or high schools, will want this interesting free booklet, "A Trip Through Studebaker Factories." It pictures how your car is made—shows airplane views of Studebaker's 800-acre Proving Ground—pictures the great Studebaker foundries where castings are made from molten iron ten times hotter than boiling water. Learn more about the 76-year-old company and the 21,000 men who build your Studebaker or Erskine. If you cannot visit the huge Studebaker plants in South Bend this summer, send coupon for this entertaining free booklet NOW!

Rare Coin Collection

Now comes another collector of one-cent pieces, Arthur C. Kelly of Danvers, who states that he has a collection that runs unbroken for 104 years—1824 to 1928. In the period that runs from 1800 to 1823, 24 years, inclusive, he has cents for 13 of the years, and from 1800 to 1810 his collection is only minus the coins for 1804, 1806 and 1809.—Boston Globe.

"How Come?"

Esther and Jimmy are the grandchildren of the president of a union of the W. C. T. U. One afternoon they were very busy "keeping house," the former being "mamma" and the latter "daddy." At the end of their play meal, Esther picked up two toothpicks and handed them to Jimmy, with the remark:

"Here is your cigarette and here is a match. I'll have mine later."

Their grandmother and mother still are puzzled to understand the episode.

Right

"What ja get spanked for, Jennie?" "Well, th' teacher told us to write a theme on two of our parents' greatest problems and I told him about our twins."

Death Thwarts Discovery

Dr. Sidney Rawson Watson, whose death attracted world-wide attention, was believed by his friends to have been on the eve of a great discovery when he was killed while experimenting on himself with new gas. He was found dead in his study wearing a gas mask. Beside him was the latest apparatus for administering gas. A daring experimenter with anesthetics, he often experimented on himself, and he told his friends that he was trying to invent a mixture of gas and oxygen under which a person might be conscious of everything except pain.

MOTHER!

Child's Best Laxative is "California Fig Syrup"

Tongue Shows if Bilious, Constipated

Hurry, Mother! Even a fretful, peevish child loves the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Immune

Little Martha was much disappointed when she heard that the camping trip that had been planned by her group of girl scouts had been postponed because some of the girls had got ptomaine poisoning on a hike the week before. "That's silly," she declared. "Why, I was out where it was growing all over the hills, and I didn't get poisoned!"

THE MARTIN ROTARY AND PLANT THINNER

We are placing an Implement before you that can be attached to any Cultivator, single or double, walking or riding. All you have to do is start down a row with this implement and it will thin the crop to a stand, clean out the grass and weeds, and cultivate the soil, all done at one operation.

Can be used successfully in cotton, corn or any other row crop, including the most tender plants, like peas, onions, beets, and all row garden growth.

One Rotary cultivator will do the work of ten men and do it better, if properly operated. A twelve-year-old boy or girl can handle it. You can get in the fields quicker than men can work after a rain.

It retails for $32.50, and one farmer who owns two of these Machines, says that he would not be without them for $500.00 cash.

"Guaranteed to save a minimum of 75 per cent of the hoe work."
