457 REGISTER FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

Home Town Gossip

"Smitty" Smith, editor of the Standard, the past week had a look at the coaching situation in football for district S-A for the new season. He listed Beams as being back at Cross Plains, evidently not having learned that Beams is taking a fling at Stratford with Uncle Sam and that Socrates Walker, a Cross Plains boy, and former Daniel Baker player, is the new mentor here.

There is the way "Smitty" sizes up:

Four new coaches will get their baptism of fire in District S-A before the fall. Three of the new coaches are head coaches, the other is an assistant, although he formerly was head mentor of one of the small schools in the circuit.

District S-A will be composed of the following schools: Ballinger, Bangs, Brady, Coleman, Cross Plains, Mozelle, Rising Star, Santa Anna and Winters. It has the same alignment as last year, with the exception of one team, Rochelle having been placed in District 34-A. Brady's Bulldogs won the district title last year for the second straight time.

The new coaches added to the staff in this district are: Morris Polk, Bangs; T. M. McDonald, Santa Anna; R. V. Hardegree, Winters; and Nathan W. Taylor, assistant at Coleman. The latter has hardly been counted a new coach in the district, however, since he coached for several years at Bangs before being named superintendent of the school, a position he held for the past few years until transferring to Coleman for the coming year.

Mr. Polk hails from Brownwood. He is a 1937 graduate of Howard Payne College, and made an outstanding record as coach of the Class C Paint Rock Indians the past two years. His grid teams lost only two games out of 20 played during the two campaigns. Mr. Polk succeeds Howard (Bull) Harris, Bangs coach the past three years, who has been named coach and physical education instructor at Lytle High School, near San Antonio.

Mr. Hardegree, principal of the ward school at Winters, will be the head coach this fall of the Bulldogs, for whom he once starred at a wing position. Following his graduation from high school there, he attended Abilene Christian College where he also lettered in football. The new mentor succeeds Amos Johnson, who accepted the head coach's position in Junction High School. Monroe McCarty will continue as assistant coach of the Winters Bulldogs.

The other new mentor is T. M. McDonald of Santa Anna, who will assume his duties as tutor of the Mountaineers on September 1st. Mr. McDonald, who comes highly recommended as a teacher of fundamentals of football, will be greeted by excellent prospects, nine lettermen to form the nucleus of a good team. Mr. McDonald succeeds John Lingo, who was coach at Santa Anna the past few seasons.

Back in harness again this fall will be Russ Holland and Lewis J. Kauffman of Brady; Felton (Poch) Wright, the oldest coach in point of service in the district; and Buck Gibbs of Ballinger; E. P. Shelton at Coleman; "Benny" Morris, Cross Plains; Polly Wise, Mozelle, and Boren Post (Bodie) Hunter, Rising Star.

The season will open on September 15, when most of the teams will play their first conference games. Brady's will be with the Bangs Dragons. The following week the Bulldogs will meet their old rivals from District 34-A, the San Saba Armadillos, in a non-conference game here.

The consensus of opinion among coaches and football fans of this section is that Coleman's Bluecats will be the team to defeat for the district S-A championship this fall. Coaches E. P. Shelton and Nathan Taylor will have nine lettermen to answer call for practice on September 1st, with a number of outstanding squadmen to bolster the club. The Bluecats last year were plenty rough on the opposition, and will have an advantage this season in playing two of

Review Launches Subscription Campaign

PRICE IS REDUCED 33 PERCENT DURING THE ANNUAL DRIVE

This week the Review is inaugurating its annual bargain days, subscriptions will be reduced this week 33 and one third percent, to encourage renewals during the Autumn.

Price for the paper in the Cross Plains trade territory is normally $1.50, but during the bargain day offer it will be $1.00. Outside the Cross Plains trade territory where the price is usually $2.00 per year the price during this limited time offer will be $1.50.

Any rural correspondent or member of the Review staff is authorized to accept new subscriptions or renewals upon this basis. The offer will be continued until it is deemed that all subscribers have had sufficient time to renew their subscriptions for another year.

Most subscriptions to the Review, as well as to most all other newspapers, expire in the Fall. Increased cost of materials in recent years has made it impossible to continue sending the paper to delinquent subscribers. The Review, therefore, urges that no reader permit the bargain days offer to expire without having taken advantage of this big saving.

Within the near future cards will be mailed to all subscribers informing the status of their subscription. In the meantime, however, your prompt renewal will be appreciated.

Mrs. C. C. Westerman, 89, died at her home in the East part of town about 2:15 Wednesday morning of injuries sustained in a fall more than three months ago. Her condition had been critical for days. Her husband and all of the eight children were at the bedside when she died.

Funeral services were to be conducted from the Cross Plains Methodist church Thursday afternoon at three thirty, with Rev. Floyd W. Thrash, pastor, officiating. Interment was to be made in the family plot of the local cemetery.

Coach Socrates Walker Sends His 32 Grid Aspirants Through Drills On Fundamentals

With their opening game yet three weeks in the future, Cross Plains high school Buffaloes were being schooled this week in fundamentals of the game. Coach Socrates Walker has been emphasizing the necessity of well executed blocks and tackles.

Light scrimmage was the order of the day Wednesday afternoon with virtually every one of the 32 athletes who have reported for drills receiving a "baptism of fire". No serious injuries have been reported to date, however, big Bill Upton and Benji Pillans were limping under slight leg hurts.

Coach Walker has as yet given no indication of his choice for a starting line-up. Changes have been often and several lads are yet being tried at two or more positions.

Out for practice are: Donald Smith, Leonard Pillans, R. C. Warren, Aubra Sartune, Moon Scott, Ray Smith, Mike Moore, Neil Wolf, Giles Upton, Donnie Ray Kelley, Norman Henson, Vernon Huntington, Leonard Lee, Jim Hutchins, A. D. FIGURES TO SWELL AS OTHERS ENROLL; 8TH GRADE LARGEST

Cross Plains schools opened Monday morning with a slightly larger than first day enrollment. 467 students matriculated and reported for classes Monday morning. Largest class in the entire school this year is the freshman class—eighth grade—which has 55 students.

A vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Elicee Tate two days before school opened, has been filled by shifting Dale McCook to teach grammar school music and penmanship in addition to his duties of instructing high school band.

Enrollment by grades follows:

First grade, 33; teachers Miss Ethel Manning and Mrs. Garrette Fomby; second grade, 42; teachers Mrs. Curran E. Allen and Miss Anna Mae McConathy; third grade, 36; teacher Mrs. J. E. Barrington; fourth grade, 37; fifth grade, 28; sixth grade, 42; seventh grade, 38; fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades are departmentalized and taught by Paul Kelley, Mrs. Orba C. Booth, Miss Antilee Notgrass, W. E. Lusk, Mrs. R. B. McGowan and Dale McCook.

Superintendent Lewis C. Norman pointed out yesterday that these enrollment figures would in all probability be swelled considerably with the matriculation of a number of additional rural students within the next few days.

A crowd far too large to be accommodated in the high school auditorium attended the opening exercises Monday morning. Scores stood in aisles and others unable to find standing room left.

Kent will play first chair flute in the F.F.A. band, the same position he occupies in Cross Plains high school band.

Nation Will Pay Homage To Inventor Of Electricity On October 21, Says Kittrell

The electric industry—among the nation's youngest and most progressive—will join the country at large in paying homage to the inventor of electric light on October 21, according to Horace Kittrell, local manager of the West Texas Utilities, who cited statistics showing the economic importance of the industry after 90 years of existence.

It was on October 21, 1879, that Thomas Alva Edison announced his invention of the electric light bulb. Three years later the first commercial, privately-owned power plant was opened for public service in New York.

"The industry developed to its present stage of efficiency and service at low cost without subsidies from the government," Kittrell recalled. "So many companies went broke trying to improve their service and grant low rates at the same time that the transmission line type of service was evolved whereby several towns might be served from a single large generating plant and thus reduce production costs for all."

"It was discovered that interconnections between these plants gave double assurance of uninterrupted service. If a plant was temporarily disrupted for any unforeseen reason, the electricity from another plant automatically was switched into the lines. Under this plan only a major catastrophe could shut off light and power for any length of time."

"The first transmission line in

Eddie Cantor, on a recent visit in Fort Worth, wisecracked: "I'm not a Democrat or a Republican; in fact, I'm somewhat Socialistic-ly inclined. I believe what's mine is mine, and what's yours I'd like to get half."

Alluding to the traditional rivalry between the two cities, the comedian said, I told Amon Carter I thought I'd run over to Dallas last night and he said he would fix it up and in about half an hour there was a knock on my hotel room door and two men came in, put me in a strait jacket and kept me there all night.

On the subject of "jitterbug," Cantor declared, "I'd rather the boys and girls would be hailing band leaders than hailing band leaders."

Braun Garner runs the picture show in Ranger. He's more colorful than any of the actors he shows on the screen. Broad around the equator, somewhat resonant of voice and given to sweeping gestures, Garner has been nicknamed "Little Caesar" because of the role that the very assertive Edward G. Robinson made famous. Garner's given name was bestowed in honor of the famous "Incognito" who ran a magazine in Waco 40 years ago. Garner has been something of a writer, too as he formerly edited the newspaper at Woodson in Throckmorton county, more than 25 miles from a railroad, yet he "scraped" all the papers in the United States. Remember back in 1927 when there were no wars and depressions all we had to talk about was what Henry's new model car was going to look like? Well, Garner wrote an advance description. It began "The new Ford will come in two styles, open and closed. It will have four wheels, one at each corner," and so on. The article was reprinted by nearly every paper in the country.

Garner has a keen sense of humor and enjoys getting a good joke on a friend. He used to carry on a "feud" with a Ranger cafe proprietor. One day, after ordering half a fried chicken, he mildly asked, "Jimmy, could I see your chickens?" "Certainly," the restaurant owner said and escorted the customer to the ice box. "Oh, they're dressed," Garner said, in a tone of disappointment. "Why?" queried the other, suspiciously. "Well," Garner replied, "I ordered half chicken and got two wings, two necks and two legs, I just wanted to see a whole, live chicken walking around with four wings, four necks and four legs. By the way, how much do I owe you?" "Not a darn thing; get out and don't ever come back."

Garner was back that night for dinner. If you visit Ranger, don't miss Braun Garner. In fact, I doubt if you could, anyway.

Do you love the glorious past of Texas and would you like to have a part in preserving the stories of the pioneers, warriors and statesmen? The Texas State Historical Association is seeking 3,000 new members. Dues are $3 a year and that includes a subscription to the quarterly, ably edited by Dr. Walker Prescott Webb. R. K. Phillips, Weatherford Democrat publisher, has found them to write an interesting booklet on a trip back to his ancestral home in the Old South. Another pamphlet just received is from Buck Taylor of Austin, giving the text of SJR 12 (the sales tax amendment) and a section-by-section analysis. The booklet sells for two-bits and is part of a book Taylor plans to bring out entitled "Did You Say They Tried to Steal Texas? ... And here's a letter from Pierce Brooks, president of the Texas Safety Council, enclosing an honorary membership for this columnist.

The people of Texas still run Texas. The oil shutdown forced the price of oil back up, which means millions of dollars more for workers, business men and the public generally in our state. THE BOOK SHELF
—by—
Lexie Dean Robertson
This book shelf always looks for anything except a book.

Vagabond Book Shelf crosses the great Oakland Bridge into San Francisco in high spirits. Ever had told us San Francisco had a cold, at last somebody had the truth about California! We were wearing fur coats and hats for one for our warm coats were far from sufficient to keep the winds from us as any Texas northerner would be like this the year the natives, except that it doesn't blow in September and October which they think is their nicest months. The city is a city of its long rows of three-story houses, with windows sticking out and straight down again. There are high buildings here than I, and I have decided I prefer my cities to be vertical. You could see a lot of San Francisco and it is easier to keep from getting lost.

DOVE SEASON

Some people have the mistaken idea that banks like to say no to prospective borrowers. This is not true, particularly of the CITIZENS STATE. Here you will find that our officers lean forward, not backward, in their consideration of every legitimate loan request. Naturally, as good bankers, their first thought must be for the safety of their depositors' money, but later they are satisfied on that point you will find them highly co-operative in trying to meet your borrowing needs. They like to say yes whenever they can consistently do so.

We rushed out to Treasure Island to see the World's Fair the very first thing. They have built an island which will later be used as a base for Pan American Air Lines and have transformed the island into a city out of fairy land with its tall towers, its scented gardens, its mirror pools and magnificent buildings. As exhibits go, it was just another Texas Centennial plus Casa Manana. Even Sally Rand's Nude Ranch is here . . . when we lost Son we found him just coming out! . . . The lighting effects are all indirect which give a delicately subdued effect that is most delightful with its varied colors. Even the celebrated Elephant and a Jinricksha didn't keep my feet from getting tired, so I invested a nickel in the slot of one of the new machines scattered everywhere that guaranteed to make feet and leg muscles feel like new. The shaking reminds me of a certain reducing machine but if it helped my feet any it lost its effect before I reached the next building.

JFR had a horrifying experience in the men's washroom when he caught a glimpse of two ladies out of the corner of his eye and thought

In Old China town the American enters a foreign country. The windows are full of queer and nauseating animals cooked and other things. Cooked fowls with head feet and eyes; a whole cooked hog hanging in one shop with heart and liver intact . . . weird signs, and curious shops littered with carved wooden Buddhas, brass, jade, and a million other insignificant items. One of the main streets is in a narrow alley where some of the shops are upstairs. It is gaily lighted at night with paper and silk lanterns, some in the forms of birds and animals, and the scent of burning incense does not conceal the true oriental odor that is unmistakably prevailing the atmosphere. In one shop, near the Shrine of the Seven Maidens a queer thing happened while we were there. A tough-looking young white man suddenly plunged head first hat and all, into the Wishing Well which was a sort of fountain where one threw coins and made a wish. A young man with him, roughly pulled him out of the pool, flung his hat at him, and ordered him from the place. We guessed the plunger meant to grab coins from the bottom of the well. The Chinese who viewed the disturbance remained calm and unperturbed.

It was nice in San Francisco to have a birthday card from Mrs. Patsy Pullman Cox of Sidney and I was flattered pink because my birthday hadn't been mentioned since Christmas and she remembered it. Too, she only knew my address from the Vagabond Book Shelf so her letter went first to Gunnison, Colorado, to Las Vegas, New Mexico, to Salt Lake City, and would have reached me exactly on my birthday if I had arrived in S. F. one day sooner!

Also a letter with a delightful invitation that I wish I could accept from Mr. J. C. Smyth (I seem to remember he ought to be called Jake) asking me to attend and speak at the program of the West Texas Press Association at Pecos, August 11. Unfortunately on that exact date I have agreed to be guest of honor and chief speaker at the Writers' Round-Up being held in Salt Lake City. My heart will be back in West Texas but I'll try to make a good impression on Utah! And friend Jake I'm speaking at Snyder in October! Hasten the Day!

Reluctantly we folded our tent, including Son's new Plymouth which now bears a large dent where JFR met a huge Sequoia in the dark . . . and trekked north he had strayed into the wrong compartment. Fortunately before he fainted he discovered they were two Scotchmen dressed in plaid kilts and feathered hats!

We drove around the Embarcadero which is the long street circling the end of the city where the wharfs are. Huge ocean-going liners were docked, strange flags flying, and voices chattering queer foreign sounds. At Fisherman's Wharf the fishing boats come in loaded with sword fish, abalone, and halibut. B. ordered abalone at lunch and liked it till she discovered it came out of those strange shells. The sidewalks are lined with huge vats where crabs, shrimp, and lobster are boiled, and if you like you may walk down the street munching a crab-claw and pausing to look at the array of strange sea foods spread out on every hand.

For days I have been hurrying this bunch, fearing that my engagement at Pullman, Washington on the eighth is going to keep me from reaching Vancouver. But they will STOP TO LOOK! As for me one redwood tree and one huge dahlia looks much like another and after ten such stops I'm willing to give the view the benefit of the doubt. They promised me we would reach Portland tonight, and here we are 200 miles away and nobody even knows the name of the village where we stopped. We have a lovely cottage though with two bedrooms, private bath, and a huge kitchen, all for $2.00. We may stay a week! They say fishing is good here.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the citizens in and around Cross Plains: We should all take interest in our town, our school and our government.

I have no children to send to school but why shouldn't I want the children of my fellowmen to have a good education.

I am not a heavy tax payer but I hope to be some day. I want our town to be clean, moral, upright and a wholesome environment in which to live.

I do not want to dictate to anyone, I am not seeking public office or popularity but I would like to persuade all of you to study about these important matters.

I want to do all the good I can in this world while I live and as little evil as possible.

Yours Respectfully, Isaac N. Bishop

Duties of a Game Warden

Many times in the past I have been asked the question by interested people—What are the duties of a Game Warden?

This is really a big problem because the salt water is really hard to control.

Additional duties set out by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission to its state game wardens are in part listed as follows:

1. Be able to identify all common birds and animals of the state.

2. Know the habits thoroughly and habit of the game and animals of the State.

3. Know court room procedure.

4. Have a clear conception of game management.

5. Identify all fresh water fish and laws pertaining thereto.

Home Town Gossip

perhaps it's home town pride that keeps the belief, but for years we felt that Cross Plains boys and girls who go away to college strip the average student.

supplementing our belief this was the announcement from Texas A & M college, one of the state's largest schools of its kind.

That is true of Durward and as at A & M, is also true of a number of other local boys and girls, they're a mighty fine lot.

Enterprising local shine boys may soon be advertising: "Let me 'black-out' your white shoes for water wearing."

At least a couple of hundred football fans turned out Tuesday night to get an advance peek at Coach Walker's Buffaloes as they returned to the high school gridiron here.
