Broncs do well in scrimmage against Highland Park, ready to play Wheeler this week

A huge Amarillo Highland Park offensive and defensive line wasn't enough to stop the feisty Clarendon Broncos Aug. 22 for their first time out during the 1996 campaign.

Scores aren't kept in a scrimmage as both squads experiment with different players and combinations, but the Broncos tied their former District 2-2A rival, 3-3, in Amarillo.

The showing also unveiled a new offense - the Multiple I - by first-year Clarendon Head Football Coach Tooter Draper.

"I felt really good about it. We had a lot of kids on the field who had never played before and thought they had handled themselves well," Draper said after his first look at the Bronco squad he inherited.

A total of 49 Broncos came out for the varsity and junior varsity squads.

Clarendon's offensive line got a big boost from B.J. Hamilton and Wade James, Draper said. "(James) had 295 pounds across from him at center. He played really well."

"We gave Phillip (Hearn) a lot of time to pass the ball, and we were excited about our passing game. He was doing great."

Draper will depend on his squad to pass the ball 20-30 times a contest. And his receivers coupled with Hearn's explosive arm gave him plenty to smile about.

"We had bright spots. Scotty Elliott made some exceptional catches. Roy (Williams) and Oren (Shields) ran the ball real well. (Williams) broke two long runs on the option. We got Roy outside and he broke one for 63 yards and another one for 80 yards."

"Defensively, Shields, we were real excited about using his quickness. He had several quarterback sacks. Our secondary did real well too. Kareem (Abdullah), (Scott) Bivens, Williams and Hearn played real well. (Abdullah) had an exceptional game."

Some adjustments will be made offensively and defensively before Thursday's scrimmage against Wheeler at Bronco Stadium. Varsity kick-off is at 7 p.m. The junior varsity squad has a tentative date with the Memphis J.V. at 5:30 p.m. in Clarendon.

"We'd like for everyone to come out and support the Broncos," Draper said.

Reserve your seats in Bronco Stadium

Bronco fans can reserve their seats at home football games by purchasing season tickets from CISD.

Reserve seating tickets cost $7 each. Go by the Administration Building and see Cula Jo Trout to get your tickets today.

Proceeds will go toward upgrading facilities at Bronco Stadium.

A good crowd turned out last Thursday, August 22, for Hedley's annual chicken barbeque. The event is sponsored by the Hedley Lions Club and part of the proceeds went to the Lions' Sight First campaign.

Laney meets with state's business leaders to discuss children's health care issues

AUSTIN—More than 100 business leaders, members of the Texas Legislature and state agency officials met at the Capitol Tuesday, August 20, to discuss problems faced by some of the youngest and most vulnerable residents in the state.

Texas House Speaker James E. "Pete" Laney and Rep. Hugo Berlanga, chairman of the House Committee on Public Health, called together leaders from around the state for a Business Symposium on Child Health.

The group took a morning break to hold a press conference to discuss the purpose of the symposium, the problems of children's access to health care and the impact on businesses and the economy.

"Together we can better identify solutions to the problems we all face when children don't have health insurance. Those of us in government realize we can't meet this challenge alone," said Speaker Laney.

The symposium, which attracted representatives from both large corporations and small businesses, offered an opportunity for business leaders to discuss the problems associated with the lack of health insurance for children in Texas and its economic impact.

There are up to 1.3 million Texas children under age 18 without health insurance, which accounts for one in 10 of all uninsured children in the United States. "Their families are not necessarily the poorest residents of the state," said Chairman Berlanga. "Rather, they are the children living down the block, next-door neighbors and kids whose parents work hard for a living."

Berlanga's Committee on Public Health has been charged by Speaker Laney to study ways of improving health care access for children.

Economic issues associated with a lack of health insurance for children took center stage at the symposium. "We know," said Chairman Berlanga, "that 86 percent of uninsured children in Texas have at least one working parent. A typical family with uninsured children is a two-parent family in which one parent works and probably has employee-only health insurance."

"One-fourth of uninsured children come from families with incomes of more than $35,000 a year,"

Berlanga said.

Representatives from both large and small businesses also spoke on these pocketbook issues.

"Small businesses struggle daily to find and keep good employees," said Victor C. Yin of Self Chem, Inc., in Austin. "We are often at a disadvantage in the kind of benefit package we can offer our employees compared with that offered by large businesses."

The impact on workers and the economy was highlighted by Ed

Adams, manager of External Programs - Texas for IBM. "We are already paying for the uninsured children through higher premiums, higher taxes and lost worker productivity."

Chairman Berlanga pointed out that last year, working Texans lost $22 million in wages and productivity to care for uninsured, sick children. "These issues and others that we discuss today are important," he noted. "It will take a positive approach to achieve real solutions."

Clarendon College opens for 1996 fall semester

Enrollment on the main campus of Clarendon College has already exceeded last year's figure by one student, a representative of the college said Tuesday morning. And it's only the second day of registration.

Official numbers for the fall semester won't be known until the 12th day of class, said CC Public Information and Marketing Coordinator Christie Ross.

As of Tuesday morning, 342 students had enrolled for classes on the home campus. Last fall, 341 were enrolled by the 12th day of class.

Overall, a total of 616 students have enrolled to take courses from Clarendon College at its home and satellite campuses.

The home campus was buzzing with activities earlier this week as new and returning students moved into the residence halls and registered for classes. (pictures 1 and 2)

This year, CC introduced an orientation program for the parents of new students. According to Gene Denney, CC Psychology instructor, the program was a wonderful success. (picture 3)

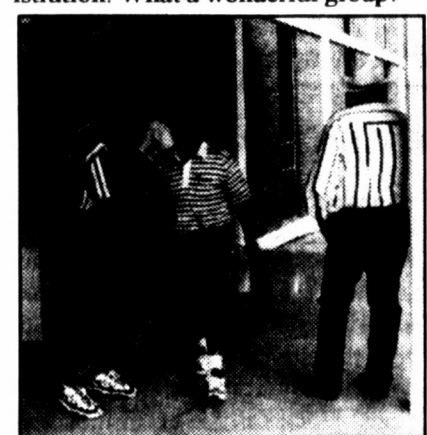

"We had informed all parents, but we only expected about 50 or so to attend. So, you can imagine our pleasant surprise to have 132 parents show up for the orientation."

Freshman students had help this year in easing the transition between home and college. Fifteen PAW Pals (Peer Advising and Welcoming) served as the official ambassadors of CC for the first time. Sophomore students were selected to serve as PAW Pals by staff and faculty based on their college involvement, personality and character.

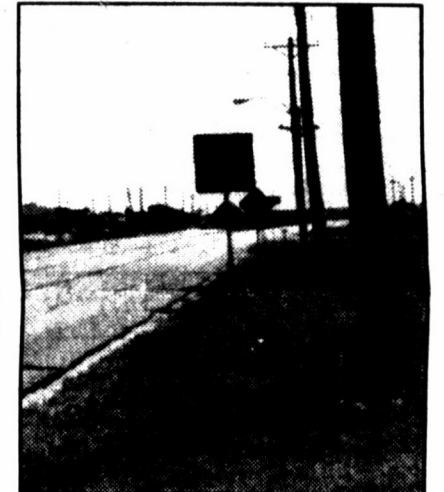

Christi Ross served as director of the program.

"The PAW Pals did a wonderful job of answering questions and assisting students with a variety of topics,"

Ross said. "They were there from the start of move-in to the very end of registration. What a wonderful group!"

President shows leadership on issue of illegal drug use

Kudos to the Clinton administration whose crack staff know how to efficiently and effectively deal with the problems of drug abuse among America's young people.

Merely days after it was announced that drug use among teens has skyrocketed under the current president, Clinton and company announced an effective game-plan to combat the issue.

Here's the strategy:

- Restrict cigarette advertising in magazines to black and white, text-only ads
- No cigarette billboards within a 1,000 feet of a school and no pictures of such known villains as the Marlboro Man or Joe Camel on any billboard
- Ban cigarette sponsorship of sporting events

"What the devil does that have to do with illegal drug use among teens?" you ask.

I don't know, but it apparently works. The drug issue has disappeared from the front pages, so it must not be a problem anymore.

By declaring nicotine to be a drug and allowing the boys at the Food and Drug Administration to regulate it, President Clinton swept the real problem under the rug.

Nevermind the fact that tobacco is a legal product in the United States or the fact that these restrictions deprive the tobacco industry of the right to advertise. If it's a legal product, then they should be able to advertise it. And nevermind the fact that it is already illegal to sell cigarettes to minors and that stringent enforcement of existing laws would take care of the problem of teen smoking.

But I digress.

The real issue is illegal drugs, and President Clinton has dealt with that issue skillfully.

His slick political maneuvering on this issue is a great example to all. Bill, my hat is off to you.

The Mikado to unfold on Amarillo Opera Stage September 14

Like a brilliant Japanese fan unfolding, The Mikado promises to dazzle the eye and delight audiences as the season's opening production for Amarillo Opera. Gilbert and Sullivan's witty tale of thwarted young lovers and misguided public officials will be presented September 14, 1996, at 7:30 p.m. at the Amarillo Civic Center Auditorium, according to Genevieve Caldwell, Area Outreach Representative for Amarillo Opera.

"Anyone who loves musical theatre will love The Mikado," says Mila Gibson, Artistic Director for the production. "It's funny and fast-moving, the costumes are gorgeous, and it's easy to love if you've never seen an opera, or if you're already an opera fan!" The Mikado, a favorite Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, is set in Japan, but was actually written to spoof British society. Filled with hilarious characters, memorable songs, and enhanced by the exotic setting, it has become a timeless classic. "I think everyone will thoroughly enjoy this show," says Genevieve Caldwell.

Tickets for The Mikado are free for season members of BRAVO!, the support organization for the Amarillo Opera, or they may be purchased through the Amarillo Civic Center box office by calling (806) 378-3096. To become a BRAVO! member, call (806) 371-5360 weekdays.

"A Golden Event"

I'm one of the lucky ones.

God blessed me with not one, but two, parents who love me. Would that everyone could say half as much, and our world would be a dramatically better place.

This summer I've had good cause to reflect upon the blessing of my parents. Dad and Mom will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this week. My family and I vacationed in Florida this summer with my folks for an early celebration of their golden event.

Yes, I was exceedingly fortunate to be born into what might be called an All-American family. The first marital argument I ever witnessed was one in which I was a participant. In the entire 18 years I lived under their roof, I never really saw my parents fuss to amount to anything.

Oh, maybe they did occasionally engage in some verbal fisticuffs, but never in front of me or within my earshot. They always presented a united front.

And even more important than a united front, they painted for me a portrait of love. Never did I doubt how much my dad and mom cherished one another. They were each other's best friend, enjoying no person's company more.

My dad demanded that my sisters and I show Mom respect. If we ever failed to do so, it was at our own peril.

I grew up during an era very different from the 1990s. There were relatively few two-income households. My dad earned the living, and my Mom took care of us kids and the house (which at any time could have passed the sternest Marine Corps white glove inspection). Hers was undoubtedly the tougher assignment.

Whenever I bounded home from school, I'd fling open the front door and bellow, "Mom, I'm home!" There was always a kind, enthusiastic voice to answer my declaration with something like, "How was school today, Baby?"

I always took that kind of security for granted, just as I took for granted her never missing one of my school programs. I remember playing the triangle in my kindergarten "band." With all those and bells and blocks clanging and clicking out of sync, I'm sure we must have sounded gosh awful - kind of like an inebriated one-man band.

But there was my mom's smiling face in the audience, offering me praise and reassurance just through her body language. At the end of our musical debacle, no one could have clapped louder. No matter whether it was a Cub Scout pack meeting or trying to cure the common cold, my mom was always there for me.

My father? He's my hero - the smartest man I know. Dad was a hot shot, workaholic business executive who enjoyed a meteoric career with a Fortune 500 company until he wore his ticker plum out long before his time. He worked like a Trojan to provide his family with the very best. I never wanted for anything, nor did I genuinely appreciate much of anything.

Never once did I consider how feverishly Dad toiled to climb that dog-eat-dog corporate ladder so that he might buy me cars, name-brand clothes, and the steak and potatoes on my dinner plate. Such diligence ultimately cost my father his health; yet, I viewed all the comforts with which he lavished me to simply come with the territory - like something owed me just for being born.

It was not until years later when I stumbled into the parenting business myself that I truly began to appreciate the dedication and devotion with which my father endowed his family.

My dad's job regularly took him to venues like Manhattan, London, Berlin, and Tokyo. One year I engaged in the rather unique hobby of collecting my father's airline boarding passes. I remember collecting well over 100 in a single year, meaning he was away from home one day in three.

Despite keeping that kind of brutal schedule, my father rarely, if ever, missed one of my football games from 4th grade through high school. If it meant racing through a bustling airport and catching a red-eye flight to be at one of my games, he did so - routinely. And, believe me, I was a marginal athlete, at best. Dad didn't break his neck getting to all those games because I was a superstar, he came because I was his son.

To be certain, my parents afforded me a great deal - from material niceties to their time and counsel. But, by far and away, the most precious thing they gave me was loving one another. Whatever good is in me is, in no small measure, attributable to my observations of Dad and Mom's unwavering devotion to one another. My personal philosophies and values are unquestionably a product of the environment they provided for me and my sisters.

Today, when I consider the broken homes in our society that have statistically become the norm, rather than the exception, it deeply saddens me. Because I know firsthand how different things can be. I've lived the American Dream, thanks to my parents, and I truly wish all children could be afforded a similar opportunity.

No, I'm not talking about new cars, Tommy Hilfinger shirts, and Nike shoes. Far from it. I'm talking about love - unconditional and unshakable from the cradle to the grave.

Dad and Mom, you are and have been the shining examples by which I have tried, most often in vain, to live. You know, some folks don't even live 50 years, let alone stay married that long. Others are married 50 years, but rarely to the same individual.

So, my heartfelt congratulations to the fine people who taught me how to love. Thank you, Dad and Mom, for all that you have meant to me. You're the best!

Happy Anniversary.

Drivers encouraged to drive safely during Labor Day holiday weekend

Trooper L.B. Snider, Public Information Officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety, states "Many people will celebrate Labor Day weekend traveling to lakes, roads, and other festive events." Basic, yet often overlooked, safe driving procedures need to be engaged for holiday traveling. These basics are pretrip planning, a drug free and alert driver, adequate travel time and space development, and correct use of safety belts.

Pretrip planning consists of having the vehicle tuned and in safe condition. A time frame and route schedule should be made and shared with a family member or friend who can contact you if needed, especially for emergency messages. Snider also encourages motorists to have first aid and emergency road kits in vehicles at all times.

The driver needs to be well rested and drug free. Being drug free includes alcoholic beverages, over the counter medications, prescribed medications, and obviously illegal drugs such as marijuana, cocaine, etc. Medications, whether prescribed or purchased over the counter which have warnings not to drive should definitely be used cautiously. Drivers should allow time for occasional rest stops as needed, adds Snider.

Adequate travel time and space development deals with areas of congested traffic and developing safe following space. When the vehicle ahead of you passes a landmark, such as a delineator post or a tree, it should take at least two seconds before you reach the same location. Snider advises that drivers should work to minimize the time spent driving alongside other vehicles in the event they may need to move aside.

The Department of Public Safety has found that many people use safety belts incorrectly and expose themselves to greater injuries. Lap belts should be worn across the hips and the shoulder strap worn over the shoulder. The DPS has found that numerous motorists wear the shoulder strap under the shoulder which diminishes the effectiveness of the shoulder strap. In cars with separate lap and shoulder straps, motorists need to use both to reduce the risk of being ejected through a door jarred open. Infant/child safety seats must be secured snug and preferably in the back seat, especially if the vehicle has dual air bags. Trooper Snider adds that drivers of pickups with children under the age of 12 in the bed area have a maximum speed limit of 35 miles per hour. "Remember, these passengers have little or no means of securing themselves and become human projectiles with hard braking or in collisions.

"Whether we travel by car, truck, boat, or even horseback, we need to have a travel plan, have the vehicle in proper working order, and have ourselves physically and mentally prepared for peak performance needed for holiday travel," concluded Snider.

Bar W Land & Cattle Co. joins American Angus Association

Bar W Land and Cattle Company in Clarendon is a new member of the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with over 29,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on over 12 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association. Most of these registered Angus are used by the US farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for US consumption.

What a variety of recently received reading selections are currently available in the "large print" section of Burton Memorial Library! The various fiction and nonfiction, appealing to many different reading interests, will remain in Clarendon for three months before being rotated to another area through the Texas Panhandle Library System. Western, mystery, romance, humorous, political, health issues, domestic interest are all written in wonderfully easy-to-read large print.

I suppose the name, Louis L'Amour, is almost synonymous with great western storytelling. A Trail of Memories will appeal to L'Amour fans, even though it isn't the usual type one thinks of when considering L'Amour books. It contains almost 1000 of his quotations compiled by his daughter, Angelique L'Amour. After each quotation is the title of his book from which it came. In her "warm" introduction, Angelique conveys that the quotations "reveal much of what makes Dad who he is, for these words are the heart and soul of what he believes and what he wants to leave behind." Incidentally, Burton Memorial has all of Louis L'Amour's writing generously donated by Cleo Russell. (Many thanks Cleo.)

Other westerns in this large print collection include Forgiving by Lavyrie Spencer with an 1876 Deadwood setting in Dakota Territory; Gordon O. Shirreffs' Slaughter at Broken Bow depicting experiences with the Sioux nation; Guns of Folly by Orlando Rigoni; and Chet Cunningham's Boots and Saddles. Carl W. Brechan acquaints readers with Great Lawmen of the West such as Wyatt Earp, Pat Garrett, and seven others. Twenty-five additional westerns by various authors, five of which are entitled Horse Thief Trail, Cougar Canyon, Bigger Than Texas, Muleskinner, and Dakota Boomtown, are placed on the top shelf of the large print section.

Are you familiar with best sellers, All Things Wise and Wonderful and All Creatures Great and Small, by beloved writer, James Herriot? More amusing episodes of his veterinarian experiences are revealed in If Only They Could Talk. According to a New York Times book review, it could well be "the happiest book of the year."

Fictional Manhattan Country Doctor by Milton Jonathan Slocum, MD, offers a refreshing aspect with a "wisecracking" nurse as the doctor treats theater people, mobsters, boxers, and Old and New World families.

Earthly Possessions by Anne Tyler transcribes the fact that "gentleness and beauty can reside in the plainest of people."

Mysteries, Daylight Robbery by Martin Russell; Lillian J. Brown's Cat Who Went Into The Closet, and Four Steps To Death by Diana Ramsey provide the reader with spine-tingling suspense.

Pecan orchard needed for insecticide tests

Bill Ree, Extension Agent-Entomology (Pecans), is looking for an orchard or two where he can evaluate some new insecticides for black pecan aphids. The companies need some information this year so he needs to make sure that he finds a test site.

There are a few requirements for this test:

- first he needs an infestation of moderate to high populations of black pecan aphids or at least the threshold level of an average of 3 per compound leaf.
- will need a means to treat individual trees. This will be a small plot replicated test.

Mr. Ree would like the trees to be small nonbearing or young trees with just a few pecans. Most of the insecticides being evaluated will have a crop destruct requirement, however the producer will be reimbursed for the destroyed pecans.

If any producer is interested in using his orchard where this test might be done, please call the Donley County Extension Office at 874-2141 or Bill Ree (409)845-6800.

Fishing During The Dog Days

Admittedly, August of 1996 will go down in the record books as an unusually temperate month when our local lakes received more run off than is the norm, but the bass are still holding to normal dog days, summer patterns. The best fishing is early and late on top water lures like buzzbait, PJ's popper, and Slug-Go's. During the day, the best fishing is with a soft plastic worm at the base of flooded trees or with Carolina rigs on the edges of the deep water.

"This was my all-time best day of tournament fishing," reported Jack Richardson after he whipped forty-two anglers at the August 1 Fun Tournament at Lake Greenbelt. Richardson earned $430 when he came to the scales with a three-bass limit weighing 9.85 lbs. He culled four other bass during the 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. contest. Richardson's successful summer pattern was slowly working a seven inch Berkley PowerWorm in the flooded trees that were surrounded by the moss. "The bass were hiding in the trees, but they refused to chase any lures. The only way to catch them was to drop the worm right in front of their noses," revealed Richardson.

Second place honors and $215 went to Charles Walker with 3.62 lbs. Walker credited part of his success to switching to a PowerWorm that Richardson gave him during the tournament. "If Jack had shared his secrets with me earlier, I might have beaten him," said Walker. Third place honors and $107 in prize money went to Cory Hales with 3.44 lbs.

The August 14 Fun Tournament at Lake Meredith saw Mike Kelley solve the mystery of catching bass during August with a gold-bladed Hart Throb buzzbait. Kelley's 8.21 lbs. easily bested the other 51 anglers. At sunset he concentrated on a 200 yard stretch of flooded trees and submerged cattails. "Two weeks ago, I found these fish on the outside of the flooded trees. But when the lake level suddenly increased nearly eight feet, the bass moved right on the shoreline, said Kelley as he counted his winnings of $520.

Second place and $260 went to Richard Beilue of Dumas with 3.99 lbs. Beilue used a Carolina rig on the main lake points near the dam, while Kelley Knight pocketed $130 for finishing third with 3.65 lbs.

All contestants agreed that the new water at Lake Meredith should make for some fantastic bass fishing for the 1997 fishing season. "At long last, Lake Meredith looks like a bass lake with lots of moss beds and plenty of flooded trees," concluded veteran bass angler Richard Beilue.
