These are cryolite for control of bean beetles, cucumber beetles, cabbage worms and other insects which feed upon the fruit worm, flea beetles, plant lice and leaf hoppers; and concentrated pyrethrum dust for squash bugs, stink bugs, and harlequin cabbage bugs. Watch the garden for the first sign of injury and dust both sides of leaves.

Apply poison bait late in the afternoon for control of cut worms, grasshoppers and adult wingless May beetle, or June bug. Poison bait also will control mole crickets which frequent sandy soils.

A bait made of cryolite, finely chopped carrots or turnips and wheat bran will control the adult vegetable weevil which attacks roots and foliage of carrots, turnips, radishes and beets, together with cabbage, mustard and other leafy vegetables. This pest prevails in 30 or 40 counties adjacent to College Station.

To control the bluish-gray pill bugs, or sow bugs, which damage young tomato plants, sprinkle a mixture of two parts flour, two parts sugar and one part paris green throughout the beds. Flea beetles, also dangerous to these plants, may be controlled by dustng plants with rotenone and sulphur each seven to ten days.

Cantaloupes, now coming up in southern areas, may be protected from the striped cucumber beetle, which feeds beneath the first small leaves, by dusting with cube or derris powder of four per cent rotenone content, or with cryolite at ten day intervals as long as beetles are present.
