LAST CLUB OFFER FOR CONTESTANTS TO WIN PRIZES

SCHOOL HEAD TEACHERS RESIGNATION

T. R. Haggard, who has been superintendent of the Cross Plains public schools for the past three years, submitted his resignation to the school board at their meeting Wednesday night of last week. The action was accepted by the board, but not effective until July 1st, and Mr. Haggard will continue as head of the schools until the completion of the present term, which ends about the middle of May. At the meeting of the board on Monday night of this week, Nat Williams, of Tahoka, Texas, was provisionally elected superintendent to succeed the present incumbent, and we are informed that he has accepted the position. The present superintendent, who has been at the head of the schools, and creditably assisted in their great advancement during the past three years, held a contract with a former organization of the board for a period of two years, which would have expired at the end of another term.

CENTURY PLANT IS PREPARING TO BLOOM

A century plant at Cisco, according to news reports, after sixteen years of watchful waiting, is preparing to bloom. The plant is owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. Rinehart of that city. A week ago a beautiful pinkish stem began to ascend from the center of its mass of fleshy, pinked leaves, growing at the astonishing rate of a foot each day. The stem has reached a height of eight feet and a knot of buds is already forming at the top of the column. The only other plant known to be growing in this section is at Brownwood. The editor of the Review has seen one century plant in bloom, at Moss Point, Miss., and if the report concerning the plant at Cisco is true, it is certainly worthwhile one's time to visit there and see it.

MAYOR DESIGNATES TWO CLEAN-UP DAYS

WAKE UP! RAKE UP! CLEAN UP AND BURN UP!

Wednesday and Thursday, May 8th and 9th, has been announced as clean-up days by the mayor of Cross Plains.

We must make Cross Plains cleaner, as fly time is coming. If you allow filth around your place the flies will germinate there. Some premises in Cross Plains are in bad sanitary condition. Maybe it is just carelessness. Look around and see if your place needs attention.

The city has agreed to haul all cans and trash that cannot be burned, if you will get such in containers and sacks, and it must be left in the back alley, accessible to wagons and trucks for hauling.

Wednesday at 8 o'clock all business men who do business in Cross Plains, are asked to come out, or at least send one hand, equipped with hoe, rake or shovel, or other tools to use in cleaning up the town.

Now folks, you can tell how people have been raised by the way they keep their premises. Join us in the move with heart and hand to make Cross Plains what it ought to be in appearance. If you are a business man, look back of your place of business and see if it needs attention. How about the old auto bums. Move them away, and see how much better your place looks. Let us all work together to make Cross Plains a town known by its cleanliness.

MARTIN NEEB, Mayor.

Jack Scott Editor Of Simmons Brand

Jack Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Scott, who is now a student in Simmons University, was elected Editor of the Simmons Brand, a weekly paper made up by the student body. Jack is a very popular boy in Cross Plains, and the Simmons Students have proven that he is very popular there. Congratulations Jack.

MANAGER GIVES LAST NOTICE ON VOTE VALUES PRIOR TO CAMPAIGN CLOSE

Just Two More Days!

And then the short sprint down the home stretch and across the line which marks the end of the race and the goal of the candidates.

Two days which hold the opportunity of securing the winning votes. Promptly at nine o'clock next Saturday night, May 4th, the last and final grand club offer of the entire campaign will be concluded. Until that hour every $20 worth of sales turned in or mailed will entitle the contestant to whom they are credited to an extra bonus above those to which they will be entitled in accordance with the regular schedule. Never again throughout the remainder of this campaign will another club offer be named, and next week will be effective.

Now is the crucial period, the time to corral every ounce of energy and bring every possible resource into play. Each intent upon outdoing the other contestants are now working in a frenzy of excitement and enthusiasm and the spirit of friendly rivalry becomes more intense as the race nears the end. Realizing that only today and Saturday remain in which to obtain extra votes through the building of $20 clubs, contestants are literally turning things topsy turvy in their efforts to accomplish everything possible before the expiration of this offer. The ensuing two days are expected to be the biggest of all in point of subscriptions turned in, with Saturday the banner day of all. THERE WILL BE NO CLUB OFFER NEXT WEEK, and the ballot box will be locked and sealed. It will not be opened until it is placed in the hands of the official judges who will make the final count and who will announce the winners one week from Saturday, May 4th, at 9 P. M.

May 11, at 9 P. M.

These two dates, which are indelibly engraved upon the mind and memory of every contestant. Reference to the calendar will show that neither are far distant, in fact, the LAST club offer will be over almost before it is realized. With the end of these liberal extra vote offers so rapidly approaching many contestants are building reserves of votes in order to fortify themselves against being overtaken by some of their competitors. This final club offer affords a splendid opportunity to strengthen one's position in the race. Subscriptions now count for thousands and thousands of votes and it is only during the next two days that a reserve can be built up which will withstand the terrific on-slaught of the final rush.

It is quite evident that the contestants now mean business in every sense of the term. The determination to win one of the coveted prizes is plainly written on the faces of those who visit the office of the Campaign Manager. Contestants are literally bubbling over with the historic John Paul Jones haven't-begun-to-fight-yet spirit.

Grand Prizes

The management also wishes to call the attention of our friends that the grand prizes have been purchased from local dealers and are on display at their respective places. The Chevrolet at the Dodson Chevrolet Co., the $300 living room suite of furniture at the Cross Plains Furniture Co., the $150 Bed Room Suite of furniture at Higginbotham Bros. & Co., the $100 Diamond ring and the $50 Diamond ring at Clovis I. LEGION CONVENTION AT BROWNWOOD

The American Legion Post of Brownwood has announced that the 17th District Convention will be held in that city on May 25th and 26th, and that every effort is being made to make this district convention the largest and most entertaining of any in the history of the Legion. Brownwood and the Brownwood Post are planning a series of entertainments that will delight the delegates, and include in their invitation of welcome that the other posts "roll up your sleeves and bring the gangs with you; and don't forget the ladies, either. A number of the Legion members and other visitors from Cross Plains will attend the convention.

An English newspaper comments that they enforce their laws in America. The other day one of the participants in a hundred million oil scandal got a sentence of three months in jail, and appealed that!

Mmes. Jack Noel and Frank Green made a trip to Coleman the first of the week.

BAPTIST REVIVAL TO START IN AUGUST

The Baptist congregation, in conference last Sunday night, agreed and announced the date for the beginning of the summer revival meetings. The meetings will commence on the Third Sunday in August, and Rev. W. T. Turner of Eastland, was selected to do the preaching, assisted in the services by the local pastor, Rev. A. E. Hill. The singing will be conducted by members of the local choir. The Baptist program was arranged to not conflict with the meetings of the other churches. The Church of Christ meetings will commence the First Sunday in August, and those of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches have not been announced.

WEDDING

The Baird Star of last week announces that on April 19th Miss Hazel Atkinson of Abilene was married to Mr. T. V. Longbotham of Cross Plains, Justice of the Peace T. J. White officiating. The young couple will make their home in Cross Plains, where Mr. Longbotham is employed in the oil fields.

CHICK WITH TWO HEADS, THREE EYES

One of the most unusual freaks of the poultry world, and perhaps the only one of its kind on record, was brought into the Review office by D. F. Merryman, from his farm a few miles west of Cross Plains, last week. It was a newly hatched chicken sporting two normally formed, but connected heads, and three eyes. The chick lived only a few hours after being hatched. The two perfectly formed heads, connected by a natural growth starting at the back of the bills and tapering symmetrically to one neck, bore three eyes, one on the side of each head and one between the two heads.

Dr. John Tyson, who has been afflicted with rheumatism for some time, was carried to the Sanitarium at Temple for treatment last week. He has undergone two minor operations of the ear and throat this week, which is believed by his consulting physicians will relieve the cause of his illness. His many friends in Cross Plains are hopeful of his speedy recovery and return to his home and practice here.

MRS. C. L. HAMLIN BURIED AT DRESSY

Mrs. Mackie Mai Hamlin, wife of C. L. Hamlin, died at their home near Cross Plains, on Friday of last week and was buried in the Dressy cemetery Saturday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Williams of Dressy, assisted by Elder Young of the Cross Plains Church of Christ. Deceased was 27 years of age, and is survived by her husband and three children. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bray of Rising Star, and a sister-in-law of Mrs. Chris Parson. At the time of her death, caused from an affliction of goiter, they were living on the Coleman highway, and her husband was employed with an oil company.

The Dramatic Club of the high school will give a recital Saturday afternoon at high school auditorium at 2 P. M. You are requested and cordially invited to attend this recital. Don't forget the date Saturday at 2 P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Jackson and children and Mrs. Fred Cutbirth and daughter were in Cisco Tuesday evening.

"Article 5. Section 3. The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction under such restrictions and regulations as the Legislature may prescribe. Until otherwise provided by law, the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of any Court of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several Courts of Civil Appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a Statute of the State is held void, and shall extend to such other questions as may be within the Court's Appellate Jurisdiction under the Statutes of the State in force when this amendment takes effect. The Supreme Court and the Justices thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, as may be prescribed by Law, and under such regulations as may be prescribed by Law, the said Court and the Justices thereof may issue the writs of mandamus, procedendo, certiorari and such other writs, as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to issue writs of quo warranto and mandamus in such cases as may be specified, except as against the Governor of the State.

LOCAL W. T. C. MANAGER PLAY POLO IN CISCO

Cisco first game of polo turned out yesterday afternoon to be a hard riding, close fought affair that furnished plenty of thrills for the crowd of almost 1,000 people that gathered for the event at the municipal airport. A two-point handicap allowed the Woodson poloists by the West Texas Utilities team, of Abilene came very near being the undoing of the power company outfit and it was only by superlative riding and superb teamwork that the better trained quartet from Abilene was able to put the ball between the Woodson goals for the deciding score in an extra and seventh chukker. The score was seven to six.

Indeed, it is altogether probable that a version of Roy Reigel's famous bonehead on the part of one overexcited Woodson player contributed to the W. T. U. victory. The woodson team, a darting, elusive group who rode their cow ponies with an adeptness that disconcerted the Abilene outfit and made standard polo form hard to maintain, played with a desperate abandon that overcame to a large extent their lack of smooth coordination while their expert horsemanship was time after time effective in breaking up Abilene drives.

The "bonehead" was made after an exciting fray that took place about the W. T. U. goal in the seventh chukker. Woodson had pushed the ball out of bounds, missing a score by a few feet and W. T. U. putting the ball in play, had contrived to bring it out of the danger zone. A Woodson player hot on the trail and in the open evidently forgot directions and with a beautiful swing sent the ball skimming toward his own goal right under the mallets of Abilene forwards. A few minutes and the deciding goal was scored.

Abilene opened the fray with a rush and sweep that made Woodson look pitiful. Before the first chukker had ended the utilities team had scored three goals. Hoppe Austin and Campbell took turns in driving the ball between the Woodson goals supported with smooth running and perfect teamwork. Dickie, captain of the Woodson team, aided by a two-point handicap allowed his team, evened the count before the chukker was over with a well directed drive that ended with the ball rolling between the Woodson markers.

Thenceforth the game became less one-sided and more exciting. Each team scored one goal in the second chukker so that count continued in a knot. Bailes scored for W. T. U. and Dickie again for his team. In the third period Hoppe, who with Austin starred for the utilities outfit, united the count in favor of Abilene with the only goal that was scored during that chukker. Again the fourth period both teams scored. Pierce for Woodson and Widmer for Abilene. The fifth period period was scoreless and in the sixth and last regular period Pierce for Woodson evened the count again when he drove through the Abilene goal after a hot and exciting melee.

The seventh and extra period was closely contested. It ended with Bailes goal that won the contest for the utilities team.

The lineups were:
W. T. U.—Hoppe, Fry, Austin, Price Campbell, Bailes and Widmer.
Woodson—Dickie, Ham, Pierce, Cotton, McCraw and Know.
Score by periods:
W. T. U. 3 1 1 0 0 1
Woodson 1 0 1 0 1 0

COUNT LUCKNER, THE SEA DEVIL

Copyright by Doubleday, Doran & Co. by Lowell Thomas

never being had been a member of the Flechner expedition, in which he had distinguished himself. The officer whom I selected to go aboard captured ships was a former comrade of mine, a fellow of six feet four, whom I met by chance on a deck. In response to my question whether he wanted to accompany me, he asked:
"Is it one of those trips that is likely to send you to heaven?"
"Yes."
"Then I'm with you. My name is Preiss, and you are after prizes. So I'll bring you luck."
My artillery and navigation officer, Lieutenant Kirchheiss, was a wizard navigator. Engineer Krauss was our motor expert. The boatswain, the carpenter, and the cook, the three mainstays of a voyage in a sailing vessel, I picked with like care. Of the men who were to go with me I only needed twenty-seven with a knowledge of Norwegian. There were just twenty-seven aboard the real Maleta. In selecting my men, I interviewed each candidate personally but gave him no hint of why I wanted him. I tried to read these men's souls in order to discover in them the qualities of courage and endurance that would be needed.

Now we needed a name for our raider. We needed one that she could take for her official name as an auxiliary cruiser after running the blockade. I wanted to call her the Albatross out of gratitude to the albatross that saved me from drowning when I was a lad. But I discovered that there was already a vessel with that name, a mine layer. Then I wanted to call the ship the Sea Devil, the name by which I personally was afterward to be called. My officers favored some name that would suggest the white wings of our sailship. So we compromised on Seadler, or Sea Eagle.

On a pitch-dark November night, the Seadler, with a small emergency crew, raises anchor and sails out of the mouth of the Weser into the North Sea. There, some distance offshore, we drop anchor.

At a remote place along the docks at Wilhelmshaven, men appear one by one. By the light of a dimly burning lantern I gather my crew.

Next morning a scow of lumber lay alongside, and we stacked timber to a height of six feet over all the deck, and fastened it down with wire and chains.

Every man had his role. Every man must now prove his mettle as an actor. Officers and sailors were given the names of officers and sailors aboard the Maleta. They had to get used to their new names. Fritz Meyer was now Ole Johnsen, Miller became Bjornsen, Hans Lehman became Lars Carlsen, and they knew me only as Captain Knudsen. We had long practice drills until the new names slid off our tongues without getting stuck.

Each man also had to learn a lot about his native town that he never knew before. I had already assembled as much information as I could about the towns listed in the stolen log book, and the rest we invented. Each man had to learn the names of the main streets of his town, the principal hotels, taverns, and drug stores, as well as the names of the mayor and other officials. Much of this sort of material had already been woven into the letters we had prepared for the sailors. Each man had to familiarize himself with the set of photographs that had been allotted to him, and the names of them all, the contents of his letters, and fix in his mind a whole new past life, according to the life of a sailor of the real Maleta whose role he was to play.

One of the mechanics' helpers, Schmidt by name, I had taken for a principal role in our strategy. He was slender, beardless, and of delicate appearance, and could pass well enough in woman's clothes. Norwegian skippers often take their wives with them on their voyages. The captain's wife aboard the false Maleta would seem natural and tend to disarm suspicion, and, besides, British naval officers are always courteous and considerate toward women. In the presence of the captain's wife, a prize officer who might board us would be more obliging toward us all. We had a blonde wig for Schmidt and an outfit of women's clothes. We took great pains in schooling him to play the part of the captain's wife correctly. One difficulty was his big feet. There was, unfortunately, no way to make them smaller, so we arranged that the captain's wife should be slightly ill and remain seated during any possible search and have a rug thrown over her feet to keep them warm. The other difficulty was Schmidt's voice. It was too deep, and he knew no Norwegian. Well, the captain's wife can't talk because she has an awful toothache. A wad of cotton stuffed into Schmidt's cheek, and there was the swelling. He did know enough English to say "all right." We trained him to say a high-pitched "all right" something like a woman with a toothache. Except for that phrase, he was so keep his mouth shut. We had a large photograph made of Schmidt in his costume, signed it "thy loving Josephine," and hung it in my cabin. Now the Britishers could compare the photograph of the captain's wife with the lady in person. So from now on poor Schmidt's name was "Josefena" as the Norwegians pronounce it.

We were ready to sail when, by Joe, what comes but a telegram from the kaiser's aide. I am to report immediately direct to his majesty. I guessed what was up. I had gone into the navy from the mercantile marine instead of through the usual cadet route. I had been a common ordinary sailor, and this had aroused a lot of antagonism in naval circles. There had been jealousy about my getting an independent command—highest of all naval honors. So attempts were being made to have my assignment annulled.

Even to appear in the imperial presence was a trying ordeal for most officers. Many took refuge in rigid "attention." Well, I had never quite got used to high-class manners at sea, and the rumored "attention" left me more embarrassed than otherwise. Even in the emperor's presence, I kept the same brusque manner of an old-time seaman that was natural to me.

The kaiser spoke bluntly.
"Well, Luckner, at the admiralty they now tell me it is madness to attempt the blockade with a sailing ship. What do you think?"

"Well, your majesty, if our admiralty says it's impossible and ridiculous, then I'm sure it can be done," I replied. "For the British admiralty will think it impossible also. They won't be on the lookout for anything so absurd as a raider (disguised as a harmless old sailing ship.)"

The emperor looked at me with a frown, and then his face relaxed into a smile.
"You are right, Luckner. Go ahead! And may the hand of the Almighty be at your helm."

I knew now that there would be no more official interference. The true Maleta was now due to sail in a day, so we made ready to pull up anchor. Then a wireless came from the admiralty:

"Wait till the Deutschland makes port."

Our giant merchant submarine, the Deutschland, was on her way home from her famous transatlantic cruise to America. In an attempt to cut her off, the British had set a double trap. So the Seadler would have to pass past twice as many cruisers and destroyers as otherwise. I still hoped that, if only detained a day or so, we might yet be able to slip across the North Sea ahead of the Maleta. But we lay there for three and a half weeks, and the sad news came that the real Maleta had sailed and passed through the blockade. If we now attempted to use her name and a search party boarded us, the jig would be up.

So we hurriedly examined Lloyd's Register in the hope of finding another Norwegian ship that might correspond to us. We picked out one called the Carmoe. We had no idea where she was, but hoped she might be in some distant port unbeknown to the wary British. It was a long chance, but we could think of nothing better. Now we had to change our ship from the Maleta to the Carmoe. Paint out one name and substituting another was easy enough, but changing all our ship's papers was far more difficult. But with much use of chemical eraser we finally accomplished it, and we had papers that would pass if the visibility was not too bright during the search. Then, when we were all set again, we picked up a copy of a Norwegian commercial paper and found that the real Carmoe had just been seized by the British and taken to Kirkwall for examination.

Now, if you haven't any luck, you must go and get some! All you have to do is know how to do that, and you will be a great success at sea, or anywhere!

So away with Lloyd's Register! Let's take life's register and name our sea eagle after the girl of my heart. Surely she will bring us luck. So, out with the paint and on with another new name—the name of my sweetheart, Irma.

In that name was concentrated most of the beauty that I had found in life. It symbolized strange moments of beauty that had crossed my path during the most trying days I had so far known. It seemed to be a lovely silken thread that had run through the years since that first voyage, when as a miserable cabin boy I sailed to Australia on that Russian tramp.

Of course, there was no such name as Irma listed with Lloyd's, and all any British officer would have to do would be to consult his register and, the jig would be up. But somehow I had a premonition that the name Irma would bring us through.

When we applied eraser and ink to our shipping papers and wrote in the name of Irma—disaster. Two erasures were too much. The ink blotted. If we should be stupid enough to take the British for fools, then we our-

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

JOE SAPPINGTON ON PATRIOTISM

Cave Creek for many years was the home of political prophets, chief among whom were father and Uncle Jonathan Lee. They freely predicted the overthrow of this government and the coming of an absolute monarchy and only differed as to the time of its collapse—Uncle Jonathan claiming that the time of dissolution was at hand and father said that it would stand if not shaken too much, for from ten to fifteen years longer.

What father and Uncle Jonathan said about the certain destruction of this government sank deep into my young heart and being a boy of action I lost no time in forming plans to avert such a calamity. One Sunday at the swimming hole I put Pink Hawkins, Jeff Watts, Sid Mason and Dud Huggins next and asked them to assist me in preventing the overthrow of the government. Let me say just here to their everlasting credit that each of them joined me right on the spot and promised to stand by me to the last ditch, notwithstanding their fathers as well as mine fought under the banner of the "Lost Cause."

The first thing we did after declaring our undying allegiance to the Stars and Stripes was to go to Jeff's house and get paper and pen and repair to the loft of the barn and address proclamations, manifestoes, etc., to kings and monarchs. I being the best scholar of them all and the recognized leader, it very naturally fell to my lot to do the writing, spelling and composition and I did all three so well that there was not a change made or even suggested from the original draft. It must have been a much more able document than the Declaration of Independence, as was written by Thomas Jefferson, for it should be recalled that, that historic document underwent many changes from the original. There was not the least bit of change made even in the spelling of my declaration, notwithstanding at least nine-tenths of the words were spelled wrong.

"To awl kengs and triunts an manarks talk notis, the ferst kyng or monark that cums a sneaken around Cave Creek tryen to brake up our government wil git his dern hed noct off, tak notis and sta off."

After writing five of these documents we all signed our names to them except Dud Huggins, who not being able to read or write, made his cross, which was just as good. We nailed them on trees and fences, where they would be read by the king's spies who chanceed to pass that way.

Pink wanted to know how he could tell a king from an ordinary man, should he meet one in the road and I started in to tell him, but Dud Huggins had found a deck of cards a few days before and produced the king of spades which as everyone knows is the exact image of a real king. The moment Pink flashed his eye on the card, he shone as you air born I seeed a king became excited and said: "Boys, as pass our house toether day. He was a driven an old mule to a cart and leaden three dogs and whistlen Black Jack Grove as hard as he could whistle and I'll bet he was looken for a place to set up his throne." Dud had seen this same party and agreed with Pink, that he lookeed enough like the king of spades to be his brother, but was not a king but a sheep herder who had hired to Uncle Tom Dodson to herd sheep.

In case the king did come to our neighborhood and set up a throne and should send his boy to the Cave Creek school we made it up to whip them every time we caught them swimming in the "Hole," we were going to duck them, and then tie knots in their "breeches" legs. But probably one of the meanest tricks that we were to play on the king, should he persist in planting his throne on the waters of Cave Creek, was to slip into his melon patch some dark night and plug, cut and slash every melon he had. We also planned to turpentine his dogs, scare his chickens off the roost, turn his cows and calves together, throw rocks at his hired hands, howl like wolves and scream like panthers around his house of dark nights in order to scare the Mrs. King and her children.

I kept the boys posted as to the status of the government by listening to father's and Uncle Jonathan's prophecies. I had a night mare one night after hearing them agree for the doomed that put a quietus to father's 200th title that this government was furtehr predictions. While in the embrace of this night mare I thought the king with his house-hold had arrived on Cave Creek and set set of his throne in two hundred yards of our house and was reigning with all his might and I had gone to his house to make him quit reigning. I had just asked him in the most gentlemanly manner to leave Cave Creek with his dirty throne and never return when he spoke to me in a rude, harsh manner, shook a large forked spear at me and told me to move my carcass out of his presence. while I had a chance; but Istood my ground and tolq him that I was on my native heath and no tyrant could drive me hence. Just then the king raised his spear to pierce my noble body and the three extra pair of family "breeches" that I was wearing, but before the tyrant could get action I leaped for him and struck his royal jaw with all my might.

It was father sitting by the fire that I had taken for the king, while having that horrible dream. I explained to him and thought I was acting purely in self-defense, but I had almost broken his jaw and he was so mad that he would have whipped me had mother permitted him. She told him that he was to blame, on account of his silly talk in my hearing about the downfall of the government. She told me thereafter when he and Uncle Jonathan wanteq to speak of the overthrow of the government to go out in the yard and climb a tree so I could not hear their silly predictions, "for," said she, "you know what an impressionable child Joe is—he believes everything he hears, no matter how idiotic." Father lost his prophetic hunch after that night and Uncle Jonathan had the field to himself.

HEARTS AND FISTS IN BOXING BOUT ROMANTIC DRAMA (CURRENT READER)

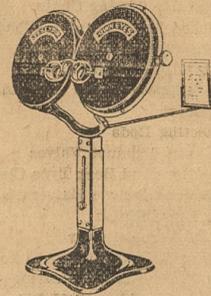

"Bachelor's Paradise" brings Sally O'Neill to the Liberty Theatre Friday in a story of hearts and fists. This Tiffany-Stahl feature tells of the longings of Katie for a Prince Charming. She sits at her window sewing hats for strangers and wishing that she were mending clothes for loved one.

Then Joe, a swaggering, boastful lady killer whose business address is the squared ring, breaks his ankle almost at her front door—and the next things that's broken is Katie's heart. How it is broken and, of course mended is told by author Cutis Benton in "Bachelor's Paradise."

Ralph Graves impersonates the hero, Sally O'Neill are Jean Laverty, Eddie and others in the castin support of Gribbon, Jim Finlayson, Sylvia Ashton and the Cain children, Jim Charles and Violet.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran wants to know what has become of all the grapes during the past ten years. Some of us, if necessary, can testify as to what has become of a couple of gallons of the juice.

A Wonderful New Machine

—Customers Test
Own Eyes!

We have installed in connection with our optical department a Shore Self Fitting Machine. It is a new and wonderful instrument made for testing eyes and fitting reading glasses.

With the Shore Self Fitting Machine in our store, you yourself can learn in less than five minutes whether you need glasses, or lenses different than you are now using. Simply turn a knob on the Self Fitting Machine until a lense is brought before your eyes through which you can see clearly and distinctly the letters on the chart. You instinctively know it is the proper one for your eyes. If a test shows you do need reading glasses, or a change in your lenses (if you already wear glasses) this wonderful machine will determine exactly the kind best suited to your eyes.

The lenses in the machine are lettered and you select from our stock the glasses this machine has prescribed for you. They are mounted in four kinds of frames—shell, gold-filled, alumnico, or combination gold-filled and shell.

New Six Cylinder

CHEVROLETS

since Jan. 1st

Sweeping constantly ahead to greater and greater heights of popularity... making and breaking new records of success with impressive regularity... the new Chevrolet Six has established one of the most remarkable records in automotive history—more than 500,000 on the road since January 1st!

Not only does this brilliant accomplishment surpass the greatest record that Chevrolet has ever achieved in the past—but it brings to Chevrolet the significant honor of having built in only four months a greater number of six-cylinder cars than any other manufacturer has ever produced in an entire year!

Even with such a record to focus attention upon the outstanding value of the Chevrolet Six—many people still do not appreciate what “a Six in the price range of the four” actually means!

To such persons, consideration of the features responsible for this tremendous popularity will prove a revelation. So read the adjoining column carefully—and then come in and ask for a ride in this sensational six-cylinder car.

COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

Outstanding Features of the New Chevrolet Six that have created this Tremendous Popularity—

6-Cylinder Smoothness

Due to the finer inherent balance of its six-cylinder motor—the new Chevrolet Six provides that smooth, quiet, flexible performance which is characteristic of the truly fine automobile. At every speed, the power is delivered easily, freely and without annoying vibration.

6-Cylinder Getaway

In sheer brilliance of performance, as well as in smoothness and quietness of operation, the new Chevrolet Six is a revelation. Acceleration is remarkably fast. And a new non-detonating cylinder head eliminates every trace of “lugging.”

6-Cylinder Speed

The new Chevrolet Six has speed in abundance—but even more important than its speed is the smooth, quiet, restful comfort you experience at every point on the speedometer. You can open the throttle wide with a feeling of complete security.

Better Than 20 Miles Per Gallon

The marvelous performance of the Chevrolet Six would be exceptional in any car. But in the new Chevrolet Six it is actually sensational—for here it is combined with an economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Exceptional Riding Comfort

Another vital factor that has influenced over a half-million people in their selection of the new Chevrolet Six is its marvelous riding comfort. It travels smoothly over rough roads—and its balance on turns and corners is exceptional.

Beautiful Fisher Bodies

Longer, lower and roomier—finished in attractive, long-lasting colors—and upholstered in rich, deep-tufted fabrics—the new Fisher bodies on the Chevrolet Six introduce into the low-price field an entirely new measure of style and distinction.

Proved Dependability

Tested for more than a million miles on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground—the new Chevrolet Six went into the hands of its owners thoroughly proved in every detail. And now reports of its performance on the highways of the nation pay glowing tribute to its endurance and dependability.

Amazing Low Prices

An achievement that surpasses even the brilliant performance qualities of this sensational six-cylinder car are the prices at which it is offered. Study these prices, and compare them with any other car and you will recognize the remarkable value represented in this Six in the price range of the four!

MODEL A FORD MOTOR IN SWITZERLAND

An official test of the Model A Ford motor in Switzerland, with the Alps as the proving ground, has demonstrated that the new Ford could be operated for a long, continuous period over abrupt, steep hills, without lifting the hood. Reports of the test have just been received by the Ford Motor.

The Ford motor was kept running for a period of six days and during virtually all of that time the car was enroute over the Alpine passes, a relief taking over the operation while the driver rested. Day and night the test continued. No attempt was made for distance or speed, the sole object being to determine the reliability and power of the automobile.

The fact that the trip was made when roads and climate conditions in the mountains were bad is cited as further evidence of the stability of the Ford car. A strictly standard Model A Ford with Tudor body was used. Zurich was the starting point. The hood of the car was sealed officially by a representative of the township. Two persons occupied the car, the driver and his relief.

Passing through Lucerne and the Grimsel Pass, the car took the Furka Pass at an altitude of 2,431 meters, then the St. Gothard Pass down the Italian lakes through all the large Swiss towns and back to Zurich. On its return the seals were examined by the official who first placed them on the hood and were found intact.

In each town the car was stopped, but not the motor. The motor ran constantly from the time the car was started in Zurich until the return six day later.

BROWN COUNTY WATER BONDS ARE VALIDATED

Brownwood, April 23.—District Judge E. J. Miller has signed a judgment validating the $2,500,000 in water bonds of the Brown County Water Improvement District No. 1, after a fight made by Attorney Robert Russell, local man, against the bonds.

The district was created and the bonds voted here last October by Brown county citizens for the purpose of impounding 128,000 acre-feet of water at the junction of the Jim Ned creek and Pecan bayou, nine miles north of this city.

Since the election there has been an almost continuous fight by outside interests. The fight itself created a great deal of controversy in the state and caused the passage of several new laws in the state legislature during the session just past.

The next step is to sell all or part of the bonds and begin actual construction work. The latter must be begun before September according to agreement made with the state water board.

The fight made by Judge Robert Russell was in behalf of "John Doe" and "Robert Doe" and was made because the back waters of the proposed lake would inundate a graveyard in the northern part of the county, Russell declared.

1ST CONTESTED CASE AT NIMROD IN 30 YRS.

Eastland, April 7.—Alleging that the defendants permitted waste from an oil well they owned to wash into a large surface tank he owned and ruin it by polluting the water to such an extent that horses that drank it died, S. G. Tomlinson has filed suit in Judge Elzo Been's 88th district court against Cooper & Walker for damages in the amount of $1,350.

The surface tank is located near the Hilburn Oil field and the oil well is on the "Shook" farm adjoining the Tomlinson farm, it is alleged. O. R. Cooper resides in Stephens county and Hal Walker resides in Eastland county the petition recites.

WHO KNOWS HOW AND WHERE TO LEGALLY FISH?

Carl Adams, game and fish commissioner of the Brownwood district, states in the Bulletin of last week that states in the Bulletin of last that many inquiries have come to him in regard to fishing in the Colorado river between Brown and San Saba counties and Brown and McCulloch counties, these inquiries being due to new laws governing fishing in San Saba and McCulloch counties.

According to the new law, enacted by the present Texas Legislature, the use of trotlines, throw lines of more than two hooks, is forbidden in San Saba and McCulloch counties. And inasmuch as the Colorado is the boundary line between Brown and these counties, those living on the Brown county side of the river, as well as others wishing to fish in the Colorado, have been in doubt about the application of the new law.

To be sure of his grounds, Mr. Adams wrote to state headquarters for information and Beal Jester, chief deputy commissioner, in reply has advised that the center of the river is the dividing line and that fishermen may use lines with any number of hooks on the Brown county side of the stream, but must comply with the new law on that half of the river in San Saba or McCulloch counties.

Mr. Adams states that this law will be rigidly enforced and asks that all fishermen take notice.

HALF MILLION OF NEW CARS PLACED ON ROAD SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

Detroit, May 3.—Evidence of the wide-spread popularity of the new six cylinder Chevrolet was revealed here today in an announcement by R. H. Grant, vice-president of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of sales, that more than a half million of the new cars have been placed on the road since the first of the year.

A significant feature of this achievement, it was noted, is the fact that Chevrolet in four months time built a greater number of six cylinder cars than any other automobile manufacturer has ever produced in an entire year.

This figure would have been even greater, Mr. Grant pointed out, if Chevrolet had been able to take immediate care of the tremendous volume of orders, with which the factory has been flooded since the introduction of the new car.

"Nearly every month this year has seen a new monthly production record. In order to satisfy the demand for cars pouring in from nearly every section of the country, output has been steadily increased as fast as consistent with the precision manufacturing methods which Chevrolet employs," said Mr. Grant.

To signalize the achievement of placing on the road more than 500,000 cars in less than four months time, Chevrolet has secured John Philip Sousa and his world famous band for an hour's broadcast over a nation wide hook-up Monday night. It will be the first time that the celebrated March King has been heard over the radio. The radio debut of the famous band master will come over the air during the regular General Motors "Family Hour," starting at 8:30 P. M., Eastern Standard time.

Although Mr. Sousa has played to more people than any other director in the history of band music, appearing once before a single audience of 153,000 people at the International Exposition in Glasgow, America's grand old March King on Monday night will have one of the largest audiences that ever listened to one musical offering.

Chevrolet officials expressed themselves as highly gratified that Sousa chose the Chevrolet hour to make his bow to the radio audience, after re-training for more than seven years from appearing the microphone. From the Chevrolet Motor Company, Roy C. Hays, Publicity Director.

WHOLESOME PLAY FOR THE CHILDREN

In the spring and summer especially, complaints are made of children "running wild" on the streets. Not very often are such complaints accompanied by suggestions of remedy or solution to the question of what the children do out of school or in their free time. As always has been, there again will be a "child problem" this spring and summer. But having joined heartily with those who dislike to refer to children as "problems," we prefer to resolve all so-called child problems into adult problems. For it is the undoubted business of the adult world to look after the interests of the juvenile world.

Children running wild on the streets do annoy us more sedate individuals. But until the community provides adequate opportunity for the exercise of children's instincts to play, the community is obliged to undergo that certain inconvenience occasioned by the unbridled self-expression of youth. Children not only have their rights, but they go about the business of exercising them.

From the child's standpoint, it must be remembered that even present-day civilization is but a step removed from savagery. The child true to his ancestral instincts, is essentially a hunter, a climber, a soldier, a little ruffian-like cave man who recognizes little or no property rights except those of his own conquest. And in the modern community there are few places where children can play except in those places of public travel and business intercourse.

A certain amount of running wild is necessary in the life of every boy or girl. Without this free play there is chance of a too cramped and disciplinary development into adulthood. We, as grownups, ought to stretch a point and stand for much of childish pranks. But we ought provide our children of the community such facilities as are possible to direct their recreative energies in channels conducive to wholesomeness. Work, study, research, association with others, the following of hobbies, the care of pets, the cultivation of plant and vegetable life, the encouragement in mechanics and youthful invention all come properly within the scope of recreation, and are subjects in which the best minds and most willing hearts of the community can engage the young people with pleasure and profit to all. In addition, there should be a growing appreciation of the need for directed playgrounds. That we are living in an age when these are as necessary as any other institution of social progress is apparent. Educators, social workers, judges and juvenile authorities know this. According to the superintendent of public instruction of one of the largest states in the Union, out of thousands of boys and girls investigated, not one received punishment whose leisure time was properly directed.

GRIGGS HOSPITAL OPENED AT BAIRD

(Baird Star)

The Griggs Hospital was opened to the public Saturday and on Sunday they had their first surgical operation when Miss Willie Gwin of Oplin was operated on for appendicitis, and on Tuesday, Mrs. W. C. The Griggs Hospital is small but has all modern equipment, everything in the hospital being new and up-to-date. There are fifteen rooms in the building, reception, office, X-ray and Violet Ray rooms, operating room, eight bed rooms and kitchen, all nicely furnished with every convenience. A new Castle Autoclave Sterilizer electrically heated has just been installed. He also has the X-ray Florescope and Violet Ray equipment. Mrs. D. C. Barton is in charge of all this department, also the office and surgical nursing, Miss Ruth Akers is nurse in charge of the hospital and nurse's.

Neither of these ladies need an introduction by The Star to the people of Baird, as they have both been here for some years and their ability as nurses is well known and appreciated, by all who have had their services.

Dr. Griggs is to be commended for establishing this nice little hospital for it fills a long felt want in Baird.

"Er-ah-sir," he stammered, "that is, your-er-daughter tells me that she-er-loves me."

"Ah!" the parent suggested helpfully, "and you have come to ask me if you can marry her?"

"No, sir," answered the youth blushing. "I come to ask you to make her behave."
