New Hospital 'Open House' Today

Long Awaited Dream Becomes A Reality

Sunday afternoon, between the hours of 2-5 p.m., local residents are invited to see for themselves a local 'dream come true.' Following several years of attempting to obtain a new hospital for Muleshoe and the surrounding area, the first phase of the new hospital will be open for public inspection, prior to move in date the following day.

From groundbreaking on July 4th last year, to the last minute preparations, the new and larger hospital is expected to encompass almost anything necessary to take care of a multitude of illnesses, surgery and accidents.

Featured will be the bright new surgical complex, complete with an operating room which could be used for two patients at a time in cases of critical emergency; a recovery room, also equipped for two patients if necessary; surgical clean-up rooms and sterilized supplies accommodations.

The surgical complex is just off what will be the new emergency rooms upon completion of the present hospital renovation.

Also featured will be a separate maternity ward and nursery with two semi-private patient rooms and a delivery room. The nursery is equipped to handle 18 infants in the event of another 'baby boom' such as was experienced in the old hospital a month ago.

Sparkling new and ready is the new ICU-CCU (Intensive Care-Cardiac Care) Unit, with three separate rooms, private with all glass fronts, facing the nurses station.

Mrs. John Blackwell, assistant administrator of the hospital said very strict rules will be in effect in the locked section ICU-CCU ward. Visitors hours will be for five minutes only every two hours, and will be restricted to members of the immediate family. Also, only two persons at a time will be allowed to visit a critically ill patient in the specialized unit. At times other than the 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. visiting hours, the doors to the unit will be locked.

Mrs. Blackwell said the most modern, and up-to-date equipment has been incorporated into the ICU-CCU unit, with tele-meters, computerized EKG for constant and instant read-out on a heart patient.

Larger and more convenient patient rooms are featured, complete with carpet, a shower and bath, color tv in each room and a telephone by each bed. They also have a separate temperature control dial in each room.

Semi-private rooms will have cubicle curtains for additional privacy and all beds will have piped in oxygen and suction.

Guest beds will be available in the private rooms at no additional charge, with the hospital furnishing linens for the pull out beds from the small couches.

Near the ICU-CCU complex and near the surgical complex is a chapel-conference room, featuring paneling, carpet and red drapes. A conference table and chairs are in the room for convenience.

Large nursing stations will be featured in the regular patient

Quilt Contest Will Feature Top Area Work

Another feature of the July 4th celebration on Monday, July 4, will be a women's quilt contest, sponsored by the Bailey County Home Demonstration Club.

In a booth on the courthouse lawn will be numerous hand-made quilts, with entries in two categories; appliques and pieced. Prizes will be awarded in first through third places.

Robin Taylor, Bailey County Home Extension Agent, said quilts will be displayed from approximately 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. on the day of the celebration. All entries are to be brought to the courthouse by 9 a.m. on the day of the celebration.

The Home Demonstration Club will sell any quilt, if the owner desires, for a 10 percent commission.

Home Agent

Leader For

Mens Baking

Under guidance of Mrs. Robin Taylor, Bailey County Home Extension Agent, a special feature will be conducted during the July 4th celebration.

Marshall Williams, winner of last years Men's Baking Contest, has challenged all men in the area to beat him this year in the second annual contest.

Two categories will be open for competition; iced cakes and uniced cakes. The contest will be open to all men above the age of 17 years. Cakes will be judged on appearance, taste and texture.

All cake entries are to be at the Bailey County Courthouse by 9 a.m. on Monday, July 4. Tables will be set up in the hallway of the courthouse to display the baked goods.

Unofficial 112 Degrees Recorded

Whew! Do you have the feeling that it is very hot right now? In case you didn't drive by the thermometer/clock at the Muleshoe State Bank Thursday afternoon, you couldn't realize what happened to the thermometer.

At 4:30 p.m., the thermometer registered 112 degrees. After checking other thermometers which ranged from 104 to 116 degrees, it was unanimously decided that Thursday, June 16, 1977, was a very hot day in Muleshoe.

No moisture has fallen since a sneak storm deposited nearly an inch of rain, along with a light covering of pea to marble sized hail on Saturday, June 11, shortly after noon.

In the rainstorm, the cloud formed directly over Muleshoe and stayed stationary while it dropped the rain and hail in a short time.

Tuesday night, a similar cloud formed over Texico, N.M., 20 miles to the northwest of Muleshoe, and although no rain was reported, a small tornado dropped from the clouds, destroying the school bus barn, twisting off trees and snapping electric poles.

No moisture was in the weather picture, but temperatures above 100 degrees were predicted to continue throughout the area, for the next several days.

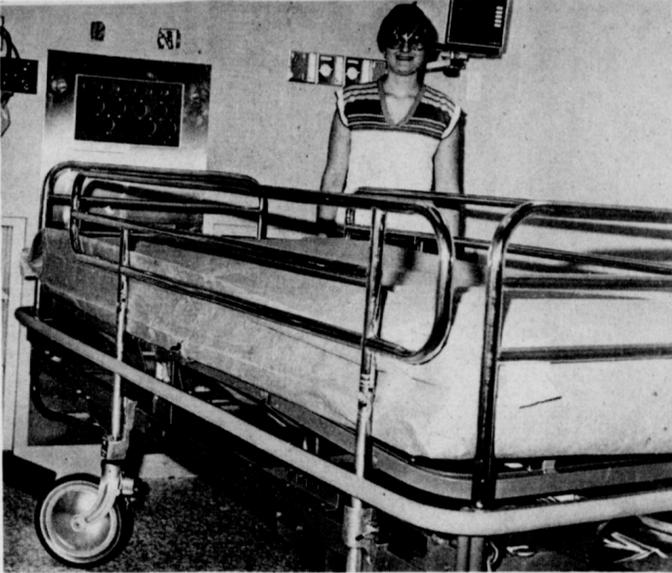

Bill Clayton Lion's Speaker On Wednesday

Bill Clayton, Springlake, who is Speaker of the House of Representatives for the State of Texas, will be special guest speaker for the Lions Club noon meeting Wednesday.

Clayton, who is a native of the Springlake area, still calls Springlake his home, and maintains his permanent home there. He is well known in this area, having visited in the past.

Meeting jointly with the Lions, will be members of the Rotary, Kiwanis, and Jaycees. Also, other interested individuals may attend the meeting if they desire.

To make reservations to attend the luncheon meeting, call Tommy Black at the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture office, 272-4248. Deadline for reserving your meal is Monday afternoon.

Jaycees To Sponsor Local Junior Rodeo

Muleshoe Jaycees will sponsor a Hi-Plains Junior Rodeo in Muleshoe on August 5-6, with performances slated for 8 p.m. each evening. This will be the final rodeo before the Hi-Plains finals.

Highlight of the rodeo will be the queen's contest and the barbecue. The queen's contest will be open to any female, age 1-99, who is the top seller of tickets on two beef halves to be given away on Saturday night, August 6. The queen will also be announced at the Saturday rodeo.

Tickets will be $1 each and will give the purchaser two chances for the beef halves. If you would like to be a queen, call Lionel Lane, chairman, at 272-4701 or Terry Gunter, chairman of the queen's contest. You can call Terry Gunter at 272-4515.

From 6:30-8 p.m. on Saturday, preceding the final performance, Jaycees will serve a barbecue at the Muleshoe Roping Arena east of Muleshoe on Highway 84.

Events in the rodeo will be open to both boys and girls in three divisions, ages 12 and under, 13-15 and 16-18.

Girls events in the 12 and under group will be barrels, poles, goat tying and flags. Boys events in the same age group will include calf touching, team roping, steer riding and break-

Water Board To Monitor Cloud Seeding

Last weekend, the Texas Water Development Board reinstated monitoring procedures established two years ago of cloud seeding operations headquartered at Littlefield.

Two qualified meteorologists from the Board's Weather Modification Division, on a rotating basis, are observing operational flights over the target area and eight miles beyond, outlined in a permit issued by the Board June 2, announced James M. Rose, executive director.

Operations are being carried out by Atmosherics Inc. to decrease damaging hail and augment rainfall in all or parts of Castro, Swisher, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Bailey, Parmer, Deaf Smith, Randall and Lubbock Counties.

"While we know of no violations of the provisions of the permit," said Rose, "there have been complaints by some who oppose cloud seeding operations that flights have seeded clouds beyond the permitted area, and we feel it is proper to have our staff monitor the operations."

Houston Duo Jailed Here In Car Theft

Because a local man was suspicious of two young boys who had a flat tire, no spare, and no money to have a flat repaired, and driving a large nearly new car, the chain of events worked fast.

Relaying his suspicions to the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center Thursday night, an officer checked the license number on the out-of-county car and ran it through the NLETS teletype system. Within a few seconds he had his answer. The vehicle was reported as stolen in Houston on Thursday.

Deputy Sheriff Pete Black and off-duty city patrolman Forrist Williams went to the service station where the duo were attempting to trade eight track tapes for a tire repair job, and brought them to the law center.

Telephone calls to Houston confirmed the theft and the 15 and 16 year old brothers were checked into the jail. A telephone call to their mother revealed that the vehicle, a 75 Buick, had been taken from a neighbor and she told J.R. Carpenter, assistant city chief, that the boys were on their way to Bloomfield, N.M. She said they had been through Muleshoe only two days before the boys were arrested in Muleshoe after a vacation in the Bloomfield area.

Recovered from the car was an expensive wristwatch, credit cards, an expensive ring, camera equipment and tapes.

Houston officers were in Muleshoe Friday afternoon to return the boys to Houston, and the owner of the vehicle was expected to make an unscheduled trip to Muleshoe to take his car home.

Thursday was apparently the day to recover stolen cars, as the Houston vehicle was the second for the day. Earl Bowers of Gosland reported that a relatively new car had been abandoned in a mesquite thicket in southwest Bailey County, near the New Mexico line. He said the car had been in the thicket for three days.

Azran-checking with officers, it was found that the car had been reported stolen from Springlake. The Springlake owner recovered his 1974 Chevrolet, after replacing two flat tires which had apparently been run over a sandfighter.

Houston Duo Jailed Here In Car Theft

Several accidents were checked by local officers during the past week and break-ins were reported by King Elevator and Lenau Lumber Co. Both burglaries apparently occurred the same night.

Arrests included one for no driver's license and expired MVI sticker; one for no driver's license; two for possession of liquor for sale; one for carrying a gun; one for drunk and disturbance; one for resisting arrest, assault and abusive language; two for assault; four

Flame-Retardant Finishes Checked

Cotton industry representatives have urged the National Cancer Institute to test flame-retardant finishes for cotton in order to clear the air regarding their alleged potential for causing tumors.

Representatives of the National Cotton Council, Cotton Incorporated, and the USDA's Southern Regional Research Laboratory met with Institute officials after THPC, THPS, and possibly other flame-retardant finishes for cotton were reported to be on the organization's list of chemicals to be tested for carcinogenicity.

The group emphasized that, in order for results to be a valid measure of carcinogenicity to wearers of the treated cotton garments, testing should be done on treated fabrics themselves rather than on the chemical monomers used.

Dr. Leonard Smith of Cotton Incorporated explained that THPS and THPC are only starting chemicals for the cotton-finishing system known as THPOH-ammonia. The finished product contains an insoluble polymer which cannot be removed from the fabric, and is not the same as THPS and THPC.

For this reason, Dr. Smith said testing THPC or THPS for carcinogenicity would have no significance for consumers.

Dr. Phillip Wakelyn of the National Cotton Council observed that the THPC and THPS finishes after polymerization are similar to the so-called inherent fire-retardant fibers such as modacrylics. Pointing out that some of the monomers (vinyl chloride and acrylonitrile) used in the production of modacrylics are known carcinogens, he said fabrics from these fibers would be disqualified for use in apparel if testing is done on the basis of monomers used in their production.

"Monomer testing has no significance as a measure of carcinogenicity to consumers whether the fabric involved is an inherent fire-retardant synthetic or THPC or THPS-treated cotton," Dr. Wakelyn added.

Dr. Mary Carter, head of the Southern Regional Research Center, verified that numerous laboratory attempts to dissolve

Cattle Workshop Set For Teachers

"Feeding, Fitting and Showing Fat Steers and Heifers" is the title of a workshop to be held for high school agricultural education teachers June 23-24 under the auspices of the Texas Tech University Department of Agricultural Education.

Dr. Jerry D. Stockton of the Texas Tech agricultural education faculty is workshop director, and the teachers for the course will be Jerry Adams, vocational agriculture teacher at Abernathy, and Herman Boone, vocational agriculture teacher at Spearman. A portion of the workshop will be held at Abernathy High School because of facilities there, and a portion will be held on the Texas Tech campus.

"There is no bag of tricks to winning at livestock shows," Stockton said. "Work is at least 70 per cent of the difference between winners and losers. The other 30 per cent is know-how."

Within the 30 per cent, he added is the selection of the right animal, nutrition and health care, grooming and showmanship.

These aspects will be reviewed for vocational agriculture teachers during the workshop.

Participants will follow the winner's rules from the time the calf is six to eight months old to the day of the show.

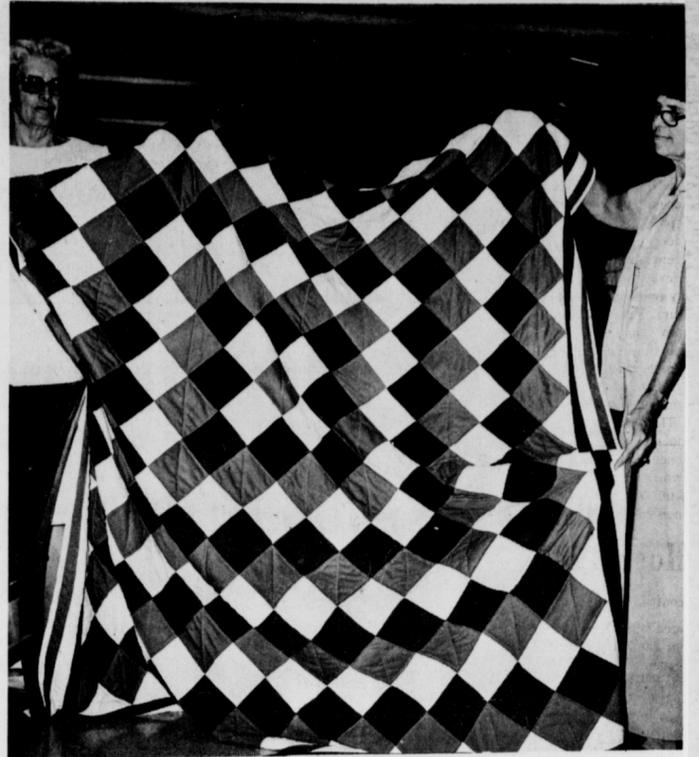

Participants will examine livestock to see the qualities necessary for competition. Discussions will involve starting the animals, their general daily care, facilities, rations and characteristics of feed, parasite and disease control, grooming and showing.

Workshops in subsequent years, Stockton said, will deal with other livestock for show: swine in 1978, sheep in 1979, and cattle again in 1980.

Spring Lightning --A Major Killer

Lightning kills more people in the United States than do tornadoes, floods or hurricanes. And spring is the time when thunderstorms and lightning are generally common over much of Texas. Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offer a few simple rules that could possibly save their lives during an electrical storm.

Lightning seldom kills more than one person at a time.

The first rule is simply to learn to recognize the signs of an oncoming thunderstorm, form which bolts of lightning emanate. Watch for towering "thunderhead" clouds, distant rumbles of thunder and distant flashes of lightning which indicate an approaching storm. Also, heed National Weather Service forecasts and warnings on radio and television to "get in out of the weather."

All experts on lightning agree that, when a thunderstorm threatens, the most important single thing is to get inside a home or large building, or inside an all-metal vehicle. An enclosed car or truck is described as an excellent shelter from lightning, for, if struck, it will allow the current to be discharged harmlessly into the ground.

When inside during an electrical storm, avoid using a telephone, except for emergencies.

If outside, with no time to reach a safe building or an automobile, there is another set of rules to follow, points out Tanksley.

Don't stand under a natural lightning rod, such as a tall, isolated tree in an open area. Also, avoid standing in small isolated sheds or other small structures in open areas.

Equally important is to avoid projecting above the surrounding landscape, such as standing on a hilltop, in an open field, on a beach, or fishing from a small boat.

Get out of and away from open water. If you're swimming, the electrical current from a nearby lightning strike can flow through the water to you.

On the farm, get away from tractors and other metal farm equipment.

Also get away from motorcycles, scooters, golf carts and bicycles. Put down golf clubs. Stay away from wire fences, clotheslines, metal pipes, rails and other metallic paths that could carry the electrical shock from lightning from some distance away.

In a forest, seek shelter in a low area under a thick growth of small trees, but in open areas go to a low place, such as a ravine or valley.

If isolated in an open field, drop to the knees and bend forward, putting the hands on the knees. In this position, if lightning strikes near you, the chances of it using your body as a conductor are minimized. Kneeling provides a low profile while at the same time keeping as small an area of the body in contact with the ground as possible. Lying in a ditch or hollow is discouraged, for surface water or saturated soil is a better conductor of electricity than the surrounding area.

Groups of persons in exposed situations, such as hikers, should spread out--staying several yards apart--so if lightning strikes nearby, the smallest number will be affected, adds Tanksley.

Serving at the hospital Sunday afternoon will be members of the Mule-West Plains Medical Center Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary.

Mrs. Blackwell was lavish with praise for persons who worked several years to obtain the new facility and said the hospital personnel were especially appreciative of the Muleshoe Citizens Committee for the Hospital who worked untiringly to obtain funds for construction of the new hospital.

She said that for the many persons and businesses who contributed funds for the construction, "Come to the hospital Sunday afternoon and see what your money has done."

This will be the only open house for the new facility as patients will be moved into the rooms beginning Monday morning. Also the first surgery in the new surgical complex is expected to be done Monday morning.

General contractor for the construction is Homer Bennett Company of Brownwood, with Walt Price, local superintendent. He expects the renovation of the old hospital into doctor's offices and examining rooms, a new lab, x-ray room, waiting room, pharmacy, record rooms, emergency rooms and storage to be completed before Christmas.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN--The Texas Legislature has taken affirmative action toward getting people off the welfare rolls.

This action came in the form of a bill by Senator Walter Mengden of Houston and sponsored in the House by Rep. Stan Schleuter of Saiaido. The bill was patterned after the federal WIN (Work Incentive Program) which mandates that recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children must either register for work or enroll in job training.

However, this federal program was being administered in only 13 Texas counties--primarily the metropolitan counties. The law enacted by the 65th Legislature expands this program on a statewide basis to cover all 254 counties.

It was determined that currently only about 60 percent of our AFDC recipients were covered by the WIN program, and the remaining 40 percent were not required to seek employment. Under the new law, all AFDC recipients--except for mothers with pre-school age children, persons over 65 years of age, and mothers who are required to be caretakers for a disabled or handicapped individual--would be required to apply for and accept employment.

The program is to be administered jointly by the Department of Public Welfare and the Texas Employment Commission. Participants in this program will be required to accept employment if (1) the pay follows federal guidelines for the minimum wage (2) the place of employment is within a reasonable traveling distance, and (3) the work day falls within reasonable hours.

As defined by this act, "reasonable" has a more flexible interpretation than it does in the federal WIN program guidelines. We believe that this enhanced leeway will enable the Texas Employment Commission and the Department of Public Welfare to work together to move eligible AFDC recipients into job vacancies.

I believe that this legislation answers the cry we have heard from many Texans to get welfare recipients of welfare and into jobs. I believe also that this law follows President Carter's goals which speak to full employment. By moving welfare recipients into the work force, they will be better able to move into the mainstream of our society, off the welfare rolls and beyond the stigma of being tagged a "welfare recipient."

us' she added, noting that although the small community at one time supported two small grocery stores, and a lot of tourist traffic stopped, the bypass sort of closed Lariat off to all except local residents.

The retired postmaster had vivid memories of a former Progress reclus, Josh Blocker, who walked the several miles from Progress to Lariat to the post office because he said he had no use for the people in Muleshoe.

Blocker was murdered in the early '50s, and his two murderers from Amarillo were later convicted to killing the recluse and robbing him. The two men got only a small amount of change from Blocker, and officers dug thousands of dollars from the dirt floor of the shack where the murdered man had lived in the community he founded.

Mrs. Smith was aware that Blocker formerly delivered mail by bicycle in the early 'teens in Bailey County, and that he was bitterly disappointed because he was not allowed to have a post office at Progress, the community he had planned to be the metropolitan area of Bailey County.

Users of the Lariat Post Office will be served by the rural carrier from Farwell and Mrs. Smith will turn the former post office into a combination sewing and painting room.

So ends another era with a small, longtime post office closing down and not being replaced.

Kirk Lewis Wins Award At Workshop

Kirk Lewis, Muleshoe High School vocational agriculture student was named an outstanding student at Southwestern Public Service Company's 17th annual Farm Electrification Workshop held last week at the Episcopal Conference Center in Amarillo.

For his accomplishment, Lewis will receive an expense-paid trip to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City in November this year.

Thirteen hours of instruction were offered during the workshop in each of three subjects, farm motors, farm wiring and electric controls. Two students from the wiring and motor courses and one from the electric controls course were selected as outstanding and received trips to Kansas City.

Vegetable Crop Income in '76 Hit Hard by Wavering Market

AUSTIN--Cash receipts from vegetable crops in Texas dropped $25.7 million below those of the previous year, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown explained that while crop production was at an average level, "the market just didn't hold up to the level of 1975." He noted that prices paid in 1975 were "unusually good."

Vegetable cash values in 1976 totaled $206,871,000. Greatest decline was shown by onions, down $15 million from the previous year. Also hard hit were carrots, down $6 million; cantaloups, down $4 million; tomatoes and sweet potatoes, both down $2 million and watermelons, down $1 million.

Significant gains in cash values were shown by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service for cabbage, up $6 million; cucumbers, up $1.5 million and lettuce, up $1.6 million.

Texas was the fifth leading state in acres harvested in vegetables, with 192,600, preceded by California, Wisconsin, Florida and Minnesota.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN--Recently, we discussed the problems some consumers have had with moving companies that fraudulently increase the load customers are charged for, by adding such things as bricks and steel ingots.

But even when there is no fraud or deception involved, some consumers in the process of moving have ended up paying more to get their belongings to a new location simply because they have failed to plan in advance.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys suggest that you follow some tips from experts to eliminate expensive and time-consuming mistakes when moving household goods.

-Pack your belongings yourself, to save money. Moving companies will charge extra for supplying cartons and for packing your household goods.

-Get estimates from at least three different companies. If one of the estimates is very much lower than the others, be cautious. It may be an instance of "lo-balling," the practice of giving an unrealistically low estimate in order to get your business. Remember that the moving company is not bound by its estimate. Instead, the actual weight of your shipment and the distance it will travel determine the amount you must pay.

-Learn how the weight of your load is figured. The weight of the moving van (sometimes including some previously loaded goods) is the tare weight. When your shipment is loaded, the van is weighed again, producing the gross weight. The net weight, or actual weight of your goods, is the difference between the gross and the tare weights, and it is the weight you will be charged for. If you question the amount, you can request a re-weighing in your presence. If there is no significant difference in the two weights, you will be charged for the re-weighing.

-The shipper will inventory your goods, but you should carefully check to see that you agree on the description of them. For instance, if a "table" is listed, you will want to see that it is more accurately described as "mahogany library table, English, 1840."

-Plan to pay cash on delivery of the load, unless you have arranged credit in advance with the mover. Most will also accept certified checks, money orders, traveler's checks, or cashier's checks.

-You should almost always buy additional insurance on your goods, even though the company will pay a certain amount per pound of your load, if it is lost or damaged. This amount is seldom enough to cover loss fully, and full protection is well worth the slight extra cost for additional insurance.

area with a rotary chart holder for additional ease in access of patient records.

Ivac electronic thermometers will be in use and only regular patients who can have visitors will be in the regular patient rooms. Limited access will be allowed in the isolation room at the hospital. The special room for suspect or confirmed communicable disease, has a special entry with sterilized clothing and wash-up facilities.

For the regular patients, strict visitors hours will be enforced, emphasized Mrs. Blackwell. Visitor hours will be from 2-4 and 6-8 p.m. each day with no children under the age of 14 years allowed in the patient area.

Visitors today will see the all-new sparkling kitchen facilities. Included are special dish sterilization rooms and a large walk-in freezer and vegetable steamer. New dishes and trays have been purchased for the hospital along with the new convection oven.

In the x-ray department, a new x-ray will be added and shown. It will be used in conjunction with the x-ray already in the hospital and is designed to use less time than the present x-ray. To be constructed will be a large x-ray waiting room to eliminate patient's waiting in the hallways as in the past.

New equipment has been purchased for the lab and will be installed when that portion of the renovation is complete.

Mrs. Blackwell said the room rate will continue at the present rates, and no increase is anticipated at this time. The present rates are $55 for a semi-private and $60 for a private room. However, additional charges will be made for ICU-CCU. Patients in that unit will be billed at $125 per day. This figure is less than half what is charged for the same type units in the larger hospitals.

Serving at the hospital Sunday afternoon will be members of the Mule-West Plains Medical Center Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary.

Mrs. Blackwell was lavish with praise for persons who worked several years to obtain the new facility and said the hospital personnel were especially appreciative of the Muleshoe Citizens Committee for the Hospital who worked untiringly to obtain funds for construction of the new hospital.

This will be the only open house for the new facility as patients will be moved into the rooms beginning Monday morning. Also the first surgery in the new surgical complex is expected to be done Monday morning.

MRS. BOYD REX BLACK

Miss St. Clair Bride Of Boyd Rex Black

United in marriage in an evening ceremony, June 11, at the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe, vows were taken by Miss Brenda Leigh St. Clair and Boyd Rex Black. The Rev. Glenn Harlin, First Baptist Church of Plains, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jim St. Clair and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Black, all of Muleshoe.

Cathedral candelabums and spirals of ivory candles and pittisporium were centered with an arrangement of enchantment lillies, peach carnations, apricot gladiolas, sonya roses and gypsophyllia at the altar. Pittisporium was used on the choir rail and pew markers.

Mrs. Gordon Green, soloist, presented the music selections accompanied by Mrs. David Saylor at the organ, of "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lords Prayer".

Registering guests were Miss Jenny Milburn and Mrs. Eddie Wilson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a conventional gown of white organza, fashioned with a high Victorian neckline edged in scalloped chantilly lace outlined with seed pearls. The empire bodice had a see-thru V-yoke with lace motifs and seed pearls. The short bell sleeves and the A-line skirt flowing into a chapel length train were both trimmed with wide bands of lace and seed pearls. The skirt was encircled with lace.

Completing the ensemble, the Juliet headpiece was of matching chantilly lace, holding double tiers of illusion with motifs and lace edges.

The bride carried "Tiffany", a nosegay of tropicanna and sonya roses, creme white, and peach Gerber daisies, with Frenched peach carnations and gypsophyllia.

Attending as maid of honor was Miss Janis St. Clair, Emporia, Kansas, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Clifford Black, Muleshoe, sister of the bride, Mrs. Jimmy Winn, San Angelo, Miss Glenda Harlin, Plains, and Miss Terri Crane, Denton.

The attendants were dressed in formal length gowns of apricot floral voile over soft peach taffeta, styled, fitted waistlines and halter tops under balero jackets with butterfly sleeves. They wore single silk roses in their hair and carried a long stemmed sonya rose.

The flower girls were Tammye Jones and Edi Black. They wore floor length dresses of apricot crepe with butterfly sleeves. They carried miniature baskets of baby roses, daisies, miniature carnations and gypsophyllia. These were accented with ivory tubing and sonya satin bows and love knots.

The ringbearer, Cooper Black, nephew of the bride, dressed in a ginger tux, carried double rings on a candlelight pillow of satin and Normandy lace. His boutonniere was a miniature rose.

Miss Cindy Black and Miss Starla Black served as candlelighters.

Ricky Black, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsman were Kim Black, brother of the groom, of Muleshoe, Mike Morris, Kelly St. Clair, Muleshoe, cousin of the bride, Tommy St. Clair, Muleshoe, brother of the bride. Ushers were Clifford Black of Muleshoe, brother-in-law of the bride, Johnny St. Clair of Muleshoe, cousin of the bride, Eddie Waggoner of Muleshoe, nephew of the groom, and Gene Rogers of Muleshoe, nephew of the groom.

The men wore tuxedos of ginger with ginger shirts, brown vests and brown bow ties with tropicanna rose boutonniere.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of mist green chiffon. She wore a gardenia in her hair.

The groom's mother wore a formal length cinnamon chiffon dress. She wore a gardenia corsage.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. The bride's table was covered with a finely woven fabric with Normandy lace bordering the cloth and corners of the table top. The hand made cloth had cluster of candlelight wedding bells edged with antique pearls, and spaghetti satin bows with swags bordering the table top and skirt of the cloth. With the silver appointments, an arrangement of enchantment lillies, sonya roses and Gerber daisies in a silver candelabra was companion to the four tiered traditional white wedding cake. The bride's selection of flowers were used atop the cake flowing throughout the columns. The cake nestled in greenery with cluster flowers highlighted. Rice bags were handed out by Lisa Black, Kristine Miller and Leshille Black.

The groom's table was covered with an eggshell linen and lace trimmed cloth. Coffee was served from silver appointments. An arrangement of sonya and tropicanna roses in hand cut crystal was used for the centerpiece.

Serving were Jana Garrett, Ginger Johnson, Lavern Carpenter, and Jan Harlin. In the houseparty were Mrs. Johnny St. Clair, Mrs. Mike Miller, Mrs. David Saylor, Miss Jana Bruns, Mrs. Herb Griffiths and Mrs. Eugene Black.

Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Cooper of Andrews, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Irvin St. Clair, uncle of the bride, were honored guests. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jones and Tammye of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Black, Terri and Andy of Plainview; Mr. and Mrs. Tyndal Black, Kevin, Michelle and Vina, Mr. and Mrs. James McCain of Odessa; Mrs. Eddie Wilson of Cheyenne Wells, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Winn of San Angelo.

For travel, the bride chose an apricot Polygals tailored pant suit. Her going-away corsage was a gardenia worn in her hair. The couple will be travelling to Steam Boat Springs, Colo., and will reside in Friona upon their return.

Miss St. Clair is a graduate of Muleshoe High School and is presently attending West Texas State University as a senior Physical Education major. The groom is engaged in farming and ranching in the Muleshoe area.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held in the home of Mrs. Irvin St. Clair Friday, June 10. The rehearsal dinner was given in the XII Steakhouse Friday evening, June 10.

Tick Population To Increase Screwworm

Favorable moisture conditions in the Gulf Coast and southwestern portions of Texas have prompted predictions of one of the highest Gulf Coast ear tick populations in years, according to a top research entomologist in Texas.

The Gulf Coast tick has become an increasing problem for cattlemen in the last few years. The adult ticks attack the ears of cattle causing swelling and cracking of the skin. These wounds are a favorite egg-laying site for screwworm flies. Screwworm larvae feed on the ear and in extreme cases can eventually kill the animal, say entomologists.

"All indications are we're going to have a tremendous (Gulf Coast) tick population this year," says E.H. Ahrens, research entomologist with the USDA Screwworm Eradication Laboratory, Mission, Texas. Ahrens explains that due to the cold winter, there are fewer reports of actual screwworm infestations than last year. However, he adds, the tick population will be "one of the highest of the last few years."

"The cold just doesn't affect the tick as much," Ahrens notes. "We've already seen calves that have as many as nine males (ticks) per ear."

Another reason for the growing concern over the Gulf Coast tick problem is the inland spread of both tick and screwworm infestations.

In the past, the tick usually was associated with the more humid Gulf Coast region. But recently, Ahrens says, reports of infestations have come from ranches 300 miles inland in Texas as well as Northeast Oklahoma and Southwest Kansas. Ahrens and others attribute this spread in part to migrating birds where tick larvae are often found, and the possibility of a new strain of tick capable of surviving in less humid conditions.

The Gulf Coast ear tick, in itself, is not so much a problem as is its association with the potentially deadly screwworm fly.

Tests conducted in south Texas last year showed that 90 percent of the screwworm infestation in cattle ears was a direct result of wounds caused by the Gulf Coast tick, according to Ahrens.

"Screwworm flies have a five- to six-day larval period and are constantly laying eggs," explains Texas Agricultural Extension Entomologist Mike McWhorter. "And it's highly possible-if conditions are right-that within three to five days an animal could become so severely infested it could be down and severely damaged."

Last year, entomologists tested various products to combat this problem. Plastic ear tags, impregnated with insecticide, were found to be the most effective method of controlling these ticks on the tested cattle.

There was no screwworm infestation reported among the cattle with ear tags, Ahrens said, while the cattle without tags showed a 50 percent incidence of one or more screwworm cases. The tests also concluded that Shell Animal Health's Rabon Ear Tags, which were given special clearance for use in Texas were the most effective device in controlling the ticks.

McWhorter says an important result of the tests was that the ear tags held their effectiveness during the entire three-month summer period when ticks are most active.

Other methods were also used, including asphalt-based aerosol sprays, specially-treated neck bands and grease-based formulas. None was as effective as the ear tags, these tests showed.

The spread of the Gulf Coast tick, Ahrens concludes, "has allowed the screwworm population to build to tremendous numbers. We feel we are going to have to control the Gulf Coast tick if we're ever to eradicate the screwworm."

Barbecues Need Good Ventilation For More Safety

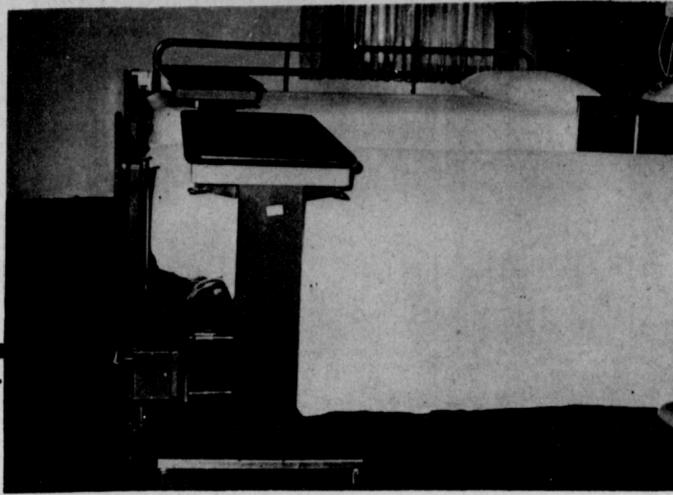

Where do you put the grill when an outdoor barbecue is interrupted by rain?

Leave it where it is and bring the food inside, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The temptation to pull the barbecue grill inside a garage or other enclosed area may be strong. However, remember that any fire, especially a charcoal fire, produces carbon monoxide gas in sufficient quantity to quietly overcome or even kill the occupants of a small, unventilated area.

There have even been cases where carbon monoxide drifted inside homes from barbecue grills used inside attached garages and other structures.

So for safety's sake, barbecue in an open area where there is plenty of ventilation, suggests the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

SEMI-PRIVATE ROOMS LARGE, CONVENIENT...The new hospital featured large, carpeted, semi-private rooms for ease in handling patients, and more privacy for the hospitalized individual. Cubicle curtains will divide the room with each bed having its own telephone and light controls. Electric beds are featured in all patient rooms in the new facility.

Desk Sitter Slump Strikes

"Desk sitter's slump" is a problem that attacks thousands of office workers, making them feel tired, tense and inefficient. This common disease also can open the way for a whole host of problems including heart attacks and obesity, the Texas Medical Association says.

Basically desk sitter's slump is caused by hours of office work with little variety or exercise. At work a person's mind might be doing mental push-ups but the body often just sits and sags. In fact, many office workers spend 14 1/2 of the 16 daily waking hours sitting.

All that immobility makes endurance drop, fat grow and tension rise. One answer is exercise.

A Canadian physical fitness group developed 14 exercises that both men and women of all fitness levels and ages can do easily right in the office. These exercises will not get someone in shape for the Olympics but they can help fight off desk sitter's slump.

One exercise designed to tone waist muscles and relieve lower back tension is the seated torso twist. While sitting, raise elbows to shoulder height and twist as far to the right and then to the left as possible. Repeat until you have done the exercise 10 times on each side.

Two even simpler exercises are designed to relieve neck and shoulder tension. One involves rolling the head slowly in a circle while seated. Reverse the direction and repeat about six times in each direction at a slow, easy pace. Another tension reducer is to sit upright and breathe in while shrugging shoulders up for a few seconds. Then exhale and relax, holding that position for a few seconds. Repeat about six times.

An exercise to help hip and thigh muscles is the knees press. Sit forward on a chair with feet and knees close together. Breathe in and press knees tightly together for three-five seconds. Exhale and let knees relax. Do this exercise about six times.

A stomach exercise is to sit with hands on knees and breathe out while pulling stomach muscles in and up as far as possible. Hold this position for about five seconds and then breathe in while relaxing muscles. Start at about six repetitions daily and build up to at least 10-12 daily.

All the exercises can be increased as time and strength permit. These, or other, exercises should be done several times a week. Some of the exercises mentioned are isometric movements which can increase circulation, endurance and muscle tone but do little to increase muscle size. Isometric exercises generally make muscle groups exercise against each other with little actual movement. Many good exercise books are available on isometrics and other exercises. Sometimes doing a little exercise several times a day is the answer for hurried, hurried workers.

Tracing Your Own Roots

Tracing one's roots is America's fastest growing hobby. It has all the elements of a tantalizing mystery: puzzling clues, secret byways, sudden revelations, and fun all the way! And the goal is to answer those twin questions: "Who am I?" and "Where did I come from?"

By following a few guidelines, most beginners can make instant progress. To help them, Trailways has produced a colorful "Trace Your Routes" folder containing useful tips, all part of its summertime "Going Home Special" fare, which features a one-way ticket anywhere in the continental United States for only $75, with children under five riding free. Here are some of those tips:

1. Talk to all your relatives, and let them talk about their earliest recollections and family activities.
2. Examine all old letters and postcards, checking for names, facts and places. Keep a log of all findings.
3. After you have checked back a few generations, look for family names in the 1880 Federal Census, which listed every person.
4. From the Office of Vital Records, get all family birth and death records, as far back as available. Check grave-stones for further names and dates. Search out pertinent obituaries in old newspapers, which provide much information.
5. Courthouse records, state archives and genealogical collections are goldmines of family information. Examine wills, veterans records, tax records, manuscript collections - they tell fascinating stories.

And you have only just begun to trace your roots. There are more guidelines in the Trailways folder, as well as a chart for mapping your family tree, designed by leading genealogist Wilbur Helmbold. The folder is free to purchasers of the $75 "Going Home Special" ticket. Tickets may be purchased from now until September 15th, and used now until September 30th.

So have fun tracing your roots enroute home this summer.

RECIPE

By Sarah Ann Sheridan

Meat loaf is a good budget extender and can be served once a week.

Meat Loaf

- 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef round
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 T minced onion salt
- 1/8 t pepper
- 1 10 1/2 oz. can condensed Cheddar-cheese soup
- 3 t milk
- 2 c fresh bread crumbs
- 1/2 c chopped celery
- 1/4 c chopped dill pickle

About 1 1/2 hours before serving: In medium bowl, combine meat, egg, onion, 1/4 teaspoon salt and pepper. Dilute soup with milk; add 1/2 c of this to meat mixture. Mix well. On large piece of waxed paper, lightly pat meat mixture into rectangle about 14" by 9". In bowl, mix bread crumbs, celery, pickle and 1/2 teaspoon salt; sprinkle over meat, leaving 1-inch border.

Starting at narrow end of meat, roll it up, jelly-roll fashion; gently press ends of roll to seal; place seam-side down, in 10" by 6" by 2" baking dish. Bake 50 minutes at 375 degrees. Pour remaining cheese soup over loaf; continue baking until sauce is hot.

SOWING AND REAPING:-Galatians 6:7-10 "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not. As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith."-The fifth chapter of Galatians is devoted to a description of the works of the flesh and the fruit of the Spirit (This is not fruits - it is just one kind of fruit). Verses 17-21 tell us that "...the flesh lusteth against the Spirit and the Spirit against the flesh-and the works of the flesh are manifest in adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, and revelling." And then he adds a postscript: "...I have told you before and I tell you again, any person who is guilty of these things shall not inherit the Kingdom of God." This puts the responsibility squarely on the shoulders of the individual. But the fruit of the Spirit is the outcome of the energy of the indwelling Spirit, and "...against such there is no law." Strangely enough Paul does not mention Social Standing, Financial Status or Community Reputation. These are good in their place - but these are not the foundations upon which our eternal security comes to rest. Now in Chapter six Paul speaks of sowing to the flesh and sowing to the Spirit. It is possible he says to sow either to the one or to the other. "...But be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." These verses may be briefly outlined as (1) Man has a great responsibility - "...whatsoever a man soweth." (2) He operates under an unchanging law - "...that shall he also reap." (3) He is reminded of an unalterable fact - "...God is not mocked." (4) And God issues to him a solemn warning - "...be not deceived."

WHAT IS MAN'S RESPONSIBILITY? We must remember that man is a free agent - that is to say a free-moral being - and as such he may choose to invest his life in whatever facets of life he desires. He can choose his own way. But this in itself increases his responsibility. Thus making his morally and Spiritually accountable unto God. Therefore man is liable under the law - especially the law of God. Man is not only answerable and amenable unto God and to God's law - but when we look these words up in the dictionary - Mr. Webster says: "...God holds man accountable and will reckon with him on the basis of his deeds and acts." "...if a man sows to the flesh he shall of the flesh reap corruption; but if he sows to the Spirit, he shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." It is a simple as that.

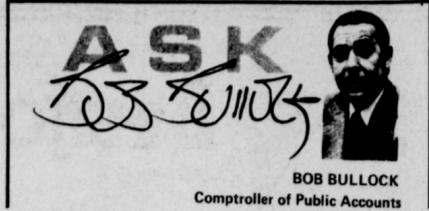

WHAT IS THE UNCHANGING LAW UNDER WHICH HE OPERATES? - "...whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Your harvest and mine will not be according to how much we know, but how much we sow. It will not be on the condition of what the world thinks I am, but on the basis of the kind of seed that I have planted. Paul talks about two kinds of soil in which we may sow our seed. And when we sow rotten seed in poison soil - we can expect to reap corruption and judgment from God. You can count on it. Suppose someone asks: "...how does one sow to the flesh?" If your carnal appetites, and your lusts demand and command your life above the Will-of-God - then you are sowing to the flesh. When we harbor hate, sow discord among the brethren, display our wrath unjustly, create strife, become an adulterer or a fornicator, lie, cheat, steal, gossip, and because of jealousy strive to equal or excel another at his expense - then we are sowing to the flesh. One does not have to break all the laws of God - break just one of them and God says you are a sinner in His sight.

WHAT IS THE SOLEMN WARNING AND UNALTERABLE FACT PAUL TALKED ABOUT? -In verse seven we read: "...be not deceived; God is not mocked." No one would be so stupid as to think that he could gather grapes from a thorn bush - or figs from the stalk of a thistle. Yet he will desperately try to deceive himself into believing that he can gather the fruit of the Spirit from the works of the flesh. Matthew 7:17-18 says that the Spirit is good and does not and cannot bring forth evil fruit. Even if it wanted to do it - which it doesn't. And James 3:18 says: "...the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace by them who are the makers of peace." Therefore brethren, do not deceive yourselves - God will not be put of silence by Man's mockery, indifference and unbelief. This matter of sowing and reaping is an eternal law - and though a man live for a thousand years - he could never produce Spiritual living out of a Carnal Nature. The unrenewed man cannot bring forth the fruit of a New Creature any more than we can put our trust in appearances and be guided by our feelings.

PAUL CLOSES THIS STRUGGLE OF FLESH AND SPIRIT WITH A WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT: "...be not weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap if we faint not." But this is not all of the condition: Listen again as Paul says: "...as we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men especially to them who are of the household of faith." This is an ultimatum and a warning to that person who thinks that he is saved and living a good christian life. There is a great need for these encouraging words in these conflicting days through which we are passing today. Many are discouraged and become weary looking for fruit of the labours. As they find little or none - they want to give up and quit. But if we will seek more earnestly for the fruit of the Spirit, and allow him to be more manifest in our lives day by day - God will look after the fruit of our labours. For God says in John 15:55 "...I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth or (Liveth) in Me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without Me ye can do nothing." The things that we do may look good to us - they may even look good to others - It may even sound good - and we may be deceived into thinking it is good - But God says: "...I will not credit your account with it - therefore it goes for nothing."

A dollar sign has been described as a capital S which has been double-crossed.

DEAR MR. BULLOCK:
A friend of mine was bragging recently about getting his cigarettes at a premium price by ordering them by mail from states that have lower cigarette taxes than Texas' 18 and one-half cents per pack.
I'd like to order some myself, but I want to be sure that there aren't any hitches. Are there?
You bet there are. And your friend is going to find out that those "cheap" cigarettes he's been buying aren't so cheap after all.
Firms that ship cigarettes into Texas are required by federal law to notify my office of each shipment.
State law requires me to bill the purchaser for the state's $1.85 per carton tax, plus an additional $1.85 per carton for failing to pay the state tax at the time of the purchase.
So instead of avoiding the Texas tax, your friend and others like him may end up paying double the state tax for their smokes.
DEAR BOB:

Are newspapers taxable?
Newspapers are now subject to the state and local sales tax-but they won't be for long. A bill approved by the legislature and signed by the governor exempts newspaper and magazine sales from the tax effective August 29.
In fact, I recommended passage of that bill. The tax was a headache for everyone involved and was actually costing as much, if not more, to administer, than it was bringing into the state coffers.
SIR:
If I buy merchandise which is subject to the sales tax and the seller does not collect the tax, am I still liable for it?
Yes. The sales tax law allows the seller to collect the tax from the customer by filing suit if necessary-the same manner that he would collect the purchase price if it were not paid.
In other words, the seller can bill you for the tax after the sale. Furthermore, the state is authorized to proceed against the buyer for any tax which should have been paid but wasn't.

OUTMODDED EQUIPMENT

This young man certainly won't get much real cleaning done with this broom. A modern street cleaning machine would do the job so much better. His straw broom makes us think of how we try to get along without God, without spiritual values, without church. Our life would be so much better if we would exchange this life for one that knows God and practices His precepts. Without church and God we have little or no spiritual equipment. Hearing God's word preached, being with his people, working in His church, helping others through the church all give us the spiritual equipment we need for meeting life. We invite you to attend this week and make a habit of coming to God's house.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Two Items Remain Stable In Texas Market Basket Survey

AUSTIN—If you served pinto beans and fried chicken in the month of May, you were a wise Texas shopper since the staples were two of only a few which didn't go up in price in the monthly market basket surveyed by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Twelve Texas cities included in the survey registered a statewide average of $20.21 for 20 commonly-purchased items, some 32 cents above a month earlier, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today.

He added, however, that "18 cents, or more than half of the average increase, can be attributed to continuing rises in the price of coffee."

Every city surveyed experienced some increase, with Austin's total of seven cents the lowest rise while El Paso's price of 94 cents the highest monthly jump, Brown explained.

"In the coming weeks, wholesalers will be switching from Mexican and Californian fresh vegetables as Texas' homegrown supplies become increasingly available for market," Brown said. "We should begin to see a leveling off of prices for vegetables. Tomatoes, in fact, dropped in the survey this month by five cents a pound."

"But while seasonal fluctuations and other food cycles will always be with us, I think it's time that we begin to realize that food is no longer cheap and will not miraculously become cheap again."

Remarking that "we spend more time buying just about any other consumer item than we do in our purchases of food," Brown advised, "shop around for food as carefully as you do for any other purchase."

San Antonio once again led the cities with the lowest market tag of $19.21, 19 cents above April, while McAllen/Edinburg's hike of 39 cents again gave them the highest price of $21.06.

Other Texas cities, with their April totals in comparison to increases in May include: Austin, $19.30 to $19.37; Laredo, $19.49 to $19.67; Lubbock, $19.66 to $19.97; Abilene, $19.85 to $20.21; Fort Worth, $19.95 to $20.23; Tyler, $19.96 to $20.29; Dallas $20.01 to $20.31; El Paso $19.48 to $20.42; Houston, $20.15 to $20.70; and Corpus Christi, $20.60 to $20.99.

Food items included in the survey are also shown, with their May average price quoted first in comparison to a month earlier: one gallon one-half per cent low fat milk, $1.41 to $1.39; one gallon whole homogenized Vitamin D milk, $1.65 to $1.64; one dozen grade A eggs, $.70 to $.78; 12 ounce individually wrapped package American cheese singles, $1.32 to $1.30; one pound margarine, $.55 to $.54; and 24 ounce loaf white sandwich bread, $.41 to $.42.

Also, one pound whole fryer chicken, $.53 both months; one pound regular ground beef, $.80 to $.78; one pound grain fed round steak with bone, $1.52 to $1.44; one pound family pack pork chops, $1.23 to $1.17; 6 1/2 ounce can light chunk tuna, $.69 both months; one pound bacon, $1.25 to $1.23; and one pound Red Delicious apples, $.50 to $.48.

New Hospital Law Will Save Millions

Over $14 million annually will be saved by hospitals and nursing homes across the state as a result of H.B. 2115. Governor Briscoe signed the bill into law today (Friday).

These savings will be a result of the consolidation and non-duplication of inspections and surveys now being separately conducted by some ten state agencies.

Representatives Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad introduced this legislation and steered it through both the House and Senate. It passed both houses without a single dissenting vote.

Von Dohlen said, "This legislation is a prime example of the ability of state government to conduct its business a great deal more efficiently. Currently, some hospitals and nursing homes are subjected to over 50 inspections or surveys a year by various agencies of state government. Many of these inspections are seeking information that another state agency already has on file."

O. Ray Hurst, President, Texas Hospital Association (THA) said, "The over two million patients that use our hospitals annually as well as the taxpayers of our state will be the ultimate winners because of this legislation. After all, they are the ones that must pay the bills for this unwarranted duplication of inspections or surveys that seem to increase each year."

Hurst went on to say, "President Carter wants to put limitations on the rising cost of health care. If he is really serious about this he could suggest to Congress similar legislation to eliminate duplication of inspections and surveys by federal agencies. This type of action at the federal level would save taxpayers and patients hundreds of millions of dollars each year."

THA is the Austin based trade association for over 690 hospitals and health-care facilities across the state.

The Scientists Tell Me... Scientists Are Selecting High Lysine Sorghum by SEM Method

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Did you know that you must ingest a certain amount of lysine in your diet to survive?

Lysine is the first limiting amino acid in cereal grains. It is essential for good nutrition as well as growth and development in human and animals.

Since lysine is so important to nutrition, scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES), have for several years been selecting cereals with higher levels of essential amino acids to improve protein quality.

Amino acids are important because they are the 'building blocks of protein,' a basic structural component of body tissue, explains Don Sullins, cereal chemist with the Experiment Station.

The significance of all this becomes apparent when one considers that sorghum — the fourth leading grain crop in the world — is consumed mainly as human food. It is the third leading grain crop in the United States and the No. 1 grain crop in Texas, where most of it is exported or fed to livestock.

But human malnutrition in areas of the world where cereals are the staple diet and necessary supplementation in livestock rations make it obvious that the protein quality of the grain crops must be improved.

Texas scientists have discovered a method that allows them to select for high lysine in grain sorghum with improved kernel characteristics and grain quality. For some time now, researchers have known about high lysine genes in sorghum, corn and barley that could significantly increase the lysine content of the grains.

Unfortunately, however, these types of grains have been associated with abnormal kernel characteristics such as floury endosperm, reduced kernel weight and sometimes an unusual dented shape. Thus, in their present condition, high lysine cereal crops are of limited value for commercial production.

According to Sullins, if 10 percent of the sorghum crop produced in the U.S. (5,012 million pounds) was considered for lysine production, normal grain with current levels of lysine would produce approximately 13 million pounds of lysine.

If commercial high-lysine sorghum with comparable yield were available and had only a 50 percent improvement in lysine, the same 10 percent of total U.S. production would yield 19.5 million pounds of lysine. This would be an increase of 6.5 million pounds at an added value of $8.1 million at today's prices of lysine at $1.25 a pound.

"This value could be translated into improved livestock feeding as well as the humanitarian aspects of improved protein quality to help eliminate malnutrition throughout the world," Sullins adds.

A major difficulty in developing acceptable high-lysine cereal plants has been identifying high-lysine kernels which have been modified to normal-appearing kernels. Chemical analysis for lysine generally requires several grams of sample and the analysis is destructive to the seed.

An alternative approach developed in the Cereal Quality Lab of the Experiment Station at Texas A&M University is the selection of high lysine kernels based on differences in protein structures by Scanning Electron Microscopy (SEM).

Sorghum kernels with high lysine levels have far fewer alcohol soluble protein bodies than kernels with normal lysine levels. Screening by SEM is a non-destructive, inexpensive, rapid method that allows individual seed selection during early stages of the testing program. Thus, selected kernels may be saved for planting.

Using this method, a high-lysine floury endosperm line was crossed with a normal line that had desirable agronomic characteristics. The top halves of over 1600 cornucous kernels from the high-lysine cross were examined by SEM and three were found to be essentially free of protein bodies.

The embryo portions were planted for germination. Two of the three germinated and they were transplanted to the greenhouse. At maturity, the greenhouse seed was harvested and sent to the Experiment Station at Lubbock and Weslaco for seed increase to obtain enough grain for chemical analysis.

After harvesting the greenhouse-produced seed, the two plants were transplanted to the field at College Station for production of field seed for SEM analysis. One plant produced a head of sound grain. Preliminary microscopic examination indicated the production of plump, cornucous kernels with a similar reduction in protein body concentration and size in comparison with the original half kernel.

SEM results from the second generation of grain indicate progress is being made toward selecting for cornucous, high-lysine sorghums by screening for reduced concentration of protein bodies. It will take several generations before enough grain of the selected high-lysine kernels can be produced for chemical analysis to determine how much improvement in lysine content is occurring.

"Nevertheless, we feel that SEM gives us a useful technique for selection of improved protein quality at early stages of seed production. Improved protein quality is associated with changes in kernel structure which can be screened without having to destroy the germ of the grain.

"Success in improving the lysine content of sorghum as well as kernel characteristic could result in improved human and animal nutrition wherever the grain is produced," Sullins concludes.

Certificates of deposit — called CDs — are much like a regular savings account in that they, too, are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC). The CDs, like savings accounts, are insured up to $40,000 by the government-sponsored agency.

More important, there are no uncertainties when money is invested in a bank CD. There are a number of ways that the average investor can get into the money markets, but all of them entail some degree of risk. There are no risks in CDs.

All so-called mutual funds, even those that invest in short term Treasury bills, have some sort of transaction costs involved, but with bank CDs there are no added charges. And, while it may take many days to liquidate a fund, CD money is available on demand at the bank, subject to penalty if there is an early withdrawal — before the maturity date of the CD.

Thus, a bank Certificate of Deposit can be an attractive investment on both a short or long term basis.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

Austin—Unless you are in business for yourself, you probably haven't had the opportunity to visit personally with any of the more than 2,000 employees of the State Comptroller's Office.

And that's unfortunate because I believe we have the most talented, dedicated and hardest working public employees in state government.

Where do we get our employees and how are they selected?

I must get a dozen letters a week from job hunters asking those questions. I want to tell you a little about our recruitment program, which has become a model for other agencies.

Although we are one of the larger agencies in state government with 2,000-plus employees, our turnover rate is among the lowest—which means we don't have a lot of openings.

And the competition for the vacancies is keen. When a Clerk position opened recently in one of our audit offices, we had 270 applicants for the job.

The rash of applications—more than 10,400 have been filed with our Personnel Office since Jan. 1, 1976—has been a mixed blessing for the Department.

On the positive side, it's meant that we have a large reservoir of talent from which to choose, allowing us to select highly qualified and motivated personnel. But it has placed a heavy responsibility on our Personnel Department, which processes and screens the applicants.

It's no secret that many Texans feel that who you know is more important than what you know in landing a state job. We are doing everything in our power to prove that cynical myth wrong. I think we are succeeding.

After taking office in January, 1975, I ordered all vacancies to be publicly posted ed across the state—to give as many people as possible an equal shot at the jobs. Those vacancies are now posted in 300 locations.

In an average month, some 230 applications are funneled to Personnel from our audit and enforcement offices across Texas. Another 300 job seekers apply directly to our Austin Office.

At the close of a posting, a list is compiled of all those applying directly for the job in question, as well as the names of applicants in the files meeting the necessary qualifications.

The list is sent to the division director for review. In many cases, the director personally interviews several of the most qualified applicants before making a choice.

The name of the applicant chosen by the director is then sent to our Equal Employment Opportunity Section for review. This is a very important step, for EEO is the key element in our program to insure equal employment opportunities for all.

Working voluntarily with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, we have been the pace-setter in breaking down the barriers of racial prejudice in state hiring.

Before January, 1975, only a handful of minorities held jobs in this department. In the past two years we have placed special emphasis on the upward mobility and hiring of minorities.

Although still short of our goals, we have made significant headway in equal employment opportunities in the past 28 months. And we're going to do an even better job in the future.

I am proud of our recruitment efforts, and I think all Texans should be. The better our people, the better job we can do for our employers, the taxpayers of Texas.

LAKE RESTRICTIONS LIFTED

A three year waiting period has finally ended as lake Mackenzie near Silverton received a substantial raise in water during the recent rainy period.

"The lake has received a 39.9 foot raise and most of it came in one day," said Jim Green, lake manager.

"We finally have enough water to use the boat ramp," Green continued.

The lake rules have been changed to allow all boats except house boats on the lake. All Texas rules and regulations concerning water safety and fishing license requirements are in full force at the lake.

One new lake regulation surpasses the state law as all boaters and skiers will be required to wear their personal flotation devices at all times while underway on the lake. (state law requires these life preservers be available for each crew member and skier).

Fishing opportunities for largemouth bass, channel catfish and walleye should improve as the water clears from the runoff. Future fishing prospects will include smallmouth bass which were stocked prior to the influx of water.

Camping, hiking, picnicking and all water-related sports are in full swing at the newly-filled lake.

More information about daily or seasonal permits and other outdoor activities is available by writing Lake Mackenzie, Rt. 1 Box 14, Silverton, Tx. 79257 or by phoning (806) 633-4318.

WAS IT WORTH THE CHANCE

Texas game wardens were busy in May in northwest Texas as over 478 water safety and fishing cases were taken to court.

"Wardens in region VI which includes Amarillo, Abilene and Lubbock, contacted 15,704 persons during May and approximately three percent of them were in violation of one or more of our department's rules and regulations," said Ted Wheelis, regional director of law enforcement.

"Fishing violations lead the list over water safety but we still had a fatality from a boating accident," Wheelis continued.

The most flagrant violation was fishing without a license as 281 cases were taken to court. Wardens working the lakes heard every excuse in the book from "I left the license at home" to "I could not find a place to buy one."

The number of fishing licenses sold in Texas is down this year and indications suggest anglers are going fishing hoping they will not be checked by a warden.

Texas has one of the lowest-priced fishing licenses in the United States but, it is apparent the first item left off the list for the vacation or trip is that $4.25 piece of paper. A newly purchased license will not expire until Aug. 31, 1978.

Court fines vary from $10 to $200 for each infraction of the regulation and most embarrasssed anglers have been paying a $27.50 fine.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is still puzzled as fishing license sales continue a downward swing. More fish, new lakes, and professional services to pond and lake owners continue to come from the P&WD but, the angler has apparently failed to notice these benefits.

It is hoped by the P&WD that both water safety and fishing violations will drop but so far, it has not happened this year.

On Wall Street

By Bob Hill

The Federal Trade Commission is now planning a strong attack on advertising that far surpasses anything that Washington regulators have tried before. The FTC is going all out against promotional campaigns, even those which do not misrepresent, if they encourage shoppers to make unwise buying decisions.

It is a difficult question, for instance, whether children are a proper target for advertising at all. If they are not a proper target, then any commercials aimed at children could be labeled unfair. There is even a possible case against any sales promotion that encourages "Materialism" by trying to get consumers to buy things they otherwise would not.

Another area of prime concern at the FTC is energy. Lots of ads encourage consumers to waste the very resources that the Carter administration is trying to get to conserve. The FTC points out that there are a large number of ads for electric hair dryers. It believes that it is unfair that there is no opportunity for someone to say that if you wait 15 minutes, your hair gets dry anyway. Another question at the FTC has to do with obesity. Is the problem of overweight among low-income women because they are particularly bombarded with ads for calorie-heavy foods?

The commission has already begun probing how cigarette companies use consumer research to focus their promotional spending, and how food and drug advertising could be made to conform to precise rules about health claims.

All of these ideas tend to be radical for the FTC. Even getting less controversial ideas into the workable FTC order is a tough job. The commission recently voted to drop a top priority program: a ban on all TV ads promoting premiums to children. The commissioners decided that diverting a child's attention from the qualities of products being advertised to a flashy "free" gift was not lawful.

If the FTC decides to move into some of the gray areas under consideration, there would be an immediate court challenge by groups concerned with freedom of personal choice.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek, of all people, quotes poetry this week. It's possibly the heat.

Dear editor:

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture the average loaf of bread now contains less than three cents worth of wheat, 2.7 cents worth, to be exact.

Just because I don't grow any wheat is no reason why I can't discuss this matter, any more than a Congressman who adds on his fingers can't discuss intercontinental ballistic missiles.

It seems to me therefore that the ancient saying, "Cast your bread upon the water and it will return a hundred-fold," could have a modern version; "Cast your wheat upon the market and some smart guys will take 2.7 cents worth of it and make a 60 cent loaf of bread out of it."

This is like taking 40 cents worth of cotton and making a $10 shirt out of it. It's like taking $200 worth of steel and making a $5,000 automobile. It's like taking a $100 state legislator and making a $57,000 Congressman out of him. It's like taking an ex-Secretary of State and making a multi-millionaire out of him.

People blame all this on the middle-man. As I understand it, in the case of wheat, the middle-man are those people between the wheat grower on his farm and the housewife in the grocery store buying a loaf of bread, and it takes some shrewd people to be able to squeeze from the middle and come out on the top only. You can't do it with an orange.

I guess the only answer to this is to buy your own wheat, grind it up, and make your own bread. You're going to run into trouble though when you try to make that plastic stuff to wrap it in.

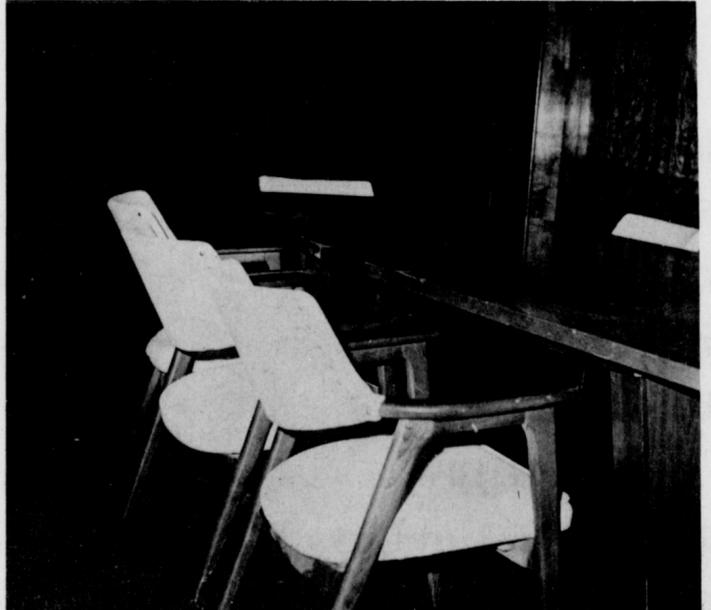

Times have changed. Nowadays, if you cast your bread upon the water it's likely to hit an oil slick. These are the days when it's more profitable to repair appliances than own them.

As the poet said, "A jug of wine, a loaf of bread and thou singing beside me in the wilderness, ah, that were paradise enough, so long as farmers will keep on raising wheat at below cost." You can't beat poetry for getting at the truth.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Herbicide Damage Reported In State

A number of complaints on damage to vegetation have been filed with the Texas Department

Legal Notice

Being certified by the Commissioner of Agriculture of the State of Texas for this purpose, the Texas Corn Growers Association, 105 E. Bedford, Dimmitt, Texas 79027, a referendum election on July 29, 1977, under provisions of Article 55C, Vernon's Civil Statutes on the proposition of whether or not corn producers in the following counties shall assess themselves an amount not to exceed one half cent per bushel on all corn sold to be collected at the first point of sale, and to elect members for a six-person commodity producers board to administer proceeds of such assessment to be used for research, disease and insect control, promotion, and education designed to encourage production, marketing, and use of Texas corn.

Counties included in the referendum are: Area I- Deaf Smith, Palmer, Castro, Bailey, and Lamb. Area II- Randall, Swisher, Brisco, Hale, and Floyd. Area III- Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, and Carson.

The referendum and election will be held by physical ballot with voting place to be at each county courthouse in the referendum area. Polls will be open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Producers who will be away from their particular voting box location on election day may obtain an absentee ballot from county agent offices, or the Texas Corn Growers Association. Absentee ballots must be mailed in the self-addressed envelope to the central balloting place at 105 E. Bedford, Dimmitt, Texas 79027, before midnight three days prior to the election date.

Any person within this referendum area engaged in the business of producing or causing to be produced corn for commercial purposes is eligible to vote, including owners or farms and their tenants and sharecroppers, if such person would be required to pay the assessment proposed. 3ts of Agriculture due to mishandling of hormone-type herbicides. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown stated today.

"The complaints are from various parts of the state," Brown said. "Most of the damage could have been avoided by careful attention to the cautions provided by the manufacturers, as well as the regulations under the Texas Herbicide Law."

Seventy-six counties in the state are under "regulated" status. Farmers and ranchers there have elected to operate

In these areas, they must have a permit to use hormone-type herbicides on plots of ten acres or more. On smaller plots, the operator must notify the Texas Department of Agriculture of his intent, prior to spraying. Commercial applicators must be prudent in their operations and must have a permit to apply this type of herbicide.

The Department documents claims for validity, whether the county is under regulated status or not, Brown stated.

Damage to other crops occurs usually because of faulty equipment, strong wind conditions, and spraying too close to susceptible vegetation, Brown explained.

Spray pressure should be set at 20 to 30 pounds. Application is safest when winds are from 0-3 miles per hour and tempera-

Fire Safety For Homes

The recent Kentucky nightclub fire which claimed over 160 lives has drawn widespread attention and alarm. However, an equal tragedy occurs every week to 160 home residents.

"These residence fires also should receive our attention—and preventive action," points out Dr. Gary S. Nelson, a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "A residence burns every 45 seconds, adding up to 1900 fires per day and almost 700,000 per year. Almost 7,000 persons die in these fires and at least one-fourth of the victims are children under 14 years of age."

Most children are pathetically helpless to save themselves in a fire, notes Nelson. Through lack of knowledge and practice, they make deadly mistakes, such as rushing into smoke-filled hallways when they might escape through a window. Nelson says that some children panic and do not attempt to escape. Some hide in closets or under beds, waiting in vain for someone to rescue them. Many are later found dead by firemen.

"The tragedy is that many youngsters could get out alive if parents would take a few minutes to teach them how," contends the safety engineer. "Schools routinely hold fire drills. Yet, such drills at home are seldom thought of, much less done on a regular basis, even though a child is about 200 times more likely to be caught in fire at home than at school."

A publication of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is designed to teach children and their parents how to survive a home fire. It is entitled "Parents: Don't Let Your Children Burn," and offers several family fire drill ideas. The publication is available at any local county Extension office or from the Department of Agricultural Communications, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

"Fire authorities agree that a child who has practiced what to do in case of fire is much less susceptible to panic and has a better chance of surviving," says Nelson. "So give your children the needed training to avoid becoming a fire statistic."

Arvis Grogan Funeral Rites Held Saturday

Funeral services for Arvis Grogan, 46, were held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church in Muleshoe with Rev. D.C. DuBose, Baptist minister from Pampa, officiating. Burial was in Bailey County Memorial Park under direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

ARVIS GROGAN

A lot of experts are talking about things they know little about.

Grogan was pronounced dead on arrival at West Plains Medical Center at 3 p.m. Thursday following an apparent heart attack on his farm southwest of Muleshoe.

August 30, 1952 in O'Donnell. He was a farmer. Arvis Grogan was a member of the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe, where he served as church treasurer. He was a veteran of the Korean War, having served with the U.S. Air Force. He was a member of the Muleshoe Rotary Club and president of the board of directors of Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association of Muleshoe.

Survivors include his wife, Bobbie; one son, Ricky, of the home and Patricia, of the home, two sisters, Mrs. Melba Bunty, Big Spring; Mrs. DeLeath McLaurin, Roll, Ariz. and one brother, G.W. Grogan, Tahoka.

There're workers in the world whose chief occupation is to appear busy.

A compromise, to some people, is an opportunity for the other side to surrender.

George Weigl Funeral Held At Tucumcari

Funeral services for George Weigl, 57, nephew of Mrs. Cecil Davis, Muleshoe were at 3 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Tucumcari, N.M. He died Wednesday of a heart attack at Tucumcari.

Weigl, a resident of McAlester, N.M., was a former Quay County Commissioner and well known for his activities in civic affairs. He was a native of House, N.M. and was a farmer and rancher.

He was on the board of Trigg Memorial Hospital at Tucumcari, the Eastern New Mexico Council of Governments, the Area Agency on Aging and the Farmers Home Administration. He was also a past president of the House Rotary Club.

Six Wrecks During May Three Hurt

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated six accidents on rural highways in Bailey County during the month of May, 1977 according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and three persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the county during the first five months of 1977 shows a total of 16 accidents resulting in no persons killed and eight persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for May, 1977 shows a total of 541 accidents resulting in 18 persons killed and 338 persons injured as compared to May, 1976, with 517 accidents resulting in 14 persons killed and 268 persons injured. This was 24 more accidents, four more killed, and 70 more injured in 1977 at the same period of time.

The 18 traffic deaths for the month of May, 1977 occurred in the following counties: Two each in Hartley; one each in Briscoe, Castro, Collingsworth, Cottle, Dallam, Foard, Gray, Potter, Swisher, Wheeler, Wilbarger, Dickens, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock and Parker.

tures are less than 90 degrees F. When winds reach 10 miles per hour and temperatures go above 90, the operations should be halted.

"Wind drift can carry the herbicide long distances if basic standards are not observed," Brown cautioned. The drift can affect susceptible crops such as cotton and other broad-leaf plants. Fruit trees, vegetables, and ornamentals can also be damaged severely by herbicides.

"We have more cotton planted in the state than in the past few years, and we urge all herbicide applicators to be especially careful this year. Also more people are growing their own vegetables. Applicators should check the surrounding fields before spraying," Brown said.

If public speaking could solve the problems of humanity, they should be solved.

The Truth
"Do you say your prayers every night, Trudy?" asked the minister.
"Oh, no; Mummy says them for me," answered Trudy.
"Indeed; and what does she say?" he queried.
"Thank God you're in bed!" was the prompt reply.
