HOME TOWN GOSSIP

About the best one we could tell this week is on Ralph Buckingham. It goes like this,

Mrs. Buckingham had been in Dallas for sometime and Ralph was very expectant in regard to her return. One day he was handed a telegram, which read: "Honey I'll be home today if you shave your mustache".

Now Ralph was about as proud of his beard as a boy with a new bicycle, but he rushed down to a tonsorial parlor and surprised a barber with the command "Shave them off!"

Mrs. Buckingham arrived home as expected and right off the bat queried her spouse as to what he had done with the mustache. Ralph replied that he had shaved it off as she requested. Then! was he surprised, to learn that she had not sent the telegram and that it was the farce of some practical joker.

Ralph until this day thinks that some friend in Dallas sent the telegram, but here's another surprise for him. The scheming bunch of clerks in Higginbothams are at the bottom of the thing and have been having no little fun at his expense.

P. S. His upper lip is getting fuzzy again.

Fred Cutbirth has been so silent about our little jab at him last week that we are getting twitchy. It's like waiting after a flash of lightning for the clap of thunder.

Distance does not dim friendship. Verification of the truth of the old adage was told again the past week in a letter from Claude Mayes, a first class 'gob' in Uncle Sam's navy, to friends here.

Claude in relating how he had spent his leisure time during the past few weeks said: "Spent Christmas with George Robertson and George Bennett, in ElCentro, California. (He also told of the crossing the border into Mexico but we will not publish that). Further in the letter Claude related seeing Mack Bingham, another Cross Plains boy now wearing the navy blue, and how they enjoyed a day together aboard ship.

"When you're thousands of miles from home, there are no friends like the old ones", Claude concluded.

'Doc' Sellers has tucked away his editorial quill and surrendered the editorship of the Rising Star Record to younger blood; Travis Foster. The promotion (or retirement) of Doc into the role of Publisher gives this scribe his first breath of seniority. We have heretofore grudgingly borne the title of 'the infant of the Heart O'Texas' Press Association.

Hot diggety dog! we may be an old timer in the fourth estate yet.

Guesses at a glance: An erstwhile citizen is seriously contemplating the opening of a Ford agency and dealership in Cross Plains;—Everett Hughes will be a candidate for Sheriff of Callahan in the 'Summer election;—A certain little girl who not so long ago was wearing a diamond on that significant finger is now casting come hither' looks as the new football coach here.

PROGRESS BEING MADE ON PROPOSED HIWAY

'WRINKLE IRONED OUT ON ROUTE OF 36 IN BELL COUNTY

Another 'wrinkle' was ironed out in the proposed state highway 36 last week, when Bell County Commissioners voted to purchase a small strip of right-of-way, which had delayed work on that end of the road for months. The strip of land is located South of Temple. The route of highway 36 is through Cross Plains, coming in on highway 23 to Main Street. At that point the new highway will turn Northward toward the school buildings, following a 100 foot right-of-way out of the city limits.

Hilton Burks, Secretary of the Highway 36 Association, was in Cross Plains Tuesday and conferred with George Clifton, County Commissioner from this precinct, and Sidney Harville, Commissioner from the Oplin precinct, in regard to having a jury-of-view appointed to condemn property that might otherwise halt progress of the road.

"We have been assured that as soon as right-of-way contracts are secured for a through road from Cross Plains to Abilene, a construction contract will be let by the Highway department," Mr. Burks told the editor of the Review Tuesday.

T. S. Carswell, Secretary of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, was also in Cross Plains Tuesday and conversed with Mr. Burks in regard to the steps that Abilene is taking toward securing right-of-way. He opined that Abilene would be able to secure all right-of-way from the city limits of that place to the intersection of highway 191 in Callahan County. "We have agreed to go that far and intend to back our pledge", he stated.

A press dispatch from Temple concerning highway 36, the past week stated: "It is probable that an additional $20,000,000 federal appropriation may be made for highway construction in Texas. In the event that it is, highway officials have stated that 36 will be among the first projects let."

Jeff Clark Offers For Commissioner Of Precinct Four

Jeff Clark, long time resident of this locality, former Cross Plains business man and farmer at present, files official announcement this week with the Review for the office of County Commissioner of precinct four, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries to be held July 28.

Mr. Clark is well known throughout this trade territory having been in business here a number of years. He stated that in the forthcoming campaign he plans to make an extensive canvass and hopes to see every voter in the precinct.

Mr. Clark's letter to the citizens of this precinct appears on another page of today's Review.

ST. MARY'S OIL COMPANY BUYS 2 MORE LEASES HERE

St. Mary's Oil Company, with headquarters in West Virginia, began operation this week of two leases near here, recently purchased from Cranfill and Reynold. The leases are on the Henderson-Baum tract and on the Ed. Crockett tract.

Joe Martin, of Cisco, has moved on the lease and will have charge of the pumping. He relieves Bill Sojourner, who has moved to Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGowen, of Odessa, visited friends and relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

New Coach Here

PRICE M'QUEEN IS ELECTED ATHLETIC MENTOR OF 'BUFFS'

Price McQueen, Howard Payne athlete, who has taken a prominent role for the past four years in helping his college achieve prominence in the field of sports, was elected coach of athletics for Cross Plains high school at the regular meeting of the board of trustees Monday night. He assumed duties as teacher in the high school faculty and athletic mentor Wednesday morning.

McQueen, who succeeds J. G. (Gooper) Keyes as coach of the Cross Plains high school Buffaloes, has to his credit one of the most enviable athletic records in Central Texas institutions of higher learning. He lettered three years on the Yellow-Jacket football team, four years on the basket ball quintet, and three on the track team. He came highly recommended to the local board of trustees by Joe Bailey Chaney, head coach at Howard Payne.

Former Local Man Ordained To Preach

Friends here of Dr. Earl Thomason, former Cross Plains dentist, have learned that he was ordained a minister of the Christian church in a special service at Pampa, recently.

Dr. Thomason was a dentist here for a number of years. He left here in 1928.

The Pampa Daily News stated, "Dr. Thomason will devote his full time to the ministry. He has been serving the Christian church at Miami for several weeks."

City Makes Perfect Fire Record For 1933 With No Insured Loss

Cross Plains has been given a perfect fire record for 1933 with no insured losses, according to a communication from Raymond S. Mauk, Texas Fire Commissioner, to Mayor S. P. Collins and City Fire Marshal John Westerman.

"The 'perfect record' on fires for 1933 is one of the best in the history of our town", the City Fire Marshal told the Review. "The insured loss in 1932 was $7,337.00.

The letter from the State Fire Commissioner to Collins and Westerman follows:

The official records of this Department show that your city suffered an insured fire loss during the year of 1932 of $7,337.00 and according to the monthly reports made to us by your local fire marshal during 1933, your city suffered not a single loss.

We are very much delighted with this fine showing, and feel that this reduction in your fire losses during 1933 was brought about by cooperation between your city officials, county and district attorney, fire marshal, fire chief and his department, and your citizens.

Inasmuch as your people pay the cost of all fires that occur in your

A vocal concert, featuring the artist Miss Mavis Douglas, will be presented in the auditorium of the Methodist Church at Rising Star Friday night, the Review was told yesterday by Mrs. Frank Robertson. The concert is being staged by the Saturday Club, of Rising Star, to take care of a slight debt on the library there.

Miss Douglas is a renown artist and has received international tribute from critics. Miss Robertson extended a cordial invitation to Cross Plains people to attend the concert.

Epworth League Of 12 Towns Meet Here

In Sheriff Race

Everett Hughes, shown above, makes official announcement with the Review this week for the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. His letter to the voters appears on another page of today's Review.

CISCO REFINERY IS UNDER SUPERVISION OF LOCAL COMPANY

The Canyon Oil and Gas Company, of this place, assumed management and operation of the Cisco Refining Company—formerly known as the White Star Refinery—, at Cisco, Monday morning. Tom Bryant, of this place and President of the Canyon Oil and Gas Company, will act as Superintendent of the plant. It was understood yesterday that Milt Corea, former owner of the plant, would also act in an advisory capacity, in the operation of the refinery.

Mr. Bryant was in Austin Saturday and secured permit rights to open the plant, which had been in litigation for months.

A full crew of men reported for duty Monday morning and the plant was reported to have refined the capacity of 200 barrels of crude the first day.

In discussing the new enterprise Mr. Bryant said to a representative of the Review last night: "We have great hopes about the future of the refinery and our friends in Cross Plains may be interested in knowing that all stock in the Canyon Oil and Gas Company, which is to operate the plant, is owned by home people and had its birth in this little city. We intend to maintain the main office of the Canyon Oil and Gas Company in Cross Plains.

It was reported from Cisco that an adequate supply of crude had been arranged for an indefinite period of time and that the plant would not be forced to slow down or discontinue as a result of market fluctuations in the price of oil.

COLEMAN WOOTEN IS INTERRED THURSDAY

Due to haste in getting an account of the death of Coleman Wooten, 36, in the Review last week a complete account of the survivors and an obituary was not carried.

Mr. Wooten was laid to rest in the Cross Plains cemetery Thursday afternoon, February 1, Interment rites were conducted by Rev. S. P. Collins, pastor of the Presbyterian church here.

Surviving are his wife, two children, father, mother and two brothers and two sisters.

Death resulted from pneumonia.

William V. Wheeler spent the week end with his parents in Santa Anna

300 MORE CHECKS TOTALING $25,000 ARE EXPECTED SOON

Callahan County farmers received 120 cotton option checks Monday which totaled $9,560.00, as a partial payment for their part in Secretary Wallace's Agricultural adjustment program. There are yet to arrive 300 more checks calling for a total of some $25,000.00 in payment of cotton land rentals for 1933.

The Review was unable to secure the names of the 120 farmers receiving the checks Monday, but was told that a pro rata share of the $9,560.00 came to farmers of this immediate vicinity.

CHEVROLET DEALER HAS NEW MODEL ON DISPLAY HERE NOW

The new 1934 Chevrolet with "knee-action" wheels, 80-horsepower "Blue Streak" engine, streamlined body and an imposing list of improvements and refinements on display today in Cross Plains at the Anderson Chevrolet Company showrooms.

"In the design and development of the new models, particular attention has been given to driver and passenger comfort and every effort has been made to eliminate the sensations of both sound and feeling that prove annoying to the motorist," F. R. Anderson local dealer told the Review.

"The new Chevrolet is longer—it has a 112 inch wheelbase—roomier, more powerful, smoother and more quiet than its predecessor. The engine is placed several inches farther forward in the chassis and seating has been rearranged", he continued.

The additional length is disposed so as to provide more space for the front seat occupants and considerably more room for the rear seat passengers.

In appearance, the sleekness which has characterized Chevrolet cars in the past, is further accentuated by the actual length increase plus the treatment of the car design itself.

The increased power delivered by the new "Blue Streak" engine improves the flashing performance and the many engine refinements, combined with distinct chassis improvements insure extremely fast, safe, economical and quiet operation. Both front and rear seat passengers are insulated from road shocks by the introduction of independent front wheel suspension—known as "kneeaction" wheels combined with improved rear spring suspension and a more balanced distribution of weight.

NEWTONS COMING TO COLEMAN FOR 'QUIZ'

Removal of John and Marie Newton, of Chickasha, Okla., from Travis county jail to Coleman county to await trial on indictments charging them with participation in the robbery of the Coleman National Bank, was planned Wednesday by Sheriff Frank Mills of Coleman county.

His decision to return the couple to Coleman county was reached after Emmett Shelton, Austin attorney, had requested dismissal of habeas corpus proceedings he had instituted in district court here seeking release of Marie Newton, District Judge J. D. Moore remanded the two persons to custody of the Coleman county sheriff.

Mrs. Henry Wittmer spent the week end with her sister in Fort Worth.

Jesse McAdams and son Joe were business visitors in Dallas Sunday and Monday.

FORGOTTEN

By Lillian Pickett

Forgotten you? Well, if forgetting Be thinking all the day
How the long hours drag since you left me,
(Days seem years with you away).
Or hearing through all the strange babble
Of voices now grave, now gay,
Only your voice, can this be forgetting?
Yet I have forgotten, you say!
Just counting each moment with longing
Till the one when I'll see you again,
If this be forgetting, you're right, dear;
And I have forgotten you then—
Forgotten you? Well, if forgetting
Be reading each face that I see
With eyes that mark never a feature
Save yours as you last looked at me.
Forgotten you? Well, if forgetting
Be yearning with all of my heart,
With a longing half pain and half rapture,
If the wild wish to see you and hear you,
To be held in your arms again,
If this be forgetting, you're right, dear;
And I have forgotten you then!

The Spirit Of Discoverv

By Norris Chambers

The Spirit of Discovery! All through the ages it has been predominant, preeminent above all else in the strong and steady outward expansion of civilization. It was present when Marco Polo went into China, India, and other Eastern monarchies; it was present when Columbus turned the prows of the Santa Maria, the Nina, and the Pinta toward the distant shores of Central America; it was this spirit that prompted the Western Movement; and it is still the spirit of discovery that urges men toward the North Pole, and the South Pole. It is the spirit which sent Admiral Richard E. Byrd to the continent of Little America for the second time.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd is the only man who has the distinction of flying over both the North Pole and the South Pole. He was made internationally famous by his heroic flight over the North Pole, but before the populace had ceased to discuss the great flight, Byrd astounded the world with the assertion that he intended to be the first man to fly over the South Pole. Everyone knows how Byrd lived in Little America, the large continent he discovered near the Pole, and drew great maps of the region. Sometimes he had to make journeys of hundreds of miles with his dog-teams to gain information to fill just one tiny inch on the map.

Finally, having mapped all of the country close to the pole, Byrd, decided the fly over it, taking mapping of the country at the same time. Everyone knows how he decided to return, only to find that he must wait another year. Everyone knows that he left his camp in perfect order—the air—plains still in their hangers, the cheese still on the dining table, and the radio still intact. Everyone knows that it was with a longing and with regret that he left.

And a few days ago the world was astounded by the news that Byrd was visiting the Anarctic again. He is after more scientific news. But the discovery and exploration of today is much different from what it was when Marco Polo and Columbus spent their many months in traversing what may now be made in a few hours. Now the explorers have radios, which keep them in constant connection with the outside world. Even the first Arctic and Anarctic explorers were gone for months before they were heard from, and some times they were never heard of again. But now Commander Byrd broadcasts every Saturday night over the Columbia Network, and is thus in connection with the whole United States. Every person who owns a radio can hear what is transpiring in the Anarctic, directly from the men who are there.

This is the progress of science! And someday perhaps, judging the future by what has transpired in the past, the wonder-men of the future will flit out through space in peculiar rocket-ships to discover new galaxies, new planets, and new universes, so far removed from here that the system of Hercules in comparison would be only outside the back door of the world! What will science finally do?

Get Up Nights? Make this 25c Test

Lax the bladder as you would the bowels. Drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation burning and frequent desire. Get a 25 cent box of BU-KETS, the bladder laxative, from any drug store. After four days if you are not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. BU-KETS, containing lachn leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts pleasantly and effectively on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache, or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep.

Friday and Saturday were bright, sunny days, just the kind needed for a successful tournament. There was a large crowd both days, and the confection stand did a thriving business.

Although all of the eighteen teams invited did not accept, there were enough present to keep a game in action most of the time. The final game was played between Brown's Ranch and Cottonwood, the others having been eliminated. Cottonwood won by a large score, both the boys' and girls' teams, and the trophies were awarded.

The tokens of honor were two silver cups, about eight inches high. On the top of them, fastened to the lid, were two players shooting at a goal, the one on the girls' being a girl star, and the one on the boys' being a boy. On the side there was the engraving: Winners, Cross Cut Invitation Tournament, 1933-34.

Outside of the tournament, Friday night, the Cross Cut outsiders played the outsiders of Grosvenor, and defeated them by a large score. The second night they played them again, and the Hornets won by equally a large a score. The Tigers played Grosvenor school boys, and lost by a score of 24-12.

The Junior class wishes to take this method of thanking all of those hundreds who patronized them by buying their drinks, etc.

Gossip's Paradise

It had been out intention not to start this column after Christmas, but when something happens like happened Saturday night how can one refrain from commenting on it before these seven thousand readers—we like to comfort ourselves by the supposition that every reader of the Review reads our supplement and passes it on to a friend. But let's get back to the story:

Did you ever hear of a fuss during a class meeting? Well we had one today. It seems as if the money taken in at the tourney can't be equally distributed, and we faithfully believe that had Mr. Hughes not been present, there would have been a free-for-all, and we are expecting it regardless. There will probably be a headline next week about it.

Juniors Have Rings

At last the impossible has been accomplished, and the Juniors and Seniors have the rings which have been waiting in the post office for so long. This miracle was accomplished by a wonder-man whom the girls call preacher. He paid for all of the rings, and is supposed to hold those not paid for until the play can be presented. Five dollars was made at the bridge party Wednesday night, and this was placed on the rings.

Baptist Pastor To Discuss Lawlessness

Have the present economic conditions come upon America because she has become the most lawless nation in the world?" will be one of the questions discussed by Dr. C. A. Voyles, pastor of the Cross Plains Baptist Church next Sunday morning. He will also tell something a visit to the largest Catholic Cathedral in the state of Louisiana and some of the statues of saints which he saw there. He is to speak on the subject of modern idolatry.

Rev. Voyles says that at the evening sermon he wants all the "cussers" in town to come to the service. He does not promise a sweet and satisfactory sermon because he is going to preach on "The Sin of Profanity." At this time he will discuss such questions as, "What is the difference in obscene & profane language"? Why do men curse? Is it best for a Christian to take an oath in a modern court? "Should the oath be abolished in our courts?"

The Editor's Mail

Editor's Note:

Published hereunder is a letter of explanation of the Coleman Productive Credit Association, from W. E. Melton, Secretary of the organization to the Review. The letter is published for the news value that it may have to persons interested in securing loans from the organization.

"On account of being extremely busy getting our new 5 county Production Credit Association set up and our organization ready for the important duty of receiving applications for loans, we have not found time before this date to send you some of the points of information which we are sure you will be glad to run in your paper as a news item, for the benefit of your subscribers and the general public.

"The Coleman Production Credit Association, with its office at Coleman, Texas, comprises five counties, namely, Brown, Coleman, Callahan, Taylor, and Runnels. The association is under the direct authority of the Production Credit Corporation of Houston, and the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston. The association has a capital stock of $150,000.00 and is privileged to loan five times its capital, or $750,000.00. These loans can be made in sums of from $50.00 to $30,000.00, and are to be made with chattels as security. The applications for these loans are to be made out before a competent person, known as an application-writer, and these persons will be located at several different places in the five counties. These application-writers must file an application as to their fitness for this place with the directors of the association, and after the application has been approved by the association it must be filed and approved by the Houston Corporation. This assures the borrower that his application will be taken by a person qualified to make out his loan papers, and that he will receive prompt courteous, and confidential service. For this service the application-writers receives a fee of 50c only, which must, also, include the notary fee. The 50c is to be paid by the borrower. The borrower will be required to take stock in the association in the amount of 1 share ($5.00) for each $100.00 borrowed, or a share for the fractional part of a $100.00 thereof. He will, also, be required to pay a reasonable inspection fee. There will be at least two inspectors in each county who must be elected by the board of directors of the association and their election approved by the Production Credit Corporation of Houston.

"Thus, again, the borrower is assured he will receive a fair, competent, and confidential handling of his loan. The loan will be made covering a very liberal maturity date. His note will draw interest at the rate of 6% per annum, with any unearned interest charges refunded.

Fourth Installment

To get fifteen thousand dollars to save the family honor, Nancy Gordon promises to marry the well-to-do Dr. Richard Morgan. Her beloved brother, Roddy, has come home from New York to confess that he has taken that amount from the bank where he works—because a woman needed it—and that he returns it. So Nancy, in love with the penniless Page Roemer, decides to borrow the money from Morgan, and pledges herself to marry him in return. He agrees to the bargain, feeling sure he can make her love him. While they are talking at his house, Roemer comes to see him. "Oh, Richard, don't let him come in here," begs Nancy when she hears his name. And as Richard looks at her the pitiful little secret of her love for Page is revealed to him.

Now go on with the story

"Nancy, you don't quite hate me—do you?"

She blushed; she remembered suddenly her cry to her father: "I hate that man!" And she was going to marry him. She felt ill and weak and trembling, but she remembered her father's ashen face in his sleep.

"No-no, I don't hate you!" she answered faintly. "I—oh, don't ask me, Richard."

He did not; he was silent for a while, looking at her, and then he remembered.

"I'm going to get that money for you, Nancy. Fortunately, I have it here in the bank, in such shape I can get it, the whole of it, today. But it's only eight o'clock, the banks aren't open, won't be for an hour. Will you breakfast with me? I've only got Mammy Polk here, but she's a good cook. Come to breakfast with me, Nancy, for the first time."

Then she raised her eyes involuntarily to his and her heart seemed to stand still. How his face had changed! She would never have known it. She trembled. If he loved her like her like that it was terrible to treat him so; to come into his life and wreck it—for—money! Every noble instinct in her nature revolted against it, and yet there was Roddy and her mother and her father! Suddenly she covered her face with her hands and hands and groaned.

"Oh, Richard!"

He was startled; he felt a change in her, and his flush deepened. Something almost like hope quickened in his heart, but he did not speak.

Neither did she, they had no time. Mammy Polk came to the door.

"Breakfast a' ready, Mist' Richard."

She was a tall, old black woman, gaunt and erect in her striped purple calico and her long apron.

"Mammy Polk, we've got company to breakfast," said Richard quickly. "Miss Gordon is going to eat breakfast with me."

Mammy Polk courted.

"Howdy, Miss Nancy? We've got waffles an' coffee; de doctah, he don't eat noffin mornin's. Can't I drop yo' egg on a bit ob bacon, Miss Nancy?"

"No, no! I like waffles, Mammy Polk. I'll take anything you have."

Mammy Polk smiled. "I reckon yo'll like de waffles," she said proudly. "Mammy's famous for them," said Richard. "Come, Nancy let's go out to breakfast."

He bent over her, his face aglow, offering his arm. Nancy took it and tried not to look at him. Together they walked into the dining room, following the tall figure of Mammy Polk.

Richard led her to a chair opposite his own. Nancy sat down weakly, hardly daring to lift her eyes, she was afraid the old negro woman would see the traces of tears.

"Try to eat something, Nancy, you'll be ill if you don't, she heard Richard's voice.

"Indeed I can't eat, Richard!"

She felt his eyes on her and tried to hide her own, toying with her fork. Her lips trembled. Was he wondering why she wanted that awful money?

"Don't ask too much, Richard!" she cried, agonizingly.

He shot a look across at her, and his own color died away slowly.

"I wish you'd try to eat—see these waffles," he offered Mammy Polk's best.

Nancy took one and sat looking at door, waiting for this man who was so soon to be—her husband!

Richard had brought the money, all of it, and he had asked no questions, not even when he saw the haste that invaded her like a tempest, the secret haste that she wanted to hide from him and could not.

"Richard, I've got to go home!" she cried trembling. "I—I must go alone, too. Don't ask me why."

And he had not asked. Suddenly his voice and his eyes were kind, as if he knew. The passion seemed to have died out of them, but there was tenderness.

"I'd come if I could help—could I, Nancy?"

She shook her head, speechless, poised for flight, and he was generous. He let her go unquestioned and undelayed.

Fear winged her feet; she almost ran down the long street; she was possessed with a horror of being too late, of having it all in vain! Her imagination, a vivid, restless thing at best, pictured Roddy's arrest just as she entered—or, worse still, he'd be on his way to New York with the detectives.

She turned the corner, had a glimpse of the old house and garden, quiet under the fine old trees, and drew a breath of relief. When she opened the gate she saw Roddy walking up and down inside the lilac hedge. He paced restlessly, but with a dragging, dejected gait. He wanted to escape it all, but there was no escape—except by the road. He had promised Nancy not to go until she came back. And then it might be too late.

Nancy was thankful that he was alone. She could tell him so much more easily than she could tell her parents. They were her real problems.

"Roddy," she breathed in catchy gasps, "I ran all the way—here's the money—go to New York and pay it all back!"

Roddy, utterly amazed, stood staring blankly as she thrust the bulky package into his hands. She had never looked smaller or more childlike; her pale face a little drawn, tears of excitement misting her blue eyes, only her lips touched with red, moist and trembling. She must have gone mad, he thought soberly.

"Take it, take it, Rod! It's all right—bonds and securities as good as gold, you can cash, them, take them and go—quick, quick, before it's too late!"

He took the bundle, glanced at its contents and stared a ther with his mouth open.

"Where in mischief did you get it, Nancy?"

"I—I got it!" she stopped, leaning against a tree, breathless. She was so pale that her blue eyes looked dark. "It doesn't matter—I borrowed it, you can have it, Roddy."

He was turning the papers over bonds and securities and cash. His amazement deepened as he counted and assured himself that all were genuine Fifteen thousand dollars—the whole sum—from the gods! How in the name of heaven—? He stared at his sister, the red glinting in his wine-brown eyes.

"What have you been doing? Where in the world did you get this, Nancy?" he demanded hoarsely.

"I didn't steal it!" she said in a low voice.

He turned on her. "Don't rno that in!" he cried almost fiercely. There seemed to be no gratitude, no response in him. He stared at her as if he thought her a thief, she had hurt him cruelly.

Her face crimsoned under his eyes. "It's mine!" she repeated with stiff lips. Don't stand there, don't stare at me, go back to New York. Oh, Roddy, go before it's too late!"

A light broke over his perturbed face. Relief or something akin to it.

"Oh, Lord, I'm thankful!" he breathed, folding the envelope up and staring at her, "I'm going, but it? I must know that!"

Her eyes darkened suddenly, she choked back a sob.

"I'll never tell—unless you trust me and go—right away."

Roddy stared, his jaw dropping, he turned white and then red. "Nancy Virginia, did you tell—to get it?"

Nancy, who felt his shamed misery, threw her arms about him.

"I didn't—I vow I didn't, Rod! I just borrowed it."

"Borrowed it—on no security? Lord Nancy, how can we pay it back?"

Anger welled up again in Nancy. She had suffered and he took it this way—without thought of her!

"We'll do it somehow, Rod! Can't you trust me—I won't tell, I won't truly! Oh, Rod, do you want to go to jail? Can't you wake up, take it and go—go!"

Their eyes met. She was clinging to his arm, pushing him away, urging him to go, and they were very close together.

"I did it for father," she said flatly, "it was killing him. Now go—go. There's a train, you can just catch it!"

He hesitated, in an agony of shame. He wanted to fling, the borrowed money back, to say he'd face jail first, but his courage ebbed as the temptation pressed against his heart, he held the package gingerly, but he knew the money was there—the money to save.

Basketball Teams Lose To Cottonwood Tuesday Night

The Cottonwood basketballers were victorious in a double header Tuesday night, with both boys and girls defeating the Cross Plains teams by the score of 39-11 and 33-10 respectively.

There was never a doubt at any time in either game. The Cottonwood teams took early leads and managed to continue to gain. Varner of Cottonwood was high point man with eleven points. Spencer was high point for the home team with five points.

The Buffalo team also lost a game to the Pioneer boys Saturday night in a real thriller. The score was 14-13. At the end of the first half the score was Pioneer 10 Cross Plains 2, but at the beginning of the beginning of the third period.

The home team got going and by the middle of the last quarter the score was tied up at 11 all. Then with about three minutes to play the home team counted on a gift shot, to take the lead. But on a follow up shot by Pioneer they managed to score their only field goal of the last half and take the game. The game was very roughly and there were many free shots awarded but few were made to count.

FRIENDS

"Friends." Many of us do not realize the significance of this word. If we stop for a moment to study its meaning, we find that it is the greatest possession one many obtain on this earth. Friends can be easily acquired if you desire to be one. Why not consider this motto, "To be a friend is to have a friend."

What is more valuable than someone to whom you may take your troubles, who will sympathize with you, and who will help you when every thing else is against you? Many times we doubt people. These doubtful people are not true blue friends. It might seem easy to pretend that they are, but if they are not it will soon be revealed by their actions. Do not take too much for granted; and if at any time you see they are false, do not hesitate to leave them behind, for you will get more harm than good out of the situation.

But again, cultivate true friendship. If some one needs your advise or comfort, do not hesitate to inform or sympathize with them. Do you not feel more consoled to know that there is that someone who will sacrifice for you? You will be recognized as a person with an outstanding, noble character if you are friendly with your fellowman.

Student Government In High School

Student government of high schools would be a wonderful thing if it could be carried on in the right way. Student government could be carried on by the cooperation of the students with the teachers. Representatives could be elected from each class to form a student council. These representatives should be cool, level-headed, and above all, they should know what to do for the betterment of the school. In this student council there should be a head or president, elected from the council. This president should conduct all meeting of the council in a dignified and orderly manner. All cases where a student breaks the laws of the school or infringes upon the rights of other students might be brought before the student council for consideration. In all discussions of great importance a member of the faculty should be present to give advice and point out the strong and weak points of the question.

Student government of high schools would have a very great effect upon the students of the school. It would give them confidence in the ability to decide questions for themselves. It would teach them to do the thing that is best for a whole body of people. It would also teach them the essentials of self government and would be very beneficial to them in later life.

STAMPEDE

Ignorance is bliss! In a tennis meet for eliminations for the county meet, the contestants thought that six games were played, and the person having the majority of the games out of six won the set, and so the two struggled to a 5-1; 4-2 decision which will probably have to be played over. I might mention that the contestants were girls, incidently.

With a new coach comes thought, and with thoughts come expectations and with expectations come hope, for hope is possibility coupled with expectation, and with hope comes desire, and with desire come need, need for another championship football team! All this developing from a mere thought. What don't?

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys. A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation. Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form. A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later. In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescripational preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds. The liquid test: This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics: First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation. Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

PIONEER FFA NOTES

Wayne Middleton, Reporter

The FFA did a real job of entertaining in the school auditorium Tuesday night.

The negro minstrel was one of the most natural and humorous Conventions of Chicken Lifters' imaginable. The caste of the three-act "Look Out, Lizzie!" comedy, however, were not to outdone, and they played their parts so well that the Chicken Lifters had to be given the time in between the acts in order to further prove their own humorous capabilities.

The FFA are appreciative for, and well pleased with the gait receipts, which totaled $27.35. This money will be used to pay for such equipment as an FFA banner, chapter stationery, Texas Farmer Key, and perhaps at least a portion of the expenses of sending judging teams to the various contests.

The Heart of Texas District Texas Farmer Initiations will be held at Brownwood Wednesday night, February 7th.

The "Texas Farmer" is the second degree to be conferred upon a vocational agriculture student.
