The Review is an independent Democratic newspaper, supporting what it believes to be right and opposing what it believes to be wrong regardless of party politics, publishing the news fairly and impartially at all times.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, will gladly be corrected if brought to the attention of the editor personally at the office, Eighth Street, Cross Plains, Texas.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, many of our citizens seem to be either ignorant or of an ordinariness regulating traffic and parking at the time of a fire, or they seem to wholly disregard all knowledge of right and wrong—conduct with respect to when, where or how they park or travel, and whereas, it is noticeable that cars and trucks are being parked too close to or even in front of fire plugs; and on some occasions the entrance to the fire station is so blocked that the truck could not be readily accessible. Cars and trucks are being parked on the wrong side of the street which is very dangerous in case of excitement at the time of a fire; cars and trucks are being parked in alleys, which should at all times be open so that the fire truck fully equipped and manned could get through quickly without danger to such equipment and men, and whereas numbers of so-called Fire-Fans are continually impeding and hindering the progress of the Fire Truck and its members both in preceding the truck at too close a distance or in following so close as to be dangerous; and upon arrival at the scene of the fire it is not uncommon for all streets and alleys to be found completely blocked so that the truck cannot be readily removed should there be a call to another fire. It is a strict violation of law to drive over a fire hose and yet unless some of our best citizens are watched they violate this ordinance.

Therefore, BE IT RESOLVED: That there should be widespread notice given by our City that all our citizens may know that they must not park wrongly or in forbidden spots or alleys and especially so near a fire plug as to hinder the fire truck or the firemen in the discharge of their duties; that no car, truck or pedestrian should precede the fire truck to the scene of a fire unless it can take some different route and keep well out of the way; that no pedestrian, car, truck or other vehicle should follow the fire truck at a distance of less than 200 feet and upon arriving at the scene of a fire no pedestrian, car, truck or other vehicle should be parked in any street or alley within 200 feet of the fire and even back where such pedestrian, cars, trucks and other vehicles are parked they should not be parked in the passageway of such streets and alleys but all such streets and alleys should be kept open and ready for quick action of the fire truck, ambulance or other conveyances commanded by the City Authorities or the Fire Department.

In cities it is very noticeable that when the fire alarm sounds every vehicle is immediately parked and pedestrians keep out of the streets and it is also very noticeable that few if any attempt to attend fires or follow the fire truck or make any effort to assist in any way unless commanded to do so by someone in Authority.

It is very noticeable that the majority of those who attend our fires are not needed and not wanted and usually prove to be a hindrance and should be kept back 200 feet from the fire. It is thought that this matter can be so publicized and brought to the attention of our citizenship as that they will hereafter act more wisely than they have been acting and doing and thereby lessen danger and cease to be hindrance to the progress of our fire truck and the firemen in their duty, and unless such educational scheme can be manipulated by the City Authorities it is our belief as a last resort that an ordinance should be passed and adopted whereby reasonable fines should be imposed on all violators that such conduct as outlined above may be stamped out.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN CLYDE L. GARRETT

FREE TRADE AMONG STATES:
The fact is being gradually recognized by many that the trade among the 48 States of this country is not as free as it should be. Little attention has been paid to protests that have arisen against barriers to interstate trading, but now such barriers are injuring business and even threatening national unity and so something is to be done about it. The first move was made when the Council of State Governments provided a forum in Chicago recently for discussion of the subject. Unless some way is found to have the States agree on more nearly uniform regulations and tax laws which interstate trading is affected, it is feared that a struggle by States to protect their individual commercial interests will take place.

ECONOMY:
Although talk of economy has held the spotlight recently this phase was pushed aside last week when Southern and Western Senators agreed tentatively to work for an additional $400,000,000 to swell the income of crop growers and subsidize both domestic consumption and the export of corn surpluses. The Senate was willing to support the House in reducing the deficiency work relief appropriation from $110,000,000 to $100,000,000 but was unwilling to economize at the expense of the farmers.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION:
A 2,600 pound meteorite, probably a fragment of one of the largest shooting stars which have struck the earth, has just been added to the meteorite collection of the Smithsonian Institution. This specimen was found in 1903 near the town of Pearceville not far from Melbourne, Australia—the general area of the Cranbourne meteorite which was discovered in 1854. The largest piece of the Cranbourne meteorite, weighing over three tons, is now in the British Museum; the second largest piece, one and one-half tons, is in the Melbourne Museum. It is not definitely known yet whether this large mass just received at the U. S. National Museum is an individual of the Cranbourne fall, but it will probably prove to be so.

POULTRY & EGGS:
A larger production of eggs this spring than last and more poultry going to market during the remainder of 1929 than during the same months of 1928, are expected. Feed continues plentiful and relatively low in price, and farm poultry flocks in early March were about 5% larger than a year earlier. Reported egg production per

THE BOOK SHELF

by
Lexie Dean Robertson

"On this book shelf always for anything except a book!"

Riches

If man has a roof and food, he should feel that life is good. If in his labor he finds fun, count that another blessing won. If welcome waits within his door, a kingdom cannot offer more.

One of the best selling books of 1938 is Agness Sligh Turnbull's "Remember the End" which is the story of a man who did not pause to think of the true meaning of life. Alex McTay young Scotch immigrant planned to be a millionaire at the age of thirty. But when he had amassed a fortune, he continued to expand his material interests forgetting that real values cannot be counted in terms of dollars. It is a novel well worth reading.

Now that strawberry season is at hand Cousin Fanny thinks you may like to know how she makes strawberry mousse. It is a simple and easy dessert and as delicious to eat as it is lovely to look at. Two cups of cream whipped not too stiff; fold in two cups of strawberries that have been run through a sieve and add sugar to taste—one or more cups. Place in freezing tray and allow to freeze without stirring until firm.

And for goodness' sake, if you are serving strawberry shortcake, don't use sponge cake for the layers. The only shortcake mixture worthy of the name is the old-fashioned kind made with rich biscuit dough. There are lots of fancy tricks with that—such as sprinkling sugar and peans on top before baking!

Maybe I ought to be writing a cook book instead of The Book Shelf for I can think of a hundred good things to eat this minute. Excuse me while I raid the ice box!

This year the flower garden has had to get along without my well-meant attentions, and I must confess that it seems to flourish better without me. The little seeds are popping out of the ground in a way that astounds me. Nobody sifted the soil either! The roses are heavy with luscious buds, the wrens are busy keeping their quaint houses, the water lilies are holding fragrant cups to catch the sun. Wonder where I left my tackle box last fall. Who broke the tip on my favorite fishing rod?

They had been married a long time, but she was still given to worry during his absences, so when he promised to return from the ranch before dark and the clock struck midnight with him still absent, she was frantic with fear. That new horse was a brute; she pictured him lying helpless in the lonely pasture, perhaps already dragged to death by the unruly beast. Dressing frantically she hurried to the home of their best friends and urged the young man of the house to go with her in search of the poor injured husband. As the car turned a curve on the mountain road they came face to face with the horseman jogging wearily along. In her relief the wife began to sob and to tell him now worried she had been. But the husband countered with "Worry! I'm the one to be worried, finding you and Joe away out here on this mountain this time of night!"

When Mr. Babitzer's girl friend laid her new purchase on the bed her mother thought it was a handkerchief, until she put it on and started to the bathing bench.

Jack Scott, Cross Plains Review editor was guest speaker to the reporters. He stressed promptness and accuracy as characteristics of any good reporter. Each reporter present benefited by the suggestions offered by Mr. Scott and each of them expressed that they believed they'd do better reporting in the future. Miss Eliza Gilliland was a guest and suggested that reporters express their individuality in the reports so many would not be exactly alike.

An open house discussion of parliamentary law was discussed from 1:30-2:30 in an open house session.

Mr. and Mrs. George Neel and Family Spent Sunday Visiting Friends and Relatives in Comanche

Mrs. Jack Duncan and Mrs. S. E. Gwaley have returned to their homes in Cisco after a few days visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Graves.

CARD OF THANKS

We are sending a card of thanks to the Gumm Missionary Baptist church and friends, the Hadnett Grove Missionary Baptist church and friends, the Union Missionary Baptist church and friends, and to our home churches and friends of Cross Plains for the many gifts sent to us in replacing the loss we had in a fire a few days ago. We can not express our thanks to every one, but may God bless you is our prayer.
