NEW BAND DIRECTOR IS HERE; HE IS OPTIMISTIC

John W. Palmer, of Kansas City, the new director for the Commerce Band has arrived, and in conversation with him, the Review finds him to be optimistic and confident of a successful administration, as leader of the band. He says he heard of Cross Plains and the Cross Plains Band long before he arrived in Texas. Mr. Palmer has wife and child who will join him in few days. He says he likes Cross Plains and the friendly co-operative spirit manifested by those whom he has met. Shake hands with Mr. Palmer and tell him you are for him and the band.

Mr. Henderson, manager of the band, and the trustees, are men who will join hands with the new director to give Cross Plains the best band in Texas. But the band and officials need the support of each man, woman and child; Your moral support is worth much. Boost the Band!

Build a home—it will rent.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES BUILDING WAREHOUSE AND OFFICE

The West Texas Utilities Co. are making extensive improvements here. They are erecting a warehouse and general distributing office on north Main Street, just north of Wilson's Furniture Store. They will carry a general line of electrical merchandise. Bill Mulroy, of the Cisco office will be transferred here and will be in charge of the merchandise department, while Miss Neona Ford of Cisco will have charge of the office. The building will be a frame sheet metal structure. George Music has also been transferred here from Putnam and will be in charge of oil field department, Paul Little, local manager, states.

The company is also moving the main power line from 8th to 10th street, are installing 35 foot poles and No. 4 wire. Two extensions have been completed to the shallow oil field just southwest of town and others are to follow. This is just a beginning of a big building and extension program here, Mr. Little states.

C. P. FOOTBALL TEAM BATTLES BAIRD IN SCORELESS TIE

In a hard fought fight on the local football field Friday, Cross Plains and Baird went the full four periods without either goal line being crossed. Both teams put up a game fight and on several occasions threatened the opponents goal but lacked the necessary punch to put it over. During the first half the game was plain ly Cross Plains' they being successful in keeping the pigskin on the opponents end of the field almost throughout the half. The Baird goal was threatened repeatedly but the Baird squad held in the pinches on each occasion. The most sensational play of the game came late in the second quarter when Captain George "Handsome" Swan got loose around right end on a fake forward pass, and circled the Baird line for a forty yard gain. He would have carried the ball across had he not been forced out of bounds on the twenty yard line.

In the second half Baird stiffened, and during the last two periods outplayed the local boys. A drastic effort was made by Baird in the last four minutes to push the ball over. First down was made by a series of terrific line bucks placing the ball on the eight yard line. A touchdown would undoubtedly have been made had not one over anxious lad on the team not been so anxious as on the field down with inches to go his squad drew a fifteen yard penalty, because the referee caught the aforementioned young man shoving. The game ended shortly after the penalty.

Relative strengths of the two teams had changed considerably since Cross Plains defeated Baird about three weeks ago. Baird had several new men in their line up who materially strengthened both their offense and defense, while on the other hand Cross Plains was severely handicapped by the loss of Lee, stellar half. His smashing line drives were sorely missed in the pinches. At the last minute, when it was too late to work another man for the position, Baird refused to play unless Lee was removed from the lineup, giving as an excuse his age. However his ground gaining antes in the previous game was very likely feared more than his age.

The student body, a team, coach, and school management was overjoyed at the support of local fans, as a much larger crowd was in attendance than had been expected. An effort is now being made to arrange games here Oct. 30 and Nov. 11, and if possible to arrange them local fans may be assured of seeing even better games than the one Friday.

The boys go to Desdemonia this week end, for a game with the fast Hogtown squad.

YOUNG MAN KILLED INSTANTLY, WAS TOOL DRESSER

Horace McFarlan, age about 19, was intantly killed here last Friday. He was a tool dresser and was working with a spudder—on a well in the south west part of town. He was accidentally caught with walking beam, crushing his head. His home was in San Angelo. The body was taken in charge by Higginbotham's undertakers. The young man's father and brother-in-law arrived later and had the body shipped back to San Angelo for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderson left Wednesday for Keerville, to be with their little daughter, Virginia, who is in hospital there. Her hand was operated on a few days ago and she has not been doing well.

Mrs. Lida Jones of El Paso is visiting her mother Mrs. S. E. Jones of this community.

Miss Gladys Erwin of Sabanno was operated on last week, for appendicitis. She is doing nicely.

W. O. Spencer of Cisco is building a new home for the post office. The building will be the property of D. C. Lowry of Plainview, and will be located on the same block and just east of the building now occupied by the post office, facing 9th street. The structure will be a frame sheet metal building, 22 x 48 feet. It is understood that it will be completed Nov. 1st, at which time the post office will be moved in. Actual construction was started last Friday.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle.

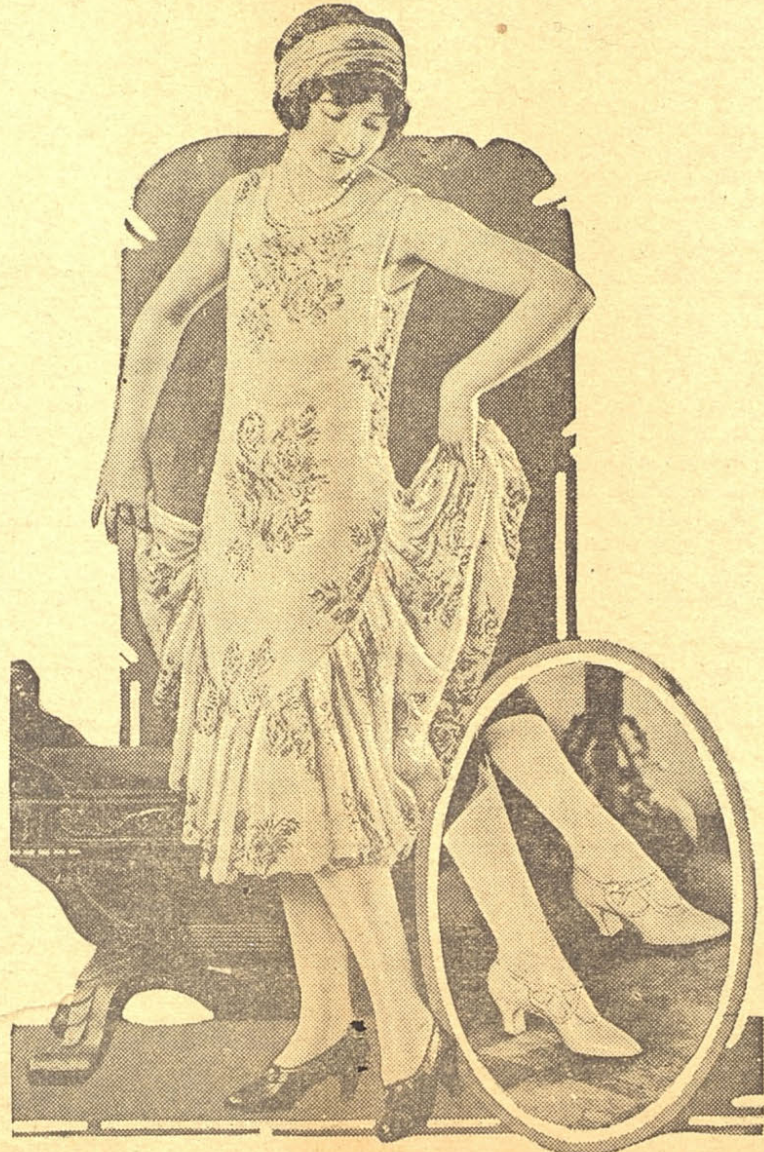

FALL MODES IN PARTY FROCKS; FORMAL TYPES IN PARIS BLOUSES

SO LONG as the flowers that bloom in the spring, or any other time, are a gladness and dear to our hearts, just so long we will wear flowered frocks for dancing. Here is one, with certain hallmarks of the new fall modes, proclaiming its up-to-dateness, worn in the company of shoes that bear out this testimony. It is a simple affair of flowered chiffon, worn over a silk slip, with molded lines in the body and flared flounce placed very gracefully on the skirt portion. Its background color is blue in a delightful shade, and pastel shades of rose, green and other colors appear in the printed flowers.

Queen Mary must have sensed the trend of the coming mode this fall when she chose to wear a genuine jeweled pin on her hat. "This way splendor lies" might well be inscribed along the path of fashion, for it leads to the richest and most regal-looking fabrics—not only in headwear but in all outer apparel.

Paris designers have seized upon this phase of the mode in creating blouses of formal character and those tunic blouses that prove so useful as an adjunct to a modest supply of afternoon or dinner gowns. The ensemble blouse that may be worn with a skirt all its own, and with other skirts as well, is included among them, and the more or less dressy styling of are to be their partners—such shoes must wear their colors—if only in a little rosette. The smart black, kid pumps shown in the picture have a border of blue about the top and a rosette of blue and black ribbon at the front—thus proclaiming themselves in harmony with the color choice in the dress. Plain black kid pumps are varied by changing the ornaments on them. But sometimes party frocks are worn with shoes of blond kid with stockings to match and this footwear harmonizes with the color in the dress and looks particularly well with party frocks of gold lace.

Metallic laces, metal brocade and other metal fabrics lead the process-blouses, even in the plainer materials, makes these important. Just what Paris contrives with plain, lustrous crepe-satin in black is shown in the two models pictured. In the blouse at the left plaitings of coral georgette and coral buttons adorn a straight, simply designed model, the plaiting edged with fine soutache braid in gold color. A belt of gilded kid completes it. The other blouse is equally simple and successful, with plaitings of the satin and many-colored embroidery giving it tone. A scarf of georgette with the same embroidery may be called on for further elaboration—when needed—and is very graceful. Blouses of this type are made finger-tip or wrist length. Tunic blouses or son of beautiful materials for evening dresses and wraps, followed by various kinds of velvet and by satin, tulle, chiffon and georgette. To be rich and gleaming and fine is the ambition of the evening mode and fashionable fabrics conspire together to achieve the mode's desire. Velvet is used for trimming and in rich girdles, chiffon or georgette form color backgrounds for gold laces, and of these light tones of green with gold seem to capture the eye and hold it very often. In the main the silhouette remains slim with varied flaring skirt effects discreetly managed to set off the dress tunics are sometimes dress length and often made of self-patterned silks in dark colors or black, with jabots or drapes in contrasting color.

Crepe de chine and satin remain the favorite materials for practical blouses and the mode demands long sleeves in these. Many of them have erect collars but there is great variety in necklines and finishes. Black and dark colors lead, brightened with trimming of contrasting materials—which often forms the lower sleeve—or is applied in bandings.

PE-RU-NA

Under the date of March 6, 1902, Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 139 Riverside Ave., Little Rock, Arkansas, has this to say about her experience: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, others consumption of the bowels. The medicine I took did no good. A friend advised me to try PE-RU-NA. I did. After taking two bottles I found it was helping me and continued. Am now sound and well."

A letter from Mrs. Durbin, dated December 12, 1923, shows that, even after twenty-two years, she is in the best of health: "I still recommend PE-RU-NA to my friends who need a good medicine and everybody is pleased. I thank you many times for what PE-RU-NA has done for me."

There is nothing strange in this experience of Mrs. Durbin. It has been repeated thousands of times by sufferers from catarrh and catarrhal diseases.

Simple Chords

The simplest chord in music is a note with its third, either major or minor, and a fifth whether played together or in the form of an arpeggio. The more extended chords in general use are, the chords of the seventh, ninth, eleventh, and the thirteenth, and their inversions. Several of the latter are known by different names when they are inverted.

BROUGHT RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS SUFFERING

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks, for I don't consider it any exaggeration to say I owe my life and present good health to Tanlac," is the striking statement of Andrew Groeschner, Bremen. "Words simply can't express the misery I endured for 2 years from indigestion. At times gas pains would catch me around the heart and almost cut off my breath. These awful pains would last two and three hours. My nerves were all unstrung. I slept poorly and got in such a bad way that my days seemed to be shortening rapidly. "I tried everything, but disappointment was my only reward until I began taking Tanlac. I have been taking Tanlac off and on for a year now and feel so different that there's no room for comparison. I eat good and sleep good and feel that Tanlac has given me a new lease on life." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute.

Lesson for October 25

PAUL IN EPHEBUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:1-41. GOLDEN TEXT—"For the love of money is the root of all evil."—1 Tim. 6:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells Idol-Makers About Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Preaching Stirs Up a Riot.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Diana or Christ. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Money or Christ.

Apollos, an Alexandrian Jew, an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures, had preceded Paul at Ephesus. He had diligently taught the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John. When Aquila and Priscilla heard him they perceived his lack of instruction in Christian truth. Therefore, they took him and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. Having thus come into fuller light, the brethren gave him a letter of endorsement as he passed to other fields.

I. John's Disciples Become Christians (vv. 1-7).

These 12 disciples had been taught only the baptism of repentance as a preparation for the kingdom of God. Paul taught them to believe on Christ, i. e., to receive Him as the One on the cross who had provided redemption for them. When they received Christ, Paul laid hands upon them and they received the Holy Spirit.

II. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv. 8-10).

1. In the Jewish Synagogue (v. 8). Though the Jews were Paul's inveterate enemies, his rule was to go to them first with the gospel. His preaching was characterized:

(1) By boldness. He realized that God sent him, and that His authority was back of him.

(2) By reason. God's message is in accord with the highest reason.

(3) By persuasion. It is not enough to come boldly with a reasonable message, it must be accompanied by persuasion.

(4) By speaking, "concerning the kingdom of God." He did not discourse on current events, literature or philosophy, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

2. In the Schoolhouse of Tyrannus (vv. 9-10).

The Jews, being enemies of the gospel of the grace of God, were only hardened by Paul's earnest preaching. Paul separated the disciples from them and resorted to the schoolhouse of Tyrannus. This was followed with glorious results.

III. God Working Miracles by Paul (vv. 11-16).

Ephesus was noted for its wonder workers. If Paul's ministry was to be successful here, God must in an extraordinary way put His seal upon His work. So wonderfully did He manifest His power that handkerchiefs and aprons brought from Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits.

IV. A Glorious Awakening (vv. 17-41).

1. Fear Falls Upon All (v. 17).

News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It Brought to the Front Those Who Professed Faith in Christ, While Not Living Right Lives (v. 18).

They believed but had not broken from sin.

3. Gave Up the Practice of Black Arts (v. 19).

This means forms of jugglery by use of charms and magical words. They proved the genuineness of their actions by publicly burning their books.

4. Uproar of the Silversmith at Ephesus (vv. 23-41).

(1) The Occasion (vv. 23-24). This was the power of the gospel in destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his followers. It was clear to them that idolatry was tottering before the power of the gospel.

(2) The Method (vv. 25-29). Demetrius, a leading business man, whose business was the stay of others of a similar nature, called a meeting and stated that much people had been turned from idolatry, and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his followers:

a. On the ground of business, saying: "This, our craft, is in danger of being set at naught," v. 27.

b. On the ground of religious prejudice. He said: "The temple of the great goddess Diana shall be despised" (v. 27). His speech gained his end.

Christianity

Christianity is no mere scheme of doctrine or of ethical practice, but is instead a kind of miracle, a power out of nature and above, descending into it; a historically supernatural movement on the world, that is visibly entered into it, and organized to be an institution in the person of Jesus Christ.—Horace Bushnell.

Giving and Receiving

We live in a world of giving as well as of receiving.—American Friend.

GERMANY AGREES TO PACT, EUROPE'S PEACE IS ASSURED

Admission May Come at December Session of Council.

Locarno.—Real peace has come to Europe.

The security conference has adopted the final text of the Rhineland pact and the four other interlocking treaties now being negotiated are virtually assured of adoption. It is planned to submit all five documents to the conference at once to be initiated preliminary to dispatch to the respective capitals, where they will be passed on by Cabinets and Parliaments.

With these facts established it may be said literally that the war has ended after eleven years of military or economic turmoil in the Old World. Only a reversal such as smote the treaty of Versailles when the United States refused to ratify it can now defeat the work of peace.

Although the Poles, Czechs and Germans still are separated by various differences regarding their treaties, full agreement is expected in a few days, when it is planned to examine the final drafts of the various agreements.

Success at Locarno adds to the ever-increasing isolation from Europe of the United States and Soviet Russia.

Now the agreement finally has been reached on a basis of equality among the nations which struggled against each other from 1914 to 1918, the statesmen at Locarno admit that the six years of post-war bitterness from which Europe has just emerged was leading toward a new war. Members of the various delegations which have labored here summarize the results of their work as the opening of a new era of friendly collaboration. Locarno has accomplished what Versailles failed to attain. It is expected to do for European pacification what the Dawes plan did for reparations.

With the adoption by the various Governments of the Rhineland pact and the arbitration treaties, Europe will more nearly approach the status of a united whole than at any time in her history. Although she still will be divided politically and socially, the joining of seven principal states will constitute the nucleus of an economically united Europe. This admittedly was the fundamental conception of both Foreign Minister Briand of France and Chancellor Luther of Germany. They said repeatedly that unless Europe could find a basis of peace permitting her fullest economic demand, she would be doomed within a few years to become the economic slave of other continents.

Neither the United States nor Russia was represented, nor, apparently, exercised the slightest influence at the conference.

WILLIAM GREEN AGAIN ELECTED LABOR HEAD

Re-elected President of Federation by Acclamation.

Atlantic City, N. J.—William Green of Coshocton, Ohio, has been unanimously re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor. He was nominated by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, in a speech that brought the delegates to their feet in a prolonged demonstration.

All federation voted, after an animated debate, against the formation of an independent labor party. President Green said there may come a time when it may be necessary to organize such a party, but at present labor's interests can best be served by supporting candidates friendly to labor.

Settlement of another jurisdictional feud between the Machinists and Blacksmiths' Union and the street and electric railway organizations was announced. Both unions agree to abide by the decision of their respective presidents relative to jurisdiction disputes, particularly in Portland, Ore.; New Orleans, La., and Granite City, Ill.

The convention turned down a resolution introduced by J. Shafr of the Chicago Bank Clerks' Association proposing that the United States recognize Soviet Russia.

Order Restored in Panama City. Balboa, Canal Zone.—Order has been restored in Panama City, following a violent night during which one Panaman was killed and two were wounded by American troops.

Samuel M. Ralston, Dead. Indianapolis, Ind.—Samuel M. Ralston, United States Senator from Indiana, died October 14 at his country home, north of this city. He would have been 68 years old Dec. 1. Death came to the statesman at the place he loved best, "Hoosier Home," located just outside the city limits of Indianapolis. Immediate members of the family, who had been forewarned of the Senator's condition, were present. Senator Ralston's death was preceded by a long illness caused by kidney disease.

ARMY STAFF IS STRONG FOR ITS AIR PLANS

Accusations of Mismanagement Are Vigorously Combated.

Washington.—The army general staff has presented to the president's Air Board a statement in rebuttal to witnesses who have urged sweeping changes of the national defense organization.

It denounced as "unsound" the proposed department of national defense, asserted that "direct administration and control" of the army air service actually does rest "in the hands of the chief of the air service," and presented a general denial of charges of mismanagement in the administration of the air service itself.

Presented by Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, the statement, covering fifty-one typewritten pages, was prefaced with the remark that "the War Department has considered with painstaking thoroughness and care the various propositions and views presented to the board."

"The main proposals," it added, "have been studied in one form or another before, during and since the World War. Consequently, the War Department has crystallized its views on air service organization into some definite and well-thought-out policies. These views were concurred in by the chief of the air service, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick."

The statement presented by Gen. Drum then discussed "fundamental principles of War Department policies" and presented a detailed analysis of the proposed department of national defense as advocated in recent testimony by Gen. Patrick, Col. Mitchell and several other witnesses.

"It is believed," Gen. Drum testified, "that the ideas expressed by the chief of the air service are fundamentally unsound in his conception of a new national defense doctrine whereby the theater of operations along our frontier is to be divided into three 'theaters of action,' sea, air and land, each with a separate commander responsible for national defense in his respective theater."

Asserting that "air units are essential to an army and must be an integral part of the army," he added that "we must not be blinded by the sacrifices of the American doughboy."

"The prance of horses," he continued, "the boom of cannon and the whirl of airplane propellers can not replace the dogged determination, the 'will to win' of the American infantryman. The mechanical device can never replace the mental, moral and physical qualities of man."

A JOB FOR EVERY JOBLESS PERSON

West Texas Cotton Sections Have Work for Every Idle Hand.

Fort Worth, Texas.—Employment for every idle man in the state is available in West Texas cotton fields, it is said by C. W. Woodman, assistant director of the Farm Labor Division, United States Employment Service, in charge of Texas and the Southwest. The surplus of cotton pickers that went into West Texas before the cotton was open in most places has been absorbed and the farmers are calling for more. Many pickers, released from the East Texas fields, have gone or are going into the western section of the state, and it is thought that the demand will soon be fairly well filled. Lamb County needs 1,000 pickers.

Rain has halted picking in many places, and damage has been done to cotton still in the fields. Further damage likely will result unless the cotton is soon picked, reports from several sections reveal. The pulling of bolls has begun in some localities, and a price of $1 a hundred pounds is being paid. Hands to head maize are wanted at from $2.50 to $3 a day in several localities.

Oklahoma farmers or their agents have come into Texas and diverted several thousand cotton pickers going by automobile to West Texas into their own state, reports received here indicate.

Terrell Has Trades Day. Terrell, Texas.—Terrell's fourth trades day was held Wednesday, with the streets crowded with people, many from out of town. These trades days are being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchant's Association of this city.

Bowers Opposes Call by King. Austin, Texas.—Senator R. S. Bowers of Burleson County is opposed to calling a special session of the Legislature to investigate State offices, as suggested by Representative A. H. King of Throckmorton County. "Let the grand jury investigate; it has the power and is inexpensive," said Senator Bowers. Legislative investigations do not get results and are a waste of time and money. He referred to the penitentiary investigation by the Thirty-Ninth Legislature.

A COVINGTON, KY., WOMAN Makes Remarkable Recovery

Mrs. Harry Ashcroft Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Severe Illness and Pain

MRS. HARRY ASHCROFT 828 BIRCH AVENUE, COVINGTON, KY. Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength, but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—MRS. HARRY ASHCROFT, 828 Birch Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

Mrs. Boyer Also Found Help. Gilman City, Missouri.—"I was in such a condition that I could not eat nor sleep to do me any good and I felt draggy all the time. My head ached, my right side and back would almost kill me at times, and I could be on my feet only a short while at a time. I was irregular and so nervous, irritable and despondent that I thought I could not stand the strain much longer. I had been this way more or less for ten years, but the last two years was just terrible. I took medicines, but got little relief until I began to take the Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles before I could see any change at all. I have taken seven in all and am improving right along. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and take the Liver Pills. I can do most of my work now, and I live on a farm and there is lots of it to do. I wash, iron, hoe the garden, raise chickens and tend to the milk."—MRS. T. M. BOYER, Gilman City, Missouri.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Age is not the time for constantly whipping the bowels into activity. A lash can not be used every few days."—DR. CALDWELL

If Past Forty, Adopt a Regulating Laxative

Most men and women past forty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting regularity for weeks and often for months—or must you "purge" and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

One dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Cross Plains Cemetery Association and Cross Plains Cemetery Association.

By making publication of this Citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day thereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper therein, but if not, then in the nearest County where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Callahan County, to be holden at the Court House, thereof, in Baird, Texas, on the 25th day of September, A. D. 1925, the same being the second day of November, A. D. 25, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 30th day of September, A. D. 25, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 7095, where in S. M. Moore is Plaintiff, and the above named parties are defendants; and said petition alleging;

Plaintiff sues the defendants in trespass to try title for the title to and possession of block No. 15 and block No. 18, in Steele addition to the town of Cross Plains, in Callahan County, Texas.

Plaintiff also pleads the statutes of limitation of five and ten years and further alleges that the nature of defendants claims to said land are to plaintiff unknown, but that said defendants are asserting some kind of a title to, or claims against the same, the character and extent of which plaintiff is unable definitely to state; that defendants have no title to, and no valid claims to said land, or any part thereof, and have no right or interest therein or right to possession thereof, but are naked trespassers.

Plaintiff prays judgment for the title to and possession of said tract and parcel of land, for a writ of possession to same; also that all clouds cast upon plaintiff's title to said land by reason of defendant claims thereto be removed; that plaintiff be established confirmed and quieted in his title to same, for general release and costs of suits.

Herein Fail Not, and have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given Under My Hand and Seal of said Court, at office in Baird, Texas this the 30th day of September, A. D. 1925.

An interesting program was given at school auditorium Monday morning, with a number of parents in attendance. J. Thomas Davis, Dean of John Tarleton College, gave the invocation and made a forceful lecture. His remarks were principally on cigarette smoking and its evil effects. He stated that 80 per cent of the corporations that control the business of our country were opposed to employing cigarette smokers, and in one state a law has been passed prohibiting the sale of tobacco to any one under 21 years of age. He declared that habitual use of cigarettes dulled the brain power and lessened the efficiency of the user.

Next on the program was:
Dialogue, Mary Hellen Lancaster and Jennie Laura Jackson.
Reading, Milton Autry.
Song, Aleta Ashworth.
Ten Little Indians, 3rd grade.
Blind Men and Elephants, 4th grade.
Reading, Madelyne Seamon.
The program was enjoyed by all present. All parents are invited to attend these Monday morning programs. The attendance so far has been very encouraging to the faculty, as well as students.

English Writer Tells "Tall" Fish Stories

The winter garden of the Savoy hotel, London, was the scene of a double tragedy a few weeks ago. For many years two goldfish, named Ernest and Eva, made their home in the fountain there. Guests from all parts of the world admired them, for the fish were famous on account of their tricks.

As soon as a cork was put in the water, Ernest would leap over it in a flash of gold, and sometimes would turn a somersault in the air. One day, however, a thoughtless guest flicked some cigar ash into the fountain, and the fish were poisoned.

Another notable goldfish died recently. His name was Peter, and for fourteen years he lived in the garden fountain of St. Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe, London.

Legends of long-lived fish are numerous. One of the most interesting concerns the "Holy Trout of Kilgeever." This fish lived for many years in a well in the west of Ireland. Tradition says that, when French troops landed there more than a century ago, they ran short of food, and certain soldiers decided to have the trout fried for dinner. When they put him on the pan, the trout disappeared up the chimney and found his way back to the well, where he lived for many years.—London Tit-Bits.

Tramp's Quiet Remark Made Big Impression

I remember once two or three of us children had climbed up a high chestnut tree near the gate of our home (feminine Sir William Orpen in "Stories of Old Ireland and Mysell"). A broken-down old tramp was passing painfully along the road, but he stopped when he heard our laughter, and at last detected where we were above him.

"Ah, children," said he, "I would like to be up there with you!"

We laughed still more at the idea of this old man climbing a tree. And one of us said:

"What on earth, old man, do you want to come up here for?"

"To which he replied:

"Wouldn't I be nearer to heaven?"

And away he moved on his weary tramp of the roads. But we were very quiet for a bit after what he

CALLAHAN COUNTY TO HAVE A COUNTY FARM AGENT

The Commissioners Court has accepted the plea of the farmers of the county and has appropriated $1000 toward the salary of a county farm agent. This sum will be supplemented by $1600 from the extension department of A. & M.

Callahan County has long felt the need of a county farm agent and it is gratifying to know that the Commissioners Court has recognized the need and took favorable action.

The Review is not informed just when a man will be secured for this important work, but probably as the right man appears.

Married

Last wednesday, Vincent Hart and Miss Willie B. Fitz, took their many friends by surprise, when they motored to Baird and were quietly married. It was several days before it was generally known. Vincent is a son of Judge and Mrs. V. V. Hart and is a very popular and promising young man, while the bride is a very charming and attractive young lady. She is a sister of Mrs. Margaret Taylor of the Bonnet Shop. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fitz reside at Timson, Texas.

The newly weds will make their home here.

Mrs. Duncan and son Clarence, visited Ed Duncan and family, in Brown county first of week.

Chairman Green's Program Calls for Exemption in The Case of Estates of $100,000 or Less

Washington.—A tax revision plan, under which 3,000,000 persons would be relieved of all Federal income taxes, has been discussed informally with Secretary Mellon by Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat on the House committee which drafts tax legislation.

After the conference, Representative Garner said the Treasury Secretary's plan provided only for the one reduction of surtaxes and inheritance taxes. He made no statement as to how his counter proposal was received at the Treasury.

The Garner plan, which he said had been drafted without consultation with his Democratic colleagues, contemplates a tax reduction of from $450,000,000 to $500,000,000 or approximately twice the total which the Treasury is expected to recommend when the tax hearings get under way before the Ways and Means Committee.

The whole Garner program is predicated upon retirement of the national debt in sixty years instead of twenty-five, as proposed by Secretary Mellon. Mr. Garner said he favored the longer period because debtor nations would be given that length of time in which to pay off their obligations to the United States, which represent more than half of the total of this Nation's indebtedness.

The relieving of 3,000,000 taxpayers from all taxes would be brought about under the Garner proposal by increasing the exemption to $5,000 in the case of married persons and $3,500 in the case of single persons. The cut would not stop there, however. Mr. Garner advocating a reduction of the maximum surtax rate to 25 per cent instead of 20 per cent as the Treasury is expected to propose.

Repeal of all nuisance taxes is also favored by Mr. Garner if this is possible. These taxes, including those on sale of automobiles and accessories, cameras, films and amusements, are declared by the Representative to be consumption or sales taxes, to the principle of which he is unalterably opposed.

He declared himself to be in entire accord with Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee on the inheritance tax proposal, a program which contemplates the payment to the Federal Government only in the event that no State inheritance tax is paid, or if one is paid, then the difference between the amount paid to the State and the total provided for by the Federal law. Chairman Green's program calls for exemption in the case of estate of $100,000 or less.

NO FUNDS TO BURY SHENANDOAH CREW

$150 Is The Maximum Allowed for
Burial of a Member of The Navy
Killed in The Line of Duty.

Lakehurst, N. J.—Bills for funeral expenses of many of the fourteen men who lost their lives in the crash of the navy dirigible Shenandoah have been returned to Lakehurst by the Navy Department with the notation that the Federal department had no funds with which to meet the obligations. No Government funds are available to the air station for this purpose.

Washington.—The Navy Department declared that in returning bills sent to it by families of the victims of the Shenandoah disaster covering funeral expenses that it followed the only course permitted by law.

Under the law and rulings of the Comptroller General navy officials asserted, $150 was the maximum allowed for the burial of a member of the navy killed in line of duty. This, it was declared, was allowed for the Shenandoah victims, but in several cases bills were received from families to cover additional expenses. These have not been honored.

Relatives of the Shenandoah dead were advised that the navy would provide for burial in any national or naval cemetery at Government expense, and in five cases the offer was accepted. Bodies of the nine other victims were transported to the next of kin, at the Government expense, and in each case the cost was $150.

Parole Revoked by Governor
Austin, Texas.—Revocation of a parole granted by Gov. W. P. Hobby in 1921 to Will Randall, under sentence for life for murder in Wharton County, was ordered by Gov. Ferguson. Randall had been paroled to B. E. Moore of Texas City. In revoking the parole the Governor said that the conditions of the parole had not been complied with and that "the applicant's mental condition is such that any further liberation would make it unsafe for the applicant as well as society."

A bronze service medal soon will be available for approximately 9000 men who composed the First and Second brigades, Texas cavalry, organized in 1918, but never federalized because of the signing of the armistice.

Thirteen children, inmates of the state orphan home at Corsicana, and one teacher, all bitten by rabies-infested dog, were brought to the Pasteur institute at Austin Saturday to begin the 21-day treatment.

Gross production taxes of $48,356 on 214,784 tons of sulphur mined in Matagorda county was Saturday paid to Comptroller S. H. Terrell by the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company.

The Citizens State bank of Ranger has been granted authority to do business by the state banking board. The capital stock is $75,000.

A conference of rural Presbyterian churches of Texas is to be held in Dallas January 18 and 19.

Assisting of public school teachers in their old age and in other cases of distress or loss is the purpose of the Teachers Aid Society of Texas, charter for which was recently granted. Headquarters is at Athens.

A new red snapper fishing ground has been located near the gulf coast off Red Fish bay. No red snapper schools previously had been known closer than about 30 miles off Point Isabel.

Suitable clays for the manufacture of bricks, tiles and pottery are found all over the state in ample abundance and some kaolins, porcelain clays are also known. The value of the clay products of the state for 1924 amounted to $5,000,000.

George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture, has gone to the Rio Grande Valley to reorganize the force of inspectors in charge of citrus canker inspection work since state funds were cut off by veto and the counties have raised money for this work.

One and one-fifth fare for the round trip has been granted to the annual convention of the Texas State Teachers Association. This is the lowest railroad rate ever accorded the association. The convention will be held in Dallas, November 26, 27 and 28.

Shipments of lumber originating the Angelina and Neches River railway may be stopped in transit for crossing at Beaumont, Orange and Houston, with like shipments on the Texas Southeastern stopping at Houston, the commission has just ordered.

The Texas Midland railway was eliminated from the carriers authorized to give a 50 per cent reduction in freight rates on feedstuff in the drought area of Texas, by the railroad commission on application of the International-Great Northern.

A deposit of rock asphalt discovered while drilling for oil six miles south of San Antonio on the Somersett road will be developed and put on the market, possibly within the near future, according to Claude McCauley, owner of the farm on which the deposit has been found.

Contracts were signed last week between the state highway commission and Travis county for $291,000, for work of completing the Austin-Manor-Houston highway to the Travis county line. The county supplies $97,000 of the funds out of its bond issue, and state and federal funds make up the balance.

Magnetic iron ores are found in Llano County in deposits of some magnitude. The quality is good, but the size of the deposits is unknown, but the deposits of limonite ores in Eastern and Central Texas constitute the iron deposits worthy of exploitation. These deposits, carrying from 40 to 50 per cent of metallic iron, occurring in beds of from two to five feet in thickness, have already excited the attention of prospectors. They resemble the iron deposits of the famous Ruhr region and are close to extensive deposits of bituminous and brown coals.

Three kinds of coal are found in Texas—bituminous, lignite and brown coal. The bituminous and lignite fields are worked for local consumption mainly and very little is shipped outside of the state, while much coal is brought into the state. Present production amounts to about 300,000 tons of bituminous coal and more than a million tons of lignite. Bituminous coals occur in northeastern and southwestern counties and the beds run from three feet to more than fifteen feet in thickness.

A sale of 350,000 pounds of mohair at 62 and 77 cents per pound was announced in San Antonio last week, this price breaking all Texas records this year. With returns in from all the big Texas mohair producing points, sales this year are shown to have averaged about 57 to 70 cents. The market is now climbing to higher levels, according to commission men. Kerville sold more than 1,000,000 pounds this year at prices not announced, but said to be generally in line with prevailing quotations of from 58 to 70 cents.

A Bird-Cage Pedestal

Little Fellow had been quite ill. For many days he hadn't been interested in much of anything. Toys, picture books, games, all palled upon him, and life seemed very dull and unendurable to him during the weeks of convalescence until Aunt Marjorie brought him a bird—a merry, bubbling, hopping songster who became the idol of Little Fellow's heart. During the morning, while Little Fellow lay in bed, the bird hung in his bedroom window, but in the afternoon when Little Fellow was tucked up in a big wingchair in the living room, the cage was moved in there, too. It was then mother noticed that Little Fellow's eyes seemed to blink, and she realized it was because they were so steadily fixed on the bird cage outlined against the strong light of the windows. The bird cage was hung away from the window—and then the bird stopped singing so constantly.

The entire family consulted and tried different positions and schemes for hanging the cage. But that night, when Little Fellow's father came home he brought a great high package, which turned out to be a tall pedestal, with a fixture on top for holding the base of the cage. These were made, he said, by the same firm that designed the electric fan pedestals.

So Little Fellow's chair was turned with its back to the window and right in front of him, full in the sunshine, was the pedestal with the bird cage on top. It could be moved anywhere about the house or placed in any position without having to have a hook from which to hang the cage. It could be near the window and yet Little Fellow's eyes could be spared.

In addition, the pedestal was a beautiful thing. Its ivory-white standard matched his ivory-white bed and little bureau, and there was soft, pretty color here and there on it—blue and rose and violet. Little Fellow was entranced, and apparently the bird sang until its tiny

A Canopy for the Four-Poster

In Willa Cather's book, "My Antonia," there is a description of the rough pioneer shack of two bachelor brothers, living alone. It was all very crude but somehow it was cheerful, and the bed was covered with sheets and pillows of blue gingham. Not a bad idea for any bed, I thought to myself as I read it. And not long afterward, I saw the most charming blue gingham treatment of an old four-poster bed.

The four-poster in question had a curved canopy over it which the owner told me had been made for her by a local carpenter. A simple framework of light wood, bent to the necessary shape, was stretched from head to foot down each side and made firm by two straight pieces across the top and foot of the bed. Over this canopy was stretched very smoothly a piece of plain-blue gingham brought over the edge of the framework and tacked invisibly. Fastened to the edge was a full valance of bright chintz flowers on a black ground, blue predominating in the pattern, which showed also some yellow, lavender, a touch of rose and some rich spots of green.

A full flounce of the flowered chintz falling to the floor, was sewed to a lining cover, and over this was a coverlet of the plain-blue gingham, scalloped and seamed with black. At the head of the bed a straight curtain of blue gingham hung, and draped at each of the head-posts was a drapey of the chintz.

The blue gingham was used in other places about the room as well. The curtains at the casement windows were made of it, dresser covers, wicker chair cushions and a pad for the chaise longue were also fashioned of it, combined with cushions of the chintz. It was not expensive blue gingham either, the owner told me, and it washed as satisfactorily as a child's frock. Simple materials often make a fresher looking, more inviting room than the more ornate silks, satins, and similar de luxe fabrics. (Copyright.)

Cardinal Virtues

Industry and honesty should go hand in hand that the laborer be worthy of his hire. Both are virtues and properly cultivated give strength to mind and body and peace to the soul, creating a nobility of manhood compared to which all else is dress.—Grit.

The Weak Point

The part of a motor car that causes more accidents than any other is the nut that holds the steering wheel.—Linville (Ala.) Headlight.

The Kitchen Cabinet

O, beware, my lord, of jealousy; It a green-eyed monster, which doth make the meat it feeds on.—Shakespeare.

SOMETHING ABOUT SAUCE

A French sauce is a thing of supreme moment; the fish or meat with which it is served makes a dish of surpassing delicacy. No chef who smokes or indulges in alcoholic drinks can ever attain a high position as chef, for one must keep a sensitive sense of taste. There are few who equal the French in the making of sauces. The preparation of sauces is an art and the science of flavor combination is only discovered by the cook who has a proper respect for the importance of good cooking. A simple sauce is often like a simple gown—most expensive. It takes time to collect ingredients, blend and prepare a sauce.

A sauce is a fluid, thick or thin, flavored or seasoned in various ways with all sorts of herbs, aromatics and extracts. The thickening usually consists of starch in some form, either flour, cornstarch, arrow root, prepared as a roux, which may be cooked in butter. For a brown roux the flour is browned. Egg yolks are used for thickening.

The liquid for sauce may be stock, milk, cream or butter; or, in cold sauce, oil. The vegetable flavors are onions, leeks, garlic, peppers, green, red and hot; carrots, turnip, celery and mushrooms. Zest is often added from the grated rind of oranges or lemons.

The herbs and aromatics commonly used are thyme, marjoram, bay leaves, parsley, mint and chervil. The bones for stock are preferably veal bones, crushed and roasted. Fish bones and heads are used for stock for fish sauces.

The basic sauce prepared with flour or starch, buttermilk or stock is called the white sauce. The brown sauce is prepared by browning the flour. There are various preparations which are an aid in seasoning and also add color—kitchen bouquet, worcestershire, and tabasco, choy sauces and various powders such as chili and curry are commonly found in most cuisines.

Tomato sauce is one of the most used vegetable sauces. It is prepared much like sloup. In these days of elimination a few cans of clear and cream tomato soup will be an addition to any supply shelf. One may add various seasonings to give variety and by simply heating the sauce it will be ready to serve.

The object of all sauces is to serve a savory fluid which will enhance the appearance and savor of the dish with which it is to be eaten.

Everyday Good Things.

A nice pudding, which may be quickly prepared if one has any cake, is: Bordeaux Pudding.—Cut sponge cake into layers, spread with jam, put together again and cover with sweetened whipped cream; flavor to taste and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

A delicious sauce to serve with fish is prepared as follows:

Lemon Catsup.—Mix a tablespoonful of grated horseradish with the grated rind of four lemons, add three scant teaspoonfuls of salt, the juice of the lemons, three dessertspoonfuls of white mustard, and celery seed, four cloves and a few dashes of cayenne pepper. Boil thirty-five minutes and bottle.

Beef Goulash.—Take two pounds of lean beef cut into two-inch squares, three large onions sliced, two tablespoonfuls of fat, one cupful of chopped cabbage, eight small potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one cupful of boiling water and one-half cupful of milk. Brown the meat in the fat, remove and add the vegetables, fry for five minutes, then add the water and seasoning with the meat. The potatoes are better added after the cabbage, as they require less time for cooking. When all are tender add the milk.

Potato Soup.—Cook and mash three good-sized potatoes. To a quart of milk (skim milk may be used) add a slice of onion and a stalk of celery; scald and remove the vegetables and pour over the mashed potato. In a saucepan put two tablespoonfuls of butter—four if skimmed milk is used—and two tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, and cook until well blended; add to the soup and when smooth serve with toasted crackers.

Chestnut Cakes.—Cook a pound of chestnuts fifteen minutes, shell and skin them, then cook in boiling water until tender. Rub through a sieve and to every cupful of chestnut puree add one egg yolk; season with salt and pepper, dip into egg and fry in butter. Serve with broiled steak.

With a cupful of nice-flavored grated cheese and a half cupful of hot cream, one may have a jar of good cream cheese. Heat the cream, stir in the cheese and when melted pour into jars.

WRIGLEYS
AFTER EVERY MEAL
THE FLAVOR LASTS
Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEYS is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good. Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

After all, man is improving. As a rule, he doesn't swear very much when he is tinkering up the family automobile.

Why isn't it whipped cream when the cat gets through licking it?

CATARRH NEGLECTED CAUSES DEAFNESS

Read How You May Get Rid of It by a Safe Reliable Way.

If you have catarrh you are in danger of losing your hearing; the first symptoms of catarrhal deafness are roaring or buzzing sensations and a stopped-up feeling in the ears. A neglected cold, or an uncurled cold, leads to catarrh, and as everybody knows catarrh affects the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs and frequently undermines the general health.

The secret of the successful medication of these hidden parts was discovered by Dr. Blosser in his medical practice. This remedy is applied by smoking a certain combination of medical herbs (containing no tobacco) in a pipe or cigarette. Dr. Blosser's Remedy produces a dense smoke vapour which is inhaled or forced into the Eustachian tubes leading to the middle ear. It penetrates to parts impossible to reach with balms, salves, sprays, douches, pills, tablets, liquids and so-called "constitutional treatments." This Remedy is absolutely harmless and is being used successfully by men, women and children.

If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, nasal deafness, or if subject to frequent colds, you should try Dr. Blosser's Remedy which may be had at any drug store; or if you desire proof of its beneficial and pleasant effect, send ten cents (coin or stamps) to The Blosser Co., 72 G. H. Atlanta, Ga., for a trial package.

The BLACK GANG

A Sequel to Bulldog Drummond.

BY CYRIL MCNEILE SAPPER
W.N.U. Service

CHAPTER XII—Continued

But not for long. Starting from his waist and spreading downwards to his feet and outwards through his shoulders to his hands there slowly began to creep the most agonizing cramp. The torture was indescribable, and the sweat dripped off his forehead into his eyes. And gradually it dawned on him that the effects of the poison were wearing off. Sensation was returning to his limbs; even through his agony he could feel that he was resting against something under the water. Then he heard a strange noise, and realized that it was he himself groaning with the pain. The use of his voice had come back. He spoke a sentence aloud, and made certain.

And then Drummond deliberately decided on doing one of those things which Peterson had always failed to legislate for in the past. Ninety-nine men out of a hundred would have shouted themselves hoarse under such circumstances; not so Drummond. Had he done so a message would have reached Peterson in just so long as it took a trunk call to get through; the man called Franz was still assiduously helping the gatekeeper on the bridge. And the Reverend Theodosius Longmoor and his little Janet would have vanished into the night, leaving no traces behind them.

Which all flashed through Drummond's mind, as the cramp took and racked him, and the impulse to shout grew stronger and stronger. But a more powerful force was at work within him than mere pain—a cold, bitter resolve to get even with Carl Peterson. And it required no great effort of brain to see that that would be more easily done if Peterson believed he had succeeded. Moreover if he shouted there would be questions asked. The police would inevitably come into the matter, demanding to know why he adopted such peculiar forms of amusement as going into twenty feet of water in a perfectly good motor car. And all that would mean delay, which was the last thing he wanted. He felt tolerably certain, that, for all his apparent confidence, Peterson was not going to stop one minute longer in the country than was absolutely necessary.

So he stayed where he was, in silence—and gradually the cramp passed away. He could turn his head now, and with eyes that had grown accustomed to the darkness he saw what had happened. On each side of him the river flowed past smoothly, and he realized that by a wonderful stroke of luck he had struck a small shoal. Had he missed it—had he floated by on either side—well, Peterson's plan would have succeeded.

"Following the extraordinary motor accident reported in our previous issue, we are now informed that the body of the unfortunate driver has been discovered some three miles from the scene of the tragedy. He was drowned, and had evidently been dead some hours."

Drummond smiled grimly to himself as he imagined the paragraphs in the papers. His nerves were far too hardened to let his narrow escape worry him for an instant, and he felt an unholy satisfaction in thinking of Peterson searching the early specials and the late extras for that little item of news.

"I'd hate you to be disappointed, my friend," he muttered to himself, "but you'll have to be content with the coat and hat. The body has doubtless drifted farther on and will be recovered later."

He took off his hat, and let it drift away; he unbuttoned his overcoat and sent it after the hat. Then letting himself down into the deep water, he swam noiselessly toward the bank.

A little to his surprise he found that his legs and arms felt perfectly normal—a trifle stiff perhaps, but beyond that the effects of the poison seemed to have worn off completely. Beyond being very wet he appeared to have suffered no evil results at all, and after he'd done "kneep up" on the bank for five minutes to restore his circulation he sat down to consider his plan of action.

First, Phyllis at Maybrick hall. He must get at her somehow, and, even if he couldn't get her away, he must let her know that she would be all right. After that things must look after themselves; everything would depend on circumstances. Always provided that those circumstances led to the one great goal—Peterson. Once Phyllis was safe, everything was subservient to that.

A church clock near by began to toll the hour, and Drummond counted the strokes. Eleven o'clock—not two hours since he had gone over the hours of darkness, and he wanted darkness for his explorations at Maybrick hall. And it suddenly dawned on him that he hadn't the faintest idea where the house was.

It might have deterred some men; it merely made Drummond laugh. If he didn't know, he'd find out—even if it became necessary to pull someone out of bed and ask. The first thing to do was to get back to the spot where the car had halted, and to do that he must go across country. Activity was diminishing on the bridge, but he could still see lanterns dancing about, and the sudden appearance of a very wet man might lead to awkward questions. So he struck off in the direction he judged to be right—moving with that strange, cat-like silence which was a never-ceasing source of wonderment even to those who knew him best.

No man ever heard Drummond coming, and very few ever saw him until it was too late, if he didn't intend that they should. And now, in utterly unknown country, with he knew not how many undesirable gentlemen about, he was taking no risks. Mercifully for him it was a dark night—just such a night in fact as he would have chosen, and as he passed like a huge shadow from tree to tree, only to vanish silently behind a hedge, and reappear two hundred yards farther on, he began to feel that life was good. The joy of action was in his veins; he was going to get his hands on somebody soon, preferably the Italian or the man who called himself Franz. For Bill he had a sneaking regard; Bill at any rate could appreciate a good car when he saw one. The only trouble was that he was unarmed, and an unarmed man can't afford to stop and admire the view in a mix up. Not that the point deterred him for a moment, it only made him doubly cautious. He must see without being seen; he must act without being heard. Afterwards would be a different matter.

Suddenly he stiffened and crouched motionless behind a bush. He had heard voices and the sound of footsteps crunching on the gravel.

"No good waiting any more," said a man whom he recognized as Franz. "He's dead for a certainty, and they can't pull him out till tomorrow. Couldn't have gone better. He swayed right over just as the car took the gates, and the bridgekeeper saw it. Think he fainted—"

Their voices died away in the distance, and Drummond came out from behind the bush. He stepped forward cautiously and found himself confronted with a high wire fence. Through it he could see a road along which the two men must have been walking. And then through a gap in the trees he saw a light in the window of a house. So his first difficulty was solved. The man called Franz and his companion could have but one destination in all probability—Maybrick hall. And that must be the house he could see through the trees, while the road on the other side of the fence was the drive leading up to it.

He gave them half a minute or so; then he climbed through the fence. It was a fence with horizontal strands of thick wire, about a foot apart, and the top strand was two feet above Drummond's head. An expensive fence, he reflected; an unusual fence to put round any property of such a sort. An admirable fence for cattle in a corral because of its strength, but and it was perfectly simple to climb through. And because Drummond had been trained in the school which notices details, even apparently trivial ones, he stood for a moment or two staring at the fence, after he had clambered through. It was the expense of the thing more than anything else that puzzled him. It was new—that was obvious, and after a while, he proceeded to walk along it for a short way. And another peculiar thing struck him when he came to the first upright. It was an iron T-shaped post, and each strand of wire passed through a hole in the bottom part of the T. A perfectly simple and sound arrangement, and, but for one little point, just the type of upright one would have expected to find in such a fence. Round every hole was a small white collar, through which each strand of wire passed, so that the wires rested on the collars, and not on the holes in the iron upright. Truly a most remarkable fence, he reflected again—in fact, a thoroughly eccentric fence. But he got no farther than that in his thoughts; the knowledge which would have supplied him with the one clue necessary to account for that fence's eccentricity of appearance was not his. The facts he could notice; the reason for the facts was beyond him. And after a further examination he shrugged his shoulders and gave it up. There were bigger things ahead of him than a mere question of fencing, and, keeping in the shadow of the shrubs which fringed each side of the drive, he crept silently toward the house.

It was a low, rambling type of building covered as far as he could see with ivy and creepers. There were only two stories, and Hugh nodded his satisfaction. It made things simpler when outside work was more than likely. For a long time he stood carefully surveying every possible line of approach and flight, and it was while he was balancing up chances that he gradually became aware of a peculiar noise proceeding from the house. It sounded like the very faint hum of an airplane in the far distance, except that every two or three seconds there came a slight thud. It was quite regular, and during the four or five minutes whilst he stood there listening there was no variation in the monotonous rhythm. Thud: thud: thud—faint, but very distinct; and all the time the gentle whirring of some smooth-running, powerful engine.

The house was in darkness save for one room on the ground floor, from which the light was streaming. It was empty, and appeared to be an ordinary sitting-room. And, as a last resort, Hugh decided he would go in that way, if outside methods failed. But to start with he had no intention of entering the house; it struck him that the odds against him were unnecessarily large.

He retreated still farther into the shadow, and then quite clear and distinct the hoot of an owl was heard in the silent garden. He knew that Phyllis would recognize the call if she heard it; he knew that she would give him some sign if she could. And so he stood and waited, eagerly watching the house for any sign of movement. But none came, and after a pause of half a minute he hooted again. Of course it was possible that she was in a room facing the other way, and he had already planned his line of advance round to the back of the house. And then, just as he was preparing to skirt round and investigate he saw the curtains of one of the upper rooms shake and open slightly. Very faintly he repeated the call, and to his joy he saw a head poked through between them. But he was taking no chances, and it was impossible to tell to whom the head belonged. It might be Phyllis, and on the other hand it might not. So once again he repeated the call, barely above his breath, and then he waited for some answer.

It came almost at once; his own name called very gently, and he hesitated no more. He was across the lawn in a flash and standing under her window, and once again he heard her voice tense with anxiety.

"Is that you, Hugh?"
"Yes, darling, it's me right enough," he whispered back. "But there's no time to talk now. I want you to jump onto the flower-bed. It's soft landing, and it won't hurt you."

"But I can't, old man," she said, with a little catch in her breath. "They've got me lashed up with a steel chain."

"All right, kid; if you can't come to me, I must come to you. We'll soon deal with that chain."

He glanced into the room underneath hers and saw that it looked like a drawing-room. The windows seemed easy to force if necessary, but he decided first of all to try the ivy outside. But it was useless for a man of his weight. Just at the bottom it supported him, but as soon as he started to climb it gave way at once. Twice he got up about six feet, twice he fell back again as the ivy broke away from the wall. And after the second attempt he looked up at the anxious face of his wife above.

Spooks and Goblins To Visit Cross Plains

Are you afraid of goblins, spooks, witches etc? Does your hair stand on end when you pass the graveyard at midnight? Would you like to have the deep mystery surrounding these fictitious personages cleared up? If you would, then don't fail to be at the school house Friday night, October 30. For the teachers and students are planning to present, for your entertainment, one of the most gigantic aggregations of denizens of the nether regions that has ever been congregated under one roof since the days of the tragedy of Macbeth.

As a matter of fact the spooks and goblins, and headless demons who gave chase to Ichabod Crane, as he was rode alone through the dreary stillness of Sleepy Hollow, were tame law abiding, church going spooks, compared to the troupe of hairraising, electrified spooks that will entertain the guests of the school on this occasion.

In fact all of the spooks, goblins and witches that have existed throughout the ages of the past will be there, and will go through their entire repertoire of blood curdling acts for your pleasure or displeasure. Promptly at 8:00, with one grand swoop through the building on her broomstick, the masterwitch will transport you to witchland, where for the rest of the evening you will be entertained as you never were entertained before.

It matters not whether you are young or old, married or single, sane or insane, this party is for you. If you miss it you will miss the greatest entertainment of the season. So make your plans now to be on hand, at the school house, Friday, October 30, at 8:00 p. m.
