13 CHANGES IN '36 COTTON PROGRAM

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

You've all heard the one about the absent minded professor who put his wife out for the night and went to bed with the cat, but here's one on our distinguished State Representative Cecil A. Lotief that's even better.

Early Monday morning—two o'clock to be exact—Mr. Lotief's slumbers were disturbed by the crying of his youngest son. Thinking the noise was the alarm clock doing its daily chore, he jumped up, dressed, cooked breakfast and was eating before discovering the mistake.

Having had no similar experiences, the trick sounds especially dumb to this columnist, however, your opinion may be different.

Only eight days more of the Review's circulation drive. Contestants are moving at a rapid pace and by the time this thing is through your ol' home town newspaper should be a weekly caller in every home in the Cross Plains trare territory.

Our linotype man will perhaps set into type, with much regret, the following item.

A young lady from Illinois visiting here at present, has given him that "starrey" eyed appearance. Or is it those frequent misses from Abilene?

To Miss Susan McDermott, one of Cross Plains' most beautiful belles, and Cecil Andis, who were joined in marriage at Brownwood, Saturday night, this column extends its proverbial blessing.

Another nuptial of interest was that of Miss Iworney Walker and Dick Hindman, both of Burkett. The ceremony was solemnized by Justice Drew Hill here Saturday night. Here's luck and happiness.

Today is Friday the thirteenth. But don't let it worry you, for the situation occurs about twice every year.

A sport event which should attract wide attention is the invitation basketball tournament at Pioneer this week end. 28 teams are entered and plenty of hot competition is virtually certain.

The Pioneer tourney is one of the first of the season for West Texas.

Imagine a guy crawling out of the covers at six o'clock these cold mornings and dashing out to the city lake to shoot ducks and upon arriving there finding no less than 100 of the birds swimming close to shore, then delaying indulgently until seven before shooting, to comply with the law.

Well, "Doc" Powell did just that, however, it should be said that exactly five minutes before seven—after waiting more than a half hour—his shotgun accidentally exploded and frightened away every duck on the pool.

If you want to get "Doc" ire on an edge just say "quack", "quack", when you pass him on the street.

With a little oil excitement now brewing up at Baird a number of the fine citizens of that vicinity, who not so long ago cast disrespectful glances at Cross Plains because of our oil enthusiasm, are heralding to world that oil—the greatest of all natural resources—has been found near their town and that they're plenty glad because of it.

We don't blame them a particle and can't help being proud for them, that they're to share a portion of the blessing which has so benefitted this splendid little city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garner are visiting friends and relatives in Dallas this week.

WPA Work Moving at Rapid Clip Here

POURING CONCRETE FOR FOUNDATION OF BUILDING THURSDAY

Work was progressing at a rapid clip yesterday morning on the $13,800 W.P.A. project at Cross Plains schools. One group of workmen was laying a foundation for the home economics building, while others were elevating the ground level of the Southwest end of the campus and hightening the outside curbing.

Dirt for leveling the campus is being taken from the spot, where the football field will be allocated. Plans call for the removing enough dirt from the football field to permit filling in with a six inch layer of "outside" soil to encourage the growth of Bermuda grass.

35 men were at work on the project yesterday. The quota is 75 men but no more are as yet available, the Review was told. With 75 men working the project is due to be completed in four months, however, unless additional laborers are allowed from some source, it will perhaps continue through June.

The project calls for the spending of $13,800, all of which with the exception of $600. is an outright grant by the Works Progress Administration.

LOCAL V. F. W. PLANS TO PUT STONES AT VETERANS' GRAVES

Cross Plains Veterans of Foreign Wars are launching an effort to have marked all graves in Callahan county of "fallen" veterans. The following statement for publication concerning this projective was handed the Review last week by C. N. Brown, service officer.

"The U. S. government furnishes free of charge, headstones for unmarked graves of war veterans. There are reported to be many such graves in Callahan county; especially of confederate veterans.

"It is our desire to avoid losing the identity of these honored dead by placing stones at each grave. Anyone knowing of an unmarked veterans grave is urged to co-operate by passing this information to us."

POTATO GROWERS CAN SAVE 45c A BUSHEL BY GETTING "QUOTA"

Each grower of Irish potatoes is eligible to sign a potato contract if he sells as much as one bucket of spuds, the Review is told. Local producers are reminded to sign a potato application in order to get a "tax exempt" quota. Spuds sold without a stamp will be required to purchases from the post office a 45 cent stamp for each bushel, not exempted in the application.

PIONEER REVIVAL WILL CLOSE SUNDAY EVENING

A revival meeting at the Pioneer Church of Christ, which is being conducted by Evangelist Ellis G. Grubbs, will be brought to a close Sunday night.

Text for the morning sermon will be: "New Jerusalem". Evening sermon: "The Evil of Denominations."

BABY GIRL IS BORN TO CAVIN FREEMANS

Mr. and Mrs. Cavin Freeman, who live West of town, are parents of a baby girl born Wednesday night. The child has been named Shirley Ann.

Jim Settle and Lewis Norman Vie For Presidency of the Lions Club

Three officers and two directors will be elected for six months terms at the next regular weekly luncheon of the Cross Plains Lions Club, which will be held in the dining hall of the Presbyterian church Tuesday at noon.

Candidates for president to succeed Nat Williams, are: J. L. Settle and Lewis C. Norman. Potential vice-presidents are, W. D. Smith and Ches. W. Barr. Charles F. Hemphill, incumbent, is the only nomination for the place of secretary-treasurer.

LOCAL GIRL WED TO COLEMAN MAN SATURDAY NIGHT

Miss Susan McDermott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McDermott of Cross Plains was married Saturday evening at Brownwood to Cecil Andis, of Coleman. The single ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Foster, Presbyterian pastor, in the presence of only a few immediate friends.

The bride, a member of one of the oldest families in this section, is a graduate of Cross Plains high school and of the Sealy hospital school of nursing at Santa Anna. She has been employed of late at a Brownwood hospital. The groom is a prominent young Coleman business man, having been connected with a cleaning, dyeing and tailoring establishment there for the past several years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Andis.

CARLTON HOLDER NEW SALESMAN AT McADAMS MOTOR COMPANY HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Holder and little daughter, of Cisco, have moved to Cross Plains and taken a house in the Southwest part of town. Mr. Holder is associated with McAdams Motor Company in the capacity of new and used car salesman.

Mr. Holder, eldest son of John Holder of Cisco, is well known throughout this trade territory having formerly resided here as well as at Scranton.

KENDRICK ASKS PUBLIC FOR ADVICE TO HANDLE ANNUAL BIRTHDAY BALL

"As local chairman of the birthday ball for the President which has been held for the past two years for the benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers, I would appreciate the advice of our entire citizenship as to the best method of contributing to this cause," said Postmaster I. H. Kendrick to the Review yesterday.

"I want you to feel free to talk to me and frankly make any suggestions. This is your party", Mr. Kendrick concluded.

BURKETT CHURCH WILL HAVE XMAS PROGRAM

A program "Christmas for Christ" will be observed at the Burkett Baptist church Sunday night, December 15; sponsored by the W.M.U. Following the program a missionary sermon will be delivered by the pastor.

Monday afternoon the pastor will meet with the W.M.U. for a bible study. Later the ladies will pack a box for Buckners Orphan's Home at Dallas. Every member of the church is urged to bring a toy or a gift of some kind; also food or clothing, the Review was told.

45 ANIMALS BEING FED BY STUDENTS FOR "STOCK SHOW"

Plans for the annual F.F.A. fat stock show to be held here in the Spring are reported by V. A. Underwood, advisor, to indicate the most complete exposition of its kind ever offered in Cross Plains.

At present 45 animals are on feed, being groomed for the showing. The show will be divided into four divisions: calves, fed over long period; calves, fed over short period; pigs and lambs. There are 16 calves, 21 pigs and eight lambs now being fed, according to F.F.A. specifications and under the supervision of Mr. Underwood, by 24 students. Approximately $125.00 in prizes has been assured by local merchants.

Those feeding calves in the "long period competition" are: Hadden Payne, two; Jimmie Payne, two; Leo McDermott, two; Audrey Fortune, two; Glenn Payne, two; Deel Edington, one; Everett Deel, one; and Leonard Baum, one.

Feeding calves in the "short period class" are: Jimmie Payne, two; and Randall Aiken, one.

Those feeding pigs are: Weston Jones, two; Harold Barclay, two; Burnett Porter, two; Elwin Williams, two; Marvin Dill, two; Neul Ike Childs, two; Fred Klutts, two; Colvin Lackey, two; Paul Brashear, two; Stanley Pierce, two; Duke Pierce, one.

Feeding lambs are: Harold Barclay, two; Basil Lusk, two; Randall Aiken, two; Louise Erwin, two.

NEW VOTING LAW CAUSING CONCERN

Voters past 60. have a new law to contend with after February 15, 1936," according to Bob Whitney, who has made a particular study of the question. The time within which poll tax exemptions can be secured is between January 1 and January 31; neither before nor after," he said.

The new law makes no change in exemptions for those becoming of age next year. But those past 60 should familiarize themselves with the new regulations immediately otherwise they may find themselves without a vote during the most momentous year in the history of the nation.

BURKETT COUPLE ARE WED HERE SATURDAY

Justice of the Peace Drew I. Hill announces the marriage Saturday night of Miss Iworney Walker and Dick Hindman, both of Burkett. Luncheon will be served at the church at noon and regular quarterly conference will begin promptly at one thirty.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Walker, long time residents of the Burkett locality. The groom is the son of Mrs. Lila Hindman, also of near Burkett. The couple will make their home on a farm in the vicinity of Burkett.

WARD SCHOOL CHILDREN TO PRESENT OPERETTA

A Christmas operetta, "In Quest of Santa Claus", will be presented by 68 ward school children in the high school auditorium here December 19. Proceeds from the operetta will go to the library fund.

DRESSY BOX SUPPER NETS $18.00 TUESDAY EVENING

A box supper held at Dressy Tuesday night, the benefits from which went to the Baptist Church, netted $18.00, the Review was told yesterday.

W. J. Sipes was a visitor in Brownwood and Comanche Sunday.

CROSS PLAINS WON'T FORGET UNFORTUNATE 'KIDS' AT CHRISTMAS

Although no extensive drive has been launched to gladden the hearts of underprivileged children at Christmas time, several local organizations are planning to spread the yuletide spirit by distributing boxes of food and gifts.

Cross Plains Lions will contribute $20 toward this purpose. The Junior Study Club has raised $13 to be used in spreading cheer. Members of a number of local Sunday School classes will exchange toys, which will in turn be included. Individual contributions will also be accepted by local ministers, who will probably have charge of the distribution of gifts again this year.

THIRD AND LAST BIG VOTE COUNT NOW UNDER WAY

Candidates in the Review's New Deal "Everybody Wins" gift distribution are working every minute, forging ahead in their drive for supremacy, each striving to be the ultimate winner.

Many candidates changed positions in the final minutes of the second period, which ended Monday night. Some that were up are down, and some that were down are up. The closeness of the race has varied little, however, many exchanged a small disadvantage to a small advantage (and vice-versa) in the vote count.

Work will bring results: subscriptions mean votes. Some candidates are bringing in subscriptions, a few bring alibis.

The End is Near

Just a few more days and the last of the big vote period will be over. A few more days and someone will drive away in his or her own new automobile.

Right now 10 five-year extension subscriptions count over three million votes. The bonus votes are extra. Work will get them. Are you working; the results will tell.

Every candidate should make a report to campaign headquarters not later than Eight p. m., Saturday.

Monday Night At 8 Sharp

Monday night at Eight o'clock sees the close of the last big vote period in the Review's campaign for a fine automobile and valuable purses of cold, hard cash.

"Live-Wire" candidates are preparing to show outstanding results at that time, for the hours are getting crucial. A lead taken now with only a few days remaining and the vote schedule reduced so sharply after Monday night, means that the grand prize is virtually assured.

This is the time to redouble all efforts, Will you do this

CLYDE PASTOR WILL PREACH AT BAPTIST CHURCH HERE SUNDAY

Rev. V. W. Tatum, pastor of the Clyde Baptist church, will fill the pulpit at the local Baptist church here Sunday morning and night. The entire membership as well as the public is urged to be present, the Review was told.

EDUCATIONAL MOVIE CARDED AT CROSS CUT

An educational moving picture will be presented in the Cross Cut high school auditorium Tuesday night, December 17, the Review was told yesterday. Special music will begin at seven o'clock.

ALTERNATIONS LONG DESIRED BY LOCAL FARMERS INCLUDED

Highlights and changes of the 1936 A.A.A. cotton program were outlined this week by County Agent Ross B. Jenkins, who declared the plan contains many features which have been "long desired" by Callahan county farmers. 13 important changes were cited by the county agent.

The principal changes are: the new program covers a period of four years instead of only one.

The national base is reduced from 45,500,000 to 44,500,000 acres.

Reduction for 1936 not less than 30 percent, nor more than 45 percent.

Benefits of five cents per pound or $8.60 average per acre will be paid in one check after compliance is made.

Share croppers will share 25 percent instead of 15 percent as now; managing share tenants will get 50 percent instead of 57 and one half; landlords are to receive 50 percent.

Rented acres may be put to feed or food crops but must not be sold or exchanged off the farm. Landlords get no part of such production from tenants.

Same number of tenants remain on farms as from the last previous years.

Tenants will mark off rented acres before planting so that there will be no misunderstanding after the crop is made.

All producers must plant at least 50 percent of their permitted acres to draw any money. Failure to do so will cancel the contract.

The community and county committees will be given more authority to fix true averages.

There will be no flat cuts. Each contract must be corrected individually. Ginning receipts and sales records are the only acceptable evidence. Affidavits will not be valid.

Low yield certificates will not be distributed as before, but only to those showing the county committee where circumstances of unavoidable nature prevented a normal crop.

Contracts will be signed the first two weeks in January, according to plans at this time.

Contracts will be signed by the committeemen in each allotted community and not in Baird. Their history will be posted day by day.

The above 13 points are most important relative to the new contract, Mr. Jenkins declared. The county agent and the committeemen who are to be elected this month will discuss the plan fully at each designated community and more study of contracts by each signer will be encouraged.

No person who solicits votes will be eligible as a committeeman.

CORN-HOG PROGRAM ALSO HAS CHANGES

The new 1936-37 corn-hog program is announced and will be signed in January. It will pay $1.25 for hogs raised in the quota and only those who grow at least 50 percent of their base will receive pay. Only one payment will be made. Corn payments will be made in two instalments.

Corn and hog basis will be made by appraisal basis in the field by community committeemen according to standards set up by the Corn-Hog Section. The rented acres can not be used for food or feed but for soil improvement.

Benefit checks on cotton, corn, hog, wheat, peanuts, rice and potato will be paid from College Station rather than from Washington. This is expected to speed the payment of checks many months.

Rev. Van Pelt and Rev. Ross Respass attended a workers conference at Moran last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Varner and daughter left Saturday for Big Spring.

Mrs. Kate Coats and Children of Baird spent Sunday with her mother Mrs. J. D. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ellis and baby of Putnam visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ellis Sunday.

Marvin O'Neal of Hamilton was a visitor with Mrs. Eula Pruett last week end.

W. O. Peavy received a message that Robert Vaught of Dunn died Tuesday morning at 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Arvin of Baird visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Varner.

This community was shocked on the account of the sudden death of Mrs. Alice Freeland Thursday about 7 p.m. She had a stroke of paralysis.

Miss Alice Houston was born, February 6th, 1873. She was married to Petus Freeland in 1895. To this union were born two sons Betah and P. G.. Her husband passed away in July 1900. Mrs. Freeland was a good Christian woman. Having been a member of the Methodist Church about 50 years. She was always loyal to her pastor and church. She was a good neighbor was always ready to help in time of sickness and trouble. Besides the two sons, there are six grand-children, two sisters and a brother, and a number of nephew and a niece.

The funeral service was conducted at the Methodist Church Friday December 6th, at 2:30 p.m. by J. B. Baker of Goree, assisted by the pastor A. L. McCord and D. Dan Pelt. The nephews acted as pall-bearers. Miss Juanelle Sparks, Minnie Coppinger, Roma Lee Black and Laverne Mitchell were flowers girls.

"THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" TO SHOW AT LIBERTY SUNDAY

"The Whole Town's Talking," the exciting Columbia comedy-drama which, the cinema sages say, affords Edward G. Robinson his greatest screen character role to date, will open its local engagement at the Liberty Theater Sunday.

Based on a story by W. R. Burnett, who also wrote the famed Robinson film, "Little Caesar," "The Whole Town's Talking" was directed by John Ford, whose recent pictures include "The Lost Patrol," "Judge Priest" and "The World Moves On." Robinson is cast in the thrilling role of an inoffensive little clerk who carouses through a series of laugh-laden adventures when his startling resemblance to an escaped desperado is discovered. This new characterization marks Robinson's first attempt at screen comedy having already firmly established himself as screendom's Public Enemy No. 1.

Jean Arthur is featured opposite Robinson as a flip young stenographer whom the meek clerk has adored for years. But only when his name races across the nation's front page is he able to summon up enough courage to tell her of his love. Miss Arthur appeared recently to great advantage in "Most Precious Thing In Life" and "Whirlpool."

Wallace Ford is the jovial, wise-cracking young reporter; Arthur-Bryon shies away from being prison warden and presidents for a change to enact the role of District Attorney; and Etienne Girardot, who distinguished himself as the religious fanatic in the stage and screen versions of "Twentieth Century," appears as the nervous and harassed head clerk whose main interest in life is getting Robinson to finish up a certain account.

Melba and Opal Wooldrige spent Saturday with Athlee Hunter.

Mrs. L. O. Payne, of Cross Plains has been in Santa Anna most of the week at the bedside of her father, who has been quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Ressie Browning and daughter of Brownwood were visitors here over the week end.

COOL WATERS

In Three Instalments

SYNOPSIS—Young, ambitious and efficient Donald Fisk of New York, engineer and key field man for a small oil corporation, is sent into the desert heat of El Centro, S. A., to bring in paying wells in a very promising field. He takes his young wife, Gloria, with him and together they endure the soul-trying heat and dust in the blazing desert. Against great odds, the drilling has progressed until Fisk is certain that oil will be struck, so he makes steamer reservations to take them home and away from the hardships his young wife has endured so bravely. Gloria is beside herself with joy and days too soon starts to pack luggage. Then...

Second Instalments

Gloria regained control of herself with an effort and her flower-like face broke into a smile. "I'll be patient. Only don't let anything happen."

As he left the house, Donald told himself with a pang that he had a sick girl on his hands. Gloria was sicker than she had permitted him to realize and it had taken this brief flicker of animation at the prospect of going home to show him just how weak she really was. She was fragile, bloodless, the life and the laughter had gone out of her. As a matter of fact, he had watched it go day by day for months and he had tried vainly to check it, but never before had he appreciated to what extent she had failed. If anything should happen to her—Don closed his eyes and refused to face such a thought. Only ten days more then they would go north to those green fields and cool waters of which she was forever wistfully speaking. Ten days wasn't long.

This certainly was not a woman's country. Least of all was it a country for a lovely, high bred creature like Gloria. But Don it had been this or nothing. Gloria had been willing, nay eager to marry him, even against her family's advice and even though it had meant exile. Nor had she once complained, at least not until today when it was all over and she could voice her hatred of this life without hurting him. That was like her, to fade away, if need be, to die by inches at his side, without complaint.

One thing was sure—without Gloria's love to strengthen him he would never have had the courage and the pertinacity to win his fight against the desert. The mere fact that his own money and that of his friends was sunk in the ElCentro field would not have been sufficient to keep him here. Not by any means. But with a wife Gloria, a man couldn't quit; he couldn't tolerate failure of any sort.

If he and Gloria had been able to get away once in a while it would not have been so bad, but money from the wells which he had somehow managed to drill had gone into new equipment, into storage tanks, tank cars, drilling rigs, leases, and the like; for in order to live at all in this business it had been necessary to expand, and as a result production had not quite kept pace with expenditures. It had been the old, heart-breaking story of most so-called successful oil enterprises—just enough encouragement to render it impossible to let go. But the company had real holdings now, and with the Homestake making five thousand barrels a day, yes, or even one-half that, it would be out of the red in no time and its stock would be worth a lot. It would be worth so much that Gloria could well afford to give her family the laugh. Something like a million dollars, that's what it would mean to them. And Homestake couldn't miss. ElCentro wasn't that kind of a pool. Once inside the limits a man was as safe as if his money were in the Bank of England.

Ten days more, then New York with its shops and its lights and its theaters. He'd show Gloria that he wasn't merely a machine eternally thinking, talking, dreaming, living oil. He'd prove that he was the wildest, the most extravagant, the most devoted lover the world had ever seen. The things he would buy for her—the love, the tenderness he'd shower upon her! He'd repay her for the faith and for the courage she had shown. Ten days more!

Gloria ate but little supper that night. She attributed her lack of appetite to excitement, to the anticipation of leaving, but as a matter of truth, Francesca, the one servant they could afford, had been more than usually shiftless that afternoon and the young wife herself had been forced to prepare the meal. Any exertion of late left her upon the ragged edge of utter lollap.

Donald's sympathetic remonstrance was interrupted by old Pedro, the water man. Pedro halted his groaning truck outside the house and called something in Spanish that took Fisk away from the table and out into the road. Gloria had mastered only a few words of the language. The clemate had robbed robbed women of energy both physical and mental—hence she could not understand what was being said. When Don returned, he forestalled her anxious query by announcing:

"McKay's in some sort of trouble and I've got to run out there again."

Don't worry—it's nothing much."

"What kind of trouble?" Gloria's tired face was suddenly drawn with apprehension.

"Some kind of a fishing job—Pedro didn't know just what." Fisk came around the table and kissed his wife. "Don't fret, and don't wait up for me. You know how long everything takes around a well. I may not get it fixed before morning." He smiled reassuringly and playfully pinched her ear. "Can't afford to risk any delay for the sake of a little sleep eh?"

With sinking heart Gloria watched him go, for there had been something in his voice that belied his cheerful words. This hateful oil business! Its hazards were never ending; there was a malignant genius in the wells that took delight in wrecking human plans and killing high hopes, however well founded.

Don returned for breakfast, hot and tired and dirty; he began gruffly: "I was afraid of McKay! He dropped a tool in the hole."

"What does that mean?" "He didn't set up his joint properly, I presume. Anyhow, it means we've got to fish it out."

"Is that a—a long job!"

"Not necessarily; depends on how the stem is cocked and things like that. We're going to take a picture of it—you know, lower a soap mold and take an impression. While they're doing that I'm going to get a few hours' sleep—I haven't been off my feet all night. Lord, it's hot!"

Fisk lay on his bed all that morning, and he perspired in his sleep. Meanwhile his wife went on with her packing and her unpacking. There was indeed very little to get ready and it was a foolish waste of effort, but she had to do something with her hands and this occupation gave her the same pleasure she had derived from folding and unfolding her doll's clothes for imaginary journeys. She had loved to play that game when she was a tiny girl and she was becoming very childish of late.

Don left again during the most cruel heat of the afternoon; he returned about midnight and Gloria gathered from what he told her that these fishing jobs were tedious at best and that the crew was getting along as well as could be expected.

For two days his nightly report was the same. Had the accident occurred earlier, he would have proceeded, upon failure to grapple the troublesome bit stem, to sidetrack the obstruction, so he explained. In other words he would have drilled past it by allowing the second bit to be deflected by the first. The lost tool was in reality a forty-foot steel shaft standing in the bottom of the hole, and it weighed many hundreds of pounds. Inasmuch as it was tipped so that its upper end rested against the side of the well, it was not easy to get hold of it. This new drilling would have resulted in a crooked hole fifty or sixty feet deep and would have left the obstructing tool standing upon a shelf of rock. By exploding a small shot a few feet below this shelf the lost bit could have been dropped into the pocket—sidetracked—after which the old shaft could have been carried on.

But Fisk declared he was afraid to attempt this maneuver so close to the structure. Other oil men had warned him against doing so. Twice something of the sort had been tried in the El Centro field and in each instance a ruined well had resulted. The shots had seared the rock—due perhaps to some peculiar characteristic of the formation. Again he told his wife not to worry; new fishing tools were on the way up from the coast; McKay might have the obstruction out before they arrived—in fact, he might get hold of that bit stem at any moment. That was the way with fishing jobs.

Don maintained this hopeful attitude; in his wife's presence he continued to be cheery, but at the Homestake, where he spent twenty out of every twenty-four hours, he was anything but optimistic. Nor was he a pleasant person to get along with. Under ordinary circumstances he would have refused to be unduly perturbed by the oil game and grappling blindly for a bit stem in the bottom of a steel-lined shaft a quarter of a mile deep is slow work at best. Sometimes it takes weeks.

But circumstances were not ordinary. Gloria's heart was set on catching that boat the days were slipping past, and Don could no longer blind himself to the truth that she was seriously ill and ought to go. And yet there was nobody here he could send with her, nor could he leave until the well was in. The directors wouldn't stand for that, even if he could bring himself to do such a thing. It so happened—as it usually does happen—that no time in the entire history of the company's operation could have been more unpropitious than the present for a mishap such as this. The treasury was low, there were bank loans soon to be met! nothing less than big new "production could avert a serious crisis. If he lost the Homestake, the company was wrecked.

Fisk told his wife grimly one day mercy, but it was maddeningly futile work, this blind grappling, this interminable experimenting with one device after another. He became irritable and jumpy; his hands shook when he wiped the stinging sweat out of his eyes; he cursed the desert aloud when its heat rendered the work doubly hard. Working on that derrick floor was like working upon a bed of coals. Every piece of metal that flesh fell upon was hot enough to blister; the stale water that he and his men swilled down their throats was tepid, and even in their sleep they were thirsty.

Fisk told his wife grimly one day that they could not make the boat. She took the announcement much as she would have taken a blow in the face. It left her pallid and stricken with something infinitely worse than pain. She crept away, and a few minutes later he found her weeping. She made no sound, there was no expression of grief upon her face, but tears of utter exhaustion were coursing down her cheeks.

"Honey! Honey girl!" her husband cried in agony. "Don't take it like that!" She tried to smile. "I'm so tired, Don! I've been planning so. Oh, Don, I haven't strength left to stand another disappointment!"

"We'll catch the next boat, sure." "I've been thinking so much about the green grass and the cool waters! I'm so hot—so tired!"

Fisk nodded; his face was working. "I know. But I can't leave. I can't—without throwing away everything we've fought for. The company will go to smash—you understand! I'd chuck it all if it were mine, but the crowd relies on me. They'd never forgive me. I'd be a quitter!"

"I suppose so." Gloria tried unsuccessfully to check the tears. "My people, too! We wouldn't have our triumph, would we? You mustn't mind me, I'm such a baby! I'll be all right as soon as I get home."

Day after day the work at the well went on. Many times Fisk was tempted to blast, but the men talked him out of the idea.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of thanking friends and neighbors, who were so kind, friendly and considerate in our recent bereavement caused by the sudden passing of our dear mother. Words fail miserably to express the real appreciation that is on our hearts. To each and every one of you who were so thoughtful, please accept this simple expression as a personal conveyance of our gratitude.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

OUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities, poison the system when retained. Then you may suffer nagging back-ache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen limbs; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

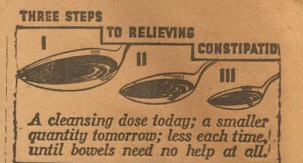

DOAN'S PILLS

Mrs. Lou Nation of California is visiting her sisters, Mrs. W. A. McGowan, and Mrs. John Baum here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Otey Cannon have as their guest this week Mr. Cannon's sister, Mrs. E. E. Cogdell and daughter of Abilene.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use a liquid laxative.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

"OUTLAWED GUNS" IS BOOKED HERE FRIDAY

For sheer excitement, resulting not only from tense situations but also from furiously paced action, "Outlawed Guns," the Universal adventure drama which opens an engagement of two days at the Liberty Friday, takes high rank. Buck Jones is starred in the leading role, and takes full advantage of his opportunities. Ruth Channing is altogether charming in the principal feminine role, and others in the large cast who do exceptionally good work are Roy D'Arcy, Frank McGlynn, Sr., and Pat O'Brien.

In the story, Jones is seen as the older brother of O'Brien, a young man whose gambling debts place him in the power of unscrupulous men and who eventually joins their robber band. It is when the gang robs a stage coach that Jones takes the trial of the bandits primarily to rescue his young brother but later to wreak vengeance on the others in the band. These sequences are vastly thrilling and bring the picture to a climax in which romance enters the life of the stalwart Buck.

The scenic background of "Outlawed Guns" is picturesque and beautiful, and adds greatly to the enjoyment of the story.

The Woman's Angle

Since the vogue for the platinum blonde died a social death, Europe has been swept by a craze for historical hairdress. Mesh nets such as Queen Alexandra wore in England as the bride of Edward VII are popular, with the chenille dots and balls of the front of the net being replaced by a tracery of pearls, jeweled clips and sometimes a few ostrich feather tips.

Evening make-up for back and shoulders becomes less of a problem if you keep a bottle of liquid powder on your bathroom shelf. Properly applied, allowed to dry and whisked off lightly with a bit of cotton, and you can rest assured your back will remain perfectly groomed all evening.

When salad was only a hot weather dish, little attention was paid it during the rest of the year. Today we have an almost unlimited variety from the simplest salad of greens to the salad that serves as a complete meal. With the latter fingers of toast spread with anchovy butter, sardine paste or with minced ham mixed with chili sauce are delicious accessories. Hot cheese sandwiches and peanut butter and bacon on toast are also good suggestions.

Simplicity in the dress and make-up seems to be the answer to the problem of how the efficient, yet feminine business woman keeps up appearance, and self-confidence. But simplicity never means drabness. A single piece of costume jewelry, perhaps. A little rouge and a little lipstick, but never mascara or eye shadow for daytime use. Dresses that won't wrinkle, and shoes of the sturdy heel type.

Many of the new winter dresses call attention to the hip lines. Buttons placed below the belt, fullness
