Ray's 'Ritin'

By RAY MARTIN

This is Mother's Day. It's a day when some folk will wear a white carnation (or rose) and others red. It's a day when mother will get a new pair of hose and a dinner out. And next Sunday she'll be back in the kitchen again, cooking dinner for everybody and the new hose will have two runners in them.

The rose that I'll wear will be white. But the memories will be of the days when the rose that I wore in the lapel of my coat was red.

Mother was British. Her folks went to Arkansas and Grandfather brought a farm and a cotton gin and a mill and a few other things in the days just before the Civil War. Then the war came, and most of his many holdings were wiped out.

Mother taught school. One sister married a wealthy man. Others just married. And mother married a young schoolteacher with coal black hair and a dream of becoming a big-time school administrator.

Dad heard of the rugged new towns in Oklahoma that sprang up as the railroads pushed their tracks across the hills and valleys of the new state. Pay was good, they told him, and jobs were plentiful. He got on one of those trains with the wobbly tracks laid over the new ground and he went west, as Horace Greely had said. Because in those days, West began at the Oklahoma line, and except for California there wasn't much else in the way of civilization between you and the Pacific ocean.

There was a little town named Quinton that was looking for a schoolmaster and ma'am. Dad took the job and he and his bride loaded their treddle-powered White sewing machine, their gilt-framed mirror and their wearables into boxes and moved west over the old Fort Smith & Western. (Western, in this case, meant 200 miles west of Fort Smith.)

There was a rugged little school house, built of lumber that still See RAY'S, Page 6

Wheat Battle Lines Drawn

With deadline for sign-up of "small" farmers near and with the election itself only two weeks off, interest in the May 21 wheat referendum in Bailey and Parmer counties increased this past week with both "pro" and "con" meetings slated at Lazbuddie.

Meantime, here in Bailey county where 290 "small" wheat farm operators are eligible to vote, the number of farmers to register for the election climbed past the 100 mark late this past week, ASCS offices here reported. The number

Group Launches July 4th Plans

Muleshoe's Fourth-of-July committee chairmen met at the Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon and laid preliminary plans for their third annual program to be staged at Benny Douglas stadium.

Harmon Elliott, general chairman of the July Fourth celebration, had called the session to "line up our plans for this big celebration."

As in the two previous years, the program will include an old-fashioned picnic supper, a talent contest and a fireworks display. "This kind of program has been so successful in the past two years when 5,000 to 6,000 persons attended, we don't plan to make any change in the format," Elliott said.

A talent contest will result in $500 in cash prizes being offered, and a $700 fireworks display will conclude the program. The Jaycees will stage a beard-growing contest, and winners will be picked at the July Fourth program. Meeting with Elliott for the initial planning session were Frank Ellis and Robert Alford, co-chairmen of finances; Roger Albertson, chairman of the entertainment committee; John Smith, who will be in charge of procuring a master of ceremonies; Earl Ladd, in charge of fireworks; Public address system, Red Simmons and Truman Lindsey, and Ray Martin, chairman of publicity.

ber was around 115 Friday. Monday, May 13, is the final date such farmers may register in order to participate in the May 21 referendum.

Altogether 625 wheat farmers and their wives are eligible to vote, and turnout is expected to be "moderately heavy." Farmers who produce less than 15 acres of wheat must register at the ASCS office before they can vote.

Interest prior to this past week had lagged when only 45 "small" operators had signed up. The number more than doubled during the past week, however, as the deadline neared.

Lazbuddie was the scene of a meeting Friday night sponsored by the Parmer County Farm Bureau. Speaker was Bill Wedemeyer, director of research and education for Texas Farm Bureau from Waco. The Bureau has been one of the most outspoken organizations against the proposed wheat program, calling the 1964 measure an attempt "to control" agriculture.

A second Lazbuddie meeting is slated for next Thursday night at 8:30, called by the Parmer See BATTLE, Page 6

Jaycees Pick New Mascot; He's Rufus II

Rufus the Mule is back.

Of course it's not the same Rufus that lay down and died some two years ago near the West Plains Hospital.

This is Rufus II, a 10-year-old fellow who has the typical stubborn characteristics for which Rufus I — and all his ancestors — was famous. He's the new mascot of the Muleshoe Jaycees (see picture below), one of Muleshoe's most active young clubs. Rufus II "attended" a meeting of the Jaycee board this past week and got acquainted with the president, J. C. Spain. He's being cared for by another Jaycee member, Melvin Malone, at Malone's place north- See RUFUS, Page 6

Board to Consider Next Year's Plans

Muleshoe school board Monday night will lay plans for summer work at the school and will go over resignations of two teachers and possibly consider their successors, it was announced Saturday as agenda for the meeting was drawn up.

Superintendent Neal Dillman said the matter of summer maintenance and repairs to plants will be discussed at considerable length since this will be the final meeting for the school board before the end of the current school year. Dillman said the board probably will discuss what "needs to be done and what we can afford to do during the summer months."

Dillman probably will make his recommendations for teachers to replace staff members who have resigned, and the resignations will be formally accepted of those who are not returning to the Muleshoe system next year.

The board also will go further into a re-financing program for bonds which are to be refunded and sold at a lower rate of interest. A student insurance program for next year also will be discussed.

Dupler is Winner In Three-Way Race

Leon Dupler was elected to the Three Way school board at a special election this past week, defeating Carl Pollard. Dupler received 13 votes to Pollard's 10.

The special election had been made necessary after each man had received 16 votes in the regular election April 6. Jack F. Ferguson, who received 20 votes in the April tally, was elected to the other position on the board.

Lions to Give Check for Pupils Loan Program

Muleshoe Lions club will hear from the head of the student opportunity plan at their meeting next Wednesday when Buff Morris, Canyon, will be the speaker. Horace Edwards, president, announced Saturday.

Morris is with West Texas State University where the students' opportunity program is being carried out successfully. The Muleshoe Lions club, along with other Texas Lions clubs, has been an active supporter of the program, and at next Wednesday's meeting Morris will be given a check from the local club to apply on the student program, Edwards said.

Morris will outline "The tremendous good that the loan program has done for worthwhile pupils in furthering their education" in See LIONS, Page 6

Journal to Print Anniversary Issue

The Bailey County Journal and Muleshoe Journal will present a special 50th anniversary edition Sunday, June 30, it was announced Saturday by L. B. Hall, publisher. The edition will mark the 50th birthday of Muleshoe and will appear just before the city stages its annual July 4th celebration. Plans for the city's observance are well under way by Chamber of Commerce officials.

The special edition of the Journal will contain many pictures and stories of early days in Muleshoe, bringing the history up to the modern day. Many firms are planning advertisements telling of their part in the growth of Muleshoe. The Journal staff is gathering material for the big historical edition, and your help is asked.

If you have early-day pictures and newspaper clippings you are asked to call the Journal. Old-time pictures will be carefully preserved by the staff and will be returned to you after engravings have been made.

So, if you have material of this nature, we would greatly appreciate receiving it.

The Journals' circulation department will start receiving orders for special copies of the issue. If you have friends or relatives who would like to receive this special edition, please let us have your orders as soon as possible. Single copies of the edition will be mailed for you at 50 cents a copy.

Grand Jury to Hear "Several" Cases Friday

A district court grand jury, first called late in March, has been summoned to hear "several" additional cases starting next Friday, District Judge Pat Boone, Jr., announced Saturday.

Jack Young, district attorney, said late this past week that "several" cases are to come before the grand jury, although no schedule had been drawn as yet for the jury's consideration.

The same grand jury summoned for the March 22 session will return for this week's sessions, it was explained. At that time, four indictments were returned.

Members of the jury are Roy Dyer, Muleshoe; Verney Towns, Route 2, Muleshoe; C. H. Byers, Enochs; J. L. Redwine, Muleshoe; Lester Howard, Route 5, Muleshoe; C. E. Reark, Route 2, Muleshoe; C. A. Petree, Maple; G. B. Salyer, Star Route, Sudan, Muriel Brown, Muleshoe; Preston Coomer, Route 2, Muleshoe; L. K. Dean, Route 1, Muleshoe; Marvin Drake, Route 2, Sudan, and J. M. Angel, Enochs.

Simmons Rites Set at Earth

Funeral services for Ellis Simmons, 55, who died at 8:30 Friday morning in Amherst Hospital after a lengthy illness, are to be held at 3 o'clock today in the Methodist Church at Earth. The Rev. S. H. Sawley, pastor, will officiate, and burial will be in the Springlake cemetery with Parsons Funeral Home, Olten, in charge of arrangements.

Simmons, who made his home with his mother, Mrs. Zona Simmons at Springlake, had lived in this area for 25 years.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his father, J. N. Simmons, Olton; by three brothers Robert Simmons, Springlake; Walton L. Simmons, Bakersfield, Calif.; and R. O. Simmons, Buckeye, Ariz., and by three sisters, Dessie Williams, Lubbock; Essie Hollingsworth, Springlake, and Betty Simmons, Plainview.

Muleshoe-Portales Road Route Changed

Roosevelt county (N. M.) commissioners have decided to change the route of the proposed Muleshoe Portales road from the originally-announced straight-east road, it was announced this past week.

Originally the road was to have gone straight east from Portales to the Texas line. Then Bailey county would have graded a road three miles south to meet the New Mexico road.

At the north end of the new road, the highway would join FM 1760 and go east to Muleshoe. The New Mexico commissioners found that the proposed road straight east from Portales was "too sandy" to make a road feasible. The road would have been going through heavy sand which would have made extensive filling necessary.

Under the new plan, the road will follow U. S. 70 north about six miles from Portales and then turn east to connect with FM 1760, it was explained. This route already is open on the New Mexico side but is extremely rough.

Under the new plan, that section of the road will be graded and later paved to make an all-weather route between Muleshoe and Portales.

The new route will shorten the distance between the two towns by some 15 miles and will eliminate the necessity of going through Clovis.

it is one of her mother. The portrait of her husband is done with his holding a newspaper. Mrs. Davis has never had a lesson in painting and decided to try her hand at the art in 1960. (Journal Photo & Engraving)

SCULPTURE — Mrs. Davis is holding a sculpture of her father, the late J. W. Nixon, who dressed in cowboy clothes for her copy. On the top shelf is the head of Mary Magdalene. She has done several of Indian Chief's forming them in ceramic clay by hand while looking at pictures. She began sculpture work quite by accident. While visiting in the home of an artist, she idly picked up a piece of clay and moulded a head. The artist noticed what she had done and encouraged her to get some clay and practice. She did and soon turned to ceramic sculpture. She has done one that has a striking resemblance to Lyndal Murray, manager of Anthony's. (Journal Photo & Engraving)

Bi-County Group Installs Officers

Bi-County Council, including Bailey and Lamb County, met at Bula May 7, for installation of new council officers.

Mrs. Ruth Farmer, president of District 14, installed Mrs. Ray Daniels, president; Mrs. John Vru-bie, vice-president; Mrs. Earl Ladd, Jr., secretary and Mrs. Arvel Cleavinger, treasurer. Her challenge to the new officers and every member of Parent-Teachers Associations was to study and learn the Parent-Teacher movement. She said, "We cannot serve that we do not love and that we do not know". Following installation, a school of instruction was conducted. Units represented were Bula, Amherst, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Spade, Olton and Springlake. Spade won the trophy for having the most attending. Attending from Muleshoe Mary DeShazo P-TA were Mrs. Byron Gunter, Mrs. Jim Milner, Mrs. Jack Schuster, Mrs. Irvin St. Clair, and W. O. Coletrain, From Richland Hills P-TA were Mrs. Ray Daniels, Mrs. Earl Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Owen Jones and Mrs. Norman Thomas.

Mother's Image

My Darling Mother has a beautiful soul Her wisdom will always be my guide Some day I hope to reach her goal. Her love with me will always abide.

My darling Mother has a loving heart It has captured the very soul of me In spirit I know we will never part. Unselfish, my Mother will always be.

My darling Mother has the gentlest hand It seems to reach out to all the earth By her touch, I know, she does understand. Thank you, Mother for giving me birth.

My darling Mother has the kindest eyes For me, they've shed so many tears If I could, I would replace her sighs. With reassurance, courage and cheers.

My darling Mother has the sweetest face Every feature is etched sublime One look from her just seems to erase Disappointment and heartaches of time.

My darling Mother has the dearest arms In love, they will always encircle me With protection, they seem to quiet my alarms Just to ask that they're near, will

Demonstrations Highlight Club Program Here

Two demonstrations highlighted the meeting of the Muleshoe Hobby Club Tuesday. These were conducted by Mrs. Charles L. Davis who showed finger-blended pastel portraits and sculpture work and Mrs. Weldon Criswell showing a Barbie doll wardrobe she had made including all types of dress for the doll such as street clothes, sports wear and wedding gowns.

During the meeting, molded plastics ornaments and other things were shown.

It was announced that the June 4 meeting would be a covered dish luncheon in the home of Mrs. Louis Henderson Stegall. All members are to meet at the Community Club room at 10 a.m. and go to the Henderson home in a group.

After the conclusion of the meeting, the women went in a group to Mrs. Davis' home to see the many portraits she has done in both pastels and oil and her sculptures. Many of her portraits are of Muleshoe people that she has done from memory.

President of Caprock District Speaks At Study Club Luncheon

Mrs. Bill Davis, O'Donnell, president of the Caprock District of Federated Women's Clubs, was guest speaker at the Thursday luncheon sponsored by Muleshoe Study Club. The event was held in Fellowship Hall.

Special guests were members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority and Los Planos Study Club.

Invocation was by Mrs. Ramon Martin. Decorations were in keeping with the theme of the library promotion and books were used in decorations on the table. Place cards were story book characters and a large Cinderella doll adorned the head table.

Mrs. Davis, introduced by Mrs. O. N. Jennings, told of the advantages of clubs federating and also stressed the fact the club women should do everything possible to help the community, be mindful of elderly citizens and visit shut-ins. She pointed out that in unity there is strength and that much more could be accomplished by federating than could as individual clubs. In her conclusion, she emphasized that spiritual security should be built above everything else.

Mrs. J. G. Arnn, president, presented her with a money corsage on behalf of the Club.

Mrs. Cecil Cole, member of the library board reported on the progress made by the board and thanked all those who had helped in this project, particularly KMUL

Style Show Given At Lazbuddie

The Home Economics Department of Lazbuddie High School presented a style show at 7:30 p.m. May 3 in the school auditorium.

The girls modeled the dresses they had made in the sewing unit under the supervision of their teachers, Mrs. Charley Walton, who served a narrator for the show.

After the show, the Necchi sewing awards given by Harvey Bass Appliance were presented. Winner of the third place award was Katie Blackstone; second place went to Marsella Mayfield; and Gayla Seaton won the first place trophy.

Gayla Seaton also won the Crisco trophy for best Home Economics student present that night during the School Awards phase. The girls who had received their junior degree received their official keys.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER FROM SENATOR JOHN TOWER
 Chairman Banking and Currency Labor and Public Welfare

MASS TRANSIT: The Administration's first big money bill of this session cleared the Senate by a vote of 52 to 41. We were successful in getting the original $500 million grant feature of the bill trimmed to $375 million. Another feature was added that would provide a like amount for guaranteed loans.

I led the opposition to this bill in Senate debate. It appeared we had the measure beaten until Administration forces agreed to demands by certain labor leaders.

We sometimes receive mail asking when we are "against" measures such as the Mass Transit bill, which apparently have little application to Texas and Texas problems. Let us examine this quickly and I believe you can see the reasons.

Proponents of the bill testified in Committee hearings that the initial outlay was merely the beginning, that at least $9,800,000 would be needed over the next 10 years to make even a dent in the transportation problems of metropolitan areas. It is likely to cost even more than that. But assuming that the $9.8 billion figure is correct, let us figure how much of this would be paid by Texans. Texans, according to the Library of Congress, pay approximately 4.5 per cent of all Federal taxes. Accordingly, all other things being equal, Texans would pay 4.5 per cent of the $9.8 billion.

This comes to $441,900,000 that because he is the source of our absolute control over the people of the United States. These self-appointed elite consider themselves the masters. We are to be their slaves. Their ultimate plan is to buy us with our own tax money. By the grace of God, the independent, freedom-loving Americans of this age will win this battle in the never-ending war for the control of men's minds and bodies.

Mrs. Morris McKillop

assembled representatives. in taxes over the next 10 years as their share of the $9.8 billion Mass Transit expenditures. Most of this, of course, would be spent in the urban areas of the East. The figure comes to more than $44 for each man, woman, and child in Texas. A family of four would contribute about $176 to solving the transit problems of persons living in cities far away. This does not take into consideration the other harmful aspects of the measure, the stifling of local initiative, the attempts to reverse normal trends in modern living, the granting to the government of vast new powers. All told I believe it is well worth opposing. In fact, I do not see how anyone sent to Washington to represent the interests of Texans could do otherwise.

THE FARM FRONT: Anyone who still believes that an all-out effort is not being made to completely regiment the American farmer should re-examine the facts. The up-coming wheat referendum, scheduled for May 21, is merely a sidebar to the continuing story of "management" that is characteristic of this Administration. There has evolved an "elite" in this country who honestly think the entire economy should be regimented, and that they, as the superior thinkers, should do the managing. In the final analysis they envision a society not entirely unlike a giant bee colony, in which one class does the work, another class guards the society (with-out weapons of course) and the drones of the hive would be replaced by "thinkers" who would do the managing.

Our government is set up on a system of checks and balances, with the elected representatives of the people to make laws, the judicial branch to interpret those laws, and the executive branch to execute the laws as finally passed by the people's

Texans would be required to pay

We now see, however, that arm of the government which was originally charged by our Constitution with executing our laws actively engaged in the proposition of spending tax dollars to influence the outcome of an election. The Wall Street Journal quoted the Secretary of Agriculture as saying that every division and agency of the Agriculture Department from Washington down to administrative committees on state and county levels would be mobilized to "inform farmers of details of the complicated new program." There are also reports that the Extension Service is being lined up to plug for the Executive Department's version of the solution to our farm problems. We trust that many employees of the Extension Service will refuse to be a party to this, realizing that their Service was created for something entirely different.

If farmers wait for the Department of Agriculture to objectively inform them of problems and solutions regarding the farms of America, they are apt to end up with more problems than solutions. For, in past history is any indication of the future, the farmer will hear only one side. We were recently told, for instance, in a glowing, self-serving report from the Department, that the government is now saving $320,000 a day in grain storage costs because of a reduction in the amount of grain on hand, as compared to 1961 when the Administration's feed grain program went into effect. What the "information" sheet from the Department did not say, however, is that the governmental cost of the entire feed grain program climbed from $782,000,000 in 1961 to $841,000,000 in 1962. The Department was perfectly willing to trumpet the news of the so-called saving, while remaining silent on how much it cost to achieve that "saving".

So it is with the entire farm program. They appear more than happy to tell the farmer that his wheat price will fall drastically (which is unlikely) if he fails to vote for the proposed stringent rules that will govern if the wheat referendum passes, but they are strangely silent on informing the farmer, and the rest of America what it is going to cost in terms of freedom and liberty.

SPENDING AND SAVING: When the Senate takes up the Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1963 I intend to offer amendments designed to save the taxpayers nearly one-half billion dollars. I shall seek to remove the $450,000,000 item earmarked for "Public Works Acceleration", delete $350,000 from a proposed $750,000 appropriation for the Department of Commerce; strike a $30,000,000 appropriation for "shelter surveys"; delete a $550,000 item for the State Department dealing with expenses of organizing and holding the "World Food Congress"; and several other minor items.

A SLIGHT MIXUP: Some of you may have received, within the past few days, a reproduction of an article I had previously written for a Texas fortnightly. The article was reproduced in other papers, and also inserted in the Congressional Record by a member of the House of Representatives. We had some calls for reproduction; but in the process, the reproduction was made on our regular newsletter format and mailed. We caught the error early so only a few got in the mails.

MIDNIGHT PROWLER
 NOVATO, Calif. (AP) — At midnight Mark Wills heard something prowling on his roof. Two policemen caught the culprit — a black cat.

Kennedy's Chances

Because there is a movement afoot to win the Republican presidential nomination for Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, and because Governor Nelson Rockefeller is already campaigning for the G. O. P. nomination, the question of President John Kennedy's chances in 1964 is currently the number-one political topic.

Most political experts and most pollsters say that, as of now, President Kennedy is unbeatable. There is little reason to doubt this conclusion. If we accept it, the next question is whether the President's popularity can decline from what the polls today estimate as over 70 per cent public approval to a point less than 50 per cent by November of next year.

This is possible. Chances that the President's popularity rating will decline in the next eighteen months, rather than rise, are quite good, for in an election campaign much criticism is certain and, also, the President's popularity rating has been so high it is hardly likely to continue to rise.

State Department Mystery

Announcements which come from out State Department continue to mystify us. The latest was a strange pronouncement, issued by the department after the latest talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

The text of the State Department communiqué included this sentence: "The atmosphere was friendly and relaxed."

Why should we tell the world that Rusk and Dobrynin were friendly and relaxed? There is really little to be friendly about, between the United States and Russia. One is a democratic country, trying to insure freedom for the peoples of the world and the other is a dictatorship, trying to snuff out our system and freedom.

It would be sensible perhaps to say the talks were held in a polite atmosphere, but why FRIENDLY? This is typical of the misguided thinking in Secretary Rusk's philosophy. He seems to think he has achieved something in getting the Russians to talk in a friendly manner. This is how Neville Chamberlain thought, in 1938, about another dictatorship.

All this namby-pamby conduct has weakened our position, alienated West Germany to a major degree and produced nothing, except the strangely proud State Department communiqués about "friendly and relaxed" talks.

The South in 1964

There is a growing belief among political analysts that the Republican Party will make further inroads into the Democratic South in 1964. True, this would be only the continuation of a trend but if the inroads are as spectacular as some now suspect they will be, it will be major political news.

The focus is on the U. S. Senate, where the Democrats hold a 67-33 edge in seats, and where Democrats from Dixie have been almost certain of victory for decades. Senator John Tower of Texas, a Republican, upset this tradition and now Texas' remaining Democratic Senator, Ralph Yarborough, now seems in trouble. Another Republican may be elected to the Senate in Texas next year.

Republican leaders think they will gain six Senate seats as a minimum in 1964, including the Texas seat in the South. They expect to win a great number of House seats in Dixie, especially if the Republican presidential candidate, and the party platform, take the South into serious consideration.

If this does occur, and if the South splits in the presidential race, it would put the stamp of finality on the trend away from the one-party system in the South. Not since 1944 have the eleven Dixie states solidly supported the Democratic Party presidential nominee and in recent congressional elections Republicans have been making gains.

As far as the Senate and House races are concerned, though, Republican gains seem to be shaping up, no matter who the presidential candidates might be.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

A NO vote in the May 21 Wheat Referendum is a vote for FREE MARKET agriculture. Only the people planners are afraid of free agriculture because they know that a free agriculture would destroy their dreams of policing and enslaving the farmers. FREE MARKET is a dirty word to the planners but to the freedom-seeking farmer it is their watchword and goal.

The statement has been made that only the naive and uninformed could believe that Congress would present new wheat legislation if the referendum is defeated. W. R. Poage, (D-Texas), vice-chairman of the House Agriculture Committee states that he will work for new legislation if the referendum is defeated. Rep. Bob Dole of Kansas represents the largest wheat-growing district in the nation; Rep. Graham Purcell (D-Texas) and Senator John Tower (R-Texas); these men all say that they will work for and support wheat legislation if the referendum fails to pass. New bills have already been drafted to be presented just as soon as this referendum is defeated. Are these men naive and uninformed?

We also read that only one farm organization is opposing the wheat referendum. American Farm Bureau, American National Cattlemen's Association, National Livestock Feeders Association, Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association and Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers are only a few of those that have not been mentioned by the general press that actively oppose the referendum. The livestock growers realize that a controlled wheat program will inevitably lead to a controlled livestock program.

These organizations may appear only a few signers of the De-small and defenseless lined up against the United States Department of Agriculture, the Administration and the freedom-selling, dollar-loving organizations that go along with them. But there were clarification of Independence and there were only a few patriots who fought the American Revolution while their weak-kneed neighbors fed an clothed their enemy. Yet those few dedicated God-fear-ward that war.

This is another was. It is every bit as vital to the future freedom of this nation as that other war. This is a life or death struggle to gain complete control of the American farmer. Through him,

4-H Sees Film On Good Manners

BY SHERY LSTEVENS

PLEASANT VALLEY — The Pleasant Valley 4-H Club met Monday afternoon in the Pleasant Valley Community Building. The meeting was called to order by James Pitts, the president. A film on manners was shown by Ronny McNutt, the assistant county agent. James Pitts, and Sam Allison gave their demonstration on conservation ranching. Gaylon Porsch and Bobby Allison gave a demonstration on water purification. It was suggested to have a cookout on the next meeting on June 3 at the Community Building.

Part of this time would be devoted to the cleaning up of the yard around the community building. This was made into a motion, voted on and passed. It was also suggested to invite the parents and to bring any yard equipment. Refreshments were served by Bobby Allison.

Four-H members competing in the District Eliminations Contest Saturday at Lubbock were: Lynn Pitts, who placed first in the foods and nutrition contest; Bobby Allison and Gaylon Porsch, third place winners in the junior safety contest; and Sam Allison and as Sunday visitors in their home: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Berry and Rheta, and Mrs. Elvin Berry and Renay, all of Olton; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Self and Pamela, Levelland; Mrs. J. H. Thompson and Don and Leslie, also of Levelland.

Those from Pleasant Valley going with the band to Enid last weekend were: Veta and Carolyn Allison, Kathryn West, Patsy Angley, Sandra Harris, and Nicki Landers. The band received two first places, one in concert and one in marching and one second place in sight reading.

Mrs. Oscar Allison, Mrs. Buddy Pool, and Mrs. Sam McKinstry went to Lovington, N. M. Sunday to visit with relatives.

Amy Andrews, Ft. Sumners, spent Tuesday in the Gerald Allison home.

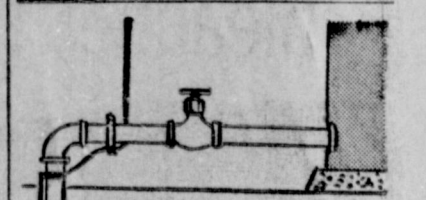

Mrs. Annie Stevens, Muleshoe, was a dinner guest Sunday in the home of her son and his

JENNY SLIPPER POINTS—

MOTHERS—While being feted and honored and spoiled on this Mother's Day 1963—will often reflect, especially today, on their own blessings of motherhood.

It is good to have this special day set aside each year to honor our own dear Mother (with a red-or-white-rose pinned to our lapel for Sunday church), as well as to think of the responsibilities of being a mother to one's own children. It is a wonderful, personal part of life this "being a mother."

We still like the idea of the old saying: "Let's make every day a Mother's Day!"

BIRTHDAY PARTY is often a magic word to everyone except the mother of the little boy or girl who is celebrating a birthday on any other occasion.

For mothers a party should be as much fun to give as it is for children to attend, says wedding and entertainment consultant Claire Dreier of Toronto, Canada.

She suggests one of the easiest ways to enjoy giving a party for children is to plan at least two or three weeks ahead and get every detail down on paper—time, number of guests, theme, games and refreshments. (This organization-planning is well applied to any type of meeting, party, activity—adult or children's—we think.) She says this will leave your mind clear to do the fast thinking necessary in case of emergencies.

But mother must stress to her child that it is his or her party, not mother's, and give her child the responsibility of being a good host or hostess. This includes greeting and introducing the guests and leading them from one activity to the next.

It is never too early (or late) to teach a child the old-fashioned rules of "Hello, I'm glad you could come" and "Thank you for the gift" and "Thank you for such a nice party" (to the host child and mother as well). It takes constant reminders for us all to remember our manners.

Mrs. Dreier goes on to say that helping children overcome their initial shyness is simple. Children love to be helpful and feel important and as soon as they do, they feel right at home. (We rather think adults perform with similarity.)

PERHAPS we are just sentimental, old-fashioned, or young-at-heart(?) or just news-minded—but this is a good time to point out that little children like to see their names in the newspaper just like Moma and Daddy.

Did you ever look back in the scrapbook your mother kept for you and see the clipping from the society page of your home-town paper that YOU had been honored on her sixth birthday with an afternoon party with 16 guests presents... including... (Oh, and hasn't you forgotten that little Johnny Smith was that boy's name who lived next door to you 'way back then... and isn't he a famous engineer now???) And do you remember how you underlined your name and the party—we hear some still do today.

So hint to mother on this Mother's Day: have a fun party for your child's birthday as well as their teenage parties, and turn it in to our Doris Kinsler to record it for posterity in the Journals.

COOK OF THE WEEK

MRS. LOUIS HENDERSON of Three Way, whose husband farms near Stegal, graciously gave us an ideal outdoor summer suggestion with her two "quick and easy" (good-sounding) recipes which may be served with a tossed green salad for a complete meal. She added that this would be a good 4-H Demonstration meal too.

And Mrs. Henderson, who lists cooking, gardening and working with people as her hobbies, is well-qualified to give cooking hints. She has served as Bailey county home demonstration agent, for two years was Texas Home Demonstration Association chairman, and was awarded membership in the elite "106 Club" in the Texas Farm Bureau. At present she is active in the Muleshoe Hobby Club; the Muleshoe Study Club; as reporter for the Goodland Bible Study club; and in the Three Way Baptist church where she is teacher of the Phœbian adult women's Sunday School class.

The Hendersons are parents of two sons: H.D. of Wolforth and Bobbie Joe of New Deal communities. They have four granddaughters and one grandson. Mr. Henderson is also a feed seed dealer.

Leach to Speak In Muleshoe

Gene Leach, a Tulsa insurance man who for almost nine years worked as a legislative representative in Austin and Washington, will speak in Muleshoe Monday night, at 8 p.m. at the Muleshoe High School Auditorium.

Much of Leach's work at our state and national capitols was toward farm-type legislation; however, he is vitally interested in every segment of politics and legislation concerning the American people, and he is interested, in passing on to others the knowledge he has gained from the experience of the last nine years.

Leach calls himself a conservative independent. He believes there are sound-thinking conservative people in both major parties, and that it's important that they work together for the common good of America.

Leach's talk is being sponsored by the Bailey-Parmer County Young Republicans; however, the public is invited, and there will be no admission charge. Dr. Charles Lewis, president of the sponsoring group, calls on all conservatives to "come and hear Mr. Leach and find out how we can work together for less government and more individual responsibility."

MISSING LINES in last Sunday's Jenny Slipper left these points needing to be completed, in full. We had found Mrs. Rufus Gilbreath and evidences of (not "her... and sewing") but "of her talents of gardening, cooking and sewing". Her daughter, Joyce's husband is Glenn Chisum, "who farms near Lubbock. Lanelle is a junior at Sandia View Academy and was here last weekend.

PS. We enjoyed meeting another daughter Drucilla Glass, of Lubbock Thursday where she was a guest for the Muleshoe Study Club luncheon. Her mother is a new member of the local study club, and a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

smelled of resin, and a church and a general store and a railroad station, all of them filthy new.

The school you went to five days a week, the church you went to on Sunday and the railroad station you went to every day when the 5:15 from Fort Smith chugged into town. Especially you went to the railroad station on Sunday. The Methodists and Baptists and the Presbyterians went to their separate churches on Sunday morning, but they all got together on Sunday afternoon and went to the train. The 5:15 was greeted by everybody in town — all 275 of them!

And on weekdays, if you happened to go to see the 5:15, you would see the "drummers." They were those breezy, worldly fellows who sold merchandise to the local emporiums. They had huge sample cases which went into the baggage cars. But the drummers themselves, wicked fellows, stood around on the station platform before the 5:15 arrived and pitched silver dollars at cracks in the boards. Some of them made more money with their pitching skill than they did with their merchandise selling.

And it was into that kind of a world that my Dad brought Mother back in those early days. Quinton wasn't the only town. The railroad pushed westward and new towns sprang up along its right-of-way. And new schools and new churches and new depots, and the new general stores. Dad and Mother pushed westward, too. Westward in those days meant another 20 miles. It was an isolated world in those days, and 20 miles was a half-world away.

There were funny little houses that Mother and Dad lived in — and me, too! Once there was a FRANCIS IMPLEMENT CO. FORD TRACTOR Muleshoe, Texas Adv.

bad storm, and the frame house in which we lived shook like leaf and was just about as sturdy. Dad stood up and tired to hold the boards off the bed in which Mother and I were sleeping in case the walls collapsed. And Mother, meantime, prayed and the storm went away.

There were all kinds of people in those boom towns — good, bad, and neither. But Mother went to church on Sunday in her high-necked lace collar with its staves, and sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "What a Friend we Have in Jesus" while Mrs. Sam Whitmore played the reed organ. The preacher wore a frocked coat and called his folks "Brother" and "Sister."

I've often wondered if Mother missed the big house they had back in Arkansas, and the 50-year-old magnolias and the horse-hair sofa in the parlor (a room that was not to be confused with the living room).

Once I asked her about that. "Well," she said, "I miss it — yes, I miss the quiet streets and the teas and the socials that we had back there. I miss the leasurably life back there where women are all Ladies. But this is a good life, too. The people are eager and the country is new and it's interesting."

And once in a letter to her sister (the one who married the rich man) she wrote: "Life continues to amaze me among this rugged country. Today I had a young girl who always wore a scarf and I asked her why and she finally admitted that she had HEAD LICE!! I took her home with me and we cleaned out the lice . . ."

But to my Mother, that was just one of the experiences that made life — and teaching — such an interesting experience. There was never a dull moment in those days, and Mother enjoyed being a part of it all, even though she had been brought up to be a Lady. And she used to say, "Keep your eyes open, son. It's a beautiful world to those who can see." I think she loved it, and I know that many years later when she became ill and knew that she was going to die, she said, "I don't want to be taken back to Arkansas to be buried. I've lived in this country for many years and I have seen it grow from a rough, raw state, and I've been a part of it. I have loved it and I want to be buried in its soil."

So the white rose that I'll wear today will be in memory of a Mother who "came west" and became a part of it all. But it's the red rose days that I'll remember and it will be that mother, living, that I'll remember. She was so very much alive!

A. E. Fowler Dies In California

Funeral services were held in Glendale, Calif., last Monday for A. E. Fowler, 59, former resident of Lamb county, who died May 2 in a Santa Monica, Calif., hospital. He was a brother of Mrs. Burl Wingo and Mrs. Jack Lenderson of Muleshoe.

Fowler was born in Rose Hill, Miss., and moved to Lamb county in 1929. He had extensive holdings in that county, and also owned a citrus orchard in Yuma, Ariz.

In addition to the two sisters here, survivors include his wife, the former Ruth Slaton; one son, Edwin, a student at Texas Tech; four brothers, Ivan, F. S. and L. G. Fowler, Lubbock, and W. B. Fowler, Memphis, Tenn. Another sister, Mrs. Otta Workmen, Carlsbad, N. M., also survives.

Peace Officers Set Conclave

Law enforcement authorities from over a five-state area will convene at Cal Farley' Boys' Ranch, Thursday, for the annual convention of the United Peace Officers of America.

Members of the association from all over the southwest are expected to attend the meeting with their main project a fund drive to provide four new classrooms for the fully-accredited Boys' Ranch School. At the present time, 312 boys are being cared for, trained and educated at the Ranch and the classrooms are needed for the school to have an enrollment of 500 boys.

President of the United Peace Officers of America is Captain Raymond Waters, Texas Rangers, Lubbock. Sheriff Lowell Sharp of Hereford, Texas, is first vice-president and Justice of the Peace Cliff Roberts of Amarillo is Secretary.

For the first time since it was founded, the UPOA will be having an annual convention without its first president, Sheriff E. S. "Gene" Collins of Channing, Texas, who died last August. Sheriff Collins was elected president of the association in 1954 when it was started to help Boys Ranch with funds badly needed for a school building and spearheaded the drive that resulted in the 12-grade school of today.

The convention program will begin at 10 a. m. May 16th. The members will bar-be-que and share with the boys of the Ranch.

MOBILE MAIL BOXES

ROME (AP) — In the Italian capital, mail goes to the railway station by streetcar. All tramway cars that pass by the station have little mail boxes outside. Romans anxious to get their letters moving quickly can drop them in the boxes, which are emptied each time a tram car passes the rail terminal.

Collecting Valuable Bird's Nests In Borneo Is Difficult Task

SANDAKAN, North Borneo (AP) — Collecting edible birds nests for the world's gourmets is just about as difficult as using chopsticks to scoop up the famed. This is due to the difficulty of getting to the tiny nests found only in lofty perches in the caves of southeast Asia. Other factors are the danger involved in bringing them down and some of the West Texas, Edwards said. The club also will have top Muleshoe high school students as special guests. These will include Karen Jones, valedictorian, Jim Thomson, salutatorian and David Douglas, third high student for four years in high school.

Also on hand to be honored by the Lions club will be the state championship girls' debate duo, Nine Ed Bovell and Shirley Smallwood, and the boys' team, Barry Lewis, Jr., and Don Williams, who were regional champions. Winners in track and field events at the state meet also are to be guests.

east of Muleshoe. Incidentally, the meeting with Spain and Rufus II was their second get-together; earlier in the day he had pitched the Jaycee president off in an irrigation ditch when the two first met. At the directors' meeting, however, Rufus II was more cooperative.

The Jaycees plan to take Rufus II to area Jaycee meetings and possibly to the state convention next year. He "joined" the club too late this year to make the 1963 meeting; that state conclave was held in San Antonio this past week.

taboos shrouding their collection. The way to the great limestone caves of Gomantong, one of the four largest nest deposits on Boreno Island, is so forbidding that even villagers living a couple of miles away have never ventured there.

To get to the caves, you must take a motor launch from this port city, across sweeping Sandakan Bay and along the winding crocodile-infested Suar Gamba River.

Near the source of the river, lies a small village inhabited by lumberjacks and their families. A laterite road (impassable stretches toward the caves from the village.

If an eight-mile trek through steaming tropical rainforest and there is no path on the final mile. A native guide has to chop a passage with a machete through the heavy undergrowth.

The towering caves are the homes of thousands of thumbsized swiftlets whose unique way of life adds $5,000 annually into the coffers of the North Borneo government.

The birds spit a glue-like substance onto the walls of the caves. The substance — identified by some as saliva and by others as the secretion of a special gland — sticks to the rock. On this base the birds construct their cuplike nests.

Thousands of nests are massed in patches high on the walls and in crevices of the caves. Nest building generally begins in December. A month later the collectors prepare their gear — ratan and bamboo ladders, sometimes several hundred feet high. Scaffolds are built. Where the bamboo ladders are used to reach nests are not too high, smaller them.

Unexplained customs and superstitions govern the collection of the nests. For example, a collector' family never calls him by name once he has left his hut for his work.

Quarreling among collectors on the job is another taboo. Collection could cease for as much as three days if a squabble occurs.

And work stops for three days to a week when anyone falls from her precarious perch during collections.

Before they are packed and shipped, the nests must be washed and soaked. All dirt must be picked out before they are dried in the sun and compressed into thin pancakes that will last for years — provided they don't go into the soup pot at once.

FLOATING SHELTER

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — The 35,000-ton battleship North Carolina, permanently docked here as a tourist attraction, will be outfitted once again — this time as a fallout shelter.

The Battleship Commission has authorized the stockpiling of food, medical and other provisions aboard the World War II battle wagon, berthed in a Cape Fear River dock.

The vessel can provide shelter for 2,500. With modifications to improve ventilation, more than 5,000 persons could stay aboard, Civil Defense officials say.

GRECIAN MAIDENS?

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A plush new hotel's neo-Roman cocktail lounge features Brutus Nero's Nightmare — served by Brew, Caesar's. Seizure and cocktail waitresses scantily clad as Grecian maidens.

The 1935 Study Club will hold the last meeting of the club year Saturday morning when a coffee will be held at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. S. D. Hay.

Among activities to be conducted will be the initiation of new members.

Mr. and Mrs. U. J. King have a new son born Saturday in a Littlefield hospital. The Kings have five daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foster were in Oklahoma during the weekend to visit their daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Bandy.

Brenda Drake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Drake has been named Valedictorian of the Eighth grade class. Salutatorian is Sandra Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lane.

Third high ranking student was Dianne Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bishop.

The Valedictorian averaged 96.10 for her year's work and the salutatorian 93.44. Dianne's average was 93.44.

Graduation exercises for the class are scheduled for Thursday night, May 23.

Grade school principal, Bernard Wilson, reports 42 students were enrolled for pre-school day held last Wednesday.

A day of activities was conducted for the next years beginning pupils with the highlight of the day being the awarding of certificates to the students by Wilson.

FTA Club Names Top Officers

By Davy Jean Anderson
 Future Teachers' Muleshoe chapter has named Judy Putman as president and Judy Inman historian for the 1963-64 school year, it was announced this last week after a meeting of the club. A committee was appointed to make plans for a party honoring all senior FTA members.

The program, other than election of officers, include a tape recording dealing with communism, and Kerry Moore, the club sponsor, talked on the student education association. He explained that SEA is similar to FTA except on a college level.

Karen Jones, this year's president, explained the duties of the president and historian, telling the club that these two officers are elected first so they may begin making plans for the coming year.

The club will sell homemade candy before school, during the lunch hour and after school for the next two weeks as a money-raising project, it was announced.

AIRLIFT OIL RIGS
 MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians are using big helicopters to airlift drilling rigs to remove oil fields.

The helicopters first were tried out in the Transvolga Steppe area where the rigs were flown in sections to the scene and assembled.

The Russians plan now to fly rigs to oil areas of Tumen in Siberia, located in heavily wooded district accessible only by air.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

By REV. J. FRANK PEERY

TO STAND TALL
"From among the youth of our land and town, Lord God, give us some tall individuals with their heads above the fog of selfish and material interests."

This month countless young men and women will receive the coveted "sheepskin" from the high school and college levels. We must have thousands who "Will Stand Tall".

The last shall be first and the tallest may be the shortest; the largest may be the smallest.

In our day those who would be great may be compared to torches shining and lifted high for long intervals to ride the advance of the world in all of its vast progress, problems and being.

Great men and women light up their day by making discoveries in the realm of the unexpected. In the past this has opened doors to new horizons such as: discovering new truth which now is solid fact; rekindling the flame of already established truth which is burning at a low ebb; reaching out to find that God has put many wonderful blessings in the universe — to which, after 2000 years man is just now awakening. From the young men and women of this day we must have those willing to make discoveries in the realm of the unexpected.

I had come to my desk a few years ago a letter from a large national industrial company asking that I recommend some young "screwballs" for employment.

Farmers Union Picks Lubbock For Convention

The board of directors of the Texas Farmers Union, assembling at Abilene for the spring Board meeting, set the dates for the 1963 state convention and the convention city. The time set was December 6 and 7, and Lubbock was designated as the convention city, according to Leon Smith, Jr., Parmer County Farmers Union president.

The greatest membership strength of this general farm organization is located on the south and north plains, but this will be the first time in its sixty-one year history that the state convention has been held in Lubbock.

State President Jay Naman, commenting on the Board's decision said:

"Lubbock is recognized as the hub of some of the richest agriculture in America, and it is only fitting that our organization, composed of commercial farmers who depend on farming for a living, meet in this fabulous region to see it and enjoy its typical western hospitality."

"This is the heartland of our membership, and the selection of Lubbock should insure a large attendance at the greatest convention yet."

This company wanted some young people willing "to stand tall; willing to dare the future; willing to stand on their own two feet; willing to be pioneers in the modern day.

Conformity in behavior is a necessity in most cases; conformity in patterns of thought is a real danger. Unfortunately, people have come in our present day to mistake one for the other. There is a strong body of opinion which assumes that the conformist is the one who gets ahead.

Frankly speaking — the "squares of today will be the 'blockheads of tomorrow. Their lives will be lost in the fogs of life. Oh God, give us some youth willing, 'to stand tall. God is calling and the world is crying for tall men and women to step out and up; to stand above the fogs of today — toward a better tomorrow.
