LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Cross Plains Review, Cross Plains, Texas.

Dear Sir:

Some time back, to be exact, just after the Texas Mayor's Convention, I noticed, according to our local paper, there was going to be introduced during this legislative session at Austin, a bill to take away from the County Commissioners the car license fees of all the town residents, and give same to the different mayors of these towns, to be spent on the city streets. That bill has been before every legislature for the last ten years as far as my knowledge, Cecil A. Letter had a chance to vote for that bill back in '26, but as far there has been enough country boys and men with good common reasoning in the legislature, to defeat it. Legislation like this is typical of government by organizations. It is largely for the organizations as against the people. To my mind this legislation would be exactly on a par with the different states establishing parts of entry on all of the roads coming into their states, and examining every person coming across as if they were criminals. Parts of entry will lose to the people, thousands of dollars worth of business, and millions of dollars worth of goods will, trying to collect five dollars in fees for the government.

The car license is about all money the commissioners have with which to improve the general roads, to buy material with which to keep the WPA workers working, and just as we begin to get a few permanent drainage structures in, here comes a bunch of mayors from twelve towns wanting to take the license fees away from the commissioners. In that event the projects could not be put over and the commissioners could not buy the material from the merchants of the towns. Some of our neighboring towns that were smart would refuse to take that money, as they could buy the material better use our government labor thereby getting our labor and the government money and the good roads and the rest of the business on account of the roads.

Now I like nice city streets but in a small town it would not bring in a dime's worth of business, but the good road out into the country would. I think that it is just a desire of some of the mayors just to get more money to spend here more power.

There is not a citizen in Cross Plains that does not have to drive his car ten miles on a country road to every mile that he makes in town. It is not for the fact that the people in town could go out to the Considerable publicity has been given to a proposed "delinquent tax bill." Past-due taxes amount to a great sum and these should be collected, wherever possible. It is freely granted that the motives of individuals urging the bill are sincere. But the measure should be studied carefully before any decision is reached.

To begin with, it provides that the delinquent tax list shall be "advertised" by tacking one copy at the courthouse door and one copy at some public place in each taxing unit of the county. Then all delinquents whose addresses are known are to be notified by registered letter and, if they do not pay up in 20 days, their homes and farms can be sold at public outcry on the courthouse steps. If the letter never reaches the property-owner or if he is sick or dying still there are no exceptions in the proposed law.

There is to be a new bureau created at Austin, headed by a State Delinquent Tax Supervisor at $6,000 a year—and traveling expenses. There is to be a First Assistant at $4,800 a year—and traveling expenses; and a Second Assistant, also at $4,800 a year—and traveling expenses; and five attorneys, at $3,000 each—and traveling expenses; and 20 district managers at $3,000 each—and traveling expenses. There are also to be five stenographers.

But these are not all. If the State Delinquent Tax Supervisor decides he needs more help, all he has to do is hire more and he is allowed to spend as much as 20 per cent of all the delinquent taxes he collects.

Many believe that this would be the first step in what could lead to a taxation bureau with almost life-and-death authority over the rank and file of the people. And is the State Delinquent Tax Supervisor, with these tremendous powers, to be elected by the people, so he may be held accountable at the ballot box? No; he is to be appointed by two men—one of whom is elected to office by a few thousand votes in one district; the speaker of the house; and the other is the Lieutenant Governor.

"If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip our clothes in a grip.
And start on a long, long hike.

You'll only find what you left behind.
For there's nothing that's really new;
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town.
It isn't the town—it's YOU!

Real towns are not made by one afraid
Lest somebody else get ahead.
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.

And if, while you make your personal stake,
Your neighbor can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see.

IT ISN'T THE TOWN—IT'S YOU!"
(Quoted by Bill Quinn in Van Banner)

After you've parked your car for the night in front of Hotel Llano, an attendant from a nearby garage cleans the windshield, checks the tires and leaves a little note of welcome to Llano. . . .

C. A. (Neal) Pickett, one of the youngest mayors in the United States—(he was elected in Houston by an overwhelming majority)—is the brother-in-law of Judge Ralph Yarbrough of Austin. . . .

Governor O'Daniel enrolled his name in the annals of the buffalo-hunters by killing one a few days ago so that many of the thousands of Texans attending his inauguration might feast on barbecued buffalo. The animal was in a herd belonging to William F. Morgan, noted Kerrville ranchman, who—with his brother, Thomas P. Morgan and John L. Sullivan—owns some of the finest thoroughbred horses in the Southwest, including the famous stallions, Hyzo and Liberty Limited, for which latter $75,000 is reported to have been refused.

A bellboy in a Houston hotel was asked his name and he replied, "Ford." Asked what his first name was, he answered, "Henry." The guest said, "Henry Ford—that's a rather well-known name." The young fellow replied, "Well, it ought to be; I've been bell-hopping here for three years."

Although the patron of a Dallas night spot on New Year's Eve had a whole pint of whiskey when he fell to the floor, he never spilled a drop—he didn't open his mouth!

When a newcomer in Austin asked a former Senator about the prices at a cafe, he answered, "I think they're very unreasonable; I ate breakfast there this morning and got two fried eggs, bacon, toast, jelly, coffee and an overcoat for 30 cents."

Offhand Observations

Things just do happen. Not so long ago a man and his finance, according to the story, were driving along a country road on their way to a certain ministers home.

The road was rough and accidentally they bumped into a strange car. The groom-to-be asked the girl to remain in the car while he got out and talked to the man. He returned in a few minutes to tell the girl that the man they had bumped into was a minister and had promised to perform the marriage rites for them then and there. "What is a dented fender at a time like this, just step into my car and I will marry you," and he did.

It is said that former King Carol of Rumania has become so despondent that he threatens to begin a fast unto death unless he can escape from Spain, where he has been held since being forced to abdicate his throne in favor of his son, Michael. He wants to come to America, but for some reason hasn't been able to obtain a passport.

The talk of aid to Britain is still the popular topic of conversation. All want to aid, but the best means of doing so, is the question. Mr. Kennedy, our ambassador to England, has returned home after going through 288 air raids. He has resigned and some one else will take his place later. Mr. Kennedy has expressed himself on at least two occasions as being in favor of helping England with war materials, as far as we can with safety to ourselves. He is not in favor of sending over materials in our own ships. He also says Britain is able to feed itself this winter.

Colonel Linbergh in his testimony said he is highly in favor of a negotiated peace, if possible, and he thinks it is. Even though it would not be a just one, he said, according to American standards it still is preferable to the continuance of a war which will bring ruin and disaster to Europe. He hopes neither side will win, he said, for a victory for either side would be disastrous for all. Therefore he is in favor of some kind of a negotiated peace.

The story comes from Farmington, New Mexico that a huge rock estimated to weigh some 30,000 tons, known for many years as Threatening Rock, because of a certain sort of quivering sensation. It did fall on January the twenty-second. In its fall it shattered the north wall of Pueblo Bonita, ruins of an Indian town in Northwestern New Mexico.

Threatening Rock has been under observation by U.S. Park Service engineers since it acted up several years ago. Threatening Rock is supposed to have been in a teetering condition for about a thousand years.

From Fact Digest, who give credence to Evening Standard, we have taken this little story:—The respected head of a Cambridge college is accustomed to write out his own sermons in a script that is sometimes illegible even to himself.

He was preaching recently, and in the middle of his sermon he began a sentence, "you, who are frivolous of course," he paused and seemed rather bewildered, then repeated doubtfully, "you who are frivolous of course," then followed another long pause, then his brow cleared. "You, who are followers of Christ"—Then he went on and finished a good sermon.

"I expect you will miss your boy when he returns to college?" Asked a neighbor. "I'll say I will, replied the farmer." I really do not know how I will get along without him. He has got the livestock so they won't move unless he gives them the college yell and I can't remember it."

The month of January, we find, is rather well filled with births of notable men. The first we notice is Millard Filmore, who became the thirteenth president of the United States, next in order was Ethan Allen, a hero of the American Revolution. We remember from our histories that he was the man who surprised and conquered Ticonderoga demanding surrender in the name of the "Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress." The third was Alexander Hamilton who died in a duel with Aaron Burr. Next, John Hancock who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

We find also Daniel Webster who was a great and real statesman, orator, and lawyer. Next, General Robert Edward Lee who was a great general in the Civil war on the Confederate side. William McKinley, became a great President of the U. S., but was assassinated. The last on the list was Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is now serving his third term as President of the United States and is the first man ever to be accorded that honor.

SCIENTISTS IMPROVE ON NATURAL GRASSES

It took 50,000 years of natural selection to produce the drought-resistant buffalo grass, grama grass and big and little bluestems, the nutritious perennials on the Southern Great Plains. These were the grasses which Coronado's advance guard found 300 years ago would not remain crushed after the passage of the Spaniards to set up markers to guide the main body of the expedition following.

R. R. Lancaster, pasture specialist for Texas A. & M. Extension Service, said scientists in the past decade are showing improvements on grasses nature took so long to produce. In its native state, buffalo produces male and female species. Only female plants bear seeds, which will grow only when pollinated by a male plant, he explained.

Scientists have produced bisexual plants and progress has been made toward producing buffalo with upright seed stems, which will greatly aid in harvesting of seed. Obtaining seed, however, is only one phase of the re-vegetation problem, Lancaster said. Getting the grass started and keeping it protected while it gets the start also are problems.

$2,000,000 State Building Asked
 Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe last week advanced a plan for the construction of a $2,000,000 state office building.

Many state departments now rent office space in various parts of Austin and the state's annual rent bill has mounted to almost $100,000. Senator Moffett would submit a constitutional amendment by which electorate might authorize the State Board of Education to purchase not more than $2,000,000 worth of state bonds issued to build a state office building. He has drafted a joint resolution, which, if adopted by the Legislature, would submit the plan to a vote of the people.

26 Mile Pipeline From Oil Pool To Octane Refinery

Plans for a $150,000 pipeline project giving the Novice and Goldsboro fields in northwestern Coleman county their first direct crude outlet were disclosed Saturday.

The pipeline will be built from near Novice to the Hickman-Flores shallow field south of Baird by the Baird Refining company, an airline distance of about 26 miles.

Approximately ten miles of survey work for the line had been completed Saturday, and laying of the four-inch welded pipe was to be started as soon as the surveys are completed, probably within two weeks.

The line will have a capacity of approximately 5,000 barrels of crude daily. The four-inch line will extend northeastward from Novice into Callahan county, and a two-inch feeder line will connect the Goldsboro pool, about five miles northwest of the Novice production.

Operators in the Novice field and the North South Oil company, sole owner of Goldsboro production, have contracted with the Baird Refining company for sale of the entire output of the two Coleman county fields.

The line gives a connection to 22 producing wells in the North Novice pool, eight wells in the South Novice pool and ten in the Goldsboro area, having a total daily allowable output of 1,522 barrels under the current railroad commission production schedule.

The North Novice area, scene of intense drilling activity last summer and early fall, has an allowable of 45 barrels per well, totaling 900 barrels daily. The South Novice, or older area, has a top of 30 barrels daily per well, with total production of 187 barrels.

Goldsboro has ten wells, with top allowables of 39 barrels and a total daily production of 345 barrels. But despite the comparatively large permissible output for the areas, drilling has been at a standstill since last November because of an insufficient market for the crude.

Production in the Goldsboro pool is from 3,800 feet. It is owned entirely by the North South Oil company of Abilene which took the holdings out of receivership a year and a half ago.

The Novice pools' production is from 3,000 feet, although from the same pay sand, the Gardner section of Strawn. One test is now being drilled by Robert W. McKisick of Abilene.

McKisick has four producers, French Robertson and Jack Bradford of Haskell have eight wells, and the States Oil corporation of Eastland has ten oilers in the North Novice pool.

States owns seven and the Mc Lester Oil corporation one in the South Novice.

Renewed drilling is expected to result from the new gathering system. Joe Weaver, head of the Oil corporation at Eastland, said his firm has a number of proven locations and drilling on such leases will be resumed.

J. C. Hunter of Abilene is another expected to enter the area as a result of the market. Hunter holds offset acreage to production.

1941 Bids To Be Bonanza For Sheep And Goat Raisers

The beginning of 1941 found sheep and goat raisers in Texas and throughout the Southwest, in the best position for a number of years. Range conditions during 1940 were well above normal in most of the area devoted to the raising of sheep and goats on an extensive scale. Most of this area received moisture during the Fall of 1940.

Ranchmen did not experience a runaway market for their lambs during 1940, but the demand was broad, and prices paid were generally considered to favor the grower. Prices showed very little fluctuation, and never during the 12-month period was there a time when supplies could not be turned.

Goat prices followed the trend of sheep prices, and ranchmen found a good market for their supplies.

HOG RAISING OFFERS BONUS TO TEXANS

Texas does not hold a very high rank in hog production in comparison with some of the Corn Belt States, but the prospects for higher prices for hogs during 1941 should offer more than usual attractiveness to Texas farmers for the growing of hogs, since there is so much room for expansion.

Available figures show that supplies of hogs are well under the 1940 and 1939 totals. It is pointed out that not only will the lighter supply of slaughter hogs have a tendency to advance prices, but the upturn in prices on other classes of meats will have its influence on market prices of pork. There also has been an increase in the demand for pork through regular trade channels, and there are reasons for expecting a further advance in prices.

Preliminary estimates show that the number of sows to farrow this Spring is about 14 per cent under that of a year ago. Fewer pigs were produced last year than in 1939.

When hogs hit a top of $7.75 during the second week of January, 1941, it bettered the 1940 peak established last September. With a top of $7.75, the bulk of the hogs sold at $7.40 as compared with $5.20 a year earlier.

From the middle of December, 1940, to January 10, hog prices advanced about $1 a hundredweight. The early 1941 top is within 50 cents of the 1939 peak.

TEXAS SUPPLIES OF FEEDS VAST IN 1940

The possibilities for fattening Texas bred livestock on Texas grown feeds are shown to be great by the following figures:

During 1940 Texas farmers produced more than one-third of the grain sorghum grown in the United States, or 46,397,000 bushels of the 121,371,000-bushel crop of the United States. Texas ranked fifth in corn production and grew 90,524,000 bushels of one-twenty-seventh of the 2,449,200,000 crop for the United States. Iowa was first in corn production with a yield of 400,581,000 bushels. Texas was fifth in oat production and grew 37,125,000 of the 1,325,628,000 bushels harvested in the United States. Eighth place in barley production went to Texas with a crop of 3,825,000 bushels as compared with 209,235,000 for the United States. Texas produced approximately one-fourth of the cotton seed in the United States with 3,285,000 bales of the 12,686,000 bales for the United States. Texas ranked sixth in wheat production in 1940, with 29,355,000 bushels of the 589,151,000 for the United States. The grazing area in Texas is unsurpassed by any other State.

Great Country, Great Industries

The chemical industry in this country, which was a mere infant a generation or so ago, has grown by leaps and bounds as it found more ways to serve the American public. Today, to show how important this industry has become, it is interesting to note that the chemical consumption of one medium-sized New England mill town is estimated to be greater than that of all of South America.

Texas warehouses had very small stocks of wool and mohair on hand at the beginning of 1941. Consequently, ranchmen were not concerned with storage stocks of wool coming into competition with their 1941 clip.

Army requirements were big factors in the wool market during 1940, and there is nothing visible at the beginning of 1941 to suggest a slackening of this demand—in fact there are many reasons to suspect that the 1941 requirements will be larger than the 1940 needs.

Welcome! To all who desire to worship the Father in spirit and in truth, to all who seek fellowship in prayer and praise, to all who are in doubt and need guidance, who are weary and need rest, who are lonely and want companionship, who are sorrowful and need comfort, who wish to work for the coming of the kingdom, this church gives a hearty welcome in the name of Jesus Christ.

Interest is growing, crowds are better, the church is going forward, what are you doing about it? How many services have you attended? How much are you worth to your church? Is it moving forward with your help, or in spite of your indifference?

Yes we have had more than two hundred different people to attend one or more services in the Methodist church during the last ten Sundays, yet some of you Methodist who are enjoying good health have been so busy with other things that you have not attended a single service during this same period. Come on out and give the Lord a chance to help you worship on the Sabbath day.

Your pastor will preach Sunday morning on the subject: "Spiritual Bridge Building."

Sunday night our District Superintendent will be with us to preach at 7:15 and will hold the First Quarterly Conference just after the preaching service. Make your plans now to attend this service.

USES FOUND FOR WASTE HAIR, MAY FIND IT WAY WASHINGTON, — Livestock growers in Texas, besides wool and mohair producers, may some day find a ready market for hair on the animals they raise. Agriculture Department scientists have conducted experiments in this line, according to the annual departmental report submitted to the President. They found that animal hair now discarded as waste could be used as a filling material for pillows, mattresses, bed coverings and upholstery. Hair collected from milk goats, normally regarded as a waste product, was cleaned, twisted into rope, boiled in water for about an hour, dried, untwisted and picked apart. It was tested and found to be sufficiently resilient for use as a filling material. Pure humanity, friendship, home, the interchange of love, bring to earth a foretaste of heaven.—Mary Baker Eddy.
