and SOCIAL SECURITY

Am I required to pay the social security tax on the wages earned by my hired man while he works on my farm? This is the question many farm owners are now asking, since the harvest season is immediately before them and extra hands will be required.

The Social Security Administration advises all farmers that the program of old-age and survivors insurance now includes under its coverage some farm employees. However, it is pointed out that harvest hands, cotton pickers, and other persons whose work is of a seasonal nature do not come under coverage, and should not be reported on a social security tax return.

To qualify as a regular farm worker under the Social Security Act, the agricultural employee must first work for one employer for a full three month calendar quarter. However, the social security tax should not be paid on wages earned during this qualifying quarter.

The hired hand will, if he continues working for the same employer, be covered under the social security law during the second three months of his employment if he works during 60 days or more of the period and is paid at least $50 in cash wages.

Further information on farm coverage may be obtained from your Amarillo social security office.

HEALTH NOTES

Texas State Dept. of Health

AUSTIN—A cough is just a symptom and not a disease, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. It is an indication that something is wrong in the body's respiratory tract or breathing tube.

When an object obstructs the respiratory passage a cough is nature's reflex to remove the obstruction. Such a cough is simple and transient. The same thing happens when the throat or lower passages are irritated during a cold, whooping cough, asthma, smoking, low humidity and dust.

A cough can be produced by more serious conditions such as tuberculosis or cancer. Constant coughing brings on fatigue as a person's rest is affected by the constant hacking.

A prolonged cough might indicate chronic bronchitis, a condition which in most cases is secondary to an infection elsewhere, such as the nose, throat or sinuses. Mucous draining into the throat may cause such irritation that the victim may involuntarily cough repeatedly to bring up the material.

Hoarseness is produced by persistent coughing in some persons. Hoarseness is a symptom of an inflamed larynx. Hoarseness lasting for six weeks or more is a serious symptom suggestive of cancer and must not be disregarded.

No persistent cough should be disregarded. The nature of the infection and its location may be shown by an examination of the material expelled, and a thorough examination by the family physician will determine the cause and give a basis for treatment.

Special TV Antenna Makes Excellent Televiewing In Mountain Area

Many whole communities now partially or completely blacked out from television reception due to terrain conditions can soon experience excellent televiewing as a result of a special antenna developed by two staff members of the Denver Research Institute of the University of Denver.

Better still, materials needed to build the antenna, which is extremely simple in design, cost only a few dollars and can be bought on the open market. With proper instructions, a man handy with tools can often make the installation by himself.

Responsible for creation of the device, known as a "double rhombic antenna," are Dr. Richard C. Webb, electronics engineer, and Col. Victor C. Huffsmith, assistant director of the Denver Research Institute.

Huffsmith, whose residence is located on the floor of the Big Thompson Canyon and is surrounded by high peaks, recently bought a television set. Finding that reception was seriously impaired by these geographical conditions, he took the problem to his colleague, Dr. Webb, one of the nation's foremost television experts. Webb promptly suggested an idea for a new antenna designed specially to improve TV reception in such mountainous areas.

An experimental model of the antenna, shaped like two giant rhombi more than 200 feet long, was placed atop a high peak overlooking the Huffsmith home far below. Because of its lofty location, the antenna could receive television impulses from stations without obstruction.

More important however is that once the double-rhombic antenna receives these impulses, it "re-radiates" them down to the regular receiving antennae of TV sets in the valley below.

Huffsmith reported excellent reception on his set as soon as the special antenna was put in operation. So did many of his televiewing neighbors who also immediately began reaping benefits from the device.

Dr. Webb stressed that the special antenna has no electrical power of its own and therefore costs nothing to operate once installed. It simply acts as a sort of "intermediate relay station" for the TV programs it handles.

Huffsmith said special materials used in his antenna were few and consisted only of about 1,000 feet of No. 14 copper wire, 25 insulators and three resistors.

Because of its simplicity and the excellent results provided, the new antenna stands to become a tremendous boon to hundreds of televiewers who, because of conditions of terrain, currently experience poor television reception or none at all.

The Denver Research Institute, where both Huffsmith and Webb are staff members, performs research for industrial and government sponsors in electronics, physics, chemistry, mechanical engineering, metallurgy and allied fields. It is directed by Shirley A. Johnson Jr. (CQ)

Persons desiring a pamphlet giving brief instructions for building and installing a double-rhombic antenna may have one free by writing the Publications office, Denver Research Institute, University of Denver, Denver 10, Colorado.

In addition, a more technical presentation of the antenna is in process and will be available for distribution later.

GABIE BETTS BURTON LIBRARY NOTES

By May L. Prewitt

We have several memorial books to report. First, is "Not Death At All" by Dr. Norman Vincent Peal. This gift edition is in memory of Mr. Wesley Knorpp and contributed by Mrs. Ruth E. Kennedy. "The New Book of Lilies" by Jan de Graaff is a memorial presented by the Bob Moss family, and "Color and Design for Every Garden" written by Orloff was chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Frank White II. These last two were presented as the donors realized Mr. Knorpp's appreciation of flowers and their culture. Two books for boys were selected by the Ben Prewitts as Mr. Knorpp has grandsons who might enjoy them. They are McCormick's "Rambling Half Back" and "Bosses Loaded". One pioneer story, "Timberley of the Diamond Trail and Other Frontier Stories" by Charles Willis Howe was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lowe. These selections were planned with consideration of our reading public and with what we thought Mr. Knorpp would desire for their usefulness and beauty too. Last to be contributed for this memorial list is "The Big Chance" by Frederick Lewis Allen. It concerns the transformation in the American way of life and what caused it. Besides being consistently readable and entertaining it renews our faith and our pride in the accomplishments of our country. This book was given by Mrs. Jas. R. Ross of Quail, Texas in Mr. Knorpp's memory.

Several memorial books to be given by a Bugbee Memorial Fund contributed for Mr. Patrick, have been ordered, but only

WHEAT ALLOTMENT FOR NEW FARMS:

Farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for any of the years 1951, 1952, and 1953 may apply for a 1954 wheat acreage allotment, according to Mr. Ross Springer, Chairman of the Donley County Production and Marketing Administration Committee. Blank application forms are available at the county PMA office for use in filing requests for allotments.

1953 ACP:

Don't forget to make a performance report as soon as you have carried out a 1953 ACP practice on your farm or ranch. If you are unable to come to this office and make the report, fill in the necessary data on your white copy of the approval, sign and date it and mail it to this office. This is most important.

THANKS TO WHEAT FARMERS:

We wish to thank each and every wheat farmer for cooperating so nicely during the time that the Wheat Acreage Reports were being made. We are proud to state that at the end of our sign-up period all except ten farmers had been in and reported. We thought this was a very good report and we want you to know that your cooperation was greatly appreciated.

Fort Worth labor organizations have started CROP participation by beginning to raise funds for the purchase of 200 pigs to be sent to Honduras by plane on June 5th from Fort Worth's new International Airport. Walter Parr, Regional Director for CROP, will accompany the pigs and supervise their distribution.

The pigs which the Fort Worth labor groups are to contribute will be distributed to newly organized 4-H Clubs in Honduras in cooperation with missionaries, leaders in farm extension work and the Point IV Program.

This is the second plane load of pigs which CROP and Texas

Inter-Faith have sent to Central America. 200 pigs were flown to El Salvador last November.

Labor was welcomed to CROP at the annual meeting of the organizations held recently in Fort Worth. Six representatives—three from the CIO and three from the AF of L—were elected to serve on the CROP State Committee. Willard Barr of Fort Worth was elected to serve on the Executive Committee.

Someone has said that a diamond is just a piece of coal that stuck to the job.

According to an ancient proverb as human beings grow older they acquire a face like they desire. Maybe this would be going a bit too far, but it is basically true. The things that we do leave marks upon our lives and the tendency of our body and our face to be a mirror reflecting these habits are always true. We say that so and so, drinks too much, eats too much, or smokes too much and we are looking in to this reflection in their faces. Anyway, wouldn't it be wonderful if we could make ourselves act in such a way that folks would say, he loved others too much, he was too good natured, he was too kind to others. And if these marks would grow and grow until they would reflect in this same mirror that folks read our lives by.

Speaking of live; not long ago we heard someone say that every person had the same amount of love, and the same capacity to love. The only difference, according to this person's explanation, was in the fact that some loved others and some loved themselves I guess that could be right.

REEVES REPORTING

Elbert Reeves
Representative 88th District

As this is being written we are in the closing days of the legislature. Old timers say that this has been one of the roughest sessions that we have had. Also, that there has been more controversial legislation introduced than ever before. I feel that great progress has been made in solving some of the problems that needed to be solved.

There were over 60 water bills heard in the committee on conservation and reclamation, over 100 bills introduced in the committee on education and about 50 bills before the agriculture committee. While the number of bills that came before the committee on highways and roads was not very large, they were important, and decisions in solving them were difficult, indeed.

As a member of all of these committees, I am convinced that there is much legislation yet to come before these committees at some future session, before we can accomplish some of the objectives that is badly needed in this state. There is a prospect that the governor will call a special session of the legislature in the not too distant future to solve some of the problems that will be left unsolved during this session. I, more than likely, will be home in Matador before this is read, so I want to take the opportunity of saying to all of the citizens of the 88th district, that we have tried to solve every piece of legislation in a way that would not only be beneficial to our area, but to the state as well. It has never been our intent or purpose to dodge any controversial issue that arose, but rendered a decision one way or the other in view of all the existing facts before us. We are keenly aware of the interest that the people in the 88th district have taken in this session of the legislature because they indicated an interest for or against certain measures introduced. We know, too, that it has and will continue to be impossible to render a decision that everyone can agree on, but we are glad to say that we are happy we had the opportunity to represent the people in the 88th district and hope that in light of information they read will prove that our "bating average" will be relatively high, in way of for rather than against the votes that I cast. We personally feel that the work started in this session of the legislature has not been completed, and my only hope is that these same unfinished problems will be taken up in the next session of the legislature and a final solution will be made. Our state of Texas is a great state, with many challenging problems and it is necessary to have a desire and a willingness to work to solve them.

We often wish it were possible for every citizen of the 88th district to take time enough to come here to the capitol even just for one day and to listen to the problems that the state is confronted with. I think that they would return home and take a greater interest in their state government. To do so would make everyone a better citizen. So in sending in this last report to the people of the district, we want to express to them our appreciation for their cooperation they have given us all through the session, and my thanks to them for so honoring me in being permitted to represent them in the best way we possibly could.

We hope to be able to visit the counties during the summer and to discuss unfinished legislation and problems that may be pending for the 54th session of the legislature when it convenes in January, 1955.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

THE TAX SITUATION:

The recent speech by President Eisenhower which definitely spelled out that the administration would not advocate or support tax reduction at this time caused much discussion on Capitol Hill, putting it mildly. These discussions sometimes reach almost to the point of white heat. Much pressure is being exerted on the congressional advocates of tax reduction. What effect this pressure will have is difficult to tell. It does not presently appear that the tax cut advocates will capitulate. However, the impact of Eisenhower's speech will have a telling effect.

The administration is in this dilemma. Until recently it has been assumed by all that the excess profits tax would be allowed to die and that Congress would take no affirmative action to extend it. This tax will expire by its own terms as of June 30th unless Congress does take affirmative action to extend it. The 1951 ten per cent increase in the individual income taxes will expire by its own terms on January 1, 1954. Chairman Reed of the House tax-writing committee introduced H.R. 1, which would move the expiration date backwards from January 1, 1954, to July 1, 1953, on this particular tax. This was done because Chairman Reed assumed that the excess profits tax would be allowed to die, as people had been led to believe, and he felt that it was only fair to the individual income tax payer that the additional tax should expire at the same time that the corporate excess profits tax expired. If the excess profits tax is allowed to expire on June 30th, then the Reed bill will create a dark cloud on the political horizon. Unless it is passed by Congress, the administration evidently feels that it would be charged with giving relief to corporations but none to the individual income taxpayer. Therefore, if the excess profits tax is allowed to die, you can look for the Reed bill to pass.

The excess profits tax has been long condemned as a confiscatory, discriminatory and vicious tax that actually penalizes the small businessmen and prevents the growth or expansion of new and small businesses.

It is expected that the administration will come forward with an overall tax bill. According to the President, this will not be until January, 1954. Some here think that it will come much earlier than that, perhaps in the fall or before, if Congress stays in session. However, to date there has been very little information as to what the administration wants in such a bill. Some think that a general sales tax on the federal level will be advocated to take the place of such taxes as the excess profits tax and many excise taxes that will expire on April 1, 1954. It is also anticipated that the national income will drop measurably. This would mean that the expected revenue from present tax laws will decrease accordingly. This in turn means that the budget will be thrown further out of balance. Many here expect a deficit for fiscal year 1954 of approximately 11 billion dollars.

Frankly, the tax picture, insofar as tax relief for the individual tax-payer is concerned, is not good. I have not changed my position concerning relief for the American taxpayer. It is my opinion that the lessening of the present tax impositions upon the individual and small businesses will result in stimulation that will return more revenue for balancing the budget. It will also serve to guard against the operation of the law of diminishing returns, which is affecting the economy right now.

Vacation Bible School At Calvary Baptist Good Success

The Vacation Bible School at Calvary Baptist Church came to a close last Friday. There was an average of 48 in attendance through the school.

Rev. Jones, pastor Hedley Baptist Church, was the Principal and did a good work in directing the activities of the school. "Our workers were at their best and were untiring in their efforts to make the school beneficial to each boy and girl that came," stated Rev. Ernest Phillips, pastor of the local church. "We appreciate the efforts of all the workers and the cooperation of the fine boys and girls. We feel that much good was accomplished."

The commencement exercises were held on Friday evening. Each class had their work that was done through the school on display and the parents passed through the rooms to view the work; everyone seemed to be very well pleased. Each child received a Certificate of Award for their Faithful attendance and work done.

State Senator, District 30

The 53rd Session of our State Legislature is over. There will not be another Regular Session until January of 1955. Because many important issues were not met and many problems not solved, there will very likely be a 30-day Special Session within the next twelve months.

Below we have tried to touch on some of the less publicized but nevertheless important legislation which we have considered this Session. It is quite true that this recent Session will best be known for what it has not done rather than for what it has done.

AGRICULTURE

The big bill affecting agriculture in our section of the State was the Grain Elevator Bill which, for the first time, provides for the inspection and bonding of grain elevators specifically. This bill provides for regulation by the State Agricultural Department of all grain elevators that are not regulated by the Federal Government. It requires the elevator man to put up a bond of from $10,000 to $50,000.

Another feed bill permits manufacturers to pay inspection tax by the ton. This allows them to print the ingredients directly on the bag. The bill also exempts farmers from paying the inspection tax when they furnish any of the feed for custom mixes.

Another bill increases the bond required of auction barns to bring it in line with the actual volume of sales.

SCHOOLS

S. B. 24!!! Teacher Pay Raise—Hottest issue, left hanging fire.

Several bills to help schools in drought areas were passed. One changes the computation basis for local contributions (economic index) from a fixed 4 year average to a moving three year average. Another provides for schools which have fallen off as much as 15% in attendance may keep their "affiliated units" for the preceding year. Another sets up an agency to handle surplus commodities designated by the Federal Government for lunch room programs.

Two bills were passed providing for the taking of the school census in January instead of March. Several bills will allow easier local financing by permitting school districts to borrow money and put up delinquent taxes as security; issue interest-bearing time warrants up to $25,000 without an election; buy U. S. Savings Bonds with the unused proceeds from sale of bond issues so money will be available when needed.

Bills affecting Teacher Retirement: — teachers permitted to designate a beneficiary in case of their death while eligible for retirement; permission granted to re-deposit funds previously withdrawn in order to re-establish their eligibility for benefits; free transfer between State Employees Retirement System and Teacher Retirement System; an increase in the State's share of the Retirement Fund and the allowance of credit to Korean veterans for time spent in service.

Another bill allows school boards to contract with teachers for 3 year periods. A bill to protect school children was passed requiring motorists to stop when school buses are loading or discharging passengers. The age requirement for school bus drivers was lowered to 17 years.

HIGHWAYS & ROADS

The old Automobile Inspection Law is still in force. Efforts to pass a satisfactory Inspection Law were defeated when the House refused to concur in the greatly modified law passed by the Senate.

The big bill affecting roads provides for a Toll Road Authority with work beginning immediately on the Fort Worth-Dallas Toll Road and other projects to begin after 18 months. A constitutional amendment will be submitted to provide that the credit of the State will never be used to assume any obligation of any Toll Road Authority. Another proposed constitutional amendment to keep any new gasoline taxes from being used for anything but highway purposes failed.

The Big City boys passed a bill making it a misdemeanor to buy license plates outside your home county and two bills increasing the length of vehicles were passed. The length of mobile homes and buses were increased to 55 feet, a 5 foot increase. Other bills affecting motorists provide for 30 days permits for out-of-state truckers hauling farm products and another provides that trucks stopped for overloading must register for the full amount of the load.

AUSTIN—Before leaving Austin, the legislators said to each other, "Good bye, see you at the special session."

It is expected that Governor Shivers will call them back when the courts make a final decision on the natural gas tax.

If the tax is upheld, the state will have available the money that has been piling up since the tax was passed by the previous legislature, plus a monthly return of some $1 million.

Governor Shivers has predicted that the court test will come to an end in the Fall.

Reviewing the session, Governor Shivers commended the legislators as a hard-working lot who had put through about 75 to 85 per cent of the program he requested.

He thus revised upward a previous estimate that only a small fraction of his program was completed.

Lawmakers deserve praise, the governor said, for passing some legislation and for defeating other bills.

It was well, he thought, that no new taxes were passed, no expensive state services were inaugurated, and no punitive measures were taken against either labor or management.

As to legislation passed, the governor thought these measures were good:

Authorizing new tuberculosis hospitals at San Antonio and Harlingen; setting up a stronger water conservation program; establishing a state toll road authority; increasing the pay of state employees $180 per year; toning down the auto safety inspection laws; providing three-day jail sentences for driving while intoxicated; and taking steps to study and deal with alcoholism.

The chief executive also thought favorably of these proposed constitutional amendments, to be voted on by the people in November next year:

Permitting Texans in the armed services to vote; authorizing use of a surplus in the Confederate Pension fund for state buildings; boosting the ceiling on state welfare expenditures from $35 million to $42 million; and permitting women to serve on juries.

There were several of the governor's proposals that the legislature failed to put into effect, including:

Revising the election code; congressional and judicial redistricting; raising the money for road building; financing new buildings at Southwestern Medical School at Dallas, the University of Texas cancer research hospital and dental school, the deaf school and the prison system; and providing public school teachers a salary raise.

Increasing the teachers' pay was the hottest and most controversial issue of the session.

Teachers asked for $600 per year additional salary—they got nothing, although a compromise, had they accepted it, would have given them $306.

"It wasn't so much the money," the teachers' spokesmen complained. "It was the principle of the thing."

They said that administration leaders never considered any way of financing the pay increase except by hiking local property taxes.

School people also balked at the administration's insistence that state payments to school supervisors and counselors be eliminated.

A statement was issued by the Texas State Teachers Association to the effect that it "should not be and has not been in the position of being willing to cripple or sacrifice its school program for the conditional promise of a small salary increase when the principles involved were so far-reaching."

The association said it would continue its fight for salary raises at the next session and pointed out that a special session could be called to deal specifically with this problem.

In addition to be proposed constitutional amendments listed above, these additional ones were passed by the Legislature and will be submitted to the people:

Increasing the pay of elected state officials, including members of the Legislature; giving precinct, county, and district officials four year terms instead of two-year terms; permitting teacher retirement system and state employe retirement system credits to be transferred; forbidding the state to assume any debt on bonds issued to build toll roads; allowing state and local government workers to go under the federal social security plan; and authorizing counties under 10,000 population to keep separate tax assessor-collectors by local op-

Some of these issues are controversial — you'll be hearing more about them as election time approaches.

Draft Law & Its Rules And Regulations

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of 10 short articles on the draft law and its rules and regulations.

On a local draft board is placed the responsibility, under applicable laws and regulations, of deciding which men should be deferred because of their civilian activities.

The three categories of men considered are: (1) farmers, or farm workers, (2) college or university students, and (3) men in industrial and all other civilian activities.

In the case of students, deferment until end of the school year is ordered by law, if the student is mailed an order to report for induction while he is in school satisfactorily taking a full-time course of instruction, provided he has never received such a statutory deferment before.

If the student has previously received such a deferment, then further deferment is up to the local board. The board can consider information outside the scholastic as well as scholastic information. The widely-publicized draft test for college students can be ignored by local boards under draft regulations if the board so desires. Score on the draft test and class standing of the student are provided as information for the board.

Here are three things the board considers when it is looking at a case of possible deferment for farming or other civilian activity: (1) Is the man engaged, except for a seasonal or temporary interruption, in the activity? (2) Can he be replaced by persons with his qualifications or skills? (3) Would his removal cause a material loss of effectiveness in the activity?

In the case of farmers or farm workers, the chief question asked is: Is he employed in the production for market of a substantial quantity of agricultural commodities necessary to maintenance of national health, safety or interest?

All such deferments are for limited periods.

Appeal Made In Cancer Crusade

AUSTIN — An eleventh-hour appeal to put this year's Cancer Crusade over the $600,000 state goal was made today by a Texas doctor, himself a staunch volunteer cancer fighter.

The spokesman is Dr. G. V. Brindley of Temple, chief surgeon of the Scott & White Clinic and chairman of the American Cancer Society's Texas Division executive committee.

Dr. Brindley said that so far this spring a total of $520,000 has been contributed to county cancer units in Texas, from all sources.

"The Texas Crusade is far ahead of any previous year, and is so close to success that the last effort is of particular importance," according to Dr. Brindley. He said support is needed and that what remains to be raised is very important to Texas, and in the months ahead can help save many lives from cancer."

The state cancer program is getting results, he stated. He said also that as a veteran physician he gets a first-hand view of the growing tendency toward earlier cancer diagnosis. Prompt attention to the Cancer Danger Signals can save many lives, Dr. Brindley said. The Danger Signals help people get to their doctors early, when there is still time for cure, he said.

"The vigorous public cancer fight, through the American Cancer Society's triple-front program — public and medical education, research and service — deserves much credit," he added. "Research is rapidly uncovering new clues for the final solution to cancer. Expanding local service programs for those stricken with cancer are also slowly turning the tide against malignant disease."

Throughout the rest of the country, financial support for the Cancer Crusade is also greater this year than ever before, Dr. Brindley said.
