City voters to decide $200,000 bonds on May 4

Money raised would be used to provide water, sewer service to Thunder Junction theme park

Will the city of Clarendon issue $200,000 in bonds to provide the Thunder Junction theme park with water and sewer services?

Local voters will decide that question on May 4 when they go to the ballot box.

Those in favor of the bond issue say that passage will be a much needed boost to the fledgling park and be a sign that the town supports the project. In their view, a vote for the bond issue is a vote for Thunder Junction.

Opponents note that the land the park sits on is not yet a part of the city and that city taxpayers should not be asked to pay for something outside the town.

However, if the property is annexed,

Clarendon will be required to some how extend sewer and water services to that area.

The term of the proposed bonds has not yet been set, and no one can say for sure how much the repayment schedule would cost the city.

Mayor Steve Smith, who favors the bond issuance, says the bonds would be issued for 10 to 30 years and would require the city to make a yearly payment of $12,000 to $20,000. Smith believes the economic development tax, passed last year, should be able to cover some of that cost.

Alderman Bobbie Kidd thinks differently. "The truth is if you vote for this, you're voting for a tax increase," Kidd said, "possibly as much as a ten percent increase."

Currently the city property tax rate is 0.59693 per hundred dollar evaluation. A ten percent increase would still only be 0.65662

Kidd also said issuing bonds for Thunder Junction would set a dangerous precedent for any future business that might locate just outside the western or southern city limits.

The board of aldermen have put the issue to the voters because they felt this was one issue better decided by the people.

Thunder Junction officials feel that passage of the bond election would give the theme park an advantage while it gets on its feet.

Stan McClendon of Westwood, Inc., the company that owns Thunder Junction, says that the city voting to issue these bonds would help the park.

If the bond issue fails, McClendon says, it will not stop the park. Westwood has some other options in case the bonds are not issued, but they all involve a great deal more expense for the park — money which could otherwise be used for park improvements.

All sides seem to agree that if Thunder Junction is successful, the city's investment would be well spent. New businesses and increased tourist activity would more than make up for any expense the city would have undertaken. Additionally, if the park property is annexed, the city would begin getting tax revenue from that property after a five-year tax abatement for the park.

But there is a risk. If the park does not do well and if the property is not annexed, the city taxpayers will still be out $12,000 to $20,000 a year for 10 to 30 years.

Next week: The Enterprise will look at the issue of annexation of Thunder Junction by the city. Also, learn about a half-cent sales tax proposal which is on the May ballot and find out who is running for local offices and where you can go to cast your ballots.

Commission picks local courthouse for project

AUSTIN — The Texas Historical Commission's Dept. of Architecture has selected the Donley County Courthouse and 54 others of the state's most historic county courthouses for participation in their Texas Courthouse Alliance Project.

The project, funded by a grant from the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA) of the Texas Dept. of Transportation, plans to document the oldest county courthouses in Texas. Courthouses were chosen to participate in the project based on architectural significance, age, degree of threat to the building, participation by the local government, and existing records about the courthouse.

The Donley County Courthouse, built in 1894, is one of only three such designated courthouses in the Texas Panhandle. The other two are Hartley and Randall Counties.

For each of the courthouses selected, the Alliance team will assess the building's condition, locate historic drawings and records, and generate new documentation using advanced photographic and computer assisted measuring techniques. This information will then be compiled into a computerized database which will be accessible via the Internet.

"These historic courthouses have provided their communities with a sense of pride and unity throughout the years," said Curtis Tunnell, executive director of the Texas Historical Commission. "Documentation is an important first step in ensuring their preservation for future generations."

The documentation compiled by the project will be used to assist county leaders in the management of their historic resources, to develop educational and research tools, and to promote travel and tourism.

The Historical Commission's courthouse preservation efforts are also being funded through private donations. A courthouse account has been established within the Texas Preservation Trust Fund to accept and administer these gifts.

The Texas Historical Commission is the state agency for historic preservation. The agency administers a variety of programs to preserve the archeological, historical, and cultural resources of Texas.

The Clarendon Jr. High Band was escorted through town last Thursday by a parade of parents and supporters after they won Sweepstakes at the Region 1 UIL Band Contest in Boys Ranch. The band earned a division one (the highest ranking) in sight reading and a division one in concert. The Sweepstakes award is given to the best overall band at the contest.

CC horse judging team places fourth

Clarendon College's freshman horse judging team earned fourth place honors at the Southwest Regionals held Saturday, April 20, 1996, at West Texas A&M University in Canyon. Clarendon competed against a field of 14 colleges and universities.

According to Coach Jerry Hawkins, this contest was unique as it did not divide the contestants up by size of the school — such as a junior college division.

"We did real well considering that we are a young team. To place right up there with Colorado State, Midway University, and Blackhawk College says a lot of what is to come for this team," Hawkins said.

Other teams competing included Iowa State, Kansas State, Oklahoma State, Middle Tennessee State University, University of Georgia, Texas A&M, and Texas Tech.

Park to open on Memorial Day weekend

Thunder Junction is planning to open for Memorial Day weekend.

Stan McClendon, a representative of the firm which owns the park, reported Monday that the theme park has not changed its target date to open.

"The go-kart track is ready to be poured," McClendon said, "and we are currently looking for a contractor to fix the pool (below the slides)."

McClendon also said that the waterslides and amphitheater will be ready when the park opens.

Hospital board meets, changes payroll periods

The Donley County Hospital Board of Directors met Monday night at 7 p.m. in a called meeting.

The board voted to alter the payroll procedures of the Medical Center to a one week settlement. This action would call for work put in over 40 hours each week to be paid time and a half.

The board took no action on a request from employees that aides be awarded additional compensation for being called in when the center is short-handed.

Game Wardens help clean up Greenbelt Lake

Game Wardens from the Panhandle area participated in an effort to help free Greenbelt Lake from illegal jugs and trotlines on Wednesday, April 10, 1996.

The wardens removed ten illegal jug lines and 15 trotlines measuring 3,750 ft.

Donley County. He has a background in agriculture and in teaching in the Clarendon Public Schools. He is well known in the area.

"I have been privileged to serve as a Director on the Hospital Board for a number of years," Leathers said. "During this time, the care provided for the residents has become well respected throughout the Panhandle."

In a statement released Monday, Leathers noted a recent poll in which more than 90% of the resident's families rated the facility as 'Good' or 'Excellent.' He also noted that a wide-bodied, lift equipped van, largely paid for by a grant, is expected to be delivered in less than a month. Leathers also said that the nursing home has been redecorated this past year, and new furnishings have been purchased and paid for.

"As a board member, I will work to maintain the district's financial stability and its reputation for excellent care while continuing to look for ways to make improvements in all areas," Leathers said.

J.D. Shanks has announced his candidacy for Place 5 on the Donley County Hospital District Board of Directors.

Shanks has been a resident of Clarendon for the past eight and one-half years and was raised in Collingsworth County. He graduated from Quail High School.

According to a statement released Monday, Shanks worked for General Telephone Co. of the Southwest for 37 years in a management position, handling budgets and various supervisory positions.

Currently, Shanks is employed part time at Clarendon College and CISD and serves on the Donley County Appraisal District Board of Directors.

"My interest in the hospital board is to help provide a quality place for the residents living in the Medical Center," Shanks said.

Local conservation district to observe Soil and Water Stewardship Week Apr. 28-May 5

The Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) has announced they will join in the national observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week to take place on April 28-May 5, 1996, according to an announcement by Dick H. Bode, chairman of the district.

The theme of this year's observance is "Harmony: People and Places." This focus is especially appropriate as our need for stewardship is vital if we are to maintain the productive capabilities of our basic natural resources of soil and water. Together, we must work for the good of all to utilize, conserve, and properly manage those resources in our care. Participation in Soil and Water Stewardship Week activities offers an opportunity to reflect on the nation's natural renewable resource problems and consider actions to resolve them or reduce their impact.

The Donley County SWCD was organized in 1945 for the purpose of offering farmers, ranchers, and the local community a voluntary conservation technical assistance program through which individuals could seek and request conservation assistance to meet the capabilities and needs of their land.

"Basically it is the district's responsibility to provide technical assistance when requested relative to proper soil use and treatment, erosion control practices, solve drainage problems and to assist farmers and ranchers with crop, range, and pastureland management," said Dick H. Bode.

The National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil and Water Stewardship Week in the United States since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts. Informative material on the Soil and Water Stewardship Week theme each year is distributed through local conservation districts to clergymen, lay leaders, civic and educational organizations and to individuals interested in participating in the celebration. Information and materials for the 1996 observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week can be obtained in this area from Donley County SWCD at 874-3576.

USDA seeks comments on Farm Bill

The US Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service is seeking public comment and views from across the country on innovative ways to implement the conservation provisions of the 1996 Farm Bill.

USDA will hold forums in nine cities from April 22 to April 26. The public is encouraged to participate by either attending a forum or sending written comments to NRCS's national headquarters in Washington, D.C. Comments must be faxed or post-marked by April 30.

"We want these programs to be as strong and successful as possible, not only for the environment, but also for farmers and ranchers, other private land holders, and the country as a whole. The best foundation for successful common sense programs will

County approved for CRP grazing

Donley County has received authorization for Emergency Grazing of CRP.

"After completing the application and receiving approval, producers will be allowed to graze CRP acreage with a 25% reduction in the annual rental payment for each acre grazed," said Steven Orr, FSA County Executive Director.

"Producers must come into the county office before any grazing takes place. Also, haying of CRP is not authorized."

The Donley County FSA office is currently taking applications for CRP grazing, and interested participants are encouraged to contact the county office at 874-3561 for more details.

TEN PAGES OF LIVE LOCAL NEWS THAT AFFECTS YOU!

Happy Secretaries' Week to CHERYL JOHNSON
without whom the Enterprise would be lost.

Letters

Dear Editor,

I admired your response in the editorial regarding the spelling of "Broncho." You provided a very well researched defense of your view. As an outsider, I'd say you resolved the issue tactfully by the headline on page six of the same issue which read, "Williams wins five medals, Bronco place 3rd at district meet."

Kari Hamrick

P.S. I don't believe in "Spell Check" either. We should teach our children to spell rather than relying on technology that replaces our need to learn the English language.

Successful Clean-Up Day brightens city

Dozens of volunteers from ten different civic and student groups cleared a year's worth of debris from popular public areas in and around Clarendon. The Saturday clean-up activity was sponsored by the Clarendon-Donley County Chamber of Commerce and supported with materials and prizes by twelve local businesses.

Louisa King won the prize for most trash collected. She targeted the Little League ball park but gathered her winning entries from the City Park and land around B&R Thriftway as well.

Clifford Alexander III received the prize for finding the most recyclable materials. Plastic bottles were the major offenders found.

Anna Gay Cenicerros and Kaitlyn Howard won prizes for the most unusual pieces found. Anna Gay found an item from the Hands Across America campaign while Kaitlyn found a "lost soul" (sole) from a tennis shoe.

Carol Farris won the prize for beautification for her work on the park entrance, trimming bushes, raking, and clearing grass from the WPA stonework.

All participants received prizes for participation and lunch of hot dogs, chips, and soft drinks donated by B&R Thriftway and West Texas Utilities.

City workers Ernie Johnston, Jim Roberts, Richard Sanchez, Alton Gaines, Joe Shadle, and mayor Steve Smith picked up the filled bags and used a front end loader and city tools in the effort. At least five dump truck loads were hauled away. Bob McCombs assisted at the recycling bins.

High School student council members directed by Krista Hughes and nine elementary age volunteers worked with great enthusiasm throughout the day. Michael and

"Wonder Woman is alive and well and working at Clarendon College"

It's often been said that secretaries run the world. Well, I don't know about the world, but, from my perspective, there's more than a morsel of validity in that statement where Clarendon College is concerned.

However, referring to the fine ladies who work in our college offices simply as "secretaries" is kind of a misnomer. Yes, they perform many secretarial duties, but they do so much more. People like Joyce Davis, Barbara Ford, Beth Johnston, Ann Luttrell, Nena Hunt, and Mable Dean Wilson wear a zillion different hats at our school. They do so out of necessity, as ours is a small, interdependent operation.

As today (Wednesday) is national "Secretaries Day," I truly wish that I could write a column to honor each one of them. Alas, space doesn't permit that. So, I'll focus on one lady who has become so very special to me and to many others at Clarendon College. Her name is Darlene Spier.

The first time I spoke with Darlene was over the telephone in about March of 1995. I called to inquire about the presidency of Clarendon College. Thereafter, I must have called her 10 times, trying my dangdest to butter her up.

But, you know, she just wouldn't be buttered. She wouldn't even be margarine. Yeah, getting information out of Darlene wasn't like pulling teeth - more like elephants' tusks. She always conducted herself in a highly professional manner, representing the institution in a cordial manner but never making anything that could be construed as a committal comment.

So, even before I arrived in Clarendon the first week in July, I was well aware that the college was blessed with some astute professionals.

I have come to regard Darlene as the glue that holds Clarendon College together. It's been my experience that there's always a person of that nature in every organization, whether it's a school or a factory. If our staff was a football team, I guess you'd call Darlene the MVP. She is involved in almost every component of the institution, and, is especially invaluable on budgetary, reporting, and auditing issues.

Darlene isn't by any means elderly, but her work ethic is kind of from the "old school." She has never been an employee to let the door hit her in the rump at the end of the regular working day. She toils long hours, more often than not staying late to finish up a project, and even sacrificing whole weekends to complete state reports on time. For all that, she never complains nor asks for extra compensation.

No one has ever accused me of being real smart, but it didn't take me long to assess Darlene's total impact on the institution. She is basically the clearinghouse for all activities at the college, ranging from maintenance to music. She assists each component in myriad ways. That's why I changed her title to "Assistant to the President"

Bryan McFarland, Coby Braddock, Chuck Robertson, and Michael Newhouse were especially helpful in tending fires of branches and debris under the supervision of city personnel.

Don Stone, Ginger Stone, and Mary White "adopted" the scenic walkway from the Senior Citizens' Center to the Park. Weldon Sears and Scott Elliott cleared the fence line along the southside of Highway 287 from Bugbee to Bright's Auto. Debbie Howard was among volunteers work-soon after I arrived. It's a moniker that is much more representative of her level of responsibility.

Darlene has been my tutor, patiently educating me a little bit each day on the in's and out's of the Texas higher education system. That process started my first day on the job when we were in the midst of finalizing the institutional budget for 1995-96. There was little time for such amenities as walking around campus or town to jaw with folks. We had to roll up our sleeves and get right after it. But thanks to Darlene, everything worked out just fine.

While her work has been exemplary, Darlene's friendship has meant far more to me and my family. You see, loyalty goes a long way with me. I guess that's a value I learned from my father. Darlene has been steadfastly loyal to me, probably at her own peril.

As a new president, I have sought to make purposeful changes at Clarendon College, and I have gone about the business of trying to build a team. I have attempted to map out an institutional survival plan - something that's still in its formative stages.

Such are challenging propositions anywhere and at anytime. We, as human beings, have some inherent resistance to change. Therefore, it came as no surprise that my philosophies would be embraced by some and rejected by others.

Irrespective of that, college presidents are just people, like everybody else. They hurt and they bruise.

Whenever my chin's been down, Darlene has been there for me. Whenever I have been the target of criticism or outright untruths, she's been a calming influence, saying, "Just hang in there. Everything is going to be all right."

On the other hand, she is no "yes man," (or "yes lady," as it were). She always provides me with honest input. She tells me when she thinks I'm wrong, and she has often provided me with additional insights that have caused me to re-examine my positions.

But whether Darlene and I agree or disagree on singular issues, she has consistently sent me the message that, "I believe in your vision for Clarendon College, and I trust you to do what you feel is in the best interests of our college and community."

So, on this "Secretaries Day," I'd like to say a public thank you to Darlene for all that she has meant to me and my family, but, even more importantly, what she has meant to Clarendon College.

For those of you who are genuinely concerned about the leadership (or lack thereof) at the college, please take comfort in this - it really doesn't matter so much who is sitting in the president's chair so long as Darlene Spier is working in the adjacent office. Everything will be okay.

Because Wonder Woman isn't just a fictitious comic book character. She's alive and well and working at Clarendon College.

Dr. Scott Elliott is the president of Clarendon College.

Panhandle Planned Parenthood responds to article about services

Panhandle Planned Parenthood has released this statement in response to a recent article from Planned Parenthood of New York City concerning drug-induced abortion services. According to Karli Dye, Executive Director of the local affiliate, Panhandle Planned Parenthood will not provide this procedure.

"The local Board of Directors decided many years ago not to provide abortions; whether it be drug induced or surgical is irrelevant. Our policy in this matter has not changed. Although we are pro-choice, we do not plan to provide abortions," announced Dye.

She explained, "Each affiliate must meet quality standards of medical services and fiscal management, but locally, each has the right to decide what services will be performed on a community level."

Planned Parenthood provides family planning services that include physical examinations, Pap smears, screening for hypertension, anemia, diabetes, kidney and urinary track diseases, and sexually transmitted infections including HIV/AIDS. Services are provided on a sliding fee scale. It is also the number one provider and leader in sexuality education in the Panhandle.

Barbara Holland, Clinic Coordinator in Clarendon, says, "We see our role in this community as providing preventative health care. Our goal is to reduce the problem of unwanted pregnancies. We help families plan for the children they want and can care for. Actually, we do more to eliminate the need for abortion than any other organization."

Planned Parenthood has been providing family planning services to the Texas Panhandle for 28 years. Parent and teen workshops or sexuality classes are provided to churches and schools through the area.

come from the ideas we hear in these forums," said Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman.

"We will use what we hear in the forums to help us develop the initial proposals for program guidance. The public will have another opportunity for comment on these proposals this summer," said Paul W. Johnson, chief of NRCS.

The "Implementing the 1996 Farm Bill: Listening to the Grassroots" forums will be held in the same eight cities where NRCS held forums in 1994 to ask people what they wanted in the farm bill. In addition, NRCS will hold a forum in Washington, D.C.

Each forum will have a listening panel consisting of a USDA official, NRCS regional conservationist, NRCS state conservationist, Farm Service Agency state director, Forest Service representative, State Association of Conservation Districts president, State Conservation Agency head, State Extension Director/Administrator, and State Forester.

A forum is scheduled in Abilene on April 24 at the Abilene Civic Center. It will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 4:00 p.m. or after the last speaker is heard.

Topics include both new and modified conservation provision of the Farm Bill.

New provisions include the Environmental Quality Incentives Program, Farmland Protection Program, Flood Risk Reduction Program, Conservation Farm Option, Conservation of Private Grazing Land Initiative, National Natural Resources Conservation Foundation, and Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program.

Modified provisions include those to the wetlands conservation program, conservation compliance, Conservation Reserve Program, Emergency Watershed Protection Program, State Technical Committees, and Wetlands Reserve Program.

Written comments may be submitted at the forums. Comments also may be mailed or faxed to Paul Johnson, Chief, USDA NRCS, P.O. Box 2890, Washington, D.C. 20013. The fax number is (202) 720-1838.

Comments should be postmarked or faxed no later than April 30.

Crown of Texas Hospice salutes their volunteers during National Volunteer Week

As part of National Volunteer Week, April 21-27, Crown of Texas Hospice said that they appreciate the people who volunteer their time and services to the program according to a press release from Crown of Texas Hospice.

Most people know that hospice provides a very special kind of care for terminally ill people and their families, but it's less known that if it were not for volunteers, their hospice could not function. Even the federal government recognizes the importance of volunteers in hospice and requires Medicare-approved hospices to utilize volunteers from their community.

Hospice care is provided through an interdisciplinary, medically directed team approach. This team typically includes physicians, nurses, social workers, spiritual care counselors, bereavement counselors, and volunteers.

Nationally, about 95,000 people serve as hospice volunteers and, last year, gave well over 5 million hours of their precious time to serve terminally ill patients and their families!

No task is too big or too small for our volunteers, but often the most important thing they can do is just "be there" for patients—to reassure them they are not alone, to hold a hand, to offer a smile, or to just listen. It's not always easy work, but the personal rewards are enormous. The strength and courage of patients and families provides a constant source of inspiration, and volunteers typically feel they gain more than they have been able to give.

Their hospice is growing as more people seek our help. For this reason, they have a constant need for more volunteers, for patient care, office assistance, and special projects. If you would like to learn more about hospice volunteering, they invite you to call them at 1-800-572-6365, or come by their office at 1000 S. Jefferson in Amarillo.

Thelma Behrens made two delicious cherry cakes for a fund raiser for the Senior Citizens Center. Lucky winners were Clara Mae Carter and Sharon Grady. Everyone at the Center got to sing "Happy Birthday" to Red and Louise Carter last week. They share the same birthday. They were both born on April 14 in the same year - and only a few hours apart. Red's mother, Clara Mae Carter, said the two families did not know each other at the time Red and Louise were born. Mary Lee Noble also celebrated a birthday last week.

William and Walter Caruth are two names that might not be immediately recognized as famous. However, when they arrived at the new settlement of Dallas, Texas, in 1848, with $1,000 they had borrowed from their father, they opened a general store near what is now downtown Dallas. They entered the Texas frontier as pioneers and, through hard work and self-sacrifice, built a family fortune in trades and land. It is said that "they took care of their family and community, and left this world a better place for having been here."

Surviving Mexican and Civil War years plus frontier hardships of fire, moving, rebuilding, merchandise, difficulties, the Caruth persistence in real estate accumulations resulted in family properties spreading over several counties. Through their generosity, hospitals, schools, and youth camps were built. Land was also given to establish Southern Methodist University.

This information is uniquely related in The Pioneer Spirit: A Texas Story, the 30 minute video at Burton Memorial Library briefly mentioned in my last article.

At the video's beginning, a young boy is on his way to his grandfather for advice concerning a school report assignment about a famous pioneer. The boy is surprised when his grandfather tells him that a true pioneer doesn't have to be famous. A true pioneer simply "prepares the way for others." He then relates the Caruth story to his grandson who, in turn, realizes that a true pioneer spirit is characterized by vision, courage, and hard work.

The Pioneer Spirit video is an appealing dramatization for any age viewer. Adults will enjoy the story; students will be able to identify with the young boy as they observe the Caruth story through his eyes; elementary and junior high teachers will be impressed with the accompanying handbook's twenty-four pages which include ideas for "follow-up" questions guaranteed to motivate critical thinking skills; 33 essay topics; communication pioneering allowing students to practice journalism skills through news writing; 24 classroom activities; a "pioneer quiz" of thirteen questions; and suggestions for reporting on pioneers in social reform, science, human rights, printing, sports, and electricity. The wealth of material offered in this video can be flexibly used briefly or expanded into a more lengthy unit.

After viewing the video, you might agree that this Texas Story is not only "a lesson in history, but a lesson in life." Why not check it out?

Musicians perform for Clarendon Elementary by Kevin Green, fifth grade student
 Dawn Harms and Ann Saslav presented a fine arts program about the violin, which was played by Ms. Harms, and the piano, which was played by Ms. Saslav. The performance was held at 1:30 p.m. on April 17, 1996, in the high school auditorium.
 Ms. Harms and Ms. Saslav performed for and taught the third, fourth, and fifth grade students. A wide variety of musical selections entertained both children and teachers. The children learned when the first violin and piano were made.
 Volunteers from the audience came on the stage to be "composers." Third grade student, Christopher Smith, was given a quick violin lesson and then performed with Ms. Harms and Ms. Saslav. The audience was delighted with Christopher's talent.
 Both performers have been playing their instruments since they were small children. Due to all their hard work and practice, they are now professionals.

Prime Time for Catching
 The most frequently asked question that I receive from casual fishermen is "When is the best time to go fishing?" Of course, the answer is "Whenever you can." Most inquiries are really attempts to ascertain the best time to "catch" fish at our local lakes.
 Thanks to a lingering spring, the water temperatures on our lakes remain in the lower fifties but should quickly climb to the sixties in a matter of weeks. With cooler than normal water, anglers should concentrate their efforts on gamefish that are active in the frigid water.
 At Meredith, Greebelt, Ute, Conchas, and White River, both the small-mouth bass and walleye are in the middle of their annual spring-feeding patterns. Both species of gamefish will spend a part of each day cruising the shallow water in search of an easy meal. The local experts are quietly catching large numbers of big fish on some "new" plastic jerk baits. Try using the "suspending" Rogue by PRADCO or the suspending "Husky Jerk" by Rapala. How these baits are manipulated is more important than either the brand name or the color. Use light line (12 lb or less), and make long casts along the second and third points in the major coves off the main lake area. Quickly crank the lure down to three or four feet and stop the retrieve. The lure will suspend and appear to be an easy meal. After waiting for up to a minute(!), just a slight twitch can trigger an explosive strike by a smallmouth bass or a heavy thud by a more timid walleye. In either case, the fight is on, and for some reason the biggest fish occupying these secondary points are the ones most attracted to these suspending lures. Vary the length of the "pause" until the fish reveal their favorite presentation. Dozens of "catch-and-release" smallmouth bass and scores of tasty walleye over five pounds are the ultimate proof that these new suspending lures definitely belong in your arsenal.
 The next thirty days are the prime time, and our local lakes are the best places to go "catching" instead of just fishing.
 Pray for rain, and I'll see you at the lake.

CHS girls do well in Abilene Meet

Clarendon's Lady Broncos continued their march to a strong showing at the two-day Region I Track Meet Friday and Saturday in Abilene with a stellar performance last weekend in Abilene and Amarillo.

The mile relay team of Kim Alexander, Kasi Ashcraft, Mandy Weatheron and Clarissa Smith provided the most fireworks this past weekend - first at Abilene when they ran to first place with a time of 4:15.34. They posted a 4:31 April 13 in Panhandle in District 2-2A competition.

Texas Tech basketball-singer and Class 1A player of the year, Melinda Schmucker of Nazareth, faced Smith in the last leg in Abilene. "They all ran good splits, but Schmucker came up on (Smith) and had plans on cruising past her, but (Smith) put her away," head girls track coach Steve Schmidt said.

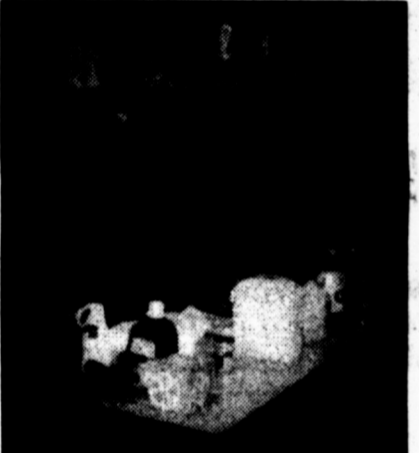

Schmidt also took the mile relay team to a regional qualifiers meet in Amarillo on Saturday. "We ran it again (twice in two days) to give us some comparison on what it will be like because we'll have prelims on Friday and finals on Saturday (in Abilene). This way they'll get used to running this tough race twice in two days."

The Lady Broncos, ran a 4:07.90 eclipsing Canyon by 11 seconds - the top mile relay team in the Panhandle.

"We just pushed and improved our time. I kept looking at my watch to make sure I had the time right. (Smith) and (Weatheron) ran 59 second splits and (Ashcraft) had a 63 and (Alexander) had a 64."

"It's pretty darn exciting. I really knew they had the potential to be good. I had no idea they could break their time by that much."

Schmidt said he's trying to keep himself and the runners from being overconfident, but he wants to use their success to keep the nervous butterflies away. "We've been running against some 4A and 5A schools," he Clarendon Elementary attended an assembly Thursday on Recycling. Mr. Bob McCombs discussed the grant which was received that provide the recycling bins east of the post office and also the different types of materials that can be dropped off at the recycling bins.

Abdullah breezes past competitors in regional tennis meet

Clarendon's Kareem Abdullah swept all four competitors in Saturday's Regional Qualifiers meet in Levelland.

He opens up competition Wednesday, April 24, in Abilene at the Abilene Christian University campus. If he wins his two matches Wednesday, he continues his march on Thursday, April 25, to the state tournament in Austin May 10-11.

Abdullah first faced Memphis' Jason Fowler, whom he promptly put away before rolling over players from Seagraves and Eldorado. The first set of his third match of the day against the Seagraves player went to a 13-11 tiebreaker, which Abdullah lost.

"That was the first set he's lost all year," head coach Jimmy Avery said. "He almost won it, but what really impressed me and everybody watching him was how he dominated in the second and third sets."

"(Abdullah) was in such better shape than all the other players. The off-season workout (for football) really helped him. You could tell that all the energy from that Seagraves kid was sapped out of him. (Abdullah) got a second wind. He had blisters all over his hands and feet, but he kept going."

"The best thing about this tournament was we got a look at those Seagraves and Eldorado players who we'll probably see down in Abilene."

"His serve is getting stronger and he's in great shape. He's just a wonderful kid."

said. "We've been proving ourselves against them, and that should give us confidence."

"Our girls are really excited, too, especially (Smith) and (Weatheron). They weren't sure they were going to have to run (mile relay) at the beginning of the season. They're excited that they're running it now. This just shows that they're not only fast, they're tough, too."

The 800 meter relay team of Smith, Kathy Bryley, Weatheron, and Alexander also chopped a second off their time for a 146.01 in the prelims in Abilene. They ran a 1:47 in the finals, which was good enough for first place.

The closest team - Class 5A Plainview - was three seconds behind the Lady Broncos. "They are our very best bet now to get to Austin," Schmidt said.

Clarendon's sprint relay team of Tangelia Smith, Stephanie Smith, Bryley, and Alexander secured sixth place and a time of 52.66.

"It's a good time," Schmidt said. "They'll have to get it in the 50s (to advance to Austin). We're hoping for them to score some points and for our team to be in the top of the team rankings."

Broncs participate at regional qualifiers meet in Abilene

The Broncos tuned up their regional-bound track team Friday at a Regional Qualifiers Track Meet in Abilene.

Field events begin Friday morning and preliminary running events follow that evening on the Abilene Christian University campus. Additional field events will be held Saturday morning with running finals later that day.

Senior Chris Brown will try to advance to the state track meet in the discus and shot put beginning Friday morning.

Brown threw the shot put 50 feet for fourth place in Abilene, but Coach Kent Allison said he is capable of throwing better. He will have to eclipse the 55 foot mark for a trip to Austin.

His discus didn't fare well in the winds gusting to 40 mph. Brown was well below his mark with a 125 foot hurl.

"He'll do much better in Abilene," Allison said. "We're going to have to count on him for some points."

Roy Williams skipped the triple jump and the long jump because of a back injury sustained at the District 2-2A track meet April 13 in Panhandle.

"We didn't feel like it was worth it because the wind was so tough," Allison said. "We didn't want him to bust a good jump at the qualifying meet and then have injuries at the regional meet. A bunch of kids got hurt out there in the long jump."

meter race, where she placed first in the District 2-2A meet. The sophomore got boxed in early and was never able to recover, Schmidt said.

"She never did get into a rhythm that she likes to run. It was a good learning experience for her. She's going to have to get out a little faster. Now, everybody she's running against is a little faster. It made her run better in the 1600 meter relay because she was mad."

Ashcraft ran a 2:44.68 - about 15 seconds off her typical pace.

Alexander threw under what she's accustomed to in the shot put, heaving it 30 feet, 9 inches. Stephanie Smith placed sixth in the long jump with a 15 foot, 4 inch attempt - one of her best jumps of the year.

Clarissa Smith placed second in the 100 meters with a 12.88 time - a little off her best mark. "She beat a lot of people, and it wasn't bad. I don't know why, but the times were slow in the 100 meters."

Weatheron was second in the 200 meters. She posted a 26.55 despite running four 200 meters in one day at the Abilene Regional Track Meet. She ran a preliminary and final in the 200 meters and also ran the 800 meter relay in the finals and prelims.

Williams cruised to a first place finish in the 400 meters with a time of 49.03. "The competition was a little better," Allison said. "It's probably the best that he's seen. He's got a good shot of winning the 400 meters again and going to state."

The junior Williams finished second in the 1995 state track meet.

The 200 meters was Williams' race as he won first with a time of 22.2. "He let up a little bit on it. There wasn't anybody who was pushing him."

Williams will be tested by District 2-2A rival Jason Mathis and a Stanton runner at the Region I Track Meet, Allison said.

Clarendon's sprint relay team of Evan Williams, Lorenzo Moore, Dean Stanzione, and Roy Williams finished third and ran about a tenth of a second slower than their district qualifying time.

The Broncos finished with a time of 43.4.

"Lorenzo was a little hurt, and we had a bad hand-off," Allison said. "They're going to have to run mid-42s to make it to state. There's some other people who can get after it, and we're going to have to get after, it too. In the sprint relay, anything can happen."

Kareem Abdullah ran the 200 meters, and Oren Shields and Evan Williams competed in the 100 meters. They did not qualify for the regional meet in those races but ran them anyway for practice.

Hedley One-Act Play named alternates to Regional competition

The Hedley High School UIL One-Act Play entry advanced from Zone Competition at White Deer on March 26, with their production of "Louder, I Can't Hear You." David Ward and Jennifer Carson were named to All-Star cast. Jana Hill gained Honorable Mention recognition.

Jana Hill and Johnny Hoggett were named to the All-Star cast. Jennifer Carson, Kenneth Dishong, and Christina Woodard earned Honorable Mention accolades.

The cast and crew traveled to Area One-Act Play competition at Amarillo College on April 6. "Louder, I Can't Hear You" was named the alternate play to Regional competition and provided the contest's Best Actress in Christina Woodard. Jana Hill was named to the All-Star cast while Jennifer Carson won Honorable Mention honors.

Director Jan Oswalt is extremely proud of the cast and production crew for their outstanding efforts. The cast includes all the actors mentioned above while the stage crew consists of T.J. Turner, Cindy Lee, Joson Gilbert, and Roy Ramirez. Alternates are Penny Longan and Chris Solis.
