'Country Music Alive And Well'

By VANDA KING
Editor

Last Friday night my family and I attended the benefit concert for Brad Busby at the Taylor County Coliseum. We were entertained by Dawnett Faucett, an Abilenian, prior to the appearance of George Jones.

We were beginning to wonder if he was going to pull one of his famous "no shows," but he did arrive. The first song he performed was "No Show Jones," which rallied the large crowd.

There were some problems with the sound system which were disappointing. Dawnett was so loud that you couldn't understand the words, and George did not have enough volume to hear him clearly. The funds raised to assist the young man with cancer was a worthy cause, however.

Several weeks ago we attended the Hank Thompson Concert to benefit the Abilene Police Association at the Civic Center and enjoyed some of the oldies of country music. He was inducted in the Country Music Hall of Fame recently.

The Cottonwood Musical has some area talent which is quite impressive. Dad Blutworth's fiddling can't be beat, and the little boys band, "Country Express," which Carl Whiteley has organized, is not only cute but talented. These are just a few entertainers who perform at many musicals in the area including Putnam, Scranton, Echo, Oplin, Cisco and the list goes on and on.

There are many musically inclined residents here in Cross Plains who actively participate in the musicals. I was just wondering why Cross Plains doesn't have a musical? We have several sites that would be large enough to accommodate a crowd.

No alcoholic beverages are allowed, and everyone just enjoys the down home music and has a good time.

New Band Director Announced

Bill Strickler, age 34, has been named band director for Cross Plains School by the board of trustees. A 1980 graduate of Howard Payne University, he has instructed band for grades four through twelve plus elementary music at Jayton for the past two years.

He has compiled an impressive record at Jayton, including second place at the Texas Tech Music Festival in 1988-89; first division District Marching Contest and advanced to Regional 1988-89; first UIL Concert and second Sight-Reading and Sweepstakes with the Jayton Junior High Band Festival 1988-89; second place South Plain Fair Parade, first place Clondike Marching Festival, and first Division UIL Marching Contest 1989-90.

As an assistant band director at Plains, the high school band received second place at the State Marching Contest.

Strickler will be replacing Randy Taylor, who will be band director at Clyde C.I.S.D. Taylor is no stranger to the Clyde music program, having taught there from 1980-83. He has conducted a successful band program at Cross Plains since 1987.

Mr. Strickler is married and has three children elementary and junior high ages. His wife, Debbie, will be teaching math at Cross Plains I.S.D.

Band students were introduced to Mr. Strickler prior to the dismissal of school and reported anticipating greater achievements for the band ahead.

WHERE IS THE FRONT PORCH? — These three look comfy as they rock for the Children's Telethon. Alton

LET'S ROCK — Rockers in the CMNT Rock-A-Thon came prepared with pillows, blankets and the conveniences to last the night.

CMNT Rock-A-Thon Nets $4,034.35

By Vanda King
Editor

The 1990 4th Annual Children's Miracle Network Telethon Rock-A-Thon started off Saturday with Children's Play Time, consisting of lots of races for various age groups. More participation is hoped for next year, as this section is completely free to the children and medals are presented to the winners.

Tae-Kwon-Do exhibitions followed, and the skills displayed were impressive.

Around 6 p.m. the winners of the Miss CMNT contest held in April were presented.

Ophelia Merrill, manager for the Cross Plains Dairy Queen, announced each rocker's name and the amount of donations they had collected. This year 29 volunteers participated in the rock-a-thon. Rocking chairs of every description were lined up as everyone was ready to start rocking for the children.

Excellent entertainment was provided by the Jamie Dee Dancers of Ranger. Tiny tots to teens performed tap, jazz, country and twirling routines. A couple of little cuties stole the show with a tap routine to the Dolly Parton song "Why Did You Come in Here Lookin Like That."

A barber shop quartet from Abilene performed some great sounding harmonizing which the audience enjoyed.

Kelly and Cindy Kendrick's band, "Blue Highway," was a real hit, performing country music plus some songs they had written themselves. The talented couple's band won the KEAN Shoot-Out Contest earlier this year in Abilene. They were popular with the crowd, and it is for sure we will be hearing more from this band.

Auctions of afghans, stuffed bunny rabbits, cakes, etc. were held during the program. Joe Holland was the winner of the Southwestern art shirt painted by Kim Merrill.

Merrill and her supervisor, Garland Cunningham, were also special guests on the CMNT Telethon at Meeks Children's Hospital Sunday where they presented the chick for the benefit on behalf of Richeson's Dairy Queens.

Cody Winfrey of Cross Plains was chosen this year as the Miracle Child and well represented our area in the fundraiser. Cody's story and the interviews with his parents, Tony and Paula Winfrey, were touching. Honoring Cody as a Miracle Child was very appropriate considering the courage he has displayed concerning his illness.

All the segments with the miracle children and their parents were interesting and brought back memories at Hendrick Medical Center with my children. Like all the other parents voiced, the care and personal concern of doctors and nurses was always present.

I was impressed that the parents gave God the credit for the healing and knowledge available to the doctors. They also stated that they survived the stress through faith.

CMNT continues to grow each year and its success stems from attitudes of Christian love and faith that clearly shines through as every attempt to assist children with health problems are met.

Change The World Youth Musical

Change the World Youth Musical will be presented by the Wilshire Park Baptist Church of Midland. A drama presentation of Carmen's "The Champion" will be featured at the First Baptist Church in Cross Plains.

The performance is slated for Sunday, June 10, at 7 p.m. under the direction of Jerry Lewis. Lewis is a former resident of the city and the son of Betty Lewis.

A youth fellowship will follow. All local and area youth are invited to attend.

Cross Plains Baptists Plan 100th Birthday Celebration

Members of the First Baptist Church of Cross Plains are completing plans and readying facilities for a two-day celebration of the congregation's 100th birthday, June 16 and 17.

The centennial observance will begin early Saturday evening, the 16th, with a sandwich and ice cream supper in Fellowship Hall and will be followed with an informal service, featuring the singing of old time hymns, reminisces by former pastors and members, and the viewing of pictures, Bibles and artifacts of the long ago.

Sunday's program will include an abbreviated Sunday School beginning at 9:30 a.m. The centennial service is slated to start at 10 o'clock. Plans are to introduce all former pastors, as well as music and youth directors in attendance. History of the church, beginning with its founding by 18 early-day Christians the second Sunday in June 1890 until the present will be told. Names of the 32 pastors will be recalled, from the first meeting in a one-room schoolhouse near the banks of Turkey Creek to the 100th anniversary date. Growth of the church will be highlighted to its present membership

Fund Started To Buy 'Life-Saving' Device

By JACK SCOTT

Cross Plains people know that Rolan Jones has been one of the prime movers in building for this little city one of the finest volunteer Emergency Medical Service teams in this section of the state. They are also aware that he has served as an instructor in area colleges where EMS skills are taught to others who will staff the emergency vehicles in their individual communities.

Cognizant of his expertise, fellow-townsmen listened carefully when Jones recently declared that Cross Plains urgently needs a Pulse-Oxymeter — an instrument carried in ambulances which can immediately monitor vital signs of a patient being rushed to a hospital. He explained it could be life-saving by quickly alerting emergency personnel to actions they should be taking and the date they should transmit to the emergency room toward which they are speeding.

The equipment can presently be purchased for $2,500.

Friends of E.M.S. who appreciate the volunteers who staff the organization, rendering a needed service which Cross Plains would not otherwise have, are launching a drive to purchase the equipment which Jones declares is urgently required. The campaign was kicked-off with gifts of $100 each from W.G. McCoy, Rosalea Bonner and Jack Scott. It is hoped that others will immediately rally to this cause and give the money necessary to secure this equipment. Gifts from $1 upward will be welcomed and acknowledged through the columns of this newspaper. Contributions may be handed to Susan McNeel, who is serving as treasurer, or mailed to the Cross Plains Review, or left with Terry Jane Wyatt at the Citizens State Bank. It is hoped that the drive can be quickly finalized.

In addition to Jones, names of the local persons who staff E.M.S. vehicles here are: Polly Beeler, Diane Bowden, Patti Bowden, Sherry Bowden, Charles Chesshir, Don Childers, Ernest Cortez, Donnie Dillard, Michael Hale, Joe Holland, Alvin Hutchins, Gay James, Sandra Jones, Lucille Koenig, James and Wilma Lawrence, Mike McClure, Joyce McCoy, Ted and Sandra McKeehan, Jackie Ulrich, Tom and Mary Dunn, Guy Evans and Betty Lewis. All of these people have successfully completed college-level courses, equipping themselves with the necessary skills for emergency situations. They serve without pay of any kind and maintain around-the-clock service. They may be reached by telephoning 725-6666.

of over 600, with an average Sunday School attendance of around 300 and an annual budget of $150,000.

A number of former pastors have indicated their desire to be present, however, it was not known definitely yesterday how many would actually be able to attend. The Rev. V.D. Walters, pastor of the Alamo Heights Baptist Church in San Antonio, who served here from 1956 to 1960, will deliver the centennial sermon. It was during his pastorate that the present sanctuary and most of the building was constructed.

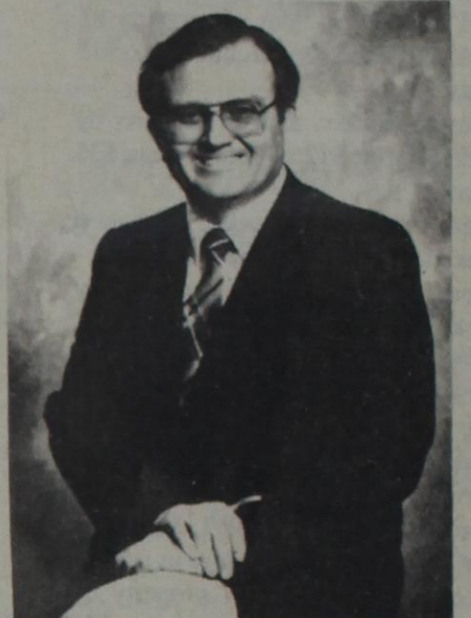

A highlight of the day will be the serving of luncheon at noon. Arrangements are being made to accommodate 500 people.

Final service of the centennial celebration will begin immediately after the noon meal. Other former pastors and church leaders will be featured at that time. Special music numbers, carrying out an old time religion theme, have been arranged and are expected to be genuinely enjoyed. Plans are to close the observance by mid-afternoon with the organist playing "melodies of departure" as the crowd disperses.

There will be no services at the church that night.

The Rev. Michael Hale, who is in his fourth year as pastor here, said yesterday, "Everything points to one of the greatest days in local Baptist history." He reminded that all former members of the church are being urged "to come home for the day."

In preparation for the centennial celebration, facade of the church building has been given an impressive remodeling, new carpeting has been laid throughout the sanctuary and Sunday School rooms have been refurbished. New, stained glass windows will be in place by time of the 100th birthday.

Members of the historical committee who have been working for more than two months on the upcoming event include: Mrs. Nathan Foster, Mrs. J.D. Goble, Mrs. Alvin Hutchins, Mrs. W.J. McCoy, Mrs. Margaret Ann McNeel, Hadden Payne, Jack Scott and Pastor Hale, ex-officio.

Church staff personnel who are likewise involved in centennial plans and arrangements include: Mrs. Glen Payne, Mrs. Bob Harrell and Charlie Bird.

TDA helping feds in 'circle of poison' inquiry

(AUSTIN)—"What goes around comes around, and when we're talking about pesticides produced in our backyard and sold overseas at the same time they're banned for use in this country, we're talking about possibly serious consequences not only for our neighbors, but for ourselves," Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said here, announcing that the Texas Department of Agriculture has aided a federal investigation of a company charged with illegally exporting pesticides banned in the United States.

"The so-called 'circle of poisons' must stop. Current federal law doesn't prohibit export of chemicals banned in our country, but enough restrictions apply to these products that we can make sure they are clearly labeled as dangerous materials."

"We hope these investigations, in which TDA will continue to cooperate, will send a clear signal to United States pesticide manufacturers that what isn't good enough for our citizens isn't good enough for world citizens either," Hightower said.

The Environmental Protection Agency has filed complaints and is seeking penalties totaling $614,800 against five companies for allegedly unlawfully exporting pesticides.

TDA pesticide specialist Russell Cullum worked with EPA enforcement staff in preparing their case against Exxon Chemical Americas Inc. The Houston-based company is charged with seven counts of exporting pesticides without proper labels and was assessed a penalty of $19,600.

"Because of the concerns about the safe use of pesticides both internationally and in the United States, EPA will take increasingly stringent enforcement actions against violations of the pesticide enforcement regulations," said Linda Fisher, EPA's assistant administrator for pesticides and toxic substances.

Under federal pesticide laws, pesticides that are not registered for use in the United States but are manufactured for export are required to have labels with statements including information such as ingredients, skull and crossbones for highly toxic products, information to use in case of poisoning, warning and caution statements and the statement, "Not registered for use in the United States of America."

"When it comes to pesticides, out of sight is not out of mind, nor is it out of our stomachs," Hightower said.

"These pesticides are exported, but they come back across our borders on imported foods, thus the 'circle of poisons.' We must not allow these U.S. companies to take advantage of countries with pesticide laws that are less stringent than our own, and we must continue rigorous enforcement of our laws to make sure that restricting or banning a dangerous pesticide in the United States doesn't simply transfer the danger to someone else," Hightower said.

You and Your Car
Tips from the Mobil Auto Tech Group

Saving on Gasoline
You pay more than Grandpa did for everything from gasoline to broccoli. It's pretty much the same broccoli it's always been. But today's gasoline is a high-tech brew doing more than just pushing your car.

Modern higher octane gasolines, like Mobil Super Unleaded Plus, inhibit power-robbing engine knock. And their powerful detergents can actually clean up fouled fuel injectors, according to Mobil research reported to engineering societies. Injectors improve engine efficiency by delivering fuel as a fine mist; but tiny deposits can disrupt the injector opening, which is as thin as a human hair.

Anyway, you have a promising fuel-saving device in your car—you yourself. Some things you can do: Look ahead, and try to avoid sudden stops and fast starts. Keep tire pressure up as recommended. On highways, drive steadily at legal limits; high speeds gulp fuel. Trim drag by keeping windows closed and using dashboard vents for fresh air. Avoid idling for more than a few minutes. Keep a manual transmission in the highest possible gear without straining your engine.

And fill your tank with a high-tech gasoline that contains a proper detergent to keep your fuel intake system clean and engine running efficiently.

Protecting Our Environment

Propane: Today's Solution To Clean Air

Here's news that may be a breath of fresh air to many who care about a cleaner America. Underlying our nation's concern with clean air, President Bush announced plans for the first sweeping revisions to the Clean Air Act since 1977. The president's plan is designed to curb three major threats to the nation's environment and to the health of millions of Americans: acid rain, urban air pollution and toxic air emissions.

Since one of the leading culprits in the clean air issue is vehicle emissions, government is looking at cleaner fuel alternatives. Propane, or LP-gas, is the most widely used alternative fuel in the United States and the world today.

Recently, propane received confirmation from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) of its standing as a clean air fuel, said Robert C. Mauch, president of the National Propane Gas Association (NPGA). This is all good news, particularly to the 101 U.S. cities not expected to meet Clean Air Act standards for 1990.

"Compared to the federal clean air standards, propane tested 73 percent better on total hydrocarbon emissions, and showed a 93 percent improvement in carbon monoxide emissions," said Mauch.

Propane is considered an ideal clean air fuel for fleets. Hundreds of fleets in the U.S. already use propane, such as the 270-vehicle truck fleet of the Los Angeles Times.

A propane-powered 1988 Ford Crown Victoria tested significantly below the federal standard in all categories—total hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions—recently at the EPA's Ann Arbor, Michigan labs.

According to the NPGA, propane is an ideal fleet fuel. It has been used as an engine fuel since 1913 with over two and a half million vehicles currently operating on propane worldwide. Further, there are now 25,000 locations in the United States alone where propane is available.

Many feel this is all encouraging because unlike some other alternative fuels, propane is ready to go now.

Dyess AFB Open House

DYESS AFB — Dyess opens its gates to the general public at 10 a.m., Saturday, June 23, for Big Country Appreciation Day.

This annual event is Dyess' opportunity to thank Big Country residents for their continuing support and friendship. It also affords everyone, both military and civilian, the chance to view some of the newest aircraft in the military inventory as well as see some of the oldest and most exciting planes ever flown.

A number of active duty aircraft are scheduled for display including the B-1B, AV-8B, C-5, F-14, F-15, F-16, F-18, P-3, OV-1, and F-111. Base officials have also announced that the Confederate Air Force will be in attendance with many of their vintage aircraft including the infamous B-17 Texas Raiders.

In addition to the large array of aircraft scheduled for static display, the open house will feature aerial performances by the B-1B, A-10, B-52, C-130, KC-135, RF-4, T-38 and the Desert Eagles Rappelling Team of Holloman AFB, New Mexico.

Other highlights of the day will feature the Confederate Air Force's "Toro, Toro, Toro," demonstration and air drops by the 463rd Tactical Airlift Wing's C-130s.

One of the unique presentations given during the day will be weapons loading demonstrations by the 96th Munitions Maintenance Squadron. Also, the 96th Security Police Squadron will give K-9 and M-60 demonstrations.

Base project officers promise it will be a full day, with concession booths, displays, exciting demonstrations and live bands.

For the safety and well being of pets, base officials ask that they be left at home as temperatures on the flightline in June are much too hot for their comfort.

Admission is free. Gates will close to oncoming traffic at 4 p.m.

The curlew can fly non-stop for more than 2,000 miles. Since most of the bird's flight is over water, he doesn't have much of a chance for a breather—especially since the curlew can't swim!

MINUTE MUSINGS

By ESTHLOY S. DICKSON

This first Monday morning in June is beautiful at this moment—I'm sure it is going to be quite warm later on. It is so still out there — not a leaf stirring.

I saw a longtime friend of ours at the store last week. Gregg Williams asked about C.V. Jr. They were classmates and friends for several years.

I talked to Karen one day just before they started their vacation. Her mother is with D.J. while the others are away. I hope they have a good, safe trip — they planned to visit the nation's Capitol on this trip.

I mentioned my pear trees last week. This week I discovered that I have plums, apricots and peaches galore this season — first time in a few years they have all escaped the late freeze.

While I was roaming around there, I noticed a huge bed of green 'ferny' looking vines out there. It's strange — in all the years I've been down here, that is the first time I've seen those vines. I always wonder: Where did they come from?

Well, I dialed three numbers with no one answering. I was beginning to think that my telephone was out of order, then I reached Helen Tillotson. She had no special news, but I always enjoy her cheerful voice.

I'm preparing for our monthly AARP meeting at 11 this morning. I hope we have a good attendance — we usually have splendid attendance.

I don't see my next door neighbors nearly often enough. They both work and I'm sure they keep pretty busy. They have had the prettiest bush in their front yard recently. It is covered solidly with little pink roses.

Birth Announcements

Rowden News

By MRS. N.V. GIBBS

Two nights this week, clouds with noisy thunder and lots of lightning passed over this area with very little rain, and rain is needed.

Roland Mauldin and Tony Steele had started combining. Roland on his place and Tony on the Chris West place, then the rain. They may be back in the fields this Saturday afternoon if last night's showers have dried off the grain.

Vernie Belle Mauldin visited in the Gibbs home Friday and reported the death of Shirley Smedley, wife of Clarence Smedley, former residents of this community. Shirley had been sick with cancer for some time. Her funeral was at the Baird Funeral Home with burial in the Admiral Cemetery. Our sympathy is extended to her family.

Vernie Belle also reported that a 16th great-grandchild had been born to them. Mr. and Mrs. David Mauldin of Conroe had a baby girl named Audrey Gay Mauldin and was born on the 21st of May.

David is the son of Carl and Mabel Mauldin of Rogers, Arkansas.

Some of our neighbors could not be reached by phone this morning, but they usually attend the Trades Day in Baird each year. From the Baird Callahan paper, big things were planned for this special day.

The Don Harrell family was in Dallas for the wedding of a close friend of Maryana last weekend. Today, Leigh answered the phone and her news was that school was out in Abilene and she was happy. She won awards for reading books in her class.

Meridith Odom was the only high school graduate from the community. This writer and grandchildren, Bill and Connie Steele, met up with Blain Odom while in Baird Monday. He said the family was making plans for her future schooling.

Ralph Trevey of Snyder visited Joyce Odom Monday enroute home from taking his son, David, to Howard Payne University in Brownwood. The band and singers were to leave on a trip. David is a member of the band.

Vernie Belle Mauldin has quilted a lot of quilts over the last few years but none as interesting as the friendship quilt that members of the First United Methodist Church in Abilene made as a farewell gift to their pastor, Rev. Charles Whittle and his wife last Saturday night at the Abilene Civic Center. A picture of the pastor and his wife was in the Abilene Reporter-News Saturday. This writer had the opportunity to see the quilt at Mrs. Mauldin's home recently. It has 234 squares, mostly done with fancy hand-work and family names, set in narrow blue strips with a large block containing a picture of a church and large enough for a breadspread. Vernie Belle was pleased that she was asked to quilt this beautiful work of art.

Women first competed in the modern Olympic Games in 1900.

50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY golden years of marriage.
— Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pope celebrating

Mr. And Mrs. Bill Pope Celebrating Golden Wedding Anniversary

Bill and Virginia Pope will be honored with a reception in observance of their 50th Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, June 17, 1990 from 2-5 p.m. at the Cross Plains Community Center, Beech and 9th Street.

Hosts will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Baylis Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pope, Mrs. Jan Baker, Dr. Donald Pope, Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Pope, and grandchildren.

Bill was born June 2, 1916 in Abilene. After graduating from Abilene High, he attended Abilene Christian College and received his B.S. degree in business. Following college he was employed by Radford Wholesale Grocery as an auditor.

Virginia was born in Coleman and raised in the Dressy Community. She attended Cross Plains Schools and graduated from Abilene High.

Bill and Virginia met in Abilene through mutual friends. They were married in Alpine, Texas, where Bill was working at the time. The ceremony was held in the Alpine Methodist Church on June 15, 1940.

In 1942 the couple moved to the Atwell community north of Cross Plains. There they raised six boys, cattle, and registered Rambouillet sheep. Bill and Virginia are still actively ranching at their place in the Atwell community. They are members of the Cornerstone Methodist Church in Cross Plains.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend this special occasion. Your presence will be their most precious gift.

National Agriculture Survey Started June 1

AUSTIN — Although some of us may have trouble getting from "here" to "there", Evelyn Hare of DeLeon has no problem finding her way as she travels the back country roads with only a stock tank or windmill as a landmark. In fact, the less travelled highways and byways of Texas provide many of the short cuts Hare needs as part of her job as a field enumerator with the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service.

Beginning June 1, Hare once again filled up the gas tank and logged many miles, as she began interviewing farmers and ranchers in Callahan County for a national agricultural survey. 1990 may be the year to count people, but Hare is going to be busy counting livestock and collecting data on crop acres.

Information gathered on this confidential survey will be used to make state and national estimates of crop acres, livestock inventories and grain stocks, information that is vitally important to the producers in Callahan County, Hare noted.

"These estimates are a working tool farmers and ranchers can use in their production, marketing and investment decisions and are the only unbiased information source available," state statistician Dennis Findley reported.

Survey information will be extremely important this year in measuring crop and livestock losses from the severe flooding across north and east Texas.

Field enumerators provide a basic link in the data collection service of the Texas office, since they are the primary personal contact Texas producers have with the agency. Currently there are over 100 field enumerators working on farm and ranch surveys across the state.

Most of the enumerators have an agricultural background and are familiar with the many day-to-day problems facing Texas producers. "Like the farmers and ranchers they are interviewing, our enumerators also deal with low prices and severe weather conditions at harvest and mother cows that wait until 3 a.m. to calve," Findley added.

The June Agricultural Survey is the largest of a series of surveys conducted throughout the year by the Texas office. The random sample of producers selected for this survey represent a broad cross-section of Texas agriculture, and producers selected for this survey represent other operators of similar size and type.

"Our field enumerators will be putting in some long hours during the next two weeks," Findley reported, "but their hard work is the only way to provide Texas producers with accurate, reliable agricultural information."

Clean Air Barbecues

Families who love the taste of grilled foods but don't want to add pollutants to the atmosphere are starting to barbecue with propane gas grills.

The least polluting barbecues are those fueled by natural gas or propane.

The South Coast Air Quality Management District tests found that on a typical day, charcoal barbecues emit tons of pollutants, hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide into the atmosphere. The least polluting barbecues are those fueled by natural gas or propane.

In fact, a propane gas grill not only is kinder to the atmosphere, it costs less than electric and charcoal grilling. Propane gas grills provide versatile cooking and:

- Are ready in a hurry; only ten minutes "heat up" time.
- Stay hot throughout the cooking period, rather than having a burst of heat followed by cool-down.
- Offer controllable, convenient, flexible heat.

Using propane is environmentally safe and an energy efficient way to barbecue.

By IRMA MILLER

The Pioneer community received nine-tenths of an inch of rain recently, including up through Saturday afternoon. Jean Fore's brother, Paul Harlowe and wife Juanita, spent a week with Jean. Her sister, Vi Harlowe, came up from Marble Falls for the weekend. Juanita's brother, Billy Foster of Pecos, came and picked up Juanita and they attended a funeral for their aunt in Houston. This was their mother's sister. In Houston they spent the night with another brother, D.C. Foster and his wife, Mary. Juanita and Billy commented that Houston has grown so much they could hardly recognize it.

Jean and James Alexander's guests were a brand new baby and her mother from Oklahoma. The new mother is the daughter of Jo Cullars of Breckenridge, who visits with Jean and James now and then. This past week Jean and Lottie Sooter went on a drive through Bangs and Coleman country and went to a greenhouse. They observed an energetic storm and were glad to get back to peaceful pioneer.

Novilia and Cleo Barton's niece's husband, Johnny Bowman of Richardson, visited recently. Also, Novilia's sister, Merle T. Woods and her husband, Raymond of Baytown, spent two days. Recently, Cleo had a temporary surgery on his eye and will have laser surgery this month to keep from losing his eye.

Ruby McCowen was back to church at Pioneer Pentecostal Sunday from her trip to West Point and New York City, to witness the graduation of her grandson, James Horton. Since this was her first air flight, she was given two sets of wings for her lapel from different airlines. She says she was treated royally, and could think of nothing about her trip that was not "just perfect." She was impressed with the Hudson River, its size and extraordinary manner of never flooding so that grass grows right down to the water. The parks were beautiful with perfect grooming and lovely trees; Central Park was special. The subways were exciting and fun to ride. Being a bit decrepit in her ability to walk so she could take it all in, she was treated to a wheelchair ride all around, and the station wagon was permitted to display a "handicapped" sticker and to park in spots which were very convenient to her and the others. To cap it all, she had to wear a coat, it was so cold!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Some of the City Councilmen have been getting bogus telephone calls from people using fictitious names.

In one instance, cursing my teenager over the telephone about some matters he knew nothing about. I personally do not appreciate this, and have come to the conclusion that the caller must have severe back trouble. I haven't decided whether it is a lack of spine or maybe just a wide yellow stripe. I encourage whomever it is to call again or come by and instead of cursing children who have nothing to do with the matter, to speak directly to me MAN to MAN.

I am personally tired of street gossip and small but very loud special interest groups complaining on the street about things which they have no facts. I know this because there is only one place to get the facts and that is at the Council meetings, and since being back on the council "they" have not been there.

The fact is, they are against proceeding forward or any change for the better of the town if it does not directly benefit them. However, quoting from the Texas Municipal League Handbook for Councilmembers, we must determine the difference between bona fide community opinion and the vocal demands of special interest groups whose volume exceeds the level of their actual support in the community. Councilmembers concerned with representing the best interest of the total community will look beyond the intense drama of the moment. It's easy to assume that the citizens don't care how a problem is resolved unless they express themselves, but it's also easy to be misled by a few loud dissenters.

I once again invite my caller to a little one on one.

Respectfully,
Ted McKeenan

Appraisal Notices Mailed

The Central Appraisal District of Callahan County mailed property tax appraisal notices last week to over eight thousand property owners in the Clyde-Hamby ISD, according to Rod Lewallen, Chief Appraiser for the district. "The school district moved its appraisal work to the Callahan CAD effective January 1, 1990," Lewallen said, "and we want to provide every taxpayer the opportunity to review his or her value so that there are no surprises when the actual tax statements are mailed in October." The Chief Appraiser also wants to remind taxpayers that they must compare last year's school value as appraised by Taylor County Central Appraisal District to this year's Callahan County appraisal in order to get the whole picture. "We realize the notice itself is confusing to many taxpayers," Lewallen said. "That is why we strongly encourage folks to take the time to read them carefully, including the fine print."

Lewallen also stated that taxpayers may be able to avoid long, frustrating waiting lines by scheduling an appointment before making the trip to Baird. "This is approximately twice to three times the number of notices we usually are required to mail, so an appointment is probably a very good idea," Lewallen said. Lewallen encouraged taxpayers to concentrate on the valuation itself as the estimated taxes shown on the notice may be totally meaningless this year. "The situation with the Governor and the Legislature in Austin this summer regarding school finance has really created mass confusion as to which schools are going to get how much money from the state this next school year," the Chief Appraiser said. "It appears at this point that our elected leaders have abdicated their responsibilities to the courts and we have no idea at this point what we will be looking at to adopt budgets and set tax rates."

Lewallen reminded everyone that most problems with their valuations can be resolved without a formal hearing before the appraisal review board by meeting with an appraiser at the district. However, taxpayers should keep in mind that in order to preserve their right to a hearing with the ARB they must file their protests by June 29. "Problems with valuations must be resolved during the review process this summer," Lewallen said. "The taxpayer who waits until he gets his tax statement this October to complain will be sorely disappointed."

You can contact the appraisal district for an appointment at (915) 854-1165.

Weather Loans Available

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by adverse weather conditions are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Baird, FmHA County Supervisor Jack Phillips said today.

Callahan County is one of the nineteen in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from tornadoes, flooding and severe storms.

Phillips said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," Phillips said. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until January 1, 1991, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season," Phillips said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Baird is open from 9 a.m. to 12 noon each 2nd and 4th Wednesday.

The FmHA office in Eastland is open from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Liability Insurance: The Law of the Road

If you happen to be involved in an automobile accident in Texas today, your chances are one in four that the collision will involve an uninsured motorist. In some areas of the state, the likelihood is much higher, with approximately seven out of ten motorists driving without insurance.

Last year, there were more than 125,000 uninsured drivers involved in automobile accidents in Texas, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. This caused thousands of individuals and families great financial and emotional stress. Moreover, the high percentage of uninsured motorists contributed to higher overall insurance premiums for insured motorists, since it raises the amount that insured drivers pay for the uninsured motorists' coverage in their policies.

The situation was about the same in 1981, when the Legislature passed the Compulsory Auto Insurance/Financial Responsibility Law in Texas. Before the law was passed, 26 percent of Texas motorists were uninsured. In the initial months following the law's enactment, the percentage of uninsured motorists dropped significantly, with some areas of the state achieving 90 percent compliance. Eight years later, however, we're back to where we were before. Why? Partly because a lot of people are not aware of what the law is today, either because they are new residents of Texas, or because they are young and new to the system. In other cases, motorists may be unable to afford the coverage, may unknowingly let their insurance policies lapse, or may choose for a variety of reasons to disregard the law.

To call attention to this matter, the Office of Consumer Protection has launched a statewide campaign to raise public awareness of the automobile liability law in Texas. The summer-long campaign has received the backing of the editorial boards of several of the largest newspapers in Texas. In addition, Gov. Bill Clements and the mayors of 10 of the largest cities in the state issued proclamations in support of this effort. In the weeks and months ahead, you will be seeing a new television public service announcement featuring the campaign slogan, "Liability: the Law of the Road." A series of radio PSAs will also be a part of this educational effort.

As a driver in Texas, you are required by law to carry minimum liability insurance in the following amounts: $20,000 for the bodily injury or death of one person; $40,000 for the bodily injury or death of two or more individuals per occurrence; and $15,000 for damage to the property of others. A first violation of the law is punishable by a fine of $75 plus court costs, and subsequent violations are punishable by fines of $200 plus court costs, as well as the possible suspension of the driver's license.

We know that no compulsory law can guarantee 100 percent compliance. But several states have been successful at increasing compliance through close monitoring and/or tougher laws. In North Carolina, for example, strict monitoring of compliance has resulted in a consistent uninsured motorists rate of 3 percent, the lowest in the country. In Hawaii, uninsured drivers are facing stiff new penalties, although the jury is still out as to their long-term effects. The initial penalty in that state for driving without insurance is now $1,000, with subsequent offenses punishable by fines of at least $3,000.

Last year, several bills were introduced in the Texas Legislature making it tougher on uninsured motorists to disregard the law, but none were enacted into law. The adequacy of the Compulsory Auto Insurance/Financial Responsibility Law is something that legislators will likely grapple with in succeeding sessions. Regardless of what happens, however, the uninsured motorists' problem in Texas is bad enough that something must be done about the problem now, with the laws that we currently have in place.

For this reason, our educational campaign will target the responsible, law-abiding driver who is currently uninsured. As Public Counsel for insurance consumers in Texas, I ask for your support in this effort. If you know someone who is currently driving without insurance, please let them know that obtaining liability insurance is not only the socially responsible thing to do, but that in Texas, it's the law of the road.

Kay Doughty is Executive Director of the Office of Consumer Protection, an independent division of the State Board of Insurance.

FANCY THAT!

It may sound like it's made of whole cloth, but this story of some super cloth is true. A school maintenance worker was cutting wood when his chain saw slipped and hit his leg. He wasn't even cut. He was wearing chaps made of Du Pont KEVLAR® fiber. The cloth, which is five times as strong as steel, pound for pound, stopped the saw.

In fact, the saw had to be taken apart and the KEVLAR® fibers removed with a pliers to get it to run again. This light, strong, flexible and fire resistant fiber is also used to make military equipment, ropes, cables and bullet-resistant vests.

For information on where you can purchase chaps of Du Pont KEVLAR® call 1-800-4-KEVLAR.

HELP! MY SMOKING CO-WORKERS MAY BE KILLING ME... WHAT CAN I DO?

Dear Commissioner Nabers, I have been reading all the newspaper reports about the dangers to non-smokers in the workplace who are exposed on a regular basis to cigarette smoke from co-workers. While it has always bothered me a great deal, it now makes me furious and I am no longer willing to subject myself to the dangers. What are my rights?

M.C.A.,
Austin, Tx.

Dear M.C.A., You will be interested to know that the Environmental Protection Agency has begun drawing up a guide to workplace smoking restrictions and is working on an assessment of the risk to non-smokers exposed to cigarette smoke. Although the draft has not yet been made public, employers are beginning to reflect the pressure already being felt from recent studies on this problem. More and more non-smokers are demanding clean air work places and employers are complying.

The concern about passive smoking began escalating a few years ago when the U.S. Surgeon General concluded that passive smoking causes lung cancer, and the National Academy of Sciences said tobacco smoke could raise the risk of lung cancer 34 percent in non-smokers. As a result, employers throughout the nation began seeing a liability problem and began taking steps to accommodate non-smokers.

If your employer or supervisor is unaware of your feelings, you have an obligation to discuss the matter with that person. Then if no accommodation is attempted in your behalf you would probably have good cause to quit and draw unemployment benefits. However, most employers today are sensitive to the problem and will seek to accommodate such a request.

Dear Commissioner Nabers, I recently had a hearing with the TEC and an ex-employee who was attempting to draw benefits. I thought I presented my case credibly and really expected to get a quick decision back advising me that the claimant had been disqualified. Two weeks have passed with no word at all from TEC. What should I do? What is a reasonable amount of time to wait for a decision?

TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY

C.W.
Houston

Dear C.W., You should contact the State Office Appeals Department and inquire about the status of this claim. It is possible for a referee to delay as long as thirty days but that rarely happens unless the TEC has serious overload problems. One week is normally about the length of time it takes to get a decision back.

If you have any questions you want answered, please write Commissioner Nabers at: TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY, 614, TEC Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, Tx., 78778.

Property Tax Appraisal Protest and Appeal Procedures

A property owner may protest the appraised value of his property or any other action by the chief appraiser, the appraisal district, or the appraisal review board (ARB) that adversely affects the property owner. A property owner must file a written notice of protest with the ARB.

A notice is sufficient if:

1. it identifies the protesting property owner (including a person claiming an ownership interest);
2. it identifies the property that is the subject of the protest; and
3. it indicates dissatisfaction with some determination of the appraisal district.

A Notice of Protest form is available from the ARB or the State Property Tax Board.

Deadlines for Filing a Notice of Protest:

The usual deadline is midnight (if mailed and postmarked) on May 31.

If the appraisal notice was mailed to you on May 2 or later, or if your protest concerns change in use of land appraised as agricultural, open space, or timber land, the deadline is midnight of the 30th day after the appraisal notice was mailed to you.

If the protest concerns a change made by the ARB, the deadline is midnight of the 15th day after the notice was mailed to you.

If you received no notice, the deadline is midnight of the day before taxes become delinquent for the year (usually February 1 of the following year.)

If you have good cause for missing a deadline, the deadline is midnight of the day before the ARB approves the appraisal records. The ARB decides if you had good cause. Good cause is something beyond a person's control, such as a medical emergency.

Deadlines for Filing an Appeal of an Appraisal Review Board Order:

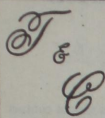

If you are dissatisfied with the ARB's decision, you may file suit in district court. You must file your petition with the district court no later than 45 days after you receive the ARB's final order.

If your property's appraised value is more than $1 million, you must also file a written notice of intent to appeal. File this with the chief appraiser no later than 15 days after you receive the ARB's final order.
