On the farm plan sheet will be listed the farm's allotments, estimated payments for complying with allotments, and estimated maximum soil-building allowance. Home Town Gossip

Local newspapers carried an item from Cisco saying that a national defense training shop had been awarded the Cisco public school system, declaring that Cisco was the only one awarded Eastland county.

Gray, who last week signed withdrawal papers into the army, a withdrawal two days later to try out with the Fort Cats of the Texas league. His contract had been slow in coming and he'd just about given up when he was contacted by one of Uncle Sam's "dollar and board" assignments. When he offered to show up, Bill told him the situation to the local board. His release was easily due to the fact that none of the baseball men think Bill is a better ball than Bob Feller, one of the greatest baseball pitchers of all time. Only a little more control could be had all the Cross Plains needs. If this is dead-end he's a cinch for the majors, sports authorities.

Letter Is Said To Have Been Written By Christ; Printed (Contributed)

A letter alleged to have been written by Christ is being printed in papers throughout the United States, according to a communication received this week by the Review. In the letter, says the statement, was an injunction that it should be published to the world by whoever happened to find it, together with the statement that misfortune and bad luck would follow the person having possession of it in event it was not given publicity.

"There was likewise a promise," states the communication, "that whoever may have a copy in his or her possession will prosper and be followed by good fortune. According to the history of the letter it was written by Christ after the Crucifixion signed by the Angel Gabriel, 90 years after the Savior's birth and presumably deposited by Him under a stone, on which appeared the legend: "Blessed is he who shall turn me over."

"No one knew what the inscription meant or seemed to have sufficient curiosity to investigate until the stone was turned over by a little child and the letter was discovered."

"It reads: 'Whoever works on the Sabbath shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and to keep Holy the Lord's Day without any manner of work. You shall not idle or spend your time bedecking yourself with superfluities or costly apparel and vain dressing for I have ordered it a day of rest. I will have it kept Holy that your sins may be forgiven you.'

"You will not break any Commandment but will serve and keep them, being written by my hand and spoken by my mouth. Not only go to church, but allow your servants and your maid servants to observe my words and learn my Commandments."

"You shall finish your work every Saturday afternoon at six o'clock at which time the preparations for the Sabbath Day begin."

"I advise you to fast five days in the year, beginning on Good Friday and continuing five days following in remembrance of my death for you."

"You shall love one another and use them who are not baptised to church and receive the Holy Sacrament and the Supper of the Lord, and be made a member thereof, and in so doing I will give you long life and many blessings. Your hand will be replenished and bring forth abundantly, and I will comfort you in greatest temptation, and surely he that doeth contrary shall be cursed."

"I will also send hardness of heart to them and especially the poor shall find it profitable. Remember to keep the Sabbath for the seventh day I have as a resting day to myself."

"And he that hath a copy of this letter written by my own hand and spoken out of my own mouth and keepeth it without publishing it to others shall not prosper, but he that publish it to others shall be blessed by me. If their sins be as many as the stars in the night and they believe not this letter and my Commandments, will have my plague upon you and you will be consumed with your children, and goods, and cattle, and all other worldly possessions that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you. If you do it, it will profit you in the world which is to come."

"Whoever shall keep a copy of this letter and keep it in the house, lightning shall harm them, neither thence, thunder, nor lightning, if a woman be in birth and put trust in me shall be delivered of child. You shall hear no more of me except through the Holy Spirit until the day of judgement. All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found."

"The story is that the little child who found the letter," the communication continues, "passed it to one who became a convert to the Christian faith. He failed to have the letter published. He kept it as a sacred memento of Christ and gave it down to different generations of his family for more than a thousand years. During that period the family suffered misfortune, migrated to different countries, and finally one of them came to America, bringing the letter with him. He settled in Virginia and then moved further south, still followed by misfortune, when finally the last member of the family, a daughter, approached her death. She called a neighbor and gave her the letter, relating its history of more than a thousand years. The Thompson woman began the attempt to have it published and it first appeared in Home, Georgia, in the Tribune on October 31, 1891. It then appeared in the Delton, Georgia, Citizen. Mrs. Wortham living in Marion, Indiana, at the time of publication, clipped a copy of this letter and failed to have it published. She was followed by misfortune, bad luck and unhappiness."

EXTENSION DISTRICT SEVEN HAS ENVIABLE RECORD DURING 1940

Working without pay, 4,253 women and 3,563 men serving at 275 community centers in Extension district 7, which includes Callahan county, made 11,260 fifty-pound cotton mattresses for low income farm families in 1940. Maurine Hearn, Extension Service district agent in charge of home demonstration work reports that the commissioneers, acting as the sponsoring agencies in the counties, set up revolving funds to buy the findings to make the mattresses. School trustees, churches, 4-H clubs, N.Y.A., the press, W.P.A., Civic clubs, F.S.A., county land use planning committees, county home demonstration councils and other organizations cooperated actively in making the program successful.

In 1939, district seven was conspicuous for frame gardens. In 1940, Miss Hearn reports, 7,480 farms in 15 out of 19 counties comprising the district planted home gardens that qualified for soil building payments under the 1940 A.A. program. The result of this enterprise was that these families had at least ten varieties of fresh vegetables to serve at their tables during the year. Moreover, some counties, almost gardenless previously, reported from 450 to 800 gardens.

District seven was distinguished when the Progressive Farmer designated John Will Vance of the Shields community of Coleman County for the 1940 Master Farmer award. Only 65 Texas farmers have been given the award since 1926, and Vance was the first chosen from the district.

Representing Texas and the entire south, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones and their daughter, Dorothy, and son, Malcolm, of the Zephyr community of Brown County were invited to demonstrate in the United States Department of Agriculture building how cotton could be processed by farm families into well-made comfortable mattresses. The Jones family, with its nine sons and daughters, has worked continuously with the Extension agents since Extension work was started in Brown County in 1921.

The Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce early in 1940 offered to finance buying of purebred baby chicks for 4-H club girls, the money to be repaid when the chicks were marketed. The plan was accepted by ten girls, each raising more than 50 percent. The debt was paid when fryers were sold and the substantial number of pullets remaining made dependable winter layers. As a result of the cooperation by the Chamber of Commerce these girls received a start toward purebred poultry flocks they otherwise would not have had.

Counties in District 7 and county home demonstration agents are: Brown, Mayesie Malone; Callahan, Clara Brown; Coleman, Dorothy Jean Day; Eastland, Ruth Ramey; Margaret Blount, assistant; Erath, Edith Lawrence; Gillespie, Elberta Martin; Jones, Gladys Martin; McCulloch, Mabel Caldwell; Mason, Ellen Steffens; Mills, Emma Scott; Palo Pinto, Mrs. Mary Sue Gesell; Runnels, Myra Tankersley; San Saba, Frances Panchard; Shackelford, Grace Cody; Stephens, Zelma Ruth Munroe; Taylor, Hattie Tackler.

Blanco, Comanche, and Llano counties in this district do not have the services of a county home demonstration agent.

18 YEAR OLD GUSTINE DOG HAS BLESSED EVENT

An 18-year-old female dog belonging to Mack Mathis, Gustine arrowhead maker, had a blessed event the other day—and may set a record.

The mongrel, a half-blood hound, half feist, gave birth to seven puppies, two of them surviving while five died.

Mathis has owned the mother dog all of her life. Game Warden John Wood of Brownwood is writing in to the state veterinary department to determine if the Gustine dog has set a record.

Where Its Name Came From

Phoenix, Arizona, the name from the mythical bird which was said to live for 600 years, consumed by fire and again as a new fledgling from its own ashes.

900 mattresses have been completed on the new program and 655 on the old and 400 more will be made during February.

Each applicant signs a statement saying that he will not give away or sell the mattress he receives. When a check is made after the program is over three is a statement in the regulations that says if the applicant has disposed of the mattresses he received he will have to pay for the cotton and ticking he received used in the mattress.

A supplement to the Department of Agriculture's 1941 cotton mattress demonstration program will enable low income rural families in Texas to have cotton comforts—one for each mattress under the program.

Every Texas family eligible to receive mattress materials under the current program will also be eligible to receive 10 yards of percale and four pounds of cotton for making a cotton comfort, according

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Cross Plains Review.
Cross Plains, Texas.

Dear Sir:

We have been told that the new world was discovered in Fourteen Hundred Ninety Two, man was located in Seventeen Hundred Seventy Six, and woman was sighted in Eighteen Hundred Seventy Six, the place where woman was discovered being the Centennial Exposition, Philadelphia, and the man who made the great discovery one Remington, the inventor of the typewriter, and incidentally, of the typewritist.

It is some gratification to me to know that although the first sails to enrich our island shores by their presence stood upon the caravels of Columbus, traveling from the east towards the west, yet the first smoke stack that put the bow of hope in the ocean sky left its trail of glory traveling from the west towards the east. I am glad that its name was "Savannah" and that it was owned by Americans. I am glad that notwithstanding the fact that our amateur statesmen and peanut politicians do what they can to retard our shipping on the seven seas, yet it was an English professional who stood in parliament speaking against the possibility of a ship carrying enough coal for a trans-Atlantic voyage and while he yet spake an American boat blew down the bay.

We not only put the bow of hope in the ocean sky but having invented monoplane and biplane to parallel the eagle's lonely course on land we hopped from shore to vaulted sky, carried the siren's song of motor and propeller toward the pillars of Hercules and are today visiting with all the circling wings of flight the Albatross' ancient solitary reign.

Having realized the fable of Wolus' bag and carried the two and thirty winds in the boiler of our boats, we next undertook with Watt's teakettle steam and Stephenson's tireless locomotive rods to criss-cross this country with railroads. Not since our prehistoric ancestors emerged from the cover of the forest of oblivion, reared themselves upon their hind legs, walked out upon the plain and became men, has any nation enjoyed such prosperity as was ours until James Stephen Hogg taught us how to create a Commission and elect men to sun it who had less than a crossing knowledge of the problems of transportation, whose duties it was to regulate the railroads.

One hundred years ago an employee of the Patent Office resigned (believe it or not) and gave as his reason that most of the inventions had been made, and that he stood in need of a steady and permanent employment. Franklin, Whitney, and Fulton had enrolled their names in that American Hall of Fame, and McCormick had just knocked for admission. The "line of civilization" waited on his invention for its forward march across the wheat plains of the west. Morse and Bell had not pre-empted every "dot" and "dash" and every message of month and key that will thrill a wire throughout eternity, making it necessary, if Marconi said anything new, he must leave the wires to do it. Elias Howe, Gatling, Ericson and Holland had not lived. Edison had not been born and the grandfather of the Wrights—great brothers—twin-kept a blacksmith shop at Dayton.

We found "agriculture plowing with a stick and reaping with a sickle" and that invention and manufacturing put that plowman in a sulky seat and that reaper in an arm chair on chariot wheels drawn by a triumphant four (a Ford). I never think of reaping that I do not thrill with pride that an American manufacturer ties the knot on every sheaf of grain that is tied on

DO'S AND DON'T FOR POOR DRAFTEES

An enforceable driver's license law for motorists isn't new. Massachusetts passed a driver's license law for automobile owners back in 1903.

Tip to draftees: Bring along your banjo, but not your auto. Carry your gal's snapshot, but leave that big picture on the dresser at home.

And it's harder to get a bottle of liquor past an induction station than it was to get past border patrolmen from Mexico during prohibition.

This was the warning last week of state headquarters for selective service who listed what the draftee (selectee) could and could not bring to camp.

Bring only minimum hand baggage, the specifications read. The army doesn't provide for transporting trunks. They'll give you a barrack bag at reception center.

You should have one pair of "comfortable and serviceable shoes. Private autos are prohibited. But bring along such stuff as golf bags and other athletic equipment; also your guitar or banjo or other musical instrument. Small pictures of the folks back home are 'okey, but in barracks there will no place for a large picture.

The army furnishes its own firearms, so leave your favorite weapons at home, else you'll have to send them home at your own expense. As for liquor, you can't even send it home; it will be confiscated either at the induction station or at the reception center, whichever place it is spotted.

You are responsible for the safe-keeping of your own money and other valuables. As for books and periodicals, while not banned, there will be adequate supplies at the several posts, and periodicals sent by mail should not be forwarded until the draftee reaches his organization.

Uniforms and clothing will be issued selectees within 24 hours after he reaches a reception center. He should bring along toilet articles, towels, and a limited amount of clothing in addition to what he wears, such as underwear, socks, and handkerchiefs.

When the inducted man gets to reception center he is given material with which to inform the folks back home of his safe arrival, and similarly at his final post.

Farm co-ops with a membership of more than three million producers handled a two-billion dollar business during the 1939-40 marketing season, according to reports of the Farm Credit Administration.

A total of 154,006 bales of cotton had been ordered from the Surplus Marketing Administration for use in the Department of Agriculture's cotton mattress demonstration program, as of December 1.

MEN AREN'T BECOMING SISSIES AT COOKSTOVE, WOMAN EXPERT SAYS

"Are men going sissy?" is a question brought to the fore by a pronouncement of Dr. William Moulton Marston, noted psychologist, that women will emerge as rulers of the nation 1,000 years from now.

Support for the to-be-downtrodden male comes from an unexpected source. An emphatic denial was made by Miss Albertine Berry, home economics director of a Dallas gas company, in spite of the fact that numerous men are included among persons who seek her advice on cooking problems.

"I don't believe that men are going sissy," Miss Berry said. "Certainly the mere fact that they are interested in cooking is no indication of the approaching feminization of the world. No one could call Jack Dempsey, a sissy, but he had been cooking as a hobby for many years, starting when he was 16 years old.

As for men going sissy, the men will emphatically assure you that the reason they like to cook is because no mere woman can cook their specialties as well as they can," Miss Berry said. "Certainly they feel that they are better qualified to understand the fine art of broiling a dove to tender perfection or roasting a wild duck than their wives. I've found relatively few men were willing to trust their wives with broiling steaks from the first deer of the season."

SAM HOUSTON SPURNED AUSTIN AS TEXAS REPUBLIC'S CAPITAL

Gen. Sam Houston didn't think much of Austin as a Republic capital and was even more provoked with the temporary White House in Houston, some of his letters in the possession of Mrs. J. R. Irion, 4224 Swis, Dallas, reveal.

"The city is the most unfortunate site on earth for a government," Houston wrote from the capital shortly after the government had moved there. "We have had weather, sparse timber and not a house between here and Santa Fe, N.M."

The letter was directed to Miss Anna Raguet, of Nacogdoches, daughter of Gen. Henry Raguet, who had come to Texas from Philadelphia at the invitation of Houston and who remained a friend of the General's throughout his life.

Criticizes White House

In another letter to Miss Raguet, dated Feb. 1, 1838, from the city of Houston, the President of Texas wrote: "Is not this a White House with a plaque to it? It is midnight and I am nearly frozen. There is no glass in the windows, no ceiling, the floor loosely laid and only three of the four doors shuttered."

Miss Raguet was quite a favorite of General Houston's and corresponded with him for many years. When he left for the Battle of San Jacinto, she made the crimson silk sash which carried his sword. After the battle the General sent her a sprig of magnolia—the promised laurel wreath pledged to her before his departure.

Later he wrote a poem on the occasion. This is in the possession of Mrs. Irion, with a keen wit and sharp memory, quotes verbatim most of the letters in her collection. She has made an intensive study of General Houston's life and has often been consulted by historians delving into early Texas history.

In one note he tells that Whalbone, a fast horse he owned, had been bested in a race. This was in August of 1838. "But he will be ready to win by fall," he adds. And in a footnote, "Keep this confidential, but look for a called session, Sept., 20-25."

An interesting item among the letters and early newspapers is a cardboard star, used by the Raquet's to cut out cloth stars for the first Confederate flag in Texas. A courier brought word of Texas' secession to General Raguet and his family in Nacogdoches.

"That night," said Mrs. Irion, "Mrs. Raguet and her daughter then Mrs. J. A. Irion, sat up making a Confederate flag similar to the one described to them by a friend in Montgomery, Ala., the first capital. As dawn broke, the flag was hoisted over the old stone fort—the first Stars and Bars in Texas."—Dallas News.

TOURISTS FOR TEXAS DURING FOREIGN WARS

With foreign wars diverting tourists to domestic and Mexican playgrounds, Texas is the object of greater vacationist interest than ever before. "We are getting so many inquiries about Texas that we literally can't afford to buy the postage to answer them all," says Frank D. Quinn, executive secretary of the State Parks Board. A million out-of-town cars already are entering Texas every year. If these bring only two occupants each, the visitors' spending—estimated at $7.50 a day for each—brings the share $150,000,000 a year.

Texas is doing a good job in improving her highways and in expanding and developing her system of state parks. But much more can be done, under both public and private initiative, to exploit the state's scenic assets. Early steps should include provision of land for the proposed Big Bend National Park, development of more high-class vacation resorts—especially in the mountains and on the Gulf—and imposition of strict control over billboards and other signs along Texas highways.

Cities not in the tourist sections will benefit from the spending that visitors do while traveling through. And some of these communities may be able to develop tourist attractions that will add materially to their income.

A standard driver's license law in Texas would put a premium on competence and skill in driving. It would provide an effective means for removing the incompetent or dangerous drivers from the road.

It's the dangerous few drivers that need to be curbed for the safety of the rest of us. A standard driver's license law that can be enforced would leave more room on Texas highways for the safe motorists.

AID OF NEIGHBORS SAVES FARM LAND

LUBBOCK. — Bad luck hit the Whatleys just after they'd finished the spring plowing on the 500-acre back part of their farm at Woodrow near here.

J. R., the father, got sick. They hauled him off to a sanitarium with a bad head. Then Mrs. Whatley "took down." To top it off the wind started blowing, threatening to carry off all the top soil on a section J. R. hadn't gotten around to plowing before he became sick.

It was then that the neighbors took a hand.

Led by T. L. Morris, they rounded up all the tractors in the district—26 of them—and gathered on the Whatley ranch one morning. By dusk they had listed the entire section.

LACK OF ENERGY

Unfortunately, the average community loses many opportunities because it is negligent about doing at it should do early enough to a disadvantage. The trouble is not lack of vision, but a lack of energy. Though we admit the necessity or opportunity. We are prone to inaction until the pressure of immediate need forces us into action. As a result of this we often lose many advantages and opportunities which could be seized by early preparation to meet a known situation.

A Man's Prayer

Let me live, O Mighty Master, Such a life as man should know, Testing triumph and disaster. Joy—and not too much of woe. Let me run the gamut over: Let me fight and love and laugh, And when I'm beneath the clover, Let this be my epitaph! — "Here lies one who took his chances"

In the busy world of men: Battled luck and circumstances, Fought and fell and fought again, Won sometimes, but did not crowing.

Lost sometimes, but did not wail; Took his beating, kept on going, Never let his courage fail. He was fallible and human, Therefore loved and understood. Both his fellow men and women, Whether good or not so good, Kept his spirits undiminished; Never false to any friend; Played the game until it finished; Lived a sportsman to the end. —Author Unknown.

Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell, whose tall form, gray hair and big, white hat makes him outstanding in any group, is executive vice-president of the Texas Real Estate Association, Property Owners Division, and he hurls these pertinent questions:

"Do you know that real estate is paying over 60 per cent of our tax burden, State and local?"

"That such tax bill is approximately $224,000,000 and that real property pays $136,000,000 of this sum?"

"That, if taxes were properly equalized, real property would pay only $56,000,000?"

"That property owners are paying every other nature of tax, in addition to ad valorem taxes?"

"That the cost of operating the State government has increased 700 per cent during the last 20 years while population has increased only 40 per cent and taxable wealth only 43 per cent?"

METHODIST CHURCH

C. D. Wooten, pastor

For a safe diet daily each person needs at least one serving of whole grain products daily, according to the Texas Food Standard. In a year's time that amounts to 170 pounds. Whole grain products have been studied during January by home demonstration club members. Whole grain products are good sources of vitamin B-thiamin and minerals—to meet the daily requirement in the diet one way is by the uses of whole wheat flour.

Over a hundred club members report that the following whole wheat muffins all delicious and easily prepared.

- 1 1/3 cups whole wheat flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 to 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 2 to 4 tablespoons fat-melted

Mix the dry ingredients together combine the beaten egg, milk and fat. Add to the dry ingredients all at once; stir just enough to moisten and give the mixture a rough appearance. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven for about 20 minutes. Yield 12-2 inch muffins.

Mrs. Kay Young of the Enterprise home demonstration club says that she takes her wheat to the mill and has her whole wheat flour ground and make a saving of around three dollars per hundred pounds.

Brown rice a whole grain products is a good source of thiamin. Creamed salmon and rice seemed to be the favorite rice recipe during January.

- 1 can salmon
- 1-4 cup melted fat
- 3-4 cup flour
- 1 quart milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup uncooked brown rice
- Onion pulp if desired

Remove bones from the salmon. Blend the melted fat and flour thoroughly. Add the cold milk and salt. Heat and stir constantly until thickened. Cook in double boiler for about 10 minutes. Wash and cook rice in boiling salted water for about 30 minutes, until tender. Drain. Add salmon and rice to sauce. Mix well and serve hot.
