'Seen A Good Movie Lately?'

By VANDA KING
Editor

This will be a first, critiquing movies, but there are a couple of new movies which are truly good. If you haven't been to the theatre lately, now is the time to go.

"Dances With Wolves" took most of the awards this year and for once they chose the right one. Sometimes the ones that receive the most recognition are disappointing. If you enjoy history and a compassionate story, this movie is one you can't miss.

Texans might relate to the Indians and buffalo more closely, but you will feel as if you are actually present during many dramatic scenes.

Beverly Ross and children who attended the performance of soldiers and Indians at Fort Griffith stated that they kept thinking about the "Dances With Wolves" movie while they enjoyed the spectacle.

It made me wish I could have attended the program. The Howard Edington family also enjoyed Fort Griffin. Beverly reported that the buffalo hunter's tent was one of the favorites and a highlight of the day. The flag presentation and the firing of the cannon were exceptional.

The second movie worthy of your attention is "Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken." I am sure you have seen the advertisements of the death defying diving horses, popular in the 1930's. This Walt Disney production is suitable for all ages and the true story revealed will touch your heart.

Horse lovers will be impressed by the animals, and you will be on the edge of your seat holding your breath. You will get a charge out of the characters, too.

Movie going is not quite as entertaining as lining up down Highway 36 at the Pioneer Drive-In years ago. You don't have to fight the mosquitoes, but the fun times at the old drive-in can't be compared. That was the place where kids congregated and visited back then. However, the kids of now do not have such a place.

Some of you will even recall the inside theatre located in the Susan Schaefer office on Main Street many, many years ago. My parents always said everyone went to the movie on Saturday night and visited downtown. There were a lot of neat traditions from the past that we should have held to.

Take the time to see these movies and more that are showing in Abilene and Brownwood. Spend some refreshing hours in the cool comfort of a theatre and take a break from the already soaring summer heat.

Baird Opens Several Antique Stores

BAIRD — Some of the same type merchandise that was sold when downtown Baird was prospering is being sold again.

Only now the merchandise is being called antique.

City leaders hope that new shops selling old goods will bring back prosperity to Baird. On June 6, the city celebrated its Trades Festival and the grand opening of 15 businesses. A ribbon cutting and brief ceremony was held downtown. Games, crafts, musical entertainment, and other activities were enjoyed earlier.

"It may take awhile (for downtown to be revitalized), but our goal is not to have any vacant buildings and not a parking place available," said Diane Bell, Chamber of Commerce president.

Before the effort to attract new businesses, Baird's downtown was "pitiful," Bell said, with mostly vacant buildings along Market Street, the town's main business street.

"There were two hardware stores, a candy shop, the bank and a pharmacy and that was about it," she said. "We had lost so much of the downtown business."

Lloyd Ray Hughes, owner of Hughes Trading Co. & Antiques, said, "Like all other small towns in the last years, Baird had been losing businesses and losing people, but now it looks like it's building back up again."

Hughes' new business is one of 15 that have opened within the last nine months.

The renaissance effort began with a

Truck, Bus Drivers To Be Tested By DPS

The DPS is now testing all currently licensed commercial truck and bus drivers and to ensure that all commercial drivers in Texas who must have the CDLs obtain them in time to avoid penalties, the DPS Troopers have set a special date for CDL testing in this area. The test will be conducted on August 1, 1991, at 10:00 a.m. at the Baird High School, Baird, Texas. For applications and details on taking this test you must contact your local Department of Public Safety Office or Joe Miles, DPS, San Angelo, as soon as possible.

All commercial motorists who drive vehicles in excess of 26,000 pounds or transport hazardous materials that require the vehicle to be placarded are required to have a commercial drivers license (CDL) by April 1, 1992. Bus drivers, including school bus and church bus drivers, who drive buses designated to carry 16 or more passengers, including the driver, will also be required to obtain a CDL by the same date.

Exempt from the CDL requirements are farmers, when they are driving within 150 miles of their farm, military personnel, recreational vehicle operators, emergency vehicle operators, and fire fighters when operating fire fighting vehicles or equipment.

Commercial drivers who must carry the new CDLs cannot renew their current licenses due to expire between now and April 1, 1992. All drivers should plan to take the required test at the earliest possible time to avoid the long lines in the Drivers License Offices that are expected as this deadline nears.

Free CDL handbooks are available at all drivers license offices and everyone is encouraged to prepare and take advantage of this opportunity to test.

For more information contact: Drivers License Service Baird, Texas 915/854-1155 Joe Miles Drivers License Service San Angelo, Texas 915/655-7357

This testing date is in cooperation of the Baird High School and the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Flowden News

By MRS. N.V. GIBBS

Rain, rain can fall so easily now that it has started. Saturday's rain came from clouds all around us and has left a water puddle in the back yard. Bill Steele came down to help his grandmother get the mowing done today.

Not many people are home to answer their phones, so this column will be short this week.

This writer and Joyce Odom attended the AARP meeting in Cross Plains Monday (in the rain). Had visits with other members and had a wonderful program by two boys 8 and 11 years old. The young one sings and plays the guitar, his brother played the fiddle, and their teacher played the guitar. All enjoyed a delicious meal.

Joyce Odom's visitors last Sunday were Ivon Odom of Stephenville and Nancy Palmer and son, Michael of Clyde.

Bob Dye made a business trip to the Fort Worth-Dallas area this week. Their daughter, Julie Patterson and children, Justin and Briana of Copperas Cove, spent the weekend with Bob and Kathy.

Irene Masters of Snyder came Thursday to take her dad, Gene Mauldin, to see his doctor. Vernie Belle said he got a good report.

Joyce Odom also reported on her son-in-law's condition. Ralph Trevey had also seen his doctor this week and also got a good report. Also, he was fitted for an artificial leg which will be ready soon. He will be able to drive his vehicles. His wife, Ginny, said they were learning a new vocabulary. She also reported how wonderful people everywhere had been to remember them during his suffering and surgery, and now he's looking ahead to real recovery.

Robert and Dorothy Watson and son, Wyatt, moved household things of Brad and Michal to their new place of residence in Arlington on Thursday. The couple will start employment Monday.

Emma Johnson made a trip to Albuquerque, New Mexico to the graduation of her grandson, Webb Andrew Johnson, from Eldorado High School. He was leaving for New York with a group of students, making stops in Helsinki, Finland and on to Moscow. Christina Johnson of Rising Star stayed with Lizzie while Emma made the trip and is still with them. Before this conversation was over, Christina came in from a walk on the Burks place and reported to Emma that the stock tank had filled and part of the

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Dear Vanda,

I always enjoy your "DOWN HOME" column, and since this is the Year of the C.P.H.S. Homecoming, I would like to furnish you a little bit of information about the Class of 1939.

Fifty-two years ago on May 19, 1939, the Class of 1939 graduated 25 girls and 20 boys. Each boy served in some branch of the Armed Forces during World War II. Only one was killed, that was Bobby Pyle, who was a pilot of a B-24 Bomber that crashed near Lowery Field in Denver, Colorado on April 19, 1944. Three females and five males are deceased (now).

Fortunately, all 37 surviving members have been located and are geographically located in the following states: Texas (27); California (3); New Mexico (3); Arizona (2); Louisiana (1); and Mississippi (1).

At the Cross Plains High School Homecoming in 1970, about nine members of our class met and voted to meet and locate our missing classmates. In the 20 years from 1970 through 1990, the 39ers have met yearly 15 times either at Homecomings or Reunions.

Here's hoping our Class of 1939 will be well represented in Cross Plains at our Homecoming in October.

I like the "PROJECT PRIDE" Promotion.

Sincerely,
Gravel L. Pierce
Dallas, Texas

Baby Love Line
Ties Women To Services

Women in Texas can now dial free 1-800-4-BABY-LOVE to find out about the state's many health programs for them and their children.

The toll-free number connects callers with the latest information about the state's various health programs for women and children, provided through the Texas Department of Health (TDH) and the Texas Department of Human Services.

Bilingual operators answer the line in English and Spanish from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, at the TDH headquarters in Austin. They refer callers to the nearest location where services are available. Some programs are for low-income families and others are available to all.

"The information and referral line opens access to a variety of wonderful programs created to improve the health of all Texans," explained Dr. Beverly Koops, TDH Associate Commissioner for Family Health Services. "If these programs are to be effective, people must know what is available and how they can get the services they need close to home," she said.

BABY LOVE operators have information on child health clinic services, pregnancy testing, immunizations, family planning, maternity clinic services, health counseling, parenting classes and programs created to serve children with special needs.

Operators also will refer potential participants to the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children; Chronically Ill and Disabled Children Services; Early Childhood Intervention Program; Children's Hearing Aid Loan Program; and the Texas Genetic Network.

In addition, information will be provided about Food Stamps, Medicaid and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

The "800" number is funded by the Maternal and Infant Care Access grant, under the direction of the TDH Bureau of Maternal and Child Health.

900/976 Call Blocking Option
Now Available Statewide

AUSTIN — Throughout the state, local telephone companies are offering their customers the option of blocking calls to 900 pay-per-call information services.

Protests from consumers about 900 pay-per-call services have made this issue one of the most pressing matters at both the state and national levels. On the state level, local telephone companies are responding positively to recent rules adopted by the Public Utility Commission, which require local telephone companies to provide free blocking to all 900 and 976 numbers upon request.

"The Texas Telephone Association and its member companies support the 900 pay-per-call service blocking. We believe the call blocking option will alleviate some of the customers' and the Texas Legislature's concerns about abuses connected with 900 service," commented TTA president Tim Raven.

Raven said telephone subscribers throughout the state will receive ballots in their telephone bills notifying them of the 900 and 976 call blocking option. To order the call blocking option, customers can return the ballot or contact their local telephone company.

A customer who chooses not to order the call blocking option will have access to all 900 services, while those who request blocking will not have such access. The first request for call blocking will be at no charge, but a nonrecurring charge may be applied to subsequent blocking requests.

In areas where individual call blocking is not technically possible, access to 900 pay-per-call services will be blocked to all customers until the local telephone company's equipment is able to provide the selective blocking.

The Texas Telephone Association is a non-profit trade association representing the interests of the local exchange telephone companies of Texas.

Brides Should Include Name Changes In Wedding Plans

June brides should keep Social Security in mind when making their wedding plans. It is very important that a new bride report her change of name to Social Security. Unless the new name is reported, her earnings may not be posted properly to her Social Security record.

Failure to report a change of name to Social Security is one of the most frequent causes of errors in wage records. Since eligibility and benefits for Social Security retirement, disability, and survivors insurance are based on the earnings in the records kept by Social Security, incorrect records could mean lower benefits, delayed benefits, or ineligibility for benefits.

To change a name in Social Security records, a bride must complete Form

SS-5 (Application for a Social Security Card) and submit supporting evidence which identifies her under her old and new name. An original marriage certificate is the best evidence, but the application lists other acceptable evidence.

To obtain Form SS-5, a bride should contact her local Social Security office. The staff there will tell her how to apply and will send her the application form. In most cases, the entire process can be handled by phone and mail. If she prefers, she can call toll free 1-800-234-5772.

Women who have had a name change, but do not file an SS-5, should do so regardless of the amount of time that has passed. The Abilene office is located at 142 S. Pioneer.

Latest Survey Reveals Texans' Health Risks

Texans appear to pay more attention to certain areas of their health and safety than others, according to the 1989 Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance Final Report recently released by the Texas Department of Health (TDH).

Some 1,490 Texans, age 18 and older, were interviewed concerning seat belt use, high blood pressure, physical activity, weight, cigarette smoking, alcohol use, and preventive health practices. Some of the findings included:

- * Eighteen percent were overweight, a drop from 22 percent in 1988. This change was greatest among women. The 35- to 45-year-old age group reported the highest rate of being overweight.

- * The overall smoking rate continued to decline slightly, reflecting a national trend. Black males reported the highest levels of current smoking (30 percent).

- * Texans reported some of the highest rates of alcohol use among the 40 states in the survey, with 19 percent reporting binge drinking at least once in the past month and six percent reporting driving after drinking one or more times in the past month. Men ages 18-34 were at highest risk for alcohol abuse.

- * Thirty-six percent of women age 40 and older reported that they had never had a mammogram, even though the American Cancer Society recommends a mammogram for women ages 35-39.

Texans fared better when compared to the average from 1989 surveys in 40 states. For example, 22 percent were current smokers compared to 24 percent; 0.6 percent had high blood pressure compared to 1.5 percent; 93 percent used seat belts compared to 85 percent; and 53 percent led sedentary lifestyles compared to 59 percent.

A Surgeon General's Report on Health Promotion and Disease Prevention concluded that unhealthy lifestyle habits account for about half of all illnesses, injuries and premature deaths. "This can be translated into 540,688 potential years of productive life which are lost in Texas for persons age 20 through 64 in 1989," according to Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas Commissioner of Health.

The Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System is one way the Texas Department of Health determines if progress is being made in reaching the state's Year 2000 Health Objectives. The survey's results also are used to direct health promotion efforts toward Texans' most prevalent health risks.

Heart Disease Still Number One Killer

Since 1979, heart attack and stroke deaths in Callahan County have steadily declined, according to a recent report from the American Heart Association.

According to the association report, there were 139 total deaths in Callahan County in 1989, of which 62 were cardiovascular deaths. In 1989, 44.6 percent of all deaths in the county were cardiovascular related, according to the report.

The year before, in 1988, there were 168 total deaths reported in Callahan County, with 82 deaths reported from cardiovascular causes. In 1988, 51.3 percent of the total deaths were cardiovascular related.

According to the report, five years earlier, or in 1984, there were 153 total deaths in Callahan County of which 89 were cardiovascular related. In 1984, 58.2 percent of all deaths were cardiovascular related.

The report stated that 10 years earlier, or in 1979, 62.2 percent of all deaths in Callahan County were cardiovascular related. There were 119 total deaths in the county in 1979 of which 74 were related to the heart.

According to the findings, 41.8 percent of all deaths in Texas in 1989 were from cardiovascular and other related diseases. In Texas during 1989, there were 124,563 total deaths in Texas of which 52,176 were related to the heart.

Since 1979, heart attack and stroke deaths have steadily declined, the report said. However, these and other cardiovascular diseases remain the number one cause of death. Advances in research, medical treatment and healthier lifestyles in recent years have undoubtedly contributed, but there's still a long way to go and no time for complacency. Someone dies from cardiovascular disease every 32 seconds.

Understanding Changes In The Brain

HOUSTON — Understanding how changes occur in the brain — and learning to control them — may some day provide freedom from drug addiction and mental illness in millions of people throughout the world.

"The amount of suffering endured and the amount of money spent annually on such diseases of the mind as schizophrenia, depression, alcoholism and drug abuse is phenomenal," said Dr. James Patrick, head of the Division of Neuroscience at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Brain researcher Patrick and his colleagues are studying synapses, the spaces where signals are transmitted from one nerve cell to another. Synapses may be the clue to developing drugs to treat mental illness as well as to an improved understanding of drug dependency.

"Synapse may not be a familiar word to most people but, because Congress has declared this the 'Decade of the Brain,' it is a good time for people to begin to learn more about it," Patrick said.

"Understanding synaptic structure and function is important for understanding how cells send signals to each other," Patrick said.

"It is complex," he said. "There may be 100,000 synapses on a single neuron cell, all of them functioning at different times. And different synapses throughout the brain may use hundreds of different signal-receiving molecules and dozens of different transmitter molecules."

Scientists know that synapses change as they are used. For example, drugs, whether legal or illegal, can modify the transmission of signals from one cell to another in some part of the brain. The biochemical effect can be long-term changes resulting in dependency.

"It is clear now that mental illnesses really have a physical, organic basis and that they might occur as a result of some molecular problem in the nervous system," Patrick said.

"For example, various mental illnesses could result from the mismanagement of the nerve machinery involved in sending signals from one cell to another."

If scientists can learn how that machinery works normally, Patrick said, perhaps drugs can be developed that will restore proper synaptic function.

"That is the bottom line for neuroscience for the next decade," Patrick said. "The payoff for society could be millions of lives and billions of dollars saved."

MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON

AIRLINE DELAY EXPENSES REIMBURSED

MESSAGE—A few months ago, I returned to Texas from Wisconsin by airline travel. The experience was horrible. Not only was there a late departure, but my connecting flights were also delayed. I spent over 12 hours in three different terminals, not including the unexpected overnight stay in a hotel due to a flight cancellation of one of my connecting flights. I have contacted the airline, asking for reimbursement for expenses incurred during this ordeal. To date I have received no reply. Could you please assist me with this? Initials withheld—Austin

SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS—I contacted the Department of Transportation. They made an inquiry into this incident and advise me that the airline apologizes for the inconvenience and expenses you incurred as a result of the delay and cancellation of your flight. You should soon receive a check for full reimbursement of your expenses.

GRADUATION DENIAL UPHELD

MESSAGE—I am writing to you on behalf of my son, who is presently attending a technical school of the United States Coast Guard. He was supposed to graduate in May, but was informed a couple of months ago that he would not graduate from the school. My son tells me that he has passed all phases of the school and knows of no other trouble that he has gotten into that would cause this decision. He is devastated. He worked very hard to get into this school. Would you please check this out and assist if at all possible? A.D.—Name of city withheld

SENATOR BENTSEN RESPONDS—I contacted the United States Coast Guard. They advise me that while your son shows promise, he experienced some difficulty understanding some of the procedures causing him to violate basic safety precautions in at least one instance. Based on his performance, your son was not permitted to graduate. He is eligible to re-apply for the classes.

Do you have a problem with government? MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON cuts through the red tape to get answers to your questions about Social Security, veterans benefits, immigration matters and other problems you may have run into in your dealings with the Federal Government in Washington. Write to MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON, c/o Senator Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C., 20510. Inquiries to MESSAGE TO WASHINGTON sometimes are edited before publication, but the intent and substance of the inquiries are maintained.

HEALTH TIPS ON SKIN CANCER

HOUSTON — The natural aging process can disguise the symptoms of skin cancer in the elderly. A dermatologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston says what appears as a liver spot may actually be the start of skin cancer.

"As people age, they are increasingly at risk for skin cancer," said Dr. Leonard H. Goldberg, an associate professor of dermatology at Baylor. "Some people ignore a mole or a sore that has grown in size over months and even years and assume it is not serious and will go away on its own."

Skin cancer first appears as a small reddish or brown ulcer, pimple or mole commonly found on the face, neck, hands or soles. In advanced stages, the cancer can spread through the bloodstream to the kidney, liver, bones and lymph glands, causing severe illness and even death.

Of the three forms of skin cancer — basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma and malignant melanoma — the latter ranks as the most life-threatening. All three are associated with long-term sun exposure.

Malignant melanoma may appear spontaneously or form in existing moles containing melanocytes, pigment-producing cells that give color to the skin. An estimated 25,000 cases of malignant melanoma are diagnosed each year resulting in 8,000 deaths.

Elderly people with pale skin, freckles and blonde or red hair who have been exposed to intense sunlight for many years are particularly vulnerable to skin cancer.

"People with a history of outdoor recreational activity run the greatest risk of developing skin cancer," Goldberg said. "While participating in water sports like fishing or boating, they have exposed their skin to the sun's harsh rays. Adding the reflection from the water results in a double dose of sunlight."

Nearly all skin cancers diagnosed early can be successfully treated, Goldberg said. The five-year melanoma survival rate is 100 percent, which is attributed to early detection. For advanced melanoma, the rate falls to 50 percent. Changes or new growths should be examined by a physician who may surgically remove the cancer and perform a biopsy.

Goldberg says the elderly can do their part in decreasing their risk of developing skin cancer.

"Wear long-sleeved shirts, hats and sunscreen lotion while outdoors," he said. "Avoid the sun between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. when the sun's rays are most damaging."

He recommends undressing in front of a mirror monthly and looking for a change in the size, shape or color of moles, blemishes or birthmarks, or a waxy-looking lump or a sore that has not healed or crusts or bleeds.

In some cases, the elderly are unable to look at their entire body because of impaired vision. Goldberg suggests that a family member perform a careful examination.

He advises the elderly to use common sense when exposing the skin to sunlight.

"Even though older people do not feel the need to get out in the sun as much as young people, there are many senior adults who still enjoy the great outdoors," Goldberg said. "Take the necessary precautions and see a physician if you are suspicious about a new or pre-existing mole or sore."

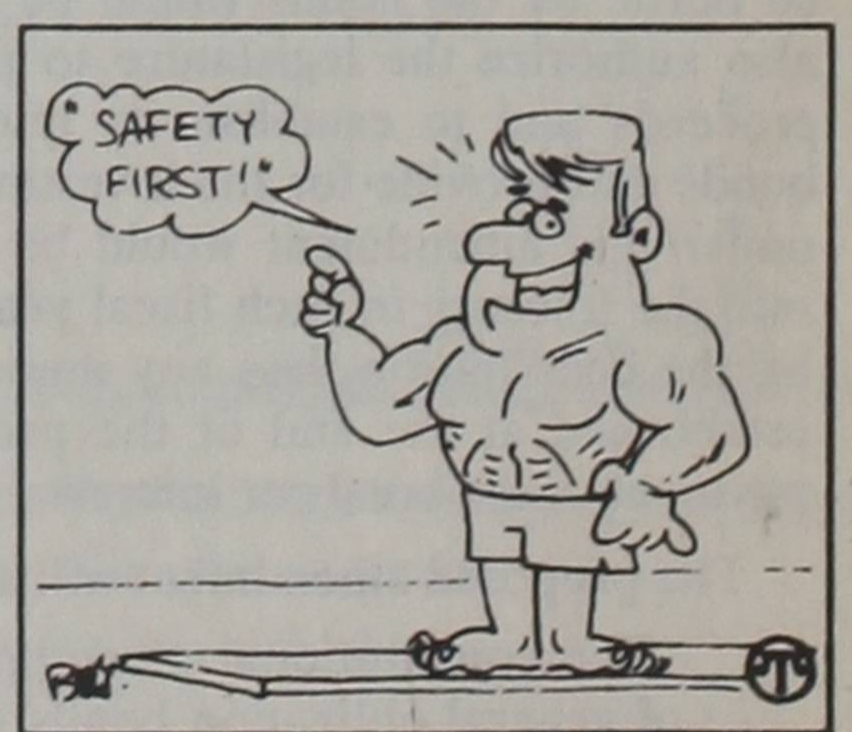

For more information on how to detect skin cancer, call the Cancer Information Service toll-free at 1-800-4-CANCER.

NEWS OF SAFETY

Before Diving Check Water Depth

Safe diving habits can prevent accidents. While the depth of water needed for a safe dive varies, statistics show that most severe diving injuries occur when a diver hits where the water is five feet deep or less. Experts at the National Swimming Pool Safety Committee (NSPSC) warn recreational swimmers never to dive head first into shallow water. Divers must first check the depth of the water into which they are diving and must plan their dive to steer up.

Never dive into the shallow end of a pool.

3rd Annual Cross Plains Ranch Rodeo June 29

The Cross Plains Roping Club is sponsoring its Third Annual Ranch Rodeo at the local arena on Saturday, June 29, beginning at 8 p.m.

Understanding Social Security

A new publication designed to present a clear, concise overview of the Social Security program is now available from Social Security, according to Glyn Hammons, manager of the Abilene Social Security office. The publication, entitled Understanding Social Security, is the result of a project under which all of the agency's public information leaflets are being revised.

"Surveys show that most people know much less about Social Security than they should in order to use it effectively," Hammons said. "This is part of our continuing effort to alleviate the problem by making sure the information we provide is readable and understandable."

In addition, new booklets have been produced for each of the major Social Security programs: Retirement, Survivors, Disability, Supplemental Security Income, and Medicare. Fact-sheets which present information on specific issues have also been rewritten.

A catalog listing all available SSA public information materials, all of which are free of charge, is expected to be in circulation later in the spring. It is designed primarily for groups and organizations that have a special interest in Social Security. Those interested in receiving the material should contact the nearest Social Security office, Hammons said.

The Abilene office is located at 142 S. Pioneer. The phone number is 698-1360 or you can call toll free 1-800-234-5772.

Long-Hidden Archaeological Secrets Revealed In June Issue Of Texas Highways Magazine

Rewrite the Texas history books.

The site of the earliest mission in the Spanish province of Texas is not, as it turns out, located in the state park which bears its name. Mission San Francisco de los Tejas was actually built near the present-day town of Augusta in neighboring Leon County.

And the route officially designated as the Old San Antonio Road (and sometimes called El Camino Real) on the state highway map is a mistake perpetuated for over 70 years. The designated route is actually three non-contemporaneous road segments.

The story of how archaeologists at the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation uncovered such fascinating new finds in their research of the roadway is told in the June issue of Texas Highways magazine.

The research, completed only weeks ago, was done in anticipation of next month's 300th anniversary of El Camino Real, the state's most historically significant roadway.

Two years ago, the Texas Legislature chartered the Old San Antonio Road Preservation Commission to help coordinate the efforts of several state agencies to "acclaim the heritage, promote the preservation and develop the tourism potential" of the historic route. The highway department, through its team of archaeologists, took a leading role in uncovering much lost history associated with the roadway. But they uncovered much more than they anticipated.

In addition to the Mission Tejas site and the OSR routing problem, several town sites have been relocated. The team also uncovered the long-lost boundaries of vast ranchlands operated until the late 1700s by each of the five river missions set up by the Spaniards. And, the researchers identified, for the first time, the site of the 1813 Battle of Medina, one of the largest battles in North America prior to the War Between the States.

The OSR designation error came about when the Legislature commissioned surveyor V.N. Zivley to chart the ancient route in 1915, before the highway department was even established. Several roadways had been carved by the early Spanish governors, and Zivley mistakenly tracked pieces of several of them as a single route.

Officially designated Texas' "Old San Antonio Road," part of the route was straightened and paved as Texas 21 between the Sabine River and San Marcos. Through the years, Texans have come to accept the route as their state's first and foremost thoroughfare.

This month, several celebrations, parades, and marker dedications will mark the tri-centennial anniversary. For its part, Texas Highways magazine offers a 12-page cover story on the roadway and its colorful history.

"We typically give six to eight pages to a subject," says editor Tommie Pinkard. "But there's just too much history and too many interesting side tales to boil down to that space. And the story of this highway is truly the story of our state," she explains. "It's the highway of highways; the royal road. And what more appropriate subject for the travel magazine of Texas?"

Of course, the magazine's being a publication of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation gives added reason for such interest. Starting virtually from scratch last year, the department's archaeologists began developing a preservation plan and plotting accurately the early routes, using resources unavailable in surveyor Zivley's time. Little-known historical documents, including travel diaries of major Spanish exploration groups were dusted off and used to pinpoint the most commonly used campsites, stream crossings and landmarks.

The department staff then scanned satellite images, aerial photographs, and detailed physiographic maps to line out feasible overland routes between these sites. For the first time in 300 years, the full spans of the early routes have now been mapped. Archaeologist Al McGraw describes the effort as "the largest preservation plan ever developed within the state."

The research into the roadway has fired up many a Texas historian. "I'm impassioned by El Camino Real," says Jim McReynolds, a history professor at Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches. "It bustled through history like Fannin Street in Houston at noon."

"You may think of it as asphalt, but it's really the basis of where we've been, who we are, and who we will become," McReynolds explains.

Fort Griffin Fandangle To Be Held On June 20-22 And June 27-29

ALBANY — Tickets are currently on sale for the 1991 version of the Fort Griffin Fandangle set for its traditional six performances on June 20-22 and June 27-29 at the Prairie Theater located just northwest of the Albany city limits.

Strains of calliope music, Indians adorned with war paint, cowboys and their horses, and covered wagons loaded down with pioneers will soon be filling the theater as over 250 local residents prepare to celebrate their rich heritage.

Ticket sales for the annual outdoor show, which depicts the settling of the Clear Fork of the Brazos area through music, dance and narration, have been brisk so far, according to Fandangle Association Secretary Louann George. Ticket prices range from $3 to $10 depending on seat location.

Seats for the six-night run of the show can be purchased in advance through the Fandangle office Albany. Phone orders can be placed by calling (915) 762-3642 or 762-3838. Ticket orders can be mailed to the Fandangle.

Women To Benefit From New Rules

Recent changes in Social Security law respond to the growing concern over how the program treats women. The changes, effective January 1, 1991, affect disabled widows, divorcees, and spouses of invalid ceremonial marriages. The changes also apply to men, of course, but are more important to women as a group because they are more likely to qualify for such benefits.

One change makes it easier for disabled widows to qualify for disability benefits by expanding the definition of disability for them. Under the change, widows may now qualify for disability benefits on their spouse's work on the same basis that they qualify based on their own work. This means that the effect of their age, education, and work experience on their ability to work also will be considered.

Under the old rule, disability was evaluated solely in terms of medical findings and vocational factors were not considered.

Under another change in the law, women who marry — and later find out that their marriage is invalid — may now qualify for a benefit on the worker's Social Security record on the same basis as the legal spouse. Under previous law, these "deemed" wives could receive Social Security only if no legal spouse received benefits. The change also applies to widows and divorcees.

Under this change, a divorced spouse whose good faith ceremonial marriage turns out to be invalid may get benefits as well as the legal spouse if the marriage lasted at least 10 years. The amount of benefits one spouse gets has no effect on the amount of benefits another spouse can get.

A third change makes it possible for a woman whose husband was receiving spouse's benefits before she and her husband were divorced to receive divorced spouse's benefits without waiting the 2 years usually required.

These changes represent a continuing effort to make the Social Security program more responsive to the changing needs of women. However, they are not intended to address the broader concerns raised by various groups... issues involving homemakers who lose Social Security coverage and women workers whose earnings, and thus benefits, are generally lower than those of men. These concerns are being studied by a Women's Issues Task Force, appointed several months ago by Social Security Commissioner Gwendolyn S. King. The Task Force is expected to report recommendations shortly.

People who are interested in more information about these changes should call toll-free 1-800-234-5772 or the Abilene office number is 698-1360.

it now lies on a major freeway, El Camino Real promises to play a role in the future of the state. Plans call for development of a "historical corridor" which could prove to be a boon to tourism along its pathway, especially in the south Texas region which is in need of economic development. Watch for new activities to spring up all along the route.

Texans looking for an interesting new travel trail, as well as historians and archaeologists looking for a new perspective on the state's history will find a fascinating discussion of the highway in the June issue of Texas Highways. Other articles cover such subjects as the annual Stamford Cowboy reunion, the three-million-acre XIT Ranch in the Panhandle, steamboats along the Brazos, and where to go in Texas to search out your family's roots.

Paternal great-grandmothers are Mrs. Lernelene Fortune and Mrs. Elsie Porter, both of Cross Plains.

Foster Family Annual Reunion Held June 1-2

The descendants of John and IDella Foster reunited June 1st and 2nd at the Cross Plains Community Center. The couple's three living children, Bernice Foster, Viola Hutchins, and Laverne Scott, were all present. All five children of the late J.C. Foster, Jr. were together for the first time in thirty-one years.

The Foster Clan took up donations for the Tidwell Cemetery in Limestone County where the M.L. Hogans, IDella's parents, and two babies, Grady and Alonzo Foster, are buried.

The hayride through the Spring Gap Mountain was reported enjoyable by several. Bingo, dominoes, and an auction were other fun attractions.

Bobby Purvis of Abilene made a family quilt which identified individuals and was additionally personalized with art work in each block. Chances were sold on the quilt and Glenda Hutchins was the winner.

Weekly Health Tip

WHEAT GERM

This is the wheat kernel's embryo — the 'live' part that develops into a new stalk of grain if planted. Wheat germ contains generous quantities of thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, vitamin E, iron, fiber, and many other essential trace nutrients. The wheat germ is unfortunately removed in the milling of white flour. Although white flour is 'enriched' with synthetic niacin, thiamine, riboflavin and iron, a dozen or more essential nutrients are still missing, including fiber. Whole wheat flour, containing all the original nutrients and fiber is decidedly more nutritious than white flour.

GTE Names New Manager For Southwest

DALLAS — Executive staffing for GTE Telephone Operations — Central Area was announced today by Michael B. Esstman, area president.

Among those announcements was the naming of a new regional vice-president — general manager for the area's Southwest Region, headquartered in San Angelo, Texas.

Dennis F. Myers, formerly division president of Contel of Texas, has been named to replace Harry Elam as vice-president — general manager for the Southwest Region.

"We have an excellent mix of quality leadership from both GTE and Contel to lead GTE Central toward achieving our goals and objectives," Esstman said. "As vice-president — general manager of our Southwest Region, Dennis will make a significant contribution as we work together to continue to provide customers in this new 12-state area top-quality telecommunication products and services."

Myers was named to his former position with Contel in 1988. Prior to that, he served as president of Contel's New England Division. He also has served as area manager, assistant vice-president — customer services, and director — sales/marketing. Myers earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Redlands in California. He has been active in the Texas Telephone Association and in the Richardson (Texas) Chamber of Commerce. He and his family currently reside in Richardson.

Esstman explained that Myers and heads of the other two regions in GTE Central (North Texas/Oklahoma and Midwest) will report to Brad Krall, who has been named to the newly created position of area vice-president — general manager.

Krall currently serves as assistant vice-president — staff operations support for GTE Telephone Operations headquarters in Irving. The area vice president — general manager position was established to help manage the expanded operations of the Central Area. Incorporating states or locations formerly served by GTE Southwest, Contel and portions of GTE North, the new Central Area will provide local exchange service to 2.4 million customer access lines in 12 states. In addition to the three regional vice-president — general managers, the position of director — centralized services will also report to Krall.

Esstman also announced the reappointment of a number of current executives within GTE Central who will serve at the area's headquarters in Irving, Texas:

- Nicholas J. Doria, area vice-president — human resources
- W. Scott Hanle, area vice-president — finance
- Rex A. Timms, area vice-president — public affairs
- Oscar C. Gomez, area vice-president — regulatory and governmental affairs
- J. Bruce Cole, area vice-president — sales
- William G. Mundy, area vice-president — general counsel and secretary
- James A. Spriggs, vice-president — general manager, North Texas/Oklahoma Region
- James E. Courtney, director — centralized services

GTE Central Area was formed earlier this year, effective with the closing of the merger between GTE and Contel, and is one of four operating areas in GTE Telephone Operations. It consists of properties formerly served by GTE Southwest Incorporated, Contel and GTE North.

GTE Central Area serves 2.4 million customer access lines in 12 states — Arizona, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Texas. It is the largest of the four GTE telephone operating areas in terms of land mass and number of states served.

MINUTE MUSINGS

By ESTHLOY S. DICKSON

This doesn't "feel" like a Monday morning, but the calendar indicates that it is. The past week included many new experiences for me — changed my outlook in several instances.

The rains were very welcome out here — now grass mowing will be our next endeavor.

I enjoyed the "Down Home" column by Vivian Traeger. I am sure there are others "away from home" who enjoy this paper.

David Beggs, J.T.'s father of Morton Valley, spent last Thursday night with the family. David Beggs, Kim's son of Denver, Colorado, came on Saturday of last week and will spend some time with them. Betty enjoyed the Vacation Bible School in Cross Plains, teaching some five-year olds.

Sally Roady stated that they have been busy all week. They visited Ms. Nettie at the nursing home nearly every day. Sally worked with the six-year olds in Vacation Bible School at First Baptist Church. Art and Bertie Roady of Fort Phantom Lake visited them last week. Cindy called in often — one day from Barstow, California.

Mrs. Jewel Foster didn't have any special news — she was happy to have had the nice rain. She was in Sunday School and church on Sunday.

Sara and David McGowen are quite well. His father, Howard, is in the hospital at Kerrville and they are quite concerned about him.
