HERD TROUNCES RISING STAR 13 TO 0

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Nothing throws a newspaperman open to criticism more than picking of an all conference football team. And the first scribe to announce his selections automatically becomes the target for all who disagree.

Nevertheless, our bacon and beans are made by recording the news as we see it—fairly and impartially and without fear or favor—therefore we hand you here with our selection of an all conference football team for district 14-B. Here they are:

Player	Team	Position
Hancock	Rising Star	L.E.
J. Lusk	Cross Plains	L.T.
Mason	Albany	L.G.
Hammett	Pioneer	C.
Lackey	Cross Plains	R.G.
Taylor	Clyde	R.G.
Flores	Baird	R.E.
Capps	Albany	L.H.
Webb	Cross Plains	R.H.
Gracey	Caddo	Q.E.
Howard Harris	Pioneer	F.B.

Honorable mention: Taulk, Clyde; Mays, Cross Plains; B. Everett, Putnam; Arndt, Albany; Cross, Cross Plains; Egnel, Clyde; Austin, Baird; B. Lusk, Cross Plains; Barton, Pioneer, Gibson, Rising Star; Hart, Albany.

This year there were nine teams in the conference, all of comparatively equal ability. Each town, and most every fan, has some certain star, which he believes worthy of all conference honors. It is quite impossible to place every good man, however, and if we have erred, it is entirely through deficiency and not by choice.

To an outsider the above selection may appear a bit top-heavy with Cross Plains athletes, there being three named on the mythical squad. However, it is our frank and candid opinion that had not the local delegation been ruled ineligible they would have copped the district crown.

Other coaches and sport scribers of this district will contribute their selections within the next few days. And as soon as all are in, an official team will be chosen from the nominations.

Here's humorous one on J. T. Cross, speedy Cross Plains back, who was with-held from the Rising Star game because of illness.

Last week he was confined to bed with tonsillitis and the attending physician prescribed some type of capsules. The capsules were purchased and brought to his bedside for him to swallow. He looked at the "dose" a while and then questioned of his mother: "Do you swallow this thing with the hull on it?"

Believe it or not, he had never before seen a capsule.

A good deal of talk is abroad concerning a football game between the Cross Plains high school Buffaloes and a local all-star delegation. The game is being boomed for next Wednesday afternoon.

The all-stars have delegated this column to inform Coach Buck Osburn and his charges that they are ready for the fray, anytime and anywhere. In the event the game is accepted by the thundering herd the all-stars will present such stars as: Claude Mays, one of the of home town's greatest quarter backs of all time; Boots Harlow, the blocker deluxe of Mays' colorful career; Forrest Walker, Socrates Walker, Son Sipes, Clyde Walker, Stanley Clark, Floyd Halbert, J. F. Kelly, Jack DeBusk and a host of other celebrated athletes. If you don't believe they're "celebrated" as well as plenty good just ask any one of them.

What about it Coach Osburn, it is your desire to meet the challenge of these self praised all stars?

U.S. Government Buys 2,000 More Cows

QUOTA IS HIKED TO RELIEVE RANCHES IN NEED OF PASTURAGE

By Ross B. Jenkins
County Agent

After a check up was made by the county agent this past week, it was found that some 1,700 or more cattle had been ordered to the government, whereas the quota allowed was but a 1,000.

Your agent got busy and persuaded the Drouth Director to increase the quota to 2,000. It is believed that this amount will take care of all the distress cattle now in the county. Of course, if it doesn't rain before spring there will be still the need for another quota, but always there is the possibility of more rain.

Actual buying was started Tuesday with Dr. Brown as the veterinarian and Lamar Henry as the appraiser.

No calves, no yearling, no steers, nor fat stuff will be taken. The government makes certain that this is the last quota and wants the distress shee stuff taken.

The government is forced to be conservative in this last drive so will not buy cattle from farm to farm but all those offered must be concentrated so as to save expense. The county agent's office will notify each individual the number allotted him and where to take them for appraisal. Where large bunches are offered they will be appraised on the ranch but small numbers must be taken to the shipping point and any condemned cattle will be taken off by the person selling them.

CITY GAS WILL BE OFF SATURDAY NITE

Lloyd McMillan, City Gas Superintendent, told the Review yesterday that gas would be cut off Saturday night at 12 o'clock, while repair is made on the mains. He instructed that consumers be warned to cut off hot water heaters and fires that are usually left burning through the night.

HOME "DEMO" CLUBS ACTIVELY ENGAGED IN OUTLINED WORK

The Dressy community Home Demonstration club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. W. Neeb, with 16 members, two of which were new—Mrs. Jones and daughter, Leota—in attendance.

The program was opened with a discussion of "rally day", which is to be held at Baird the second week in December, and to which every Home Demonstration club in the county has been invited to attend. Mrs. Arrowood, a member of the lunch committee, had a copy of the menu and explained it and assisted each member in planning "what edibles to take." About 16 members of the Dressy club plan to attend the "rally day."

Members of the club expressed the necessity and their desire of a County Home Demonstration Agent being employed for the ensuing year, in view of the fact that most of the clubs over the county and the Dressy club in particular, is just really getting underway to be of real service.

Mrs. Copeland next displayed to members how to make beautiful hooked rugs economically. She exhibited how she makes the pattern as well as the stitches. An example of her work—a beautiful hooked rug—was shown to the club. The rug was very novel and was made at virtually no cost at all.

Mrs. L. F. Neeb and Mrs. Frank Spencer also had new rugs which they had just completed and exhibited to the group. These rugs were also unusually attractive and were made very economically. Pictures and outlines of these two rugs are shown in the booklet distributed by County Home Demonstration Agent Miss Vida Moore.

Quilt blocks were next on the program and a sample brought by Mrs. Franz Freeman was selected as the pattern for the club Mrs. Alva Holland.

A refreshment plate of chicken sandwiches, cake and hot chocolate was passed to members and one guest, Mrs. L. F. Neeb.

Miss Gertrude Brent, Coleman county Home Demonstration Agent, gave a number of recipes for using green tomatoes at the regular meeting of the Comal Home Demonstration club at the home of Mrs. S. A. Edington, Thursday afternoon.

A brief talk on plans and objectives of the club for the ensuing year was also made by Miss Brent. A short Thanksgiving program was rendered by members of the club.

A refreshment plate of sandwiches, pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream and hot chocolate, was passed to eight members and one visitor Mrs. Irvin McGee and Miss Brent. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Elic Baum and Frank Ferrell of Plainview visited friends and relatives here over the week end.

WHEAT FARMERS MEET AT BAIRD TUESDAY; FORM ORGANIZATION

At a meeting of wheat contract signers at Baird Tuesday morning the group was organized and A. E. Young named President. E. J. Kendrick was elected Vice-President and N. M. George, Secretary.

Tentative community chairman were selected as follows: Dressy Fred Stacy; Baird, George Eubanks; Clyde, N. A. Estes; Oplin, Sidney S. Harville; Denton, H. W. Caldwell; Union, J. B. Mashburn.

The Association is composed of 84 members and shows an annual seeded acreage of about 3,600 acres. The wheat growers realized about $10,000 the past year for having participated with the government in surplus adjustment and will receive a like amount this year and the next. Wheat growers were paid adjustment benefits for three years in return for the agreement to curtail production not more than 25% any year. They actually reduced 15% from the 3 year base period last season and are required

TAKE SECOND GAME IN 2 YEARS OVER TRADITIONAL FOE

Cross Plains high school Buffaloes rung down the curtain on a successful football season Wednesday afternoon, when they trounced their traditional rivals the Rising Star Wildcats by a score of 13 to nothing.

The thundering herd took advantage of early breaks to gain a lead that was never in danger throughout the 60 minutes of play.

Cross Plains scored in the second minute of play after a fumble by Howell, Wildcat back, gave them possession of the ball on the visitor's 30 yard stripe. On the next series of downs, the Osburnmen failed to gain the necessary distance and the ball went over to Rising Star on the 25 yard line. Two thrusts at the line were of no avail and on the third down Rising Star attempted a punt, which was blocked on the 18 yard line and rolled to the 15 before being covered by a Buffalo lineman. Webb, Mays and Lackey gained five yards through the line, and then Mays skirted end for eight yards to place the ball on Rising Star's two yard line. Lackey plunged through left guard for the remaining two yards and a touchdown. Blitch's attempt to convert from placement was low and to the left. Score: Cross Plains 6, Rising Star 0.

The herd scored again in the third quarter when a bad punt by the Wildcats gave the Buffaloes possession of the ball on the 26 yard line. Mays sprinted around end for 10 yards and a first down. Two attempts to gain through the line netted only two yards. Beevo Webb on the next play circled end for 16 yards and a touchdown. Blitch converted from placement.

Rising Star's only serious threat came in the closing minute of the fray, when a fumble gave coach Johnnie Gregg's Wildcats the ball on the herd's 24 yard line. Two plays through the line netted four yards. A 15 yard penalty called against the herd for holding gave the visitors a first down and the ball on the five yard line. Two plays netted three yards, then the herd was penalized half the distance to the goal line—one yard—for off side. Another thrust at the line was insufficient. And the time keeper's gun sounded ending the fray and gave Cross Plains its second successive victory in as many years over the traditional foes, the Rising Star Wildcats. Score: Cross Plains 13, Rising Star nothing.

The Buffaloes made 11 first downs as compared with Rising Star's five. Cross Plains gained 144 yards from scrimmage and Rising Star 72. The Buffaloes attempted seven passes, four of which were complete for a total distance of 27 yards; two were incomplete and one was intercepted. Rising Star tossed three aerial heaves, two were intercepted and the other incomplete.

Cross Plains was assessed 53 yards in six penalties and Rising Star 35 in three.

Jay Mays, who did all of the kicking for the herd from close formation averaged 32 yards on six kicks, while Rising Star averaged 29 yards on nine punts, excluding the attempt which was blocked.

For the visitors, Captain Hancock at right end was most outstanding on the defense and Collwell was perhaps the Wildcats best offensive bet.

For the domestics, Mays, Lackey and Webb, each were the chief ground gainers, with Mays turning in the most consistent afternoon. Lackey's plunges at the line play a vital part, however, as did Webb's sensational touchdown spurt.

On the defense, Beevo Webb was by far the most outstanding man on the field. He sifted through the SYNOPSIS—Ellen Church, 17 years old, finds herself alone in the world with her artist mother's last warning ringing in her ears, to love lightly. Of the world she knew little. All her life she had lived alone with her mother in an old brown house in a small rural community. All her life, first as a new baby, then a bubbling child, then a charming young girl—she had posed for her talented mother who sold her magazine cover painting through an art agent in the city—Mrs. Church's broken life—the unfaithful husband, his disappearance—and after seventeen years of silence announcement of his death was at last disclosed to Ellen. The news of the husband's death's death killed Mrs. Church. —Ellen, alone, turned to the only contact she knew, the art agent in New York. Posing, years of posing, was her only talent so she was introduced to two leading artists, Dick Alven and Sandy Macintosh. Both used her as a model and both fell in love with her—but Ellen, trying to follow the warped philosophy of her mother to "love lightly," resists the thought of love, her circle of friends is small, artists and two or three girl models. Ellen attends a ball with Sandy. While dancing a tall young man claimed her and romance is born.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I'd advise you to shut up, old man," said Dick, sternly. I don't blame you, in a way, but there's something here that neither you nor I understand. Only this—you said it!—laughing's all that Ellen can do, just now. If you haven't enough sense to see it, if Claire isn't woman enough to get it, I do. The kid's at the end of her rope. Still formidable, still gaunt, he had left Sandy standing wordlessly beside the sofa on which Claire sat. He had left Sandy, and had gone swiftly to Ellen's side, and his long arms, reaching out, had drawn her little figure—in its beaded play suit—close to his chest.

"Easy now, youngster," said Dick. "Lay off that stuff! Cry if you want to, if you must. But lay off that business of laughing. You'll be ill!"

Ellen found that she was clutching Dick's arms, way up close to the shoulders. They were tense, like iron. They were bony they weren't cuddly, they were just something to hold on to—but, oh, how dreadfully she needed them! As her slim fingers bit into their tenseness, she began to regain a certain amount of self-control. She could realize, as she fought to keep back her spasmodic giggles, that it was because she had been relieved to know that it was Sandy who had come up the stairs—Sandy, and not Tony.

But at any moment it might be Tony. For hadn't Claire said that at his car was waiting, at the curb?

Ellen was wrenching herself free from Dick's grasp. Was beginning to shake again to shake as if she were chilled, as if she were feverish.

"I'm all right n-now, old thing," she tried to say breezily, although she found it almost impossible to articulate. I'll go n-now and g-get my things on—I really have a date, you know."

Sandy threw himself down on the sofa, beside Claire.

"With the baby you met, last night, I suppose?" he sneered. With the boy who rode around the park with you—oh, I know all about it."

"Then," Ellen's eyes were blazing, "then you can just be still about it! For even if you did buy my ticket to the Six Arts, you don't own me. I'm sorry that I left you—at least, I was sorry! But I'm not, any more."

"You're not leaving this studio, not in this condition," he told Dick had been very quiet for a few minutes, but although Ellen struggled to be free, his hands were her. "What's it all about, youngster, anyway? Did you have anything to drink last night? Answer me that!"

Ellen tried to master this business of nerves. If she didn't Dick wouldn't let her go. She knew Dick.

"Of course, I didn't have anything to drink," she said, almost gently. "I never drink. Don't you trust me?"

"I used to, myself," said Sandy, "frust you. But not any more. Even Gay wouldn't treat a guy—"

"Be still!" roared Dick. Like most men, his helplessness had the effect of angering him.

Ellen, there in Dick's arms, wanted to scream at them, she wanted to call Claire ugly names, and she'd never wanted to call anyone an ugly name, before. This bantering, when her whole future was at stake! For if Tony came up searching for her—how could she explain things? These arms—that held her? How could she say anything in the face of this scene?

"Oh, Dick," she begged, "let me go. I've got to get dressed. This date—it's very vital; you don't understand. I've got to keep it. Let me go, now—and I'll call you on the phone, tomorrow, and explain. I'll stop by in the morning and tell you all about it. You'd not try to keep me, if you knew. When you know, you'll say it's all right—"

Dick was nuzzling his chin into the hair at the top of her head, with a movement unexpectedly tender.

"What I'm afraid of, honey," he said, "is that you've gone and got yourself into some bad sort of a scrape. Maybe it would be better if you told me now. I'll kick them out, Claire and Sandy, if you like. I'll have some dinner sent in for you, and you can get all calmed down."

But Ellen was crying now. "I've got to go," she sobbed, I've got a date!

"Is—" it was Sandy speaking; before her tears some of his wrath had vanished, but he still desired information—"Is the date with the same boy that you ditched me for, last night?" The time for evasion—some of it, at least—had passed.

"Yes," sobbed Ellen.

"Who," it was Dick now, who is this insistent young man, child?" Claire was gazing up at the ceiling, relaxing their hold, not a particle.

"He's tall," she said, "and God, how glum! And he has blue eyes and a swell sunburn, and the snappiest red Rolls-Royce in the city."

But Dick was insisting, himself. "What's his name, Ellen?" he questioned. "I'd like to know, myself."

Ellen had relaxed hopelessly against Dick. At the moment nothing was any use, any more. Suddenly she was more tired she had ever been in all of her—and older, too.

"His name is Tony Brander," she said. "Anthony Brander, the sugar man, was his father."

Claire yawned. The yawn was far too elaborate to be plausible.

"Nothing of the piker about you," she said, "is there?"

Sandy whistled. "One of those!" he said. "Saw his picture snapped at the races, in Vogue last month. He's an orphan, they said."

Claire laughed. "What a break!" she murmured. But Dick didn't say anything for a moment. In fact, his silence made the whole studio seem silent. So silent that the clock, chiming five-forty-five, seemed only an echo to the knock upon the studio door.

Claire was the one who called a summons. It wasn't her studio, but she was like that.

And then Tony walked into the room. There was a narrow white line around his mouth as he looked across Ellen's head, into the eyes of the man who was holding her. Ellen, with her face twisted back awkwardly so she could watch across her shoulder noticed that line and wondered about it, mutely.

But it was Dick who spoke.

"This is my place," he said. "I'm Alven. You—you haven't been here before, ever. Who are you?" Tony's voice was so steady when he answered that it was almost absurd.

"It may be your place," he said, "but it's my wife you're holding in your arms. My wife! Funny, isn't it?"

You could have cut through the atmosphere of Dick's studio with a knife, the air was so thick with conflicting emotions. They were such mixed emotions that, though the hysteria rose again in Ellen's mind, she couldn't even laugh. It wasn't possible any more to do anything so simple as to laugh!

Again, by some miraculous change, she wasn't a part of the thing. She was standing on the side lines, she was reading from a printed page. These people—she didn't know them. Not Dick, with his face gone suddenly old and greenish in its pallor. Not Tony, her Tony, with pain looking out of his eyes at her. Not Sandy, with his mouth hanging, ever so slightly, open.

Only Claire retained her nonchalance.

"So!" said Claire. And then languidly she rose from the sofa and strolled across the room toward Tony. And extended to him a pink-tipped white hand.

"Congratulations," she said. "I suppose they're in order."

Tony wasn't seeing Claire—he was staring at Ellen, though Ellen wasn't in Dick's arms any more.

"I suppose," said Tony, that they are!"

It was then that Dick spoke. Dick with a vague color coming back into his cheeks—Dick, with a great effort, justifying a girl's three-year faith in him.

He advanced toward Tony and extended his hand.

"I can't pretend that I'm not shocked by this news, he told Tony. Ellen is very dear to me. She's been rather like a little sister. I feel that I'd have liked knowing, slightly better, the man she married. But you look awfully regular Brander," his voice never wavered "and I know, sudden as it seems, that Ellen must care for you very deeply. And I'm sure, very sure, that you'll be good to her."

Tony was flushing. He was very young at the moment. He took the proffered hand.

"You can't blame me," he said grimly, for wondering. It seemed rather strange. Ellen asked me to wait for her at five, by the door, and she didn't come. And then—"

Dick's hand was on the boy's shoulder. It said as plainly as a voice could have said:

"Steady, old chap—Steady!"

"I don't blame you one bit," he said aloud. I'd have felt just as you do, myself, if the situation had been reversed."

Sandy's mouth had come shut. He, too, was standing. "My name's Mackintosh," he said. I should be telling you where you get off instead of welcoming you to our city. I took Ellen to the party last night, so I suppose I'm directly responsible—"

Claire interrupted. She allowed herself to display direct and unvarnished curiosity, in a big way.

"But you knew each other, didn't you, before last night?" she questioned. "After all," she was mimicking, I ought to be told."

Beseechingly Ellen's eyes sought Tony's eyes. Claire mustn't know the irregularity, the suddenness, of the whole thing. It would be a beautiful morsel of gossip for Claire, and her intimates. An agony of embarrassment lay in Ellen's gaze, and Tony, seeing, responded to that agony. Swiftly he had crossed the room, swiftly his two hands had enfolded Ellen's out-flung hands.

"Oh," he said quite airily, Oh, we've know each other for centuries. When", Ellen was stunned to hear him quote the line, "when she was a tadpole and I was a fish—"

Claire laughed.

"When the world," she said, was even wetter than it is now!

Sandy was laughing, too.

"Speaking," he said, of wet worlds, I think this calls for a party!"

Party? Ellen wanted to scream out at the thought of a party.

"Oh—no party!" she murmured.

But Dick, with his white face oddly aloof, was the one who failed her.

"Certainly a party!" he said.

Claire was already at the phone. Her high chuckle was floating through the room.

"Ellen!" she was saying, yes, married! Come around and make it legal.

In the excitement Tony's arm was around her shoulder. It wasn't a chill arm any more, but Ellen—wanting his embrace with keen desperation—wished that Dick weren't watching. "Tired, dear?" questioned Tony. And then, "You're cute as a button in that get-up!"

Ellen had forgotten the white buckskin, the beads.

"Let me go, Tony," she said. I must change into my own clothes—Just behind this screen—" (She was acutely conscious of his unspoken, "Do you dress, and undress, behind that screen? Alone—with a man—in this studio?")

"No," she added, I'm not tired, really."

Walking sedately she went behind the screen, and began to pull the white buckskin frock over her head, and to untie the endless strings of gay beads.

Coleman Automatic ELECTRIC IRON

THE Coleman Automatic Iron *saves $2 to $5 a year on electric current.

When it reaches the temperature at which the thermostat is set, the current is automatically cut off. I "coasts" or "free wheels" on stored heat. 40% of the time it is in use it consumes no electricity. This saving on your electric bill goes on year after year as long as you use your Coleman! This same automatic action of the thermostat eliminates fire danger and scorching of clothes. Saves work... does more than the ironing.

The Coleman is beautifully designed and finished in super-chromium. Has long tapering point, but ton level and glass-smooth ironing surface.

Come in and see this beautiful iron. Let us prove our statements about the money it saves you.

BUFFALOES VICTOR OVER CADDO 13-8 FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Cross Plains Buffaloes defeated Caddo Friday afternoon in a hard fought game by the margin of 13-8. Both touchdowns of the Buffaloes were made in the first quarter of play. Smith, center crossed the goal the first two minutes after intercepting a pass and galloping 60 yds through an open field. Blitch added the extra point from placement.

The second counter came a few minutes later when Caddo's safety fumbled a ball on the five yard line. It was covered by a Buffalo player. After two line smashes by Cross and Mayes, Lackey carried the ball over for a touchdown. Blitch's attempt at place kick, was blocked.

Caddo tackle blocked a punt and made a safety for them. The ball was brought to the 20 yard line and a bad punt was brought back to the 25 yard line. Several line smashes by Gracey placed the ball over for Caddo's first touchdown and 8 points. The rest of the game was uneventful.

WHO'S WHO?

Billie Mac Adams
Billie Mac is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Adams of this place. Billie Mac was born September 1, 1916. He is now 18 years old. He takes no part in athletics, but is an honor student in his studies. He will be the fifth child of the family have graduated from Cross Plains High School.

After Billie Mac finishes high school he wishes to attend some business school where he may prepare himself to be cashier or president of some bank.

His favorite sports are picnicking and hiking.

Melba Burnside
Melba is the daughter of Mrs. Minnie Burnside who recently moved to this place from San Angelo. Melba was born on the second day of the first month of the year of nineteen hundred and sixteen A. D. Her lifelong ambition is to make some radio repair man a motherly housewife.

JUNIORS NAME CLASS SPONSORS FOR CONTEST

In a class meeting Thursday morning, the juniors selected Bobbie Neel and Malcolm Steel as the most popular girl and boy in the class.

Boxes for the votes will be placed in the stores in town, and the juniors will appreciate your help in electing their candidates as the most popular girl and in high school.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO GIVE PLAY IN CHAPEL DEC. 5

The dramatic club met Monday afternoon. A lecture was given by Miss Price on acting and expression. The club practiced exercises in expression. Another play was begun, "Manikin and Minikin." It is a beautiful little romance between two French dolls. The play "Not Such a Goose" is progressing nicely and will be presented in chapel Wednesday December fifth. The "Maker of Dreams" cast is at work on their play.

MARY BILLINGSLEY IS CHOSEN QUEEN AT BEAUTY REVUE

The Cross Plains High School Pep Squad presented a beauty contest, style show, and musical program in the high school auditorium on the evening of November 23.

The stage represented a queens courts. The program was given for the entertainment of the football queen, Rosalea Cutbirth, who sat on the throne. Bobbie Neel acted as her page.

Each member of the pep squad represented a business place. While they were representing these places, they were also being judged by Putnam judges according to their beauty. Eight girls were selected and called back on the stage. Then while the judges were making the decisions a musical program and style show was presented. The program was as follows: "Freckle Face" by Eloise Lane, George Cecil Cook, Wallena Barclay, Nancy Henkel, Mary Billingsley, Martha Nan McAdams, Ruth Barr, Dixie Little, and Johnnie Francis Baldwin.

"Breeze" by Billie Ruth Loving, Esther Wood, Hazel Ware, Lenora Lacy, Maud Lee Smith, Cleo Minton, Marjorie Hester, Jane Rae Lowe, Mozelle Atwood, and Willadene Mullins.

A reading was given by Miss Price Higginbotham and Lotief had a style show. Mary Billingsley modeled for Higginbotham. Wallena Barclay and Dixie Little modeled for Lotief.

"Stars Fell on Alabama" by Bobbie Lee Westerman, Lorena Childs, Cheryl Lutgens, Helen Gray, Ernestine Sipes, Goldie Klutts, Jennie Laura Jackson, Melba Burnside, Roma Young, Marie McVella, Billie Ruth Loving, and Marjorie Hester. "I Saw Stars" by the whole pep squad.

Last on program was the crowning of Mary Billingsley, as the pep squad beauty, by Rosalea Cutbirth. Wallena Barclay won second place and Bobbie Lee Westerman won third place.

HINTS TO THE BOOKLOVER

While glancing down the list of popular books in the OPHS library, we find that different types of books appeal to different types of individuals.

Some prefer romances for these there are such books as: Red Silence, The Wishing Ring Man, and Ivanhoe. Other students, usually boys, prefer adventure stories such as: Treasure Island, White Fangs Call of the Wild, or The Last of the Platinmen.

There are other students who like best the novel with no great amount of romance or adventure but just ask that the book be interesting for these students we recommend any of the following books: David Copperfield, The Count of Monte Cristo, The Crises, The Little Sheppard of Kingdom Come and Main Traveled Road.

Prize Winner

Athens, Texas, produces prize winners other than its famed basketball teams. Here is Kate Alice Leatherwood, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Leatherwood, who won first place in a recent baby contest in Texas, then went on to top fifth honors in a national contest.

Over The STATE

News from other papers received at the Editor's desk

We see in the Comanche Chief where all streets in Gorman are going to be paved. The Comanche Chief has the following to say about it. The city officials of Gorman bought a carload of asphalt last week to use in the paving of all streets in Gorman where they have built a base according to the Gorman Progress. They have secured two large tanks to store it in and all that is not used in the work at this time will be kept for future street or repair work.

Gorman has a project for the labor approved by the FERA and the crushed rock on hand to do the work the paper states.

The Stephenville Empire Tribune states that:

The city of Stephenville will receive bids at a meeting of the city council on the 11th day of December, 1934, according to a notice placed in this edition of the Empire-Tribune. A resolution authorizing the advertising for bids was passed by the council in session Monday night of last week.

As it is understood the city is making plans to consider the advisability of installing two Diesel engines at the water plant for the purpose of pumping water. It has been estimated the equipment will cost in the neighborhood of $22,500.

For a period of fifteen years the city has been pumping its water with electric power, supplied by the local light company.

The Stephens County Sun has the following to say about a gas well at San Marcos. An inflammable gas which may be helium was struck at 426 feet by J. A. Taylor and others who are drilling for oil and gas on the E. G. Bryan land of the Granville Mills league about 21 miles northwest of San Marcos. A sample of the gas has been sent to the Bureau of Mines, Washington, to have it identified.

The following article was clipped from the Coleman County Chronicle.

Vienna—Struck too hard by a player, a billiard ball started much trouble in a town near here. It flew through an open window, crashed through a pane of glass of a neighboring house and smashed a valuable vase. A cat, frightened by the noise, jumped on the table and upset a tea urn. Blazing oil from the urn started a fire in the room. The two billiard players rushed in to stop the blaze, and the aged woman who owned the house saw the flames and strange men, had a stroke and dropped dead.

Ever notice that when a person starts in by saying "Well, to tell the truth" they are going to say something hateful?

VOYLES ANNOUNCES TOPICS FOR SUNDAY

"Men No longer believe in prayer as their fathers did," said Dr. C. A. Voyles, in announcing his sermon topic for Sunday morning. For this reason he plans to discuss the reasons for a decadence in the practice of prayer today. He will answer questions. Most command asked today concerning God's care for individual men and women amid the pressing problems of today. Young people are assured of helpful suggestions.

Meeting an "Ancient Relief Problem" will be the subject for the sermon Sunday night—Should men plow up or store up food in times of plenty? Why is there not food enough for everybody to have enough to eat?

Will it take a World War to bring America to her senses?

WEST, WAR, WOMEN, SUBJECTS OF PLAYS COMING TO LIBERTY

"Smoking Guns," "Most Precious Thing in Life" and "Madame Spy" are attractions carded at the Liberty theater here for the next seven days. W. A. Beavers, manager told the Review yesterday.

"Smoking Guns", with Ken Maynard, comes to the local screen Friday and will run through Saturday night. In the picture, Ken Maynard, fugitive from justice, wanted for murder, and his captor, a Texas ranger, Walter Miller, battle man eating crocodiles in the most dramatic scene of the production. Maynard matches his luck and daring against a band of ruthless outlaws and outwits them at every turn. The picture is reputed to be exceptionally good for a western.

"Most Precious Thing in Life" is the billing for the Sunday afternoon matinee and Monday and Tuesday. The picture is heralded as a parallel of "Little Women." The cast is composed of: Jean Arthur, Donald Cook and Richard Cromwell. "We have unusually good shorts to supplement this fine picture", Mr. Beavers stated.

"Madame Spy", with Fay Wray, comes to the Liberty Wednesday of next week and will run through Thursday night. A prominent critic in reviewing the picture has had the following to say of "Madame Spy" "It discloses the machinations and inner workings of an international espionage system.

Two powerful countries, pitted against each other, grasping at every advantage, and both fates in the seductive palm of a beautiful woman! Love! Honor! Duty! These three underlying motives rule and sway the emotion of Madame Spy, a girl who thought she could forget that she was but a woman!

"It packs a wallop as great as any bowitzer. Can a woman place love of country over that of a man and get away with it? Is Duty greater than Love? These and other searing questions coursing through the hot veins of the young and beautiful Russian girl, whom destiny double-crossed are answered with blood and fire!

"Headed by an exceptionally strong cast, with Fay Wray and Nils Asther topping the list, the supporting players include such established and sterling screen names as Edward Arnold, John Miljan, NNNNoNnNNNNN lanar J." F. ere Noah Beery, David Torrence, Vince Barnett and Rollo Lloyd.

It's easy for any man to be popular. All you need do is ask those you meet how their old trouble is getting along—and then listen.

WHEN you are suffering, you want relief—not tomorrow—not next week—but right away. DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS relieve in just a few minutes—less than half the time required for many other pain-relieving medicines to act.

Next time you have a Headache, or Neuralgia, or Muscular, Settled, Rheumatic, or Periodic Pains, just take an Anti-Pain Pill. Learn for yourself how prompt and effective these little pain relievers are. You will never again want to use slower, less effective, less palatable medicines, after you have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

I am much pleased with your Anti-Pain Pills. They sure are wonderful for a headache and for functional pains. I have tried every kind of pills for headache, but none satisfied me as your Anti-Pain Pills have. Ann Mikitko, St. Benedict, Pa.

There were to have been four basket ball games here Wednesday night. The senior and junior boys and girls' teams of Grosvenor to have played those of Cross Cut here at that time. Though the game will be over when this is read, they have not yet been played, and we have great hopes of defeating our neighboring school.

The seniors have started the annual play. The Old Oaken Bucket is the title, and it appears that it will be worth any man's dime. We'll give you a hint—Norris Chambers tries to make love to Billie Clark in one scene, and she empties a bucket of water over his head. From thence on he warns all of her would-be lovers. Watch for the announcement.

The Baptist pastor, Rev. Brown, of Coleman, will preach here the first Sunday in December at 2:30 p. m.

We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Dub Arledge have been presented with a "bright baby boy", weighing 8 1/2 lbs. Both Dub and his wife, who was formerly Miss Mildred Cole attended school at Cross Cut. They have been married about two years.

The Community Night, postponed from Nov. 20, on account of bad weather, was set for Nov. 27.

2. Why do Guy Cole and June McDonough talk all time?

3. Can you imagine Andy Melton with white hair?

4. For what reason does Lorene Mitchell look downcast as if she lost her last sweetheart?

5. Why does Mary Lou Dibrell like to bet? (There's a meaning underneath this, to those who know!)
