City to Have White-Way, Paved Streets, More Side Walks Soon

A Lost Fortune

In times past, many fortunes were buried—and some were lost. But today men invest their money or put in a bank for safekeeping. A "Checking Account" is safer and saner. Don't bury your money—or carry large sums on your person. Bank it.

CITY WILL HAVE WHITE-WAY SOON

Tuesday night, representatives of the West Texas Utilities Co. met with the City Council and presented plans for a white-way, and a plan was finally agreed upon, which will give the City eleven lights with 15 foot lamp posts, to be placed in the center of the streets. There will be nine on Main Street, one on Corner of St. and Avenue D, also Avenue E. and 8th. On Main street there will be two lights to the block. The present City lights will be placed where they are most needed on streets and alleys. The white-way will be installed before the street paving is done.

The West Texas Utilities furnish the White way system and install same, at their own cost, expecting the increased consumption of electric power to pay for interest on investment, depreciation and cost of maintenance.

Mr. Little, local manager says that work will start on the system as soon as materials are available.

SIDE WALK PROGRAM CONTINUES TO EXPAND

The sidewalk building program is going nicely and gaining momentum each week. A sidewalk as stated last week is being laid north to the new school grounds, and this week, property owners on South side of 8th street on east side of town are laying walks which will extend several blocks east of Main. The City will pave the street and alley intersections. Sidewalks have just recently been put down about the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, and many others have been building walks, covering blocks in several places and the good work goes on. Others are planning co-operative programs on other streets of the City.

A. C. DODSON BUYS PARTNERS INTEREST

Aubra C. Dodson has purchased the interest owned by A. W. Orrell in the This business was started here in October 1925, when Mr. Dodson purchased the business from Mr. B. P. Duncan and sold a one-third interest to Mr. Orrell. This purchase makes Mr. Dodson sole owner of the business and the name will be changed to Dodson Chevrolet Company. Mr. Orrell has not announced his plans for the future yet. He has resided here for many years. The Chevrolet Agency here has developed into one of the biggest business concerns in our city in the past year.

WILEY L. JONES

Wiley L. Jones, age 71 years, pioneer citizen, passed away at an early hour Monday morning. He had been ill for several weeks, but apparently was improving and it was thought that he might recover, but the end came suddenly and without warning, just after breakfast Monday.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon and the body was laid to rest in the local cemetery.

Deceased is survived by wife and six children, five sons and one daughter. They are: Martin, Diff, Wallace, Clyde Pete, and Mrs. Mable Bond.

Mr. Jones moved here from Williamson County about the year 1890, having resided here 37 years and during which time he prospered, and acquired a host of close personal friends who will join the Review in extending condolence to the grief stricken family.

Yes, school will soon be out and vacation time is near, and the question is, where will we go, and when. Many folks are asking themselves those questions.

A "lucky party" will be given in the basement of the Baptist Church tonight (Thursday). A benefit party.

OIL OPERATORS STILL QUIET HERE

Here, as well as elsewhere Oil Operators are still going slow, just waiting for better markets, but regardless of conditions there is considerable activity.

West of town in the new field, Brown & Co. have completed their Edwards No. 2 for small well and made location for No. 3. The Navarro Oil Company are spudding on their Bennett-Booth lease, on their well No. 2 Shaw & Rothke are drilling at 600 feet on their Miller No. 2, and at 900 on No. 4. Mook Texas Co. and Wakefield on Baum No. 1 drilling at 1420. The Murchinson Oil Company on McDermett wildcat drilled 1800 feet and failed to find pay. Harry Parker, et al, are drilling at 790 on McDermett wildcat. The Milham Oil Corporation on the Warren wildcat northwest of town, is drilling at 3325.

In the Cross Cut section several wells are drilling but no completions reported this week.

C. OF C. CONVENTION AT WICHITA FALLS

Elaborate preparations are being made at Wichita Falls for the big annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which convenes there on May 16 and 17.

The two outstanding features of the entertainment program is the Congress of Nations and the Court of Nations. In the Congress of Nations it is planned to have twenty cities and towns send their delegations representing different foreign nations, and dressed in costumes common to the country represented.

In the Court of Nations, sponsors from West Texas as well as New Mexico will be presented formally.

Many bands will be present. 100 Texas school bands are expected to enter contest for Championship honors. Plans are being made to accommodate 50,000 visitors, it is stated.

Some of the outstanding men of the Nation and state will be on the speaking program. It is not known yet just how strong Cross Plains will be represented at the Convention but a number will go from here.

PEOPLE ANXIOUS FOR STREET PAVING

Many people are anxious to know when the street paving will start, and a large number have inquired at the Review office for such information, but this office cannot state authoritatively and any attempt to set the date now would be premature; but it will likely be several weeks. The white-way must be installed first, that is, that part that goes under ground. The paving bonds have not been sold yet, but as the demand for the bonds is good, it is freely predicted that they will be sold soon. But there will be quite a lot of preliminary work before the paving is done, which requires some time. However it is understood that the City Council is anxious to start the paving and will not delay matters. Improvements of this kind just requires so much time and it is unavoidable. The Review will keep its readers posted as the project develops from stage to stage.

The paving bonds to be sold are a series of 30 one thousand dollar issues, bearing a six per cent interest rate. The tax required to meet these bonds will be approximately twenty cents on the one hundred dollar valuation, and the bonds are expected to bring a nice premium, as Cross Plains bonds usually do.

HIGGINBOTHAM'S BUY BIG AMBULANCE

Higginbotham Bros. & Co. have just purchased a big Henney combination ambulance and hearse in connection with their undertaking department. Such a machine has been needed here for some time, due to so many accidents, especially on the highways. And with this machine and a good hospital here accident victims may secure the best of attention.

BALL GAME REPORTS

The Cross Plains Tigers engaged the fast Cottonwood team in another game Sunday, and won by a narrow margin, the score being 9 to 10.

The High School team here went to Pioneer Wednesday and defeated the High School team there in a hard fought game. A lively contest was also staged by the Juniors at the school grounds here Wednesday—and 6 home runs were marked up. That's good hitting—or bad fielding.

And, standing with legs spread apart in the middle of the paved sidewalk, he read:

"And seeing that the resentment of the Six Nations is so deeply stirred by reason of the tabling of the law, we are resolved that the provincial government shall have authority to impose the duties upon trade goods for Canada as before. And his excellency the governor shall be required to file a complete report of the situation with such addenda, facts and statistics relative to amounts and totals of trade and fluctuations therein in the recent past as may be helpful to their lordships in reaching a final decision in this matter."

"There is more of the same tone as that I read. But I am selfishly occupied with my own interests, Ormerod. Here is a matter which more nearly concerneth yourself."

He produced a large rolled sheet of parchment, imposingly encrusted, across the top of which ran the legend:

"A FREE PARDON."

"'Twas bound to come," he rambled on. "Do you go within and show it to Mistress Ormerod."

But Marjory had been listening at the window, and as I opened the door she fell into my arms and clung there, sobbing for the relief that came to both of us with the lifting of the menace which had overhung my life so long.

"T'WAS BOUND TO COME," HE RAMBLED ON.

"I am so happy I know not what to do," protested Marjory, wiping her eyes. "But, oh, see who comes!"

We followed her pointing finger; and there, striding between the ordered house-fronts of Pearl street, exactly as I had seen him the first time we met, came Ta-wan-ne-ars, the eagle's feather slanting from his scalplock, the wolf's head of his clan insignia painted on his naked chest. His grave face was smiling. His right arm was raised in salute.

"Qua, Ga-en-gwa-ra-go! Qua, friends! Ta-wan-ne-ars greets you."

"Have you any further news?" questioned the governor, alert as always for tidings of his distant dominions.

"Only news of peace. The frontier is quiet. The Doom Trail is closed. The far tribes are traveling to Albany to offer their allegiance and friendship. The fur trade is once more under control of the English and the Long House."

"We have waited long for you to visit us, brother," I said. "Now that you have come we shall make you stay many moons."

His smile became sad. "It cannot be. Ta-wan-ne-ars comes to say good-by."

"Good-by?"

"Yes, brother. Have you forgotten the search for my Lost Soul?"

"But she is dead!"

"She is with Ata-ent-sic. Ta-wan-ne-ars seeks his Lost Soul. He has no fear. He will go through Da-ye-da-go-war, the Great Home of the Winds, where Ga-oh, the Wind Spirit, dwells. He will go through Ha-ni-ska-o-no-geh, the Dwelling Place of the Evil-Minded. He will go to the world's end if the Great Spirit will but guide his footsteps."

He would not step indoors for food, but insisted on walking back toward the Broad-Way with Master Burnett and me. At the Bowling Green we encountered Peter Corlaer.

"Ha, Peter," the governor hailed him. "Well met, indeed. What hath earned us this honor?"

"I heard Ta-wan-ne-ars was here," he panted. "I followed him down river from Fort Orange."

"What does Corlaer wish?" asked Ta-wan-ne-ars.

The big Dutchman stammered and gurgled with embarrassment. "I go with you," he gasped after much effort.

"I go to the Land of Lost Souls."

"Ja, that's all right," returned Corlaer. "I go with you."

The hard lines of the Seneca's stern face were softened by a rare glow of feeling.

"Ta-wan-ne-ars never doubted Corlaer, Ga-en-gwa-ra-go," he answered, squeezing Peter's hand in his. "He would not ask any to go with him because the peril is great. But he will be glad to have Peter by his side. We will take the first boat which leaves."

"One is sailing from der Whaler's Head wharf," suggested Peter.

"Good. Then we will say good-by here."

"No, no, we will accompany you to the wharf," said the governor. "Where are you from, Peter?"

"I was in der Shawnees' country when I heard Ta-wan-ne-ars was going upon a long journey alone. So I go to De-o-nun-da-ga-a, and from there to Fort Orange and here."

"Have you heard aught of Murray?"

"Nien, Murray is nefer spoken of. Der French would hafe none of him. They said he sailed from Quebec for der Hafana."

"So are the mighty fallen," mused the governor as we strolled along. "A few short months ago he was more powerful than I in the province. Today he is nobody."

We walked out upon the wharf where the sloop River Queenie lay with her moorings slack.

"Tumble aboard, my masters," shouted the captain. "There's a fair breeze and the tide is flowing."

"Good-by," said Ta-wan-ne-ars. "Ga-en-gwa-ra-go and O-te-i-ani will be always in the thoughts of Ta-wan-ne-ars."

"Good-by," mumbled Corlaer.

"Good-by for a while," retorted the governor. "We shall be ready to welcome you with rejoicing when you return with a brave tale to tell us."

"Good-by," I called, and my voice choked.

I raised my right arm in the Iroquois gesture of greeting and farewell. Ta-wan-ne-ars answered in kind, motionless as a bronze statue against the dirty gray expanse of the sail. The sloop dropped her moorings and glided out into the current.

In ten minutes Peter's face was a broad white blotch at the foot of the mast and Ta-wan-ne-ars was a darker blur beside him. They sailed on into the eye of the setting sun.

"'Tis the very spirit of this land, Ormerod," observed Master Burnett as we watched. "Having finished one adventure, they seek a fresh trial of their resource and daring. Ah, well, 'tis for you and me to take their precept and strive to sharpen our wits upon some homely adventures of our own. All of us may not seek the Land of Lost Souls, but each of us may find a worth-while task upon his doorstep."

[THE END.]

Value of Milk Known From Earliest Times

Cows were the first animals domesticated when cavemen forsook their clubs for rude plows to till the soil. In India the cow has been worshipped for centuries. Sacred cows have been maintained in temples and milk has had an important place in Hindu magic. Milk has been the subject of song and poetry since history began. Canaan, the promised land of Israel, was said to flow with milk and honey. Ovid, the Roman poet, gave milk second place only to nectar, the drink of the gods.

Milk for ages has been regarded as a cure for human ills. The ancients discovered it was a tremendous factor in building up and maintaining the body. This is because milk is an almost perfect food, combining nearly all the elements necessary for complete nourishment.

Modern science has produced evaporated milk which, experts say, is an improvement on the original. By removal of 60 per cent of the water, evaporated milk is rendered twice as rich in food value as ordinary market milk. The sterilizing process through which evaporated milk goes makes it easier of digestion than ordinary bottled milk. This is due to the fact that the milk curds are rendered more flocculent by the heat.

In Little Old New York

A Broadway trolley conductor had listened to a loud tirade against his refusal to stop at an odd-numbered street and was silent until the irate lady was well off his car at Fifty-second street, still scolding. Then he turned to the inside of the car, made a bow and called out clearly: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have the honor to announce that the next stop will be at Fiftieth street."—The New Yorker.

Community Building

Evergreens Have Wide Range of Usefulness

Every home grounds should contain some trees, either fruit or shade, unless the owner purposes a formal arrangement and will include evergreens as a part of the decorative scheme.

In any case, trees have a valuable place both as moisture conservers and usefulness as fruit bearers or for landscape effect.

There need be no attempt at formal arrangement if the latticework of a front or side porch is to be hidden, and a specimen tree to break the monotony of front or back lawn needs no expert to place it properly.

Evergreens have such a wide range of usefulness, they are so seldom attacked by disease or pests and, if planted well and carefully, soon become established and live indefinitely. Some of the ornamental firs and spruces can be shaped, if necessary, to some extent, but an natural their beauty is pronounced.

When evergreens are once established, a little good, bone meal and a small quantity of nitrate of soda, worked into the surface of the ground around them, will increase speed of growth if growth is desired. Moderately rich soil at time of planting will not produce excessive growth. A good garden soil put into the hole dug for each evergreen should carry along growth at a fair rate for four or five years. If at the end of that time additional growth is wanted, food must be supplied. Cultivation need be slight; a gentle raking of the surface is about all that is required after the first year. After planting it is best to stir the ground only on the surface, and frequently, to prevent escape of moisture, particularly in dry weather.

Character of People Shown by City's Looks

As a man's face indicates his faults and virtues, so the spirit of a city is to be seen in its physical appearance, William Estep, psychologist, declared in an address to members of the Detroit Civic Spirit society.

"The character of a city's people is reflected in the city they have builded for themselves," he said. "If it is marked by cleanliness, order, and evidences a desire for constant improvement, then we know immediately that the city is a good investment, whether we wish to invest in its future by building a home, founding a business, or buying real estate."

"That is simple and quite useful psychology awaiting the consideration of the man with money and ambition," Estep went on. "Also it would be well for public-spirited organizations to remember its truth in their campaigns to boom their home city. All the floods of publicity and advertising will not wield so influential an appeal as the mute testimony that a city's streets and homes and buildings will present."

Beautify Rights of Way

Railroads anywhere can with profit emulate the example of the Pennsylvania system in planting trees along its right of way in New Jersey approaching the entrance to the Hudson tunnels. Some of the roads, as well as the interurban electric lines, are spending considerable sums beautifying their rights of way and their stations, particularly in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts, and the investment seems more than justified from the comment of patrons, who are thus provided with another reason to bolster up the "home town pride." But it is not only to the road and to the home town that the credit is reflected, but to the stranger within the gates who is more and more made aware that "soulless corporations" do not exist.—Christian Science Monitor.

For Beautiful Highways

The more beautiful a highway is, the greater will be its attraction for tourists, all other factors being equal, or nearly so. It should be the desire of every one who is not a hopeless materialist to prevent the erection of unattractive buildings at bridge-heads and elsewhere, and of objectionable signs. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," sayeth the poet. A road that is simply a road and nothing more may put dollars into the pockets of many people, but it will put nothing whatever into their souls.

Home Affects Person

People reflect their environment. Those who live in shabby, down-at-the-heel houses are likely to feel depressed and discouraged. We borrow much of our confidence and spirit from our surroundings. If they have nothing to give—no hope or confidence, no pride in home or joy in living—then they become a liability of such proportions that only the most Herculean strength can resist them.

Color for the Home

The selection of an exterior color scheme requires sober thought. A good rule to follow is good taste, which is always a safer standard than a mere fad. It outlasts any passing fancy and is never freakish. Good taste rests on simplicity by the use of paint of one color for the body and a darker or a lighter shade of the same color, or white, for the trim.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1927 Western Newspaper Union.)

We have no intellectual right to be ignorant when information lies at our hand, and we have no spiritual right to be weary when great moral issues are at stake.—Agnes Repplier.

EVERYDAY FOODS

The banana is an everyday food, or can be, for it is always on the market. Now that they are sold by the pound, one gets what is paid for.

This fruit is so well liked that it is a favorite with most people. It is not a favorite only because of its delicate flavor, but excels many fruits in food value.

A simple little dessert which can be quickly prepared is made from two or three bananas put through a ricer adding a dash of lemon juice and a little sugar, not too much, or the dessert will be cloying. Stir in whipped cream and have all well chilled. Serve with cookies.

Mixed Fruit Salad.—Use one-half cupful each of shredded pineapple, chopped nuts, orange pulp, grape fruit pulp, halved maraschino cherries, and one and one-half cupfuls of diced bananas. Serve with any desired dressing.

Butterfly Salad.—Arrange slices of pineapple cut into halves on head lettuce, the curved side toward the center, leaving a space between in which to put the body of the butterfly—the pineapple slices are the wings. Make a head of a green grape peeled, the feelers of finely cut green pepper. Decorate the wings with slices of stuffed olives and pass the dressing when serving.

Marquise Cake.—Cream one-fourth cupful of butter, add three-fourths of a cupful of powdered sugar, two eggs, two bananas, one cupful of flour and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cream the butter with the sugar, add the beaten eggs, then the mashed pulp of the bananas and then the flour sifted with the baking powder. Mix well and spread in three layer tins, leaving the dough thinner in the center. Bake twenty minutes.

Banana Croustades.—Cut stale sponge cake into two-inch cubes, hollow out to form a box, butter and brown lightly in the oven. Fill with the following: Cook one-third cupful of seedless raisins in orange juice until tender. Other fruit juice may be used; cut four bananas into cubes and add to the cooked raisins with half a cupful of sugar. Cover and cook until thoroughly hot, shaking the dish to keep the contents from scorching. Fill the croustades with the fruit and pour the sirup over the whole. Serve hot.

A Symphony of Soups. On a chilly night in any season of the year a dish of hot soup is much enjoyed. If the meal to follow is a substantial one, the soup should be light and merely stimulating, with but little nourishment. If the meal is a light one, the soup provided should be a cream soup, bisque or a chowder.

Mushroom Soup.—Cut into dice one and one-half cupfuls of fresh mushrooms. Stew until tender in a cupful of beef stock, then add a quart of beef stock, thicken with a tablespoonful of flour rubbed smooth with a tablespoonful of butter. Season with salt, pepper and minced parsley.

Chicken Soup.—Crush the bones of a chicken left from a roast, add any leftover bits of meat, a stalk or two of celery finely cut, a pinch of poultry seasoning, salt and pepper, cover with cold water and bring to the simmering point. Simmer for several hours, strain and season to taste. Thicken with butter and flour cooked together and serve with a little cream added at the last or a well-beaten egg stirred in just before serving.

Soup à la Clermont.—Take the upper crust of a loaf of French bread, cut into small pieces, remove the crumbs and put into a bowl with two cupfuls of seasoned stock. Place in a moderate oven for half an hour. Slice four large onions, fry brown in two tablespoonfuls of butter, drain and boil for twenty minutes in beef stock to cover for twenty minutes. Add the onions and the bread to two quarts of hot beef stock. Pour into a tureen, and serve with grated cheese.

Liver Soup.—Take one-half pound of cold cooked liver; grind it. Fry one large onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter, then add the liver. Add a cupful of sifted bread crumbs, season well with salt and pepper and add six cupfuls of soup stock. Boil fifteen minutes, press through a colander and thicken with one egg, just before serving.

Bean Soup.—Put into a soup kettle two cupfuls of baked beans, two cupfuls of canned tomatoes, an onion chopped fine and six cupfuls of cold water. Simmer until the beans are soft enough to rub through a sieve, reheat, season and serve.

Combination Soup.—Put into a soup kettle a ham bone, a beef bone, and a pod of red pepper with two cupfuls of split peas. Cover with cold water and simmer until the peas are soft. Remove the bones, season and serve.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER
COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION.

MAKING A NEWSPAPER

One of the things that Douglas said he always wanted to see was the inside of a newspaper office. He had seen the bulletin boards, and, of course, had seen newspapers.

News Copied Down.

There were stories and pictures that always interested the children. So, one day they started off for one of the big city newspaper offices, or plants, as the children heard it called. When Uncle John told the head printer, whom we knew well, that Douglas and Dorothy had always lived in the country and that one of their chief reasons in coming to the city had been for adventures, the printer said he would be delighted to show them about.

"For there is nothing in the world quite like a newspaper shop, to my mind," he said.

But first of all the children saw the stories being written, and pictures drawn and news copied down which was heard over the telephone.

Then they saw the many columns of news and advertisements copied on a machine called the linotype, because it made one line of type at a time.

Next, everything was put into metal cases, then mats were laid over, and the news was upon the mats. These were put into a great machine which looked like a fiery oven and felt hotter than anything Douglas and Dorothy had ever known in their lives.

"It's 700 degrees hot," said the printer, "and we all think 100 is mighty warm. But—now feel the metal."

For bright, shiny metal was seen in place of the mats.

Douglas and Dorothy hardly dared feel, even though they had just seen water poured out over the metal forms.

But Douglas was very brave, and how he did laugh when he felt!

"It's as cool as cool can be," he said. After all, they both realized that the printer would hardly have had them take hold of something which would have burned them or which would have been very uncomfortably hot!

Then the great metal sheets were put on enormous presses, which started moving, quickly, and then more quickly.

As the metal went around and around over the plain white paper, countless printed newspapers came out at one end of the machine. But something of a sudden, was tearing! What could it be? The machines all stopped in a twinkling.

"They were thirsty," said Dorothy. "They wanted more of that oil they were being given to drink, or more of that queer black ink underneath!"

"No," said the printer, as the machines began their deafening noise again, "there was something wrong with the paper, and the stories and pictures and news must have the paper behave itself, or the printing press will object!"

They watched until the newspapers were all out—printed, folded and ready for the boys who took them out to wagons—to be driven to different parts of the city where they would be sold.

"Never have I seen anything which worked so quickly and so wonderfully as the making of a newspaper," Dorothy said afterward.

But Douglas was thinking hard. After a time he spoke.

"Uncle John," he said, "I think when I grow up I'd like to be on a newspaper—in some way or other. I don't quite know what I'd like to do exactly, but I do think there is something quite—well, quite splendid about a newspaper and everything that has to do with it."

Practical Accomplishment

A pacifistic gentleman stopped to try to settle a juvenile row.

"My boy," he said to one of the combatants, "do you know what the Good Book says about fighting?"

"Aw," snorted the youth, "fightin' ain't one of them things you kin get out of a book, mister."

Modernism

"You need a good spanking," snapped the visiting old maid aunt. "O, in our home," replied the modern kid, airily, "we never get what we need, we only get the things we want and can't afford."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE SPIRIT OF JEAN LAFITTE

The spirit of 1817 stalks abroad in the land again! The spirit of Jean LaFitte, the bronze and bearded buccaneer whose nefarious enterprises have been exploited for more than a century, returns after a lapse of years. Lately reports have been circulated that bearded strangers have appeared in the places where LaFitte's treasures are said to have been buried, and have begun excavations in search for the buried wealth. These strangers have visited Galveston Island, it is said and left mysterious holes in the ground near the spot of LaFitte's old Fort and "Red House". While living in Galveston Island, LaFitte built the Red House and the Fort as a rendezvous for himself and his piratical crew.

There is romance and adventure in the story of "The Spirit of Jean LaFitte." read it in this weeks issue of the Review.

PIONEER MOTHERS HELPED IN WINNING OF THE WEST

Mothers' Day this year has special significance because of plans that are under way to honor those heroic women who helped win the West—the Pioneer women of America. Memorials are to be erected to their honor in two different places—on the "last frontier," the famous Cherokee strip in Oklahoma, and in Kansas City, from which, in the old days the emigrant trains set out over two historic highways, the Oregon Trail and the Santa Fe trail.

If you would know something of the trails which our Pioneer Mothers endured when the west was young and how bravely they met them, don't fail to read the article "Women Who Helped Win the West", by Elmo Scott Watson, Special writer for the Western Newspaper Union, in this weeks issue of the Review.

MILES and More MILES

BEFORE your next week-end trip, fill your tank with Summer Conoco Gasoline. Then keep tab on your mileage. When you arrive back home, figure up your miles per gallon. That's the way to check our claims that Summer Conoco is packed with extra miles.

This summer make your gasoline deliver—make it deliver miles. And we promise you this: that—provided your car is in good condition—you'll never be disappointed when you use Conoco.

It pays to be particular when you buy gasoline. Careless motorists penalize themselves every time they allow inferior fuels in the tank.

Their cost per mile of motor operation is out of all proportion to what it should be. They are paying a premium simply because they never take the trouble to figure out the miles they get per gallon.

So play fair with your pocketbook. Use Conoco regularly and keep down your motoring costs.

Just look for the Conoco sign on service stations and garages.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
COUNTY OF CALLAHAN
TO THE SHERIFF OR ANY CONSTABLE OF CALLAHAN
COUNTY, GREETING:

You are hereby commanded to summon Myrtle Stitts and husband... Stitts by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Callahan County, to be holden at the Courthouse thereof in Baird, on the 1st Monday of June 1927 the same being the 6th day of June 1927, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the ... day of May, A. D. 1927, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. ... wherein J. L. Baum and A. D. Smith are Plaintiffs, and Myrtle Stitts and husband... Stitts, Bela Beatrice Johnson, Flora Fay Johnson, Dollie Dean Johnson, and Jasper J. Johnson are Defendants, said Petition alleging.

That Plaintiffs reside in Callahan County, Texas, that Myrtle Stitts and husband... Stitts are non-residents of the State of Texas, but reside in the State of California; that the initials of the husband of Myrtle Stitts are to the Plaintiffs unknown; that Plaintiffs sue the Defendants in trespass to try title for the title to and the possession of the following described land:

All that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situated in Callahan County, Texas, and being described as follows:

First Tract: The West 105 1-2 acres of Blk N. 96, a subdivision of Comal County School land, Sur. N. 181, said Blk. N. 96, described by metes and bounds as follows: Beginning at the N. E. Corner a stone set in the ground marked 96, from which a P. O. brs. N. 56 E 3 1-2 vrs and another brs. S. 60 E. 5 1-4 vrs. thence W. 990 vrs. to a stone marked 97; thence S. 1174 vrs. to a stone marked 84; thence E. 990 vrs to a stone marked 85; thence N. 1171 vrs. to the place of beginning, said Blk. No. 96, containing 205 1-2 acres and the part herein described containing 102 3-4 acres, more or less.

Second Tract: 25 acres out of Blk. No. 97, of Comal County School land No. 181, said 25 acres being described by metes and bounds as follows: Beginning at the N. E. Cor. a stone marked 97, being the N. W. Corner of Blk. No. 96, thence W. 120 1-2 vrs. thence S. 1174 vrs. thence E. 120 1-2 vrs. to a stone marked 84, from which a P. O. brs. S. 23 E. 12 1-2 vrs. and another brs. N. 78 E 16 3-4 vrs thence N. 1174 vrs. to the place of beginning containing 25 acres.

Plaintiffs also plead the statutes of limitation of five and ten years and further allege that the nature of Defendants claims to said land are to Plaintiffs unknown, but that said Defendants are asserting some kind of a title to, or claims against same, the character and extent of which Plaintiffs are unable definitely to state; that Defendants have no title to and no valid claims to said land, or any part thereof and have no right or interest therein or right to the possession thereof but are naked trespassers.

That Plaintiffs also sue to correct a Deed executed by Mrs Myrtle Stitts formerly Myrtle Bond in which the interest intended to have been conveyed therein was not fully set out, said Deed covering the land described above to J. L. Baum and being dated December 25 1910.

Plaintiffs pray judgement for the title to and possession of said tract and parcel of land, for a Writ of possession to same; also that all clouds cast upon Plaintiff's title to said land by reason of Defendants claims thereto be removed; that Plaintiffs be established, confirmed and quieted in their title to same for general relief and cost of suit.

Witness Mrs. Kate Hearn, Clerk of District Court, Callahan County, Texas. Given under my hand and seal of said Court at my office in Baird, Texas this the 3rd day of May A. D. 1927.

Proposing an amendment of Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1: That Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 2 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and 8 Associate Justices five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five judges shall be necessary to the decision of a case. No person shall be eligible to the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election or appointment a citizen of the United States and of this State, and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years and shall have been a licensed lawyer for seven years and, during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a court of record, or such practicing lawyer and Judge together. Said Chief Justice and Associate Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their office six years, or until their successors are elected and qualify, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. In case of a vacancy in the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, the Governor shall fill the vacancy until the next general election for State officers, and at such general election the vacancy for the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the qualified voters of the State. The Judges of the Supreme Court who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and until their successors are elected and qualify. When this amendment takes effect the Governor shall immediately appoint six additional Associate Justices of the Supreme Court for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointed Associate Justices shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Supreme Court, and, upon the qualification of such new Justices, the Commission of Appeals of the State of Texas shall terminate.

Section 3 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the state. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Court of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several Courts of Civil Appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising in such other cases in which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a statute of the State has been declared void. The Supreme Court and the Judges thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus as may be prescribed by law; and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the law, the said Court and the Judges thereof may issue the writs of mandamus procedendo certiorari and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue the writs of quo warranto and mandamus in such cases as may be specified except as against the Governor of the state. The Supreme Court shall also have power, upon affidavit, or otherwise, as by the Court may be determined, to ascertain such facts as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capital for transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the Court. The present statutes defining the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court not in conflict herewith shall continue in effect until repealed or altered by the Legislature. The Supreme Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law and he may hold his office for four years and shall be subject to removal by said court for good cause entered of records on the minutes of said court, and who shall receive such compensation as the Legislature may provide.

Section 4 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall consist of three Judges, provided that the Legislature may increase the number to five, and a majority of the Judges shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of a majority of the Judges shall be necessary to the decision of any case. Said Judges shall have the same qualifications and receive the same salaries as the Judges of the Supreme Court. They shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices for a term of six years. The Judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and laws.

Section 5 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of the State in all criminal cases of whatever grade, with such exceptions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, and the Legislature may confer original jurisdiction upon it to issue writs of mandamus procedendo and certiorari in criminal cases. The Court of Criminal Appeals and the Judges thereof shall have the power to issue the writ of habeas corpus and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the law, issue such writs as may be necessary to enforce its own jurisdiction. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have the power, upon affidavit, or otherwise, to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the exercise of its jurisdiction. Said Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capital for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by it. Said Court shall appoint a clerk, who shall give bond in such a manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law, and he shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said court, and said clerk shall receive such compensation as may be prescribed by the law.

Section 6 (of Article V): The Legislature shall, from time to time, divide the State into such number of Supreme Judicial Districts as to it may seem necessary, not exceeding twelve at any one time, and shall have the power to re-district the State at any time, and shall establish a Court of Civil Appeals in each of said districts, which Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and not less than two Associates Justices as the Legislature may provide, who shall have the qualifications as herein prescribed for Justices of the Supreme Court, provided that the aggregate number of Judges of all of the Courts of Civil Appeals shall never at one time exceed thirty six. Each of the existing Courts of Civil Appeals shall continue until otherwise provided by law. The Courts of Civil Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of their respective districts which shall extend to all civil cases of which the District Courts or County Courts have original or appellate jurisdiction under such restrictions and regulations as may be prescribed by law; provided that the decisions of said Courts shall be conclusive on all questions of fact brought before them on appeal or error. Said Courts of Civil Appeals shall hold their sessions at such places as may be designated by the Legislature and at such times as may be prescribed by the law. Said Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of their respective Districts at a general election, for a term of six years and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. Said Courts shall have such other jurisdiction, original and appellate, as may be prescribed by law. Each Court of Civil Appeals shall appoint a Clerk in the same manner as the clerk of the Supreme Court, which clerk shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by law. The Judges of the Courts of Civil Appeals who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their office until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Section 7 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into as many judicial Districts as may now or hereafter be provided by law, which may be increased or diminished by law. For each District there shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at a general election, a Judge, who shall be a citizen of the United States and of this State, who shall have been a licensed lawyer for four years next preceding his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a Court of record or such practicing lawyer and Judge together, who shall have resided in the District in which he was elected for two years next preceding his election, who shall reside in his District during his term of office, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and shall receive for his services such compensation as may be prescribed by law. He shall hold the regular terms of his Court at the County Seat of each County in his district at least twice in each year, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature shall have power, by general or special laws, to authorize the holding of special terms of the Court or the holding of more than two terms in any County for the dispatch of business. The Legislature shall also provide for the holding of District Court when the Judge thereof is absent, or is, from any cause, disabled or disqualified from presiding. The Supreme Court or the Chief Justice thereof may assign any District Judge to any district in the State other than that for which he was elected, with all the powers of a resident District Judge of the District to which he is assigned under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Legislature, or by the Supreme Court in the absence of such regulations enacted by the Legislature. The District Judges who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Sec. 2: Said proposed amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, at which each voter opposing said amendment shall scratch off the ballot with pen or pencil the following words printed thereon:

"For the amendment to the State Constitution, amending Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas, for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system"; and each voter favoring said amendment shall scratch off the ballot in the same manner, the following words printed thereon:

"Against the amendment to the State Constitution amending Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system".

If it shall appear from return of said election that a majority of the votes cast have been cast in favor of said amendment it shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Sec. 3: The Governor shall issue his proclamation calling said election and have the same published and said election held in accordance with this resolution, and the Constitution and laws of this state; and return shall be made and the votes canvassed and counted as provided by law; and if said amendment is adopted by the required vote of the qualified electors of this State, the Governor shall issue his proclamation as required by law.

Sec. 4: The sum of twelve thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for publication of the proclamation calling said election and any expense of the State in submitting said amendment and holding said election.

Of course everyone knows that Jeff Clark and Aubry Dodson are experts with garden implements of war, but W. A. has never been accused of being a garden fan before. Next thing we know Gene Dice or Poley Williams will be charged with a similar offense. In deed this is a strange world.

VALUE OF LIFE
What is the value of a life? Well, that depends on the nature of the one who is being valued. We believe that the individual who serves God best is the most valuable—for he who serves God, serves his fellow man, is unselfish, considerate, kind and has a heart of gold. Such a life is a blessing to the world and is not to be compared with Silver and Gold. We have in mind a few men with great minds, and some with untold wealth who worship idol gods—and their lives are more of a curse than a blessing to the world, but others have used their great intellects and their wealth to make this a better world in which to live. Their lives have been used to honor God and bless man kind.

Let us come close to home—and ask ourselves the question—what is our life worth to Cross Plains to our country, to the world. We may not be favored with advantages that others have. We may be just a poor, plain, humble citizen—but we have a life to live—just one this side of the grave, then an eternity some where, so let us think on our way, while we have time and opportunity.

Farmers in this section are busy in their fields, with various crops. This is one of the busiest seasons on the farm and the recent rains here caused vegetation here to thrive—especially those kind of weeds and grass which give the farmer the most misery, but work and sunshine gets wonderful results. We are having both.

Women Who Helped Win the West

THE PIONEER MOTHER MONUMENT, KANSAS CITY

Keystone Photo

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ON SUNDAY, May 8, the heart of America will be quickened at the thought of one word—"Mother." For that is Mother's day, an annual event which is generally observed, not by legislative enactment or church dictum, but because sentiment decrees that the second Sunday in May of each year shall be the day upon which we honor the women who gave us birth.

Mother's day this year has a special significance because of at least two distinct projects which are under way to honor one of the most heroic types of motherhood the world has ever known—the pioneer mother of America. And in both cases the honoring will be done in memorials of everlasting bronze.

One of them is the announced purpose of E. W. Marland, an Oklahoma oil millionaire, of erecting a heroic statue of "The Pioneer Woman" on the famous Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma, the last government land opened to homesteaders. Twelve of the leading sculptors of America have submitted models from which he is to select one for the completed work. An exhibit of these models is being sent to various cities throughout the Middle West and Far West and the public is to be given a chance, by popular vote in each city, to aid Mr. Marland in making his selection, by which, it is hoped, the model best interpreting the pioneer woman will be chosen.

"The Pioneer Mother" is to be immortalized in bronze in another western city when the monument by that name (shown in the illustration above) is unveiled in Penn Valley park in Kansas City this spring. This monument is the work of A. Phimister Proctor, noted for his statue of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as a Rough Rider, which stands in Portland, Ore., as well as for several other fine pieces of work in other cities. It will be presented to Kansas City by Howard Vanderveer, who, as a baby, was carried in the arms of his pioneer mother from Kentucky over a westward trail to the Indian lands of Kansas, in just such a manner as that depicted in Proctor's statuary group.

It is especially appropriate that this memorial should stand in Kansas City with the face of the pioneer mother turned to the great trans-Missouri West. For the site of Kansas City is historic ground. In this vicinity were the eastern terminus of two great highways—the Santa Fe trail and the Oregon trail—over which the stream of emigration poured into the last American wilderness. The Santa Fe trail was primarily an artery of commerce, but the Oregon trail was a homeseeker's highway to the gold fields of California and to the rich valleys of Oregon and Washington. The epic of the Oregon trail has been written many times and in many different ways so that the picture of the women of the "Covered Wagon" era is as clear in our minds as that of the men of those days.

But it should not be forgotten that the mothers of that period were not the first to be cast in heroic roles in the mighty drama of the westward

The Prairie Mother

She came to rock the cradle of a new empire. Adventure calls to men, but duty summons women. And so, when the time was ripe to breed new stars for the flag, she set forth from Maine and Ohio and Killarney's loveliness and her Swedish village and her fjord home to mother the wilderness.

Only God and she knows the fullness of her giving to the young Northwest.

She lived in sod houses and hay-roofed huts, with the newest neighbor often a day's trudge away.

She had no deceptions. She did not even know the luxury of floor or fireplace. Her meal was ground in a hand mill and her baking range was a makeshift oven in the yard.

She fought drought and death and savages and savage loneliness, her "Sunday bests" were calico and linsey woolsey. She grew old at the rate of twenty-four months a year at the grubbing hoe and the washtub and the churn.

She bore her balms alone and buried them on the frozen prairies.

But she asked no pity for her broken arches, her aching back, her poor, gnarled hands. Or for the wistful memories of a fairer youth in sweeter lands.

She gave America the great Northwest, and was too proud to quibble at the cost of the stalwart sons to whom she willed it.

"She mothered MEN!"—Herbert Kaufman in the Minneapolis (Minn.) Tribune.

push of the dominant white race. History is full of the pioneer fathers, but, except for a few outstanding incidents and personages, it has said little about the pioneer mothers. To trace their history it is necessary to go back 300 years to the first settlements on the "stern and rock-bound coast" of New England and to remember that every privation, every suffering from cold and hunger, every danger from hostile red men which the Pilgrim Fathers endured, was also endured by the Pilgrim Mothers.

The first American frontier was the gloomy woods which fringed the shore of the Atlantic seaboard and held the first settlers close to the water's edge. This first frontier produced the American frontiersman, one of the hardest types mankind has ever known. And it produced, too, the American frontierswoman who was a fit mate for such a man. She did her share in making a home and when it was necessary she could handle the rifle and the ax to defend that home. Who has not heard the oft-repeated tale of Hannah Dustin (or Duxton) the Massachusetts heroine of King Phillip's war in New England who proved with her good right arm the heroic quality of the pioneer mother defending her children?

When the frontier was pushed back to the summit of the Appalachian mountains the pioneer mother stood beside her man and looked down into the fertile Ohio valley and saw with him the vision of their future home. She also faced the unknown terrors of the "Dark and Bloody Ground" of Kentucky and helped him hold it against the frenzied attempts of the Indians to eject the white man from his best-loved hunting ground. In that dark period of 20 years—from the outbreak of the Revolution to the time of "Mad Anthony" Wayne's victory over the confederated tribes of the Northwest—when the fate of the white settlement in the Mississippi valley hung in the balance, it was the pioneer woman quite as much as the pioneer man who decided the issue.

But not all of the courage of the pioneer mother was shown when it came to a hand-to-hand encounter. So long as Kentuckians repeat the stories heard at their mothers' knees, so long will they tell of the women of Bryant's Station. These were the women who, when the station was surrounded by Indians, volunteered to go to a spring nearby and bring the water which the defenders of the fort would need so badly when the battle began. The Indians were "lying low" preparing for a surprise attack. If the men went for water the attack would be precipitated. If the women went as usual, the savages MIGHT refrain from revealing their presence by attacking the water-bearers. Again they might not. It was a fearful chance those women took. But they took it, walked steadily down to the spring, conscious all the time of snake-like eyes glittering at them from the bushes close at hand, filled their buckets and walked steadily back to the safety of the stockaded walls. And they didn't spill a drop of water! That was the type of courage these pioneer mothers possessed.

But hostile Indians were not the only terror which the pioneer mother faced and conquered. She faced and conquered the terrors of loneliness in isolated cabins, of starvation, of bitter winters and sultry summers, whose stagnation brought sickness and death to her and her family with no doctors within hundreds of miles. Too often was it true that

My mother she was merry and brave,
And so she came to her labor
With a tall green fir for a doctor grave
And a stream for a comforting neighbor.

—"The Ballad of William Sycamore"—Benet.

When the American frontier crossed the Mississippi and the last westward push began, in the forefront of that long line of historic figures which make up the splendid pageant of the West was the figure which dominates the group by Proctor—the figure of the pioneer mother, her baby in her arms and her face turned toward the west. Forgetful of the terrors she had known in the forests of the East, she braved the terrors of the great plains and mountains of the West. Flooded rivers, prairie fires, snow-filled mountain passes, Indian attacks, hunger and thirst and sickness could not hold her back. Her face was turned to the west and when she had followed the "star of empire" to her goal she had helped build a nation.

If you can't give them this relief, then set a table for them in the kitchen, which is really the nicest room in the house anyhow, full of delicious spicy smells.

QUEER QUIRKS IN HUMAN DESTINY

By HARRY R. CALKINS

WNU Service

The Sacrifice of Virginia
THE sacrifice of a beautiful virgin brought destruction to the decemvirate of 450 B. C., one of the most vicious and tyrannical governments that ancient Rome ever knew.

Appius Claudius was the political boss of the day. He had been chosen as one of the decemvirs, a board of ten men, to revise the legal code of Rome. In this office he made such use of his authority that the election for the year following resulted in the elevation of himself and nine friends as decemvirs and rulers of Rome. Murder, corruption and rapine marked this oligarchical government.

War with the Sabines and Aequians broke out that year. Lucius Virginus, a centurion, hastened to the war, leaving at home a beautiful daughter, named Virginia. This girl had the misfortune to encounter Appius Claudius one day on her way to school and the politician became inflamed with a desire to possess her.

When Virginia repelled his advances, Appius coached one of his clients to claim the girl as a slave. This client, Marcus Claudius, seized the girl and declared she was the daughter of a slave, owned by him and that she had been adopted in infancy by the wife of Virginus who wished to impose on her husband. The trial came up before Appius in accordance with his design and he decided in favor of his henchman's claim. The people of Rome were greatly excited by the horrid injustice. The judge was compelled to grant a delay. Messengers informed Virginus of his daughter's peril, and he left the army to hasten home. His plea to Appius, backed by the entreaties of the matrons of Rome, was denied.

Virginus then begged leave to speak to his daughter and her nurse. The father took the daughter aside, seized a knife from a butcher's stand and plunged it to her heart. Thus was her honor saved. Before court attendants could lay hands on Virginus he had broken through the crowd, mounted a horse and fled to the army. The soldiers were so incensed by the story that they placed themselves under leadership of Virginus, marched on Rome and deposed the government. Appius was imprisoned and either died or was slain. The tyranny of the decemvirs was ended, wiped out by the blood of a virgin.

When the Pope Had a Rival

THE existence of a rival pope, Clement II, caused Pope Urban II to call upon all Christendom to join in the first crusade, a step that stirred medieval Europe to the greatest co-operative movement mankind has ever known and resulted in the establishment of the Christian Kingdom of Jerusalem.

From the Fourth century, when Christianity triumphed over paganism in Rome, it had been the custom of Christian devotees to make pilgrimages to the holy sepulcher at Jerusalem. The Byzantine empire had encouraged these visits, but the Seljuk Turks, who held Jerusalem in 1094, began persecuting pilgrims.

Peter the Hermit of Amiens, France, carried a message from the Greek Patriarch of Jerusalem to Pope Urban II, urging that the Holy city be delivered from the hands of the infidel. It was not the first appeal of the sort, but this pope found a new reason for undertaking an ambitious enterprise. The Germano-Roman emperor had set up a rival pope, Clement II, and Pope Urban II welcomed an opportunity to establish his authority over the Christian world. Hundreds of thousands enthusiastically volunteered for the crusade and private quarrels throughout Europe were forgotten. Monks seized swords, nobles sold their castles and even robbers joined the movement, which was called a "crusade" because the badge of enlistment was a red cross worn on the right shoulder.

Walter the Penniless led 60,000 across the French border before any organized movement was ready to start. Peter the Hermit followed with 40,000 more, and a third band, without a leader, numbered 200,000. It was believed that food and supplies would be miraculously provided by God and, when the miracle failed, the hordes lived on the land in passing.

By the time Godfrey of Bouillon arrived in the east, more than 300,000 crusaders had perished. After several battles with the Turks and Saracens, 40,000 knights survived to capture Jerusalem and set up the Christian Kingdom of Jerusalem, of which Godfrey of Bouillon became ruler as "Defender of the Holy Sepulcher." The kingdom lasted nearly a century.

Modern Babes

Bobby, age six, had been quite naughty, and had received a rather old-fashioned spanking. Jane, recently started to Sunday school, was horrified at Bobby's quick recovery from the affair, and, seeking to bring him to deeper repentance, asked him whether he were not sorry to have been so bad that he had to be spanked. She said: "Daddy will know it grandmother will know it, cook knows it, and even God knows you were naughty and had to be spanked."

Bobby, showing the first real interest: "Oh, has He a radio, too?"

Babies Should Organize

Everywhere we look we see underhand cracks being taken at children. The Chart of Table Manners in the Woman's Home Companion says they "should not be permitted to leave the table to play or read between courses."

Woman, 80, Lived All Her Life in Same House

Woodward, Okla.—Not many octogenarians leave behind them the unusual story of their life, as is revealed in the passing of Mrs. Thomas R. Tulloss, who passed away recently at her home in Franklin, Tenn. She was the mother of W. S. Tulloss, Woodward, who was with her during the last ten days of her life.

Of the eighty years Mrs. Tulloss had lived the entire time was spent in the home in which she was born November 16, 1846. She was married in the same room 56 years ago and her six children were born in the same room in which she was born. Two of them died in that room. The room is 20 by 24, and for many years, with another room, constituted the home, a log house with an open porch between the two rooms. As the family increased rooms were added, and today the house claims seven rooms.

345,000 U. S. Girls Brides at 15, Report Declares

New York.—There are 345,000 girls in the United States who, with the consent of their parents, have become brides and mothers at the age of fifteen years or under, says a report made public by the New York League of Women Voters. These girls have become the wives of men ranging in age from sixteen to fifty-two years, the report says.

It is charged that in many instances parents consent to the marriage of their daughters at tender age to evade educational laws and thus to permit their daughters to go to work.

The League of Women Voters is seeking enactment of a law to raise the marriage age of girls in New York from fourteen to sixteen years.

Maine Town Puzzled by Punch Bowl Gift

Biddeford, Maine.—The town fathers are perplexed over what will be done with a big cut glass punch bowl that was presented to the citizens at the town meeting.

They are trying to figure out the significance of such a gift. Maine, the banner prohibition state, of course, has no use for such a receptacle, but, at any rate, the huge piece of glassware has been accepted and will ultimately, in all probability, find a resting place somewhere in the town hall.

Mrs. Fannie Hall Fagan of Cambridge, Mass., sent the gift here. It was presented by Selectman Elmer M. Robbins.
