HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Another of our matrimonial predictions has run true to form. If you recall, we told you in September that Earl (Sweetie) Webb and Miss Leta Beatrice Neeb would be married about the middle of November. Well, we were right.

The couple approached Hyman's altar at Coleman, Wednesday afternoon and were bound by the vows of wedlock.

Here's a wish for happiness to the ol' home town's newest Matron and Benedict.

About most every wedding, however, there is a tinge of sadness. Our sympathies go out this week to "Shortie" Neeb, sister of the bride. Somehow, we just imagine she's going to be "sorta" lonesome with her big sister and titan topped running mate now a married woman.

Roy Carmichael has decided at last to move his hash house to East Texas. The big shot soup king will leave these parts about the last of this month for Gregg-town, where he says he will open a hash house, bigger than ever.

Edwin Baum has never been referred to as "tight", yet he is so everlastingly thrifty that it is sometimes hard to draw the line of demarcation.

Sometime ago, Ed and his better half accompanied Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Anderson to Abilene to witness as football game. At the gridiron, Edwin dashed to the ticket window to purchase the ducats. "Two adult tickets and two student tickets", he exclaimed.

"Where are the students", was the seller's reply.

"Well, I'm one and there's the other—that girl over there standing with that lady", Ed remarked in pointing at his wife standing alongside with Mrs. Anderson.

Yes sub, he got the student tickets o.k. too. And we've seen him work the trick since.

Ah! There's nothing like their gift of everlasting youth.

Realizing that the average newspaper reader is always desirous of knowing the "low down" on a new preacher, we wired Rev. J. C. Mann, who has been appointed to minister spiritual food to the Methodist flock here, to send us a few facts about himself.

The preacher with good old Methodist obedience immediately supplied the following information, which, as you will see, proves the new "sky pilot" has a good sense of humor as well as other qualifications. He replied as follows:

"I was born in Tarrant County several years ago. I was reared there. I did my early academic work in Polytechnic College. I then taught school three years, one in Seranton Academy, and two in the Fort Worth system. After that I went to S.M.U. where by donating me a few passes in Math. and Science they enabled me to get an A. B. degree in 1919. They were so generous to me that I stayed two more years and persuaded them out of a B.D. degree in 1921.

"I have been married once and have three children, a boy 9, a girl 6, and another girl 2. My wife thinks they are fine children. I have always counted upon her judgment.

"My wife was born in Missouri but brought her family to Stephenville Texas when she was seven years old. The family still lives there. She was an honor graduate of T.W.C. in 1922. That's were the children get their fair amount of intelligence.

"I don't want to tell you too much at once. I think it will be better for me that you find it out by degrees."

LOCAL METHODISTS HAVE NEW PASTOR

Aspermont Minister Succeeds J. C. Scoggins In Local Pulpit; Other Changes In Area

Rev. J. C. Mann, of Aspermont, was named by the Central Texas Methodist Conference to succeed Rev. J. C. Scoggins as pastor of the Cross Plains Methodist church, at a meeting of the body in Fort Worth last week. Rev. Scoggins, who transfers from this conference to the North-West Texas Conference, of which he is originally a member, will receive his appointment from that body at Abilene Sunday.

Several other churches were effected in the "pastoral shake-up" at Fort Worth last week. Rev. H. H. Nance, pastor of the Burkett, Cross Cut and Pioneer churches, was moved to Aquella, Texas, and Rev. W. S. Fisher will assume his duties at Burkett and Cross Cut.

Van Pelt Transfers

Rev. DeWitt Van Pelt, pastor of the Cottonwood and Dressy Methodist churches, also transfers to the North-West Texas conference of which he was formerly a member, and his successor is yet to be named. It is believed in church circles that the same pastor will be appointed to serve at Cottonwood and Pioneer. Dressy will in all probability be linked with another charge, the Review was told yesterday.

The extensive changing of pastors in this area is due largely to the fact that this locality was formerly in the North-West Texas Conference but the general conference changed it sometime ago into the Central Texas conference.

Putnam Pastor Moves

Rev. Jimmie Culpepper, at Putnam, was moved to Olden. A pastor for the Putnam church will be announced at Abilene Sunday, at the meeting of the North West Texas group, of which the Putnam church is a part.

Rev. J. C. Mann, who succeeds Rev. Scoggins at Cross Plains, is near 40 years and father of three children. The Manns are expected to move here the first of next week. This is the second time that Rev. Mann has followed Rev. Scoggins in a pastoral capacity. He succeeded Rev. Scoggins at Knox City three years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Mann has held pastorates at Estellene, Wheeler, and Knox City. He comes to the local church highly recommended.

Dr. J. B. Curry is the newly appointed Presiding Elder of this district. He will be stationed at Cisco.

There will be no services at the local Methodist church Sunday.

JOHNNIE LOVELL WILL PREACH HERE SATURDAY

Rev. J. A. Lovell, radio evangelist over station K.F.P.L., will preach on the streets of Cross Plains Saturday afternoon, he told the Review yesterday.

Mrs. Vada Younglove is recovering normally at Sealy hospital where she underwent a major operation on Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McAdams and family were visitors in Big Spring over the week end.

Mesdames Lewis and Louie Williams of Putnam visited Mr. and Mrs. Nat Williams Wednesday.

George Lamar and Rev. C. A. Voyles attended workers conference in Potts Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Cook were business visitors in Abilene Monday.

Mayor's Proclamation

I, S. P. Collins, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Cross Plains, do hereby proclaim Monday and Tuesday, November 19 to 20, 1934, A. D., as Clean-Up days in Cross Plains and urge all citizens to lend the movement their heartiest cooperation.

In view of the fact that Cross Plains has always been recognized for its cleanly aspect it behooves each of us as a citizen of this city to clear our premises of all rubbish, falling leaves and unsightly matter.

By order of the City Council, I am authorized to announce that trucks will be employed to transport garbage from homes to a dumping ground, without charge to local citizens.

Urging again that the clean-up movement be faithfully observed, I hereby set my seal of office to this proclamation the fifteenth day of November, 1934, A. D.

(Signed) S. P. COLLINS, Mayor of Cross Plains

"Monday and Tuesday Will Be Clean Up Days In Cross Plains", Collins

Monday and Tuesday, November 19 and 20, have been officially declared as clean-up days in Cross Plains. Trucks will be provided by the city administration to haul away rubbish collected from the alleys, streets or premises here, according to a statement of Mayor S. P. Collins last night.

BIDS ADVERTISED FOR CARRIERS ON STAR MAIL ROUTES

Proposals will be received at the office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Postoffice Department, until four thirty p. m. January 15, 1935, for the carrying of mails of the United States from July 1, 1935 to June 30, 1939, upon the star routes in the states of Texas, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Oklahoma.

List of routes, forms of proposals and bonds, and all necessary information will be furnished upon application to the local postmaster or to the Second Assistant Postmaster General, the Review was instructed yesterday.

PIONEER BOYS IN F. F. A. INITIATION

Seven Pioneer agriculture students received green hand initiation at May Tuesday afternoon.

The method of advancement in Vocational Agriculture is becoming more efficient each year: steps of advancement are greenhand, future farmer, lone star farmer and American farmer, the Review was told yesterday by the Pioneer agriculture instructor.

Four lambs were recently purchased by W. B. Gunn, Jr., for feeding over a 90 day period. The lambs were bought from the J. C. Dibrell stock, near Echo.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Neeb and Misses Enid and Jimmie Lou Gwatney visited in Stephenville Sunday.

Martin Neeb, V. C. Walker and S. Newton visited in Brownwood Monday afternoon.

Harlie Neel, of Hamlin, visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Neel here over the week end.

ALBANY LIONS WILL ROAR INTO TOWN THIS AFTERNOON

Albany high school's highly touted Lions, and conquerors of many district championships, will roar into town this afternoon in conquest of further grid laurels. The kick-off is set for three o'clock on Cross Plains high school field.

Three angles of interest will contribute to make today's fray the most important in district 14-B. First, the outcome of the contest may determine whether Pioneer or Albany will win the district crown. Second, both sides have a natural rivalry to settle—Albany to avenge their historic defeat at the Shackelford county seat last November and Cross Plains to scratch the victory column for the first time this year. Third, the Buffaloes are anxious to beat their former coach, who forsake the thundering herd for a more lucrative position, and the Lions and reported just as anxious to vindicate their mentor with a decisive victory.

From Albany comes reports that the football squal will be accompanied by the high school band, pep squad and 200 enthusiastic fans. Cross Plains is expected to literally "close-up shop" and attend the game in a body. The local rooting section is expected to be enhanced by scores of Pioneer people, who have promised to be on hand and offer their support for the Buffaloes; which if they should win would virtually assure Pioneer the district flag. The Pioneer Panthers have an open date today and only a game with Clyde—November 23—left on their conference schedule.

With two first string back-field men on the injured list Coach Osburn will be forced to rely upon the services of at least two small and comparatively inexperienced men, when his charges take the field against the powerful Albany Lions this afternoon. "Beevo" Webb with an injured shoulder, is not expected to see any service at all in the game and in all probability very little, if any, for the remainder of the season. Gene Blitch, who has been on the casualty list for several weeks, will also be unable to enter the Albany contest.

Osburn told the Review last night his probable starting line-up would be as follows: ends, Duncan and B. Lusk; tackles, J. Lusk and Stanley Pierce; guards, Usrey and Atwood; center, Scott Smith; quarterback, Jay Mayes; halfbacks, J. T. Cross and J. H. Childs; fullback, Ross Hagan Hemphill.

It is believed, however, that John Lackey, who is nursing a knee injury, will get into the game before it progresses very far; that is, unless the herd appears to be strong enough without him. Lackey, a guard, has been shifted to fullback since the loss of Floyd Halbert.

SUMMER WATER RATES WILL BE CONTINUED

Summer water rates, which are slightly slower than the regular winter schedule, will be continued in Cross Plains indefinitely members of the City Council have disclosed.

J. E. PITTMAN IS BROUGHT TO HIS HOME THIS WEEK

J. E. Pittman, who suffered a broken leg more than a month ago, was brought to his home here Tuesday. He had been confined in a hospital at Baird.

CARSWELL CHIEF SPEAKER AT LION BANQUET TUESDAY

Cross Plains Lions Club celebrated its annual ladies night Tuesday, with a banquet in the dining hall of the Methodist church. Dr. J. H. McGowen, president of the club, acted as master of ceremonies. Principal speaker of the evening was T. S. Carswell, Secretary of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce.

One of the high spots of the program was a humorous one act play, presented by the Cross Plains high school dramatic club under the supervision of Miss Novaly Price. A cheese guessing contest—this is national cheese week—was another feature of the program. 55 people were present.

TAX COLLECTOR TO BE HERE 26 AND 27

Tax Collector Wm. J. Evans told the Review in a telephone interview Thursday morning that it would be impossible for him to be in Cross Plains the twenty first and twenty second of this month for the purpose of collecting taxes, as advertised last week, but that he would be here the following week November 26 and 27.

Mr. Evans will have headquarters at the Citizens State Bank while here and states that he will be glad to explain any tax matter as well as collect county and state assessments.

Miss Martha Scoggins, who is attending McMurry college, at Abilene spent the week end here.

Miss Artie Cook of Putnam is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Cook this week.

Mrs. E. O. Koenig and children were visitors in Brownwood Saturday and Sunday.

Something New Under The Sun; Newspapers Start Naming Babies

Newspapers take a hand in everything else, so why not in the naming of babies? The Review—without authority from the parents—herby names the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith "Lucky" and here's our reason why.

If there's anything to the aged conception that there's luck attached to the number eleven, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith are parents of a baby boy, who is destined to share the most delicious fruits of fortune.

The child, an eleven pounder, was born Sunday at eleven minutes, and eleven seconds after eleven o'clock. In other words he is an eleven pound baby, born on the eleventh month, eleventh day, eleventh hour, minute and eleventh second, according to Dr. Eli Powell, the attending physician.

And just by way of coincidence it was virtually the same moment 16 years ago that the Armistice was signed. After all there may be truth in adage that the number eleven is lucky. After all there may be truth in adage that the number eleven is lucky; if so, it's up to "Lucky" Smith to verify it to the world.

WEDDING VOWS ARE RECITED BY LOCAL COUPLE WEDNESDAY

Culminating a romance of several years, which began when both were students in Cross Plains high school, Miss Leta Neeb and Earl Webb, both of this place, were united in marriage at Coleman Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. J. A. Stoltzoff, Methodist pastor reading the rites. Mrs. Olan Adams, sister of the groom, accompanied the couple to Coleman and witnessed the ceremony.

Mrs. Webb is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Neeb, one of this city's oldest families. She was graduated from Cross Plains high school with the class of '28. She attended John Tarleton Agricultural College, at Stephenville, a year and later was employed in a secretarial capacity here for several years. Mrs. Webb has been prominent in society of the younger set in Cross Plains ever since finishing school.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Webb, prominent ranch people, who live 14 miles Southwest of Cross Plains. While attending school here, the groom was captain of the Cross Plains high school Buffalo football team. He finished with the class of '30 and later attended Texas Technological College at Lubbock. At present he is proprietor of a local cafe.

The couple will probably take a furnished apartment for the time being.

K. P. LODGE GIVES INITIATION TO 12

12 candidates were initiated into Knights of Pythias lodge here Tuesday night, with a drill team from Abilene conferring the work. Sandwiches, coffee and cake was served to 35 people at the close of the initiation work.

Candidates taking the work: P. L. Rankin, Bob Clark, Clyde W. Rankin, Orba Booth, J. G. Perry, C. W. Kempfer, Fonia C. Rankin, W. J. Cross, W. J. Dorsey.

DROUTH BROKEN AS GOOD RAIN COVERS TERRITORY TUESDAY

The "pit-ter-pat-ter" of rain drops upon the window sill became more than memory Tuesday night, when ol' man weather blessed this section with the first important rain in seven months. Government relief rolls were "cheated" of several hundred clients as the steady downpour penetrated parched fields and pastures, reviving them with possibilities.

In Cross Plains the precipitation was gauged at an inch and a half. At Dressy, Charlie Baird caught exactly the same amount in his specially arranged "moisture measurer". More than two feet of stock water was caught in several tanks near Cross Plains.

At Cottonwood, Sabanno, Nimrod and other points the rain was estimated to be of smaller proportions, however, farmers, stock men, merchants, and even barbers opined that a million dollars would be a "short estimate" on the precipitation's value to this area.

Threatening clouds yet overhanging the horizon gave promise of more rain. In any event, one of the longest drouths in recent years was broken Tuesday night and there was very little complaining on the streets here of the fact at least a dozen automobiles were drowned out.

The Home Telephone reported the rain had been gauged Wednesday morning at a number of nearby points as follows: Baird an inch and a half, Brownwood one inch, Dublin an inch and a half.

INSURANCE FIRM TO GIVE POLICY TO ESSAY WINNER

Announcement was made yesterday by Charles F. Hemphill, manager of the Bryant Insurance Agency here that his firm will award a premium—fully paid for one year—for a 20 year pay life insurance policy to the student of Cross Plains high school writing the best essay on the subject: "Life Insurance: It's Principles and Benefits."

The award is to be made December 21. Mr. Hemphill told the Review that the prize is valued at $21.00. Entries are to be placed with Superintendent Nat Willard who will number them and submit to disinterested judges for grading. Rules of the contest and beneficial hints were explained in circular distributed to high school students this week.

RISING STAR HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE IS RULED INELEGIBLE

All games played by the Rising Star high school Wildcats since October 19, will be charged as forfeits, according to a ruling of the district executive committee Tuesday night which declared Leo Taylor, Wildcat tackle, ineligible. Taylor played his first game the season for Rising Star October 19. The ruling gives the Albany Lions, which were held to a seven all tie by Rising Star last week, half game lead on Pioneer for the district title.

BROWNWOOD MAN FILLS LOCAL PULPIT SUNDAY

Rev. J. M. Brown, of Brownwood, pastor of the Baptist church here 19 years ago filled the pulpit at the local church Sunday night. He is at present pastor of the First Baptist church of Brownwood.

BUFFALOES PREPARE TO SCRAP WITH LIONS FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Cross Plains Buffaloes will meet "Goobers" Keys Albany Lions Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the local gridiron.

After two weeks of rest, the Buffaloes are finally in shape to beat the Lions.

The Lions are tied with Pioneer for the district championship race and Goobers Keys Lions are coming at the Buffaloes with full force Friday, so probably it will be a great game.

Most of the regulars on the Buffaloes squad are ready to go and, from all indication they are really going to give Albany a hard fight. The loss of Halbert will weaken the backfield a great deal. Webb's injured shoulder is healing rapidly while all other men are in good shape.

News from other papers received at the Editor's desk

Monday a San Antonio man, W. S. Lewis, celebrated his 80th birthday. Nothing unusual in the age, but there is something unusual in the fact that the man has not consulted a doctor about his health in the past 50 years, also that he can read the finest print without glasses and has a full set of natural teeth. Another unusual thing, Lewis eats what he chooses without fear of results, a thing that many men and women much younger would be glad to do. The fact that he has always done physical labor and lived a simple life might have something to do with his unusual physical condition. Coleman County Chronicle

A. W. Sharp, in charge of the Relief gardens on the banks of Brady Creek near the Brady Municipal Water and Light Plant, was exhibiting a sample of the turnips grown there, this morning. They were large and firm, and approximately 100 bushels have been gathered, making a total of 947 bushels of vegetables gathered this year from the gardens.

Mr. Sharp cleared the tract, planted and irrigated, as well as cared for the gardens throughout the summer and fall. He has planted a nice winter garden. These vegetables are gathered as often as necessary and taken to the relief office where Administrator M. L. Taylor distributes them to the needy families.

The Brady Standard

J. M. Crudginton brought us an egg Thursday that has on it a multitude of creases and ridges and a well defined figure "eight" traced on it's side.

A buff orpington hen layed the egg, and her owner says she is in every respect normal so far as temperament, color, and habits are concerned. Whatever got her disposition warped and caused her to lay a cross-puzzle egg is beyond the ken of Crudginton.

THE SECOND QUESTION A DOCTOR ASKS . . .

Here is some information that has relieved whole families from Constipation

When anyone is "out of sorts" the doctor's first question is about the bowels. And the second, what is being taken to help them. Doctors use laxatives, and expect you to use them. But they prefer a liquid laxative. Do you know why? Doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives because they've seen the damage sometimes done by highly concentrated drugs in the form of pills or tablets! They know that a properly made liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative) does not do this harm. And they use liquid laxatives to relieve the bowels, because the dose can be easily regulated.

What to Use There is a preparation of fine herbs, pure pepsin, cascara, and senna which does away with all need of harsh cathartics. The active senna in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is laxative enough for any adult, mild enough for any child. And there are other valuable ingredients in this delightful syrup.

Syrup Pepsin will usually relieve a case of constipation overnight. If a further dose is necessary, you give a smaller dose, each time less, until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all! If you have a youngster who

NOPSIS: — Prelude: "Love y." Mrs. Church warned gently wondered why? Posing her talented mother, first as a baby, then a bubbling child, a charming young girl, Ellen lived always in a make-believe of beauty. Of the outside her knowledge was meager. 7 years of age, posing in the Ellen at last is learning the her mother's broken life, stolen kiss, marriage—then of loneliness, waiting for the and to return Mrs. Church is telling Ellen of the father—ON WITH THE STORY

"Well?" she asked. The red rushed up under the brown of the boy's cheeks, but he managed to speak just as nonchalantly as she had. "Very well, indeed!" he answered. "Oh, very—"

And then, without quite knowing how they got there, they were in each other's arms, and he was kissing her oddly shaped winglike eyebrows. And she was quivering, close to sobs, against his shoulder.

For a moment they stood together, so. And then Tony spoke. "I guess," he said, "that settles it! We will be married as soon as possible. How," his voice was close to breaking, "how could you send me home, as you did, last night?"

"This morning!" corrected Ellen. Tony's face had a high, uplifted look. He paid no attention to the correction.

"You had me worried," he said, "stalling that way. Pretending that you hadn't fallen for me, and that my bank account was all that mattered."

Ellen raised a slender hand—half in protest, half in a gesture of withdrawal.

"Listen," said Ellen. "Stop and look and listen! You're going too fast, Tony—you're assuming too much. I didn't mean to worry you last night, and I wasn't stalling, either. I wasn't pretending not to like you, for I do like you far better than any of the other men I know. But I suppose it was, really, your bank account that finally sold me—on marriage, I mean. For," her heart thudded sickly at falsehood, "I don't love you, not as love goes in novels. I won't ever love anyone that way. I've always said that marriage would have to be sort of lukewarm to interest me, and I haven't changed my mind! What I mean is, I don't love you, madly. I don't believe in love, not for girls. It's all right for men—with a man, love's only a gesture any way!"

Tony came the next day, slightly before noon, looking a trifle older than he had in his tousled Pierrot roustome. Seeming less sun-browned, less sure of himself, but somehow more dear than ever—indefinitely more dear! Ellen, starting forward to meet him, could hardly hold back her arms. They seemed to be on springs—on springs that dragged them forward, toward him.

Ellen—she wasn't looking quite so vivid herself, as she had in the brief costume of a page boy. Her hair was parted demurely in the middle, and she wasn't made up. She wore a plain little dress of navy blue crepe, with white linen collar and cuffs, and small, strapped black slippers. She was like a school girl in appearance.

"My mother loved my father until they both died," said Ellen. "And that," her imitation of Claire's shrug was piteous, "and that's why I don't believe in that kind of marriage. I want to get what I can out of life—I want to squeeze life dry, like a sponge. If you marry me, it will have to be on those terms. You're not to expect too much from me. Not too much love, or too much gentleness, or too much loyalty. I'll try not to do anything to put any sort of a blot on your name—you can pretty well count on me, there, because I'm not the type! But I shall continue to have my own friends and to go out with them. And I'll keep on with my work, if I find I'm not busy enough running my marriage."

One of the first things she had noticed about Tony was the strength of his jaw line. It widened out now, in an odd manner. It became blunt.

"What," said Tony, "if I make a few remarks and stipulations? As long as this seems to be a mutual contract we're drawing up! What if I say that I'll have as many women friends in my life, as you have men? What if I say that I'll find my excitement elsewhere if you don't keep my home peppy enough? What if I say I don't care about the blots that I put on the family name, as long as wearing the family name can be held so cheaply by my wife? What if I say I thoroughly agree, with your theories? That what you've said can go—double?"

Ellen's hands were folded in her lap. They looked like calm little fingers, but in reality the nails of them were biting into her pink palms. Tony—oh, he mustn't go about with other women! Not when he was her husband. She—reversing a single standard to fit her own quaint measure—could be less fastidious. Because she knew that other men wouldn't ever matter to her. But how could she be sure that some other girl wouldn't matter to Tony? She started to speak changed her mind, and said something entirely different from the thing that she had intended to say.

"At that, our marriage should work out better," she said, "than

"Most women," said Tony, and he spoke with the conviction that every rich young man possesses, "would be afraid to talk as frankly as you do, Ellen, if they really didn't care. They'd be afraid of losing me—and my bank account—"

Ellen tossed her head until the curls of it were all a-dance. "I'm not afraid!" she boasted. How could a boy guess that the boast was so hollow?

"I suppose," Tony went on, "that I'm sort of old-fashioned in some ways. But my mother and my father were married for thirty yrs. My father died just two months before my mother went away, and when she followed him (and say what you will, it was heartbreak, for she hadn't been ill), she was calling—" the boy's voice shook, calling his name. I believe in that kind of marriage, myself."

Ellen's eyes were staring far away.

"My mother loved my father until they both died," said Ellen. "And that," her imitation of Claire's shrug was piteous, "and that's why I don't believe in that kind of marriage. I want to get what I can out of life—I want to squeeze life dry, like a sponge. If you marry me, it will have to be on those terms. You're not to expect too much from me. But how could she be sure that some other girl wouldn't matter to Tony? She started to speak changed her mind, and said something entirely different from the thing that she had intended to say.

"At that, our marriage should work out better," she said, "than most marriages. It's being built on a perfectly honest, fifty-fifty, cards-on-the-table basis."

Same of the buoyancy seemed to have gone out of the heir to the Brander millions. Only his doggedness, the strong line of his chin was left.

"I'll work out all right!" he told Ellen. "Say when!"

Oh, the throbbing of the heart in Ellen's breast! Oh, the persistent beat in her temples.

"Why," she said, and her voice sounded like a stranger's voice, even in her own ears, "why, the sooner the better! It's just after twelve, now. Maybe, if we took a taxi, we could catch us a license right off and be married, and have a bite of luncheon together, before three. At three o'clock I have a date to pose for Dick Alven, in his studio. He's doing a mural—"She broke off before the torrent of Tony's words.

"Do you mean to tell me," he was shouting, "that you'd go off, right after the ceremony, and pose for some artist? Do you mean to tell me you'd leave your husband to go to another man, so that he can paint you into a dirty little Indian picture?"

Ellen was interrupting.

"Long after our marriage is over, Tony," she said hotly, long after we've stopped being, Dick's mural will go on, giving beauty and fineness to people. It's not a dirty little Indian picture, Tony Dick is a great artist."

"Great artist be hanged," grated Tony. "—Dick is a great artist. "Great artist be hanged," grated Tony. I bet he's in love with you, the—"

Ellen's face was burning.

"If it's going to be like this," she said, "when we've known each other less than a day—well, then I guess we'd better call off the whole business."

But, suddenly she was in Tony's arms again, and his mouth was against her mouth. And the whole earth whirled dizzily about them.

And then with her hand tight in Tony's and a blue, small hat clamped down over her ears, and a white, strained smile on her lips, Ellen was being whirled away—to ward lower New York and the marriage license bureau.

Only they weren't going in a taxi Tony was driving a scarlet Rolls-Royce roadster with a special body and a mean way of nosing through traffic.

"As for that," Tony added, as if he were speaking in his own defense, we haven't a ring yet!"

Ellen, glancing swiftly down at her slim, ringless hands, was flushing, too. Why, she had quite forgotten about a ring! Of course, they'd have to buy one, wasn't it all a part of the marriage service?

"With this ring" something like that?

Her embarrassment made her forget to be dishonest.

"I want to be married in a church, too," she told the man behind the bars, and the man laughed at her vehemence.

It was only when Tony had slid into the driver's seat of his car, and slipped in the clutch, that he sighed and spoke.

"Thank God, that's over!" he said.

Ellen sighted too.

"The first hundred licenses are the hardest!" she told him, but he ignored her flippancy. Instead, guiding the car deftly through the traffic, he reached down and briefly patted her hand.

"Such little baby fingers," he said. "Wonder if we'll find a ring small enough to do any good."

They did find the ring. All the way up in the Fifties. A slim circlet of sapphires (because they're more like you, believe it or not, than diamonds!) And a great single sapphire on a gossamer hoop of platinum.

"Your engagement ring!" Tony remarked.

"We're on our way," Tony said, as they passed in the heavy early afternoon traffic on the avenue, "to the Little Church Around the Corner. It's a bromide, I suppose, to be married there. But I've always liked its green handkerchief of a lawn and its green shrubs—" Steadily, to keep the panic from rising, from submerging her like a sea, Ellen turned her eyes from Tony's face. Somehow, when her eyes were on his face, she couldn't see, or think, clearly.

The car turned, sharply, into the side street. And there stood the church about which so many legends have been built, the Little Church set friendly wise in its green oasis of lawn.

BRAZIL COTTON IS EFFECTING MARKET

Editor's Note: Because of the interest which it is believed to contain to cotton farmers of this locality—as well as the entire South—the following article which appeared in the daily press Tuesday, is published hereunder. The article was "lifted" from the Fort Worth Star Telegram. Nov. 12—Professor J. Moreland said here today that Brazil is taking advantage of curtailed cotton production in the United States to increase its own acreage and at the same time, to improve the quality of its staple.

Professor Moreland, who is connected with Porto Alegre College, is here on a visit. The college is maintained by Southern Methodist. The educator said he desired to refute reports that cotton could not be grown successfully in certain places. "Brazil has adopted American methods of cotton growing and ginning and is rapidly increasing her acreage in this crop," he asserted.

From here, Professor Moreland will go to Dallas to confer with officials of Southern Methodist University. He has been at Port Alegre College for more than 12 years.

Mrs. H. C. Freeman of Putnam is visiting her daughter Mrs. Eli Powell this week.

ATTENTION WAR VETERANS

Notes From COUNTY AGENTS OFFICE

Baird, Texas November 14, 1934

Mr. Jack Scott, Editor Cross Plains Review Cross Plains, Texas

Dear Jack: It is not the policy of the Extension Service to engage in any kind of argument or defend any policy of the government but some remarks carried in your columns in the last issue by our friend Cleve Callaway, might be misleading to any person who has not attended one of the agricultural meetings that I have been holding over the county.

The Extension Service is not a political organization, but is an agricultural Service authorized by congress to promote the progress of the American farmer. It has been in active service for more than 20 years and has won the admiration of the world for having advanced the standards of farmers and to have helped them through two major crises, namely the World War and the depression. The Service was drafted by the government to administer the AAA programs and the Bankhead Act which is a separate and distinct law of congress. These programs are not Extension products but are emergency acts designed to help raise the price levels.

I find it is the non-farmer who is doing most to stir up discontentment in the mind of the farmers over the various administration policies. That might be expected. During the 20 years prior to the depression, the gap in farmer income and non-farmer income had been gradually widening. In 1909 a farmer's income was $155 per year and the non-farmer's was $384. Twenty years later, 1929, the farmer received $273 and the non-farmer $790, or to state it another way, when the farmer received had spent his years' income, the non-farmer (I am informed Mr. Callaway falls in this class) still had $517 to spend. The government proposes to greatly narrow this disparity. Any attempt to lessen this gap by farm organizations or by government supervision has met a storm of protest by the non farmer population.

In the year of 1932 the total supply of American cotton was 25,961,000 bales. The greatest consumption of American cotton any year was 15,800,000 bales. During 1932, before any reduction program was made, it took 17 bales of cotton to buy a $560 automobile, yet in face of this disparity between farmer made and factory made products, men oppose control measures that will increase the price level of American cotton.

I stated the government would not loan money to farmers to grow basic crops unless they sign a contract to cooperate with the government in an attempt to curb surpluses. It would seem a most inconsistent move for a government to pay one group of men a rental benefit to encourage a reduction of acreage, then bout faces and loan a different group money to increase the crop they were paying the first group to reduce. Mr. Callaway concludes that such policy will ruin the nation. I noticed the Republicans were that way too, last week but the electorate gave the present administration the greatest vote of confidence since the time of Washington. Mr. James A. Farley remarked that any man of importance who ran for an office and opposed the administration in a speech was defeated. The AAA and the Bankhead Act are administration policies to help the farmers.

Very sincerely yours, Ross B. Jenkins

Regarding Delinquent Taxes

The Committee Report on the Delinquent Tax Bill has finally passed both Houses of the Legislature and will now go to the Governor's office for her approval. The Bill as passed will not become effective until February 8, 1935, because it failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote in the Senate to put it into immediate effect. Under this law all interest and penalties that have accrued on all ad valorem and poll taxes which were delinquent on or before August 1, 1934, are released if such taxes are paid on or before March 15, 1935. This includes city and school district taxes, as well as county and State.

Such taxes may be paid after March 15, and before April 1, 1935, with an addition of two per cent penalty on said taxes, and may be paid during the month of April 1935, with an addition of three per cent. If paid during the month of May, four per cent penalty is added, and if paid in June a penalty of five per cent. If such taxes are paid after June 30, 1935, eight per cent penalty is added thereto together with interest on said taxes at the rate of six per cent per annum on and from July 1, 1935.

Under this Act if such delinquent taxes are not paid on or before March 15, 1935, the provisions of this Act shall not apply to cities, town and independent school districts, unless and until, the governing body thereof shall adopt a resolution, or ordinance adopting the provisions of this Act.

The Act does not delay, or extend the time for payment of delinquent taxes, nor prevent suits for collection of same; but remits penalty and interest as above set out. The Act provides that no additional cost shall be charged against anyone who shall pay his taxes under the terms of this Act.

The Act further provides that any person shall have the right to pay any of such taxes for one year, or for any number of years without at the same time paying other taxes that may be then delinquent.

LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT IN JUST 4 WEEKS

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."
Fat folks should take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.
For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.
