MILLION DOLLARS WILL BE INVESTED IN CASING HEAD GAS PLANTS IN LOGG FIELD

The big casing head absorption plant of the McMan Company on the Gooch farm east of town is nearing completion and the similar plant of the Brown Oil Co., located just southeast of the Pioneer town-site, is reported in operation, while the Invincible Oil Corp. are rushing along on a plant of about the same capacity just north of Pioneer.

Two other companies are reported to have machinery on the road for the erection of casing head plants and it seems the next few months will see a vast deal more of activity along this line in the field east of town.

These plants are the last word in utilizing the great oil field by product of wet gas and as the old joke goes about the pork packer using everything but the hog's squeal, these plants go him one better and their specialty is using the oil well's squeal.

Most any kind of inflammable natural gas contains a certain per cent of gasoline but the gas coming from an oil well being saturated with the direct oil vapors quite naturally contains the largest per cent of gasoline extraction; for this reason the casing head plant is seldom a buying competitor of the natural gas distributing companies for this wet gas if burned as fuel throws off smoke, soot and vapors that render it undesirable for fuel, so it may be said that these plants use principally a grade of gas that is fitted for no other purpose and in the old days was almost without exception allowed to go to waste.

The process of extraction is chiefly compression and to develop this compression a great deal of engine horse power is used; the power unit representing one of the large investments of a casing head plant.

The gas from the wells in the Cross Plains-Pioneer field is of unusually high gasoline content due to the extremely light oil from which it originates and it is claimed will produce from two to two and one half gallons of gasoline per 1000 feet of gas and at the present price being paid for this gas a well will produce from $15 to $30 per day from this by-product alone with the added feature that this gas production usually continues in the older fields long after the oil production has fallen off.

At Dardemona and in certain districts around Wichita Falls this industry is no longer secondary to the oil production but is now looked upon as surpassing in value the small oil production of the older wells. In addition to its value to owners and operators the employment pay-roll is of vital interest to the commercial welfare of all oil towns where located for any considerable number of these plants means a permanent payroll of no mean proportions that stays on after the rush of development has passed, and Cross Plains and Pioneer are indeed fortunate in securing such a number of these plants located such a short distance away.

When completed the plants already under construction and those planned for the immediate future will represent an investment of well along toward a million dollars.

For Sale—Mammoth Bronze Turkeys, gobblers and hens. Mrs. N. J. Head, Cross Plains, Route No. 2.

Crabb, McNeel and Tom Bryant, associated with T. B. Slick, have completed their Elsberry 1, wildcat for a 50 barrel producer at a total depth of 233 feet. This well is practically in the center of the 250 acre Elsberry lease and adjoins a 5600 acre block owned by the same operators. The top of the pay was reached at 1388 feet and has been penetrated only 15 feet, the find comes from a true sand though the well is in what has been supposed to be a lime country.

This is by far the most important well completed in the Cross Plains territory in the past several weeks, being situated about one mile east of the big shallow gasser on the Star case and about the same distance from the old Newton gasser that has been producing gas for more than two years without apparent loss in volume and almost in line between these wells and the well of Gillette & Magnus a 40 barrel producer from the same formation though some three miles away in the opposite direction from the gas discoveries. This is now considered positively proven oil territory for the entire distance of above three miles between the two wells with future possibilities of much larger wells as the drills close in on the center of the structure and win depth considered old operators claim it will prove a mecca for the operator that is seldom obtained in the Texas fields.

This discovery has also solved the mystery of the constant flow of oil from the outside of the pipe on the old Newton gasser as it is now proven to come from this same pay the old log of that well showing 18 feet of sand at that depth but apparently non-productive at the time the well was drilled.

This seems to further prove that this shallow pay extends even under that section which means the field will open up a scope of country more than four miles long northeast with a width varying from one and a half to two and a half miles. The strike is about 8 miles almost due south of Cross Plains. It is claimed the wells can be drilled and equipped at a total cost of less than $8000 with a good bet that parts of the field will be found to have sufficient gas to bring forth gushers, lack of gas being the chief handicap of the discovery well.

A Famous Invention That Makes The Brunswick A Super-Phonograph

No one feature of the Brunswick Method of reproduction has done so much to revolutionize people's ideas of the difference between phonographs as the Ulica.

It was one of the many Brunswick superiorities that attracted us. This Ulicia is an exclusive Brunswick idea, covered by patent.

At a turn of the hand it plays all makes of records—not an attachment, but a part of the design. The Ulicia obtains better playing results.

But this is not the only advantage. It is counterbalanced—the only scientific reproducer that cushions the path of the needle by proper suspension. This means an end to "scratching" noises. It means bringing out the hidden beauties of the record. It means a longer lasting record, one that retains its newness.

If the Brunswick had no other advantages over ordinary phonographs, this one feature should decide you in its favor. But there are many other exclusive features. We want to point them out to you, so that you can make intelligent comparisons. You buy only one phonograph—you might as well take time to investigate—find out before you decide.

Let us bring you one to hear it over night in your home.

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

Teethina Ends Babies' Colds In a Twinkling

Mothers all over the South are fast learning that Teethina, the wonderful prescription of a famous physician, is the best remedy on earth for breaking up a baby's cold almost overnight.

Thousands are testifying that Teethina stopped their children's colds while they slept and scores of others say whenever their baby starts sneezing or the nose begins running, they just give them Teethina and that's the end of the cold.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon the necessity of breaking up a child's cold before it gets a hold and thereby preventing serious troubles, such as bronchitis, tonsillitis, the terrible mastoiditis and many other dangerous troubles of children. Wise mothers know this and always keep Teethina on hand.

Your druggist sells it or the Moffett Laboratories, Columbus, Ga., will send you a regular size package and a valuable booklet on the care of the baby. If you will send them 30c.—Advertisement.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

SEEK PLAN TO END LABOR TROUBLES

PRESIDENT HARDING AND HIS CABINET ARE CONSIDERING MANY SUGGESTIONS.

ACTION BY CONGRESS LIKELY

Abolishing of Railway Labor Board and Enactment of Legislation Like Canada's Industrial Disputes Investigation Law Proposed.

By JAMES F. HORNADAY
Washington—President Harding and members of his cabinet are giving careful consideration to many suggestions as to how the country may obtain a larger measure of freedom from labor troubles. It is the present intention of the President, it is well understood, to discuss some of the more pertinent of these suggestions in his address to congress in December. There is apparently a general demand throughout the country that congress shall write into the law of the land some new plan for settling disputes between capital and labor. It is a question whether much can be done with the subject at the short session which will begin in December and end on March 4. In some quarters there is already talk of an extra session next spring, which would be devoted entirely to the subject of industrial peace.

There is a somewhat insistent demand that the administration shall favor legislation providing for compulsory arbitration, but it is reasonably certain that the administration will not lend its indorsement to such a program. Even if the executive department should advocate compulsory arbitration, it is a question, it is asserted, whether congress could be persuaded to follow the leadership of the President. As the situation presents itself at this time, two outstanding proposals are being considered.

1. The repeal of the provisions of the transportation act of 1920, under which the railroad labor board was created.

2. The enactment of legislation providing for some such plan as is in operation in Canada—the enactment of an industrial disputes investigation law.

Stands by the Labor Board.
Thus far the Harding administration has not indicated that it has lost faith in the railroad labor board. To the contrary, the President has said publicly on several occasions during the last two months that he felt that the board had justified its existence. Supporters of the railroad labor board not only would not like it abolished, but would like to see its powers broadened and see it removed to Washington and set down alongside the interstate commerce commission. It is certain, however, that the board will be a real issue before congress when that body proceeds to the consideration of legislation relating to industrial disputes.

When the transportation legislation was before congress early in 1920, many good things were said about the Canadian plan for settling labor troubles, but the organized workmen in the United States were not ready at that time to accept the Canadian law, and so congress dropped that plan and set up the railroad labor board. The situation has undergone a change. Organized workmen in the United States, and particularly organized railroad employees, are now very generally inclined to look with favor on the Canadian plan, so it is asserted.

Canadian Law Liked.
One of the arguments now being put forth in support of Canada's law is that the shompen employed in Canada by international railroads—railroads that have part of their mileage in the United States and part in Canada—did not strike when their union brethren in the United States quit work. The international railroads of Canada reduced the wages of their shompen, but instead of striking the shompen applied for boards of inquiry and conciliation under the industrial disputes act. This machinery has thus far prevented any walkouts on the Canadian railroads.

Under the Canadian law a board is appointed for each individual dispute. It consists of three members, one named by the employees directly concerned, one by the company, and the third, if these two shall fail to agree, by the government. The awards of these boards are not compulsory. After the award under the Canadian law has been made, either side may refuse to accept it. But it is asserted that the law has maintained industrial peace throughout Canada since it was enacted; and the law has of course had its trial through the after-the-war reconstruction period—a period that has produced many labor troubles in Canada and elsewhere.

It is certain that when congress convenes, either in special session in November or in regular session in December, there will be a flood of bills proposing ways for settling strikes. The administration is obviously ambitious to have a program of its own—a program that will appeal to the country and to congress. It is with this in mind that the President is taking counsel from week to week with men whose advice is worth listening to.

More Long-Time Bonds.
The new government bonds will be 30-year bonds, dated October 16, 1922, maturing October 15, 1962, and redeemable at the option of the United States on and after October 15, 1947. The bonds will be issued in both coupon and registered form, in denominations of $100 and upwards. This is a refunding issue, and it affords an opportunity to holders of 4 1/2 per cent Victory notes to acquire a long-time government bond in place of Victory notes which will mature or be redeemed within the next few months.

On April 30, 1921, when the treasury first announced its refunding program, the gross public debt, on the basis of daily treasury statements, amounted to about $24,000,000,000, of which over $7,500,000,000 was maturing within about two years. On September 30, 1922, the total gross debt on the same basis stood about $22,800,000,000, and of the early maturing debt about $4,000,000,000 had already been retired or refunded, chiefly into short-term treasury notes with maturities spread over the next four fiscal years.

There will fall due this fiscal year about $1,100,000,000 of treasury certificates of indebtedness, about $625,000,000 maturity value of war savings certificates of the series of 1918, and about $1,800,000,000 Victory notes. Of the treasury certificates, about $48,000,000 represents Pittman act certificates which will be retired this year through the recollapse of silver bullion; while about $100,000,000 of loan certificates, maturing October 16, 1922, will be paid out of funds already in hand. The retirement of these certificates will leave only tax certificates outstanding.

New Savings Certificates.

After October 16, 1922, the next maturities fall on December 15, and include about $870,000,000 face amount of 4 1/2 per cent Victory notes called for redemption, and about $420,000,000 of maturing tax certificates of series TD and TD-2-1922, against which the treasury will receive in December about $250,000,000 of income and profits taxes. On January 1, 1923, $825,000,000 of war savings certificates become payable, but the treasury has already announced a new offering of treasury savings certificates with a view to refunding as much as possible of the maturity into obligations of the same general character and with the same appeal to the needs of the small investor.

The treasury will shortly announce special facilities for the exchange of maturing war savings certificates for the new treasury savings certificates, and plans in this manner to provide for a substantial part of the war savings maturity. The only treasury certificates maturing in the second half of the fiscal year 1923, are about $266,000,000 on March 15, 1923, and about $278,000,000 on June 15, 1923, both of which are covered by the income and profits tax payments estimated for those dates. On May 20, 1923, the remaining $930,000,000 of 4 1/2 per cent Victory notes will mature.

The maturities which remain and have to be refunded, the treasury will meet through issues of refunding securities, properly adjusted to market conditions, and Secretary Mellon believes it will be able to meet them without disturbance to the markets and without strain on the financial machinery.

Market Hasn't Been Disturbed.

During the course of the refunding operations which have been in progress, the treasury has issued from time to time treasury certificates of indebtedness, treasury notes and treasury savings certificates, all relatively short term. These operations have been successful and have been accomplished without disturbance to the market for outstanding securities. With the announcement of the bonds now offered, the treasury is adding to its list a refunding issue of long-time bonds. These bonds will provide through exchanges and otherwise, for a substantial part of heavy maturities falling on December 15, and the success of the offering will leave only a normal amount of financing to be placed on that date.

It is four years since the treasury has offered to the people of the United States an issue of long-time government bonds. During that period it has been financing itself on a short-term basis, and it has succeeded in placing with investors throughout the country a great volume of treasury certificates and treasury notes.

The whole situation in regard to Liberty bonds and Victory bonds which the American people purchased so generously during the war has shown great improvement within the last few months. The treasury department is of the opinion that there is small likelihood of these bonds ever going below par again, and says that undoubtedly a great many persons who sold their holdings of these bonds when their value was depressed now regret that action.

Prevention of Goitre.

Goitre seems to be prevalent in some sections and it now seems that its ravages may be easily prevented. "Simple goitre is the easiest of all diseases to prevent," wrote Doctor Marine, the great specialist in this disease, some time ago. Iodine is known to be necessary to the normal function of the thyroid gland. Goitre is an expression of deficiency of iodine in the thyroid, and the elaborate experiments made recently by Dr. O. P. Kimball on the school children of Akron, O., furnish conclusive evidence that administering a minute quantity of iodine every day acts as a preventative in such regions where goitre prevails.

FRIGHTENED FACES PEER FROM WINDOW

Smoke Hides Girls From Onlookers' View—Death is Feared.

New York.—One man was killed and eighteen persons were injured when a five story factory building on South Thirteenth street, in Brooklyn, was destroyed by fire.

Several girls trapped by the flames jumped from the windows.
A report, which could not be confirmed, said that fifteen girls were trapped in the upper floors of the building, occupied by shirt factories, as the flames swept up from the cellar and ground floor, which was used as a plant for the manufacture of shellac by the Kasbler-Chatfield Company.

Contradictory statements as to the number of persons in the building at the time of the fire were made to the authorities. Employers who leased the top floors as shirt factories said that all the girls had left before the fire started.

District Attorney Ruston and Fire Marshal Brophy immediately established an office in a garage near the factory, where they summoned all witnesses who were able to attend to be questioned on the origin and progress of the blaze.

In the windows of the fifth floor,
the frightened faces of girls peered against the glass for a moment. Then a cloud of smoke burst forth as several of the windows were broken.

Irish Free State Brand Prisoners.
New York—Irish Free State soldiers brand their prisoners to prevent their escape and to aid in their recapture, Kathleen Boland, sister of the late Harry Boland, one time American representative of the Irish Republic, said when she arrived on the Cedric.
She will remain in America for two months to collect money for the Irish Republican soldiers and dependents' relief fund.

Scraps of Humor

AN IMPORTANT MATTER

Wedding Guest—Where's the bride groom?
Bride—Just gone out on a little errand.
Wedding Guest—Something important, I suppose, or he wouldn't have left you so soon after the ceremony.
Bride—Oh, yes; he went out to see if papa's wedding check was good.

Sparing His Feelings.
"I want a word of advice."
"Well?" replied Mr. Wadleigh, grimly.
"What is the best way to approach
you for a loan?"
"If you are sensitive, you had better write for it, and when I get my reply tear it up without reading it."
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Photographer's "Look Pleasant."
The photographer was taking a picture of a newly engaged pair and there was some difficulty in getting the right expression.
"Too strained," he said, "too strained. Don't think of each other all the time. Just look pleasant."—London Tit-Bits.

A Different Station.
Witty traffic cops who have in New York, according to the Evening Sun. A speeding motorist explained: "I am on my way to the station to see a friend off."
"No, you're not," said the cop, as he climbed aboard. "You are on your way to see yourself in."

Fond Aunt—Bobbie, what plant nourishes in excessive heat?
Bobbie—Ice plants.

You Don't Seigh!
"I'd like to marry you," said Mabel Felch,
"For you have such a pleasant weight."
"No, no, I fear, get very little weight, and so I'll have to tell you no."

The Course of Love.
Misses—Nora, that wasn't your paddy I saw you talking to just now.
Nora—No, mum; that's a new one.
Paddy's away on his vacation.
"But is that exactly fair, Nora?"
"Ah, mum, 'when the Pat's away,
the Mike will play."

A Wifely Sentiment.
"This movie star says his wife beats him."
"But he's a two-gun man of the green."
"I understand she only tackles him during his leisure moments. She has no desire to interfere with his art."

Tested.
The Proud Mother—Haven't you heard baby laugh? He can laugh out-loud.
The Doubting Father—No, You're kidding. He can't laugh. I told him two of my best stories and he never even smiled.

AROUSES CURIOSITY
The Luncheon Customer: Yes,
you have quite an attractive little place. But why do you print your menu in French?
The Proprietor: Do you think these shoppers would buy kidney steak or beef liver and onions in English?

No Joke.
Success, we're told, requires hard work.
And that, no doubt, is true enough;
still, to make good, you're gonna find,
You also need a lot of blarf.

Evidently.
"Dat Ann Eliza done got eight fam-lies to wash fur."
"She needs a husband to manage her mistress."

Wise William.
"Who is your leading optimist?"
"Bill Sprout, president of our Don't Worry club."
"How does he retain his cheerful disposition?"
"By persistently refusing to buy a motor car."

Humanly Impossible.
Friend—Don't you wish you knew as much as your children think you do?
Phamlee—No; I wish I knew as much as my children think they do.

Rare Find in English Church.
After three centuries of concealment behind plaster and rubbish, the remains of a fourteenth century stained-glass window have been discovered at Chelsea (England) Old church. The old glass, which is of immense value, was found between layers of soft plaster behind a mass of old bricks. In one window only a fragment of a border was found, but in the other a panel two feet by two was brought to light. The panel is nearly complete, the head of the figure—apparently that of St. Lawrence or St.
Stephen—is missing. The glass seems to be of a date not later than the middle of the fourteenth century. With the exception of Westminster abbey, there is no London church with its own glass so early a date.

Authority Makes Plea for Games That Are Characterized by Energy and Vim.

"Jellyfish gymnastics, or stupid, silly games, played half-heartedly, have little place in the proper physical development of the growing child," declares Dr. E. Blanche Sterling, acting assistant surgeon, United States public health service, in commenting on the health of school children. In planning exercise with a view to the promotion of good posture, she suggests they should be simple and vigorous and full of energy and vim.

The posture of school children cannot, however, be said to depend chiefly on any one condition, she holds. Defective vision, adenoids and bad tonsils tend to have a bad effect on the child's posture. Where hygienic conditions in a school are not the best there is an increase of poor posture. Good nutrition is a contributing factor to good posture, but by no means an indispensable condition. Condition of the teeth, she claims, has no effect. Doctor Sterling's findings are based on a study of three elementary schools at Bedford, Ind.

Probably Didn't Get Loan
If Truth Were Insisted On

The story is told of a banker who suffered the loss of one eye and had a glass substitute made. The glass eye was wonderfully fashioned, so much so that the wearer was satisfied no one could tell it from a real organ. A day or so after he began wearing it a customer of the bank sought a loan, but the banker was not quite satisfied with the collateral. After much persuasion from the would-be borrower, the banker said:
"I will make you a sporting proposition. If you can tell which of my eyes is glass, I will make you the loan."
"That's easy," replied the other.
"It's your left eye."
"How do you know?" asked the banker.
"It is the more sympathetic of the two," responded the borrower.—Wall Street Journal.

Energetic Reform.
"Are you a reformer?"
"Of course I am," answered Senator Sorghum.
"What are you trying to reform?"
"The opposition. I'm doing my best to give them the benefit of a long term of retirement and meditation."

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO. TO BUILD NEW FACTORIES

Not less than 2,000 cars per day will be produced within six months by Chevrolet Motor Co., according to Wm. S. Knudsen, Vice-president in charge of operations.

"Additional space is imperatively needed," said Mr. Knudsen "in order to meet the increasing demand for Chevrolet cars."

"We have secured at Buffalo, N. Y., 29 1-2 acres of land about four miles from the center of the city. On it we will erect 400,000 square feet of floor space for Chevrolet production, and the Fisher body Corporation will erect 200,000 square feet on the same plot for the production of Fisher Bodies for Chevrolet. Chevrolet will employ about 2,000 men and Fisher about 1,800. The payrolls will total about $23,000 daily.

"At Cincinnati, 16 acres have been acquired in the suburb of Norwood about 5 1-2 miles from the Cincinnati City Hall. Here Chevrolet will have 200,000 square feet of floor space and Fisher 150,000." "Chevrolet will employ about 1,200 men and Fisher about 900 in the production of about 300 cars per day, with a daily payroll of $14,000." "The combined production of these new plants is 800 per day, plus present facilities of 1,300 per day, will provide a grand total production of about 2,100 Chevrolets per day, as soon as the new plants are on basis of full operation."

RIISING STAR PIG AND POULTRY SHOW NOV. 24-25

Rising Star, Nov. 8 — The Rising Star Pig and Poultry Show will be held Nov. 24-25. This year's show marks the third annual exposition of registered swine and thoroughbred poultry at this place. Last year there were more than a half hundred persons exhibiting poultry and swine here, and this year the exhibitors will likely number 100, judging from inquiries received by the local Chamber of Commerce, which conducts the exposition.

A very liberal premium list has been made up for the winners at this year's show. Premiums will be given on a large list of utility breeds in poultry and for the two principal breeds of swine grown in the Rising Star trade territory.

This show is open to the world, without charges for entrance of exhibitors or admission at the gates. Come and bring your thoroughbred poultry and registered hogs.

REV. R. O. BAILEY GOES TO SLATER

Rev. R. O. Bailey, who has held the pastorate of the local Methodist church for the past two years, was given the church at Slater, Texas, by the Methodist Conference in session at Quannab last week. We understand that Rev. R. E. L. Stutts will come to the Cross Plains church.

Durringer-Robertson.

Mr. Clyde Durringer, formerly of Fort Worth, and now connected with the daily newspaper at Cisco, and Miss Lillian Robertson were married at Rising Star last Sunday morning. Rev. Moore of the Rising Star Christian Church, performing the ceremony. They were accompanied to Rising Star by Mr. Arch Ginsley and Miss Mary Robertson, sister of the bride. The party returned to Cross Plains for the wedding dinner immediately after the ceremony, and the newlyweds departed in the late afternoon for Cisco. The bride is the excellent daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. Robertson of Cross Plains, and her many friends in this community extend congratulations and wish for them every happiness and prosperity of a united life.

Obituary.

Emma Josephene Hightower Riggs was born in the state of Alabama April 18, 1856, and departed this life October 5, 1922, at her home near Cross Plains Texas.

Mrs. Riggs was twice married; on the 7th day of January, 1873, she and C. C. Odum were united in marriage. To this union two children were born, one still living. Again on November 15, 1885, she was united in marriage to J. T. Riggs; to this marriage was born 8 children, 5 of whom are still living, all married except one, the youngest daughter. Mrs. Riggs or aunt Josie, as she was familiarly called, was a member of the M. E. Church.

She was converted when quite young and has lived a consistent Christian life until God in his divine mercy called her home. Mrs. Riggs will be missed in church and in the community in which she lived but more at home, where she was always present unless duty to the sick called her away. Besides her husband and six children she leaves 22 grand children, 3 great grand-children two brothers and one sister. May God in his love sustain and comfort her aged husband and young daughter who are now left in the home alone. We all know where to find mother; let us all live so as to meet her and be an unbroken family in heaven.

A Daughter.

Mrs. Joe Baum and sons, Budge and Brownie, came over from Abilene, where the boys are attending school, and spent the week end at home here. Mrs. Baum's father, Mr. Gilbert, also returned with them.

The Cross Plains party, composed of Ralph Chandler, Herman Rudloff, Bill Lee and Lowren Barr, returned last Monday from a ten days camp hunt in the mountains of the southwest part of the state. They report having had a great time, bagging four large deer and lots of small game. They also report the usual thrilling experience with the vicious Haverena wild hogs, which are numerous in that part of the wilds. The principal make-up of these animals is head and tusks and a natural propensity for chewing up hunters who are careless and not alert on the lookout. Mr. Lee killed seven of the vicious "varminants" while on this hunt.

BROUGHT MEMORY OF HOME

Even the Pestiferous Little Dandelion Apparently is Capable of Stirring Fond Recollections.

Two portly gentlemen were descending the steps of the House office building, when the one who was obviously a member from somewhere south directed chuckling attention to the office lawn, gold-studded with dandelions:

"Look at those little yellow cusses, will you, growing as brassy up here at the capitol as if they were down in the cow pasture at home. I've grubbed those dog-goned things up by cartloads in my time, but when I caught sight of the little upstarts this morning they gave me a sort of a friendly feeling. Do you reckon we are going to get home anywhere around harvest?"

"Harvest!" the other portly gentleman chuckled in turn, "you better be satisfied if you get back for shucking. My wife used to say that a dandelion would be considered the most beautiful flower in the world if it cost as much as an orchid." He plucked one and put it in his coat buttonhole in a way that somehow betokened that his wife was a memory of the past.

Even a little yellow cuss of a dandelion may serve as a golden key to unlock memories of love and home. —Washington Star.

HART COULDN'T DECEIVE HIM

How Chance Acquaintance at Theater Made Things Pleasant for Prominent Movie Star.

During a recent trip to New York William S. Hart slipped away from his friends and his hotel and strolled down to an East side theater where one of his early pictures was being shown.

While he sat incognito in an inconspicuous seat a man sitting next to the actor accidentally dropped his hat beneath the actor's seat. In picking it up he jostled Hart, and, taking this for an introduction, he turned to the actor, saying:

"This guy Hart is the bunk. He couldn't hit a balloon with a cannon. He couldn't stand on the back end of a street car and lasso the conductor. Why, I bet you could even show him up, and anybody can look at you and tell that you've lived in Jersey since you was a kid."

SPEED ON WATER

Henry Farman, the aviator, has built a remarkable high-speed boat that is driven by an airplane propeller, writes A. Russell Bond, in St. Nicholas. The boat is of the glider type; that is, the bottom is formed with flat, slightly inclined planes, so that, as it gathers headway, it rises out of the water and glides on the surface. The glider is 33 feet long and is equipped with a four-blade propeller driven by a 140-horsepower airplane engine. It is not a racing craft, and yet it is remarkably fast. Carrying a load of 3,000 pounds and with the engine partly throttled, it makes a normal speed of 32 miles an hour. In a recent test of speed it ran at the rate of 50 miles an hour, and this with a load of 12 passengers.

EVERYTHING HAS ITS DAY

The radio is a great thing, says an Emporia clothing dealer. When the detachable stiff cuffs went out of style the dealer was left with a stock of the old style links used to fasten the cuff and clip the cuffs to the shirt. During the past week radio bugs have bought all of the links. They use them to clip radio wires to batteries and wire coils. Where are the wire busters that grandma used to wear? What a radio set grandma used to wear and she didn't know it!—Emporia Gazette.

SHOULD BE OUTDOOR WORK

It is contended that one feature of the airplane industry is more dangerous to workers than the actual work of flying the finished machines. The indoor varnishing of the linen wings in order to make them waterproof and airproof involves the use of poisons which are often fatal to life under certain conditions. The only safe place in which to do the varnishing appears to be out of doors.

DANGEROUS GAME

"I stood on the bridge at midnight," warbled the homemade soprano. "No objection to that," mumbled Mr. Growcher. "Stand on it, but don't play it."

PARK AND BIRD SANCTUARY

Edward Bok Plans to Establish Institution on High Piece of Land in Florida.

Fourteen acres of land at the peak of the hill near Lake Wales, Florida, known as Iron mountain, the highest point in Florida, has been purchased by Edward W. Bok of Philadelphia, with the intention of establishing on the site a park and bird sanctuary. Mr. Bok, it is said, has told friends he expects to give W. H. Olmstead, well-known landscape architect, now in Europe, carte blanche in laying out and beautifying the property.

Iron mountain, included in the Mountain Lakes corporation, according to the United States geological survey, is the highest point yet measured in Florida. It also is said to be the highest land within sixty miles of the Atlantic ocean or Gulf of Mexico, between Oramme mountain, N. J., and the Rio Grande river.

From the top of Iron mountain can be seen one of the remnants of the occupation of this section of the state by the Seminole Indians. It is a huge seedling orange tree in Hickory Hammock, in the Peace River valley marsh, the sole survivor of a grove set out by the Seminoles on the then almost inaccessible island.

TO POUR LIQUOR ON GRAVE

Heirs of Wealthy Englishman Called On to Carry Out Odd Provisions of Will.

The following tale is perhaps worth including in a chapter on strange wills.

In the environs of York, England, an old bachelor recently died, leaving a considerable fortune to his heirs. His will provided, however, that unless its terms were complied with to the letter, the whole of his fortune should revert to a charitable institution. The principal provision, though extremely odd, was easy enough to execute.

The latter provided, in short, that every year, on the anniversary of the testator's death a bottle of the finest cognac and a bottle of ale should be poured over his grave. On the same day, moreover, a liberal donation of stout was to be served to a dozen worthy poor of the parish.

This little matter duly attended to, the heirs of the deceased may proceed joyously to the enjoyment of their inheritance.—Kansas City Star.

WATERPROOF CONCRETE

While concrete is ordinarily thought of as a solid, impervious material, there are, in fact, many small openings in it through which water can find its way, and this makes it unsuitable where a waterproof structure is required. This has led to a search for some substance which can be mixed with the concrete to fill these tiny openings and make the concrete waterproof. One company doing this experimental work has constructed a water tower, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, in five vertical sections, two of which are made of ordinary concrete and the other three of mixture containing some form of waterproofing material.

RADIOPHONES ON TRAINS

Radiophone equipment has been put on trains of two railroads in this country, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, namely, the Lackawanna and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. Both these companies have converted buffet cars into virtual receiving stations, wherein the passengers can don headphones and listen to the various broadcasting. The coaches are surmounted by special aerials running the length of the cars, and are of different construction, the Lackawanna using six wires and the other road two, with the entire set being grounded through the axles to the rails.

The Mardi Gras Mystery

By H. BEDFORD-JONES

CHAPTER XIV Chacherre's Bundle.

It was seven in the morning when Henry Gramont drove his car into Houma.

In the wire which he had sent over Chacherre's signature he had commanded Dick Hearne to meet Gramont at about this time at a restaurant near the court house. Putting his car at the curb, Gramont went into the restaurant and ordered a hasty breakfast. He had brought with him copies of the morning papers, and was perusing the accounts of Bob Maillard's pitifully weak story regarding his father's murder, when a stranger stopped beside him.

"Gramont?" said the other. "Thought it was you. Hearne's my name—I had orders to meet you. What's up?"

The other man dropped into the chair opposite Gramont, who put away his papers. Hearne was a sleek individual of pasty complexion who evidently served the gang in no better light than as a go-between and runner of errands. That he suspected nothing was plain from his casual manner, although he had never seen Gramont previously.

"Business," said Gramont, leaning back to let the waitress serve his breakfast. When she had departed, he attacked it hungrily. "You got Chacherre's wire about the stuff in his car? Was it burned?"

"No. He countermanded it just as I was hirin' a car to go over to Paradis," said Hearne. "What's stirrin', anyhow?"

"Plenty. Memphis Izzy's coming down today. When'll he get in?"

"He'll go direct to the other place, won't come here. Oh, I reckon he'll get there along about nine this mornin'. Why?"

"We'll have to go over there to meet him," said Gramont. "I stopped in here to pick you up. Hammond is still safe in jail?"

"Sure." Hearne laughed evilly. "I don't guess he'll get out in a hurry, neither!"

"Chacherre was pinched last night for the murder," said Gramont, watching the other.

"The h—ll!" Hearne looked astonished, then relaxed and laughed again. "Some fly cop will sure lose his buttons, then! They ain't got nothin' on him."

"I heard they had plenty." "Don't worry," Hearne waved a hand grandiloquently. "The boss is solid with the bunch up to Baton Rouge, and they'll take care of everybody. So old Ben got pinched, huh? That's one joke, man!"

Gramont's worst suspicions were confirmed by the attitude of Hearne, who plainly considered that the entire gang had nothing to fear from the law. Chacherre's boasts were backed up solidly. It was obvious to Gramont that the ramifications of the gang extended very high up, indeed.

"Better cut out the talk," he said, curtly, "until we get out of here." Hearne nodded and rolled a cigarette.

When his hasty meal was finished, Gramont paid at the counter and led the way outside. He motioned toward the car, and Hearne obediently climbed in, being evidently of so little account in the gang that he was accustomed to taking orders from everyone.

Gramont headed out of town and took the Paradis road. Before he had driven a mile, however, he halted the car, climbed out, and lifted one side of the hood.

"Give me those rags from the bottom of the car, Hearne," he said, briefly.

The other obeyed. As Gramont made no move to come and get them, Hearne got out of the car; then Gramont rose from the engine unexpectedly, and Hearne looked into a pistol.

"Hold out your hands behind you and turn around!" snapped Gramont. "No talk!"

Hearne uttered an oath, but as the pistol jerked at him he obeyed the command. Gramont took the strip of cloth, which he had preciously prepared, and bound the man's wrists.

"These are better than handcuffs," he commented. "Too many slick individuals can get rid of bracelets—but you'll have one man's job to get rid of these! Oh! a gun in your pocket, eh? Thanks!"

"What'll you do?" exclaimed the bewildered Hearne.

"Placing you under arrest," said Gramont, cheerfully.

"Here, where's your warrant? You ain't no dick—"

Gramont cut short his protests with a long cloth, which effectually bound his lower jaw in place and precluded any further idea of talk.

He then tied Dick Hearne securely, hand and foot, and then lashed him to one of the top supports of the car. When he had finished, Hearne was reasonably safe. He then climbed under the wheel again and proceeded on his way. Hearne's lashings were inconspicuous to any one whom the car passed.

It was a little after eight in the morning when Gramont drove into Paradis. He noticed that two large automobiles were standing in front of the post office, and that about them were a group of men who eyed him and his car with some interest. Paying no attention to these, he drove on through the town without a halt.

Sweeping out along the north road, he encountered no one. When at length he reached the Ledanos farm he drove in toward the deserted house and parked the car among some trees where it could not be seen from the road.

Leaving the car, Gramont took his way toward the bank of the bayou and followed this in the direction of the adjoining property.

He went on to an opening in the bushes which, over the low rail fence, gave him a clear view of the Gumberts property. There he paused, quickly drew back, and gained a point whence he could see without danger of his presence being discovered. He settled into immobility and watched.

That Memphis Izzy himself had not yet arrived, he was fairly certain. Near the barn were drawn up two flyovers, and sitting in chairs on the cottage veranda were three men who must have come in these cars. Gramont had come provided with binoculars, and got these out. He was not long in discovering that all three men on the veranda were strangers to him. They, no doubt, were men in the lottery game, waiting for Gumberts to arrive. Gramont turned his attention to the other buildings.

Both the barn and shop were open, and the buzzing thrum of machinery bore witness that the mechanics were hard at work upon the stolen cars. Gramont thought of Ben Chacherre, still tied and lashed to the chair in his room, and wondered what was to be found under the rear seat of Ben's car. He could see the car from where he lay.

Almost on his thought, a high-powered and noiseless car came sweeping down the road and he knew at once that Memphis Izzy had arrived. He knew it intuitively, even before he obtained a good glimpse of the broad, heavy figure and the dominating features. Memphis Izzy was far from handsome, but he possessed character. "Where's the Goog?" As he left the car, which he had driven himself, Gumberts lifted his voice in a bull-like roar that carried clearly to Gramont. "Where's Charlie the Goog?"

The mechanics appeared hurriedly. One of them, no other than Gramont's friend of the adenoidal aspect, who seemed to own the mellifluous title of Charlie the Goog, hastened to the side of Gumberts, and the latter gave him evident directions regarding some repair to the car. Then, turning, Memphis Izzy strode to the cottage. He nodded greetings to the four men who awaited him, took a bunch of keys from his pocket and opened the cottage door. All five vanished within.

Gramont rose. A moment previously, fever had thrilled him; the excitement of the manhunt had held him trembling. Now he was cool again, his fingers touching the pistol in his pocket, his eyes steady. He glanced at his watch and nodded.

"It's time!" he murmured. "Let's hope there'll be no slipup! All ready, Memphis Izzy. So am I. Let's go!"

Unhurried and openly, he advanced, making his leisurely way toward the barn and shop. Charlie the Goog, who was bent over the car of Gumberts, was first to discern his approach, and straightened up. Gramont waved his hand in greeting. Charlie the Goog turned his head and called his brethren, who came into sight, staring at Gramont.

The latter realized that if he passed them the game was won. If they stopped him, he bade fair to lose everything.

"Hello, boys!" he called, cheerily, as he drew near. "I came out on an errand for the boss—got a message for Gumberts. Where is he? In the house?"

The others nodded, plainly mistrusting him, yet puzzled by his careless manner and his reference to Fell.

"Sure," answered Charlie the Goog. "Go right in—he's in the big front room."

"Thanks."

Gramont continued his way, conscious that they were staring after him. If there was anything phony about him, they evidently considered that Memphis Izzy would take care of the matter very ably.

The steps of the cottage porch creaked protestingly as Gramont ascended them. Perhaps Memphis Izzy recognized an unaccustomed footstep; perhaps that conversation outside had penetrated to him. Gramont entered the front door into the hall, and as he did so, Gumberts opened the door on his right and stood gazing at him—rather, glaring.

"Who're you?" he demanded, roughly.

"Come out with a message from Mr. Fell," responded Gramont at once. "Brought some orders. I should say—"

The sixth sense of Memphis Izzy, which had carried him uncaught into a grizzled age, must have flashed a warning to his crook's brain. In the man's eyes Gramont read a surge of suspicion and knew that his bluff could be worked no longer.

"Here's his note," he said, and reached into his pocket.

Gumberts' hand flashed down, but halted as Gramont's pistol covered him.

"Back into that room, and do it quickly," said Gramont, stepping forward. "Quick!"

Memphis Izzy obeyed. Gramont stood in the doorway, his eyes sweeping the room and the men inside. Started, all four of them had risen and were staring at him. In his other hand he produced an automatic which he had taken from Dick Hearne.

"The first word from any of you gentlemen," he declared, "will draw a shot. I'm doing all the talking here. Savvy?"

They stood staring, paralyzed by this apparition. They had been sitting about the table, which was heaped with papers and with packages of money. A large safe in the wall stood open. Beside the table was a small mail sack, partially emptied of its contents; torn envelopes littered the floor.

That this was the headquarters of at least a section of the lottery gang Gramont saw without need of explanation.

"You're under arrest," said Gramont, quietly. "The game's up, Gumberts. Hands up, all of you! Dick Hearne has peached on the whole gang, and from the boss down you're all in for a term in str. You with the derby! Take Gumberts' gun, and those of your companions, then your own; throw 'em on the floor in the corner, and if you make the wrong kind of a move, heaven help you! Step lively, there!"

Each man there had a revolver or pistol, and one by one the weapons clattered into the corner. Gumberts stood motionless, licking his thick lips, unuttered curses in his glaring eyes. And in that instant Gramont heard the porch steps creak and caught a low, startled cry.

"Hey, boss! They's a gang comin' on the run—"

It was Charlie the Goog, bursting in upon them in wild haste. Gramont stepped into the room and turned slightly, covering with one of his weapons the intruder, who stood aghast in the doorway as he comprehended the scene.

No words passed. Staring at the five men, then at Gramont, the adenoidal mechanic gulped once—and like a flash acted. He ducked low and fired from his pocket. Gramont fired at the same instant, and the heavy bullet, catching Charlie the Goog squarely in the chest, buried his body half across the room.

With the shots Memphis Izzy flung himself forward in a headlong rush. That desperate shot of the little mechanic had broken Gramont's right arm above the wrist; before he could fire a second time, with the weapon in his left hand, Gumberts had wrested the pistol aside and was struggling with him. The other four came into the melee full weight.

Gramont went down under a crushing blow. Over him leaped Memphis Izzy and rushed into the doorway—then stopped with astounding abruptness and lifted his arms. After him the other four followed suit. Two men, panting a little, stood outside the door and covered them with shotguns.

"The 'em, boys," said Gramont, rising dizzily to his feet. "No, I'm not hurt—my arm's broken, I think, but let that wait. Got the ones outside?"

A stamping of feet filled the hall, and other men appeared there.

"Got two of 'em, Gramont?" responded the leader. "The third slipped in here—ah, there he is!"

Poor Charlie the Goog lay dead on the floor—a touch of heroic tragedy in his last desperate action; the one great action of his life, possibly. He had realized that it meant doom, yet he had done what he could.

"I think that's all," said Gramont. "We've sure made a killing, boys—and it's a good thing you jumped in to the minute! A second later and they'd have done for me. Take care of that evidence, will you? Get that mail sack and the letters particularly; if they've been working their lottery outside the state, it'll be a federal matter."

Gumberts, who was being tied up with his friends, uttered a hoarse cry.

"Who are you guys? You can't do this without authority—"

"Don't be silly, Memphis Izzy," said Gramont, smiling a little, then twitching to the pain of his arm. "These friends of mine are members with me of the American Legion, and they've come along at my request to put you crooks where you belong. As for authority, you can ask and go hang."

"Here, boys, I've got to get out to that barn. Come along, some of you!"

He led the way out to the barn and, the others trooping in behind him, entered. He pointed out the car which had brought Chacherre here previously, and ordered the extra seat in the back opened up.

"I think there's a bundle inside," he said. "What's in it, I don't know—"

"Here we are, cap."

A bundle was produced, and opened. In it was found the aviator's costume which Gramont had worn as the Midnight Masquer, and which Chacherre had stolen with the loot. Wrapped among the leather garments was an automatic pistol.

Gramont stood aghast before this discovery, as realization of what it meant broke full upon him.

"Good lord!" he exclaimed, amazedly. "Boys—why, it must have been Ben Chacherre who killed Maillard! See if that pistol has been used—"

The Midnight Masquer had fired two bullets into Maillard. Two cartridges were gone from this automatic.

In the Hands of Friends. "When you leave yourself in the hands of your friends are you sure you can trust them?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum. "Some of them are liable at any moment to go out behind my back and dig up all kinds of needful campaign funds in a manner that I should highly disapprove of if I knew about it."

Horticultural Facts

SPRAY FOR SAN JOSE SCALE

Application Should Be Made When Trees Are Defoliated by Frosts—Use Lime Sulphur.

Orchards known to be infested with San Jose scale should be sprayed as soon as the trees are defoliated by frosts. The sooner this is done the better it will be for the trees as scale insects will soon weaken the trees so no marketable fruit may be expected.

The best spray material for scale insects is lime-sulphur. It may be made as follows:

Make 80 pounds of flowers of sulphur, or ground-up sulphur, into a paste with water; put 40 pounds of the best quicklime into a boiler and slake, add the sulphur paste and 50 gallons of water. Boil for 60 minutes, replace the water boiled away and there will be 50 gallons of concentrated lime-sulphur in hand.

If one has a hydrometer, test the concentrate and dilute until the hydrometer shows a specific gravity of 1.03 to 1.04 or a reading of from 4 to 5 degrees Baume. If one has no hydrometer dilute the home-made lime-sulphur by using one gallon of concentrate to six or seven gallons of water.

A good spray pump will be essential. It is highly desirable that the liquid be under high pressure and that it be well distributed. A power sprayer is best. But if only a few trees are to be sprayed a hand power sprayer will answer the purpose.

Spraying may be done in December or January. Then if a second spraying seems desirable it may be given in the spring before the foliage is out.

ATTENTION TO STRAWBERRIES

Where Plants Have Made Vigorous Growth It May Be Necessary to Straighten Edges.

Strawberries invariably require attention during the early winter. If they have made a vigorous growth and the rows are a solid mat of plants, it may be necessary to straighten the edges of the rows and thin the plants to some extent. A little later after the ground freezes slightly, a mulch of straw, pine needles, or leaves should be worked in among the plants and between the rows. If the strawberry bed is so located that it is exposed to winds, it may be necessary to lay bean poles or brush over the mulch to keep it from blowing away. Raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and currants should have any grass or weeds cleaned away from them, and a mulch of coarse manure placed around them during the autumn or early winter.

PROTECT YOUNG APPLE TREES

Strip of Wire Window Screen Will Prove Effective in Keeping Away Bugs and Rabbits.

Protect young apple trees from damage by beetles with an 18-inch strip of wire window screen tied securely around the tree and held away from the trunk a few inches by means of stakes. Let the screen extend a few inches below the surface and fill in the top with old sacking. This repels the chocolate and cream colored beetles, which deposit eggs in the bark near the base of the tree from which are hatched the round-headed apple borers. The screen also protects trees from rabbit injury in winter.

Feed for Dairy Calves.

Silage is excellent feed for dairy calves. Fall calves may be fed silage when they are only a few weeks old.

One Cause of Wilting.

Lack of moisture is a common cause of plants wilting, but it may appear on bright days after a prolonged period of dark, damp weather. Examine the soil immediately beneath the surface as well as the plants to determine the need of water.

Set Trees in Autumn.

Trees and shrubs may be set in autumn, but as a rule it is better to wait until spring. Large trees may be moved with a ball of frozen earth to advantage late this autumn.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PORCUPINE PARTY

The hairy badger from South Africa had had his dinner. Then he had had a delightful bath or spray from the hose. The keeper had given him this and he had enjoyed it even more than the visitors who had looked on.

The hairy badger thought he was very polite to let such a lot of people watch him having his bath. Yes, he thought he was most obliging.

The white-nosed coatimundi from South America was having a beautiful time talking in his own grunting fashion to one of the visitors who had come to the zoo.

He had had a nice dinner and was feeling particularly well.

He had had a little chopped beef too with the rest of his dinner.

And it was nice to be a great pet. Oh yes, that was particularly nice.

The striped tailed dog and the white throated sapajou were together as they always were. The white throated sapajou looks exactly like a monkey and is a little animal from South America.

The sapajou is just like a monkey in all his looks.

The sapajou had had his dinner and he had had a little meat, for he was quite fond of that. Everything he had had he had put first in his pan of water in much the way the raccoon family will wash all their food.

Now the sapajou and the striped-tailed dog had become great friends.

"A Splendid Feast."

No one knew just why. But the best of friends they were.

And so they lived together in their zoo home as they had always been together since they had first seen each other.

How happy they were together, too! Only it puzzled people to see the sapajou and the dog in a little zoo home side by side.

The sapajou was much interested in the visitors and sat up close so he could see them all and his little eyes looked so amused and as though he were enjoying himself so much.

He grinned at the keeper every time the keeper went by and the keeper would speak to him and the sapajou would look much pleased.

The striped-tailed dog, too, had come from South America. And as the sapajou watched the people he said to himself, "This is a wonderful show—seeing all the people pass along."

"And gracious me, how many children there are! Well, I must say I find grown-ups and children very amusing to watch. Yes, they cheer me up—altogether I really am always very cheerful. But they make me feel so jolly and so amused."

Now, while all these animals were enjoying themselves in their various ways the four yellow-haired porcupines were having a party.

And they were not paying a scrap of attention to the visitors. They sat in a circle with their backs turned to the people.

In the very center of the circle was a little baby porcupine. And a more running little creature you never could see, I'm sure!

He was very small—not so very much bigger than a guinea pig and yet his parents were such enormously big porcupines.

All of the four porcupines were very, very large.

The little one was sitting up too, just the way they all did and he was nibbling at lettuce and carrots and eating very grown-up food for a little fellow only two weeks old.

For that was all he was. His parents had been born in Alaska and his uncle and aunt had been born in the United States but he had been born in the zoo and he found it was very nice.

A little porcupine is like a little guinea pig in the way it can eat anything right away.

There was a splendid feast for the porcupines and some of them were finishing off with a dessert of bread which many of the animals like as a dessert.

Oh, yes, it was a real porcupine party but the one who felt like the guest of honor was the dear little baby porcupine with his funny little black body and his poor little attempts at quills.

But some day he would have enormous ones like his parents. In the meantime it was enough to eat and eat and enjoy life. And the people looked through a space between two of the porcupines so they could see the little, little, little fellow of the

MISSOURI K. K. TO BE DEEP, IN MYSTIC CAVE

Picturesque and mysterious as have been the activities of the Ku Klux Klan in the Southwest, nothing so far done by the "Invisible Empire" will approach in its startling uniqueness the ambitious project under way at Springfield, Mo. the establishment of a large secret chamber in a mammoth Missouri cave. The chamber, mysterious, weird and replete with stalactites, and stalagmites will be used for ceremonial purposes by the ghostly-looking wearers of the white hood and gown.

The cave—Percy's Cave, it was called—is on a 118-acre tract five miles northwest of Springfield. It has been purchased by the Springfield Klan at an estimated cost of $40,000.

Work is now in progress to convert the cave into one of the show places of the Ozarks. Klan members say it will be an ideal meeting place for the Missouri Realm of the Klan, as Springfield is the State headquarters of the Realm.

Electric lights, supplied by a private plant, will illuminate the main antechamber of the cave. The year around the temperature of the cave will be regulated at 60 degrees. A huge stage will be constructed in the amphitheatre. The amphitheatre will seat 6,000 persons. On the hill above the cave a $25,000 clubhouse will be erected. Many acres will be devoted to picnic grounds, and places for open air religious meetings and conventions.

HAD REMEDY FOR BALDNESS

Ancient Egyptian Physicians Did Much Basting Concerning the Virtues of Peoullas Concoction.

In the Pennsylvania Medical Journal Dr. Frank Crozer Knowles tells of the superstitions, fallacies and facts of ancient medicine. Chaldean astronomers, according to Doctor Knowles' account, maintained that moonshine was potent alike in causing lunacy, conferring beauty or curing warts or asthma.

Even as late as the sixteenth century A. D. the beneficent influence of the stars was so prevalent a belief that some physicians asserted that everything in the body was made of mercury, sulphur and salt, and that the sun ruled the heart, the moon the brain, Jupiter the liver, Saturn the spleen, Mercury the lungs, Mars the bile, Venus the kidneys. The seven planetary metals were believed to be remedies for diseases of those organs.

About 3,000 B. C. the Egyptians had a remedy that would grow hair on the head of a crocodile or on the horn of a rhinoceros, they declared. The simple remedy was prepared from equal parts of the fats of a lion, a hippopotamus, crocodile, goose, serpent and ibex.

TOO MUCH WASTE TIME

Mrs. Letsem—My Bertie loves to study the stars. I think I'll let him be an astronomer.

Mrs. Dunn—Yes, but what's he going to do in the daytime?

SPOKE TOO LATE

The profiteer's wife was dining out. During the evening the conversation turned on Dean Swift. After some time she turned to the man at her side, who happened to be an author, and said:

"Who is this Dean Swift who is so amusing? I should like to invite him to one of my receptions."

"I'm afraid," answered the author, "that the dean has done something that has shut him out of society for good."

"Oh, how very interesting," said the lady. "And what was it he did?"

"Some hundreds of years ago," replied the author, "he died."—Current Opinion.

CURIOS CHINESE SOCIETY

Unfriendly foreigners are boycotted in Tien-tsin, China, by the "Chiu Kuo Kuei K'u T'uan" society, or literally "Save Country Kneel and Weep" society. The object of the society is to identify shops and business houses that persist in buying goods from unfriendly foreign nations. When such a shop is discovered the society calls its members, who meet before the door of the shop in question and kneel down and weep in order to move the shopkeeper. This is continued until the latter is convinced that he should purchase no more goods from unfriendly foreign nations.

PRECEDING THE QUARREL

A very fussy old lady in the north part of Terre Haute makes much of Memorial day. She was working at her rose bushes so that she would have plenty of flowers for all her relatives' graves when her son-in-law drove up in the family car.

She told him of her day's labor. "I'm so tired," she said, "and after all, what's the use? There will be no one who will decorate my grave when I'm gone."

"Oh, mother, don't worry," he hurried to protest, "I'll be glad to do that for you."—Indianapolis News.

PRELIMINARY DISSONANCE

"Wasn't there some discord at the primaries?"

"That's all right," rejoined Senator Sorghum. "The primaries merely represent the tuning up prior to the grand campaign harmony."

BAPTISTS REPORT $35,000,000 CAMPAIGN HAS MADE POSSIBLE VAST ENLARGEMENT OF EVERY PHASE OF GENERAL WORK

GAIN 500,000 NEW MEMBERS

Effort Will Be Made to Enlist Them and All Other Baptists in South in Forward Movement During November

Total cash collections on the last 75 Million Campaign up to Nov. 1, 1922, had reached the sum of $152,211,629, according to the general Campaign headquarters. This represents an advance of nearly $100,000,000 over what Southern Baptists had their general missionary, educational and benevolent work for the three years preceding the Campaign. The contribution of larger gifts to religious work has been accompanied by larger spiritual results in the churches. It is pointed out. For instance, Southern Baptists baptizing 150,000 more converts during the three years of the Campaign than they did in the three years before gained 3,000 new Sunday schools and 400,000 new pupils, enhanced the value of their local church property by $33,000,000, enlarged their contributions to local causes by $22,284,000 and increased their contributions to all causes by $43,480,490.

General Director Baptist 75 Million Campaign

Baptist Institutions Grow
Some other phases of denominational progress made possible by the Campaign include increasing the number of Baptist hospitals in the South from 12 to 19, with three others under construction and four more definitely planned; strengthening of Baptist orphanages and the establishment of two new ones, lifting 118,000 indebtedness on 119 Baptist schools, colleges and seminaries, completion and projection of permanent improvements there in the sum of $4,000,000, and the addition of substantial sums to the endowment fund. Over 2,500 ministerial students are enrolled at Southern Baptist schools.

Church Loan Fund Raised
Among the outstanding accomplishments in the work of the Campaign Board are the aiding of 10 churches in building new houses of worship, the completion of use of non-dollar Church Building Fund, strengthening the work among the foreigners and Indians and the Mountain mission schools. The Board has employed an average of 1,500 workers during the Campaign and reports for that period 134,322 baptisms, 218,371 additions to churches, 2,276 Sunday schools and 75 churches organized, and 1,499 churches of ship built or repaired.

On the foreign fields the equipment for mission work has been practically doubled, more than 250 new foreign missionaries have been sent out, more than 400 new native workers have been employed, and the Board has entered the new fields of Spang, Slavica, Hungary, Romania, South Russia, Palestine and Siberia. The Board reports for the period of the Campaign 117 new churches on the foreign fields, 21,723 baptisms, 17,000 new Sunday schools, gain of 17,000 pupils, native contributions of $1,000,000, and 22,042 treatments administered by medical missionaries.

Another result of the Campaign which is seeking to care for the aged dependent ministers and their families, has been enabled to double the number of such persons helped, the amount that is given these beneficiaries. Last year the Board was able to dispense $128,966 among needy ministers. It has invested assets of $1,149,088.

Receive 500,000 New Members
More than 600,000 new members have been received into the Baptist churches of the South since the Campaign began, and in the hope of enlisting all these in the Campaign, as well as reaching the members of the churches who have not shared in the forward movement heretofore, the month of November-December 3 has been designated as Re-enforcement Month by the Campaign Conservation Commission. During this month it is planned that every Baptist church in the South will call upon all its members who are not already participating in the Campaign and secure subscriptions from them covering the two remaining years of the movement, from all the members of the Campaign, from all the members. Dr. L. R. Scarborough, General Director of the Campaign, has been elected to serve in that capacity for the Re-enforcement program, although the details are being worked out in the various states under the leadership of the secretaries of the state mission boards. It is hoped to secure several million dollars in additional subscriptions and several million in cash as well by December 1.
