"A Paper Dedicated To Building A Better Future For Clarendon And All Of Donley County"

A Friendly Face

Marissa McFarland visits with a resident of the Medical Center Nursing Home last Monday.

Marissa was part of a group of 57 Clarendon Girl Scouts and 20 leaders who were at the nursing home to hang fall decorations on the residents' doors.

The group also sang songs and released balloons in observance of the Girl Scouts' 85th anniversary this year.

Clarendon buries two long time local businessmen

Services held for Pud Bain, Willard Hudson

Clarendon residents mourned the loss of two men last week who had been constant fixtures of main street for decades — Pud Bain and Willard Hudson.

James "Pud" Bain died on Tuesday, October 28, in Medical Center Nursing Home in Clarendon following a lengthy illness. He was 90 years old.

Pud and two of his brothers, Regan and Olan, opened the O.K. Cafe in here 1929, and Pud learned to make the best hamburgers in town. The cafe moved to several different locations in Clarendon until the brothers dissolved their partnership.

He married Alyne Sandlin on January 12, 1935, and together they started Bains Fountain and Gift Store (in the present location of JAMZ) in 1971. Their store was a favorite lunch-time hang out and was known for great hamburgers and old fashioned fountain sundries. The business was operated until about 1984.

Willard "Lightning" Hudson died on Friday, October 31, in Medical Center Nursing Home in Clarendon following a lengthy illness. He was 81.

He married Margaret August "Peggy" Taylor on August 25, 1936, at Fort Collins, Colorado. He owned a hardware and sporting goods store in Clarendon for seven years and later established a business at Burson Lake which he owned for 22 years.

For 43 years he worked at the Donley County State Bank, retiring in 1995. He was a US Navy veteran of World War II.

Lady Broncos to compete in regional cross country meet

Clarendon's cross country team heads to the Region I Cross Country meet Saturday in Lubbock's Mae Simmons Park.

The Lady Broncos finished third behind Wellington and Panhandle. The top three teams advance to the regional meet.

This is the second year the Clarendon team has advanced to the regional meet. Running begins at noon.

Undefeated JV Broncos to play Caprock here Thursday

Clarendon's junior varsity Broncos will try to finish out the season with an unblemished 10-0 record at 6 p.m. Thursday with a homestand vs. the Caprock freshman team.

The J.V. Broncos are 9-0 on the season and won the district crown with a 20-16 squeaker over Memphis Oct. 30 in Cyclone Stadium.

The Broncos got on the board first with a 10-yard run by Aaron Ortega. Clarendon missed the two-point conversion, and Memphis capitalized by scoring a TD and tacking on the two points for an 8-6 lead.

But Clarendon led at halftime after freshman quarterback Colt Floyd scampered in on a short run around the left end.

"He got good blocking from everybody," offensive coordinator Wade Wilson said.

Memphis was not to be outdone and scored another TD and two-point conversion, but it would be their last. The Broncos made another long drive and received the reward of their hard work when Shannon Martin hit paydirt on a long run.

Josh Williams took in Floyd's pass for a two-point conversion and the win.

"Then it was nip-and-tuck from there," Wilson said. "Our defense had to step it up and play hard. We held them in four downs and got the ball, and we made three first downs to finish the clock."

"The last one was fourth-and-seven and Zack Butts caught it one-handed as he was getting hit and preserved the victory for us."

Wilson credits the offensive line of Nickless Devin, Nathan Floyd, Tyler Lane, Josh English and Timmy McKinney for holding onto the win.

"When we needed to run out the clock against Memphis, and we knew they had a kid who could take it on a touchdown run. We rattled off three first downs, and they opened up some holes.

"If we couldn't have made the first downs, we would have had to contain their running back, and that would have made everybody nervous. They blocked well for us."

Clarendon claimed the District 2-2A championship, but they have a goal of completing the season without a loss, Wilson said.

"Once you get this close it becomes a goal for the kids and the coaches. 9-1 is great, but 10-0 is better. That's what we like to tell the kids. This is as close to a play-off situation as they can get. It's just something that we can build on for the future."

"We don't know a whole lot about them, but it would be fun to beat Caprock's freshman team. They're a (Class) 4A team, and when they unload 41 kids off their bus, we're going to step up and go after them."

"We've had a great year," head coach Tooter Draper said. "The coaching staff worked hard on them. They've got a good shot going 10-0."

The eighth graders lost their Oct. 30 match-up with Memphis, 22-14. Greg Wooten scored one TD on a kick-off return, and Antonio Wilson took a pitch and threw a touchdown pass to Jared Lax. Wilson also ran in the two-point conversion.

The seventh graders won their game, 12-8. Jacob Mondragon ran in one TD, while Judge Smith scored the other touchdown.

The seventh and eighth grade Colts finish their seasons Thursday vs. White Deer at home at 4:30 p.m.

Thornberry votes for tax-free education savings accounts

WASHINGTON, D.C. — US Rep. Thornberry voted last week for legislation which will let parents contribute up to $2,500 annually to a tax-free savings account that could then be used to pay for tuition and other expenses related to their children's education at any public, private, or religious school, from kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

"The key to improving education in our country doesn't lie with creating a new federal program," Thornberry state, "and it certainly doesn't lie with requiring students to take another standardized test or exam. Rather, the key to improving education in America lies with giving parents more control over the education their children receive. The legislation passed recently will help do that, which is why I supported the bill and hope it's signed into law."

The legislation is called the Education Savings Accounts for Public and Private Schools Act. Passed last Thursday by the House of Representatives by a vote of 230-198, the measure would let parents make annual contributions of up to $2,500 to tax-free savings accounts - also known as "A+ Accounts" - which they could then draw from to pay for expenses, including tuition, related to their children's education at any school — public, private, religious, or home school - from kindergarten through college.

If a parent placed $2,500 each year into an "A+ Account" starting in a child's first year, Thornberry noted, $18,110.04 would be available by the first grade, $40,520.26 by the time the child starts junior high school and $58,414.71 when the child starts high school (assuming an interest rate of 7.5 percent).

"This would be money in the pocket that would help parents put their kids through school," Thornberry said. "For example, parents who send their kids to public school could use 'A+ Accounts' to pay for carpooling or other transportation costs, or to buy a home computer."

Thornberry stated that any money remaining in an "A+ Account" after a child graduates from high school could be used for his or her expenses in school. Thornberry also noted that a recent survey revealed that 66 percent of Americans favor providing "A+ Accounts" to parents.

The "A+ Account" proposal will now be sent to the Senate, where it is expected to be approved. After that, it will be sent to the President for his signature or veto.

Gramm unveils legislation to increase federal funded scientific research

As the test scores of Texas science students were lagging, U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm was joined in Washington by 106 of America's leading researchers in unveiling legislation to double the amount spent on government-sponsored civilian research.

"Texas is a hub for research and development, so it is no secret that Texas' great universities and research institutions will stand to benefit from an increased investment in science," the senator noted.

"In fact, I want Texas to become a magnet for scientists from all over the world, and I want Texas school students to benefit," Gramm said. "Our students are our future, and if we can make science a priority in the federal budget, I know we can count on Texas schools to produce the talented scientists that America will need."

The new bill sets in place a renewed commitment to make basic science and technology a priority in the federal budget again by raising the amount budgeted for science from $34 billion a year to $68 billion annually by the year 2008.

"There is no question that we are undercutting science," Gramm said. "In 1965, 5.7 percent of the budget was spent on non-defense research. Thirty-two years later, that has dropped by two-thirds to 1.9 percent. Our strongest economic competitors in the world, Japan and Germany, now spend more of their budgets for basic research than America."

"We depend on science to provide the jobs, growth, and opportunity that Texas needs, and if we don't restore the high priority that we once accorded to science, it will be impossible to maintain Texas' position as a technological leader of the world."

Gramm added that economic leadership "isn't the only thing that science provides. It touches every one of us personally, every day. Without the basic breakthroughs achieved decades ago, we'd be blind to life-altering events that range from using satellites to spot hurricanes in the Gulf to discovering cancer on a simple, critical mammogram."

Drs. Allan Bromley, president of the American Physical Society and former science adviser to President Bush, Ronald Breslow, immediate past president of the American Chemical Society, and Win Phillips, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, led scientists from across the nation in endorsing the bill.

According to a national study released in late October by the National Assessment Governing Board, 55 percent of Texas eighth-graders have a basic level of scientific knowledge and understanding, compared with 60 percent nationwide.

Bill will give parents more control of education

It used to be that parents would send their children off to school in the morning excited about what they were going to learn.

Now millions of parents send their kids off with concern about what they might not learn and fear for their safety. In many places there is a good reason for these concerns and fears.

Today in our country, 40 percent of all 10-year-olds can't meet basic literacy standards and American 8th graders recently placed 28th in the world in science and math skills. And where students in most schools used to have to take part in regular fire drills, students in Los Angeles schools now have to take part in something called a "drop drill" where they duck under their desks and cover their heads in case of gunfire. The key to solving problems such as these doesn't tie with creating a new federal program or requiring students to take another standardized test. Rather, the key to improving education in America lies with giving parents more control over the education their children receive.

The House of Representatives took a step in this direction last week when it passed a bill that would let parents set up a tax-free savings accounts for their kids' education. They're called A- Accounts, and they would let parents save up to $2,500 dollars each year to help pay expenses related to sending their children to school, from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

Parents could use this money to buy a new computer for their kids' homework or to help pay tuition at a private or parochial school. The important thing is it would be money in their pocket - not Washington's - and something that would give them more say over what their children are learning and where they're going to school.

TCFA Update:

Cattlemen concerned with food safety

With about 30 percent of the nation's fed beef coming from Cattle Feeding Country of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, any time food safety becomes a consumer issue, cattlemen in the area become concerned. And as you may have noticed, food safety is very much an issue of late.

Solving the food safety issues that have come up recently will be an industry-wide effort. But nobody is more concerned about the safety and wholesomeness of beef than cattlemen, and the industry is working very hard to get its arms around its present challenge.

In Cattle Feeding Country, the Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA) has been working on an update of its 11-year-old Beef Quality Assurance program, which was developed to give cattle feeders a blueprint to help ensure they produce safe and wholesome beef with the use of animal health products and other inputs. Several years ago, the principle of HACCP, or Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points, was introduced to the beef industry, and TCFA is looking at the possibility of incorporating HACCP-type principles into its Beef Quality Assurance program.

Basically, HACCP is a systems approach to solving problems. You determine what the potential hazards are, then look at the entire production system from beginning to end and decide where along the continuum you can erect a critical control point to eliminate the hazard.

Do any of these critical control points exist on the farm, ranch, or feedyard? That's what TCFA is trying to determine. Their work in this area is still preliminary and they have a lot to learn and a long way to go before any definitive program is cemented together, but some in the industry are anticipating a time when farm-to-table production systems governed by some type of HACCP program will be commonplace throughout the industry. TCFA was the first state cattle organization to offer a Beef Quality Assurance program to its members. Their through now, as it was more than ten years ago, is that it's very important to get ahead of the curve on major production trends and be in a position to help guide those trends as they go forward.

On the national front, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) has been very active in managing the food safety issue. In testimony before the Senate Agriculture Committee, NCBA outlined the steps that need to be taken to control food safety outbreaks.

- A HACCP-based meat and poultry inspection system must be operating efficiently and effectively as soon as possible. It is of critical importance that the USDA inspection workforce is fully trained to be part of this new system.
- Companies must have the opportunity to employ new technologies to help reduce the risk of potential pathogens. The development of methods to "pasteurize" ground meats just as we pasteurize milk and other products for human consumption needs to be seriously considered.
- A strategic plan for prevention-oriented food safety research, technology, development, and transfer that engages the resources of the public and private sector must be developed and fully funded. This research strategy must establish a set of risk-based priorities that reflect the appropriate allocation of resources from the farm to the table.
- There needs to be a focus on educating food handlers and consumers regarding the proper handling and cooking of raw ag products.

In the past five years, the beef industry has invested more than $5 million in research on food safety. NCBA is also working with other commodity groups to deliver a comprehensive food safety education program, budgeted at $500,000 this year.

The issue of food safety is top-of-mind for both consumers and producers. As we learn more about how to control pathogens in the food we eat, all ag producers, not just cattlemen, will benefit.

What in the world would we do without do-ers?

A couple of Saturdays ago on a wind-swept, bone-chilling Panhandle morning, I ventured to the old gym with my wife, Claudia. She was helping to set up for the annual Halloween Carnival.

There she hooked up with the likes of Bobbie Thornberry, Maurine Butts, Diane Chamberlain, Jan Campbell, Neva Spier, and Carol Lane to perform a variety of tasks, including excavating props for each carnival booth from a rather dusty, dungeon-like storage area that not even the most fearless mountain goat would dare challenge.

Those ladies worked like a bunch of beavers, I'm telling ya — setting up tables, stringing up tires, moving desks, etc. As I watched their feverish work, it struck me that they ought to form some kind of society. Kind of like the Goldie Hawn-Diane Keeton-Bett Midler "First Wives Club." Their group could be called something like the "First Volunteers Club," I reckon.

Of course, it would be a big, big club, as I have just named a few of its stalwart members in Clarendon. Something I've noticed, however, is that while events are different, the faces tend to be the same. As an example, I observed some of the same ladies who worked on the carnival toiling in the concession stand at a Bronco ballgame that same week.

Some of those same ladies could also be seen participating in the American Cancer Society Walk recently in Amarillo. They were walking while most of us were still snoozing.

I get tired just thinking about it. I mean, golly, the Energizer Bunny doesn't have a thing on these gals.

Last year, as a case in point, the college initiated a Christmas basketball tournament. An event of that magnitude during the holiday season — when people have enough to take care of in their own homes — requires a lot of volunteers to insure that things run without a hitch. One of the more arduous tasks at hand was organizing and operating a hospitality room for coaches and officials.

As it turned out, we had a super hospitality room for the tournament. One of the best I've ever seen at the zillion roundball tournaments I've attended over the last 20 years. How did we do it? Easy — we just called Bobbie Thornberry and Valerie Avery. That's all we had to do, and it was taken care of - period.

Recently, the Lions Club initiated a new flag service, through which club members put out American flags in front of local businesses on special patriotic days throughout the year. Who organized that outstanding effort? Allen Estlack and, you guessed it, Bobbie Thornberry.

Such is how things work in Clarendon, and in every community, I suppose. Every town has its "do-ers." Those who DO.

Now, being pegged as a do-er can be a dangerous occupation. Do-ers and their telephone numbers become known to all who organize community events. Do-ers don't have much time for themselves. They bake a lot of cakes and cookies, make homemade ice cream, sell tickets and program ads, put up posters around town, lick stamps, and mail letters, man (rather, woman) booths, and dozens and dozens of other things that do-ers typically do.

To be fair, men can be do-ers, too. People like Don Stone, Delbert Robertson, Edwin Campbell, Buddy James, A.R. Henson, James Owens, Tommie Saye, Mike Butts, Mike Spier, Steve Sell, Les Myers, Ted Shaller, and the local list goes on and on. But the unvarnished truth is that if you really want something done and done right, you better get a female do-er. Somebody like Cennett Rhode, Ruby Jewel Hardin, Francis Deyhle, Briss Mann, Jeanne Mondragon, Pat Archuleta, Cindy Shelton, or Susie Shields.

Burn me at the stake, fellows, but, in my experience, a female do-er is by far and away the best kind of do-er there is.

I'm proud to say, and sometimes in my more selfish moods, chagrined to say, that my spunky wife, Claudia, is a do-er extraordinaire. Personally, I think she's pretty good at saying "no," that is, until someone calls and wants sandwiches made or donuts bought or a banquet organized.

Yes, husbands of do-ers can feel pretty rained on sometimes. Yet, being the husband of a do-er is kind of special.

I guess the bottom line with do-ers is that they just make things work. Yeah, they just make things work. Truly, I wish I could write a column and name all the do-ers in Clarendon with which we are so very blessed. Alas, I can't. Space doesn't permit it, and, in reality, some of the best do-ers are those who work in almost total anonymity.

Still, I hope without offending anyone that I've touched on just a few names of people who are shining examples in our community of those who consistently give of themselves for the betterment of all.

Suffice it to say, what would we do without our do-ers?

Dr. Scott Elliott is the president of Clarendon College.

Library book sale exceeds expectations

The Friends of the Library week-long book sale in September netted $428.43 for the city library.

The sale exceeded expectations, according to city librarian Mary Green, who reported the figures to the library board Oct. 20 at its monthly meeting.

The Friends of the Library account now totals $2,262.12, and much of that will be used to purchase a laminating machine.

The machine will preserve old documents the library has in its possession.

Board member Annie Roach suggested sending leftover books from the sale to libraries hit hard by recent floods in the northern United States. Many of the libraries were destroyed and do not have enough money to purchase materials.

Mary Green was asked to look into shipping charges to these libraries to see if it was economically feasible.

Board members studied the 1996-97 library usage report. More people visited the library and more books were checked out this fiscal year than last year.

Bobbie Thornberry was recommended as a new member of the library board replacing president Cindy Shelton, who recently finished her two-year term.

• Due to the resignation of Postmaster Bynum who moved to Amarillo after he sold out some months ago, the Lelia Lake post office has been operated by an acting postmistress in the person of Miss Bynum.

The rehabilitation of US Hwy. 287 through Clarendon is progressing right along. Much work has been done in the last week to remove concrete gutters and sidewalks on the north side of the road.

Long buried under the highway, the bricks which once paved Second Street have been brought to the light of day. As much as possible, the bricks will be salvaged and turned over to the city for use to repair other brick streets when needed.

Broncos to finish season with White Deer game Friday

Memphis scored twice off of its defense as the Broncos lost a defensive slugfest, 14-0, Oct. 31, in their last home game of the season.

Clarendon finishes its season Friday with White Deer (8-1, 4-1) at 7:30 p.m. in White Deer.

The Bucks are in a must-win situation to make the play-offs and Bronco head coach Tooter Draper said Clarendon will be up for Friday's contest.

"I think (White Deer) will be ready to play," Draper said. "But I think we'll play well. We've played real well all season. There isn't a ball game we haven't played well. We'll play hard, we always play hard."

The Broncos will watch "a lot of film and look at what they run and their plays" in the week leading up to the game.

"It's more of letting us see what they will do. On offense, we'll work on our timing. We're going to throw some different defensive fronts on them. If (defense) play like we did against Memphis and get another output like that, we'll do fine."

Clarendon must stop junior running back Craig Urbanczyk (6-0, 165) - one of the premier running backs in the area - who earned 1996 all-district honors while rushing for 1,619 yards, 21 touchdowns on 241 carries, despite missing two games because of injuries. "He's really good," Draper said. He's got good speed, and he's real strong. We'll have to play real well to shut him down."

White Deer is one of the surprises in the area, losing only one game and being scored on only a handful of times this year.

"They've got a lot of seniors, and they've played together for three years and started for three years," Draper said. "I think that's really helped out. You know what everyone's doing."

On the stat sheet, Memphis (3-6, 1-3) and Clarendon (3-6, 0-4) looked similar, but Memphis capitalized on the big play, Draper said.

"We really played well defensively. We had two touchdown passes that were dropped really early in the game. We had four chances to score early in the game and we just didn't execute and score."

Draper said the offensive game couldn't get reignited after sophomore Cael Shields scored early in the game on an 8-yard run, and the Broncos were whistled for a holding call.

"That kind of shot us in the foot, and we didn't do anything after that. We lost on four downs, and we had interceptions."

Memphis scored first in the third quarter when Clarendon fumbled, and Memphis' Randall Johnson rumbled in for the TD.

"It was a freak deal where the kid fumbled and (Johnson) picked it up. His knees were down on the film. We let up, and the whistle wasn't blown. They thought the play had stopped."

In the fourth period, Johnson snagged a Clarendon pass and ran in 15 yards for the TD. "We were running a little out-route and Kareem (Abdullah) fell down, and the kid stepped in front of him."

Draper cited freshman Sam Holton, who played his first week at defensive end for outstanding play. Cael Shields made 14 tackles and played a good offensive game, Draper said. "And Blake Bass really caught the ball well."

Hornets sting Hedley Owls, 52-7

The Harrold Hornets scored 14 points in the third quarter for a 52-7 win over Hedley Oct. 31, ending the game because of the 45-point rule.

The Hedley Owls finish up their season Friday with a 4 p.m. kick-off with Samnorwood at home.

Hedley dropped to 1-7 and 0-4 in Six-man District 2-1A.

Harrold struck first blood with a touchdown and two-point conversion in the first quarter, but Hedley's Kenneth Dishong rambled on a 5-yard run and tacked on the PAT.

But that was the closest Hedley would ever get as Harrold scored 44 unanswered points.

The Owls rushed for 115 yards and passed for 39.

The Lion's Tale

By Roger Estlack

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting on November 4 at the Lion's Hall. Fourteen members and guests were present.

After a delicious Mexican dinner, Boss Lion Walt Knorpp opened the meeting and led in the pledge. Vice President Mark Mann gave a report on the annual Charter Banquet which was held last week.

The program was presented by Clarendon College Lady Bulldog

Coach Joel Zehr. He said the Lady Bulldogs will play on Monday and Thursday nights this season, and that most of the Monday games are out of town. He hopes this will allow more people to turn out for the Thursday home games. Coach Zehr also reported that each of his players have been adopted by local families. This has helped the to feel greater support from the community.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Bulldogs traveling to Kansas for tournament

Clarendon College's Bulldog basketball team returns to the hardwood Thursday for the Garden City Classic in Garden City, Kan.

The three-day tournament features Rose State of Oklahoma; Northeast Colorado; Garden City; and Clarendon College. The Bulldogs are guaranteed three games.

"That's three competitive teams," head coach Joe Mondragon said. "We've got to step up immediately. We can't go over there and try to experiment, of course that's what preseason games are for. We've got to get ready for three tough teams."

Mondragon said it will be difficult to beat Garden City, which returns all their seniors and sports a 7-2 player from Australia.

Clarendon opened up its season last Friday with the hometown Merchants Classic.

The Bulldogs fell to Northlake Community College of Dallas on Friday with an 81-73 loss. Clarendon finished up the tournament with a 104-41 whipping of Wayland Baptist University's Junior Varsity squad on Saturday.

Clarendon was behind by 11 at halftime in the Northlake game and fell behind by 22 points with 10:03 remaining. The Bulldogs tied the game with :53 remaining but did not make smart decisions down the stretch, Mondragon said.

"That just comes with experience. All our players were the go-to players on their high school team, but that's not the way it is in college. You have to use the team concept. The bright spot was this team was not going to give up. They could have folded and gone home."

Northlake suited up three starters from last year's squad, Mondragon said.

The Bulldogs practiced for two hours on Saturday before destroying Wayland Baptist.

"On Saturday, we had a totally different ball club. We didn't execute on Friday."

Clarendon suits up a "real inexperienced team right now," Mondragon said. "We don't have any starters back. Our guards are talented, but I think they had first game jitters. That's what these preseason games are for. It's hard to swallow losing the home opener."

Clarendon's recruits are athletic and hard workers but need time to learn the system, Mondragon said. "We have nice balance."

CC's Leland Robertson (Philadelphia, PA) tries to score for the Bulldogs during last Friday's game against North Lake.

Lady Bulldogs to open season here Thursday

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs - the 1996-97 National Small College Athletic Association's No. 2 team - opens up its season Thursday at 6 p.m. with a match-up with the Oklahoma Christian University Junior Varsity in Clarendon.

Clarendon College travels Tuesday to Enid, Okla., for a 6 p.m. tip-off with Phillips University.

The two regular season games come after a sharp scrimmage Saturday against Southwestern Oklahoma University in Weatherford, Okla.

"I was real pleased with them," said head coach Joel Zehr, the NSCAA's 1996-97 Coach of the Year. "I saw some things that were bright."

What made the showing even more promising is that Southwestern is ranked number two in the NAIA.

"And we played with them all day. We beat them one half. We've been playing them for 10 years, and we've never stayed within 20. I honestly believe we're stronger as far as the type of players we have."

"We have four or five kids who can step in and start it back up. We've got enough bench strength to outlast anybody."

Zehr credits the strong showing with good recruiting. "The recruiting was really good."

We've had some people fall into our laps. Here, you find kids who are looking for a place to play. We got fortunate to find a lot of kids who want to play and want to play hard."

Clarendon returns Andrea Watson of Kingston, Jamaica, who is the Lady Bulldogs' best athlete, Zehr said. She may be the best replacement of Brandy Thomas of Wellington, who graduated last year.

"(Thomas) was our scorer. We haven't found someone to score (like Thomas), but it may be (Watson)."

Zehr will be moving to an up-tempo game this year because of the type of athletes he has.

"We're trying to run with the ball," he said. "It will be a lot different than what we're used to. We have some quickness and some rebounders."

Knorpp suits up to play for CC Lady Bulldogs

Korey Knorpp (pictured left) of Clarendon will be suiting up for the Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs basketball team this season.

Coached by Joel Zehr, the Lady Bulldogs will begin the 1997-98 season with action against Phillips University in Enid, Oklahoma, on November 11.

Last season the CC Lady Bulldogs were ranked #1 the entire season, according to the National Small College Athlete Association polls. Led by Coach Zehr, the Lady Bulldogs ended their fairy-tale season with a 25-5 record and with Sophomore Brandy Thomas being named a NSCAA All-American. The team ended their season second in the nation after an 80-57 loss to Kansas Wesleyan University.

The squad of six sophomores and seven freshmen were the first in the college's 99 years of existence to win a reserve national championship in basketball.

Returning for the Lady Bulldogs is Trish Castillo, Sundown, TX; Jeanenne Tubbs, Dallas, TX; Andrea

Watson, Kingston, Jamaica; and Maxie Flores, El Paso, TX.

New members for the 1997-98 season are Katrina Bencsics, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada; Teresa Harris, Louisville, KY; Veronica Hopkins, Albuquerque, NM; Becky Kite, Amarillo, TX; Kory Knorpp, Clarendon, TX; Shaina Laury, New York, NY; Stephanie Miller, Louisville, KY; Kirl Neptune, Brooklyn, NY; Mahalia Simpson, Monroepost, San Fernando, Trinidad; Kasey Parks, Roaring Springs, TX; and Briana Sperry, Quitaque, TX.

Herring Bank adds new directors

Ruth Robinson, Billy Jack Land, and Bill Craft join current board members Mark Mann, T.M. "Red" Caldwell, and Dr. Charles Deyhle, Sr., as Advisory Directors to the Herring National Bank, Clarendon Branch.

"We're excited about these new directors," said bank president Mark Mann. "We think they are good representatives of the community and will do a good job."

The directors advise the bank on a variety of issues ranging from setting policy to products and services to assisting with marketing and promotion. They also assist with approval of various management reports.

Panhandle Mental Health Authority ranked number one in state

The Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority's Amarillo services center was ranked number one in the state for its quarterly performance in providing local client services in the Panhandle.

Executive Director, Sandy Skelton said that he was pleased that the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation mental health performance profile ranked Amarillo's center first of the 46 MHMR Centers in the state.

The ranking system includes numbers of people served, casework follow-up, and other performance measures as is mandated by the MHMR system.

"The staff deserves all the credit for this and we know that our employees are very dedicated to giving the very best services possible to the clients we serve. It is a pleasure to work with the staff, families, and clients in the Panhandle," said Skelton.

Skelton also said that the new building that is located behind the Polk

Thank God From Whom All Blessings Flow

When I was a child, a religious teacher of mine asked the students to name some Christian holidays. Christmas and Easter were immediately mentioned.

When asked if there were any others, I stated Thanksgiving.

Although the teacher politely told me that Thanksgiving was not a Christian holiday, it is a day that is set aside each year to thank God for all His many blessings. When we have received something from someone else it is only common courtesy to thank them. Likewise, thanking God for His many blessings should be a regular part of our daily prayer life. In the Bible, when Jesus cured the ten lepers, only one came back to thank Him. Perhaps, the nine who did not return to thank Jesus are a reflection of how often we fail to recognize God's many blessings in our lives. The important thing to know is that we can never Thank God enough.

O give thanks to the Lord, for He is good; His steadfast love endures forever!

CC Livestock Judging Teams fare well at Louisiana State Fair

Clarendon College's sophomore and freshmen livestock judging teams brought home both team and individual honors from the 1997 Louisiana State Fair in Shreveport on October 27.

Coached by Jerry Hawkins, the Freshmen team won the Novice Division, defeating 27 teams from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana, Kansas, Mississippi, and Missouri.

Both the Freshmen and Sophomore teams competed in swine, sheep, and beef judging categories.

In the Novice division, CC freshman Coby White (Douglas, WY) placed first overall in the individual competition. Overall, second place went to Josh Prewitt (Hutto, TX); third to Shayla Haggar (Stamford, TX); and fifth place to Clayton LeCompte (Tucumcari, NM).

In the cattle division, LeCompte placed second, while White finished third. LeCompte also was the second highest scoring individual in the swine division. As a team, the CC freshman finished first in swine, second in cattle, and third in sheep.

Other freshman team members are Josh Leskey (Durango, CO) and Ralph Stokley (Waller, TX). CC's other freshman judging team finished fifth overall. Those team members are Josh Prewitt (Hutto, TX); Russell Sciba (Boling, TX); Libby Caviness (Channing, TX); Ryan Sellman (Crawford, NE); and Megan Tuell (Yuma, CO).

In the sophomore division, Clarendon College finished first in sheep, second in cattle, and second in swine. There were 16 teams from Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, and New Mexico competing in the Sophomore contest.

Individually, sophomore Drew Jeffers (Clarendon) placed third in cattle and first in sheep; Jason Hoffman (McArthur, CA) placed second in swine; Mick Clark (Minco, OK) place third in swine; Christin Davis (Strawberry Plains, TN) placed second in sheep; and Kree Kelley TIPS ON STAYING SAFE AND SOUND WITH NATURAL GAS.

For more than 80 years, Lone Star Gas has been providing safe, dependable energy to its customers. By following a few simple rules, you can help make sure you and your family stay safe and sound with natural gas:

- Always have qualified service people install, regularly check and maintain all gas heaters and appliances, following the manufacturer's instructions for installation, ventilation, and operation.

- Always use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.

- Always keep flammable materials and substances away from gas heaters and appliances. Remember, a pilot light is constantly burning.

- If your gas appliance is more than 20 years old, have it checked by a qualified professional. Certain older, uncoated brass connectors have flaws that may be dangerous and should be changed. Do not move your appliance and check the connector yourself. Call a qualified professional to inspect and replace your connector if necessary.

IF YOU SMELL GAS

in your home, or know you have a gas leak, follow these rules:

- 1 Everyone should leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.
- 2 Do not switch anything electrical on or off.
- 3 Do not use your telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity).
- 4 Do not strike a match or do anything else that might cause a spark.
- 5 Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the gas leak before returning to your home.

If you smell gas while you're outside, contact Lone Star Gas immediately.

BEFORE YOU DIG,

call for pipeline locations to avoid any potential problems:
1-800-344-8377 (1-800-DIG-TESS).

Safe energy for your home, naturally.

Women in Agriculture: Business Management Program scheduled

Early in 1996, the Texas Agriculture Extension Service will begin offering the first sessions of the Women in Agriculture: Business Management Program. This program is designed to help farm and ranch women develop their business management knowledge and abilities. The program is targeted to farm and ranch women working on or off the farm, as well as women who run their own farm or ranch business.

The subject matter will not focus on production topics. The Extension Service currently offers a number of excellent seminars and workshops which address the production management aspects of specific crop and livestock enterprises.

After pilot testing several alternative formats, the complete program will be divided into three units, each involving two full days of instruction beginning at noon on day one and ending at noon on day three. The units are designed to be taken in three successive years. However, the initial group will be polled to determine if they would prefer a more compressed time frame.

Because enrollment in each unit is limited and for logistical purposes, there will be two sessions of unit one offered in 1998. The first will be held at the College Station Hilton on January 28-30 and the second at the Lubbock Holiday Inn Lubbock Plaza on February 25-27.

For further information, contact your County Extension Agent or Tami Tesoro/Danny Klinefelter, Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, 409/845-7171.

November is Home Care and Hospice Month

AUSTIN — One of the most positive developments in medical care today: the growing use of in-home care for individuals recovering from illness or injury, for disabled individuals continuing with their lives, and for those who choose to spend their final days at home. In recognition of this positive trend, Governor George W. Bush has declared November "Home Care and Hospice Month in Texas."

"Texans are concerned about high-quality, affordable health care," Governor Bush said in his proclamation. "With rapidly rising health care costs, home care offers comfortable, cost-effective, high quality, individualized health care and supportive services."

Approximately 3,108 licensed home and community support agencies in Texas provide services ranging from assistance with personal care to high-tech therapies. Individuals can choose either to stay with family or to maintain a home of their own, retaining their pride, independence and dignity either way.

Among the services available through home care agencies are:

- Home health services include skilled and supportive care such as nursing; physical, occupational and speech-language therapies; medical social work; home health aide; and nutritional counseling. From periodic nursing assessments to high-tech intravenous therapies, home health significantly reduces the need for institutional care in hospitals or nursing homes.

- Hospice is a philosophy of care which provides comfort for persons in the last phases of a terminal illness so they can live as comfortably as possible, whether at home or in a health care facility. These services include medical care, nursing, home health aide, social services, spiritual care, bereavement services, volunteer services and other appropriate counseling. Families also receive support through hospice.

- Personal assistance services include routine, ongoing support services such as assistance with self-administered medications, bathing, dressing, grooming, feeding, meal preparation, toileting, and ambulation.

- Respite services are support options provided temporarily to help a primary caregiver and may be available through home health, hospice, or personal assistance care.
