Broncos to visit Panthers at Panhandle

Clarendon's two-game winning streak was snapped Oct. 18 when District 2-2A rival Wellington sneaked past the Broncos, 25-14, in Bronco Stadium.

The Broncos are 1-1 in district play, along with Wellington, Quanah and Memphis. Panhandle holds a 2-0 lead, while White Deer is in the cellar with an 0-2 record.

Head Coach Tooter Draper's young squad travels to district leader Panhandle's home turf Friday for a showdown between the two teams.

Kick-off is slated for 7:30 p.m. at Panhandle's stadium.

The 3-4 Panthers started out slow but have won their first two district contests and should be brimming with confidence. Panhandle is coming off a 31-7 shellacking of White Deer.

Panhandle returns 12 lettermen, including starting experience at 10 positions. Panhandle ended its post-season play with a 28-7 stomping at the hands of West Texas High - a 2A state semifinalist.

Quarterback Kevin Brinkley can do it all - running, throwing and kicking extra points and field goals, Draper said. He also was a 1995 all-state punter. Senior Trent McKiernan is a bulldog of a running back.

"It's a good football team," Draper said of the Panthers. "They basically line up and run dives and sweeps pretty much."

Clarendon will be without the services of senior leader Robert Bertrand, who severely injured his knee against Wellington.

"We'll miss him, and we'll make some adjustments and move another tight end in to replace him."

Clarendon led early in the opening quarter after sophomore signal caller Scotty Elliott connected with senior Roy Williams on a 48-yard pass. The PAT was no good, and Clarendon was ahead, 6-0, as the two squads entered the second quarter.

Wellington was penalized 49 yards in the opening period.

"We felt pretty good as far as when we scored," Draper said. "Then we got the ball back and probably should have scored again, and if we had scored maybe could have put the ball game in our hands. It gave (Wellington) a shot in the arm."

Wellington running back Kevin Thomas, who carried 18 times for 160 yards, scored his first TD of the evening on a 59-yard run. The TD came on the first play after a

Hedley science students launch model rockets

The Hedley ISD 6th and 8th grade science classes are involved in an exciting "hands-on" learning experience.

Each student is building a model rocket from material obtained from the Civil Air Patrol in Amarillo. This Friday, the students will launch these rockets (weather permitting) from the Hedley ISD campus at 11:15 a.m.

Science teacher Bruce Howard says this type of exploratory learning really ignites the students' imaginations and interest in science. They gain valuable experience in designing, conducting, and reporting basic experimental investigations.

Superintendent Gene Sheets praised Mr. Howard for his work with the students.

"This is the type of positive learning experience that the students will remember forever," Sheets said. "It just might create the interest in some students to pursue engineering or scientific careers."

Ross Dalby of Aspermont and Shanna Wise of Slaton took home the all-around titles and buckles. The all-around men's and women's titles are determined by the total number of points from all events. All-around men's and women's buckles were sponsored by Dairy Queen, The Clarendon Outpost, and Saye's Western Wear.

According to Darryl Perryman, CC Rodeo Coach, the rodeo had a record number of entries with 121 contestants in eleven events. Results are as follows:

Farm Bureau group endorses Thornberry

WACO — The Texas Farm Bureau Friends of Agriculture Fund (AGFUND), Inc. has endorsed the reelection candidacy of District 13 U.S. Representative William "Mac" Thornberry of Clarendon.

Thornberry represents the second largest congressional district in Texas, which is rich in agriculture, energy and small business. Representative Thornberry, a Republican, serves on three House committees: National Security, Resources, and Joint Economic.

Before winning election in 1994, he was legislative counsel to former Congressman Tom Loeffler, chief of staff to Congressman Larry Combest, and deputy assistant secretary of state for legislative affairs during the Reagan Administration.

Thornberry has been active in Amarillo, serving on the board of directors of both the Children's Rehabilitation Center and the High Plains Food Bank. He is also a member of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. The fifth-generation Texan was raised on the family ranch in Donley County. The Thornberry family has been ranching in Texas for more than 100 years.

"Rep. Thornberry has demonstrated a conservative, 100 percent voting record on issues critical to the well-being of farmers and ranchers.

For this reason, we will work to send him back to Congress," said Bob Stallman, President of AGFUND and Texas Farm Bureau.

AGFUND is TFB's political action fund. It is a legal entity separate from the Texas Farm Bureau and may endorse and contribute financially to political candidates. AGFUND is funded only by voluntary contributions from TFB members.

Columbia/HCA Healthcare to expand services

Columbia/HCA Healthcare Corporation is expanding service capabilities by uniting nine home care branches in the Northwest Texas market under a single name, Columbia Homecare.

The branches are located in Clarendon, Lubbock, Clovis, Childress, Pampa, Amarillo, Borger, Dalhart, and Dumas.

The home care agencies now operating as Columbia Homecare are affiliated with Columbia Medical Center of Pampa. The home care agencies involved in this transition are Great Plains Health and Panhandle Health Services.

"By combining resources on a regional, as well as a national level, Columbia Homecare has greater capabilities to meet the needs of patients and physicians in today's managed care environment," said Jeff Paden, Division Vice President. "Our agencies offer sophisticated, specialized services that were once available only in the hospital, to achieve optimal outcomes for patients in the comfort of their own homes," he added.

Nationally, Columbia owns and operates more than 200 home health agencies, with affiliated branches totaling over 350 sites in 27 states. These agencies provide a full spectrum of home care services, including

Sharp delivers October sales tax payments

John Sharp, State Comptroller of Public Accounts, last week issued a total of $145.7 million in October sales tax payments to 1,084 Texas cities and 114 counties.

"It's yet another indication of the strength of the Texas economy that the year-to-date returns are running about 8.5 percent ahead of the total for the first 10 months of last year," Sharp said.

Sharp delivered city sales tax rebates for October totaling $132.9 million, 3.8 percent above the payments one year ago of $127.9 million. Rebates of $12.8 million to Texas counties are 2.3 percent below the $13.1 million of October 1995.

This month's payments to Texas cities and counties include taxes collected on August sales and reported to the Comptroller in September by businesses filing monthly returns.

Clarendon, with a sales tax rate for the period of 2.0%, received a payment of $11,087.38. Hedley, with a rate of 1.0%, received $199.48, and Howardwick received $1,191.76 from its 1.0% sales tax.

Local man photographs Rendezvous

Local photographer Keith Hart was invited to take pictures at a mountain man rendezvous in Oklahoma recently.

The gathering on the Prather Ranch west of Boise City was a recreation of the rendezvous held in the early to mid-1800s in what is today the western United States. Mountain men, fur trappers, explorers, Indians, and representatives of fur companies would meet once a year in a predetermined location to trade goods and information, compete in various contests, and have a rollicking good time.

Hart says the Mountain Man Rendezvous held on Oct. 11, 12, and 13, 1996, was as authentic as possible. There were no signs of modern conveniences or devices other than Hart's camera. All of the 50-75 participants were all dressed in period garb and survived the weekend using 19th century tools and utensils.

There were contests for the most authentic camp, the most authentic costume, and various shooting and survival skills including a black powder shooting match.

People came from South Dakota, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas to attend the rendezvous which was sponsored by the Plum Creek Brigade. The Brigade is composed of members from all over the Panhandle.

Plum Creek Brigade members Bob McIvirl, Keith "Wrong Way" Latham, and Andy "Care Bear" Care gather around the campfire at the Mountain Man Rendezvous held in Oklahoma recently. McIvirl's character was a Fur Trapper, circa 1800; Latham was a Farmer/Blacksmith, circa 1830; and Care was portraying a French Fur Trapper, circa 1780.

Dear Editor:

Clarendon, you are indeed a very special community, full of love and caring people.

I was born three miles south of Martin, moved to the Hudgins community when I was eighteen months old and lived there all my growing-up years, married and started a family.

I farmed and worked at several jobs until 1947 when I went to work for Phillips Petroleum Co. in Borger. I transferred to Pasadena in 1953 and retired in 1978.

After several years looking for a place to retire, we decided to return to Clarendon.

It was so nice to see old friends and meet new friends that welcomed us. You made us feel great.

Now that ill health has slowed me down, you have been here for me. Your visits, calls, cards, hugs, and delicious food makes us so happy and lucky to be living here.

Now, we know why we moved back to Clarendon. Mav God's richest blessings be with each of you.

Clarendon fumble.

The pass failed, and they were deadlocked in a 6-6 tie.

Clarendon chewed nearly 7 minutes off the clock as they charged 80 yards down the field. Williams carried 15 times for 70 yards, and Elliott connected with Kareem Abdullah on a 10-yard pass.

Williams, who rushed for 191 yards on 35 carries, hit paydirt on a 4-yard run, and he tacked on the two extra points for a 14-6 lead. But it was the last points the Broncos would score.

"We knew we had to play good defense, and we didn't do it," Draper said.

Sophomore Nakia Nash, making his first start of the season responded with a 7-yard run, and Clarendon held onto a slim, 14-12 lead.

But it was all Nash again seconds later when Clarendon fumbled the ensuing kick-off. Nash hit paydirt after rambling 5 yards.

"We just fumbled it. I don't think it hurt us emotionally," Draper said.

Wellington entered the locker room with an 18-14 lead and the momentum entering the second half of play.

"We felt like we never have been in the locker room ahead before. We've always been behind."

Both teams were scoreless in the third quarter after a series of fumbles and an inability to make the first down. The Skyrockets were whistled for five penalties totaling 70 yards.

Wellington controlled the ball most of the fourth period and tacked on an insurance touchdown with 1:40 left in the contest. Wellington made its first extra point of the evening on a PAT.

"I think Wellington played real well the second half. We just had some mistakes. Mistakes will kill you."

"The Prez' Plan"

Every occupant of the Oval Office, it seems, aspires to be the "education president." George Bush, as an example, even proclaimed it as a goal.

Bill Clinton, our hope from Hope, is no different. He has argued persuasively that greater investments in education will be required to promote economic growth, reduce ever-growing income disparities, and expand opportunity.

Obviously, he's right. Now, as to how those lofty goals might best be accomplished - well, that may be a whole 'nother story.

In all fairness, Mr. Clinton has had some good ideas. He's been a catalyst for some student loan reforms, and who in his/her right apple-pie-and-motherhood American mind would argue with volunteerism (community service programs)?

This election year, Bob Dole has dangled a 15 percent tax decrease in front of us long-suffering voters. That's one heck of a carrot. Mr. Clinton has chosen to compete with that by proposing tax breaks for families paying college tuition.

Again, in theory, who would argue with such a proposal? Supporting education, after all, represents a universal high ideal.

But after some reading on the subject, here's what the simple mind has deduced.

Detractors have described Mr. Clinton's plan as bad tax policy and even worse education policy.

Why?

Under the plan, families could chose to (1) deduct up to $10,000 in tuition from their taxable income; or (2) take a tax credit of $1,500 for the first year of undergraduate training. The latter would be a direct offset against federal income tax, and be available for a second year if the student maintained a "B" average.

The plan would reportedly cost an estimated $43 billion over the next six years. Well, I guess that's better than buying hand-carved, oak toilet seats for the Pentagon offices.

But, ah, here's the rub or rubs, as it were. Those who arguably might most benefit from the proposal are joint filers with incomes up to $100,000 and single filers up to $70,000. Guess what? Families that have that kind of dough are probably going to send their kids to college irrespective of any tax relief.

For lesser income families, their relief (absent adjusting their payroll withholdings) would be realized in year-end tax refunds - not when they really need the money to pay for their kid's tuition.

Big surprise - tax deductions don't help people without taxable income. Yes, the $1,500 tax credit (because it would be refundable) would benefit families that have no tax liability; however, about four million low-income students would be generally excluded from the tax credit because they receive Pell Grants. Under the President's plan, Pell awards would be subtracted from such people's tax credit eligibility.

Besides all that, the bureaucracy to administer such a plan would be massive and intrusive. The IRS would undoubtedly have to be responsible for (1) certifying the amount of tuition students actually paid; (2) the size of their Pell Grants; and (3) whether they maintained the aforementioned "B" average. This would cause highly complex regulatory burdens on colleges and universities.

Experts point out other potential problems with the plan, up to and including (gulp) grade inflation. As students struggle to maintain that "B" average, the contention is that teachers will feel ever-increasing pressure to give them that little extra benefit of the doubt with a point or two at the end of the semester. Already some would argue this is the case, under current federal and state financial aid guidelines.

How would you like to have a marginal student come up to you at the semester's end and plead, "Golly, gee, if I don't make a B in your class, I'll lose my financial aid eligibility. And if I lose my financial aid eligibility, I'll have to drop out of school. And if I drop out of school, I'll have to work at McDonalds the rest of my life instead of becoming president of General Motors. So, how's about it, Teach? Huh?"

I guess no self-respecting student ever really got that soapy, but, in all candor, I have, in my past experiences, often spoken with teachers who have felt pressure in trying to walk that fine line between their own credibility and trying to help students in a broader sense.

It has also been argued that, under Mr. Clinton's plan, colleges will feel less responsibility for holding down prices, given the vast majority of students who would receive tax relief, versus just the needy. In the 1990s, college prices have increased at an average of twice the rate of inflation. (Clarendon College, I might boast, has been an exception to that rule.)

If there is really $43 billion buried in tin cans on the White House lawn, surely there is a better way to spend it on education - beginning with greater support of need-based student financial aid. With that money, the purchasing power of the Pell Grant could be at least partially restored, as inflation has eroded that worthy benefit by as much as 50 percent over the last 15 years.

Admittedly, I have a somewhat skewed perspective on this issue, as I am a proponent of the American community college system, which has long sought to serve the most needy (or those who might least benefit under the President's plan). The boys at Yale might feel different about the whole thing.

Cutting right to it, if the pollsters are anywhere near accurate, Mr. Clinton will remain in the White House. That being the case, we can at least be gratified that he has done some things to assist education, and he has some other ideas that merit examination.

All concerned would be well-served, however, in assessing those ideas from all angles to make certain America achieves educational goals on which even Democrats and Republicans generally agree - equalizing opportunity and increasing enrollment rates.

Dr. Scott Elliott is the President of Clarendon College.

This year the Kappa Kappa Gamma Foundation is awarding over $113,000 in scholarships and fellowships to members studying in colleges and universities across the nation.

Wildlife area near Lelia Lake to be part of Texas Conservation Passport program events

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has scheduled Texas Conservation Passport (TCP) events for Lake Rita Blanca State Park (Hartley County) and the Taylor Lakes Unit, Playa Lakes Wildlife Management Area near Lelia Lake.

According to Jim Ray, TPWD's Regional Migratory Bird/Wetlands Biologist, these two events have been scheduled exclusively for holders of the Department's TCP passports. There are two types of TCP passports. "The 'Silver' TCP," Ray said, "allows the holder free entrance to the Department's Wildlife Management Areas (e.g., Taylor Lakes Unit). It is priced at $25/year. The 'Gold' TCP, priced at $50/year, is a vehicle pass that allows free entrance for all persons in the vehicle into both Wildlife Management Areas and State Parks."

Both passports are designed to educate Texans through direct experience with the state's natural wonders, reach out to new outdoor "customers" to more equitably share the wildlife conservation costs traditionally borne by hunters and anglers, and generate much-needed new revenue to acquire, operate, and maintain public lands. Ray said that TCP holders will receive a quarterly of upcoming events.

The following is event information for Lake Rita Blanca and Taylor Lakes:

• Lance Rita Blanca State Park: December 7, 1:30-2:30 p.m. "An Afternoon at the Goose Roost." Hartley County, 1.4 miles west of U.S. 87 on F.M. 281 to the lake entrance, then proceed 0.4 miles south to the playground parking lot near the "beach." View one of the largest concentrations of geese and other waterfowl in the Playa Lakes Region. Bald eagles are usually present. Spotting scopes will be available. Waterfowl biology will be discussed. Bring binoculars and warm clothing. Participants are free to spend the rest of the afternoon birding at the State Park. "Gold" TCP required. Reservations required and can be made by calling 806-655-3782 or 806-488-2227 by noon, Nov. 25, or by sending a post card to P.O. Box 659, Canyon, TX 79015. Card must be received by Nov. 25. Guides will be Jim Ray, Regional Migratory Bird/Wetlands Biologist, and Hi Newby, Lake Rita Blanca/Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

• Taylor Lakes Unit, Playa Lakes Wildlife Management Area: December 14, 1:30-2:30 p.m. "An Afternoon at the Goose Roost." Donley County, 5.5 miles southeast of Clarendon on U.S. 287. View geese and other waterfowl on these natural lakes. Spotting scopes will be available. Waterfowl biology will be discussed. Bring binoculars and warm clothing. Participants are free to spend the rest of the afternoon birding at the Wildlife Management Area. "Gold" or "Silver" TCP required. Reservations required and can be made by calling 806-655-3782 by noon, Nov. 25, or by sending a post card to P.O. Box 659, Canyon, TX 79015. Card must be received by

Nov. 25. Guides will be Jim Ray, Regional Migratory Bird/Wetlands Biologist, and Dana Wright, Wildlife Technician.

TCP passports are sold at all State Parks and anywhere hunting or fishing licenses are sold. Passports can only be issued upon receipt of the appropriate fee. The time is short, so Ray recommends that interested persons purchase their TCP immediately. For more information on the TCP, call TPWD headquarters in Austin, 1-800-792-1112.

That Cough Again: Should You Worry?

Coughing is a normal cold symptom and not usually a cause for concern. But a persistent cough can signal something more serious. And coughing in children can easily become serious. They are less able to spit up phlegm, so it sometimes collects in their chests. Take note of the following symptoms so you'll know when to call a doctor with a cough.

TYPE OF COUGH	POSSIBLE PROBLEM
A cough with a temperature of 100° or above and breathlessness.	Pneumonia, acute bronchitis or the flu. (These symptoms without breathlessness may indicate a mild form of viral pneumonia)
A dry, raspy cough with wheezing or with no other symptoms.	Asthma.
A dry cough for no apparent reason.	A side effect of medications.
A cough that begins after a cold or the flu or that's usually persistent during the winter.	A polyp or cancer of the larynx.
A productive cough with thick gray or greenish-yellow phlegm most days accompanied by difficult breathing	Lung diseases such as emphysema or chronic bronchitis.
A cough that persists for several weeks or months that becomes more severe.	Lung cancer or tuberculosis.

"A Picture Is Worth A 1,000 Words"

While a picture is said to be worth a thousand words, my trusty camera has captured shots worth more than gold. A simple snapshot becomes the repository of treasured memories about days and nights spent in the great outdoors. The pictures may not record the chill of morning sunrise, the warmth of a friendly campfire, or the smells of bacon and eggs being cooked over an open fire, but one good photograph can trigger memories that will last a lifetime.

My favorite outdoors photo is a shot of Catherine, at age eleven, on her first deer hunt. She is dressed head-to-toe in camouflage clothing, holding a gigantic deer rifle, and sporting a smile that captures the nervous anticipation shared by every hunter of their first deer hunt.

Details of her first hunt may change with time, but that special picture is priceless.

Looking for an inexpensive but greatly appreciated gift for that special hunter or angler? For less than $10, Kodak's Fun Saver disposable camera is an excellent choice, and can be found at the sports department in most discount stores.

Many veteran anglers and hunters choose to leave their expensive cameras at home because they don't want to take a chance on breakage or water damage. These new disposable cameras hold up to twenty-four color exposures. They can be waterproofed and dirt proofed with a Ziplock freezer bag. Even if accidentally broken, they can be replaced without damaging the pocket book.

Special Notice: If you get a really good outdoor picture, send a copy to me—in care of this newspaper. Identify everyone in the photo, and please no pictures of dangling tongues (stuff it back into the animal's mouth) or bloody field-dressed animals.

Tips For Better Photos

1. Deer and elk hunters can dramatically improve the quality of their pictures by wearing a solid colored shirt when posing with their trophy animals. A camouflage shirt tends to obscure the antlers, especially on those straight-in shots when the trophy is held directly between the hunter and the camera.

2. Take all pictures with your subject facing into the direct sunlight.
3. Remove hats and sunglasses.
4. Keep subject out of shadows.
5. Make sure that background is free of vehicles and silhouettes of your buddies.

6. Use the rule of 1/3. Place the animal in the left (or right) 1/3 or the picture. Place the horizon in either the top or the bottom 1/3 of the picture.

7. Finally, take lots shots from different angles, and change height of the camera.

TIPS ON STAYING SAFE AND SOUND WITH NATURAL GAS.

For more than 80 years, Lone Star Gas has been providing safe, dependable energy to its customers. By following a few simple rules, you can help make sure you and your family stay safe and sound with natural gas:

- Always have qualified service people install, regularly check and maintain all gas heaters and appliances, following the manufacturer's instructions for installation, ventilation, and operation.
- Always use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.
- Always keep flammable materials and substances away from gas heaters and appliances. Remember, a pilot light is constantly burning.

IF YOU SMELL GAS

in your home, or know you have a gas leak, follow these rules:

1. Everyone should leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.
2. Do not switch anything electrical on or off.

3. Do not use your telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity).

4. Do not strike a match or do anything else that might cause a spark.

5. Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the gas leak before returning to your home.

If you smell gas while you're outside, contact Lone Star Gas immediately.

CONTRACTORS, BEFORE YOU DIG, call for pipeline locations to avoid any potential problems: 1-800-344-8377 (1-800-DIG-TESS).

Paul Krouse, publisher of Who's Who Among America's Teachers said, "There is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. Girl Scout News

All of the Girl Scout troops here in Clarendon came together last Friday night, October 18, for their mother/daughter campout at Camp Kiwanis. There was a really good turn out of all different ages of girls.

The mothers and daughters were divided up into their units; each group stayed in different cabin areas. Everyone brought her own sack supper and then made smores around the campfire that evening and sang songs. It was a cold night, but everyone survived.

The next morning the girls had a safari breakfast. The older girls hid the cereal, and the younger girls had to find their breakfast. The cold mothers watched the chaos. Most went on a hike afterwards to Pitcher Pump, another area of the camp, and the girls got to carve their initials into signature rock. Others worked on various badges. After the hike, the girls learned about firebuilding and cooking over the campfire while making stew and desserts.

Even in the cold everyone had a fun time and learned a lot about camping. This event could not have been possible if it had not been for the hard work and planning of DeAnna Cornell and those who helped her.

Look! Up in the sky! It's a bird! It's a plane! It's... a blimp?? Some Donley County folks may have noticed something strange fly over the area last Friday as the Blockbuster Video blimp flew from Amarillo to Dallas for the Cowboys' Sunday game with the Atlanta Falcons.

Seventh grade colts trounce Skyrockets, 18-0

Clarendon's Colts and JV Broncos lost one, tied one, and won one against the Skyrockets Oct. 17 in Wellington.

Panhandle travels to Clarendon Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. start.

The seventh graders improved their record to 4-1-1 with an 18-0 trouncing of the Skyrockets.

Quarterback Cody Watson connected with Antonio Wilson on a 30-yard pass during the last play of the first half. David Deatherage added another TD in the second half on a 10-yard run.

Wilson scored his second TD of the game, rambling 50 yards before hitting paydirt before the final buzzer.

Eighth grader Dee Thompson scored three of the Colts four touchdowns to pace the eighth graders to a 28-28 tie. Thompson motored 10 yards early in the game for his first TD and then scored the two-point conversion.

Aron Mays added excitement to the contest as the Skyrockets fumbled the ball. Mays scooped up the pigskin and skampered 98 yards for 6 points.

Thompson tacked on another TD in the second quarter on a 25-yard run and added the two-point conversion.

Wellington went ahead, but Thompson rumbled on a 30-yard run, and the Colts tied, 28-28.

Their record moves to 2-3-1 on the season.

Clarendon's junior varsity got an early defensive boost from Sean Beach and Garrett Bains, sacking the Wellington quarterback at the 15-yard line in the first series, but Wellington eventually prevailed, edging the Broncos 22-14.

It was all Bains again as he threw the runner for a loss, forcing Wellington to turn the ball over on downs. Jeff Hearn made the first down, but Clarendon eventually punted, and Cael Shields recovered a fumble on the 35-yard line.

Shields, Hearn and Clifford Alexander each helped drive to the 12-yard line, but the ball was intercepted, and the first quarter ended scoreless.

Stevie Jaramillo stopped the Skyrocket runner, forcing Wellington to turn the ball over on downs. Hearn, Shields and Alexander continued the drive but were stopped on the Wellington 25.

D.J. Edwards and Brock Holland made key defensive plays, but the Skyrockets eventually scored at the 1:58 mark before half and led 6-0 at halftime.

The Broncos started off the second half as a series of runners moved the ball to the 5-yard line before Hearn romped on a 5-yard TD for a 6-6 tie. Freshman Aaron Jeffers smothered the Skyrocket kickoff return on the 38-yard line. Wellington eventually set up for the punt on fourth and six, unable to make the first down. The Skyrockets ran the fake punt and passed for the TD for a 14-6 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Shields and Hearn moved the ball down the 30-yard line before Shields carried on a quarterback sneak up the middle for the TD. Hearn tacked on the 2-point conversion and Clarendon and Wellington were deadlocked 14-14.

Clarendon fumbled a later punt that set up a Skyrocket touchdown. The 2-point conversion would be the last point of the close contest.

The Broncos had one last chance and drove to the 32-yard line before turning the ball over on downs.

Botulism: Precaution is Needed

by Jeanene Sinclair

A recent outbreak of botulism food poisoning in El Paso connected to an ethnic potato based dip has caused increased emphasis on preventing this serious foodborne illness.

Botulism-causing Clostridium botulinum bacteria are everywhere, being very prevalent in soil and marine sediments worldwide. Their spores are often found on the surfaces of fruits and vegetables and in seafood. The bacteria are dangerous because they produce a toxin as they grow and reproduce. Botulinum toxin is one of the most dangerous poisonous substances known.

Once in the body, the toxin binds to nerve endings at the point where the nerve endings join muscles. This prevents nerves from signaling the muscles to contract and results in weakening and paralysis. This paralysis starts from the cranium down, affecting many vital body systems, including the muscles that regulate breathing.

The condition in which C. botulinum spores grow and produce toxin in absence of oxygen, low acidity and temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees F. This toxin producing situation can easily occur in improperly preserved home canned foods or improperly stored prepared foods.

In the United States, one of the most common culprits in foodborne botulism is home canned food, especially vegetables such as asparagus, green beans and peppers. These are all low-acid foods that must be canned in a pressure canner, as should all vegetables, meats, poultry and seafood.

The basic recommendation from the US Department of Agriculture is to can these foods in a pressure canner because the pressure in the canner creates a high enough temperature to kill the spores of the bacteria. County Extension agents throughout the state have specifics of these recommendations for home canning of low acid foods.

Also, foods cooked at home should not be left at temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees F. This is the temperature danger zone at which most bacteria grow rapidly. An extra precaution is to boil home canned low-acid foods for 10 minutes (at sea level) before consuming.

Commercial foods also have been implicated in outbreaks of botulism. Another precaution that consumers should take is reading labels and being careful to refrigerate foods that indicate so on the label.

Finally, consumers should always be wary of any canned items that are rusty, swollen or otherwise damaged. The best advice is "If in doubt, throw it out."
