WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN CLYDE L. GARRETT

VISITORS: Since the last report our office has been visited by the following from the district: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wilke and son of Sweetwater who were accompanied by Arthur Phillips of Ballinger, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Jaye, Bobby Jay, E. R. McDaniel and Miss Mae Belle McDaniel of Abilene and Judge Homer Bouldin of Albany. We were all glad to see them.

ADJOURNMENT: As this is written it will not be long until we will all be back in Texas. Books and other office material has been shipped and the boys just about have everything ready to start rolling. We will be seeing you ere long.

STRIKES: The outlook for a peace period in the strike areas is favorable according to Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor. There is an attempt to organize the unorganized in steel and automobiles under the protection of the NLRB, rather than by testing their strength in a strike.

TAX LOOPHOLES AND HOUSING: The bills to close income tax loopholes and to promote low cost housing were enacted by the House this week. The Senate will probably take some time in passing the tax bill, but not a great deal is expected to be spent in debating on the two bills. The Housing bill originated in the Senate.

VOCATIONAL FUND: The President reluctantly signed the $132,000,000 Interior Department Appropriation Bill. The President did not approve of the $14,000,000 vocational training provision in the bill, because while he understands "that a sound program in vocational training is greatly needed in the United States," he feels that such an appropriation at this time "is not the way to meet this need."

FLOOD CONTROL: The Senate approved the $24,887,000 Flood Control Bill and the additional expenditure of more than $30,000,000 for Army and Navy Housing.

BUSINESS: The outlook for business is favorable and full of great promise. Production is traveling at a relatively active rate through the normal dog days of summer. Although trade is not as favorable as was expected, it is believed it will wear off and the coming fall will see things up considerably. Farmers will have a greater purchasing power than they have since 1919.

SUGAR QUOTA BILL: The Sugar Quota Bill which was passed in an objectionable way by the House, has been passed in a form that is even more drastic by the Senate. It limits the refining of sugar produced in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands and also limits the quantity that may be refined in various geographical parts of the U.S.A. A letter has been written by the President to the Senate Finance Committee in which he protests these restrictions.

FARM LEGISLATION: In exchange for a promise that Congress will veto early next year to take up farm legislation and some kind of farm crop control, President Roosevelt assured them that he would protect farm income by making price fixing loans and by paying subsidies. This agreement will be bound by a concurrent resolution of the Senate and House.

TREASURY PLAN: The job of guiding through the Senate the Treasury's plan for taking in from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 more revenue during the next fiscal year by tightening of tax loopholes, will fall on Senator Pat Harrison. He will try to sell ideas to the other Senators.

PRICES RISING: When the drought reduced feed supplies, heavy marketing resulted in livestock. This caused a shortage at the present time and is making prices go up. Because of the bumper crops of corn and other feed this year, a number of livestock will be held over for further fattening. Recovery measures, and devaluation of the dollar have played a large part in the increase of the cost of living. In 1937 a dollar will buy only about seven tenths as much as in July, 1934, for meats, milk, butter and other dairy products. Other goods and products are bought in about the same proportions. Economists say that a billion and a half more dollars will be spent this year for food than was spent in 1936. ed by knowing about it."

Why Newspapers Ask For 'Early Copy'

The Advertiser Is Unfair to Himself When He Sends His Advertisement to the Newspaper Office Just Before the Dead-Line.

Early 'Copy' 'Late Copy'

- 1. Better position. Risk of poor position.
2. No errors. Risk of typographical errors.
3. Time for store corrections. No opportunity for store corrections.
4. Good typography. Risk of poor typography.
5. Prompt delivery to reader. Risk of late delivery.
6. Fair to mechanical staff. Unfair physical and mental strain.
7. Advertisement well written. Often cause of rate increase.
8. Advertisement inserted. Advertisement hurriedly written.
9. Overhead normal. Risk of omission.
10. Illustrations correct. Risk of misplaced cuts.

While a newspaper is a marvel of mechanical efficiency, there are limits on what can be done by a given force of printers, stotypers and pressmen in a short crowded period of stress.

There is plenty of time to give every advertiser good service when early copy is sent in.

The Review believes that its advertisers desire to be fair to the printers, steryotypers and pressmen who serve them as well as to be fair to themselves.

Visitors to the mechanical department are invited so that the process of handling advertising may be thoroughly understood and the mechanical problems fully realized.

Your co-operation will be greatly appreciated by the entire personnel of The Review.

SYNOPSIS

Just before she leaves to spend a vacation in France, Anne Vincent tells her adopted daughter, Rachel, that Rachel's mother was beautiful Elinor Mallory, before her marriage to Rachel's father, who was killed in the World War.

Rachel goes to New York, where she is to stay while Anne is in France. After Anne leaves for France, Rachel, bent on seeing her real mother, looks up her number.

Rachel learns the Caynes are not yet in town. Pink takes Rachel to dinner at Tom and Rhoda Steel's where she meets Oliver Land, a shabby genteel young man out of work who suggests that she apply for a job as a photographer's model for advertising illustration. He agrees to introduce her to the head of an agency.

Thinking of Anne, Rachel is piqued, fretfully believing her own mother would not have left her alone. She is not entirely happy with Pink Matthews. Her desire to see Elinor Cayne increases through Oliver Land she meets Lonnie Vinco, is hired as a photographer's model.

On an assignment Rachel meets Curt Elliott, a young friend of Vinco's. At lunch she learns that he is a country newspaper man spending a year in New York. For experience he takes a number of different jobs, planning to return home later to edit the paper his father left. That evening she receives flowers from him. She phones Mrs. Cayne's home but is rebuffed because she will not give her name.

"Never mind trying. Listen, I've had good news for me. All those auto pictures have to be made over, the photographer, poor nut, used the wrong plates or the wrong lens or something. I'm going to pin a medal on him."

"It's true, Miss Vincent," said Vinco. "You have to go back there as soon as you're through with one other appointment. You've got to model an evening wrap for a fur catalogue, but that's all."

Miss Dean was writing down the

"Do you know them?" asked Curt, warily.

"No, but I know of them—my mother knows them, at least she used to know Mrs. Cayne."

"Damn it, I ought to be kicked. As if I wasn't old enough never to mention names!"

Rachel thought fast. She must convince him, but tell nothing.

"Don't worry, it's all right. I was just surprised—mother was telling me something about Mrs. Cayne only a little while before she sailed. I won't say anything, honestly."

"I talk too much," said Curt.

Rachel laughed. "Please don't worry. I'll never mention it to a soul. But—I was just thinking—"

"So beautiful girls do think! News to me."

She wondered what was the best way to approach the sudden thrilling idea that had seized her. "Do you believe—do you think I might take the detective job?"

"You! Not a chance! You couldn't make up as a housemaid to save your life! And you—"

Curt shook his head and repeated, "Not a chance."

"Look here, suppose I tell you something. I'm not so crazy about this modeling stuff and the girl I live with is pretty well fed up with me and I certainly am with her—and—there's a man who, that is, I'd just as soon make it impossible for him to see me—and this would be so exciting! He sends you thought you'd be a good butler, why wouldn't he be a good maid? I know all about housework. Speak to Mr. Vinco, won't you?"

It was plain that this plea moved Curt, but he hesitated.

"Yes—but they'll have to have a girl who knows something about the detective business, they wouldn't take a greenhorn who's simply looking for a little excitement."

"You could put it up to Mr. Vinco and let them do the deciding."

"He won't want to lose you as a model."

"He probably wouldn't mind temporarily. And he loves feeling he's important and can get anything for anyone who asks him, you know it."

"What makes you so anxious. You act as if it was jam on the cake. If it's this fellow that's bothering you, I can tell you a dozen ways to settle him without going to all this trouble."

"How very very clever we are with other people's business! Oh, but clever!"

"Don't be fresh to your kind of 'me' Curt. I suppose it would be sort of fun for you, a job like that. I tell you, I'll speak to Vinco, I'll say I spilled the beans to you and you want to try it. I don't think there's a Chinaman's chance you'll land it—"

"Don't let's worry about that. Will you speak to Vinco right away, today? Don't dawdle, please, or somebody else will grab it."

Curt looked at his watch. "You order dessert and I'll go phone to Vinco this minute."

"But what do you want for dessert?"

"Anything you like, only I want a large cup of coffee."

Rachel ordered baked apples and the coffee and then waited, rigid with suspense, until Curt came back. "You were gone an age! What did he say, hurry, tell me!" she begged.

"He thinks you're crazy, but he's going to send for the head of the detective agency and talk it over with him. His name's Ferriss, by the way, and a very good egg; runs the most reputable business in the city, won't touch scandal-sheet stuff. Baked apples, swell! For such a flossy-looking girl you have nice homely tastes. And listen, we've got to hurry or we'll be late at the auto shop."

"When will I see the detective agency man?"

"Tomorrow morning, half past nine, at Vinco's. And Vinco says he wants you to finish up your next appointments for him, provided, of course, you land the other job."

"Oh, but I will, of course. Oh, it was awfully kind of you, Curt. I'm so grateful."

"Wait till you see what happens before you go too grateful. I'm not a bit sure I ought to have done this. You may come up against something pretty disagreeable, but if you do and you need any co-operation, or convicances, you just remember that I'm on the doormat outside waiting for the signal Now I'll pay the check and we'll push off."

"I do wish you'd let me pay for my lunch."

"I told you before not to annoy me with such remarks."

"THE REST OF THE RECORD"

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

This week demonstrated again the wisdom of taking the unrestrained power of pardon out of the hands of the Governor and placing it in the hands of a non-political board.

Upon my return from Mexico I found four men condemned to die in the electric chair. Under the old system the Governor, with all his other cares and responsibilities, would have had to pass on these cases. It simply wasn't fair to compel him to submit to the tearful appeals of wives, mothers, relatives and friends. Although he might have a Legislature on his hands, although he might have sickness in his home or several other trying ordeals, he was placed in the position of weighing the life of a man and almost standing outside the death chamber watching the condemned man pace back and forth waiting for the deadly hour of twelve o'clock and the last walk to the little green chamber. I don't think I ever slept a wink on the night any man was compelled to pay the penalty.

Now it's different. Before the Governor can commute a death penalty, or grant any other kind of clemency, it has to be recommended by the Board of Pardons. The Governor can refuse to follow the Board if it recommends clemency, but cannot grant any whatever unless the Board recommends it.

There are three members of the Board. One only is appointed by the Governor, and the others by the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals. The members of the Board have several investigators and, of course, no other responsibilities than looking into clemency cases. In this manner both the convict and the public get a better deal than under the old system where the Governor was charged with all the responsibility in addition to his other duties.

I am proud of this great reform. We are not having any complaints about wholesale abuses of the pardon power. It is all based now on merit, and unquestionably everyone is much better satisfied.

Naturally I have been quite busy catching up with my correspondence after a two weeks vacation. However, on Friday of last week I flew down to the Palacios on the Gulf Coast to review the 39th Division of the Texas National Guard in camp there. Texans generally probably do not realize what a wonderful organization of fine young men this is. Unquestionably we have one of the best National Guard units in the nation. Nearly 8,000 men train intensively at Palacios each summer for two weeks. This is in addition to their regular drills and parades back home. They are well equipped, well officered, and as fine soldiers as any I saw during the World War.

The total cost for military defense in Texas which is borne by the Federal government approximates more than a million dollars annually. The National Guard has in its possession more than four and a half million dollars of Federal property, guns, uniforms and equipments. It payroll, including both men and officers from the highest to the lowest military grade while large in the aggregate, averages only $83.50 per capita per year. Their time is given free as a patriotic duty.

In addition to the 39th Division, we have what is known as the 56th Cavalry Brigade, about 1100 in number who train for two weeks each year at Mineral Wells. As Commander-in-Chief of the Texas militia I always visit these two camps. It was a great joy to me upon my recent visit to Mineral Wells to hear one of the Federal army officers praise the cavalry brigade. He said that we had as good, if not the best, in the nation. Of course, we don't want war, and I pray God we may always be spared what is going on in Europe. It has been the policy of the State, however, to maintain a regular militia from the beginning. The wisdom of this was demonstrated in the World War when our National Guard was the first nucleus around which our defense was built.

It is heartening to know that if a war emergency should arise, our guard is manned, officered, equipped, trained and ready for immediate service.

Of course, as most everyone knows, soldiers don't have much use for a sailor. I was in the Navy during the World War and I had quite a bit of fun out of some of the National Guard officers by reminding them that their Commander-in-Chief was once a sailor!

I wasn't greatly surprised to find upon my return from Mexico that the politicians have been "buzzing" quite a bit. It is my understanding that State Superintendent of Education L. A. Woods has been running around over the State making speeches condemning me for cutting the ad valorem property tax rate to the lowest it has been in some twenty years. I think this gentleman will find out next summer that the public won't approve of his making political speeches on State traveling expense.

"But I mean—that's just a social convention—it really isn't fair."

"I'll discuss that with you some other time. My Lord, do I look like the kind who invites a girl to lunch and tells her to pay her check? Don't annoy me, Rachel. You don't mind if I call you Rachel, do you? Because I'm going to do it whether you mind it or not. Here, what are you going to eat? Let's have minute steak and some mixed salad, and please don't tell me you're dining, for if you do I'll order the biggest baked potato in the world and force it down your throat."

"I'd like a minute steak. I didn't get any breakfast to speak of this morning and I'm worn out wearing ermines."

"That's the girl." He gave the order and put his elbows on the table and looked over at her straight.

"What's bothering you? A man?"

"Among other things, but he's not the chief bother. Don't let's talk about it, I might cry, I feel so sorry for myself."

"All right. But if I can do anything, here I am and I mean it."

"You can't do anything."

"No, it's an eternal truth of this crazy world that we've got to get ourselves out of our own jams." He dropped the subject there. "Vinco was telling me a queer thing this morning when you came in. One of the big private detectives asked him to find a girl who could go into a rich family as a maid to get some dope on what's going on in it. It's this way. Somebody in the house is stealing the mislaid's jewelry—a piece now and then, things she doesn't wear much, and occasionally a piece of silver goes, a cigarette box or a candy dish. Her husband wants to plant a servant in the house without his wife knowing anything about it; seems she's nervous and not very well and he thought a woman would be best. Gee, I wish they wanted a man. I'd hop to it like nobody's business. Wouldn't I make a swanky butler?" He grinned over at her ingratiatingly.

"Modem, the carriage waits. 'Ave a drop more Scotch, milord?"

"Who are these people?" asked Rachel, idly. "Do you know their names?"

"As a matter of fact, I do, though I don't suppose Vinco would want it noised about. They're fairly hot society numbers, very Park avenue and so forth. The old man's got plenty of what it takes, apparently. Cayne is the name—Peter H. Cayne—why, what's the matter—"

"Say that again," cried Rachel. "Say that name again!"

Curt looked at her in surprise and did not answer, so she repeated her question: "What was their name—not Peter Holbrook Cayne—the people who live at six-forty-three Park avenue?"

Giant Mail Fraud Is Uncovered; Huge Swindle Aired To Public

Postmaster General James A. Farley announced recently that, through the efforts of the Post Office Department, another giant swindle carried on through use of the United States mails, which netted its operators approximately one million dollars and numbered among its victims individuals in every state of the Union, Canada, Mexico, and Cuba, has been stamped out. It was also pointed out that twenty-four members of various groups engaged in this fraud against the public have been brought to trial and convicted.

This latest swindle to receive the attention of postal inspectors involved the promotion of the mythical "Baker" or "Becker" estates in the State of Pennsylvania, particularly in the city and county of Philadelphia. The promoters of this racket represented to their victims that they had indisputable proof of the existence of these estates, which included properties in the very heart of Philadelphia, worth approximately sixty million dollars.

Baker or Becker descendant, then he was sold a share in the mythical estate. Other groups solicited "enrollments" at ten or twenty dollars each, in addition to "memberships" with monthly dues.

Inspectors assigned to this work thought it very unusual that an authentic will to such valuable property should remain unprobated for almost one hundred years. Through court proceedings the alleged will was obtained. Inspectors caused the paper and the writing thereon to be analyzed by a chemical engineer and handwriting expert.

It was discovered that the paper on which the will was written was not manufactured until about 1890, over fifty years after its date. The paper had been artificially aged. The signatures of the witnesses to the will had been forged, it was discovered. The information thus obtained by the inspectors proved beyond a doubt that the promoters were attempting to pass off a forged and spurious instrument to the thousands of persons, who believed and were led to believe they were heirs to a vast estate.

As the will in question and representations of the promoters allied for property throughout Pennsylvania as part of the alleged inheritance, it became necessary for the inspectors to trace in and out of the name of "Baker" or "Becker" and various companies in which they were interested every piece of real estate in the sixty-seven counties of Pennsylvania from 1682 to the present time. Over four hundred days were consumed in this work. The search disclosed that none of the property called for in the alleged will was owned by a Jacob Baker or any other Baker at the time it was purported to have been executed. It was further ascertained that there is no vast or "Becker" estate anywhere in the State of Pennsylvania.

Another false claim of the promoters of this swindle was that Jacob Baker or some Baker had executed a 99-year lease to one Martin Yalas on property upon which most of the buildings in Philadelphia now stand.

Another method by which money was obtained from victims of the swindle was in the compilation and sale to them of so-called genealogical charts. Needless to say, these traced the ancestors of the victims back to the Baker or Becker of whom they were supposed to be heirs. Charges for these charts ranged from one to fifty-dollars or whatever the traffic would bear.

Many of the swindlers organized into "Associations", "Leagues," etc. Memberships were sold to victims in every state of the Union, ranging from one to twenty dollars. This amount, however, was not the limit of loss of any particular individual. When the promoters found one willing, able and ready to pay, special attention was given him. Through false and alluring promise he was frequently enticed to part with his cash. The investigation revealed several persons whose contributions amounted to from one thousand to seven thousand dollars apiece.

The inspectors found that the promoters had represented that various banks and trust companies in Philadelphia were holding millions of dollars for "Baker heirs", which sums were supposed to represent rentals and other collections resulting from the alleged 99-year leases executed by the Baker ancestors years ago. It was discovered by the inspectors that not a single penny was held by any of the financial institutions mentioned in the literature of the promoters.

During the trials of the promoters of this swindle, inspectors produced thousands of letters containing false representations and promises mailed by them to their victims. It was claimed that Jacob Baker was a colonel or captain in the Revolutionary War and that in return for his military services he was given valuable land grants. Inspectors produced proof from the War and Navy Departments that there never was a Jacob Baker from Pennsylvania who served as a commissioned officer in the Army or Navy during the Revolution. Furthermore, no land grants were made by the United States government to any Captain, Colonel or other Baker in Pennsylvania on account of supposed alleged services.

Other promoters represented that the Treasury Department was holding vast sums for distribution among the supposed heirs. The inspectors proved that there were no such funds in the Treasury. It was also claimed by promoters of the racket that millions of dollars were available for distribution to the purported heirs of Baker as a result of the French Spoils in Indemnities. This was proven to be false in every particular.

During the investigation, inspectors unearthed evidence to show that a total of forty-four different

Home Town Gossip

Edland Hafford, editor of the Cross Plains Review, owes the city of Cross Plains a retraction for an erroneous item carried in his paper a couple of weeks ago.

Q. How did Coleman county get the money with which to build the 16 dams on which construction work has been started? A. The State appropriated $500,000 for the preliminary surveys and the balance has been obtained by the Central Colorado River Authority from WPA and private subscriptions.

Q. What is the annual value of the East Texas timber cut? A. It is estimated at $200,000,000 ranking eighth in the list of farm commodities of the State and fifth among the States in forest production. East Texas produces 90 percent of the State's lumber.

ONE THIRD IS CUT FROM USUAL PRICE OF SUBSCRIPTIONS

Annual bargain rates went into effect Wednesday morning—September first—on new and renewal subscriptions to the Review.

Subscribers who live in Callahan, Eastland, Brown, Coleman, or Shackelford county may renew or subscribe during the "bargain days" for $1.00, whereas the customary price is $1.50; subscribers who reside outside the Cross Plains trade area—any adjoining county—may place their paper for $1.50, whereas the regular price is $2.00.

Despite the fact that newspaper has made material advances within recent months, production prices are being hiked, there is to be no increase in the price of the home town newspaper.

Those who do not know the exact date their paper expires will be furnished this information upon request.
