WACO NOW CLAIMS TITLE OF TEXAS OLDEST CITY

WACO, — Waco is laying claim to the title of "America's oldest city"—it has borne its present name since 1541.
 A tribe of Indians had a settlement along the Brazos river here when the first white man visited the territory in 1542, 23 years before Saint Augustine, Fla., generally regarded as the oldest settlement in the New World, was founded.
 Dr. Robert T. Hill, historian and Baylor University graduate, published the findings, uncovered in diaries of the early explorers of the region and reported that a writer had visited the site in 1542.
 By that year the settlement had been named "Guasco". At that time the letter "W" was not included in the Spanish alphabet and the explorers of Masco's expedition chasing Coronado through central Texas were forced to invent a phonetic spelling of the Indian Tribe's name.
 The spelling was not rigid, and it soon became Huasco (pronounced wa-co), still because of the lack of the letter W. The tribe that lived in the Brazos river settlement today is known as "Huaco" or "Huaco" Indians.
 A century or so later the town's name was anglicized and became Waco.
 It is on this chain of events that the city's claim to the title of the nation's oldest city rests.

Observations OFF--HAND

Bishop Warren A. Candler, one of America's most noted Methodist ministers, died at his home in Atlanta, Georgia on September 5. He was eighty-four years old.
 Bishop Candler was one minister who did not believe in preachers mixing in politics and refused repeatedly to take part in elections. He believed his work was to hold up Jesus Christ to a sinful world and this he did faithfully as long as he was able to preach. He frequently said that he had received no commission to preach politics.

He was elevated to the high office of Bishop at 53 years of age after he had served as pastor for many years and had also served as president of Emory College for a time.
 Bishop Candler was largely responsible for the defeat of the unionification of the Northern and Southern branches of the Methodist Church in 1925 and was known far and wide as a strong advocate of prohibition. In all he served the church of his choice for more than fifty years.

He was a brother of Asa G. Candler who amassed a great fortune in the Coca-Cola business.
 From the Abilene Reporter-News: Few West Texans can equal the record of Mr. and Mrs. Claude King of Putnam.
 They have three sons in service. Meet them:
 Claude C. King Jr., army medical corps, Burnie Field, 81 Thomas, Virgin Islands. He enlisted July 8, 1940.
 Kenneth Keith King, chief bugler, USS Saratoga, in care of postmaster, San Diego, Calif. He also went into service July 9, 1940.
 Calvin L. King section leader F. F. U.S. Naval Armory, Detroit, Mich. He joined May 21, 1941.

To top off their record, Mr. and Mrs. King also have a son-in-law, Thomas L. Allday, chief petty officer, who has been in the navy sixteen years, and who now is stationed at Norfolk, Va.
 The recent nationwide drive for aluminum has yielded an estimated total of 11,825,139 pounds according to a late announcement of officials.
 The aluminum was sold to smelters by the Government and the funds derived from the sale went into the U. S. Treasury. Officials have not announced the amount received from the sale.

The world's first woman to use a typewriter, Mrs. C. L. Fortier, died recently at her home in Milwaukee at the age of 84.
 She is also known as the world's first typist although she never became a professional in this respect. Her father, C. Latham Shoes, together with Carlos Glidden, built the first successful typewriter and the daughter was the first person to use it.
 Mrs. Fortier received special honors by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs at a gathering in New York a few years ago.
 The Captain of a certain sailing vessel was questioning a new hand regarding his knowledge of ships and the sea. After repeatedly receiving wrong answers, he asked, in exasperation:
 "Hang it all, tell me this:—Where is the mizzen mast?"
 "I don't know. How long has it been mizzzen?"
 A small boy, leading a donkey, passed by an army camp. A couple of soldiers wanted to have some fun with the boy.
 "What are you selling on to your brother so tight for, sonny?" he asked.
 "So he won't join the army," replied the youngster.

The city of Waco is soon to have a modern well equipped glass container factory, according to recent announcement. It will be built by the Owens Illinois Glass Company of Toledo, Ohio and will produce employment for 20 to 300 persons and will cost more than $1,000,000. Texas contractors have been awarded the work which will be started at an early date.
 According to reports, President Roosevelt has acknowledged he made a mistake in moving up the date of our National Thanksgiving day one week ahead of our traditional date and Governor Coke Stevenson has said it will be observed in Texas on the fourth Thursday in November the 27th and there will be no Thanksgiving in Texas, according to the Governor.

NEWS BRIEFS OF BYGONE DAYS

Little Squibs Gleaned From Files Of Review

June 8, 1923: J. H. Williamson, who lives only about a mile and half west of town was visited by a young tornado last Saturday morning. It completely wrecked his garage and twisted off a number of fruit trees, coming within fifteen feet of the house, where Mrs. Williamson was alone. Mr. Williamson and children were picking berries close by and they were in position to witness the entire performance.
August 10, 1923: Mr. Babe Wood of this city and Miss Pearl Anderson, of Rising Star, were united in wedlock Thursday evening of last week, by Justice of Peace, P. Smith, at his home. The couple will make their home in Cross Plains. Mr. Wood is connected with the Cross Plains Motor Co. Both contracting parties are very popular and have many friends.

September 21, 1923: Miss Vernie Crabbs, as Cross Plains Dutchess, will represent our city at the West Texas Fair at Abilene, Monday. In the opening pageant, Miss Ruby Henderson will accompany her as Maid of Honor, and Mr. Paul Harrell as her Knight. The party will be accompanied by a large delegation from this city. The band and other representatives will be there Wednesday, Cross Plains Day.
September 21, 1923: The Municipal Band will entertain on the streets Monday evening at 7:30 with a free concert. The band is in splendid form, and a good program is assured.
November 9, 1923: Coy Brown, of Abilene, died last week from accidental gunshot wound self inflicted. He and another boy were out hunting, and upon deciding to make a several mile journey, they placed the Brown boy's gun in a dense thicket where it would be safe until their return. Late in the day, they returned and Coy reached to pull his gun out of the brush, holding it by the barrel, when there was a flash and a report and he fell back with a fatal wound in his chest. He is the son of John Brown, prosperous Abilene farmer. Interment was made in the Abilene cemetery.

January 4, 1924: Elmer S. Cavanaugh and Miss Martha A. Harris of the Dressy community, were married Sunday, December 30, Elder J. M. Harlow officiating, performing the ceremony at his home here.

January 25, 1924: People were here Monday from all directions to attend Trades Day. There were lots of livestock here for sale or trade, and the interest was lively. The business houses had a good business, which goes to prove that folks wore their trading clothes. There were a large number of sales and exchanges reported with the livestock.

April 18, 1924: Five frame business houses were destroyed by fire at Clyde on Wednesday of last week, the loss being estimated at $20,000. Among the buildings destroyed were a hotel and Telephone Exchange.

May 29, 1924: During the rain storm Sunday night Mrs. Olive Dennis was severely shocked by lightning. The doctor was called to administer aid, and Monday morning she was reported to have practically recovered from the shock, with the exception of nervous condition, which usually follows a shock for several days.

August 8, 1924: The entire force of the Cross Plains Motor Company including management and employees, with families and a few friends enjoyed a big social affair last Friday evening. They motored over to the Bayou. After a swim, they had lunch, which consisted of ice cream, cake, chicken and etc. Every one enjoyed the occasion very much and it was late in the evening when they adjourned and headed for home.

November 28, 1924: The Barry Bros. now with headquarters at Comanche, announce that they are going to put in a cold storage plant here during the first of the year, and if an adequate water supply can be obtained they contemplate the construction of a modern ice factory here. They have just recently purchased the ice plants at Comanche, DeLeon, Gorman and Rising Star.

Jack Richardson of San Antonio, visited his father, Dub Richardson, and other relatives here the past week end.

Mrs. Winnie Williams visited in the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williams, in Weatherford the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Caton met Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Caton, of Houston, in Georgetown, for a brief visit Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Crabtree and children and Mrs. Allie Crabtree and children, of Ranger, visited Rube and Miss Lydia Gray last Sunday.

Patsy McNoel, Earline Sillix, Billie Ruth Lovins and Hoyt Byrd, students in North Texas State Teachers College, spent the past week end here with their parents.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

After a break in our regular church program we are glad to announce that beginning next Sunday, October 12th, all the church services will be assumed, and we hope that we can continue without another hindrance.

Sunday school 9:45. Morning service of worship 11 o'clock. Evening service at 7:30.

In the first Sunday evening of September we began a study of New Testament prophecy and had only three services till our health forced us to rest awhile. Now that we can continue this course of study, we will take up where we left off the third Sunday of September, and begin with this course next Sunday evening.

People everywhere, in these days of war, are asking many questions about the events of the end time. Prophecy does give us all that we need to know of future events.

"The channels of history are already dug". The Bible does record future history just as accurately as it gives past history.

This future history is what we are studying together in these evening services. Next Sunday will be a study of "The Future History of the Jews". Come and join us in this study if you are interested in "Future History".

Baptist Church

Last Sunday was a good day with our church. We had four additions, Mr. and Mrs. Hale, also Mr. and Mrs. Tibbets. We are expecting much good to our church by these additions.

Several visitors, from out of town were with us.

The deacons of the church had a meeting during the afternoon and discussed the budget for the ensuing associational year. This budget will be presented to the church Sunday morning for discussion and adoption. All church members are requested to be there at the eleven o'clock hour.

Our church letter to the association shows a net increase of nine members for the year just closed. Also an increase of $347.00 over 1940.

We are grateful for the past. But let us take courage to go forward, beginning now.

Hope to see you Sunday, Cordially, C. E. POE, Pastor

County Agent's Column

After the showing of seven Purebred Poland China gilts in the Callahan County Fair, the 4-H club members took their hogs to Abilene last week to be entered in the contest there.

As stated in the contest each first place gilt in each of the six counties won a registered Jersey heifer. At the time of the judging of the gilts only five heifers had been purchased for distribution to the counties and one other had to be bought by a mail order concern.

The sixth heifer was purchased from I. B. Duck, Jr., of Abilene for $80, and when the six boys from Taylor, Eastland, Jones, Coleman, Shuckelford and Callahan counties drew the twisted ropes, Bill Fields, 4-H club member, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fields, drew the rope that had the $80 heifer, on the other end.

Each County 4-H Club had an individual contest in which Bill Fields, Moran, route two, gilt placed first winning the Jersey Heifer, Welbourne Jones, Bayou Club member, second, winning one hundred Baby Chicks, Britain Webb, fourth, winning fifty Baby Chicks, R. L. Payne, Eula, third, winning seventy-five Baby Chicks, Harold Ferguson, Eula fifth winning fifth Baby Chicks, Billie Mae Jobe, sixth and fifty Baby Chicks, Foy Tarver, Clyde, seventh and 50 Baby Chicks, Marshall Jolly, Clyde, who owns a gilt received in the essay contest last April did not bring his gilt to the show.

Carnie Tyler, Clyde, showing L. M. Tyler's male Poland China hog won fourth in strong competition.

The best five gilts from any of the six counties was won by Eastland county and a premium of ten dollars. The champion gilt of the show was shown by Billy Richards of Taylor county and this awarded him a premium of ten dollars.

FIRST TIN SMELTER IN U. S. TO START SOON AT TEXAS CITY

Construction on the United States' first large-scale commercial tin smelter will start soon at Texas City, Texas, it was learned Monday.

The smelter is intended to handle Bolivian ore and make up for the imports as a result of disruption operations.

The construction contract was by war of shipping and smelting reported signed recently between Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., engineering firm and the Tin Processing Corporation, which includes in its personnel some of the men formerly connected with Holland's tin smelting industry.

The processing corporation, it was said, signed on behalf of a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Thus the Federal Government, through its agencies, will foot the bill and control the output of the smelter.

AMBITION AND HIGH SPEED CUT U. S. LIFE SPAN, WARNS PHYSICIAN

CLEVELAND —The world would be better off if man had the habit of lying in bed one morning each week.

That's the comforting concept of a noted physician who recently told the American Medical Association that ambition is shortening the business tycoon's life span.

Ambition and "the strenuous life" are just as hazardous to the executive's health as his obesity and excessive use of tobacco and alcohol, declared Dr. Edgar V. Allen, chief of the medicine division at Mayo Clinic.

He proposed a five-day week, eight-hour day program for business men.

"The business man fails to take the long view of life," Dr. Allen asserted. "He plans his life, aside from his annuities and insurance, as if he were to live forever. So he works hard to accumulate funds with which to play tomorrow."

"All too frequently he lies mauling and muttering in a hospital bed, painting his life away as a result of high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, or he stumbles and falls from apoplexy or after a shudderingly severe episode of cardiac pin he is hurried off into the sleep from which there is no awakening."

"Could man see how small, how insignificant, how unimportant his individual life is, he might shape it so that he would achieve more of happiness and content and less of material success and perhaps ill health."

"Ambition drives those who have no capabilities into unhappiness, dissatisfaction and ill health. It has its beginnings in childhood with such advice as 'You be a good boy and work hard and some day you will be President, Johnny.' But Johnny probably won't be President."

Dr. Allen described the tycoon as a man "running or walking up an ascending escalator. He eats too much. He smokes too much because under his nervous tension he feels he must do something with his hands. He drinks too much, seeking a lift from 'rain fog,' and pessimism."

For the business-man's longevity, the physician prescribed: Digging a dahlia bed, or another hobby that affords relaxation; golf for recreation, not for low score; occasional fasting, elimination of fats from the diet, moderate in drinking and smoking; more fishing and hunting for diversion.

Some people drop their sorrows in the flowing box some jump into the sea of matrimony, and some bear them bravely and become them.
