County Agent Explains Pest Control Of Grape Vineyards

Grape Spraying Schedule
By Ross B. Jenkins
County Agent

In the last week's issue we discussed orchards and gave a few points in regard to culture. This week is time to consider the protecting of the grape crop from certain diseases that are prevalent each year. Most all pests can be controlled by a good spraying schedule. It is not enough to spray once but there are times when it is necessary to spray more in order to catch the various disease organisms in the formative stages.

First spraying: About a week before the blossoms have opened, or when the shoots have become 12 to 18 inches, long, spray with Bordeaux mixture (4 parts of rock lime and 4 parts of cooper sulfate-blue stone) this 4&4 mixture requires 50 gallons of water. To this mixture should be added 2 to 3 pounds of arsenate of lead paste, or one half that quantity of the powdered form, for the fleahopper the rose-chaffer and other insects.

Second: Just after the blossoms have fallen spray with the same materials as in the first application for the same fungous diseases and insects and for the grape-berry moth, grape leaf-folder, and adults of the grape rootworm, by the trailer method. (Trailer method is to spray both top and bottom sides of the leaf)

Third Application: About 2 weeks later use Bordeaux mixture, arsenate of lead paste 2 to 3 pounds, 40% nicotine sulfate ¼ pint, to 50 gallons of spray, for fungous diseases, berry moth, eight-spotted forester, grape leaf-folder, grapevine aphid, grape-root-worm, and grape leaf hopper. To destroy the leaf-hopper, direct the spray against the lower surface of the leaves. To control the berry moth, thoroughly coat the grape bunches with the spray by the trailer method.

Fourth Application: About 10 days later, or when the fruit is nearly grown if black-rot or mildew are still appearing, spray with neutral copper sulphate or verdigris at the rate of 1 pound to 50 gallons of water. Every home that raises as much as a garden or has many flowers should own a bucket spray which costs $3.00 and will save its value the first year. The next larger size is a barrel spray for large vineyards and small orchards

Pasture Terracing

The season of widespread terracing is soon to close, as most farmers have their land put up and will not have time to rebid after the terraces are put there is a form of terracing that never gets out of season. This is one of the best paying operations that can be carried on the farming schedule. Through numerous experiments with pastures terracing it has been found that small terraces run on the level will, in most cases, double the output of grass. Our suggestion is to lay off level lines and plow them with two furrows. On the first round lap the soil and on the next round lap the furrow to the first one. These level terraces will not start any washing yet hold the water and drifting soil to form more grass. These terraces can be run any time during the year or especially after a rain the pasture will permit plowing. It is our hope that many farmers and ranchmen will start this movement this spring and summer for once you try it you will want to get your whole pasture terraced for the greener pastures sell themselves. Most people use a turning plow for this work as rocks and trees can be dodged. These little terraces usually so over in one to two years and will not require much repair.

Pastures

Mr. R. T. Bush, pasture specialist at A&M College, sent us a letter and copy of the new bulletin "Pastures" which every permanent pasture man should have. He requests that such man who wishes one will leave his name in the County Agents office and upon notification will send each man one of the bulletins and also a card to be filled out so each man may become a member of the better pasture club. We will then be sent a list of all such men to watch their improvement in better pastures. Surely no other single project pays as well for labor and money spent as a good pasture. Join the pasture club.

We are having a good variety in the weather of late, Saturday we had sunshine and quite up till nine o'clock then the wind blew hard from the south until about eleven and was sultry and got cloudy then about twelve the wind changed to the north and the elements were full of sand in a few minutes in the air one man said he saw something up about twenty feet that looked like a prairie dog digging a hole. At dark the thermometer had dropped several degrees before day we had snow sleet thunder and lightning.

Oil Interest Is Being Revived Here

The Chambers No. 3, drilling at 1600 feet, and heading for the Caddo, drilled suddenly into a solid stream of oil and water Friday afternoon. The first destination of the well had been the Fry sand at a little over 14-50, and finding nothing here, they were heading for the Caddo at 2000, more or less.

Not more than a location from this well, the same company, Petroleum Interests Inc., drilled into the Fry sand and found considerable oil. Two locations from this, a well missed both of the two sands, and found a paying depth in the Caddo. In the No. 3, some oil was found at 600 ft. Not more than a half mile from the three wells, one of the largest fields in the Cross Cut sand has been discovered; in other words, there are five sands which might be made to pay within the Caddo; and the Ranger, and other sands above 2000 feet have not been tested nearby.

It is not known yet how much the well will make, or whether or not it will be possible to separate the oil from the water. The oil, mixed with water, was boiling out of a six inch pipe.

It is not known what sand the oil was found in. I guess we shall have to make a new name—I suggest editorialism, in favor of editorials.

The spiritual fighter is the stronger and but for this, it is hard to guess where the human race would be now. The clean fighter would always win if it had just a little help from the central consciousness of the individual. At the same time, the bestial fighter always wins if he has a little help. This is why one had deed usually turns a person into a habitual criminal. It would be just as easy for you to help the right side, and it would prove to be considerably more profitable.

So why don't you endeavor to aid the struggling light—that is within you? Refrain from anything that is animal-like and degrading, and boost everything that is helpful, clean, and spiritual. Remember always that there is a desperate battle being staged within you, for your personal downfall or triumph—the freedom of the spirit is struggling with the curse of the beast—the angel is trying to subdue the devil; start today, aid the angel!

PESSIMISM

By Norris Chambers
O woe is me for the work I do
Upon that farm of mine—
I must rise before daylight
And tend to that herd of kine.
Then I must chop the cocklebur
That grows upon the row,
A thousand times I've cut them off
And yet they seem to grow.
And then comes harvest of the stuff
It's not worth much, I'll say,
You work and work, and work some more
And lots of trouble is your pay.
The more you work the more there is,
The labor seems to fly in,
We work from daylight until dark
And hardly keep from dying.
And what's to pay for all this toil?
The wheel of fate will soon counte
That all's in vain and death has won
And the farmer is the goat.
Yes, woe is me the work I do
I know it is all in vain
A thousand times I have done my best
Yet it all is to do again.

Claude Clark was in Burkett Sunday.

EDITORIAL The Inner Battle

By Norris Chambers
There is continually, in every human being, being waged a terrible battle—a battle that will determine the spiritual plane of the person. And this battle is being waged between the inner conscience of the person, and the bestial impulses of the instinctive mind. The spiritual battler is striving continually to raise the standard of enlightenment. In the meanwhile, the bestial pugilist is doing his best to pull the central consciousness to a lower level. He is backed by the instinctive mind.
We have specimen of both types—examples where the inner guide has won, and examples where the beast has won. If you want to see one where the spiritual actor has won, look at all really successful men—for most men are successful when they have quelled the beast. If, instead, you wish to view a living example of the winning of the beast, look at the gangsters and racketeers. And if you want to see the class in which neither has won, just look around you. You will see the street loafer, and other never-do-well people. They are sitting nonchalantly by while the fight is progressing, neglecting to help either side.

To lose fat safely and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at any drug store in America.

Home

A few years ago a writer on one of the New York daily papers sent out a questionnaire asking a group of well known writers what word held the most meaning to them, and out of the words returned, "home" was the choice of nearly half of them.

Those writers of articles read by many people, and many of them worth thousands upon thousands of dollars, had never forgotten their home. Some of them were known for their fast living and love of things material. They had been to the far corners of the earth, but home ties always called them back, and the memory of home was always with them.

To some the word, home, means a native country, to others the idea of home is associated with that of two-room flats in the city, and to others the old home in the country, the home of childhood is the only place that the world holds which is worthy of being called home.

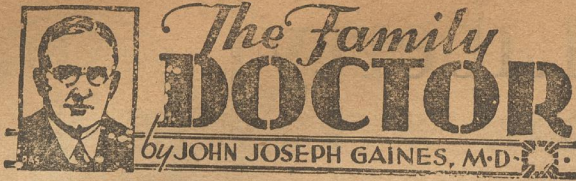

Regardless of how many houses we may live in on our journey from childhood to old age few will have the influence on our lives that the old home of childhood has had an influence that goes with us as we reach maturity and old age. In the home of childhood the character is moulded and in the moulding many things happen that are never forgotten, and if bitter at the time, become sweet as time mellows and matures.

It matters little, how much wealth or fame is attained in after years by the one who has a pleasant memory of home, when he returns to the place of his childhood, invariably there returns also a certain longing that is hard to define, one that makes one wish for the old days. It must be the memory of happy hours that we would recall.

Youth of today, with the radio, automobile and various things which attract attention away from home, are missing to some extent the joys of home life that so influenced the moulding of character in the simpler homes of yesteryear, and it is to be hoped that the restraining influence of the proper kind of home will be today a steadying factor in the lives of our youth.

"Sleeping-Sickness"

Brings a shudder just to hear of this terrible thing, doesn't it? But we see it mentioned in the newspapers so often—it must be on the increase in certain quarters. One instance when the medical profession must keep its eyes open!

First noticed as an African malady, caused, by infection from the bite of the "tsetse" fly. The victim literally sleeps himself to death—no antidote know for the poison—Our American cases have been with few exceptions, found in the large cities. I have never read of a case in the strictly rural districts. I never saw a case and hope I may never meet one. Were I limited to what we KNOW about American sleeping-sickness, I might occupy a singly line in our favorite paper.

If we just knew the cause! Observers have told us it is a form of meningitis—that is, inflammation of the coverings of the brain. From here its deadly stupefying effect is exerted on the "gray matter", putting the patient out of commission in a state of coma, I should call it, rather than sleep. Just a case of poisoning of the brain, the center of all intelligence! Of course there is some elevation of temperature—the treatment,—just sit by and watch the smouldering fire go out—

Look here: If you live in the country—and have country food—country meats and vegetables, count yourselves fortunate indeed. For this idea of "processing" everything we feed upon, has gone into a craze, with the almighty dollar at the bottom of it! Commercialism and greed—He forgive manipulation for profit! Live in the country. state. Drink of God's brew—pure water.

NEW YORK

Of all the men in New York there is one who probably has the biggest "little black book" of telephone numbers of really gorgeous girls. His name is Powers and he is the man that artists and advertising agencies call whenever they want a particular type of model for painting, sketching or photographs. Powers has them all classified and can find them on short notice—The most difficult requirements for a model to fulfill are those for color photography, since this type of photograph cannot be retouched. Hence the model must have never a blemish—not even a freckle. Color photographs frequently cost as much as $1000 each!

Saturday afternoon seems to be the vendors who call themselves "pitch men" and for shoe shine men. Back of the Metropolitan Opera building on Seventh avenue we counted 16 shine men in a single block, and across the street in the same block there were 12 pitch men and two sandwich men.

The snow contrived to make Central Park a photographer's paradise one recent March morning. But it had its hazards for motorists, too, Dick Leibert, solo organist for NBC, started his eight o'clock program at 8:10 that morning. A tail spin on the icy road landed his car in the ditch. The first number he played was "The Road Is Open Again."

New York's Chinatown is active these days. At least that part of it above the temple of the Great Laughing Buddha in Mott Street is active, because there, for at least ten days the Honorable Society of Those Who Dance Beneath the Dragon rehearses the old authentic festival in celebration of New Year's Day, February 14th. On that day the company will propel the dragon triumphantly through Chinatown to the exacting rhythm of drum, gong and cymbal. And then they'll eat They'll eat at 11:30, 1:30, 5:30 and at midnight, and the time is as sacred as the meal.

Light, air, plumbing and steam heat are just names to 1,800,000 New Yorkers who live in the "cold-water flats" of the slums—as many as nine people to the room. Some relief is in sight, however, by the grant of $25,000,000 by the CWA for slum clearance and new housing to rent from $6 to $8 per month per room. That such relief is needed is more than amply shown by the appalling death of the slum districts—New York is not all glamour!
