MEN'S GOOD FELLOWSHIP CLUB OF BAPTIST CHURCH

The Men's Good Fellowship Club of the Baptist Church had a meeting in the basement of the church Thursday night. Some arrangements were agreed on for the next meeting, to be held June 10th, and it is hoped enough interest will be shown to make it a success. The talent we have will be cultivated and eventually the club will prove a success. Show more interest, gain strength and lasting success. The program was a credit to Cross Plains, with some of the younger members rendering musical and reading numbers. Those on the program were little Mary Helen Lancaster, Helen Upton, Misses Marie Williams, Grace Austin, Irene Harden, Eva Lee Bell, Inez Gibson, Girlee Lewis, Mrs. H. O. Hearn, and talks of interest by members. Secy. Pro. Tem.

Anderson Gaines, who just moved here from Cross Cut, has purchased an interest in the Hudson-Essex sales agency here from A. C. Dodson, and Tommy Marsh has accepted position as salesman for this agency, and at present will have headquarters at Orrell-Dodson Chevrolet Co.

J. V. Bost of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kilpatrick of Comanche, Arch Warren of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Crayton of Stanton, were here this week, visiting J. W. Payne and J. H. Warren and their families.

The Baird ball team failed to show up Sunday, so the local ball players made up a team with school boys and a few regular players, with two or three new ones, and went over and engaged the Rising Star team in an interesting game. They lost the game, but did good work, considering everything.

Robert Steffins and his cousin of Fort Worth, visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Causey the past week.

Cross Plains is building—but not fast enough. More houses are needed and we must have them before we can expand, and develop as days and weeks pass into history. If you have money to build, why put it off? Now—do it now.

Will Thomason, who was formerly in the mercantile business at Cottonwood, and was a member of the Masonic lodge here many years ago, died May 4th, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Hembree, of Abilene, at the age of 79 years. Dr. Thomason and father attended his bedside and were present for the funeral.

O. Campbell has accepted position as pharmacist at the City Drug Store. Mr. Campbell showed the Review man a letter from his attorney, which stated that the grand jury did not indict his wife, who was recently arrested here and charged with obtaining goods by fraudulent means through the mails. He states that she has been exonerated and that the accusation was false and unsubstantiated.

Jim Miller is planning to build two new residences here, and so is Anderson Gaines. A number of others are also planning to build in the near future. There is also prospects of another brick business house to start soon, in addition to buildings previously mentioned.

M. E. Harvey and family of Santa Anna, were Sunday guests in the home of G. C. Burrage of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Copeland have returned from a visit with Mrs. Dawkins, who was sick at her home in Taylor. Mrs. Oliver Wolfe of Fort Worth, returned with them.

Mesdames Crabb, Scott, Lutgens, Murman and Russell McGowan, Baker and Orrell attended the Eastern Star meeting at Breckenridge Monday.

Sunday was a great day at Dressy. A fine program was rendered and a large crowd celebrated Mother's Day.

Mrs. Minnie Dillard of Santa Anna, has been visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Martha Johnson of Route 1.

MASS MEETING FAVORS STREET PAVING PROGRAM

At the citizens mass meeting Monday night, after the sewerage proposition was passed on favorably, the matter of street paving was then taken up for discussion, and all seemed to be unanimous for such a program, and a committee was appointed by the chairman to ascertain the cost of paving the downtown business district, to secure figures per block, and other details and report their findings.

Cross Plains is developing rapidly and the street problem has become a serious one. The city is spending a lot of money each year in an effort to keep the streets in condition, yet they are a continued source of dissatisfaction, as the continuous heavy traffic keeps them full of holes and bumps.

It is understood that when estimates of cost on street paving has been made, a petition will be presented the council asking for a bond election to ascertain the will of the people.

ROBERT L. EDWARDS ENTERS SHERIFF'S RACE

Robert L. Edwards of Eula, announces his candidacy for the office of sheriff of this county, and he states that he will appreciate your support, and if elected he promises to serve the county to the best of his ability. He states that he believes the law should be upheld and enforced without fear or favor. Mr. Edwards is the son of John Edwards, pioneer citizen of Eula. He was born and reared in this county, and now wants to serve as sheriff, and is actively engaged in lecturing. He is in Cross Plains this week.

We can't print all the news all the time, but we want to publish the most interesting news of our town and surrounding communities each week. But we will miss much of it unless you report same to us. Your co-operation will be appreciated. Just appoint yourself a member of the reporting staff, and help make the Review the newest newspaper for its size in Texas.

WILBUR COX

Synopsis.—Idle fishing Hermosos creek, in California, Caleb Warner, civil engineer, and a New Englander, is witness of the end of a coyote pulled down by two wolfhounds, urged on by a girl rider. Admiring the hounds, he introduces himself, and learns her name is Clinton. With western hospitality she invites him to the ranch to meet her father. At the Clinton home Warner learns his new friend's name is Betty. He is welcomed by her father, Southern Civil war veteran and owner of Hermosos valley. Warner tells them something of his ambitions and his feeling that he is destined to be a "Water-Bearer." In the town of Golden Warner shares an apartment with his old Columbia college chum, Ted Baxter, care-free and somewhat dissipated youth, only child of his widowed mother, who controls the family fortune.

"There's Wilbur Cox," he said. "That's a Big Business crowd. Morse, on the right of Cox, is head of the Lumber ring, then comes Towle, president of the Sundown railroad. Martin's next, he opens up big tracts for colonist development. Lawler is an oil magnate and the last one is Winton, manager of the Golden Light and Power company. They come close to running Golden and a good share of the state as well. I don't know how their bank balances stand, but you can bet that the six of them represent several times that number of million dollars in active circulation with their interests."

Caleb regarded Cox with special attention. He knew that he owned big land holdings, controlled rich mines and was the president and main spring of the Crystal Springs Water company that supplied Golden with its commercial and civic measure of the vital fluid.

He saw a man who might have been anywhere from fifty to sixty, tall, spare, with close-trimmed hair gray above the ears, clean-shaven, with a fine forehead and a well-shaped skull, a projecting nose, keen gray eyes, a genial mouth and a firm chin. He told many of the stories that met with the greatest laughter, for the group was a care-free one, for the moment at least. Their luncheon was almost over and, when Cox rose at its conclusion, he did so with an ease that spoke of muscles still in prime condition. If Caleb had wanted to sum up the man in one crisp word he would have chosen the adjective "fit."

"No need to hurry," Baxter said. "The old boy's son is coming up this afternoon from Los Angeles and I know Cox has arranged for a dinner here tonight. If you can get in right with Cox, Cal, the going should be easy. I can give you the introduction. After that it's up to you. Cox doesn't take me very seriously."

Leaving the dining room, they met Cox alone, coming from the direction of the club's telephone booths. Baxter seized the moment.

"I want a friend of mine to meet you," he said to the older man, speaking with the frank facility that was one of his greatest assets, met by Cox with a sort of half-tolerant geniality. "This is Caleb Warner, one-time classmate of mine at Columbia, civil engineer, following the Star of Empire westward in the hope of hitching his wagon to it. Don't let my friendship with him prejudice you against him. He plays ant to my grasshopper."

Cox smiled as he gripped Caleb's hand cordially enough, giving him a direct glance that, in kindly but determined fashion, seemed to measure him.

"Glad to meet you," he said. "Plenty of room out here for civil engineers. Any speciality?"

"Water," Caleb answered promptly. The eyes of Cox seemed to harden a little, to hold a hint of suspicion at the pat answer that might have been calculated to awaken interest.

"Done much at it?"

"A factory dam or two. One reservoir for town supply. Back East. The rest of my practical experience has been along other lines for the last two years but I am especially interested in water-engineering and the West seemed to be the place."

"Looking for a job?" Cox fired out the questions briskly, all the while covering Caleb with the battery of his eyes.

"For any real opportunity, Mr. Cox." A servant came up with a salver and presented it to Baxter. He glanced at the filled-in form-message and excused himself.

"You'll pardon me. I'm wanted on the phone. Cox looked after him with a humorous quirk to his mouth.

"There goes the grasshopper," he said. "Now then, these last two years you mentioned? What were you doing? Where were you doing it?"

"Building roads and bridges. Repairing a lot more. Some trench work."

"Ah!" Caleb was sure that a gleam of new interest came into Cox's eyes. "You served over there. Any rank?"

"I came out a first lieutenant." Cox nodded.

"It was a great training ground," he said. "No time wasted there, to my mind. Gave a young man a broader horizon, taught him to handle men. My boy was over there." He hesitated as Baxter came back. "He's due here at five-thirty," he went on. "I imagine you'd get on well together. Better join us at dinner. You too, Baxter."

"Got to excuse me," said Baxter. "Previous appointment. Sorry."

One of the members of the luncheon party had been hovering somewhat impatiently in the background, evidently waiting for Cox. The latter saw him and nodded.

"Got to go now," he said. "See you at five-thirty, Warner, then."

Caleb watched the tall figure as it strode off, energetic, masterful, listening to what the other had to say, dismissing it with an abrupt gesture. He turned to Baxter.

"That man is a fighter," he said.

"You can double that bet. They're all fighters, scrapping for everything in sight, fighting to get it, fighting to hold on to it. That's the essence of "Water," Caleb answered promptly.

Big Business, I take it, everywhere. They have their rules, of course, but they sometimes slip one over beneath the belt, at that. But they've never told the count over Cox. How did he come to invite you to dinner? Not to mention me? I'd fit in there about as well as a goldfish in a shark-pond—not worth gobbling but, if I glittered enough, they might know I was among those present."

"I don't think he took any sudden fancy to me," Caleb answered. "He warmed up a little when he heard I had been across. Thought his boy might like to meet me."

"Of course. I'm a chump. Jack Cox is the apple of his father's eye, all the more so because Pa Cox had good reasons to suppose said apple was worm-eaten. You think I'm inclined to burn the trail. Man, beside Jack Cox I was as a Ford to a Rolls Royce! He was in more mix-ups with wine, women and song than Don Juan ever dreamed of. Compared to him I'm an amateur. Or was. The war changed all that. Jack's come back a changed leopard. Not a spot on him. Following in his dad's footsteps." He broke off abruptly. "How about a little air this afternoon? I think the breeze would favor my fevered brow. I want to be fit for tonight. We'll take the car over on the ferry and run down to San Jose and back." "Just the two of us?" "Yes, you double-dyed Puritan, just the two of us, all by our lonelies. Are you on?"

At three o'clock they were bowling south along an almost perfect road when Baxter grudgingly slowed down in obedience to a signboard that informed them they were approaching the town of Paloma.

"I'm feeling much better," he announced. "Want to take the wheel for a while and let me smoke?" They changed seats.

"I've got to trim down on these," Baxter said, lighting his cigarette. "The pump needs repacking," he went on, tapping himself over the heart. "And it can't be done. They turned me down for that. Told me I had a banquet-heart and that the excitement of sticking a Heine might end it. It's the old C and C. Champagne and cigarettes! Jack Cox got in but I stayed out. Made me feel like a slacker."

"Why don't you cut the stuff, Ted?"

"It isn't going to last long enough. At present I prefer the vineyard to the lemon grove. I'm no good at business anyway. I'm a grasshopper and I'll hop till the grass gets too short and things dry up generally."

"This sort of thing you've got on tonight, Ted? Aren't you afraid you'll wind up in some sort of a mess?"

"I'm immune. It's good fun. The girls I travel with know how to take care of themselves. It's a two-sided game. If I met the right girl— Oh, what's the use? You see, Cal, the mater is chipping off a chunk of her principal every year. She flies high herself. If I outlast her, which is doubtful, there won't be much coming to me. I suppose she's right. I've got to marry money, but the girls with money are either too base, too businesslike or too homely and stupid. No use preaching to me, Cal. You're born an ant and I'm a cecada, which is Californese for grasshopper."

They reached the apartment house at five o'clock and Caleb proceeded to dress circumspectly for the dinner while his friend laid out more sumptuous raiment.

"You'll be home tonight?" asked Caleb.

"I'll be home when the game's over," answered Baxter enigmatically. "This is Saturday night. We may take a little trip to Lake county. Don't bother about me. Off to your business, ant!"

CHAPTER IV

Big Business

Jack Cox turned out so close a replica of his father—less weathered, less bitten by Time and Experience—but nevertheless so evident a chip of the old block, that Caleb almost doubted Baxter's description of him as a reformed wastrel. He had been through the furnace of the war and, whatever of steel had been in him had been tempered; the baser instincts burned to slag and discarded. Caleb had seen others in his own division of the fighting game who had stiffened and found their manhood in like fashion.

Caleb liked him from the outset. The man had qualities that he lacked, the same western broadness that Baxter possessed in more volatile fashion. But, though trolleys and water dams seem far apart to the laity, a mutual profession based both of them. Caleb found the preliminary story of Imperial valley vastly interesting and Jack Cox told it well, albeit he had had no hand in those earlier stages of development. It was the tale of the bringing back of an arid sink, once under cultivation by the Indians, of the harnessing of the mighty Colorado, one terrific fight with flood waters and now-cotton fields, and vineyards, wide acres of cantaloupes, horticulture and agriculture in every branch; order, industry, prosperity. Caleb listened with interest and understanding.

"There is only one Imperial valley, perhaps," said Cox, "but there are other deserts with soil just as fertile, waiting only for the magic touch of water. Your end of it—the water end—is the initial move in the game, mine is the last. You play Alpha to my Omega."

"If I get the chance," said Caleb. "Oh, you'll get it. The chances are everywhere. If a man knows his business, and wants to work at it, there's no trouble about Opportunity. Her knuckles must be raw on the Pacific coast. She knocks unceasingly," laughed Cox.

The Coxes' father and son, appear to be solid folk. Is Caleb Warner's lot to be cast with them?

Some Things for Good "Sports" to Remember

Sport is sometimes criticized for the unfairness of its participants or the partisanship of its followers.

It has a mission besides the development of a healthy body, surely it is in the encouragement of fair-mindedness in the players and on the grandstand. Toward this end, the following Golden Rules were printed recently on the back of a program by the army school of physical training in England, and these rules will well bear repetition elsewhere:

Play the game for the sake of the game.

Play for your side, and not for yourself.

Be a good winner and a good loser

—modest in victory and generous in defeat.

Take all decisions without question or argument.

Be unselfish and always ready to teach and help others.—Toronto Globe

Antlers of Deer

Deer antlers are shed each year, usually soon after the close of the breeding season, to be renewed the following spring. Sometimes antlers are straight and unbranched, but usually there are branches, called tines or snags, and the number of these increases with age, so that the finest antlers are on fully matured males.

ARRAYED FOR JUNE WEDDING; TROUSSEAU AFTERNOON FROCKS

IN THE imagination of girlhood, throughout its brief, bright years, vague pictures of brides and bridal float. Occasionally in them, each maiden sees herself the center of interest as a bride; but there are so many interests and distractions in this complex age, that even Prince Charming, before his actual arrival, occupies only a small space on the

Much is expected of afternoon frocks in the trousseau—it goes without saying that they should be beautiful and it is not difficult to find plenty of them that fill this requirement. But every bride desires that hers should be unusual, as well as beautiful, also more or less dignified and, above all, suited to her personality. Afternoon gowns are the observed of horizon of youth. Then, almost before she knows it, along comes this particular June and finds many a fair girl (fully as many as usual) face to face with her wedding.

Most important of all is the matter of the bride's wedding gown. She has a wide choice of beautiful and graceful styles at her disposal—all of them dignified. She may be simple and ingenious, splendid or picturesque and her maids never had better opportunities to look like pictures. What with sheer fabrics, lovely colors, floating lines and fluttering draperies—a bevy of June bridesmaids look more like personified flowers than anything else. But here comes a little procession of wedding gowns, for the inspection of the bride, each created by a great name in the world of stylists. The first is a gown of white crepe satin with long molded bodice, very long, close-fitting sleeves, reaching to the knuckles; round neck, skirt widening into ripples with a scalloped hemline and no vestige of trimming. But the back portion is lengthened into a wide train and over all is a veil of tulle.

Finally comes in the last word in wedding gowns, for the bride whose taste runs to the picturesque and whose style will allow her to indulge it. This is the robe-de-style and an example of it is pictured here. It is to be recommended for the bride who will have only one attendant or none. This is a very youthful mode and may be developed in georgette or in taffeta and lace. ripples, godets and plaits, help to vary them. Plain, light colors in georgette, made up with lace dyed to match, are very effective, especially in the tan and gray tones. The procession of flowered chiffons and combinations of plain and figured fabrics is endless and lands us in the realm of lovely dinner gowns where we shall come across superb examples of embroidery used as the decorative feature. In this class are short-sleeved models.

Good-looking roofs look good on your books

Good business to keep farm buildings in good shape—especially the roofs. For shabby, leaky roofs cause a lot of damage—pull down the value of property.

So, if your roofs are beginning to go, put down roofs that will last. Barrett Roll Roofings! Low in cost, durable and fire-safe. Never rot or rust—never need painting. Good-looking, too! We have them plain and mineral-surfaced. Come in. Talk over your roof problem with us.

A: When Johnson had this farm it looked like something.
B: Don't take much to make a place look run down. Just a shabby roof will do it.

Recently a Ford endurance test at the Highland Plant Park was made for experimental purposes, and the motor was run for seventeen days and nights at a speed of 36 miles per hour—a total of 412 hours. During the test the motor ran equivalent to 14,832 miles, and 796 gallons of gas were consumed, the average consumption being 18 1-2 miles to the gallon. This test was made under three times the normal load as stated.

WOMAN COULD NOT SLEEP

Her Mother-in-Law Knew A Remedy

Mrs. Belle Thompson was in a very weak and run-down condition for four years. She had great difficulty in getting to sleep at night and even then did not sleep soundly. She would wake up again and again. Besides this her appetite was poor. "My mother-in-law told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and I was not the same woman at all. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does me more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

—Mrs. Belle Thompson, R. 2, Rossville, Georgia.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health? If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped others, why shouldn't it help you?

Young vigor to old folks

"Four years ago Tanlaac built me up and relieved acute indigestion. In March 1924 the "flu" ran me down again and Tanlaac once more brought me back. I'm 63 now and enjoy sound health." Mrs. R. R. Slack, 305 E. Third St., Austin, Tex.

One of Tanlaac's greatest blessings is the new life and vigor it brings to old folks. Every day men and women up in the seventies and eighties thank us for Tanlaac's wondrous benefits.

Tanlaac is a natural tonic, made from roots, barks and rare herbs. Harmless to man or child. It cleans the blood, stirs up the liver and puts digestive organs in working order.

If your body is weak and run-down, if you lack ambition, can't eat or sleep, you'll be delighted with Tanlaac's results. Take Tanlaac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

CANNIBAL MOUNDS WILL BE EXPLORED

Seek New Facts on American Man-Eating Indians.

Washington.—With the departure for the Louisiana coast of Henry B. Collins, Jr., ethnologist, the Smithsonian Institution initiates an exploration of an almost forgotten area of prehistoric life on this continent. The region, which extends westward from New Orleans, was the camping ground of the Attacapa and Chitimacha Indians. It has been overlooked by archeologists and nothing has ever been written about it.

Mr. Collins, who is assistant curator of ethnology in the National museum and whose expedition the bureau of ethnology is financing, will investigate the mounds in the area with a view of determining whether they are true mounds or mere shell heaps, and to collect bones, artifacts and pottery. So far all the pottery found along the gulf from Florida to Louisiana has been similar, indicating a cultural relationship among the peoples and suggesting a migration route.

Cannibal Tribes

The Attacapa Indians were one of the few known cannibal tribes of the American continent. Whether they engaged in the practice for ceremonial purposes or for the love of it is not known. Other cannibal tribes were found in Cuba, Jamaica, Venezuela, Colombia and Brazil.

The Chitimacha possessed a much higher culture and seem to have been related to the Natchez. They had the same caste system—division of the tribe into nobles and proletariat—and their language is similar. It is interesting to note that caste was transmitted through the mother, so that a high-caste mother could bear high-caste children to a low-caste father, while the children of a low-caste mother must remain low caste no matter who was their father. Incidentally, one method of climbing the social ladder and entering a higher caste was to sacrifice one's relatives at the death of a noble.

Explore Choctaw Mounds.

From Louisiana Mr. Collins will proceed to Mississippi to continue excavations begun last year of Choctaw mounds. The old belief that these mounds were the work of some fanciful ancient race, entirely distinct from the American Indian, has long been exploded. It is now known definitely that they are the work of the ancestors of the Choctaw or related peoples, who built them as burial mounds or more commonly as platforms for the erection of their temples and the homes of their leaders.

The largest of these mounds is 100 feet high and covers an area of about 16 acres. When it is realized that the builders had nothing but crude sticks and stone implements with which to dig, and reed baskets in which to transport the dirt, the intensity of the religious feeling which could produce such a monument may be understood.

Built 5,900 Miles of New Roads in 1925

New York.—Motorists will have about 5,900 more miles of concrete road to travel over during 1926 than they had in 1925. Added to the 31,700 miles built in previous years, there are now approximately 37,600 miles of concrete on the highways in the United States outside limits of incorporated cities and villages.

The building of 5,900 miles of concrete highway in a single year establishes a new record and along with the improvement of many other miles of gravel and grading was no small job for the road builders. It involved the use of tremendous quantities of materials and the employment of a great army of workers.

A feature of the last year's highway construction activities was the efforts of the road builders to inconvenience the motorists as little as possible. In every way the policies of the state highway departments were to serve the highway user.

More attention was paid to detours around construction jobs. They were kept in good condition and were carefully marked so that the motorist could reach his destination with the least inconvenience.

Identify Fish

New York.—It is possible for a fish cast upon the waters to return. The federal fisheries people put some infant mackerel in Massachusetts water two years ago with identifying marks. One of them, just caught off Cape May, N. J., weighs one and one-half pounds.

Oysters Catch Cold; 600,000 Pearls Lost

Tokyo.—Because oysters, like humans, are subject to bad colds, a loss of more than 600,000 embryonic cultured pearls is estimated to have been suffered by pearl raisers of Ago bay near Nagoya.

Ago bay is the center of Japan's cultured pearl industry. Here tiny seeds implanted in oysters grow into rich necklaces. The season's drought is said to have caused the water of the bay to become extremely cold and the change in temperature, experts said, resulted in the parent oysters' catching cold and dying.

STUDY PUEBLO PAGAN ANNALS

Seek Light on Early Franciscan Martyrs.

Santa Fe, N. M.—Brothers of the Franciscan order of the Roman Catholic church in the Southwest are preserving the traditions of their organization which arose from the martyrdom of priests who passed centuries in the conversion of the Pueblo Indians from their pagan beliefs to Christianity.

Much research work is being done by scholars to bring to light the facts of the spiritual conquest of the Pueblos, which they believe to be one of the most colorful pages of the history of the Americas.

Father Theodocus Meyer, after considerable study in the archives of the mission at Santa Barbara, Cal., has compiled a list of 51 members of the order who gave their lives in the period from 1542 to 1636.

The result of this search contrasts the religious brothers with the proud conquistador, the one for the prize of mystical gold and gems, the other for the prize of human souls.

The history of the Christianization of the Indians showed that there were waves of persecution of the priests at intervals of 40 or 50 years throughout nearly two centuries.

They reached their climax in 1680, when the Pueblo Indians rose in rebellion against the tyranny of the Spanish rule, and killed nearly every white man in New Mexico. By prearranged plot, 31 missionaries in a score of pueblos, many of them 100 or more miles apart, were killed on one day.

Nebraska U Arranges Exchange With Mexico

City of Mexico.—Negotiations looking toward an exchange between the United States and Mexico of scientific and research knowledge have been conducted along successful lines in the last two months between the University of Nebraska and the institute of geology of the Mexican government.

Prof. E. F. Schramm, chief of the department of geology and paleontology of the University of Nebraska, is the chief power behind the movement to bring about an exchange between the countries of fossils, minerals and meteoric stones. John Zozaya, secretary of Judge E. B. Perry, American commissioner at the meetings of the special claims commissions, was commissioned to initiate the move to strengthen the scientific collections now existing in both countries with such specimens as each country is able to supply, which the other has not got.

It is pointed out that there exist many fossils and other objects of scientific value in Mexico which are not to be found in museums in the United States and vice versa.

Six Million Criminals in U. S., Records Show

Washington.—Statistics, disclosing that about 6,000,000 Americans at some time in their lives have indulged in criminal careers, were obtained at the Department of Justice.

About 3,000,000 have been accused in the courts. The other half, although at some time guilty of offenses for which they might have served terms in prison, have escaped the vigilance of the police.

The estimate of the criminally inclined population was made by department experts on the basis of the fact that finger-print records of 1,013,000 criminals are on file in the bureau of identification.

He's Cautious

Richmond, Va.—One Virginian is going to be a bachelor, for a while at least, because of his caution. The ceremony was called off and the license returned to the county clerk's office.

ALASKA HOTEL OWNED BY 'MOTHER OF NORTH'

Got Her Start Cooking for Gold Seekers.

Skagway, Alaska.—Many tourists from the States know Mrs. Harriet Pullen of the famous Pullen house, which is 1,500 miles as a plane flies from Ketchikan, at the southeastern tip of Alaska to Nome, out to the northwest on Bering sea.

All over the world, wherever linger those madmen and others who came rushing to Alaska and the Klondike—to the eastward, in Canada—for gold in 1898 and 1899, Mrs. Pullen is loved. A handful of women became famous because they were able to stand beside the sprinkling of men in the uncounted myriad of goldrushers who were hard enough to conquer the North—and of all that bright company the men of the golden North count Mrs. Pullen the brightest.

Young, comely, strong, Harriet Pullen was daughter of a rancher on Puget sound in Washington state. She came to Alaska in 1898 with her four children to go with her husband over the Chilkoot trail or the equally terrible White pass trail into the Klondike for gold.

Had $7 and Four Children.

She lost her husband. Camped on the beach here she had $7—and four little children.

The rush was never so mad that men did not eat, and the mother with the four children and $7 went to cooking. She cooked so well and withal was so kind and helpful that those thousands passing through here and up the White pass trail or through Dyea, four miles from Skagway, and up the Chilkoot trail, called her the Mother of the North. She prospered and bought out old Cap Moore's boarding house in Skagway.

The boarding house she developed into Pullen house, a 20-room modern hotel, standing in a landscape garden of several acres, split by a mountain stream with an island and rustic bridges. Canadians opening up their country came with a railroad over White pass—the White Horse & Yukon.

The railroad still runs, and Mrs. Pullen still prospers because the whitehanded children of the outside come, taking this fast route to see the sights of the North. Pullen house is reputed to have entertained more distinguished guests than any other hostelry in the North.

Sent to West Point.

Mrs. Pullen's oldest son was Dan. He attended the University of Washington, which then had a preparatory school, five years. President Roosevelt gave him the first appointment from Alaska to West Point. He became all-American tackle, and graduated among the first five cadets in his class.

Into the World war he went as a colonel of engineers. He was pressed into service as a tank commander. With his squadron of tanks he took a German position, but infantry following him, failed to consolidate. To hold the position, Pullen hastened back afoot, reformed the infantry, led them back and retook the position. He died of sleeping sickness, attributed to war service, two years ago.

Royal Pullen graduated from the University of Washington, playing guard, and was an officer in the World war. Both brothers were cited for gallantry, and General Pershing once exclaimed: "I wish I had a regiment of Pullens."

Mildred Pullen graduated at a nurses' school in New York city. Chester Pullen, a student at the University of Washington, was drowned at Ketchikan on his way back to the States after a summer at home.

Note in Bottle Tells of Gold in Canada

Norway, Maine.—Do the bones of two human skeletons stand as the gruesome monument to a great gold field?

Woodbury Russell revolves this question in his mind as he plans trips in search of the yellow metal. He has abandoned interest in the search and gives all the information he possesses to the public.

His information is contained in a note found floating in a tightly-corked bottle below the falls at Clark City, on the St. Margaret river, in Canada. The note reads:

"Whoever finds this bottle, there is gold in plenty 25 miles above the falls. My chum, Jack, is dead, and I am freezing to death."

Russell, a contractor and builder, went with his brother and several other men to do construction work at Clark City, Canada. Here they found the bottle, and made their first successful trip in search of the mentioned gold.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated men, women, children, and particularly old folks, had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it. Lesson for May 16

ABRAHAM AND THE STRANGERS
LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:1-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—All nations of the earth shall be blessed indeed.—Gen. 18:18.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Abraham Is Kind to Strangers
JUNIOR TOPIC—Abraham Welcomes Three Strangers
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abraham's Hospitality.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Why God Chose Abraham.

I. The Lord Appeared to Abraham (vv. 1-8).
 While Abraham sat in his tent door, he lifted up his eyes and lo, three men stood by him. His reception of these three men is a beautiful picture of oriental hospitality. These beings, while called men are also called angels (see 19:1). When the men arose to depart, Abraham according to custom, accompanied his guests some distance on the way. One of the men was the angel of Jehovah, or Jehovah manifest in human form. The Jehovah angel remained behind to commune with Abraham. This is clear from the fact that three started out—one talked with Abraham and only two entered Sodom (see 18:22 and 19:1).

II. God's Promise to Abraham Re-affirmed (vv. 9-15).
 The Lord communed with him about his personal interests, showing how Sarah should have a son in her old age, according to the covenant promise. This conversation being overheard by Sarah from her place in the tent only provoked laughter on her part. Although she thus expressed unbelief, it doubtless was a great comfort to Abraham who had been awaiting the fulfillment of the promise for years. "Is anything too hard for the Lord?" is a striking rebuke to Sarah's unbelief, and shows that the Lord is able to discern even our inmost thoughts.

III. The Doom of Sodom and Gomorrah Revealed to Abraham (vv. 16-21).
 The Lord now communed with Abraham about Sodom and Gomorrah. Though Abraham had no personal interest in Sodom, the Lord revealed unto him His secret purpose concerning it. He did not hunt up Lot to make known unto him his purpose concerning Sodom. He never goes to the persons who are entangled with the things of the world. The only way to know God's thought touching the age in which we live is to remain separate from it. "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him." (Ps. 25:15). The reason for this disclosure may be stated as follows:
 1. Because he was his friend (Jas. 5:23; John 15:15). Friends confide in each other. The master reveals his purposes to his friends, not to his servants.
 2. Because he was to be the head of a great nation (v. 18).
 As such he was to be the medium of blessings to them. The interests of humanity were at stake in the destruction of Sodom. It was good that Abraham should know that he might be able to instruct coming generations.
 3. Because of the responsibility of instructing his own family aright (v. 19). God is always careful that His judgments have a rational explanation, serving to deter others from the same sin. The Lord declared that His purpose was to go down and see whether the Sodomites had done according to the cry which had come up from it (v. 21).

IV. Abraham's Intercession for Sodom and Gomorrah (vv. 22-23).
 The two men departed for Sodom, leaving Abraham alone in the presence of the Lord. He stood there as an intercessor. In this unselfish act Abraham represents our High Priest (Heb. 7:23-25; Rom. 8:34; I John 2:1). Jesus possesses the divine right to stand before the Father. Abraham made his plea on the ground of justice to the righteous who might be in the city. Because of the infinite sacrifice which Christ made by His blood for our sins, He can plead our cause before God on the ground of strict justice. He ventured his plea six times, each time diminishing the number. We should learn from this that petitions granted give encouragement to ask for others. Abraham's power as an intercessor was limited. He was afraid of overdrawng his account with the Lord. This is not the case with our High Priest. His credit and influence with the Father are infinite. He is able to save unto the uttermost those who come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them (Heb. 7:25).

Great Personages of the Bible
 By
 REV. LEONARD A. BARRETT

Vashti
 THE book of Esther introduces us to an environment intensely Persian in character. In the midst of all its gorgeous splendor, Ahasuerus, known as Xerxes the Great, ruled as king.
 In a magnificent palace garden Ahasuerus entertained his friends with marked and extravagant hospitality characteristic of the East. When the revelry had reached its height, Ahasuerus commanded that Vashti be brought unveiled before the assembled guests. The rule of the East was that no woman was permitted to appear unveiled in a public place, and her consent to comply with the king's wishes would have at once involved her high sense of propriety and honor. Should she disobey, Vashti would be compelled to pay the price of her refusal. That night, facing a future dark and unknown, a regal conscience left that Persian palace, for the soul of Vashti had fought and conquered in the struggle for her ideal of what was right. Here was a character true to all that is implied in that noble word woman. Vashti was every inch a woman, and rather than sacrifice her conscience she was willing to abandon wealth, a life of luxurious ease, and all the prerogatives which belonged to her as queen of the Persian palace.

In the veins of Vashti there must have flowed the inherited blood of a true aristocracy of character. How did Vashti become the recipient of such a high conception of womanhood? We know that she acquired it through no influence of the Persian palace. She brought to Ahasuerus a high conception of womanhood which was instilled into her life in the earlier years of her development. Back of all the gifts which crowned Vashti queen, we can see the molding influence of a mother. Vashti had a mother. Back of every woman adorned with those queenly gifts of womanhood, is a mother. Ah! Vashti, something stood strong within your heart in the hour of that crisis, and there is something that must stand strong in every woman's heart and life, as she holds in her hands that power which determines the future of American citizenship.

In the career of every child there come times of doubt and perplexity, when the music of the Ave Marie is a very real experience. Where shall a child go in such hours, save to a mother? It is the mother that speaks, and it is the mother who stands up and answers the all-perplexing questions and solves the intricate problems in the life of her child. Before we can ever bring to the present social and economic problems a sure and a permanent solving power, American motherhood must have absorbed early in its infancy those high and noble ideals, those commanding and all-illuminating motives, those exalted and queenly conceptions of character, which we discover in the mother of Vashti. Let Christian motherhood rise to this proclamation, that every child has the right to be well born. It is a fearful thing to send a young soul voyaging to eternity, but it is a perilous thing to send a child on that voyage with the poison of ancestral blood flowing in his veins.

Many solutions are offered for the evils of our age. To the task of solving our social and economic problems, every person should contribute his share of service and money, but even then have we solved the problem? There is a cause for crime more far-reaching in its influence than poverty and the social conditions, out of which much evil arises. The cause for crime harks back to the problem of heredity, which argues again—every child has the right to be born. It harks back to the earlier days when into the development of child life there must be infused those ideals and motives for which true American motherhood stands. This idea is magnificently expressed in a Mother's day proclamation recently handed down to the people of Michigan by the governor of the state. "Never did the word mother have a broader and deeper meaning than it has today. The welfare of the world is related to motherhood. Would that the mothers of our sons and daughters fully realized the power they wield. Through the double standard of virtue established by man long ages ago mothers have unconsciously granted their son's license to disregard the sanctity of womanhood. When mothers shall insist upon as clean men for husbands of their daughters as they now insist upon clean daughters for wives of their sons a new era will have dawned in which the social evil and the white-slave traffic will have largely disappeared from our fair land. The highest type of woman is the mother. The word mother thrills the heart with joy and gratitude and gives to memory priceless treasures."

Ahasuerus' feast is a thing of the past, but the queenly spirit of Vashti who sacrificed position rather than conscience, who remained true to her sublime ideals of womanhood, the spirit of all this will forever abide. And, as we tell this story to our children we look up from the pages containing the Biblical narrative and, resting our eyes upon a picture which hangs upon the wall of our home, we behold in the Madonna (a mother with her child) the challenge as well as the hope of our future Christian civilization.

A widespread, hopeful disposition is your only true umbrella in this vale of tears.
 Do the work you have to do
 With a purpose strong and true,
 Every day.
GOOD THINGS TO EAT
 The simplest foods well cooked and served are the most satisfying to the majority of people for every day.
Claridge Beef Heart.—Wash and remove the arteries from the heart, wipe dry and fill with a good stuffing, tie up securely and roast in a moderate oven for three hours. Remove the strings before serving, and also pour a hot gravy around the heart.
Stuffing: Chop one ounce of suet fine, add two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one chopped onion, season with parsley, thyme, pepper, salt, and a grating of nutmeg. Mix well and add one beaten egg to bind it.
Spring Salad.—Grate or put through the fine knife of the food chopper enough carrots to make a cupful, add a little minced celery, a seasoning of onion and enough good salad dressing to season well. Serve on lettuce, dotted with spoonfuls of the dressing. Rhubarb and raisins make a good combination for a pie.

Plain Custard Pie.—It would seem that any cook might make a most acceptable custard pie, but the proof of the pudding being in the eating, we know they can't. Line a pie tin with a good rich crust having the rim stand up well above the edge of the tin. Fill with a custard mixture, using for an ordinary pie two eggs, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, and two cupfuls of milk, adding a generous grating of nutmeg or cinnamon if preferred. Set into a hot oven to bake the crust quickly—this avoids soaking it—then lower the heat to bake the custard, as that should not be cooked at a high temperature. Too hot an oven will make the custard whey, and become coarse grained. A perfect pie should be well baked on the bottom and have a filling of rich, creamy consistency. A custard is well baked when a knife thrust into the center comes out clean.
Tapioca well cooked and mixed with any bits of canned or fresh fruit, topped with whipped cream, makes a most delightful dessert.
Dumplings.—Delicious fluffy dumplings may be prepared as follows: Take one beaten egg, one cupful of buttermilk, two spoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt; sift in flour enough to make a drop batter. Drop from a teaspoon into a kettle of hot meat with plenty of bones to hold up the dumplings, cover tightly and cook eight minutes. Do not uncover during the cooking.
Everyday Good Things.
 If one desires a large quantity of sandwich filling for company, the following recipe will be a good one to follow. For small amounts it may be divided.
Cheese Sandwich Filling.—Mix together one cupful of sour cream, three eggs, one tablespoonful each of butter and sugar, a few grains of cayenne, one teaspoonful of mustard, and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat all together until the eggs are broken, set over hot water and stir until it begins to thicken, then add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar (hot) to the cream mixture. Cook until it coats the spoon, add one and one-half pounds of finely cut cheese, two green peppers put through the meat chopper and two red peppers also chopped. Add the peppers after the mixture is slightly cool. Use on slices of buttered bread. The cheese and peppers may be used, adding enough dressing to make the right consistency; in this way the amount may be varied to suit the need.
Carrot, Pineapple and Nut Salad.—Put a carrot or two through the meat chopper; to one cupful of the carrot add a slice of finely minced pineapple and a tablespoonful of chopped nuts. Mix with a good salad dressing and serve on lettuce.
Curry of Mutton.—Fry one large onion, chopped fine, in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Mix one tablespoonful of curry powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of flour, and stir into the onion and butter. Pour over slowly one and one-half cupfuls of stock. Cut two pounds of lean mutton into small pieces and brown them in hot fat; add them to the sauce and simmer until tender. Place the meat on a hot dish and arrange a border of hot cooked rice around it.
Liver Patties.—Scald a pound of liver and grind it with one-fourth of a pound of bacon and an onion through the meat chopper. Season well, form into small cakes and cook in a little hot bacon fat, browning on both sides.
Medley Sandwich.—Take two-thirds of a cupful of minced chicken, one-third of a cupful of minced ham and tongue; add cayenne and enough mayonnaise to make a smooth mixture to spread and spread on buttered brown and white bread made into ribbon sandwiches.
