Our huudred-plus temperatures were finally broken Saturday when a front came over this area with some dark clouds, thunder and very little rain. Most gauges measured around two tenths Saturday and Sunday. The cooler weather has been good. Monday morning brought more clouds with only a trace of rain.

More people here are hauling water for house use as more earthen tanks are drying up. This writer visited with Mrs. Gene Mauldin Monday and she reported on their grass fire of last Monday. The family was up part of the night due to burning trees near their house. These trees burned into roots under the ground leaving holes. Their north fence is being rebuilt this week. Also Jimmy and Joy West were up until 3 a.m. that night watching and keeping fire under control on his brother's place that joins the Mauldin place. Alton Horsnby of Cross Plains also had a unit of the Cross Plains Fire Department on the south side of his place to keep the fire there under control. We hope there will be more care along the highways by travelers who might toss out cigarettes.

"... no other equipment sold today equals Lilliston."

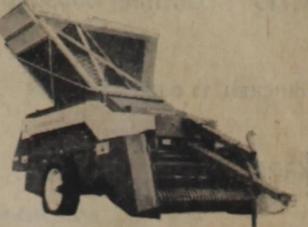

The Ross family - Renee, Chad and Dale. That Lilliston will probably be bringing them in when Chad's doing the driving.

Dale Ross, Route 2, Wetumka, Oklahoma 74883, puts it straight and strongbetter than we could ever say it. "In Caddo County and here in Hughes County we've used Lilliston peanut equipment for over 20 years. 'My Dad and I became sold on Lilliston combines after using then; in Caddo County. I've continued to buy Lilliston equipment in Hughes County because I believe no other equipment sold today equals Lilliston.

'My Lilliston is five years old, and still in great condition to help me harvest over 100 acres this year."

LILLISTON 1580 PEANUT COMBINE

Weighing only 5900 pounds, the 1580 is a real heavyweight when it comes to performance. No dead weight here-every pound's working for you and it brings in a payload as big as anything in its class. And in the Lilliston 1580, you have an exclusive separator system which adjusts to a wide range of field conditions.

THE LILLISTON 6000 HI-CAP PEANUT COMBINE

This is the big one-the premium combine for premium harvests. It will get more peanuts better and faster than any other combine in the field. And in engineering detail and construction, the Lilliston Hi-Cap is superb-polished close to perfection since its introduction in 1972.

In recent weeks the hamlet on the banks of the Pecan Bayou has been running short of water, as has many other communities and cities in this section of Texas.

Monday a backhoe operator from Coleman dug a hole in the dry bed of the Pecan Bayou for the Burkett Water Supply Corporation searching for a new water supply sources. The well was dug about halfway between the old and new highway bridges to a depth of about 10 feet. Digging went through a 14-inch shale and into a lower, water-bearing gravel.
