DUST STORM RAGES IN THIS SECTION

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

J. G. Perry, who dispatches messages at the local telegraph office, was a little baffled Monday when this columnist gave him the following message to send: "Wire collect how Mr. Z knew his circle was red".

Here's the puzzle. See if you can solve it. The answer appears in the last paragraph of this column.

"The king wished to choose the wisest man in his country as Premier. To do so, he told three of the wisest: 'I'm going to blindfold you and paint circles in red or blue on your foreheads. When the bandages are removed, if you see a red circle anywhere, raise your right hand. When you have figured out the color of your own circle, lower the hand, and the first to do that will be my Premier.' The king then blindfolded them, painted three red circles, allowed them to see again, watched three hands go up, and then saw the hand of Mr. Z descend. How did Mr. Z know his circle was red?"

Bill Wagner is a peculiar person. He's so busy tending to his own business, he doesn't have time to meddle into other peoples'. He sure would make a bum newspaperman.

J. T. Freeman is this department's nomination for Cross Plains' best travelled courtier. Each evening his automobile is seen headed in a different direction to "woo" some feminine heart.

Heard a loud noise and rushed into the street the other day to observe what had happened. Noticed nothing. Asked a bystander where the commotion was. He replied: "Oh nothing, some one just perhaps stopped in at Poley Williams' place and told him a good joke."

(Note: Poley's store is three miles from town)

A foot race that would be worth seeing: Jack Lucy and Bill Lowe.

Cross Plains high school's prospects for a winning football team next year appear exceptionally bright as Spring training progresses. Reporting for daily drills are three Cottonwood chaps, who are very proficient at the "leather lugging."

Fans around town are booming a good intersectional game to open the 1935 campaign.

April fool passed this year and John Kendrick didn't pull his annual joke on Jim Settle. John must have lost his calendar. It's been going on so long that Jim was really disappointed.

Makes at least two red circles. A group for all hands to go up. I knew that if the circle on my head was blue, either of the other men would see one red circle and one blue circle and their hands would come down. Since they did not lower their hands they did not see a blue circle. If the circle on his head was not blue it had to be red.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Gaines and little daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Truett Lovelace visited in Waco last week end.

W. H. Carpenter, E. I. Vestal Reelected Trustees

H. H. McDERMITT GETS EVERY VOTE AT LOCAL BOX; POLL IS LIGHT

E. I. Vestal and J. H. Carpenter were reelected to school trustee posts for three year terms, Saturday. A light ballot was polled. Only 91 votes were cast.

For county school trustee, H. H. McDermitt, of Cross Plains, received every vote at the local box.

The vote on local trustee places was: W. H. Carpenter, 81; E. I. Vestal, 74; and Jeff Clark, 27.

Election judges were F. R. Anderson, C. S. Martin and Sam Barr. Voting was done in the Anderson Chevrolet Company building.

Due to the fact that only three teachers have been reelected for the 1935-36 school term, the board of trustees is expected to enter into that business at the next regular meeting night. Superintendent Nat Williams, Principal Lewis Norman and Coach C. B. (Buck) Osburn are those who have been reelected.

Burkett: The complete board of school trustees was elected at Burkett, Saturday. New members are J. C. Boyle, Jess Bell and E. G. Adams. The incumbents reelected are: A. H. Clay, E. W. Martin, Calvin Baker and E. L. Harris. There was a tie between Calvin Baker and E. W. Martin, which is to be disposed of at a later date. E. L. Harris is president of the Burkett board.

Cottonwood: Trustees elected at Cottonwood in the voting Saturday were: D. C. Hargrove, L. M. Purvis, G. W. Coats and J. H. McElroy. Hargrove and Purvis were elected for three year terms and Coats and McElroy for one year terms.

Cedar Bluff: (sometimes called Last Chance) located about four miles North of Cottonwood, elected G. M. Fowler to the board of trustees.

Caddo Peak: R. E. Booth was named trustee of the Caddo Peak in the voting Saturday. His tenure is for three years.

Dressy: Pomp Payne was reelected trustee at Dressy in the annual voting Saturday.

Cross Cut: Les Byrd, Leonard Jennings and Dow Westerman were elected to the Cross Cut board of school trustees in the voting Saturday, which was done at the school house. The poll was light.

Deer Plains: O. G. Ballard was chosen school trustee in the election Saturday.

Pioneer: J. B. Brown and Byron Hughes were Pioneer voters' choice for school trustee posts in the election Saturday. Only two places were to be filled at the balloting.

Burnt Branch: Will Fortune, Doc Montgomery and Olan Montgomery were elected school trustees in the vote at Burnt Branch Saturday.

Results from other school districts in this immediate trade territory were not available in time for publication in today's issue of the Review.

Mrs. George Scott had as her guest over the week end Mrs. Grover Gibbs of Rowden.

The Weather BLUSTERY PERIOD

Seventy Years Ago Sunday "Old Glory" Avenged Death Of Abraham Lincoln; This City Has Those Who Recall

70 years ago this Sunday night—April 14—one of the most important figures in American history—Abraham Lincoln, was felled by an assassin's bullet at Ford's theater, in Washington, D. C. Yet, through the mist of those seven decades there are scores of men and women throughout the Cross Plains trade territory who remember the incident and it's effect upon the nation.

J. H. (Jim) Gafford, of this place said Monday afternoon that although he was only a lad of 13 when Lincoln died, he remembered the incident more vividly than many happenings of yesteryear. Most Southerners, though opposed to Lincoln's policies, realized that in his passing they had lost an understanding friend and capable executive, Mr. Gafford said.

"Uncle" Charlie Neeb, who is slightly older than Mr. Gafford also recollects Lincoln's assassination perfectly. He told the Review that it was a great shock to the German settlement in which he lived. "Even those who were opposed to Lincoln, soon learned that his death was a drastic blow to the war-ridden South," he said.

There are throughout this area a number of people who yet have in their possession newspapers which told the story of the assassination.

In connection with an incident a story is now revealed by scholars of American history, which ranks as one of the most interesting told in connection with Lincoln. Because it is perhaps one of the few phases of the assassination that has not been repeatedly printed, it is published hereunder.

So many reams have been written concerning the assassination of Abraham Lincoln in the little Ford's Theater, that tragic April night in Washington in 1865, that hardly a school child does not know the complete details of the event. Yet few people really know who, or what, was the real venger of the Great Emancipator's death.

The American flag—Old Glory, with her stripes of red and white and stars on a field of blue—was the first to avenge Lincoln's death and had it not been for this flag which had been draped in decoration about the President's theater box, the assassin—John Wilkes Booth—might have made good his well planned escape.

The story goes like this. The gifted artist Laura Keane was appearing in "Our American Cousin" at Ford's Theater. News that the President would attend had attracted a capacity crowd. Mr. Ford had ordered his most comendous box decorated with American flags, in tribute to the President and his party which would occupy it.

The play began and every heart in the large audience including that of the distinguished, sad faced man in the theater box, beat in unison with the stellar performance. As all eyes were guled on the stage, a young slender, actor silently made his way to the rear of the President's box, where he stood unnoticed. Then suddenly he lunged forward with the shout, "sic semper tyrannis." The sound of a shot echoed through the building. The President slumped forward fatally wounded. An army officer who grabbed at the assassin was slashed with a knife.

John Wilkes Booth having completed his mission of murder then turned his cunning to the pursuit of his well planned escape. He mounted the rail of the box, ready to leap down upon the stage. But as he leaped a boot-spur caught in the drapes—the American flag—and Booth's leg was doubled beneath him as he fell. A bone was snapped; a broken leg. Yet he hobbled out of the theater.

That broken leg became so painful, however, that he was forced to stop at the home of a kindly doctor for aid. And the well laid plans for escape through the South ended shortly thereafter in a burning barn, where he was shot and cremated.

Yes, the red, white and blue bunting—the American flag—avenged the death of Abraham Lincoln that historic April night in 1865.

FEDERAL MONEY TO BE ALLOCATED FOR SOIL CONSERVATION

Aggravated by dry conditions throughout most of the Southwest, a dust storm of general proportions swept the Cross Plains trade territory Thursday morning. The sun shone like a dim silver disk through the gleam of dirt.

The dust storms which—been worse than usual this year have already taken a damage toll to growing crops. Weather authorities said in press dispatches Thursday morning that they were due to extreme dry conditions throughout most of the Southwest.

An Associated Press report from Washington yesterday, said: "President Roosevelt took cognizance today of recent damaging dust storms and assured a congressional delegation he would allocate the maximum possible from the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund.

Amount Not Fixed Explaining that he had been vitally interested in soil conservation and erosion work for 24 years, the president said he realized the emergency situation existing in western states and told the delegation he would set aside a liberal amount, keeping in mind that the bill he signed only Monday was designed primarily to put the unemployed to work.

Under the leadership of Chairman Jones (D-Texas) of the house agricultural committee, the visitors suggested that $500,000,000 might be allocated for the year's work and that $100,000,000 could be spent judiciously the second year. President Roosevelt accepted their estimates but declined to say definitely how much the administration would advance.

"Of course, the president has to look over his whole program first, to see just how much he can allocate," Jones said. "He assured us, however, that as much money would be available as reasonably necessary."

Long-Time Program Representative Nichols (D-Okla.) said the president recognized that although a board soil erosion program would have to be carried on over a period of years, conditions arising from dust storms created an emergency situation which have to be met immediately.

"He pointed out that soil erosion work won't be carried on 100 percent by persons on the relief rolls and that he always had to keep before him the fact that the work relief bill was drawn primarily to put the unemployed to work," Nichols said. "He was absolutely in sympathy with our proposal."

J. C. CLARK, POST MASTER AT CROSS CUT IS INTERRED

J. C. Clark, Cross Cut postmaster and a long time resident of that community, who died at his home Friday afternoon after a long illness was laid to rest in the cemetery there Saturday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted from the Cross Cut Baptist church, with Rev. W. M. Scott, of Brownwood, officiating.

Mr. Clark who was a brother of Jeff Clark and Mrs. Jim Cross, both of Cross Plains, is also survived by his widow, three sons, Cisero, of May; Claude and Clois, both of Cross Cut; three daughters, Vera, of Brownwood; Eva, of Longview; and Lavonia, of Cross Cut and another sister Mrs. J. Tripplitt, of Weslaco.

Mr. Clark had been in failing health for quite a while and his condition was regarded as critical weeks before he expired. Death resulted from stomach ailment.

MOST COPIES OF TODAY'S REVIEW CONTAINS AN OLD ISSUE OF PUBLICATION

In most copies of today's issue of the Review there will be found inserted an old edition of this publication. Due to the fact that our filing space is inadequate to keep more than one copy of all old editions, the editor of the Review decided to pass the surplus stock on to subscribers, who may be interested in reading the old issue or keeping it for a souvenir.

If your paper does not contain a copy of an aged edition it is due to the fact that the supply was exhausted before "the run" today was completed. Many of the old copies were in such brittle state of preservation that it was deemed inadvisable to attempt to handle them through the mails.

OSCAR CALLAWAY TO SPEAK FOR OLD AGE PENSIONS SATURDAY

Oscar Callaway, former congressman from this district, will speak at the Methodist church here Saturday night on the subject of "old age pensions." His address is scheduled to begin at eight o'clock.

Mr. Callaway has been speaking for several weeks throughout this area in behalf of pensions for the aged. He is regarded by those familiar with the movement as one of the best authorities in the state on that subject.

Mr. Callaway, a brother of Cleve Callaway of this place, is well known here having spoken in Cross Plains on numerous occasions in the past. Those who have heard him on the pension topic say he is a fiery orator with sound theories. The meeting—or rally as it is termed by the Review's informants—is expected to attract a large crowd.

Any person interested in hearing the pension plan fully weighed and compared with other movements of national scope will enjoy Mr. Callaway's address," the Review was told.

Dr. T. G. Edwards attended the Eastland County Medical Association meeting at Ranger Tuesday night.

WHEAT GROWERS TO MEET TUESDAY AT CROSS CUT SCHOOL

There will be a meeting of wheat growers of the Cross Plains, Burkett, and Cross Cut communities in the Cross Cut school auditorium, Tuesday night, April 16, the Review was informed yesterday by Ross Newton.

The meeting has been called by the Grain Growers Cooperative, of Brownwood, in regard to marketing the grain produced in this area," Mr. Newton stated.

M. E. Fry, President, of the Cooperative, and W. P. Logan, Manager, will be in attendance at the Cross Cut meeting and outline the organization's plans.

The board of directors, of which Mr. Newton is a member, met in Brownwood, Saturday, and authorized construction to begin immediately on an elevator to be in readiness in time handle this year's crop. Funds for the construction have already been subscribed and operation is assured, the Review was told.

"It is now up to the growers of this locality to take advantage of this opportunity to secure a local market through this association, by showing their interest by being present at the meeting next Tuesday night. Mr. Newton concluded.

2 ARRESTED AFTER CAR STOLEN HERE

Two have been arrested and a third is being hunted in connection with the theft of an automobile owned by Hal Marshall, of Pioneer, which was taken from Main Street here last week. A. C. Cameron and Johnnie Dillard, minors, are the two who have been apprehended. Raymond Dillard, who is also believed, to have been implicated is at large.

Cameron and Johnnie Dillard are said to have confessed to taking the automobile and driving it to Brady, where it was abandoned and another machine taken.

Johnnie Dillard was arrested, South of Baird, Sunday and Cameron was taken into custody several days before.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Schooley and daughter of Ranger were visitors here Sunday.

BOB BOON LAID TO REST IN CEMETERY HERE FRIDAY MORN

Robert (Bob) Boon, 52, who expired shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday night, of last week, was laid to rest in the Cross Plains cemetery Friday morning. Funeral rites were conducted from the Baptist church with Dr. C. A. Voyles, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Boon, who had suffered with asthma for several years and of heart ailment recently, lapsed into a coma shortly after noon Thursday. His condition grew steadily worse.

Mr. Boone and his family came to Cross Plains in 1926 and have resided here since. He was formerly connected with J. E. Henkel Furniture Store and later with the Farmers Produce Company, which he managed until a little more than a year ago. Recently his health had been such that he been confined to bed much of the time.

He is survived by his wife, son, Edward Boon, a sophomore in Cross Plains high school; and one brother Jim Boon, of Ellis county.

Pall bearers at the funeral and interment service were: Clyde Sims, E. A. Calhoun, J. E. Henkel, Tom Bruce, Molten Sims, and O. T. Laws. Funeral arrangements were handled by Higginbothams.

SCRIBES TO MEET AT BROWNWOOD MAY 11

Semi-annual meeting of the Heart o' Texas Press Association will be held at Brownwood, May 11. A dance will be held Friday night May 10, preceding to the formal opening of the program.

The program includes talks by Wendell Mayes, editor of the Banner, Brownwood; J. H. McLaughery, editor of the News, Moran; R. F. Higgs, editor of the Empire-Tribune, Stephenville; Bob Bennett, editor of the Mountain Sun, Kerrville; H. W. Stanley of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Dr. J. J. Taylor, "State Press" of the Dallas News, and Ed A. Carlock, of Paducah.

The meeting will close with a golf tournament for the newspaper men Saturday.

Jack Scott, of the Cross Plains Review, is President of the association.

WOMANLESS WEDDING SCHEDULED AT WEBB'S TABERNAACLE TONIGHT

A "Womanless Wedding" will be presented at Webb's tabernacle Friday night. An admission charge of five and 10 cents will be made. The proceeds will go to the tabernacle fund.

E. G. Adams is to be the bride and Johnnie Wocden, the groom. Others in the cast are: A. K. Wesley, Jess Bell, L. E. Audus, T. C. Laws, Prof. Porter, C. D. Baker, Walter Adams, Hardy Strickland, Lester Strawn, F. L. Mayfield, R. E. Harris, H. B. Bearden, B. D. Wesley and J. C. Boyles, as well as perhaps others whose names the Review did not learn.

THREE STOLEN CARS ARE RECOVERED IN CALLAHAN COUNTY

Recovery of three stolen cars was announced Tuesday by Loren Barr and Joe Thompson of the state highway patrol. The machines, 19-30 model Ford roadsters, had been sold to residents of the Oplin community in Callahan county, patrolmen said.

Charge of car theft have been filed in justice court at Baird, against a resident of Dallas, who is being sought. Two of the cars have been identified as belonging to Dallas men and the owners are expected soon at Baird, to drive their autos home. The third car, patrolmen said, is believed to be a machine embezzled from Kansas City, Mo.

Highway numbers on all of the machines had been changed and identification of the Dallas cars was made by their secret numbers. Sheriff Bob Edwards of Callahan county assisted the patrolmen in locating the machines.

COTTONWOOD SPELLERS ATTEND "MATCH" HERE

A group of Cottonwood spellers participated in the blue back spelling match at the L.O.O.F. hall Monday night. The usual match will be conducted again next Monday night and the following night—Tuesday—a group from here will return the visit to Cottonwood.

SLUMBERING GOLD

By Aubrey Boyd

Ninth Installment

SYNOPSIS: Young Ed Maitland and the hardened gambler Speed Malone became partners on the trip north to the Yukon gold fields in '97, when word of the rich ores there first came down the Pacific coast. Maitland, son of a New England seafaring family, was determined to win back his lost family fortunes. Frenchy, the fisherman who took him and Speed north; Lucky Rose, beautiful young woman who had given Maitland a ring for a keep-sake; Fallon, trail boss of the miners, who resented Rose's attentions to Maitland; Steiner the money lender; young Pete and his drunken partner Bill Owens; Brent old-time prospector; and Garnet, a well-to-do modern one who hired Maitland and Speed to haul his stuff from the beach over the mountains to the Yukon—these were among the crowd that made up the gold seekers. At Liarville, a camp in the hills. Speed was made trail boss in Fallon's place, because Speed insisted on closing the trail till it could be repaired—it was almost impassable. But the fickle crowd veered back to Fallon. Speed and Maitland took a stand above the pass to keep the miners from breaking through. Pete came to offer his help, but Speed refused it and the boy, after saying his partner had been drowned after a drunken brawl, rode off. But he took a position where he could fire on the miners when they tried to rush the pass, and so helped Speed. Later Brent, with an old deer gun, added his help. Just when Speed seemed to be gaining the upper hand, Fallon called his men with an exultant shout. A cavalcade was coming down the trail.—Now go on with the story.

"We'll take the street," said Speed to Maitland, "it's more visible."

The marbled thoroughfare, with its cross stripes of light, opened a chancy course before them when they turned the bend. These alternating patches of light and darkness were an advantage, as well as a menace; they exposed the entrance of each resort, while the dark spaces between shielded their approach.

When the sign of The Pack Train saloon appeared ahead, Speed's step became a little more measured. No figures loitered around this entrance; the noisy revel inside was apparently too engrossing. Light, streaming from chinks and seams in the canvas, clearly illumined the roadway, making it an unlikely spot for an ambush.

They reached the outer radius of the light, entered it, and passed the low bright beam that issued from under the swing doors. Through shadows that flickered over the road from the shuffle of dancing "Which goes to show—" Speed began. But the sentence was never completed. began. But the sentence was never completed.

He stopped and wheeled with a suddenness that brought the lead bronco's chest against his leg. Maitland heard a double crash; saw a bright flame stab from Speed's gun. Something burned past his cheek. The saloon door behind them was swinging to and fro throwing blinks of light into the road. In the luminous pool just below it, a man lay crumpled with his face upturned. The features were clearly legible. It was the shell dealer they had seen at Liarville.

They were in shadow again and had gained the darkness of the trail before the street filled, for The Pack Train was a 'last chance' saloon. They joined a scattered line of prospectors who had started on the night trail into the canyon, and no one followed them.

In wary silence the two partners kept trailing till they made camp far up the river canyon.

Over the fire, the outlaw sat in a long study. "I reckon that was a case," he said at last, "of what you would call 'suggestion.' The man wouldn't believe I didn't have a gun notched for him."

"What made him think you did?" Maitland asked.

"I followed him one night in Nevada. Got a slant of him then in the light of a saloon door. It just needed one look to see he was only a tramp tin-horn. Seems, though, like he had other things to be nervous about; he had friends in the camp and his imagination started guns blazing—When he seen me here he figured I was still after him—Like the girl said, the worst risk may be the one you ain't lookin' for."

"I've been figurin' slower since I made that first mistake—their's heap of pretty burnette girls in the western camps. You can see how easy it is to get misracted from how wide my guess was about this one and the horses, thinkin' she wanted pay."

"Do you think the gold secret she spoke of was just something she'd overheard while singing through the camp? Like her tip about the shell dealer?"

Speed looked at him curiously. "Why would you guess she overheard a gold secret?"

"I don't know," Maitland hesitated. "Something she said the first time I saw her. And then Owens losing his outfit when he was on his way to join a partner in the Yukon—Do I imagine, or does that tie together?"

"It ties to her," Speed grunted. "Maybe nowhere else. Outfits are gambled and lost right along the trails without needin' a gold secret back of it. What you heard Owens say doesn't count for much. And if this perspector had a gold mine, why wouldn't he record it, thus endin' the secret. Another thing—I'd bank she wouldn't be that much interested even in a gold mine. She comes by gold too easy."

"Then what motive would she have?"

"Motive?" Speed's mouth tightened. "You'd better not guess. Nothin' sets a man wonderin' like gold, and the best trick a woman has is to get you wonderin' till you go round her in circles. When she talks of puttin' heads together whose head do you figure she's interested in? Maybe Fallon and me both cramp her ideas. She baits me with a gold lure to go trailin' him, and her other argument is plausible. It would surely be a wise move to hunt Fallon down and settle that feud. But not on Canadian ground.

—If that ain't her motive, it's just barely possible she's workin' with Fallon to nail my pelt. Or else—" he concluded, less audibly, "she's drawin' evidence for the Law. She's

"The man wouldn't believe that I didn't have a gun notched for him" the most insidious woman I ever met, and I've known some bearcats."

At the top of the pass they looked out over a new world.

Clouds billowing darkly on a chill wind, shadowed the crests of a piling sea of mountain peaks. To the east and below them, a gleam that followed this moving darkness changed a sable wood to misty enchanted green, and glinted over the snow-dusted surface of Summit Lake—first promise of their approach to the headwaters of the Yukon. The sky turned grayer as they descended, till it melted in flakes that drifted around them like leaves, mantling their mud-stiffened clothes.

When the long strait of Windy Arm brought them into the wooded stillness of Lake Tagish, and they reached the lower end of this water-way, they came on an advance crew of police, setting up a barracks.

An officer walked out through the snow flicker to meet them. It was Drew, wearing a winter service uniform. He asked where they were bound.

"Just lookin' for timber and a place to camp," said Speed.

Drew's eye was on the pintos, as he filled and lit a pipe. "If you're heading toward the Lewes and you'd like to make some wages, I could give you a load of supplies to haul to Thirty Mile. One of our inspectors is camped there. He's taking Judge McGuire and the Crown Prosecutor to Dawson." Drew explained, "as a pleasant conversational item. 'The goods are to be delivered to him. No rush about it.'"

Speed looked darkly at his partner, who had a provident thought. With what lay behind them, it might be good politics to do the police a service. "We could leave our stuff here," Maitland ventured, "and prospect for a camp on the way."

"That's an idea," said the inspector. "If you make your camp between here and Lebarge, you'll be in the line of Cathcart's patrol. Corporal Cathcart's a new man. It'll be an event for him to meet anyone along that lonely beat."

"Does he use dogs?" Maitland asked curiously.

"No. Our dogs haven't arrived yet. Speaking of that, though, Cathcart's very interested in the sled track of a mysterious Siwash he's seen down that way. If you should get a glimpse of this lone Indian, you'll have exciting news for him."

"What makes the track a mystery?" Maitland inquired.

"The fact that no one has ever had a clear view of the Siwash or his team. This sounds odd, but it dates back to a time before our men entered the territory—when a miner from the Pelly brought in some gold, he claimed to have got from an Indian in a storm. The snow, he said, was driving thick, and the native, whose face was muffled in a parka hood, spoke in Chinook offering a potlatch of furs and nuggets in exchange for supplies. A gold legend grew from it, and whenever a cache was robbed, or ribbed by wolves, the vanishing Indian was blamed.

"Interesting case," Drew concluded, tapping out his pipe—But I'll be getting your sled-load ready."

Speed listened in silence, his mind apparently less occupied, with the inspector's story than with the peculiar circumstance of their making a haul for the police.

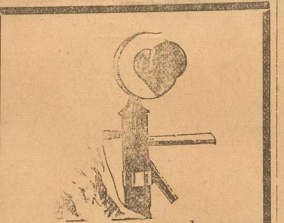

The snowfall continued in flurries as they slidded on toward Lake Lebarge. Between the canyon rapids and the Takhim they passed a creek that cut into the left bank of the river. It appealed to Speed as a site for a winter camp. The timber around it was good enough for cabin logs, and they could haul in the finer-grained wood they needed for the boat.

The solitude of the region remained unbroken. Feathering snow had erased the track of a patrolman's mount, which they had noted occasionally. So, when they were returning to the horses after a side excursion to examine timber, Maitland was surprised to see his partner stop suddenly and look down, as if he had detected some mark on a blank rise of snow.

The shape of these marks was not that of bootprints but of some moccasin-like foot covering. There were other phantom dots and lines that suggested a sled track—unaccountably to him.

Speed studied them with an absent intentness, from which he was recalled by a question from the other.

"Must be the track of the lone Siwash Drew's patrolman was curious about," he said. "Mysterious."

too, because there ain't any native settlements in this region, and nothin' much to bring a wanderin' Siwash in."

They made an uneventful trip down the stretch of Lake Lebarge to the Lewes and delivered their consignment to the inspector in charge, without meeting the other official personages. Nor did Speed show any desire to do so. He lost no time in getting rid of the order, and putting miles of lake ice between them and the Lewes.

Retracing their lonely route with the empty sleds, they loaded up with logs they felled along the way. Prospecting for timber sometimes led them far apart. They had been separated in this way for some hours when Maitland became aware that it was turning dark. A wolf howl, weird in the distance, deepened it still more.

Some minutes later his ears were stung to alertness by the muffled double crack of a rifle.

Wondering what game Speed would consider worth that number of shells, he pulled the horses into a faster gait.

Presently, through the snow drizzle, he discerned a dark lifeless bulk on the snow-blanketed ice. He found it to be a stray woodland caribou—the first he had ever seen. It had been dropped by a clean head shot, and its blood, still warm stained the snow. Speed's bullet had stolen a feast from the timber wolves.

In answer to his shout, his partner came toward him out of the shadow of a clump of cottonwoods.

"What were you looking for?" Maitland asked.

The other had an oddly abstracted look and was still scanning the shore line. "I must be gettin' mental, he said. "I got a dim sight of this caribou crosing the river mouth, and had to shoot twice to stop it. Then it seemed like I—like somethin' else was moving in the timber."

"Maybe a wolf was trailing the deer you shot?"

IN STEP WITH THE TIMES

Because a drug store is open from early until late, the public has come to expect many services and types of merchandise from them. We appreciate this fact and have made arrangements to render just about every service you might expect.

From comestics of guaranteed merit to the most intricate medicines, we are thoroughly stocked. We consider it a pleasure and an honor to serve you.

CITY DRUG STORE

They put the deer on the sled and kept trailing till they camped in the shelter of some timber above the river mouth. When they had skinned the game and cleaned up, darkness had closed around them with a bitter night cold. Maitland broke limbs from a fallen tree for the camp fire, while Speed was cooking caribou steaks on some wood coals. Releasing the axe for a moment to blow on his fingers, Maitland happened to glance across the river, and was arrested by a yellow gleam from a dark, slinking shape of fur.

"There's your wolf," he called to his partner.

"It's a Siwash dog. And lame."

Must of strayed from the team of that disappearin' Indian. Or the Siwash cut it loose."

The cruelty of leaving a lamed dog to starve seemed extreme to Maitland. But while the steaks were cooking, Speed mentioned some harsher examples of the law of survival in the snow country. The topic did not dull their appetite. Having appeased it, they lolled in the fire's warmth.

Speed took a deep drag at a waning cigarette and tossed the stub in the fire. Then he got up and sleepily stretched his arms. As he did so, his eyes came suddenly and sharply awake.

"ENEMY TO DIRT"

"GIFT OF GAB" IS LIBERTY OFFERING FOR FIRST OF WEEK

The following attractions are carded at the Liberty Theatre this week week as announced by W. A. Beavers, manager.

"The Westerner"
A new Tim McCoy western more thrilling than any in which the intrepid outdoor star has ever appeared, open Friday at the Liberty Theatre. It is called "The Westerner", and features the appealing Marion Shilling as the leading lady.

Differing widely in theme from other pictures of a western nature, "The Westerner" presents McCoy as a broncho-busting cowboy who fails to conquer a wild horse. When he comes out of the hospital, he finds that he has many enemies, among them a man whom he had hitherto believed to be his best friend. Tim resigns from the ranch owned by the charming Miss Shilling, and goes into ranching for himself. He discovers that the ranch he has bought has meant death to previous owners, as it is a handy strip through which to drive stolen cattle.

How the cow-boy wins through to success in his battle with rustlers, enemies and the wild-horse and ultimately wins the girl he loves is thrillingly told.

Plus "Lost Jungle" No. 7. Cartoon and Comedy.

"Gift of Gab"
Comedy drama and music—of-fered by the largest collection of stage, screen and radio stars ever seen together—feature the most unusual entertainment to come to Liberty Theatre in many months. The production, which open Sunday and continues through Tuesday is "Gift of Gab".

The story of "Gift of Gab" con-cerns itself with the rise of Ed-mund Lowe from an auctioneer to the foremost broadcasting announ-cer and reporter in America. Lowe and Gloria Stuart, blonde and more beautiful than ever, furnish plenty of thrills as he rises and falls on the way to the top.

Comedy elements are supplied by a large assortment of stooges, Phil Baker, Victor Moore, propriet-or of "Trivers' Livers," sponsoring the broadcast; Alice White, Hugh O'Connell, Douglas Fowley, Henry Armetta, Helen Vinson and Ster-ling Holloway.

Music is given to the audience by Ruth Etting Ethel Waters Phil. Baker, Gene Austin, the Beale St-reet Boys, the Downey Sisters and Gus Arnheim and his band. Satire is presented during a radio broadcast by a mock murder myst-ery in which Bela Lugosi, Karloff, June Knight, Binnie Barnes, Chest-er Morris, Douglass Montgomery, Paul Lukas and Roger Pryor dis-play their talents.

The conglomeration is tuneful, punchy, rollicking, and at times insane, but entertainment at all times. If you want to see a great collection of players at their best, see "Gift To Gab."

"Cheating Cheaters"
One of the most intriguing crook comedy-dramas of the year, "Cheat-ing Cheaters" has been booked at the Liberty theatre, for Wednes-day and Thursday. It stars Fay Wray.

Based on the Broadway play by Max Marcin, it is full of clever situation and fast moving action. As the title implies, it is a story of rival bands of crooks who at-tempt to outwit each other.

Fay Wray, one of the loveliest screen stars, is seen in a new kind of role as a detective, which adds to her already large repertoire of characterizations. She will also be heard singing for the first time on the screen. Opposite her is Cesar Romero.

The cast includes Francis L. Sullivan, Minna Gombell, with plenty of hilarious comedy by Hugh O'Connell and Henry Ar-metta, also selected short subject.

CROSS PLAINS GETS TWO 2ND'S AT MEET

Out of six entries in the District meet in Breckenridge, Cross Plains received only two places. The one act play received second place and W. N. Long also received second place in boys Extemporaneous Sp-eeching.

Although the other entries did not place; we are proud of them. The other contestants in the district meet ate W. J. Mayes, Mary Billingsly, Emma Jean Settle, and Bobbie Neel.

Ribbons were awarded to each member of the one act play cast and also to W. N. Long.

HINTS TO THE BOOKLOVER

The books we have chosen to give you a brief sketch of this week are Great Expectations by Charles Dickens and Kim by Puyard Kip-ling.

Great Expectations like David Copperfield, has a boy hero. The hero Rip is a great deal like David and probably both were drawn from Dickens own imagina-tion. Rip is an orphan. He is a very delicate, gifted child. He has a very hard life in a work house. The story has a rather haunting sense as Miss Havershan and the convicts give the story this sense. There is a great moral in this story. It is never be a snob, or you will lose touch with the truly beautiful things of life.

Kim is an adventure story. The hero is Kim a little Arab from La-hore, India. He is a lovable chap who's gets into the British Secret Service. There also is a wise old man named Lama in the story's to whom Kim is very attached. The story deals principally with the travels of Kim and old Lama. To get the most benefit and the real story from both Great Expectations and Kim one must read the books.

SPORT NEWS

By Jay Mayes
The Cross Plains High School Buffaloes are in full swing as Spring Football practice goes into its second week. However last week was spent passing and charging—so the boys could get the kicks out. This week the hard workouts began—working on shifting, and forma-tions, and fundamentals—blocking, tackling, sidestepping, etc.

Coach Osburne has 25 coming out at present, but we are sure of having at least 30 out by next week. We are having some fine workouts and expect to develop a strong team for next fall.

The Buffaloes are expected to win the District next year and should start in now and think about it. We all know what a district championship would mean for our school, coach, and for those players. Anything that is worth while is worth working for so let us get busy now and start thinking about how we are going to win that district crown next fall.

Those that are coming out at present are: John Paul Jackson (end)

Varner (end), Gene Cross (tackle), Stanley Pierce (tackle) Anderson Barr (tackle) Doyle McMillan (tackle) Gene Blitch (guard) Bob Joy (guard) Albert Usery (guard) Scott Smith (center) Bevo Webb (center) B. W. Huntington (center) Billy Gray (back) J. T. Cross (back) Ross Hemphill (back) Ed-ward Boon (back) J. H. Childs (back) Dub Dennis (end) Thomp-son (end) Weedy Joy (back) Dav- id Henkel (back) Barney Hart (end) and several ex-Buff's are out. Buster Atwood and R. E. Duncan are the only lettermen who are not out.

Lettermen of '34 that will bid for a place this year are: Duncan, (end) Barr, Pierce, Usery, Atwood, Webb, Cross and Blitch.

Just six more weeks and this school year will be out.

Set on the evening when banks were crashing in 1933, "Panic" told the grim story that fate, immutable rule of the gods to whom there is no appeal—these were the causes of the collapse of industry. And he tells it in verse that one reviewer describes as "terse beauty."

"The Green Pastures" played the 167rd performance almost as usual—even though that morning De Lawd—their beloved Richard B. Harrison, lay dead. How Criminals Are Freed

In his illuminating book, "Ten Thousand Public Enemies," Courtney Ryley Cooper reveals that a group of business men from a certain city visited a department of Justice official not long ago and told him that they had raised a large fund to finance a vigilance committee in their town to drive out the crooks. They wanted the official to advise them how to go about it.

His advice was short and to the point.

"Go back and chase out your crooked lawyers and politicians," he said, "and your crime problem won't bother you any more."

It has been said so often that modern crime is tied up with political and legal corruption that it hardly seems necessary to repeat it. But once in a while the day's news provides an admirable illustration.

(Abilene Morning News)

Spineless Age

By J. E. Henkel

According to the papers, the criminal element has been making monkeys of the officers of the law. That is to be expected? Without the backing of the responsible citizenship, the officers can do nothing. No one seems to want to accept responsibilities being willing to let it slide. I have been City Justice and have been on juries and grand jury and feel that I know something about the weakness of the average man. As long as the people cater to the criminal element, selling them the right to prey on the weaknesses of some, that long will we have to fight them.

We of the "Spineless Age" had better wake up and get busy or we will be afraid to go out in the dark without our mamas. Already people need body guards if they talk out loud about the criminals. The criminal element stop at nothing and the suckers keep their mouths shut for fear of getting slapped. Mr. Alfred is doing a fine thing, but he won't get far with it, because he has to fight the thing that most people do not know about. He has to fight the money making grafters in the gambling, booze and narcotic game and that is a hard fight. He has to fight the indifference of the average man and woman, he has to fight the weak who want to gamble, who want their liquor and who have no moral courage. His is a hard fight, but somebody has to keep it up or we perish, and history will set us down as the "spineless age" if it isn't stopped.

I agree to report any law violation, encourage foolish talks against better things, serve on juries and assist in any way within my ability. If we would only do that, we would have nothing to fear.

The lawless element would have to hunt holes and live like wolves instead of like kings and we the people, who boasted that we are brave, noble and strong can come out of our holes and develop some backbone and become kings in our own right.

THE BOOK

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures

by BRUCE BARTON NONE GREATER BORN

JOHN THE BAPTIST saw his own disciples go away from him to follow Jesus, and, unselfish as he was, we may be sure that it was not easy.

Even he did not realize perhaps how fast his following would diminish, nor how soon the authorities would think it safe to seize him without precipitating.

Suddenly he found himself in the darkness of Herod's prison, no contact with the outside world except through a handful of still faithful disciples. These brought him disquieting news. Jesus whom he had hailed as the Messiah to whose upbuilding he had sacrificed every personal opportunity and interest, this Jesus was not acting the role of a prophet. He did not fast; He did not withdraw into the wilderness; He did not denounce men for carnal sins. On the contrary, He was feasting in the homes of publicans and proceeding happily from village to village, surrounded, by laughing children and a nondescript mob of undesirable.

Tortured by such doubts, he sent two of his disciples to demand an explanation. They found Jesus surrounded by enthusiastic crowds, they sought a private audience and insisted on the truth.

Art thou he that should come or do we look for another?

The inquiry must have cut Jesus to the quick. He did the only thing possible; He pointed to the results, hoping that they would carry convincing testimony.

Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see:

The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them.

Did the answer satisfy John? And he die with the inspiring assurance that his short life was in the noblest sense successful, that he had delivered his message and that it was true? Or were the agonies of doubt and discouragement his final portion?

We can never know. The end came very quickly. His head was kicked off by the toe of a dancing girl, and Jesus did not interfere to save him.

When Jesus heard of it, he departed thence by ship unto desert place apart.

He summoned no battalion of angels to save His friend even as, a few months later, He summoned none to save Himself. But we know what He thought of that friend:

Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist.

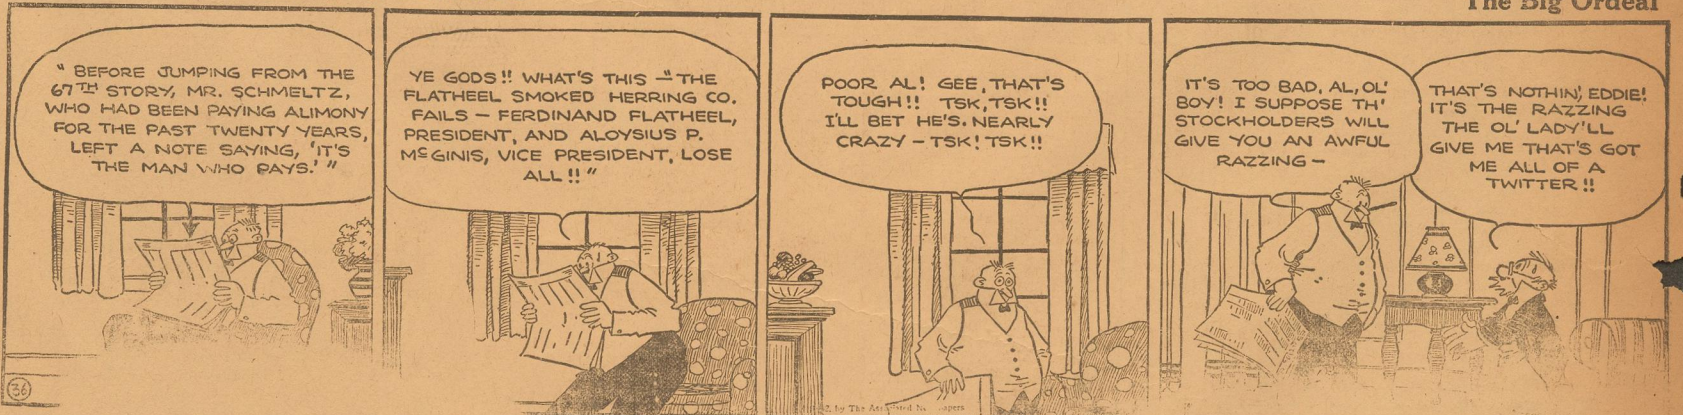

Some African savages still believe that white men are the ghosts of black men, that all deaths from diseases are caused by evil spirits, and that apes are a race of human beings.

Mark Twain

When Mark Twain edited a newspaper in Missouri, one of his subscribers wrote him that he had found a spider in his paper and wished to know whether it meant good luck or bad.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good luck or bad. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising, so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Don't allow this to happen to you. Place your ad in THE REVIEW and let your chicken catch the spider.

CROSS CUT

Mr. J. C. Clark, had long been a pioneer—one of the first dauntless trail blazers, who came into this country and established peace and order from the chaos and wildness. For years he has served this country as postmaster. He has devoted his life to a worthy cause, and he has left his mark on the pages of eternity. His footstep in the sands of time. Never was there a nobler fellow with a heart more true than his.

But now he is serving the angels of Heaven. He was called to that happy land around 5:00 p. m. Last Friday. Amid the thousands of people at his funeral Saturday at 4:30 showed the appreciation of the multitudes for the helpful life Mr. Clark has led. "But the fairest flowers must wilt. And the truest love must die, And even our greatest heroes. Must sometime say good by."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to our friends our appreciation for all the nice things they did for us during the sickness and death of our dear husband and father. They could not have been any better to us and we thank you.

METHODISTS HAVE SPECIAL SERVICES

At the Methodist Church Sunday, services appropriate to Palm Sunday will be held. At the morning hour the subject of the sermon will be "The Triumphant Entry That Was Different or Crowning Christ King." Fitting music will be rendered.

At the evening hour the children of the church will have their special part in "Crowning Christ King." A beautiful service is being prepared, featuring a children's choir of thirty or more voices. There will be other special numbers. A number of children will be received into full membership of the church.

"All whose duty does not call them elsewhere are invited to these services," Rev. J. C. Mann, pastor, told the Review. "This will be the beginning of our week of pre-Easter evangelistic services. In these services we will also observe the special occasions of the Passion Week, such as the Lord's Supper, which will be administered Thursday night under the illuminated cross, and Good Friday, which will be observed by a meditation on the seven words from the cross."

Members of the Methodist Church are urged to take advantage of these opportunities for spiritual strengthening. All others are heartily welcomed," Rev. Mann said.

THE EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Cross Plains Review, Cross Plains, Texas.

Dear Jack:

I happened in a bank the other day and saw some of the local money being drawn out for the purpose of being placed in the New Government Issue, Baby Bonds. Money sent out of a local community for Bonds is out of circulation as far as that community is concerned. It is tax money, it produces nothing and does not come back, son. It goes to help pay for more regulation and more interference in business by the Government.

The real danger, at this time, and the purpose, I think, for which the Baby Bond Idea was inaugurated: is that it will lead the people to be bond minded. The clamor for inflation, more money in circulation, was becoming insistent from all parts of the Nation and something had to be done. The Baby Bond idea was a happy thought as a means of quieting the general public about inflation. The U. S. Treasury believe that if they can get these bonds broadcast through every community; that every person owing one or more of them will become bond minded, instead of wanting inflation with new money.

The natural result of a lot of money in circulation is prosperity, and bonds always go down in prosperous times, hence every bond holder will tend to fight against inflation, for fear of losing on his bond. For he paltry sum of a few cents, which would be the interest on a twenty five dollar bond, The U. S. Treasury, hope to convert the people from the idea of plenty of money, to the idea of sound credit for the Government, and a big demand for bonds.

MRS. DIXON HOSTESS TO FORTY TWO CLUB

Mrs. O. L. Dixon entertained the "Forty Two" club at her home last Thursday night with four tables of forty two.

POWER ZONE

V-8
POWER

With the introduction of the V-8 engine, Ford brought a new standard of performance to the low-priced field.

COMFORT ZONE

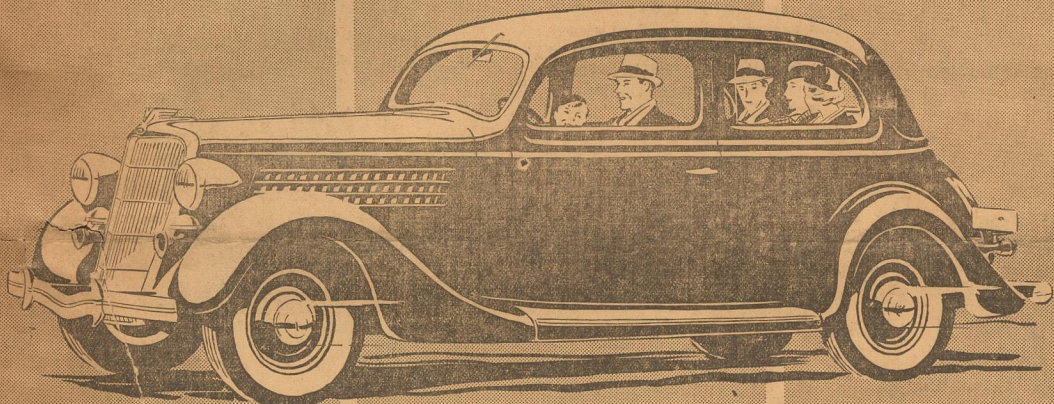

*Comfort Zone
Riding*

Gives the ease, smoothness and comfort of a "front seat ride" even to back seat passengers—an important engineering advance.

ECONOMY ZONE

FORD ECONOMY

The 1935 Ford V-8 gives you the most economical car to operate Ford has ever built.

Why take less?

FORD has always aimed to make the automobile-buying dollar go as far as possible.

This year, the 1935 Ford V-8 gives you traditional Ford low prices, traditional Ford operating economy—and, in addition, riding comfort, body roominess, new beauty and new safety features that will satisfy the requirements of almost everyone.

Consider some of the major improvements in the Ford V-8 for 1935. Take Comfort: From this standpoint alone, what a completely rounded car this is! Comfort Zone Riding that gives "front seat comfort" even to rear seat passengers. Deep cushioned, high-backed, wider seats. Big, air-balloon tires. Easier steering and a newly-designed clutch that responds to the touch of your foot.

Consider safety: There's safety glass all around—on all models—at no additional cost. A new, welded all-steel body. New, more powerful brakes, with an unusually high ratio of braking surface to car weight. And a lower center of gravity that gives increased safety and stability on curves!

Why be satisfied to receive less than this for your money? Examine this new 1935 Ford V-8. Ride in it. You'll realize that it is truly a new automobile value.

Parade Inaugurates Baird's Trades Day and Rodeo

Downtown Baird's biggest throng in years was that taking part in the first trades day and free rodeo of the spring season, held Monday of this week. Bronco riding, calf roping, wild cow milking, bulldogging and steer riding were among the day's events. A public address system was used in rodeo and parade, one section of which is depicted in the picture below. At the front on the motorcycle, is L. A. Brar, state highway patrolman; then the drum corps of McMurry College—the famed Wah Wah Taysees—and behind them, Sheriff Bob Edwards of Callahan county leading the mounted contingent. The parade was three blocks long.

COUNTRY CLUB TO SPONSOR TOURNEY JUNE 7, 8 AND 9

The annual invitation tournament of Philpeco Country Club has been set for June 7, 8 and 9. Dates of the committee in charge Saturday.

The greens have been resanded and new traps and bunkers installed. It is believed that the new hazards will make the layout three strokes harder.

J. T. Hammett, 17-year-old star who won the title last year, will again be a strong contender. He has been shooting fine golf recently. Last week he set a nine-hole record of 29.

Leading golfers from all parts of West Texas will be invited compete in the tournament. Plans are already being made for the affair.

 Texan Willing * To Pay Fee Of * $100 For A Wife ***

OMAHA, Neb., April 9. —Mayor Roy N. Towl of Omaha today found himself thrust into the role of cupid a Texas fruit and stock farmer who wants a wife.

"I have heard a great deal of the Nebraska women," the Texan as wrote the mayor. "I am ready to get married, and I want you to get me a wife."

The letter promised the mayor or $100 if a wife is forthcoming, but Towl said he would function for nothing to the extent of forwarding all replies coming to him to the Texan.

The letter stated the wife must not be over 45, of good disposition. She may smoke, but not drink. The Texas farmer said he was 45 and "can furnish good references."

WILLIAMS TEAM TO ENTER JUDGING CONTESTS AT A. & M.

Following report from the Future Farmers of America chapter at Williams school has been received. Fillman Kingsbury, Jack Woods, Ikie Hickman and Clifton Armstrong and Mr. Scott, the instructor, will leave for College Station Sunday, April 14, to take part in the state F. F. A. judging contest. The boys composed the terracing team of Williams chapter. The same team entered the F.F.A. judging contest at Stephenville April 6. The boys have terraced several hundred acres of land and have a good knowledge of terracing.

While away the boys will visit the soil erosion project in Bell county, sponsored by the Department of Interior. The team is planning on an enjoyable and educational trip to College Station. Approximately 300 chapters in Texas will have teams there.
