SCHOOLS OPEN NEW TERM MONDAY

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

The pictures of Nat Williams and Lewis Norman have appeared in this publication so many years at the week of school opening, that subscribers were coming to anticipate the action as tradition. However here's a treat for our subscribers, the likenesses of the afore-said gentlemen do not appear in your paper today.

We're striking for new pictures and new cuts and unless the school men get in line, we may boycott them again at school closing time.

Weekly nomination for home town boy that made good—Boots Harlow. He has been promoted to the managerial desk of the Texas-Louisiana Power Company's interests in Cross Plains.

To George T. Lamar goes the distinction of being the first subscriber to renew for this paper during the 1934 bargain days. W. O. Spencer was second and E. E. Rich third.

During the bargain period the price of the paper is cut to one dollar, after which it will be $1.50 in the Cross Plains trade territory and $2.00 elsewhere.

The postoffice stenographer, after hearing politics debated feverently for months, hand us the following piece of literary merit, which they declare is about the summary of the average politician's speech to the voters.

"Ladies and gentlemen:—When I look into this sea of upturned faces, showing such rare intelligence—"

"I shall dwell upon one other point briefly and then I am done. And that reminds me of a little story which perhaps some of you have heard before."

"Ah, how well do I remember the humble cot in which I first saw the light of day!

"I trust, now that I shall not be a tax to your patience. There may be those who will attempt to besmirch my character and tell you that I am a self-seeking demagog, but my fellow citizens, I can point proudly to my record of long and faithful service to the people.

"Words fail me—Whatever I have accomplished in my humble way, I owe to the steadfast and loyal support of you, my friends.

"The dearest—I may say the one—wish of my heart is that when I have fulfilled my mission as the representative of this grandest, most glorious district the sun ever shone upon, a district whose women are paragons of virtue and beauty and whose men are worthy sons of noble sires, my ears shall hear that blessed voice of approval so dear to the hearts of true men, 'Well done thy good and faithful servant.'"

Marvin Pierce of Dallas visited here Thursday.

Strolling down Main: Caught Madge Renfro primping in the big plate glass window at Smith's Drug Store. Pause to watch Martin Neeb promenade by whistling that same tune the city has endured these many years, goodness looks like he's learn another sometime. Amble on up to the Piggy Wiggy and snatched a cookie (or two) while Dave served a customer. Down to McAdams Motor Company stumbling into a highway meeting and backed out apologetically. Across to the Variety Store and en-Marie Bryson for a brief chat of governmental doings. Passed down the avenue and stopped in at a tonsonial parlor for a "scrape" only to anger Bill Bounds, who was enjoying a noon-day siesta. Thence to Porter Davis' place and get the low down on the cotton situation. Returning to our professional haunt stop at Higginbothams to observe Bill Wagner "hard at it"—the only busy man noted on the stroll.

Review's Annual Bargain Offer Affective

SATURDAY BEGINS 2ND WEEK OF 25TH CIRCULATION DRIVE

The Cross Plains Review's twenty-fifth annual bargain offer enters into its second week Saturday. During the "bargain period" price of the paper which is $1.50 in the Cross Plains trade territory and $2.00 elsewhere is reduced to $1.00 and $1.50.

No statement of subscription accounts have been mailed subscribers. It is hoped that every reader will take advantage of the "bargain days" to place his subscription in good standing. Increased price of materials and labor which go into the publishing of a newspaper will absolutely prohibit the Review from carrying delinquents after the "bargain days" close. It is not the intention of the management of this publication to "press" people—in times like these—but our inability to carry on without complete cooperation from readers demands that we make this appeal.

The 500 subscriptions added by Cross Plains merchants six months ago will expire the last of this month. Those who are now receiving the paper as a result of the "merchant plan" are urged to come by the Review office or remit by mail—$1.00—for the paper another year.

The Review urgently requests the honest cooperation in this matter, for after the "bargain days" close we will be forced to cut off all delinquents. We simply are not financially able to carry delinquents.

RITEs FOR J. E. NEFF HELD HERE THURSDAY

Funeral rites for J. E. Neff, 82, were held from the Baptist church here Thursday afternoon, with Rev. Bob Williams, of Abilene, officiating. Interment was made in the Cross Plains cemetery.

Mr. Neff succumbed seven miles West of town early Thursday morning after an extended illness of several months. He is survived by his wife Mrs. J. E. Neff, four sons and one daughter. The daughter is Mrs. Sam Lamar, of Big Spring. The sons are Frank Neff and John Henry Neff, of Cross Plains, and Roy Neff, of Floydada and William Neff, of McAdoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Robertson left Saturday for New Mexico where Mr. Robertson will be employed with the Texas Louisiana Power Company.

A. R. Clark, of Kansas, visited here last week.

Introducing Miss Cross Plain s Pictured Here is Miss Frances McDermitt, who represented Cross Plains in the cowgirl competition at the American Legion rodeo at Abilene this week. She was selected the best cowgirl of the trade territory in competition at the annual picnic here.

25 High School Athletes Answering Practice Calls

OLD ICE VAULT IS UTILIZED TO CHILL MEAT FOR CANNING

About 65 dressed beeves were chilled for canning in the old ice house, North of the railroad owned by the Texas Louisiana Power Company, recently. The vault was furnished free by the utility company and ice was supplied at wholesale cost, according to Mayor S. P. Collins, one of the sponsors of the movement. The vault was operated at an approximate cost of 50 cents per day the Review was informed.

30 head of cows and calves, slain by the government in the Sabanno community and 25 from Cottonwood were chilled last week.

Cross Plains Gets First Taste Of Fall

The Cross Plains trade territory got its first real taste of Autumn early Sunday morning as a North-east dropped in to the lowest point since last Spring. The decreased temperature was accompanied by light showers.

Ladies appeared on the streets of Cross Plains in Fall clothes and men donned coats comfortably for the first time in months.

MORGAN HARLOW MADE MANAGER ICE COMPANY

Morgan Harlow was made manager of the Texas-Louisiana Power Company's interests in Cross Plains this week, succeeding Fulton Robinson, who was transferred to Silver City, New Mexico.

BEG PARDON CORRECTION

In an account of a surprise birthday party for C. W. Worthy, which was published in the Review last week, we inadvertently omitted from the list of guests the names of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harris, of Cross Plains. The Review offers apologies for this mistake to both Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Mr. Worthy, and the three hosts of the party.

In an account the Irvin family reunion the names of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Aiken were also omitted. This was also unintentional and we beg your pardon Mr. and Mrs. Aiken.

ACCIDENT FATAL TO BROTHER OF LOCAL MAN THURSDAY MORN

Green Jeans, who lives in the Rowden community West of here, received word Thursday morning that his brother had been instantly killed in a railway accident at Waco. The Review was unable to gather further details of the tragedy in time for publication.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeans and their daughter Mrs. Fred Stacy will probably attend the funeral.

City Test Meter Is Found To Be "Slow"

The test meter of the Cross Plains water department was checked by G. R. Kilpatrick, Cisco Water Superintendent, Tuesday and found to be slow one quart on each 10 gallons measured. The local meter was checked against the Cisco test meter, which was recently inspected by the state.

GEORGE R. NEEL BUYS A. G. FOSTER RESIDENCE

A deal was consummated this week whereby George R. Neel became owner of the A. G. Foster place in the North part of town. The Neel family will take possession of the place the latter part of this month or the first of next.

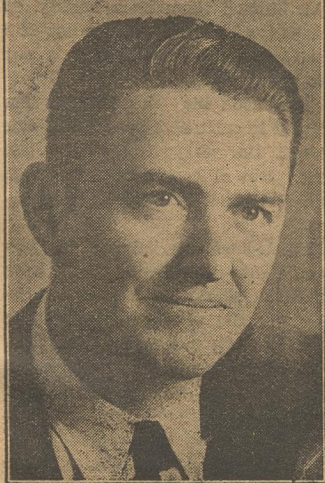

W. C. Adams, who has been in the hospital at Brownwood, the past week, taking treatments, was brought home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White spent the week end in Desdomonia.

Mrs. Lee Thompson of DeLeon visited over the week end with friends.

A. R. Clark, of Kansas, visited here last week.

W. T. Hughes

Above is W. T. Hughes, Superintendent of the Cross Cut school which opens Monday. Patrons are anticipating one of the most successful terms in history of the school.

SEPTEMBER MONTH OF BETTER SHOWS AT LIBERTY HERE

The Liberty Theater here will observe September as a month of better pictures, said W. A. Beavers, manager, to the Review yesterday. "Our billings for the remainder of the month will justify this statement," he declared.

Now showing at the theater is "Smoky" with Victory Jory and Irene Bentley. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the theater will present, "Paddy the Next Best Thing", with Janet Gaynor, Warner Baxter and a strong supporting cast. Wednesday and Thursday, "The Crosby Case," is carded at the Liberty.

A new serial, "The Wolf Dog" begins with the billing tonight. It will be shown in weekly installments each Friday and Saturday night, Mr. Beavers announced.

Boots Mallory, the feminine lead in "The Wolf Dog," the thrilling serial starring Rin-Tin-Tin, Jr., showing at the Liberty Theatre, is a former Ziegfeld follies star who is blazing across the film firmament. Miss Mallory was first brought to Hollywood by Fox under contract. She played opposite Jimmie Dunn in "Hell's Sister" and in "Handle With Care."

Warner Baxter is co-starred with Janet Gaynor in "Paddy, The Next Best Thing," the Fox picture that starts Sunday at the Liberty Theatre. This is the first time in two years that the popular stars have been teamed, the last previous occasion being "Daddy Long Legs."

PIONEER SCHOOL IS WEEK AHEAD; LARGE ENROLLMENT AVERED

Deserted trails will be worn anew as hundreds of boys and girls throughout the Cross Plains trade territory trek school-ward for the opening of another term Monday morning. Cross Plains and Cross Cut schools will get underway Monday. Pioneer started this week. Cottonwood school is expected to open about the first of October in a new building. An imposing gymnasium will also grace the Cottonwood campus when school opens, according to a statement from Floyd Coffee, member of the board of trustees, yesterday.

Cross Plains schools will open with an increased enrollment Monday morning. Statistics from Superintendent Nat Williams' office show the local institution to have 100 more scholastics than any other Callahan school. 18 teachers, besides a kindergarten and fine arts instructors, will compose this year's faculty. Six of the instructor will be new to the local system.

The personnel of the Cross Plains staff and the grades each will teach follows: Miss Ethel Manning, first grade; Miss Jimmie Lou Gwathmey, second grade; Mrs. Carol Westerman, third grade; Miss Willie Smith, primary overflow; Miss Fannie Baum, fourth grade; Mrs. M. G. Underwood, intermediate grades; W. E. Lusk, intermediate grades; Mrs. J. E. Pittman, intermediate grades; Miss Doris Durham, intermediate grades; Miss Anna Mae McConathy, Principal intermediate grades; Miss Louise Nelson, high school Spanish and Math; Miss Novalya Price, high school Public Speaking and English; Miss Enid Gwathmey, high school English; Harry Ward, Science and Commercial Subjects; V. A. Underwood, Vocational Agriculture; C. B. Osborne, History and Athletic Director; Lewis C. Norman, high school Principal and instructor of Math and Science; Nat Williams, Superintendent and instructor of Math.

Patrons of the school are invited to attend opening exercises in the high school auditorium Monday morning, Superintendent Williams told the Review yesterday.

CLYDE COMMUNITY FAIR SET SEPTEMBER 21 & 22

Clyde Community Fair will be held September 21 and 22, according to an announcement from Mrs. Kate Brown and Mrs. V. L. Martin, committeewomen for the celebration.

Everyone in Callahan county is invited to participate in the fair either collectively or individually, the announcement to the Review stated.

ELIZABETH JACKSON TO CONDUCT KINDERGARTEN

Miss Elizabeth Jackson will open a kindergarten for children of pre-school age Monday morning. Classes will be conducted in the grammar school building. Special attention will be given social studies. Children will enter classes each morning at nine and be dismissed for the day at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beeler left Monday for Ranger, where Mrs. Beeler will enter Brileys school of beauty culture.

Miss Lela Mae Bennett has returned to Kilgore after a short visit with her mother, Mrs. J. Bennett.

Mrs. Edward Upham of Dallas spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ramsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bounds visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bounds here this week.

--Former Burkett Girl Is Now Famous In Radio World--

Kathryn Cravens has made a name for herself in the radio world. Articles are being published about her that will be of interest to her friends in this part of the country. A recent newspaper said "Kathryn Cravens has proven that one does not have to be born in a cosmopolitan city to become famous. She first saw the light of day in a tiny West Texas town and has never failed to let the world know she came from Burkett, Texas. Perhaps it is the memory of her father, the late Dr. John Cochran—perhaps it is because her two sisters, Mrs. T. A. Burns and Mrs. W. M. Newton still live there, or just because of her love for the people and associations she had when a little toe headed girl in the village, but whatever it is, she says she will choose Burkett as her resting place when the last curtain of life goes down."

Another publication of Radio News reveals the following article about her—

Niece To Assist Her Mrs. Cravens has recently taken her young niece, Miss Mildred Newton from Burkett, and is coaching her and soon she too will be heard in the coast to coast broadcasts over the Columbia chain, which stars Mrs. Cravens and is known as "Real Life Dramas."

When the photograph of Mildred Newton appeared in the Society section of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, Sunday September the 2nd, she was immediately sought by Jules Pierlow, famous artist and photographer, to pose for him, because of her unusual exotic beauty and her pictures are to be internationally exhibited.

A Saint Louis radio journal recently published the following concerning Mrs. Cravens and her program on the air.

"Since Kathryn Cravens, talented actress and artist, took over the program on the air, 'Let's Compare Notes' Women's Program, some two months ago, this KMOX daily feature has become one of the most popular programs with the vast audience of the air."

"Kathryn Cravens, who hails from the golden State of Texas, is all that the expression, 'Southern Girls are Lovely', signifies. She has a fine background in dramatics and art from such schools as The Horner Institute of Fine Arts,

Kansas City; University of Tulsa; The Emerson School of Oratory, Boston; and the Morse School of Expression, St. Louis.

"In the theatre she has played with such artists as Richard Bennett, in 'The Barker'; Guy Bates Post, in 'The Masquerader'; Edna Hibbard, in 'The Modern Virgin'; and with Leo Carillo, in 'Lombardi, Ltd'. Her success in the theatre led to a fine contract with Fox Film Corp. of Hollywood, where she played in many outstanding pictures.

"With such a complete background of dramatics and art, she brings to her program, 'Let's Compare Notes', that personal knowledge of all she tells thousands of women listeners. One of the features is her 'Hollywood Gossip' and news of the Theatre. Other items of interest are: 'Household Hints'; 'Styles and Patterns'; 'Beauty Hints'; 'Party Suggestions'. She has prepared printed data, illustrated by herself. Her 'pen-and-ink' sketches are one of the highlights of these pages. These are sent free of charge to all who request them. On each program, she includes a poem, many of them 'character sketches' of the South, which she does with great charm. Friday's program is 'guest day', when she calls in some prominent artist, singer or pianist to assist her. Mondays and Tuesdays, she is, at present, featuring recipes of Famous Chefs. "Mail response to this program is increasing daily, at present it averages some 1,000 letters weekly.

Nancy Receives Letter From Jim

Twelfth Installment

Three weeks after a cream colored roadster had been found wrecked in the sea at the foot of a sluff, a girl calling herself Anne Cushing appears at the desert town Marston. She has bought, sight unseen, a ranch located thirty miles away. Soon after her arrival she marries Barry Duane, her nearest neighbor. Against her better judgment she accompanies her husband East. Mrs. Duane is bitterly resentful of Anne. Wealthy Cleo Pendleton, her obvious choice vengee, Anne recognizes a man loitering on the Duane grounds. Later Barry tells Anne John Gage is the real head of the Duane mills. He fails to note her frozen silence.

"She handled the blonde rather well," Riddle remarked absently. "Well, that was a mistake." "A very natural one," Riddle seemed absorbed in his ball. "I saw the resemblance as soon as she spoke. It's startling." "How the devil," sputtered Halliday, "could you see a resemblance to some unknown female whose name wasn't even mentioned?" "Just an unsuspected gleam of intelligence. As soon as I caught Blondie's girlish chatter I made the connection. This Mrs. Duane is practically the image of an actress I saw a couple of years ago. I ran across her picture in the paper again last spring. She'd been killed in a motor accident. Her car skidded over the edge of a cliff and she was drowned."

Halliday said "M'm" and lost interest. Riddle stopped to light a cigarette. "They never found the body," he said thoughtfully. "That sounds like a nasty crack, Ward." "I didn't intend it that way. But that girl's name was Nancy, too. It struck me as a remarkable coincidence."

Dick reddened. "It's the kind of a coincidence that wants to be kept under your hat," he said grumpily. "Here comes Barry. We'd better change the subject, and darned." ** They made the return trip in good time, arriving before the dinner hour. Mrs. Duane did not appear. Mrs. Duane, with the purse strings held firmly in her own delicate hands, had established her separate dining room in the west wing. Anne knew when Barry came in to the room that he had bad news for her. Anne felt her face grow hot. "Do you mean," she asked slowly, "that your mother refuses to sit at the same table with me?" "Don't take it that way, Nancy. She's old, and she doesn't see things as we do." "There's no other way to take it," she said dully.

He had just come back from a bitter half hour with his mother, and he was stung with a humiliation that he could not admit, even to her. "Oh, my dear!" Her eyes stung with sudden tears of contrition but she blinked them back hastily. "I know it's hard for you, Barry. If I could do anything—if there's any possible way—" He shook his head. "No, I'm afraid it can't be helped. It's—her house. I'm sorry; that's all I can say. But of course this can't go on. We must look for other quarters."

He looked worried and his jaw was tight. The Perch would have provided comfort and a decent living, but the Perch was closed to them for six months in each year. "I'm terribly sorry to have got you into this, Barry. We can go anywhere you like. Were you thinking of—staying in Granleigh?"

"I haven't thought much of anything yet." He stopped and gave her a quick, embarrassed smile. "No, I suppose not. No use in advertising things—and it's pretty expensive here." "Of course." She was afraid that at her eyes were blazing with hope and excitement. "There are lots of places. We can get a tiny apartment somewhere and have lots of fun."

He faced her with obstinate determination, angry, but more alive than she had seen him in weeks. "I'm going in to town tomorrow, and I'm going to see Gage again if I have to knock down a row of secretaries to get to him. We're going to have one more round over the Juniper." She gave his arm a sudden squeeze. "He must agree this time. It means so much!"

Barry was called to the telephone but Anne stayed there, curled up in a chair. Barry took an early train the next morning. "I don't know how long I may have to wait before I can see him, but I'm going to be on hand. Wish me luck, Nancy." "Oh Barry, I do!" She gave him a desperate little hug as he kissed her goodbye.

The morning mail came as he left, and Matthews handed her some letters. There was one envelope that she looked at twice. She hurried to her room and tore the envelope open.

I must see you again. It's important. I am going in to town on Wednesday and will meet you at the Roswell, on Seventh, at two o'clock sharp. Better decide to come. Granleigh won't do. Think you are being watched there.

JIM.
 An hour later she rang for Matthews. "I've decided to go into town, Matthews. If Mr. Barry should call up later, tell him where I have gone. He can have me paged at the Plaza, any time after three."

** Barry was talking hard. He had waited over three hours for this audience. Gage listened and grunted. "Oh, it's that, is it? Thought you'd given up that nonsense by this time."

"It isn't nonsense, Mr. Gage. It's horse sense. The land is there, acres on acres of it, as rich as the Imperial could ever be; the water is there, and all that separates them is one spur of rock." "And a pot of money. And don't forget that the first project got a black eye, and nobody's going to be anxious to see his money go the same way."

"It can't. Not for the same reason, anyway. If you don't want to risk it, I don't suppose that I could say anything to change your decision, but why don't you sell your side of the spur and give me the chance to interest somebody else?" "See here, Mr. Gage, I know I'm making a nuisance of myself, but I feel certain that you would let down the bars if you really had a look at the place." "Young man, do you know what my time is worth?" "I know that it is worth more than I could hope to meet in cash. But you might consider taking a vacation. Do you like good shooting? Or fishing? Like to ride a good horse over mountain trails, and not see another human being but your guide all day long? "Sounds pretty good." Gage grunted. "Got a cook who can give a man plain ham and eggs without drowning 'em in a gummy sauce?" Barry leaned back with a grin of pure relief.

"I'll guarantee both the cook and the appetite." "What kind of accommodations have you? I'd want to bring Mrs. Gage. She hasn't been well lately." Barry politely swallowed his dismay. His one meeting with Mrs. Gage. She hasn't been well lately."

Barry politely swallowed his dismay. His one meeting with Mrs. Gage. She hasn't been well lately."

Barry turned briskly back from the curb, intending to find the nearest telephone and break the glad news to Nancy. He took two steps and slowed down.

A few yards ahead of him a man was signaling a taxi. Barry had vaguely noticed the same man loitering in the corridor when they had come out. Instead of a trim uniform he wore a well-fitting blue suit but Barry knew him. As Kennedy stepped into a taxi Barry jerked his finger at another.

"Follow that black and white," he said, and slammed the door. He once lost sight of it, but Barry's river expertly picked up the trail. Barry was beginning to feel slightly ashamed of the unreasoned impulse which had sent him careening across town.

They were in a shabbier, busier district now. The black and white taxi had gained on them again. It swung into the curb in front of a dingy-looking entrance, and Kennedy got out. "I'll stop here."

Barry tossed a bill to the driver. Having made a complete idiot of himself, he would walk back for a few blocks and put in a call to Nancy.

For his self-respect he stepped into a doorway, inclined to grin at himself. It gave him a good view of the hotel. Another taxi had just drawn up. A small, slim figure stepped out, and looked around quickly. Girl and man vanished into the dingy portals of the hotel.

Anne looked hastily around the uninviting lobby. "Don't like it?" Kennedy sent an amused glint at her. "Of course not. And what did you mean by saying that I was being watched in Granleigh?" "Just a bright little deduction of mine. Somebody saw us the other night. I heard it from the little blonde boss before I'd been back half an hour."

"So it was Cleo!" Anne said it under her breath, as though she had forgotten Kennedy's existence. "That was just a little tip-off," Kennedy informed her. "The rest you won't like. I think you'd better go away, Nancy."

"That's preposterous!" An angry color flamed but fright was crowding anger aside. "What possible explanation could I give to Barry?" "I'm afraid that's up to you. I don't say it will be easy." He lowered his voice, significantly cautious. "I saw Gage the other day. He may have recognized me."

"He doesn't even know that I am in Granleigh." "But he's likely to find it out any day, and when he does, things are going to happen. If he lets either one of us hang around in the same county, after what happened last May, it will just be a present from Santa Claus. You and I are out of the picture, Nancy and we may have to take a sudden journey any day. I mean to do it when I'm ready, and you'd better get a telegram from a sick aunt in Manitoba."

"I won't! I won't go and you can't make me." "Sure of that? Not even if Duane should be told—that you told Gage that night?" "Jim! You wouldn't be so insanely cruel!" Kennedy flushed slightly, but his hard gaze did not waver. Anne reached over and clutched at his hand. "Haven't you any mercy for anyone else? I thought—when I told you about that the other night—that you—Oh!"

Her voice died in a shaking breath. She was looking past Kennedy with a stricken stare. "Oh—Barry! I won't you—" She stammered, stiffening and trying to smile, as he came grimly toward them, his face set and a white line of fury around his lips. Barry looked past Kennedy as though he had not been there.

"If you have finished," he said "it will not be necessary for your—companion—to see you home." Anne arose slowly, but Kennedy's chair had already rasped back. He was on his feet, a dark glitter in his eyes.

"High handed, aren't you? You must think you're pretty damned important, if nobody can have a business interview with your wife without your permission." "You'd better consider it finished. Get out!"

The voice was low, but the words were bitten off and flung. For a moment longer, they stared at each other, Barry's face flinty in its tight restraint, Kennedy's faintly jeering. Then his shoulders moved expressively. Kennedy had too much at stake to risk ruining everything by a public row with Nancy's husband. He bowed to Anne.

"Thank you for the interview, Madame, in case I do not see you again." He walked deliberately away. Anne broke the silence that was suffocating.

"Well?" she demanded. "I think I am the one to ask for explanations, but the first thing to do is to get out of this hole. Are you ready?" Anne nodded silently and went with him.

"If there is any explanation that you can make, I am ready to hear it." They were home again. "What is there to say that you'd be willing to believe?" she asked bitterly. "I went there to meet him."

"What business could you have with a man like that? And why couldn't it be transacted decently, in your own home?" "He wanted to see me privately," she continued, "I knew him—years ago—when he was in better circumstances. He wanted me to do something for him."

"What was it?"

Lotief Thanks Voters

I wish to thank the voters of Eastland and Callahan Counties for the majority given me in my race for second-term as a member of the Legislature. I am grateful to my many friends who spent liberally of their time and efforts in interest of my candidacy, and to those newspapers of my district, I desire to express my appreciation for the space and unbiased publicity favored me in their news columns.

It is now my desire to serve the people of Eastland and Callahan Counties with my best efforts, and I wish to say to those who voted against me that I want to be their servant just the same as I will be to those who were for me.

Any service that I can render please do not fail to call on me.

Sincerely,
 CECIL A. LOTIEF
 State Representative

Let's Keep The Record Straight

During the recent campaign Cecil Lotief, candidate, published the following statement thruout the entire 107th Flatorial District: "Tyler, Lotief's opponent's campaign manager, is a Rising Star banker, who wrote Lotief requesting him to vote against and use his influence against the passage of the State Moratorium Bill, which Lotief refused to do, and the passage of which prevented unscrupulous bankers from foreclosing and taking the homes of thousands of little home owners."

At the time Mr. Lotief was publishing this statement and expounding it from the stump thruout the district he had in his files the original letter which I wrote him, and I quote from the carbon copy that is on file in the First State Bank, of Rising Star. The letter, verbatim, is as follows:

"It is my opinion that a moratorium law with teeth in it could practically destroy the business structure of our country. It might be all right to have a moratorium law to avert the foreclosure of mortgages on homes, but any kind of a moratorium law that is general and would prevent a debtor from paying his ordinary debts at will is indeed very dangerous. For instance, the Government is loaning money to the farmers now through the R.A.C.C. and other agencies, and a moratorium might leave the Government helpless to aid in this work."

I also believe that a moratorium law would affect in an adverse way the general refinancing plans and recovery program of the Government of our state.

These matters should be taken into serious consideration by you and the other members of the Legislature. I do not know exactly what Ferguson has in mind on this moratorium deal, but the Legislature should certainly proceed with great caution on the subject."

You will note that I did not ask Mr. Lotief to vote against nor to use his influence against the passing of the State Moratorium Bill. You will note that my letter contained the suggestion that a moratorium law to avert the foreclosure of mortgages on homes would be all right. Mr. Lotief never did read my letter, that I know of, to an audience. He misrepresented me and maligned me unjustly. I was not Ed Curry's campaign manager, as accused. I supported Ed Curry in his campaign because I had known him for a period of thirty years, or longer, and believed him to be better qualified to represent us in the Legislature than Cecil Lotief, and I am writing this letter to the Press with the request that please publish it, in order to keep the record straight.

Respectfully,
 M. TYLER.

Will Soon Be Ringing

Busy times are ahead for the mothers of Cross Plains. Clothes for the children must be mended, lunch baskets must be brought from the attic, and a dozen and one other duties are at hand. The Fall season is almost here and what a happy, busy time there is in the near future.

And our aim is to help the mothers----

We can help them very much by seeing that the gas stoves are all in proper condition. Along with all the other duties of the housewives there is the every-day job of cooking meals for the family. With a steady flow of Natural Gas it is so easy to light the burner and have a hot fire almost instantly. No bother about anything except striking the match. We sincerely believe that gas provides one of the most satisfactory conveniences that can be had in the home.

Renew Hope, Focus Your Vision

Just what makes prosperity is a subject upon which stationers and other self styled authorities greatly differ. It is generally conceded, however, that supply and demand are the governing factors in the prosperity of any people.

Demand has existed in this country during the entire depression but sufficient funds with which to supply those demands, have curtailed industry. Cheapened money, moderate inflation and millions of dollars in new money distributed about as a result of public works, coupled with wholesale slaughter of cattle, hogs and the destruction of cotton, should boom agricultural and livestock prices materially within the 12 months. And if this logic is true the nation—and particularly the Southwest—may be expected to be blessed with greatly improved conditions by early Fall of 1935.

The man who visions over night recovery from the depths of our present adversity is merely "pipe dreaming". It has been slow in brewing and it will be slow in materializing, however, there is more hope and satisfaction now than during anytime within the past four years, for all things appear to be working now toward the common objective.

Equities should be held, visions focused to the future and hope renewed. There is really at last a tinge of silver on the so long darkened horizon.

No Adjournment

The Texas senate made a magnanimous gesture by voting, 14 to 7, to adjourn the current session Saturday night.

Lynx-eyed strategists in lower house detected a trick in it somewhere, and called the senate's hand. The house voted 86 to 35, not to adjourn. Implication carried in house speeches is that the senate made the gesture knowing that adjournment would be impossible, solely to throw the onus upon the house.

Meantime bills are stacking up on Governor Ferguson's desk, but she insists she will not submit any of them until the relief measures are passed. That was the only purpose of the session, though as usual the main purpose has been lost in a fog of contention and dissension.

There is no reason why adjournment should not be taken Saturday night, except that legislatures don't work that way.

Notes From COUNTY AGENTS OFFICE

Cattle Movement Slowed

Due to over congestion of cattle at the leading terminals it has been necessary for the State Drouth Board to allot 450 cattle to the county until Texas is given a larger quota than 15,000 per week.

Some people seem to think the way to get their cattle moved out at once is to come into the county agent's office and proceed to give him a genuine good "cussing" then they will get their name put right on the dotted line. This office has no favorites, no trade outs, and no obligations to any individual or community but is dedicated to serve the interest of the entire county to the best interest of all.

This cattle buying program is hard to handle at the best so please, when in talking over possible dates, smile and remember that goes further than all the aching you could do in a whole day.

Up to Wednesday night there had been shipped some 2,000 cattle and slightly less than that had been condemned. Up wards of $25,000 has been certified to Kansas City for payment on the finished contracts.

The Tenant Gets The Feed

The letter appearing below was run some two weeks ago concerning the division of rent due the tenant on rented acres. Since the letter contained the statement that particular tenant was a half and half tenant it was held by some landlords that the same thing was not to be construed to be applicable to third and fourth tenants. Since that angle was presented, Mr. Neeb wrote for an interpretation for that tenant also. Below is both letters which should answer for all concerned exactly that the tenant gets all the rental. The landlord has been given the benefit of one-half of the money rental whereas he has heretofore collected only one fourth of the rent. It pretty well balances when properly weighed from both angles.

First letter:

College Station, Tex August 15, 1934

Mr. J. C. Garrett Cross Plains, Texas

We have your letter of August 14 in which you state that you have permitted your tenant who is half and half cropper, to receive one-half the grain produced on the rented acres.

Please be advised that your tenants are to receive all the grain or other fee and food crops from the rented acres. Of course, if the tenants used your teams and tools in cultivating the rented acres, they should be required to pay you for their use. As landlord you are not entitled to any use of the rented acres. Yours very truly, G. E. Adams, Cotton agent, Asst. State Agent Second letter:

** College Station, Tex September 1, 1934

Mr. Doyle Neeb Cross Plains, Texas

Answering your inquiry of August 30th, be advised that the feed planted on rented acres is the property of the tenant, and the landlord is not entitled to receive any of the same.

Very truly yours, A. L. Smith, Special Agent Cotton

BITES AND STINGS

In hot weather, when people are much out of doors, with children playing on the grass, wounds of a varying degree of severity are common. Spider-bites always produce more or less terror for mothers such insects being considered particularly venomous.

In these modern times, it is very easy to obtain professional attention—and it is always the wise thing to do. A small bottle of "Spirit of Ammonia" is a good thing to take along on your picnic; it is a good application for the sting of any flying insect, such as bees, wasps, yellow-jackets, &c.

It doesn't do any harm to bathe an insect wound with soap and water, especially if the bite be dusty or on a perspiring surface. And then—if you are fortunate to have the KING OF EMERGENCY REMEDIES with you—a bottle of Tincture of IODINE. It is a good application in ALL cases, of their origin.

Do you remember when the "family almanac" sagely advised that we remove bee stings by pressing the wound with a watch-key? The crudity—the horror of it? Watches required keys to wind them in those days.

SCHOOL OPENS

(Continued from page 1) this district in a meeting next week—Cross Plains will open the conference season at Moran, October 5; The following week the Buffaloes are slated to play at Baird. And the next game is at Pioneer. October 26 the herd is to meet Putnam here. November second, Clyde comes here. November ninth is yet an open date. November 16, the local delegation will meet their former coach's Albany Lions on the Cross Plains field. October 23 Caddo comes here. October 29 Rising Star's Wildcats invade the Buffalo lot for the traditional tussel of the year.

Showing at Liberty

(Continued from page 1) Miss Gaynor, who has just completed "Adorable," with Henry Garat as her starring partner, has the title role in "Paddy," and Baxter will play the part of Lawrence Blake. Janet's role is said to be in striking contrast with anything she has played. Her dialogue will have a flavor of Irish dialect.

Harry Lachman, who has won critical favor by his first American production, "Face in the Sky," directed and Edwin Burke adapted the play for the screen. "Smoky" Tonight You must have a lot of confidence in someone or something when you're willing to hook your wrist through a stirrup and let a horse drag you across the prairie.

Veteran cowboys said Jory was taking long chances, that any little thing might scare the horse and that Victor might wake up minus a few teeth or ribs. However, Jory was willing to bet on the word of Jack Lindell, horse trainer, and as it turned out, it was all right. The Fox Film unit was engaged in transferring Will James' most popular novel to the screen. The film comes to the Liberty theatre tonight.
