FARM NEWS From the County PMA Committee

FINANCIAL HELP NECESSARY FOR CONSERVATION. SAYS McCORMICK

Agricultural Conservation Program payments help bridge the gap between farmers wanting to do the conservation work which research and education have brought to them, and their ability and willingness to do the work without unnecessary and costly delays. In this way Clarence J. McCormick, Under Secretary of Agriculture, recently summed up the reason for the limited payments to farmers to help them carry on needed conservation practices.

There is a clear and definite relationship between conservation and income, according to the Under Secretary. "A farmer cannot be expected to put out money for conservation when his prices and income are so low that he finds it hard to pay operating expenses. We hear recurring criticism of the policy of helping farmers financially for part of the cost of doing conservation work on their land - - - that good farmers should use soil building and other conservation practices anyway - - -"

"That might be all right if we ignored the fact that the rest of the nation has a stake in getting conservation practices followed on our farms. And that stake is a mighty big one—the assurance for an adequate food supply for our rapidly increasing population through building up soil fertility so that we can increase production."

"The question is not what a farmer should do, or what he knows he should do, but rather what he will do, with or without conservation incentives."

He pointed out that the near-record farm production of 1951 was accomplished despite adverse weather, a shrinking labor force and a "none too favorable" level of farm prices. "Farm prices at the end of 1951 were about the same as they were in January of 1948, while prices paid by farmers for goods and services were about 9 per cent above January, 1948."

COTTON ACREAGE REPORTS

Approximately 80% of the farms in Donley County have reported their 1951 cotton acreage and production. There has been a total of 44,930 acres reported and 11,463 bales produced.

If you are in the 20% who have not reported acreage and production, please come by the office at your earliest convenience.

LOAN RATE SET FOR 1952-CROP UPLAND COTTON

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced that the loan rate for 1952-crop middling 7/8 inch cotton will average not less than 39.91 cents per pound.

The 1951 loan rate for the same grade of cotton was 30.46 cents per pound.

There is still plenty of terrace money and money for livestock water dams left for assistance to farmers and ranchers in this county under the 1952 ACP Program. If you need any help on these, come by the office and make application now.

Remember that the intention sheet that you filed in the earlier part of the year is NOT your application or your approval for the practice.

Over One-Third Red Cross Quota Raised To Date

The Donley County Red Cross Chapter's $1542.00 campaign goal is nothing more than a goal of neighborliness, Carl Allmond, Fund Chairman, said today, in reporting the campaign's progress. The campaign slogan is "Answer the call," meaning the call of our neighbors in time of need. So far, the people of Clarendon have answered that call to the amount of $583.00. This sum is a pledge of neighborly help, through the Red Cross, to people everywhere. Hedley, Lelia Lake, and outlying communities have not yet reported, concerning their progress.

Mr. Allmond pointed out that the Red Cross is the means of carrying out a person's natural impulse to help others, providing a practical way for people to give of their time and financial support for that purpose. The Red Cross is the people, he stressed. Every person who backs them up with funds is a part of the Red Cross. It's your Red Cross, not just a few peoples. You have helped make Red Cross what it is, and you will shape its future.

Mrs. Joe Ritter, Chairman of the outlying communities, reports that her workers in the various sections of the county are at work. These volunteers are as follows: Mrs. Johnnie Rex McClellan, at McLean; Mrs. T. C. D'Spain at Alanreed; Mrs. Delton B. Koen and Mrs. H. A. Harrison, Jr., at Chamberlain; Mrs. Ben Lovell and Mrs. Doyce Graham at Asholia; Mrs. Lee Shaller and Mrs. Bill Moore at Naylor; Mrs. Raymond Waldrop at Martin; Mrs. Wilson Gray at Goldston, and Miss Annie Reeves at Jericho.

Cue and Curtain Club To Present "Meet Corliss Archer" - - Tonight

The "Cue and Curtain Club" invites the public to MEET CORLISS ARCHER. This three-act comedy is based on the adventures and escapades of Corliss Archer, the delightful, young heroine created by Hugh Herbert, and who has appeared on Broadway, in motion pictures, on television, and over a national radio program. This play will be presented in the College Auditorium, Thursday, March 20, at 8:00 p. m. It is under the direction of Mrs. Larry Grundy and Mrs. Bill Clark.

The main character, Corliss, is pictured as a young girl who is bored with life and who feels that everyone is in a terrible rut, especially her boy friend, Dexter Franklin. Corliss decides that it is up to her to stir up some excitement to break the monotony of her everyday, hum-drum life. With the help of her best friend, Mildred, Corliss writes a fake diary in which she describes her father as a raving alcoholic, Dexter as a juvenile delinquent, and her home as seething with hatred and degradation. All might have gone well after this if Cousin Agnes, a cranky, snooty old maid relative had not decided to make the Archers a visit. When she gets hold of Corliss' diary, the fireworks really begin!

The part of Corliss Archer is played by Patsy Emmons. Dexter Franklin, Corliss' boy friend, is played by Cotton Hall; Ralph Ayers carries the part of Mr. Archer, who is the pleasant, well-adjusted head of the Archer household. Mrs. Archer, Corliss' poised, tolerant mother is portrayed by Mary Ann Landers; Cousin Agnes, the Archer's narrow-minded, unpleasant old maid relative who doesn't jump to conclusions but pole vaults, is portrayed by Nell Bentley. Corliss' two friends, Mildred and Betty, who turn traitors to her, are played by Jo Anne Montgomery and June Star Allred. Glenda Sue Davis and Ray Crawford play the part of the doctor and nurse who attend the Archer household. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, Dexter's parents, are portrayed by Guy Alden Wright and Patsy Estlack. Inelle Cox plays Louise, the Archer's maid.

Admission for the play will be 25c for children, 50c for students, and 75c for adults.

Clarendon To Have New Modern Gin

An old familiar land mark is being razed this week in east Clarendon to give way to another step in progress. The Paymaster Gin which was known for many years as the Clarendon Gin, is being torn down this week and will be replaced with a new electrically operated gin on a new location.

The Western Cotton Oil Company, a division of Clayton Anderson, has purchased 18½ acres of land at a cost in excess of $8,000 from Sid Endsley. The new gin site is located across the highway south of the Household Supply Butane Gas loading station east of town. J. R. Brñdon, local manager, stated that construction of the gin would start in the near future and plans called for it to be completed by ginning time this fall. The gin will be constructed of steel, will be fireproof and the estimated cost will run around $125,000 to $150,000. The modern design of the gin will allow a greater ginning capacity, Mr. Brandon added. It has been understood that the gin now being dismantled, was constructed in about 1908.

To The People of The 18th District

By Cong. Walter Rogers

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING BILL:

Many people are wondering just what did happen to the Universal Military Training bill. Here is the exact story. The bill was brought before the House for consideration from the Armed Services Committee. When the House is considering a piece of legislation and attempting to perfect it by amendments, the proceedings are not before the House of Representatives, but are before all of the members of the House sitting as a Committee of The Whole. This committee is not presided over by the Speaker, but by some member of Congress who is acting as chairman. The UMT bill was a highly controversial measure and was not acceptable to the majority of the members in its original version. The first amendment that was offered came from the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Honorable Carl Vinson, of Georgia. This amendment provided two things: (1) The UMT would not start until the drafting of boys under Selective Service had stopped; (2) The life of the UMT program would be terminated in 1958 unless Congress at that time extended it. This amendment made the bill acceptable to many members who had originally opposed it. The amendment was adopted and was referred to as the Vinson amendment. Another amendment was then offered by Congressman Omar Burleson, of Texas. The Burleson amendment provided that the proposed training program would take place in the junior colleges, colleges and universities, in connection with the civilian education of young men. It also provided certain vocational training programs to be set up in the institutions of higher learning to take care of those young men who would not wish to attend college but who would be required to take the military training. Since this amendment changed a substantial part of the original bill, it was introduced as a substitute for the original bill, and amounted to a law within itself. While the debate was proceeding on the Burleson substitute, Congressman Brownson of Indiana offered an amendment to the Burleson substitute, which was also a complete law in itself and therefore became a substitute for the Burleson substitute. The Brownson substitute provided for the military training to be coordinated with the last two years of high school and made provision to take care of those boys who did not finish high school. The purpose of both the Burleson substitute and the Brownson substitute was to provide the military training and at the same time keep the boys at home, or as nearly at home as possible. Both of these amendments had substantial support. Under parliamentary law, the voting was on the Brownson substitute, which started the training in high school. Had the Brownson substitute failed, the next voting would have been on the Burleson substitute, but the Brownson substitute passed by a vote of 150 to 145, which meant that the Burleson substitute was killed and the Brownson substitute took its place. As soon as this was done, the rules required that the Committee of The Whole cease to function and report back to the House of Representatives, with the Speaker presiding, for further action on the bill. This was done and a vote was then taken on the Brownson bill, the members voting as members of the House of Representatives and not as members of the Committee of The Whole. On this vote the Brownson substitute failed. The reason it failed was because there was no chance to amend it. It had to be accepted as it was written with no amendments whatever. This the House refused to do because there were several imperfections in the bill that did not meet with House approval. When the Brownson bill was defeated by the House of Representatives, the result was that the original UMT bill was back before the House in its original form, with no amendments, not even the Vinson amendment which had already been agreed to. Since the bill was not acceptable to a majority of the membership without the Vinson amendment, a motion was made to recommit the bill to the Armed Services Committee for further study and perfection. This motion to recommit prevailed and the bill was returned to the Committee. This means that the Committee can study the bill further, make amendments to it and bring it back to the House for consideration. The chairman of that committee has stated that this will not be done. Unless it is done, the UMT bill that is pending in the House of Representatives is dead as far as this session of Congress is concerned. Actually there never was a vote in the House for or against Universal Military Training, and there is no way to tell what would have happened to the bill had it been up for vote on final passage. As I told you in a previous news letter, the question of segregation was a major issue and would undoubtedly have been the subject of heated debate and high tempers. However, segregation amendments were never reached in the discussion because of the course that the bill took, as hereinbefore outlined. From this history of the bill you can get a good idea of what is meant by parliamentary maneuvering.

By May L. Prewitt

Our Book Club books came this week—"The Serpent Wreathed Staff" by Alice Tisdale Hobart. She has chosen medicine as her theme. Drs. Alan and Sam Towne are the major characters. In this novel the author has created a group of complex, passionate people, involved in intense conflict with one another and within themselves. This story demands and permits the full sweep of her talent as a dramatic story teller.

The second book we offer is Jan Westcott's "Captain Barney." It is an adventure with Capt. Barney as a daring privateer and

JUNIOR BEAUX ARTS CLUB

The Junior Beaux Arts Club met Thursday, March 6, in the Patching Club House. The regular business meeting was held, and future meetings were planned. The group then went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lowry to see their lovely ceramic work.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowry have a very complete workshop which enables them to complete figurines in a short period of time. Various molds of shoes, frogs, hearts, vases, cups, saucers, plates, dolls, jewelry boxes and numerous other forms are filled with a clay-like mixture to harden. This is removed and baked in a special heating device. They are glazed, painted, and finished to form a beautiful figurine. Mr. Lowry demonstrated this for the members of the Club.

The group returned to the club house for the remainder of the meeting. Refreshments were served to Vivian Newberry, Ramona Rhea, Jo Ann Sibley, Mary Lou Barker, Nellie Jon Heathington, Miss Lucile Polk, Miss Mary Howren and the hostess, Lou Smith.

"The Loyal Order of Moose," Lodge No. 1690 has voted to pay for the one tier of shelf fixture that we lack in the general reading section of the Library. This shelving has been a problem for some time, but it has been essential that we use all funds available for books. This generosity is appreciated by the patrons and Librarian much more than this organization can possibly realize.

Several books have been given us recently that we can use for reference work, and several for pleasurable reading. Everybody seems eager to help the Library to be useful in every way possible. Thanks for this helpfulness.

Star Football Player Praises Chiropractic

To Whom It May Concern:
 Following the third game of the 1950 football season, I noticed pain and tenderness in my groin, stomach, back and down each leg. It seemed O. K. until I started to run, but then it really hurt. This condition became steadily worse.

I was elected captain for the 1951 season by my teammates, so I wanted to show plenty of hustle in spring practice. However, after three days of practice, Mr. Mike Basrak, my head coach at DuPont Manual High School, saw I was going to be of little use to the team in my present shape. He said I walked and looked as if I had nails in my shoes. I felt as if I had nails in me everywhere.

Coach Basrak sent me to a Chiropractor, who gave me a thorough examination and said the cause of the trouble was in my spine. The Chiropractor, Coach Basrak, and I thought it would be next fall before I could do much playing. However, in a few days Mr. Basrak remarked that I looked much better.

Shortly I was working out in sweat clothes with the team, snapping the ball and jogging slowly. I improved enough to play the entire intra-squad game which climaxed spring training. I was able to do this without any ill effects during or after the game.

Judging from my improvement, instead of being a drag next fall, I believe I will be an asset to them. (Note: Leo Strange was considered one of the most outstanding high school football players in the area for his performances during the past season.)

David Noyes, another player on the team, who also benefitted from adjustments, and I talk about Chiropractic so much that the rest of the squad members say we will probably go to college and study Chiropractic.

I'm thankful to Coach Basrak, who, incidentally, was an All-American center at Duquesne during his college days, not only for his many pointers in centering, but also for sending me to a Chiropractor.
 (Signed) LEO STRANGE

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger-car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences.

Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you. You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

Blowin' Out the Corners
by Uncle Zeb

Uncle Bob sends me a supply of St. Patrick's Day napkins, so that I can keep my donegal all dusted off. Anyway, next week I will tell you about the celebration at Shamrock. Hope that I can rent a false set of shrubbery for the occasion. Looks like on account of me being an old native they would furnish me the whiskers. Before this goes to press, if all is well Uncle O'Zeb will be celebrating with the rest of the Irish, and with his many relatives over Shamrock way.

"They Say - - -"
"Have you heard of the terrible family They,
And the dreadful, venomous things They say?
Why half of the gossip under the sun,
If you trace it back, you will find begun,
In the wretched House of They."
—Anonymous—

If we could prove that we were a self made man, it would take a lot of blame off of our forebears.

Seems like a lot of folks are convinced that it is possible to do something about the weather; especially the rainfall. I heard a couple of fellows talking on the street. One thought that the whole thing was wrong and that it was fooling with the Lord's business. The other didn't think so and argued that there was no more harm in milking a few more raindrops out of the clouds than there was in digging water out of the ground. Anyway, it reminded me of the story about the old colored preacher who prayed for a nice fat chicken for dinner the next day; as an afterthought he adds "Lord, if you just can't send me a chicken, then please just send me after one tonight."

Did you know that the United States Government owes more than all the nations of the world combined?

Read this poem somewhere:
"The Ways and The Means
Tis the day before pay day, and all thru my jeans,
I've hunted in vain for the ways and the means.
Not a quarter is stirring, not even a bit.

The greenbacks have left me, the pennies have quit.
Forward, turn forward, O time, in thy flight
And make it tomorrow just for tonight.

Lots of folks believe that the most of our prosperity is due to the wars, both the hot and the cold. If this be true, we wonder how much of the wars are caused by prosperity. We have to admit that we have a higher standard of living than was ever enjoyed by any people at any time in the history of the world. But, when we think of our debt we ask ourselves how much of it is artificial. We look at the almost continual wars and wonder how much of our prosperity is blood money: paid for in our own American blood. We look at the control over our lives by the bureaucracy and wonder will we ever be free peoples again. Anyway, it is something we need to decide this election year. If we are on the right track, all is well and good; if we are on the wrong path, it is time to turn back, or maybe too late.

A friend remarked the other day that he didn't consider our debt anything to get too worried about. He thought that the country could pay it off any day they wanted to and still save our economy. Would it be within the realm of possibility? Will some of the banks send me the following information. How much money of all kinds are there in the U. S.? Also, how much wealth is owned by individual in bonds and deposits only? This would be something for the Department of Truth to work on, if we had it going. Please, will some banker send us this information?

Soil Conservation District News

Reseeding unproductive land to nutritious grasses is one of the most efficient practices for increasing range productivity in the Donley County Soil Conservation District.

Areas which need reseeding include wornout cropland, high-ly erosive farmland, abandoned cropland, and some areas of seriously depleted rangeland.

With exception of the latter class, these areas are potentially the highest producing rangeland in the District. They are highly profitable units when converted to adapted grasses.

Reseeded pastures in the Donley County District have yielded 2 to 3 times as much beef gain per acre as adjacent native range.

Grasses recommended in Donley County for reseeding include Weeping Lovegrass, Blue Panic, K. R. Bluestem, Sideoats Grama, Indian Grass, Switch grass, Blue Grama, Buffalo, Sand Bluestem, and Little Bluestem. Madrid Sweet Clover may also be used in some grass mixtures.

Spring seedings give optimum results for most grasses in this area. March and April are probably the best months.

May and June seeding dates for Blue Panic have given best results. It appears that the soil should be fairly warm before planting Blue Panic.

Seeding with a drill especially designed for planting grass is superior to any other method. The Donley County District owns eight of these drills for rent at 25c per acre.

The District has purchased a fair supply of the following grass seeds for resale to local farmers and ranchers: Sand Lovegrass, Weeping Lovegrass, Indian grass, K. R. Bluestem and Madrid Sweet Clover. Clarendon Hatchery, Thomas Feed Store, and Risley Feed Store handle this seed for the District.

For more information and assistance with your grass seeding visit the local office of the Soil Conservation Service.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

NOT TOO LATE TO SAVE ON 1951 INCOME TAX, BAR SAYS

Waiting until the last minute to file your 1951 Income Tax return? Even if you have already filed, some tax savings may be possible.

While there are few bright spots in the tax picture for the average taxpayer, lawyers say that some lucky individuals may be able to take advantage of certain relaxed provisions of the 1951 Revenue Act. For example, you may now claim an exemption for a dependent whose gross income during the year was any amount less than $600. Previously, an income of $500 or more by the dependent barred your claim for an exemption on his account.

If you sold your home during 1951, you may avoid being taxed on any profit made in the transaction by purchasing and occupying a new home within one year. The new residence must cost as much or more than the sales price of the old one. However, you may include notes and other liabilities forming part of the consideration in figuring the cost of your new home.

Suppose you bought a home in 1945 for $5000 and sold it on July 1, 1951, for $8500, making a profit of $3500. If you buy and move into a new home not later than June 30, 1952, costing as much as $8500, no tax will be due on your $3500 profit. This is true even though you may pay only $500 or less as a down payment on the new home and the balance of the purchase price is represented by a note and mortgage.

The new Self Employment Tax is causing extra tax return headaches for some people this year. If you had net earnings of $400 or more derived from a trade or business which you conducted during 1951 as a sole proprietor or as a partner, this new tax may apply to you. Public officials, railroad workers, ministers and various professional people are excluded from the application of this tax, as are non-resident aliens.

Similarly, income derived from farming, interest and dividends from securities, and gains and losses resulting from sale or exchange of capital assets are excluded. Rentals from real property are excluded except in the case of a real estate broker.

This new tax covers many people newly added to the list of those covered by the Social Security Act, and is imposed to help finance the benefits they may later receive. If you are liable for the Self Employment Tax, you should obtain separate Schedule C and file with your regular tax return.

Applying in many instances where no regular income tax is due, this tax will also force some people to file returns even though their gross income of less than $600 would not otherwise require a filing. Suppose you operated a very small business and grossed only $500 in 1951. Under the old law, no return would be required. However, under the 1951 Act, the Self Employment Tax is carried from Schedule C to Form 1040 and collected as a part of your total income tax liability. If your net income from this small business was $401, you would be required to file a completed 1040 return along with Schedule C in order to comply with the law.

(This column, based on Federal law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

HOME FOR SALE

The Bagby home place is being offered for sale. Anyone interested, see or phone—

GEO. B. BAGBY
Phone 61

However, the Bureau wants a record of your transactions, even though no tax is due. If you have already repurchased, both your sale and your purchase should be shown on separate Schedule D and attached to your tax return. If you have not bought your new home as yet, but expect to do so before the one year limit runs out, report the 1951 sale on Schedule D anyhow. But, enter the word "None" in the Gain or Loss column and add a short explanation that you expect to purchase or rebuild. Then, when you do replace, write the collector giving him full details on the transaction. If your plans for replacement should fall through, an amended 1951 return would be necessary.

Another new feature which may save taxes for some people is the removal of one limitation on medical expense deductions for all persons over 65. They are no longer limited to the excess over and above 5% of adjusted gross income. The limit still applies to all taxpayers under 65, unless their husband or wife happens to be 65 or older. In this event, both husband and wife may deduct medical expenses without reference to the amount of adjusted gross income. However the general limitation, of $1250 per individual still applies in all cases.

If you have passed up any of these savings, an amended return may pay dividends.

Charles Miller Lowry

In the death of Charley Lowry, as he was best known to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, departed this life soon after arriving at his desk in the office of the West Texas Utilities Company Wednesday morning, March 12, 1952. His passing was sudden just as he had wished through the many years that he had guarded against just such an attack after his physician had informed him was possible several years ago.

He seldom discussed his health in our close association through the many years, and never at any time expressed a fear of what the future might be. He lived in readiness as best he could even up to our usual friendly visit in my office in the post office the evening before his untimely death.

In fact Charley was planning a trip this summer to Arizona and was borrowing literature on Indian burial locations and camp grounds in Arizona from me the day before his passing. He planned a trip with his wife into the west, after informing me that he was feeling in better health than for months, and even years. He was an avid collector of Indian artifacts and left the most comprehensive collection in the entire Southwest displayed on the wall of the office where he was employed as manager for some 18 years.

Charley had an analytical mind that was most amusing at times. He weighed every thought carefully before arriving at a conclusion. We often differed in our opinions, but in all our association, we never had a dispute. He was great to view matters with an open mind granting others the same right that he claimed for himself. In this respect he once remarked that "there is not so much of a gulf between the accused and the accuser after all."

His first regard was for his family. The keenest joy in human life is the revelation of a love, the years can not chill, and the consciousness of a heart somewhere that awaits one's coming. He loved his home and took great pride in all matters that would make that home more attractive and congenial.

He believed every one should have a hobby. His was collecting Indian artifacts. I recall just some months back when he was overjoyed to find that Mrs. Lowry had become interested in a hobby, that of ceramics. They worked at this hobby together forming beautiful objects from soil materials of many types and colors, some of which he had secured from local deposits. Thus the Miss Janie Cousins whom he married at McLean in 1921, had adopted one of the most useful, beautiful and interesting hobbies.

As a citizen, Charley Lowry never shirked a civic duty. He was a member of the Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church, placed his christian duty first and was a faithful attendant aiding in the advancement of the christian cause wherever possible. He was a member of the American Legion, a Mason, and a member of the Lions Club which he had served as president and in many other capacities. He was a member of a committee on which he served with the writer where he displayed the usual talent for making the most out of the least to the satisfaction of the Club.

Many are those to miss him when some one is needed who has the time to aid with the Boy Scouts and dozens of other civic matters that come up in Clarendon. Charley never said "no" at any time when help was needed. He was charitable and aided all worthy causes contributing both money and time. Every day was a holiday with him with much to do to help a cause. He knew no special seasons and assumed responsibility with casual concern. He was just as loyal to the firm with which he had been employed 25 years lacking some two months. Others working for the firm were just as liberal in their tribute to the many good qualities of Charley Lowry, and especially does this apply to the regular employees of the Clarendon branch. Charley was joking with these employees just a few moments before he was suddenly stricken.

Although conscious of his physical condition, one would never know it from the jovial manner in which he conducted his daily actions. He talked of himself less than any one, preferring at all times to speak of the accomplishments of some project that was being promoted in the town of his choice, or the needs of some one less fortunate than he, and the best method to render aid.

He will be greatly missed in Clarendon. He will be missed much more by the members of his family. His wife, son and daughter and their families. In this respect Charley Lowry would prefer that they bear in mind the admonition of the great poet who wrote: "Sunset and evening star, and one clear call for me; may there be no moaning at the bar, when I put out to sea." Charley Lowry's work on earth is done. He has heard the call: "Come unto me" and has answered that call. The sweet assurance of another springtime means much to each of us. May we be as ready to answer that call as was our husband, father, friend and noble citizen.

J. C. Estlack.

ording to John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo social security office.

The amount of the monthly benefits paid to you and your family in your old age, or to your dependents in case of your death will be figured from the amount of the wages your household employer reports to your name and the number shown on your social security card. You should have only one social security number during your lifetime. If you should lose your account card, write the Amarillo social security office and ask for a duplicate. It will have your old number on it.

Sanderson points out that regular household workers are building toward the increased monthly benefit payments provided for in the new social security law. The smallest monthly benefit payment will be $20 a month. He estimates that the average household worker is earning about $80 a month in cash wages. Her retirement benefit payments under social security will be $40 a month. If her monthly wages are higher, her benefit payments when she stops work at age 65 or later will be higher too.

Sanderson suggests that everyone who works regularly in a private household contact the Amarillo Social Security Office and ask for a copy of the booklet, "Do You Work in a Private Household?" It clearly explains your new social security.

A representative from the Amarillo Social Security Office will be in Clarendon, at the DPW office, on Tuesday, March 25, at 9:00 A. M.
