PROTEST KEEPS SEWING ROOM

Foster And Atwood Names On Trustee Ballot

TWO MEMBERS FOR SCHOOL BOARD TO BE NAMED SATURDAY

Voting Will Take Place In Cross Plains Motor Co.,
Building On 8th Street

The names of Ben Atwood and Steve Foster will appear on the printed ballot for trustee of Cross Plains independent school district at the election to be held Saturday, in the Cross Plains Motor Co., Inc.
building on East 8th Street. S. C.
Barr will be presiding judge.

There had been some question as to whether or not Mr. Foster would be eligible to serve as trustee, due to the fact that he has not resided within the Cross Plains district six months. In view of this fact he had been reluctant to run and the name of E. A. (Bill) Calhoun had been suggested. The original petition, which bore the names of Atwood and Foster, had already been filed with the County Judge, however, and when the proposed change of Calhoun for Foster did not arrive at the courthouse, County Superintendent B. C. Chrisman, acting for County Judge Freeland who was confined to the hospital, certified
the names of Atwood and Foster.
These, therefore, will be printed on the ballot, the Review learned in a telephone conversation with Mr.
Chrisman Wednesday afternoon.

No controversy whatsoever has existed. Neither Mr. Foster nor Mr.
Calhoun had sought the place of trustee. It was only upon the insistence of friends that either had agreed to serve, the Review was told.

employees at Pioneer, who are being transferred elsewhere, complimented the group with a farewell party
and gift shower in the high school gymnasium there Friday night.

munity was represented.

There were games of forty-two and bridge for the adults and varied types of entertainment for the youngsters.

SCHOOL CENSUS DROPS AGAIN NORMAN REPORTS

The scholastic census of Cross Plains Independent school district is expected to drop to about 461 this year, the Review was told yesterday by Lewis C. Norman, superintendent of local schools. The scholastic total last year was 497, and this figure was one of the lowest totals
in recent years.

BILLY GENE BOILES MADE 100 IN MUSIC MEMORY COMPETITION

Billy Gene Boiles, a member of the Cross Plains ward school music memory team which took second place at the county track meet at Baird, had the distinction of scoring perfect in the contest.

In reporting the track results
last week the Review inadvertently reported that the team was composed of Peggy Jo Freeman,
Doris Jean Marshall and Billie Jean Barr, whereas, it should have read Billy Gene Boiles instead of Billie Jean Barr. This newspaper apologizes for the error and extends Bill Gene,
young son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A.
Boiles, congratulations upon his perfect participation in the contest.

LAUNDRIES SLIGHTLY HIKE THEIR PRICES

All Cross Plains serve yourself laundries this week announce a slight advance in price. It is pointed out that increased costs make this section imperative. The price structure in Cross Plains is just being brought in line with neighboring communities, say proprietors of the establishments who carry an advertisement concerning the new price schedule on another page of today's Review.

Miss Emily Gray McDermott and

Plains, were united in marriage at Atwell Saturday evening at nine

BASKETBALL GAME AT COTTONWOOD TONIGHT

Cottonwood high school basketball boys will meet a team of outsiders in the gymnasium there Friday night, April fourth, in a game that is expected to be extremely interesting. Proceeds from the admission charge of 15 and 25 cents
will go to the P.T.A., the Review was told yesterday by R. J. Willoughby, principal of the Cottonwood school.

Tenant Farmers Have Chance To Purchase Farms

Tenant farmers of Callahan County have another chance to become farm owners, for James S. Mc-Knight, Farm Security Administration supervisor, has announced that he will begin taking applications on April 15 for long-term, low interest loans with which tenants
may buy farms.

"Most farm families have ownership of a family size farm as their goal," Mr. McKnight said, "and it is these people that this section's tenant purchase program is designed."
Sharecroppers and farm laborers as well as tenants are eligible for these loans, but preference is given to families which have adequate live-

COMMISSIONER AND MAYOR FIRE WIRES AT W. P. A. OFFICES

Project Continued Here After
Institution Had Been Sent Out To Close Up On Monday

Unwilling to accept a W.P.A.
ultimatum to close the local sewing room Monday morning, thereby placing 20 women out of employment, Mayor C. S. Martin and County Commissioner J. M. (Jim) Mc-Millan fired a barrage of telegrams
at the district W.P.A. office in Fort Worth last week end which brought a retraction from the "shut-down"
order and resulted in the project
being continued for another month
at least.

Cooperation with the Mayor and Commissioner was the local Chamber of Commerce which also lodged a telegraphic protest to the proposed action.

Instead of closing the Cross Plains sewing room it was learned yesterday that the W.P.A. had decided to discontinue seven Clyde ladies, eight from Baird and four here,
to carry out the retrenchment plan
without closing a complete project.

Payroll of the Cross Plains sewing room has aggregated approximately $700 monthly, the Review was told authentically yesterday. All garments made by the ladies employed on the project are turned over to Miss Ann Johnson, Callahan county case worker for the welfare department, who in turn sees that they reach people in necessitous circumstances.

Much of the financial burden for the Cross Plains sewing room has been borne by the city and the county. These facts were outlined by the telegraphic protest to W.P.A.
headquarters, together with the fact that the employment was badly needed by the women who are employed on the project.

NEW TREATMENT HAILED FOR SEVERE BURN CASES

SHILLINGTON, Del. —Discovery of a new treatment for severe burns has been announced by authorities at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

The treatment uses a combination of sulfadiazine in spray form. Reports from the hospital show that it has produced remarkable results in its early test cases.

In one instance, a 5-year-old girl's life undoubtedly was saved by an emergency application of the new preparation. Eighty per cent of the child's body was covered with second and third degree burns.

Credit for discovery of the spray goes to Dr. Kenneth Pickrell of Shillington, Delaware.

LIFE TOO DULL SO CO-EDS PAY COST OF DATES

CEDAR FALLS, La. — With co-eds footing the bills, social life is flourishing again at Iowa State Teachers College.

For several months dating languished at the school, where there are two women students for every man. The men just didn't seem interested.

Finally, the women threw coyness to the winds, and invited the men to a "Femme's Fancy" dance—all expenses paid.

It worked, and the process was repeated at the college's Valentine day dance. Now the girls are saving their spending money and lining up dates for the Mardi Gras ball.

At first the college paper protested at the reversal of social procedure. Its pleas were in vain.

As for the men on the campus, their attitude toward the revolutionary custom was summed up by one nonchalant spokesman this way:

"It's a good idea. Now a fellow's social life won't hamper his supply of pocket money."

THAT MEANS ALL OF US

Indians' 'Double Talk' Baffled Germans In World War Number 1

They fooled the enemy, all right. The enemy was reasonably sure the Americans would attack soon in the vicinity of St. Etienne and they expected to know just where and when. With their usual thoroughness, they tapped all the American telephone lines, sure that they would hear orders for troop concentrations or requests for artillery support in simple time to be forewarned — and forearmed.

But it all went wrong. Throughout the day of October 27, 1918, the listeners bent their ears diligently to their posts, intercepting every syllable that was transmitted over American wires. Early in the day they began to frown and scratch their heads in puzzlement as they summoned their forces to come up and see if they could make anything out of it.

The Americans were talking most innocently. They were jabbering back and forth without stint, but the listeners couldn't make head nor tail of what they were saying. It sounded like gibberish, but yet it had pause and inflection. It was neither English nor French, and it certainly was not German. If it were code, it was a complicated and difficult one for frontline action, since speaking codes ordinarily are based on the substitution of recognizable words for other words. You can write a complicated code of letters and numbers, but you can't speak it.

They'd never heard words like these, even in the most intricate of speaking codes. Some of them were soft and quietly spoken with a punctuated rhythm of syllables. Others were staccato, almost guttural.

They were still puzzling when, out of nowhere, men of the 36th division came storming in upon Forest Farm, taking the defenders completely by surprise.

Colonel A. W. Bloor, commander of the 142nd infantry, later explained the whole thing. He wrote:

"It was well understood that the German was a past master at listening in. . . . There was every reason to believe that every decipherable message or word going over the wires also went to the enemy.

. . . It was remembered that the regiment possessed a company of Indians who spoke twenty-six different languages and dialects, only four or five of which were ever written. It was hardly possible that Fritz would be able to translate these dialects, and the plan to have these Indians transmit telephone messages was adopted. . . . Indians from the Choctaw tribe were chosen and placed in each P. C. (post of command).

"The Indians were used repeatedly on the 27th in preparation for the assault on Forest Farm. The enemy's complete surprise is evidenced that he could not decipher the messages."

Thus, American Indians, fighting with the nation which once had been their enemy, proved themselves of especial value to the American army. The army has not forgotten their value, for it was reported recently that the war department has asked Comanche Indians of Southwestern Oklahoma to enlist for training with the signal corps.

The Comanches, too, Professor W. G. Becker of Cameron Agricultural College, Lawton, Oklahoma, recalled were used for communications work. In a recent newspaper story he was quoted as saying:

"One would be at a telephone at the front in communication in their native language with another at the back. The Germans had tapped the wires, and it must have driven them crazy."

Professor Becker also noted, in an article on "The Comanche Indian and his Language," appearing in "The Chronicles of Oklahoma," that there was one point of resemblance between the German and Comanche language. Both he showed, were replete with compound words, in which noun and modifiers were combined in one long word. There, however, the similarity ended.

Colonel Bloor reported that the only difficulty experienced in the use of Indians to transmit messages was their limited military vocabulary. Their language was an ancient one, and did not provide for such modern military terms as artillery and machine guns. They overcame this, however, by combining simple words to form decipherable terms. Artillery became big gun, shoot fast.

It was Lieutenant E. R. Eddy, of Pennsylvania, who had been working with Indians before the war, who made an exhaustive study of their adaptabilities in modern warfare. He determined that they made particularly excellent guides and scouts because of their inherent sense of direction, their seemingly instinctive knowledge of the use of cover and their ability to travel swiftly while crouching close to the ground. He recalled that they seemed to be able to find their way unerringly in the darkness — something white soldiers had difficulty in doing without the aid of flashlight.

In one test, a group of men was assembled to show their abilities as runners, including some Indians of an unnamed tribe. They were shown an objective a few hundred yards away and then blindfolded. The Indians alone of the entire group headed directly for the objective without deviating from a straight course. The others ended up wide of their mark.

Canada had utilized the service of Indians before the United States entered the war, and recommended their use by the American forces as scouts and runners.

One group of Mohawks was used as a sort of reconnoitering intelligence squad. From their ability to read the signs of human occupation, from such small reminders as footprints, trampled ground, and marks of encampments, just how many of the enemy had occupied a position taken by Allied forces, how they had been armed, how long the post had been evacuated—even whether the troops had been fresh or tired, well-fed or hungry when they left. This sort of information was valuable in estimating the strength and morale of the enemy on the line and in pointing out weak spots for attack or patrol sorties.

Some proved their value at its testing outpost, their sharp ears detecting the slightest movement of enemy patrols in the vicinity. They were quick to estimate the significance of these sounds. It was believed that this ability came not so much from possession of a more sensitive hearing apparatus than that of the white man, but from a trained ability to concentrate on particular sounds without distraction from extraneous noises.

Now, as in 1917, the American Indians are responding to their country's call for young men to aid in the national defense. Then, more than 2,000 had entered the American and Canadian services before the draft. Prior to September 1, 1918, more than 6,000 were inducted. For example, nine young Sioux Indians, who had been employed on a government rehabilitation building project on a South Dakota reservation recently enlisted in a body at Ft. Francis E. Warren, Wyoming. They came of a proud line of fierce warriors, from among the Sioux, whence came some of the most dreaded fighting chiefs in American history. There was Sitting Bull, probably the most famous of them all, Tohami, Kicking Bear, Crazy Horse, Rain in the Face, Little Crow, Short Bull, and Crow King, to name a few of them. It was before the Sioux on the Little Big Horn River that Custer made his heroic "last stand."

Descendants of the Sioux warriors, the nine full-bloods determined that their tribe need not await conscription. They tossed their tools aside and traveled to Montana where they presented themselves to the recruiting officer.

Their names were Theodore Twiss, Randall Fast Horse, Avorn A. Adams, Jerome Brown Bull, Moss Ladeaux, Patrick Fast Horse, Bert Bergen, Leonard White Bull, and

I'LL TUNE OUT THE ALKA-SELTZER ANNOUNCEMENT

"When statements about Alka-Seltzer are made over the air, please, please believe them."

Mrs. Oma Catherine Jones

MILLIONS suffer less from Headache, Acid Indigestion, Distress have heard—and believed—Alka-Seltzer radio announcements. To these millions, the relief obtained by the use of Alka-Seltzer is worth far more than the genuine enjoyment they get from the broadcasts.

The most important parts of our radio program, both to you and to us, are the commercial announcements. Once you have tried Alka-Seltzer we believe you will agree with us.

But try Alka-Seltzer because it is an unusually effective medicine not because you enjoy the radio programs.

WHY ALKA-SELTZER IS SO EFFECTIVE

The pain-relieving analgesic in Alka-Seltzer is in complete solution, ready to ease the distress as soon as you swallow it. The pain-relieving action is made more effective by alkaline buffers. The alkalizing elements in Alka-Seltzer reduce excess stomach acidity.

What Is Wrong With Texas?

Nothing wrong with Texas, except entirely too many of us get up in the morning at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, button a pair of Ohio suspenders to a pair of Chicago pants, put on a pair of Massachusetts shoes, wash in a Pittsburg tin basin, using Cincinnati soap and a cotton towel made in New Hampshire, sit down to a Grand Rapids table, eat pancake from Minneapolis flour spread with Vermont maple syrup and Kansas bacon fried on a St. Louis stove. Buy fruit put up in California, seasoned with Rhode Island spices, and sweetened with Colorado sugar. Put on a hat made in Philadelphia, hitch a Detroit mule fed on Oklahoma gasoline to an Ohio plow and work all day on a Texas farm covered with a New England mortgage, send our money to Ohio for tires, wondering why Texas taxes are $2.72 per acre while Ohio farmers pay $10.00 tax and drive on paved roads. At night we crawl under New Jersey blanket to be kept awake by a bull dog, the only home product on the place, wondering all the time, where in the hell all the money went in this wonderful state of ours. If we all would buy more home manufactured products we could keep our money at home and be prosperous.

SIX REASONS OFFERED FOR 71,500 DIVORCES

Wives talked too much about their operations.

Told in detail of children's misdeeds.

Tried to keep up with the Joneses. Were too critical.

Had no sense of humor.

Cotton Stamp Plan Aids Farmers, Businessmen

A. No. Stamp books must be kept by the person to whom they are issued for his use as he sees fit in connection with the exchange of stamps for cotton goods.

39. Q. Can cotton stamps be used to repay advances made against the crop, the landlord's share of the crop, or other indebtedness?

A. No.

40. Q. Must the entire amount of stamps be used at any one time?

A. No. One stamp or all stamps

may be used at any one time, or over a period of time, until the total amount of stamps has been exchanged for cotton goods.

41. Q. How can retail stores be designated to receive cotton stamps from farmers in exchange for cotton goods?

A. Retailers handling cotton goods who wish to share in this new business should file with the nearest Surplus Marketing Administration office a statement of intention to take part in the program and to observe the regulations. (Experience under the Food and Cotton Stamp Plans shows that practically all retailers cooperate willingly in surplus removal programs of the Department of Agriculture.)

42. Q. What is meant by this "new business"?

A. The 25 million dollars worth of cotton stamps which farmers can earn under the Supplementary Cotton Program will be placed as an "order" in regular channels of trade. From 75,000 to 100,000 bales of cotton will be required in making the cotton goods to fill this order. The larger share of each dollar spent for cotton goods, however, goes to employ labor and to pay other costs in the manufacture, transportation, handling, and selling of cotton products. The program, therefore, will benefit not only farmers, but labor and industry as well.

43. Q. How does the retailer receive payment for the face value of the stamps he accepts in exchange for merchandise?

A. Retailers may file proper claims for payment, supported by cards on each of which are pasted $10 worth of cotton order stamps, direct with offices of the Surplus Marketing Administration (names and places of which will be made public.) Wholesalers with whom retailers are accustomed to do business, or banks cooperating in the program, may also act as agents for retailers in presenting such claims to the Surplus Marketing Administration. (Experience under the Food and Cotton Stamp Plan shows that payments normally are made within two to five days after claims are presented. Bankers throughout the country, where the food and cotton stamp plans are in operation, have agreed un-animously to act as agents in presenting the stamps for pay-ment. Their full cooperation has meant much to the success of the programs.)

44. Q. How may a producer who wishes to participate in the Supplementary Cotton Program obtain additional information about the program?

A. By seeing or writing his county farm or home demonstration agent or his local AAA committee.

The closing date for accepting 1940 applications for payment under the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program is March 31, 1940.

DIRECTOR OF "GONE WITH THE WIND", SHOWING HERE SUNDAY OUTLINES PROBLEMS HE FACED

Victor Fleming, the director, upon whose shoulders rested the responsibility of bringing to the screen the film version of Margaret Mitchell's celebrated story of the old South—Gone With the Wind—which opens at the Liberty Theatre here Sunday, outlines a few of the problems which he was confronted in the picture-making of the greatest box office hit of all times.

From here on the story is Mr. Fleming's: So far as I know, no one has come forward to claim the championship for rapid reading of Margaret Mitchell's truly dramatic novel, "Gone with the Wind." It is difficult for me to imagine anyone completing a careful digest of the book in less than twenty-four hours of actual reading time. Mr. David Selznick and I sought to get all of the memorable events of that book into an evening of screen entertainment. As it turned out, the story is told in three hours and forty-five minutes of film.

Novels have been converted into screen fare before. A screen director knows that film pace and rhythm can cover much ground which took dozens of pages in a book. That pace I knew would play a major role in our story and I was prepared for it. But I didn't realize that into my hands had been thrust a virtual Bible of Southern life with a string of "Don'ts" a mile long.

Pre-Sold Audience Whatever problems we had on nor how an Emerald City might look. I was down to the bed rock of reality, with millions of voices shouting, "Hew to the line, mister."

Any important period picture has its headaches. You can't use sixty principals and nine thousand supporting players without realizing you've been through the mill. Nor can you fail to appreciate the responsibility of a motion picture which has accumulated a million working hours from those who helped make it real. They tell me we shot 1,350,000 feet of negative. Now that it's all done.

"Take it from me... it's the PERFECT PAINT"

Watch it put a smile on your House!

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS SWP House Paint

What's the personality of your home? Shabby, down-at-heel, sullen? Or well-dressed, up-and-coming, cheerful?

Whichever it may be, the way that house you live in looks is the way it "rates" you! Like it, or not, people know you by your home, as well as by the clothes you wear, the company you keep!

Give your house a break—and it will give you one! All you need is beautiful, durable Sherwin-Williams SWP House Paint — applied the more effective, more economical SWP "Two Step Way"...

STEP 1: SWP Undercoater No. 450—first step to a beautifully painted home, this new-type paint primes, seals, "blankets" and unifies the "toughest" surfaces with a single, quick, money-saving coat!

STEP 2: SWP House Paint—Over the remarkably uniform coat of SWP Undercoater, all you'll need for a perfect two-coat paint job is just one coat of beautiful, protective, lasting SWP House Paint.

FUME-RESISTANCE helps SWP keep that fresh "first-day-painted" look. Thanks to special, fume-resisting pigments, SWP keeps its beauty longer under the attacks of sulphur fumes present in all city and suburban air.

WASHABILITY—saves at least one repainting. Smooth and glossy when it's first painted on, SWP keeps its smoothness, can be washed quickly, easily, repeatedly—without harm to its tight, extremely durable surface.
