CROSS PLAINS AREA GETS FIRST SNOW OF WINTER

Only 6 More Days In Tax Paying Period

CITY COLLECTIONS STILL COMING IN AT A RAPID CLIP

With but six days more in which to pay taxes without the addition of penalties and interest, local collectors are anticipating last minute rushes.

The city of Cross Plains having waived all penalties and interest on delinquent taxes during the month of January, reports collections about 90 percent better than for the same period last year. School taxes are likewise reported to be "coming in" comparatively rapidly.

Mayor S. P. Collins has declared that after January 31, all unpaid delinquent taxes will be levied upon, in the endeavor to satisfy creditors of the city who have agreed to accept a refinancing plan which would save this city approximately $60,000.00 if a substantial portion of all delinquent taxes are paid.

All penalties and interest are being waived on taxes, regardless of how far delinquent, if paid before the close of business January 31. A move is also underway in Cross Plains to get a larger number from this place to pay their state poll taxes before the county collector's office closes the night of January 31. The state poll tax is $1.75. It can be paid in Cross Plains by securing a card at the Citizens State Bank and filling out the card and mailing in with the $1.75 payment. Persons under 60 years of age who fail to pay their poll tax before the last day of January will be disfranchised from voting in all of elections of the year.

SOIL EXPERT TO SPEAK AT BAIRD

J. W. Chapman, soil expert with the State Conservation Service, will speak at Baird, Friday afternoon at two o'clock, the Review was notified yesterday by County Agent Ross B. Jenkins.

Mr. Chapman will discuss the cause of recent droughts and how future ones may be avoided. Also, how farmers may work with the Commissioners Court to secure terracing equipment for their farms. "It is one of the most interesting discourses I have ever heard and Mr. Chapman was secured for a speech in Callahan County only after a special authorization had been secured from the state department of Agriculture," Jenkins stated.

H. D. CLUB AT SABANNO RENOVATES MATTRESS

Miss Ramey gave a number of new ideas in renovating mattresses when she met with the Sabanno Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. Walter Havnors, Friday afternoon. The club renovated a mattress at the meeting.

In the business meeting the club day was changed from Friday to Tuesday, and it was decided that the club should meet with members in alphabetical order. "The next meeting will be with Mrs. Lavera Beebe on the fourth Tuesday, January 28," stated Mrs. H. T. Porter, reporter.

BABY GIRL IS BORN TO MR. AND MRS. RUDLOFF

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. (Dub) Rudloff are happy to announce the birth of an eight pound baby girl, Mary Annette, born Wednesday, January 22. Both the mother and baby are doing fine, according to the attending physician.

Carlos McDermott is convalescing normally from a slight attack of pneumonia.

TEACHERS OF TRADE AREA ASKED TO MEET HERE MONDAY NIGHT

School teachers of the Cross Plains trade territory who are interested in taking extension work, toward college degrees, are requested to meet Dr. Tom Havens, of Howard Payne College at Brownwood, in the auditorium of Cross Plains high school Monday night at seven thirty.

If the demand is great enough, Dr. Havens is to organize an extension class and come here once each week to instruct it. The course to be offered will be decided upon as soon as the demand of teachers of this trade area is learned.

PRIZES OFFERED TO STUDENTS FOR BEST ESSAY ON CALLAHAN

The Callahan County Centennial Advisory Board has completed plans whereby four prizes of $5.00 each will be offered to children of the public schools of the county. Subjects are to be drawn from county history-persons, places, or events of significance in the development of the county. Data must be authentic and source where the material for the essay was derived must be given.

The four winning essays in the county will be entered in the Walter Woodul State Contest. Letters are being sent to all the schools of the county by county superintendent B. C. Chrisman, who will explain details of procedure and rules governing the contest.

Prizes offered by the county board will consist of $5.00 for the best essay from a high school student of the nine high schools in the county which have 11 grades; $5.00 for the best essay of the elementary grades of these same nine schools; $5.00 for the best essay of the rural schools; $5.00 for the best essay from all the schools; Contest will close during Texas week in March.

The Centennial Board is also planning an interesting program and pageant to be given in the near future. Members of the board are Miss Mildred Yeager, chairman; Miss Eliza Gilliland, secretary; Judge L. L. Blackburn, Mrs. George B. Scott, R. E. Stephenson.

Durward Varner Leads School With Average Of 97 For Third Six Weeks; 98 On Honor Roll

Cross Plains school system has 14 high school students and 84 grammar school students on the honor roll for the third six weeks period. Durward Varner, a Senior, leads the entire school with an average of 97.

The third grade has 18 on the honor roll—the largest number from any class. The high school is represented with seven boys and seven girls. In the grades, there are 51 girls and 33 boys on the honor roll.

A list of the high school honor students follows: Durward Varner, 97; Billie Ruth Loving, 95; Evonne Westerman, 94 and one-half; Tom Arrowood, 94; Doyle McMillan, 93 and three-fourths; I. B. Loving, 93 and one-half; Betty Usrey, 93 and one-fourth; Harold Barclay, 92 and one-half; Ida Nell Williams, 92 and one-half; Colvin Lackey, 91 and one-fourth; Mary Ruth Longbotham, 91 and one-fourth; Josephine Harris, 90; Ross Hemphill, 90; Bobbie Neel, 90.

There are three members of the Senior class vying for valedictory honors this year. Their averages for the first semester are: Durward Varner, 95 and three-fifths;

Big Political Year Expected To Cause Heavy Poll Tax Payment

With only six more days in which to pay poll taxes and 1936 looming as the most politically important year in a decade, a rush at the office of Vernon R. King, Tax Collector and Assessor, is anticipated as January draws to a close.

Those who are unable—or do not desire—to go to the court house may pay poll taxes by securing a card at the Citizens State Bank in Cross Plains, filling it out and mailing in with the $1.75.

Perhaps the first election in the county for which a new poll tax receipt will be required will be held in this Commissioners Precinct—Cross Plains, Cottonwood, Dressy and Atwell—February eighth, at which time a $15,000.00 road bond is to be voted upon. Other important elections of the year include: first Democratic primary July 25, second Democratic primary—"Run-off"—August 22, General and presidential election in October. Aside from these elections, 1936 will also offer the customary school trustee and city elections, as well as possibly others which may be called by the various political sub-divisions.

The following rules concerning towns of populations less than 10, 000 are submitted by Vernon R. King, Tax Collector and Assessor.

"Only those voters exempt because they were not 21 years of age on or before January first of the year for which the levy was made and those who have moved into this state after said date are required to obtain an exemption certificate.

"Certificate-holders of those classes moving from one precinct to another must present their certificate to the tax collector for endorsement showing the new residence.

"Such a certificate holder moving into another county must present the certificate to the tax collector of that county for reissue or registration and endorsement at least 20 days before any election at which he expects to vote.

"Exempt voters living outside a city of 10,000 inhabitants who are permanently exempt from the payment of poll tax need not obtain exemption certificates, but may continue to vote as they have in the past.

"Young people who are now 21 years of age and those who may become 21 years of age during the poll tax year should obtain their exemption certificates before February first."

MRS. WILL RYLEE ASKS SECOND TERM AS DISTRICT CLERK

Mrs. Will Rylee, District Clerk, will be a candidate for re-election at the Democratic primary in July, the Review learned officially last week when her announcement for the office was received.

Mrs. Rylee has served one term in the office, being elected in 1934. She is well known throughout Callahan county, having resided at Opalin, Baird and Cottonwood, before being elected to the district clerkship.

She is the first to announce for the office of District Clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sipes and son, Wilmer Ross, visited in Talpa Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Little were Cisco visitors Sunday.

L. B. LEWIS TO RUN FOR COUNTY JUDGE IN JULY ELECTION

L. B. Lewis, former County Attorney, will be a candidate for County Judge at the Democratic primary next Summer, the Review learned this week when his announcement for the office was received for publication in today's paper.

Mr. Lewis was a candidate two years ago and although defeated made a very credible showing losing by a majority of less than 50 votes. In the interim he has been practicing law at Baird.

Mr. Lewis served as County Attorney of this county two terms. He was not a candidate for the office, however for a third term. He is one of Callahan's most widely known attorneys. His official announcement appears on an inside page of today's Review.

BRUNK'S LEADING MAN

CLARENCE E. KLEIN

BRUNK'S COMEDIANS TO PLAY IN CROSS PLAINS NEXT WEEK

Henry L. Brunk's Comedian, a popular favorite with Cross Plains audiences for more than two decades, will play a full week engagement here next week beginning Monday night, January 27. The show will play in Cross Plains under the auspices of Cross Plains Fire Department.

The company of 30 people, band and orchestra, will arrive here Sunday, the Review was told yesterday by Glenn Brunk, who was in Cross Plains and made advance arrangements.

Featuring virtually an entire new cast and several well known entertainers this year's show surpasses our every effort in the past. Mr. Brunk told a representative of the Review. Despite the added color and attraction offered in this year's show, prices in Cross Plains will be 10 cents to one and all, children and adults alike.

The opening night play will be "City Wives," a comedy drama presentation, said to be an expensive royalty production. Scenery and between the acts numbers this year are greatly improved upon, Mr. Brunk declared in the interview yesterday. Doors of the show will open at seven o'clock. Orchestra music will begin at seven forty five and curtains will rise promptly at eight. Adequate heating arrangements are being made to insure complete comfort, regardless of weather conditions outside, the Review was told.

LEGION TO SPONSOR PRESIDENT'S NATAL DAY BALL THURSDAY

Cross Plains third annual President's Ball will be handled this year by the Tommie Aiken American Legion post. The function will be held in the Polishuk building, next door to the post office, the Review was told.

The date is January 30, Thursday night of next week.

"Good music is assured and the price will be reasonable. Ladies and gentlemen are invited," said H. C. Placke, Commander of the local post.

Funds raised from the celebration will go to the Warm Springs Foundation to be used in alleviating infantile paralysis.

Pat Everett, of Big Spring, was a business visitor here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schaffner Jr., visited in Hico Sunday.

Dee Barr and family of Abilene, visited in Cross Plains Sunday.

IS VERY DRY AND PUTS OUT LITTLE NEEDED MOISTURE

Old man Winter's first blanket of whiteness covered the Cross Plains trade territory Saturday morning, when an intermittent fall of snow continued for most of the day.

Described as unusually dry, the snow was of little benefit in putting out much needed moisture. It was beneficial, however, the Review is authorized in setting back fruit trees, which would have budded early in a few weeks more of the unseasonable heat.

With mercury hovering about the freezing point, business in Cross Plains Saturday was virtually nil. The usual week-end crowds are absent.

Temperature moderated Sunday. It was late Monday, however, that most of the snow melted. Tuesday was still warmer and Wednesday and Thursday appeared more like early Summer days than mid-Winter.

With "Ground Hog Day"—February second—but eight days in the offing—speculation is running high here predicting an early Spring.

OBITUARY OF MRS. J. M. HARLOW WHO DIED JANUARY 15

Mrs. Annis A. Harlow, who departed this life January 15, 1936, was born at Fairland, Burnett County, in 1860. She obeyed the Gospel at the age of 13, and lived as a devoted Christian all her life.

She was married to J. M. Harlow in 1874. To this union were born six children; four girls and two boys, two of the girls dying in their tender years.

Mrs. Harlow was loved and honored by all who knew her. She had left this world now and has left behind her children and grandchildren to mourn her going.

There is another hand beckoning us; another call is given and glows once more with angel steps—the path which reaches heaven.

Our dear and gentle Mother, whose smile made brighter each summer hour, has left us. With the flowers, the light of her dear life down, as sinks behind the hill the glory of a setting star. Clear suddenly, and still, as pure and sweet her fair brow seemed—eternal as the sky and like the brook's lull song, her voice a sound which cannot die.

The blessing of her quiet life on us like the dew.

And good thoughts, her like fairy blossoms grew.

Sweet promptings to deeds were in her voice.

We read her face and heart reads a true and beautiful life.

School News
Last week was final exam week and everybody has breathed that sigh of relief. The semester has started with only a few casualties and everyone is working hard.

The boys played Zephyr in the tournament at Williams Friday night and won by a score of 27 to 22. They were scheduled to go into the next round with Cross Plains Saturday afternoon, but the cold weather and snow caused them to stay at home, forgetting the game.

The girls entered the Armory tournament at Coleman Friday night. Glen Cove did not appear. Likewise on Saturday morning when the Divide team failed to appear, they won by a forfeit. They are thus advanced to the semifinal game. These games were postponed on account of the weather, but will be played Friday or Saturday of this week.

The boys are planning to enter the Armory tournament at Coleman Saturday.

Mrs. Otey Cannon spent a few days, the first of the week in Abilene, visiting relatives and friends.

OBITUARY

We miss her in her place of prayer,

And by the hearth fire's light
We pause beside her door to hear
Once more her sweet good night.
There seems to be a shadow on the day.

Her smile no longer cheers,
A dimness on the stars of night
Like eyes that look through tears.
Fold her, oh, Father, in thine arms.

And let her henceforth be
A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and Thee.
Still let her mild rebuking stand
Between us and the wrong
And her dear memory serve
To make our faith in goodness strong.

And half we deemed she needed
Not the changing of her sphere
To give to Heaven a shining one
Who walked an angel here.

Joan started toward the room, then stopped to situation. The round table wavy tonight. She among the plants, dipping in the water. She must sometime to catch a goldfish to her room. Mr. told her that he had put pocket, and it had wiggle that he had flung it into the sea. Joan laughed. She liked people who like that. Joan moved from the fountain and Dick's door. It was open, but not in a friendly way here? What do you talk to you. Let me down the corridor; he then, come in, but you to come here. I've repeatedly. "Why aren't you crossing India?" he asked her "Because I didn't want to." "What did she mean by that? He watched her thoughtfully. "Tell me about yourself, Joan," he said, abruptly. "Tell you what?" "Oh, everything—who you are, what you are, why you are? Don't think me rude, I'm interested." "Do you care, really?"

SYNOPSIS: A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Marenia" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romantic, entertaining . . . and tragic . . . Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls. . . These characters are aboard the ship. Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudge, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper; Jenny, run-away wife, and Peter; Captain Baring, master of the ship—and his soul.

No, Go On With the Story.

"Yes," said Dick, shortly. "Want some?"

He poured out two liqueurs and drank his own in sips.

"Why aren't you crossing India?" he asked her

"Because I didn't want to."

What did she mean by that? He watched her thoughtfully. "Tell me about yourself, Joan," he said, abruptly.

"Tell you what?"

"Oh, everything—who you are, what you are, why you are? Don't think me rude, I'm interested."

"Do you care, really?"

"I'd like to know. It might help me to understand you."

"Old Southern family, boarding-schools, beaux, plenty of money one day, and not a sou the next," said Joan, flippantly. "And love in abundance, if that's what you choose to call it. 'It's been hectic enough, but not very satisfying.'"

Dick watched the pulse that throbbled in her throat, the ripeness of her lips, her disordered red hair, the shadowy hollow of her bosom.

"I've never done anything with my life," Joan went on, "just messed about, staying up late every night and sleeping every morning—killing time in between. Restaurants, speakasies, the theatre and places to dance—forgetfulness for a little while. I was caught in a tangle of excitement before I knew what I was doing, Dick, and here I am, gay at night, and ready to kill myself when I waken up in the morning."

Joan held up her glass, watching it through the light with fingers that trembled. She walked over and sat on the arm of Dick's chair, more sober now than when she had come into the room. How hard it was to make him understand the middle of her life! Always meaning to make things better, always sinking a little lower.

She curved her arm around his neck and leaned her cheek against his temples. Gently she stroked his hair, and let her lips stray over his face in caressing butterfly kisses. Dick sat without moving, until her mouth reached his. Then he seized her firmly and swung her into the circle of his arms.

"Cherub," he murmured, "you get your way, don't you? I ought to slap you, but instead you've forced me to make love to you."

He caught her roughly in his arms. Next morning he regarded her coldly across the breakfast table in the dining-room, regretting his impulse of the night before.

Joan looked appealingly at him across the table, dimly aware of his thoughts. What did love mean to her, anyway? Nothing, except the excitement of the chase. It was really only when she was tipsy that she abandoned herself to the more advanced stages of love what a long procession of men had loved her and slipped out of her life, while she waited at home for their telephone calls! It sickened Joan to think of it. She had been jilted so often that fear was a fixation with her now. Yes, she was a mess.

Now Dick! Joan helped herself to marmalade and thought that he was the most attractive man she had ever known—just as she had suspected. He did not need her at all: that was painfully obvious. She envied people who knew how to run their lives and control their own destinies.

Dick was looking at her searchingly. Miserable, she turned away from his sagacious scrutiny. Suddenly Dick felt touched. It gave him no pleasure to see anyone unhappy or disappointed. He knew, from his experience with women, that the worst hurt of all was frustration, for it touched them in their pride. Besides, she couldn't help it.

Baseball President

BROOKLYN, N. Y. . . Mrs. James Mulvey (above), daughter of S. W. McKeever, 84, president of the Brooklyn National League baseball team, succeeds her father in that office to actively manage the club's affairs.

"Joan," he said, catching her arm as she left the dining-room, "I want you to take the pledge for a little while and behave yourself."

"Don't be funny," she said.

Dick shook her impatiently. Don't wise-crack, Joan. It doesn't become you. I'm in earnest. You've got to stop drinking, and I'm going to make you."

She flashed him a wistful glance.

"It's no use, Dick; I'm sunk. It's the only relief I have. I'd do anything for you, but not that."

"Promise me you will for a week." His voice was urgent. Joan laughed in his face.

"Alight; it's a go," she said "beginning today. Watch me."

"Good girl!"

Funny, thought Dick, walking away from the dining-room, he was teaching one woman to drink and another to swear off. Undoubtedly it was the right prescription in both cases. He couldn't imagine that Miss Mudge was ever going to touch a drop when she returned to the States. Meanwhile, it would be a pity if she went home to Ohonto without a few memories or downright wickedness.

It was a great relief to have all these people off the boat. Three weeks of comparative freedom! His face was puckered with the sun as he moved away from the rail and passed a row of empty deck chairs. Hello! here was Miss Mudge, still on the boat for some mysterious reason, and under one's feet as usual. Today she was dressed in some sort of gingham thing—her tropical costume—with a hat like a coal scuttle upside down. God! how he hated white cotton stockings. Her stopped at her side and greeted her.

"Hello! You here?"

Miss Mudge was blushing violently. She sat up straight, and the stockings disappeared from view over the side of her chair. Was he dreaming, or had she painted on her cheeks at broad noonday, and shockingly misapplied? Good for Miss Mudge? She was getting on. Lipstick and sheer stockings next.

"I'm surprised to see you still on the boat," he said. "I thought you'd be on your way across India by this time."

Miss Mudge's responsive face was suddenly lost in a cloud. She rustled her papers, then lifted her head with a perky air and answered him; "No, I'm not going across India. I'm staying right here on the boat."

He checked an exclamation of surprise.

"That's topping," he said. "We're going to have fun together. I always stay with the boat, so I shall show you Bombay. Shall we start tonight?"

Miss Mudge brightened, like a lamp that has just been lit. "That's very kind of you, Mr. Charlton. I'm sure India couldn't be any better than the Holy Land."

"Were you so impressed by that?"

"More than words can tell." Her voice sank to an awed whisper. "Jerusalem was just like the coloured Bible scrolls we used to have in our Sunday school. It seemed so strange, after all these centuries, to see men walking the cobbled streets with their crooks and their beards, and looked the same as they never forget the night we drove up the Dead Sea and thought we did in our Lord's day, and I'll always wanted to see Getsemane and the River Jordan, so, I've brought her a bottle of water from the river. Agatha's never even been to

New York."

Miss Mudge's voice trailed off in a diminuendo of feeling. Yes, the Holy Land had glamour.

The train whirled through the Indian night and dust poured in the windows like desert sand. Angela lay awake, staring at the shadows on the ceiling in the stuffy compartment she shared with Patty and Mrs. Minton. Pounding wheels beat on her brain, disturbingly different from the vibration of the boat. Patty tossed uneasily on her hard bed behind the green curtain that shut her off from Angela. Her aunt slept peacefully, with all her anxious nights behind her in the past.

"Patty," whispered Angela, "are you asleep, dear? I thought I heard you tossing."

"No, I'm wide awake and choking with dust."

"Isn't it frightful? It's right down to my lungs. Why aren't you sleeping?"

"Oh, I have a little demon at work. I can't close my eyes. Aunt Nell is sleeping like the dead. She always does. It's an easy conscience. Toss me a cigarette, Angela, please."

"Perhaps if we were to put out this beastly corridor light things would be better. It's just like a green eye winking in on us."

"Here's my scarf. Hang it over the transom."

"That's a bright idea. I don't suppose it will stick."

Patty's strong young arms manoeuvred a temporary screen and she lay quiet in darkness that was now complete. "Angela," she said at last, "I'm going straight out to the Taj the minute we arrive at Agra, for the moonlight is perfect tonight and we mightn't catch it again. Tomorrow night it might rain."

None of them felt like luncheon when they returned to their hotel from seeing the taz and the Ganges at Agra, India.

They found Macduff at work on a new kind of cocktail. He was getting on with his list. He had crossed off the Blue Blazer in Jerusalem, the Sidecar at Shephard's, the Jabberwock at the Mena House, the Bombay Special at Bombay, the Thunderclap at Agra, and was now due to try the Union Jack at Benares.

He had decided not to go out on the Ganges, for he had been there before and knew the worst. In any event, he had a poor opinion of a race that did not drink. He was enjoying himself considerably and had no desire to look at the spindly legs of so many miserable men. It pleased him to sit on a wide and shady veranda with a glass in front of him, and a fakir trying to screw a penny out of his pocket. Macduff chuckled to himself at the mere idea of anyone getting a farthing for nothing from him. He was really enjoying the voyage more than he would admit. The roisterers were settling down, and nobody bothered him now. Miss Mudge was a bore—too skitterish. He had avoided her ever since Monte Carlo. Mrs. Wynant seemed like a sensible person, but he thought it dangerous to pass the time of day to any woman on a boat; she might turn out to be another Mrs. Langford.

His place in the bar was sacred now. He had glared every intruder out of his corner seat, and it was just as much boycotted as if a placard were up: "Reserved for Macduff. The dog will bite."

For some one who never spoke to a soul, Macduff had extensive knowledge of his fellow passengers. He spotted many things they did not know about one another—that was one of the advantages of sitting back and holding one's tongue. Life would be simple for a great many people if only there were less talk.

Macduff downed his fourth and rose in a mellow mood to eat his luncheon. As chance would have it there wasn't a vacant chair in the place, except across from Mrs. Wynant. Well, he could stand looking at her. He sat down and reached for the menu.

"Good morning, Mr. Macduff. Have you been on the river?" Angela enquired, turning her dark eyes full on his face. Macduff had never had any trouble in being rude and had cut more cordial advances than this, but the four Union Jacks were behind him, the sun was bright, and he liked the way that Angela did her hair. He thought he would unbend.

"No," he said.

"I suppose you've seen it before and then it doesn't matter. I took Patty Arundel with me, and it made her ill. Hygiene, you know. They teach the American young that cleanliness is far ahead of godliness."

Macduff looked suspiciously at Angela. Was she, by any chance, making fun of him? But, no, her face was kind and open.

"It's a pity your husband couldn't make the entire trip."

"Heavens!" thought Angela, "the man's a bore!" A shadow darkened her face. "Yes, I'm very sorry," she said. "He couldn't get away for so long. Of course, when one is a writer it doesn't matter where one is—work can go on. Are you writing, Mr. Macduff?"

"No," said Macduff, shortly. "I never combine my business with pleasure."

OFFICE

Northern Soy Bean Seed Cheaper In The South But Not Adapted
The various newspapers and agricultural journals have been calling the attention of the farmers to the importance of soy beans as a soil builder and as a commercial crop. So many farmers recently have made inquiry from the county agent about soy beans and their adaptation to the soils of Callahan that it was thought that this article should be run.

Farmers who shoot for bargains when they buy Mammoth Yellow or Laredo seed for planting may find that they have purchased instead the early Yellow Macoupin or Norredo. These last two named varieties are not adapted for the South. They belong in the North and even should they be sold at a much cheaper cost than the Mammoth Yellow or Laredo they are not worth the price. The Mammoth Yellow or Laredo are well adapted in the South and will mature in the Fall and maintain a heavy foliage until, in most cases, the first frost. The northern varieties when planted in the South mature too early during the hottest part of late summer and immediately shed off the foliage. This is not desired in the South. Extensive experimentation in counties all around us have proven that the soy bean can well be planted in Callahan and the two varieties recommended above should be insisted upon by all who plan to soil improvement and soil conservation that farmers plan such crops this year. These beans mature in approximately 145 days. They make luxurious growth and make one of the richest of feeds when ground or even fed alone, also produces a crop that is gaining favor on the American table.

4-H Club Boys are Enrolling

The boys of the county are showing great interest in the various 4-H Clubs that are being organized in the many schools in the county. About 20 boys in the Baird school signed cards for enrollment last week and Sept. Boren said he hoped all eligible boys would enter the work. Most of the school officials have agreed to give extra credit to the boys doing credible work in their clubs.

Among the projects being chosen are: bee culture, cotton, peanuts, pigs, tomatoes, watermelons, cantaloupes.
