Last week Project Pride's Robert E. Howard museum was the recipient of a beautifully framed picture of Conan the Barbarian (as portrayed by Arnold Schwarzenegger), autographed for the Howard House. Therein lies an interesting story.

Audie and Georgie Moore lived in Cross Plains in the early 1970's and again in 1979. Moore was a minister for the Church of Christ. One of their sons, Michael, often visited with Glen Vaughn in the old stone convenience store on West Highway 36. From there Glen pointed out to Michael the Howard home, telling him stories of Robert and predicting that he would one day be better known for his writings. Mike, a junior in high school, was not at that time especially interested. Later, when the Conan movies were made, he remembered the stories he had heard from Vaughn. His interest heightened and he began to read Howard's works and to learn more about Howard.

Recently, having heard of the Howard House, Moore wrote to Schwarzenegger, asking for an autographed picture for the house. He received the picture, framed it, and came to Cross Plains Tuesday, July 5, to present it. Several Project Pride members gathered to accept the gift and to thank Mike, who now resides in Waco.

The picture is a special addition to the Howard mementos, thanks to the intuition of Glen Vaughn and the thoughtfulness of Michael Moore.

Have you ever heard of or seen someone with secondhand faith? There are those who are dependent wholly upon someone else's faith. They've never really experienced the joy of investigating the evidence themselves. They have accepted facts only because someone else has told them so -- and chances are, that person's faith is second hand also! Thomas Carlyle gave these words of wisdom: "Pin thy faith to no man's sleeve; hast thou not two eyes of thine own?" What the apostle John says concerning the account of Jesus' life, inspired to pen, is true of the entire Bible: "...these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in His name," John 20:31. So according to Mr. Carlyle's suggestion, you have two eyes of your own; why not read and study for yourself and establish your own faith? Paul wrote in his letter to the Romans, regarding the Gentiles: "You have no excuse for not believing and obeying for God has made Himself known -- the invisible things of Him are clearly seen through the things that He has made which can be and are seen," Romans 1:20. So look around at the things which live because of Him, and look up at the sun, moon and stars. He's everywhere! He's everywhere! Look at and read about the evidence of Him for yourself, with your own two eyes, and believe. Secondhand faith is not acceptable by God for He has no grandchildren, only children! Come read and study about God with us -- and worship Him with us. We really do care about you, too!

Her Smile
by Tonya Hayward

Long before her spoken word, there was that SMILE.
That SMILE that said more than a simple hello,
but rather proclaimed, "welcome to my family."

Long before that sassy walk, that larger than life laugh, there was that SMILE.

The SMILE of a wife looking adoringly at her soul mate.
The SMILE of a mother in awe of the son created by their love.

Long before the never-ending story, the moment's deadline - the big scoop, there was that SMILE.

The SMILE that said, "no problem, I can do it."
The SMILE that told us everything is possible.
The SMILE that was simply "KATHY."

And now in our deepest sorrow and loss, it is that SMILE that will get us to tomorrow and tomorrow and yet another tomorrow.
For we will always remember and hold in our hearts THAT SMILE.

Teston Family Reunion

The descendants of Elzie and Lila Teston met for their 14th reunion on July 8, 9, and 10 at Sandy Beach Park at Lake Brownwood, Texas. The remaining children, grandchildren, greats, and great-greats have met 14 times for the past 15 years.

Those present this year were: Judy and Casey Harris and Oddie Kivlichen all of Abilene; Lessie and Jim Baum of Cross Plains; Kenneth and Gayle Lowry of Spring; Milton and Sandy Teston of Truth or Consequences, New Mexico; Bill and Barbara Teston of Lubbock; Roy, Connie, Traci, and Shaun Carter of San Angelo; Floyd Carter of Delta Junction, Alaska; Lavoydia and Joetta Hilburn of Dallas; and Bobby and Joann Braly of Galena Park.

The quilt designed by Lessie Baum and Judy Harris was won by Jim Baum.

This is the smallest group ever. So many were unable to come on account of illness.

The Reunion

Familiar faces -
New ones too
Memories relived
Dreams revived
A closeness present
A love in the air
The family's together
For another year
Together with a purpose
To remember the past,
And keep the family whole
At dear Mama's request
For she lay on her deathbed
And with her final breath prayed
"Hold the family together
Don't let anyone stray"
Do it for love
Do it for Mama
But who needs a reason
Just do it because.

This poem was written by Casey Harris, age 16, a great-granddaughter of Elzie and Lila Teston.

Summer Reading Program: Last week participants had a look at oceans and seas. Leaders were Ila Gilliam and Judy Luter. After the Pledge of Allegiance, students reviewed saying numbers 1-10 in Spanish and sang a song in French, as no one thought of an ocean song.

After selecting books, they were treated to a taste of ocean food—boiled popcorn shrimp with cocktail sauce, provided by Ila.

Judy's group heard a story and then made items using shells. Each was given a shell to take home. Judy also had petrified snails, starfish, etc., found in the area where she lives. Ila inspired her group to read about the seas and oceans by showing them the assortment of books the library has on oceans, seas, and fish.

Sixteen students attended. New students are still welcome for the last two sessions.

BURKETT NEWS

By ESTHLOY S. DICKSON

This is a beautiful Monday morning. Already the second Monday in July. Half of this year has gone by. I want to ask "Where did it go?" As I've been taught down through the years, just be thankful and make the best of each day.

Church services, both morning and evening, were interesting and inspiring. There was good attendance at both services. We have enjoyed the beautiful floral contributions.

Sally Roady was more 'chipper' this morning. She stated that Bob visits with his mother often. They are fortunate to have children near by. Mine are miles away. Our telephone bills are high!

My chat with Helen Tillotson was brief but warm, as usual. They are all okay and grateful. Their son-in-law, John Burtson, was active in the preliminary services at the church on Sunday morning.

Betty Beggs didn't answer this morning. I am anxious to know how they are getting along. They have been my friends so many years. Our boys were pals years ago. Would you believe we've been here more than thirty years!

Callahan County 4-H Fashion Show

The Callahan County 4-H Fashion show was held at Baird on June 28. There were five 4-H'ers participating in the Fashion Show. Alicia Stephenson placed first in the Intermediate Daywear division, Meagan Matsler placed first in the Junior Daywear division, Teri Windham placed first in the Junior Sportswear division, Jocann Meads placed second in the Junior Sportswear division and Traci Windham placed first in the Clover Sportswear division.

These girls will represent Callahan County at the District 4-H Fashion Show in San Angelo on July 21. Congratulations to these 4-H'ers and good luck at District.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am looking for the original horse (saddle form) used for fitting saddles handmade by Clarence S. Boyles. He was a saddlemaker and managed a harness shop in Cross Plains and Baird in the early 1900s. I am also searching for saddles that Mr. Boyles may have made.

If you have any information concerning the location of these items, please contact Nessye Mae Roach, Overland Trail Museum, Fort Davis, Texas 79734 (915)426-3904.

Inhalers Are Changing

Fluorocarbons (a type of gas that pollutes the air and is used in aerosol sprays, including inhalers) are to begin to be banned in 1995. New inhalers that deliver medication more efficiently are under development. Asthma sufferers will benefit from these new breath-activated devices. They eliminate the need to coordinate pushing down on a pump with breathing in at the proper time. The Maxair Autohaler is already available to asthma patients.

Your better health is our concern.
