Explosions alarm Clarendon citizens

Deputy's .44 Magnum saves the day when asphalt mixing plant ignites

City residents were startled last Wednesday night when an asphalt mixing plant exploded downtown.

The plant, which was owned by Cox Paving of Albuquerque, NM, was located just west of the grain elevator next to the railroad tracks.

Pat Robertson with the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department said that a malfunctioning pump was the suspected cause of one main explosion and the resulting smaller explosions. Workers had reported having trouble with the pump the day before.

The fire, which lit up the west face of the elevator, was reported at about 9:20 p.m., and the explosions were heard all over town.

The blaze was not easy to put out. "A pump kept feeding fuel to the fire and was arcing electricity to the ground," Robertson said.

"If it had just been the fuel, we could have put up a water shield and sent someone in to shut off the pump. But with that electricity arcing, it was just too dangerous to risk sending someone."

While a course of action was being decided, firefighters continuously covered a second mixing plant with water to keep it from exploding also. The second tank was not as full as the first, and the resulting vapor made it potentially more explosive.

"People with the [paving] company told us that if that second tank went, it could take out two city blocks," Robertson said.

If the mixing plants had been outside of town, they probably would have been allowed to burn themselves out. However, being inside the city made it necessary to get the fire put out.

Chemical foam was called in from the Pampa Fire Department as local officials devised a plan to put out the fire.

"We had to stop that pump, and we knew it would take something powerful to stop it," Robertson said.

So the fire department called in Deputy Butch Blackburn who shot the pump's oil filter with his .44 Magnum.

"He shot that filter dead center, and the oil pressure switch shut off the pump," Robertson said.

With the pump off, firefighters were able to get the blaze under control, and the fire was pretty well extinguished by the time Pampa's foam units arrived.

The remains of an asphalt mixing plant lay partially melted after a blaze last week. A malfunctioning pump has been blamed as the cause.

Getting a much deserved facelift.

Work is in progress at Clarendon's First United Methodist Church installing new metal trim around the roof.

The old wooden trim was badly decayed, and the new material should provide the building with a handsome appearance for many years to come.

The work is in conjunction with a general renovation of the 1910 sanctuary.

Beef Clipping, Showing Clinic to be held July 1

by Leon Church, County Agent

A clipping and showing clinic will be held July 1 for 4-H or FFA members and parents who are involved in showing beef cattle.

The clinic will be held at the John Cooper ranch located 9 miles west of Clarendon on Hwy. 287. We will begin at 8:30 am and finish by noon.

This clinic will focus on clipping heads, tails and bellies. We will also spend time on training the animal for the show, learning to lead, positioning of feet, how to carry show stick, etc.

Youth are encouraged to bring their project animal so that we can have some hands on experiences, actually clipping their own animal.

We will have trimming chutes available. Bring your own clippers if you have them; otherwise clippers will also be available. Youth unable to bring their animal are still welcome to attend and work with other members and parents.

Parents and members are encouraged to attend and learn this skill. Our youth projects are family activities. Can you think of any better way to have youth and parents work together than with livestock projects?

Hedley school trustees vote on several matters

The Hedley CISD Board of Trustees met in a regular meeting on June 16, 1997, at 7 p.m. in the Hedley School Home Economics Room.

A contract with Billy Baker was approved for the independent audit for the 1996-97 school year.

The board also approved the Region XVI Education Service Center contracts for the coming school year.

The Worker's Compensation contract with Hibbs-Halmark & Company/Claims Administrative Services, Inc., was approved for $3,298 per year.

The board approved the agreement with the TASB Risk Management Fund to provide risk management of the unemployment compensation obligations of the Hedley CISD.

Clarendon sailor is part of America's first line of defense

by Rich Henson, Navy Journalist

ABOARD THE USS INDEPENDENCE — Having US naval forces permanently based overseas allows the United States Navy to quickly respond to a multitude of crises around the world. Whether a mission is humanitarian or combat, these forward-deployed ships and Sailors can be on scene in a moment's notice.

Recently, Navy Airman Jared W. Sims, the 21 year old son of Bobby Sims and Sherry Rippetoe, both of Clarendon, demonstrated the speed in which the Navy can react to an overseas crisis during a training exercise in the South Pacific.

Stationed on the aircraft carrier USS Independence, Sims and the crew deployed from their home base in Japan, and within only a few days joined other US and Australian military units in Exercise Tandem Thrust. This massive exercise, which involved more than 28,000 Sailors and Marines, was held in and off the coast of northeastern Australia.

The 80,000 ton Independence is homeported in Yokosuka, Japan, 35 miles south of Tokyo. Sims realizes the importance of being based overseas as well as participating in exercises like Tandem Thrust.

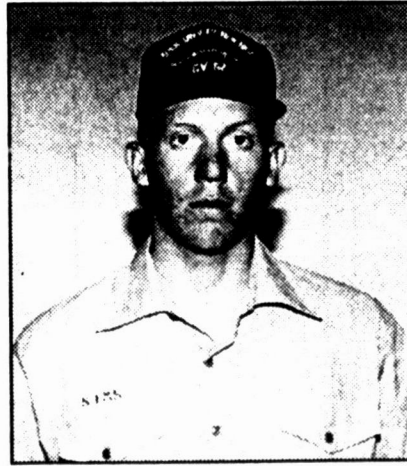

"Our forward deployed forces help keep belligerent countries from trying to bully others," said Sims, a 1994 graduate of Hedley High School. Sims, an aviation boatswain's mate, plays a major role in the launching and recovery of naval aircraft.

Tandem Thrust demonstrated the ability of the US Navy to work with their Australian counterparts in a major naval exercise. The month-long exercise also gave each naval service a chance to see different operating procedures and techniques.

"Tandem Thrust showed that we can work with our allies," said Sims. "I think it's important for our ship to participate in these kinds of exercises because it shows we're able to do our jobs professionally versus other allied armed forces."

Today, US naval battle groups are on station from the Western Pacific and the Arabian Gulf to the Mediterranean Sea. Carriers like the Independence, with more than 80 aircraft and 5,000 Sailors, serve as a deterrent to potential aggressors and can respond on short notice to any crisis around the world.

While exercises like Tandem Thrust keep Sims busy, he enjoys being in the Navy and still has some goals to accomplish.

"My goal is to complete my time in the Navy and go back to college," said Sims, a two year Navy veteran.

The ability to work hand-in-hand with foreign military forces allows the naval service to conduct successful joint operations. Being forward deployed ensures that if and when a situation arises, the Navy and its allies will be able to rapidly project power and take decisive action against any potential adversary.

Donley Appraisal Review Board to hear protests

Property owners in the Donley County Appraisal District will have an opportunity to protest proposed appraisals of their property for local taxes. The district's appraisal review board (ARB) will hold hearings on July 11, 1997.

After the ARB completes its hearings and approves final property appraisals, local governments will use these appraisals to set 1997 tax rates.

The ARB is a group of citizens who live in the appraisal district and are appointed by the district's board of directors. Property owners may protest to the ARB any of the following appraisal office actions:

- The appraised or agricultural value of the property.

- Unequal appraisal of the taxpayer's property compared to other property in the district.
- Inclusion of the property on the appraisal records.
- Denial of a partial exemption, such as a homestead exemption.
- Denial of agricultural-use, open-space, or timber productivity appraisal.
- Determination that agricultural has had a change of use and is subject to a rollback tax.
- Identification of the taxing unit or units in which the property is located.
- Any other action of the appraisal office that adversely affects the property owner.

A property owner wishing to file a protest must make a written request showing the reason for the protest. This notice of protest must be filed by June 26, 1997. Official forms for a notice of protest area available at the appraisal district office.

The ARB will schedule hearings and notify the property owners of the time of their individual hearings 15 days before the hearing date. Property owners will receive a copy of the State Comptroller of Public Accounts' pamphlet entitled Texas Property Taxes: Taxpayer's Rights, Remedies, & Responsibilities and a copy of the ARB's hearing procedures.

Those protesting their appraisals should not contact ARB members outside the hearing. Each ARB member must sign an affidavit that he or she has had no contact about the protest with a property owner or the appraisal office staff before the hearing.

Enterprise office to be closed Friday morning

The Enterprise will be closed this Friday, June 27, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. so that we may attend the Texas Press Association's Convention in Amarillo. The office will be open that same day from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Another citizen unhappy with county roads

Dear Editor;

I would like to express my gratitude to Mrs. Dikkie Howell for her message on June 12, 1997.

Her statements were so true and my praise is that she had what it took to put the message in the paper while the rest of us country road drivers just gripe and wonder why they cannot grade our roads instead of just scraping the tops occasionally.

The trees that hang over our particular road and the weeds are so dangerous in that mostly we only have room for a one lane road or ditch as it turns out.

Thank you, Mrs. Howell, for standing up for yourself and your neighbors.

Flag Burning Amendment Is Bad Idea

The US House of Representatives recently passed a proposed amendment to the Constitution to protect the American Flag.

I don't like flag burners. People who burn the American flag are not worthy to pick up the crumbs under any veteran's table.

However, I am pretty fond of the Constitution, and I don't like to see it cluttered up with silly amendments.

This amendment is not necessary, it is dangerous, and it should not be passed.

I was taught in school by Coach Beck that standing up for the freedom of speech means standing up for even the people whose speech you hate.

"I may not agree with what you say," he said, "but I will fight to the death to defend your right to say it."

Burning the US Flag is a form of political speech, and it is protected by the First Amendment.

We don't have to like it, but we do have to tolerate it.

Besides, any maggot who burns the flag is so genetically backward as to deserve only our pity.

Economic Freedom vs. Federal Nanny-ism

Next week, the United States will celebrate the 221st anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. But not all Americans will be having a good time.

Just last week, an entire American industry "volunteered" to give up its liberty.

The tobacco business, which has been around since Native Americans first smoked a peace pipe, reached a "settlement" with several states' Attorneys General. The settlement, among other things, strips tobacco companies of their right to advertise and forces them to submit to regulation by the federalies in the Food & Drug Administration.

By what right can reckless litigation and agents of the several states and the federal government bring a great American industry to its knees? How long before radical congressmen like Henry Waxman and Vic Fazio decide that caffeine (which is also a drug) is too addictive or that Kellogg's sells unhealthy sweetened cereals to children with cool characters such as Tony the Tiger or Toucan Sam?

Folks, economic liberty is as important as individual liberty. They cannot be separated. If we give up our system of free enterprise in the name of Federal Nanny-ism, then we will eventually flush our personal rights goodbye as well in the name of letting Uncle Sam "do what's best for us."

"Goodbye, Marlboro Man"

An era has come to an end. Through pressure from the government and the fear of future lawsuits, the tobacco industry has decided to end many of its well-recognized advertising campaigns. So long to the comic illustrations of Joe Camel and to the gritty, well-worn face of America's Marlboro Man.

I'll miss the Marlboro Man the most. It's not because I'm a smoker or anything like that. Instead, the image of the Marlboro Man has been as common as chicken fried steak and gravy in my family. Guess you can say that Marlboro and my family have a long history together.

Whether it be on the shores of Mustang Island or running through the cedar breaks near my childhood home in Benjamin, Texas, my family has been associated with Marlboro's famous advertisements. The Marlboro Man just wasn't some handsome model or an airbrushed photographic image. Many times, the men in the ads would be an uncle, grandfather, or great-uncle. They were simply ranchers who got to pose for pictures.

Not only were Uncle Donnie, Dean, Johnny, and Paw-Paw involved in the ads, but so were the women of the family. Their jobs weren't as glamorous, but providing iced tea and a stick-to-your ribs lunch was just as important as wrangling horses or shooting photographs. Some families take skiing vacations or go to Disneyland, but not us. Our family spent time together doing what we all loved - riding, roping, and promoting our Western heritage. Marlboro happened to be there and was able to capture the moment on film.

I had my first taste of photography at a Marlboro shoot on the ranch we leased near Benjamin. Among the hustle and bustle of the shoot, a lone photographer from a New York advertising agency gave a little girl the opportunity to handle the camera and shoot her own pictures.

Guest Column
by Christi Ross

He explained the elements of a great photograph, and how to capture the light. The lesson only lasted a few minutes, but his encouragement will last a lifetime. Today my career consists of designing ads and photography, and I often wonder if my exposure to the Marlboro advertising campaigns help to shape my future.

So long, Marlboro Man. I'll miss you. You were a "taste of home" when work required me to travel across this great country. What a comfort it was to see my Uncle Donnie on a billboard in Los Angeles or to recognize familiar faces in a magazine while on a flight to Boston. The sight of my dad's prized Palomino heeling horse running out of the magazine pages towards me was a welcome and comforting image. I'm lucky enough to own a few of the photos from the shoots at the ranch, but I'll always long for the Marlboro images. They were a great cure for my recurring homesickness.

And so long to a dream. My little brother Jay would have been a great candidate to be a future Marlboro Man. No, he's not a smoker and doesn't plan to take up the habit. But with his dark complexion and well-chiseled features, Jay would have fit the stereotype. He could have been the third-generation of my family to pose for Marlboro.

I never saw the Marlboro ads as being true cigarette ads. Instead, they have been a family album of sorts. The ads and billboards chronicled the seasons, our changes and our inevitable growing older. I'll treasure the memories and photographs forever. Goodbye, Marlboro Man.

Christi Ross is the Marketing and Public Information Coordinator for Clarendon College in Clarendon, Texas. Copyright 1997.

Ten years ago this month, Ronald Reagan gave a speech in West Germany which many say helped change the face of the world forever.

Standing in front of Brandenburg Gate, President Reagan called on Mikhail Gorbachev to do the unthinkable and tear down the Berlin Wall. Reagan was criticized at the time for issuing such a bold challenge. But as so often happens, history proved the critics wrong, and Reagan's vision carried the day.

A lot has changed since that time. What hasn't changed is the need to think boldly and keep our defenses strong. This week, the House will consider a defense authorization bill which tries to do just that with very limited resources.

Among other things, this bill recognizes that to defend America against the continuing threats around the world, we've got to take care of our troops. The legislation includes a pay raise of almost three percent, increases the family separation allowance from $75 to $100 a month, and spends $947 million on the construction and improvement of family housing - which is 39 percent more than the President originally requested.

Whether it's taking care of our people or buying new technology, the defense authorization bill stays true to the vision which President Reagan laid out ten years ago and throughout his presidency - mainly, that the best way to preserve the peace is to keep our military strong.

Sharp delivers tax rebates to local towns

AUSTIN — John Sharp, State Comptroller of Public Accounts, recently delivered a total of $161.6 million in monthly sales tax payments to 1,089 Texas cities and 117 counties.

Clarendon's rebate was up 28.87 percent over the same time last year to $14,869.46. Hedley's $524.63 payment was an increase of 115.95 percent over 1996. Howardwick saw a 43.04 percent increase to $1,452.51.

"So far this year, Texas allocations are running 5.5 percent ahead of those for the first six months of last year, once again indicating that the Texas economy is continuing its strong, steady climb," Sharp said.

This month's sales tax rebates include local taxes collected on April sales and reported to the Comptroller in May by businesses filing monthly returns.

Sheriff Jimmy Thompson has begun a program a month ago that will save many thousands of Donley County taxpayers' dollars in the long run. This program is to work the county jail "residents" during the day to earn their keep. The men have painted the outside and inside of the jail, planted grass in the west part of the jail plot, kept the area clean, and washed patrol cars. The inmates have mowed and cleaned up the courthouse lawn, even discovering a sidewalk long ago grown over with grass. The men will be available to the city as well, cleaning up and taking care of the park.

Recent rains have begun to curse the area rather than sate the thirsty ground. Thursday of last week, area farmers suffered severe rain and hail damage to crops and homes. The Ashtola-Martin, Brice, and Chamberlain areas suffered the brunt of the storm which dumped as much as 2" of rain.

First Assembly of God welcomes new pastor

Rev. Jerry Pollard is the new pastor at First Assembly of God. He is joined by his wife, Wanda and their daughter Jerri, "JJ," who is a junior in college. The Pollards also have a married son living in Spearman. The Pollard family moved into Clarendon on May 30.

The Pollards come to Clarendon from Spearman, Texas, where Rev. Pollard pastored Union Church. During his ministry at Union Church, the church once more became financially sovereign and experienced remarkable growth, tripling in less than a year.

Rev. Pollard is an ordained minister with the Assemblies of God. He has served as senior pastor in the following areas:

Grangeville, Idaho, where a significant increase in attendance and an 89 percent increase in finances was experienced. Part of the church and the parsonage were also remodeled.

Basin City, Washington, where a bilingual ministry to migrant and resident Hispanics was established. A food and clothing bank was also established. El Paso, Texas, established a Sunday School and a Youth Group. A parking lot was put in.

He has served as Associate Pastor and Church Administrator in Plainview where he was asked to concentrate extensively on a teaching ministry.

The Pollard family also served as missionaries in Peru, South America, for ten years. The Pollards were involved in evangelism, pastoral training, teaching in the Bible School, and the establishing of new churches. Rev. Pollard was also involved in the construction of church buildings.

Rev. Pollard has written, developed, and taught training courses in local churches as well as for pastors, seminars on the Holy Spirit, Family-life and Marriage, and Sunday School Organization seminars. He has also taught courses from the International Correspondence Institute.

In addition, he also taught ESL (English as a Second Language) classes through Columbia Basin College in Pasco, Washington and GED and Pre-GED classes through Washington State University.

As a minister/pastor, Rev. Pollard believes every church is faced with a unique set of circumstances to which it is called to minister. A successful church is a church that is in touch with the needs of those it wants to serve. Ministry happens when a person's needs are met.

The Pollard family is looking forward to a fruitful ministry at First Assembly of God.

Why Be A Lion?

We, as Lions, have made a difference in many lives... A child can see the blackboard at school because the Lions Club provided an examination and glasses... At Texas Lions Camp graduation, children smile, laugh, and show new self confidence because they have done things they only dreamed about... At Christmas, many families in Clarendon have food on the table because the Lions Club provided for those who could not provide for themselves.

You can be a part of this organization too and help us to serve Clarendon as we have done for the last 75 Years.

Regular Meeting: Each Tuesday at noon in the Lions Hall.
Women and Men are Welcome to join us at our next meeting and find out what Lionism is all about.

Who Was He?

Al, the train boy, did a good job of selling newspapers and candy to train passengers, but his dream of becoming telegraph operator was the most important thing to him. His favorite thing to do at each train stop was watching the stationmaster send and receive telegraph messages.

During a stop at Mount Clemens, Michigan, in 1862, Al could only quietly watch Mr. Mackenzie's telegraphy since the stationmaster was too busy to talk to him. Glancing through the station window, Al noticed Mr. Mackenzie's two year old son, Jimmy, playing near the track in the path of a loosened freight car that had just been released. Realizing the child and his father were both unaware of the approaching danger, Al raced from the station house toward Jimmy just in time to fling him from the tracks right before the freight car passed.

Mr. Mackenzie, with everyone else, rushed to the scene. Feeling relieved, grateful, and indebted to Al for saving his son's life, he offered Al the opportunity to live with him and his family long enough to teach him telegraphy. As a result of this generous offer, Al's dream of becoming a telegraph operator became a reality.

Al also developed other interests. During this time, he turned his attention to inventing things and became one of the world's greatest inventors. He is probably best remembered for the phonograph and incandescent light, but he gave us more than 1,000 inventions. Oh...by the way, the name, "Al," was short for Thomas Alva Edison.

Saints' Roost Museum needs help after 'mini-disasters'

by The Saints' Rooster
Calling 911!

The Saints' Roost Museum halo is a bit battered and bent due to a series of mini-disasters that left the venerable hospital building somewhat worse for wear. We are dialing 911 and turning to the people of Donley County for assistance.

During one of last winter's deep freeze spells a water pipe in a hallway burst and flooded a section of the flooring, loosening the floor tiles. A volunteer working party took up the loose tiles, but thus far we have been unable to deal with the adhesive underneath. So, when you visit the Museum for the Fourth of July Sloppy Joe feed, you'll probably be shocked at the condition of the floor in one hallway.

Also the torrential rains of spring caused sections of the ceiling in the lobby to collapse, nearly clocking Bob the Buffalo on the way down and leaving an unsightly mess.

The repair budget is dangerously low, so a "fix up" donation bucket will be making the rounds this Independence Day so that we can repair the damage.

A stroll through our battered lobby and down our mangled hallway will show why we've called for help.

And be sure not to miss the traditional Sloppy Joe and ice cream social on the Museum lawn during the Fourth celebration this year. Food will be served beginning at 5 p.m.

Junior Historians

The Clarendon High School Junior Historians under the leadership of Ms. Lyndal Gillen have been working wonders at the museum replacing the display in the toy room, putting the Fibber McGee storage closet into some kind of order, and dusting and oiling the saddle collection.

The continuing contribution of these young people is much appreciated.

Picnic Tables

Let's say you have an old picnic table sitting in the back yard that hasn't been used in years and may need a little repair. Why not donate it to the museum? We can make any necessary repairs and set it up on the lawn for visitors to sit under the trees and enjoy the view. If you do have an unused table, contact any Museum

Board member or Bill Russell at 3626.

Callers

Recent visitors to Saints' Roost Museum include a number of former patients including Larry Necie from San Diego, Ben Anderson of Canyon, and Ty Swinney of Amarillo who once had 78 stitches to repair the damage from a horse kick.

In addition visitors from Zaragosa, Spain, and Santiago, Chili, toured the halls as did folks from Maine, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Earlier this month members of the Clarendon College ElderHostel dropped by and were escorted through the museum by members of the Young Historians group. Summer visitation is picking up, and last month we topped 100 "callers" for the first month this year.

Award Winning Exhibits

The Goodnight Buffalo Herd Exhibit and the Goodnight College Exhibit researched and built by Clarendon High School students Paula Jackson, Chandra Ford, and Mark Howard are on display but, as the commercials say, "will be available for a limited time only." Both exhibits, which reached the UIL state finals competition, will be taken down in August. So if you haven't had a chance to see the excellent work done by these student you must do so before then. They are well worth the visit.

Coming Attractions

The Third Annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff is coming September 27! It brings entertainment, authentic chuckwagon food, music, and a taste of the old West as it really was!

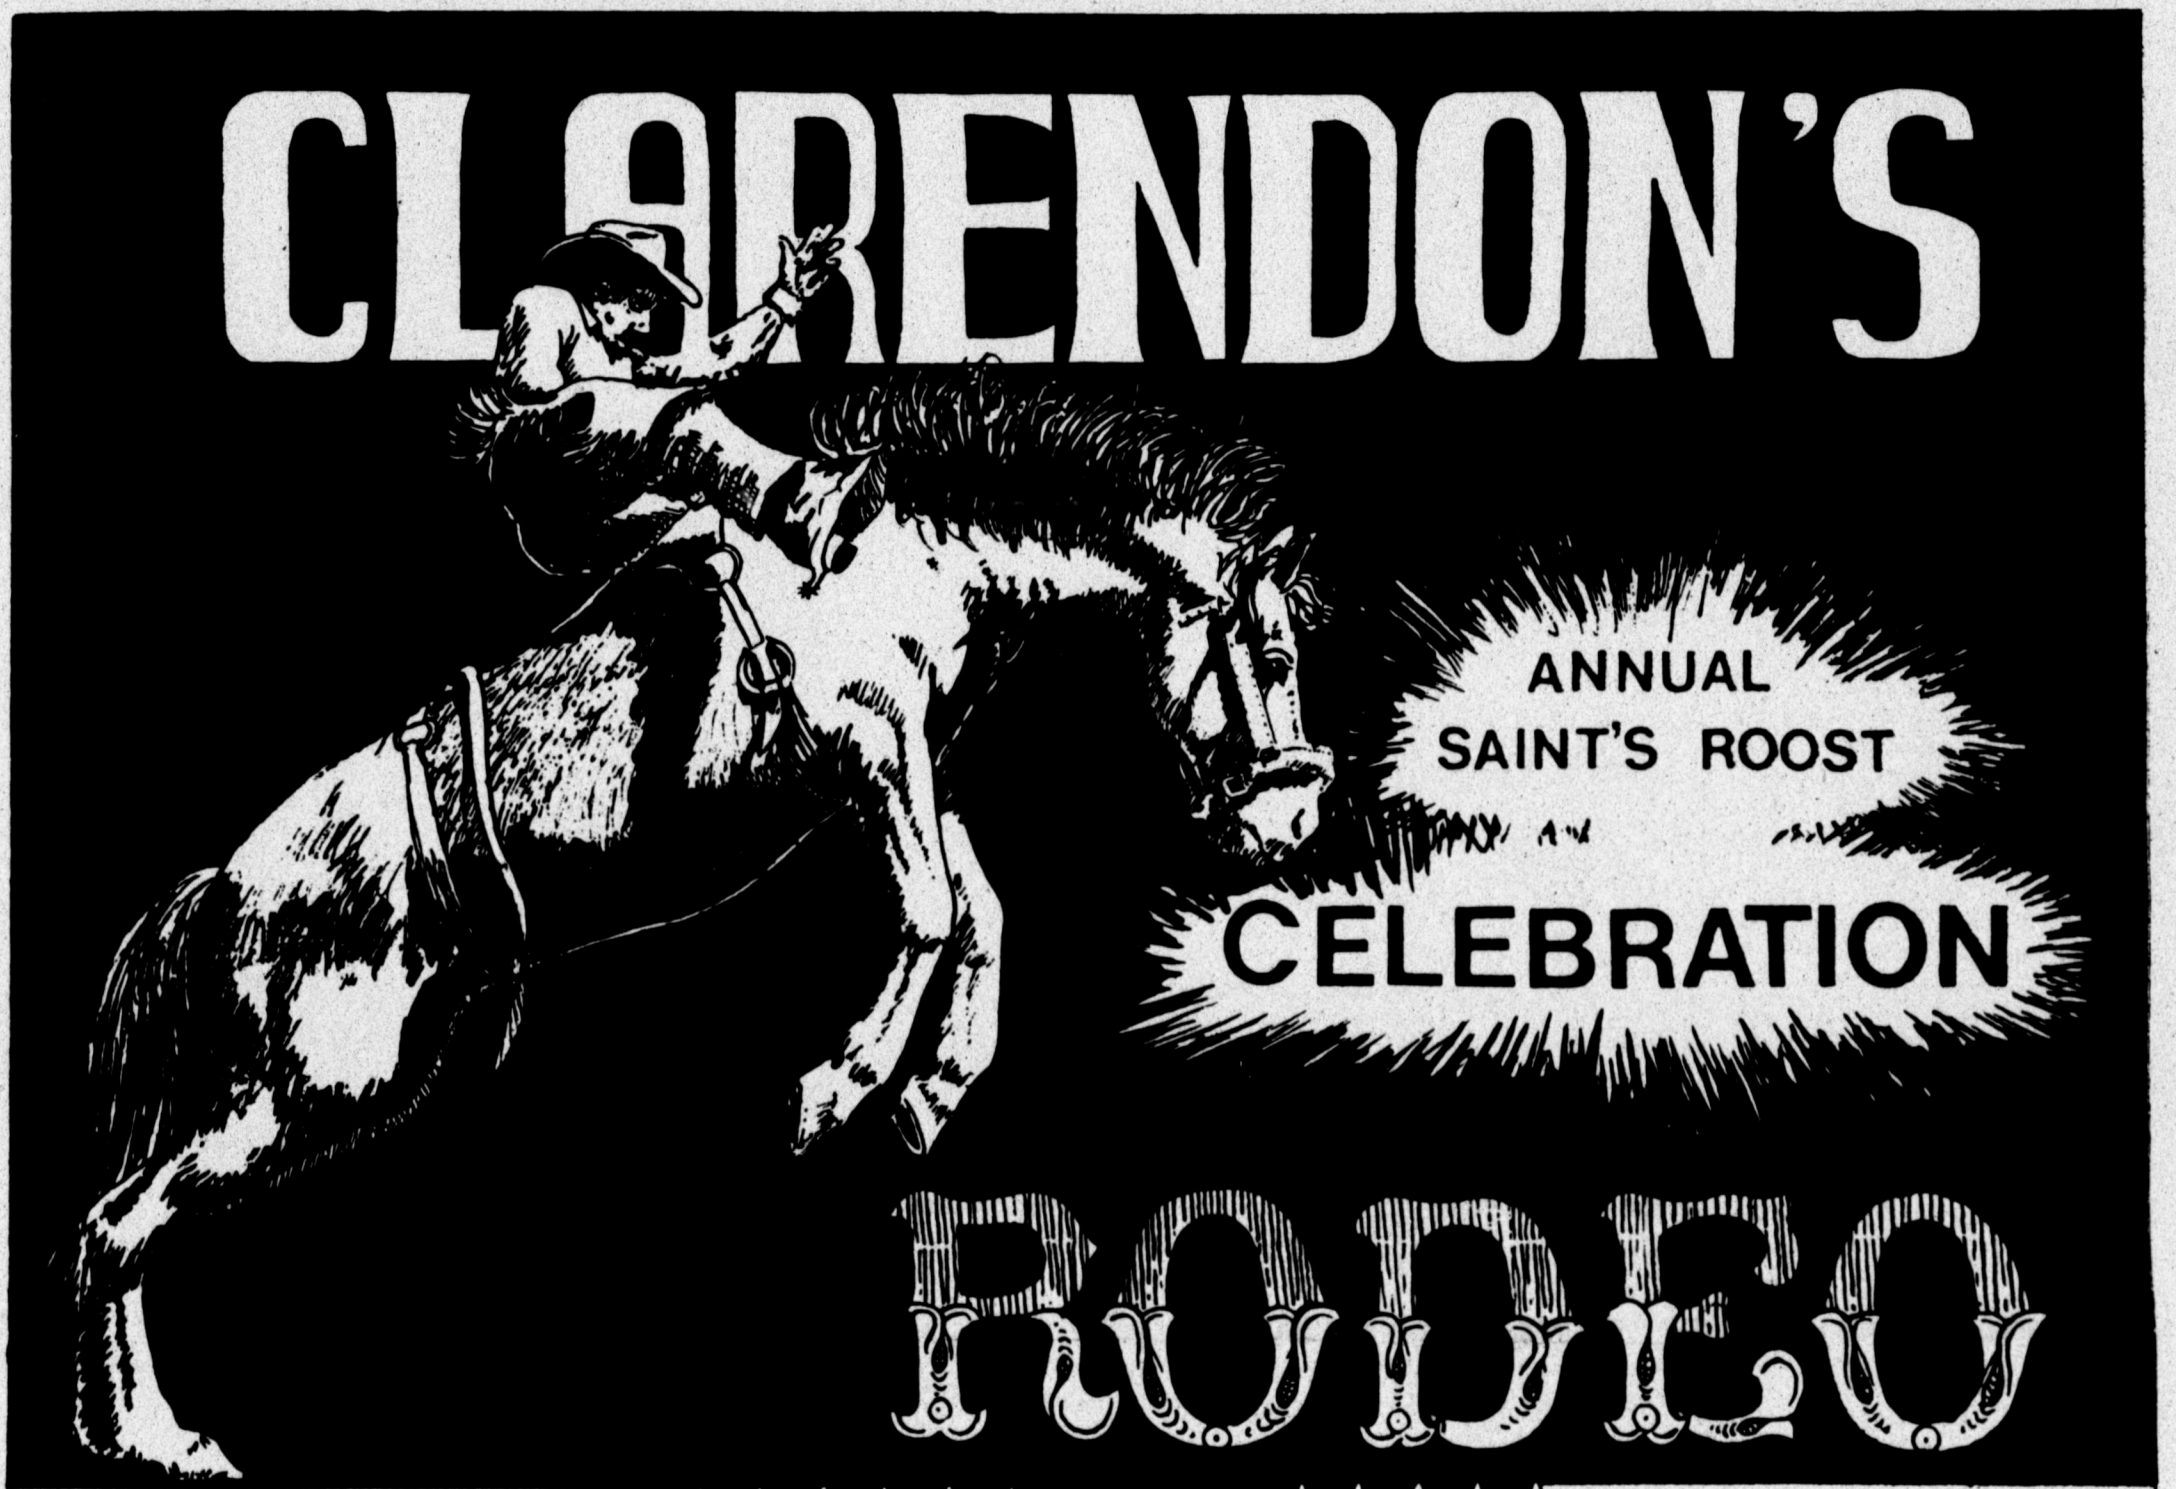

It's not too early to start making plans and inviting friends to visit Saints' Roost for this early fall classic.

by Mel Phillips

My favorite lure for catching bass during the summertime is the buzzbait. This metal contraption mimics a frightened minnow thrashing the surface in a total panic. This top water commotion triggers aggressive gamefish like largemouth and smallmouth bass into making two kinds of hits. Either the bass will sneak up behind the rapidly moving buzzbait and quietly suck it down, or the hungry bass will explode on the surface and literally jump out of the water in his haste to ambush this lure before it can escape. Of course, I prefer the second kind of bite!

Nothing else in fishing is quite like the thrill of sneaking around the shoreline of a lake in the early morning hours and tossing a buzzbait at every stick-up, tree, and flooded bush. Just as my attention wanders and I am ready to give up on this bait, BAM, THUD, SPLASH!

The peace and quiet of a Panhandle sunrise is shattered when an irate bass performs a series of acrobatic leaps and jumps trying to get rid of a "frightened minnow" that is somehow fighting back.

If you haven't tried a buzzbait, you are missing one of the great thrills in bass fishing. My first buzzbait was a Lunker Lure 1/2 oz. model with a white skirt and aluminum blade that sells for about $3.00 in nearly every fishing tackle store in America. Try shopping the sporting goods department at any WalMart, or visit Texas Marine in Amarillo or Lubbock.

A standard Lunker Lure worked great twenty years ago and still works today. But like most bass anglers, I am fond of trying to improve my lures and have probably spent more than $300 on various brands of buzzbaits that have included double blades, triple blades, rattles, clackers, and every color of skirt and blade configuration under the sun. My current favorite is the HartThrob manufactured by Hart Tackle of Oklahoma. It features a 3/8 oz. lead head with an oversized hook (very important for big bass) and a white/chartreuse skirt with a gold plated blade. I make several modifications to the HartThrob. First, I take the bigger blade off a 1/2 oz model and put it on the 3/8 oz. model, thereby permitting me to keep it on the surface at a slower speed. Second, I always attach an extra "stinger hook" to the built-in hook. Most of my big bass over five pounds have been caught on the stinger. A short piece of medical tubing will keep this extra hook from fouling on the lure. I usually keep the point of the stinger hook facing the same direction of the built-in hook, thereby permitting my lure to crawl over tree branches without hanging up. When fishing open water, try rigging the stinger opposite the main hook.

When fishing a buzzbait, I try to bump into every available stick-up and will swing my rod tip from side to side causing the lure to slightly change direction. As with every other lure, you should let the bass tell you what they prefer. On those days when the bass attack the lure right on the shoreline, try making casts that actually hit the bank. If a bass explodes right after the lure has bumped a tree or stickup, start knocking the bark of the trees. "Listening to the bass" sounds easy, but it is one of the difficult secrets of successful angling.

Finally, there are days when I swear that the bass will slap a buzzbait with their tails because I get lots of hits but no hook-ups. When these aggravating short strikes occur, I know two things: 1. where a bass is located, and 2. he wants something other than my buzzbait. My favorite "follow up" lure when tossing a buzzbait is either a black, weightless FlipTail Lizard or a salt-n-pepper SlugGo. By quickly casting a Flitail or SlugGo on top of the bass instead of making another cast with a buzzbait, I have increased my hook ratio from 25% (with buzzbait) up to 70%. Most tournament anglers will not throw a buzzbait unless their backup rod is rigged and ready to go.

All the lakes in our region have been blessed with lots of new water, and schools of hungry bass are now prowling the shallows looking for an easy meal. On your next fishing trip, try a buzzbait in the shallows, but don't forget your backup rod. If you have a weak heart, better take an extra supply of pills also.

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT SPECIAL ELECTION AUGUST 9, 1997

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment which would increase the school property tax residence homestead exemption from $5,000 to $15,000. The amendment would also authorize the Legislature to limit all or part of the exemption to political subdivisions that are the principal providers of elementary and secondary education within their boundaries.

In addition, the amendment would authorize the Legislature to allow the transfer of all or part of the age 65-and-over tax freeze to another homestead. Specifically, the Legislature would be authorized to provide that the current limitation against increasing school property taxes on the residence homesteads of persons age 65 or older, or their surviving spouse who is eligible to receive the exemption, may be transferred if the person establishes a different residence homestead.

The amendment would also allow the $10,000 additional amount for the standard exemption to be used to lower the tax rate of persons currently receiving the 65-and-over tax freeze. Specifically, for a homestead affected by this limitation in 1996 or in an earlier tax year, the Legislature must provide for a reduction in the school property tax limitation in the 1997 tax year and subsequent tax years in an amount equal to $10,000 multiplied by the 1997 school property tax rate.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment providing school property tax relief by increasing the residence homestead exemption by $10,000 and providing for the transfer of the tax limitation to another qualified homestead for persons over 65 and a reduction in taxes subject to the limitation."

Este es el informe explicatorio sobre la enmienda propuesta a la constitución que aparecerá en la boleta el día 9 de agosto de 1997. Si usted no ha recibido una copia del informe en español, podrá obtener una gratis por llamar al 1/800/252/8683 a por escribir al Secretario de Estado, P.O. Box 12060, Austin, Texas 78711
