Educational Tapes On Local Cable Continues

The second tape of the educational series by Dr. Willard Daggett will be aired on Channel 8, Monday, October 17, at 1:30 p.m. and again on Tuesday, October 18, at 7:00 p.m. This 50 minute tape is entitled "Preparing Students for the 1990's." In this presentation, Dr. Daggett provided a series of examples and research on how school curricula have become increasingly disconnected from our technological, information-based society. He notes the nation's fascination with test scores and how our traditional curriculum does an excellent job of preparing today's students with some of the skills and knowledges they need, but lacks relevance to the workplace and ignores lifelong learning. Schools cannot continue to be ends in and of themselves.

This series will continue next week with a tape entitled "Elementary/Middle School Presentation." Please make plans to view or tape for later viewing these very stimulating programs.

Area Girls Scouts Gear Up For Troop Year

The Girl Scouts are preparing for another troop year of fun and friends. Texas Plains Girls Scout Council is now registering girls ages 5-17 and recruiting adult volunteers. Girl Scout Membership dues are $6 annually and financial assistance is available.

Girl Scouting offers a wide range of activities such as troop camping, career exploration, art adventures and community service projects. Through Girl Scouting's Contemporary Program, girls develop self-esteem, make new friends, and become a vital part of their community.

"Clarendon Girl Scouts have so much fun learning about the world around them," say Girl Scout Volunteer Denise Bertrand. "We encourage every girl in Clarendon to join."

Adult leaders are also encouraged to register as Girl Scout members and can serve girl scouting in several capacities. Girl Scout Troop Leaders, consultants and guests speakers are just some of the many volunteer positions available to both women and men.

Young Eagles Day At Historic Childress Airport

Historic Childress Airport, former location of a WWII bomber training site, will be the location of a regional "Young Eagles" fly-in. Members of area E.A.A. chapters will be presented on October 22, from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. to give children ages eight to seventeen, flights in various aircraft. For many of these kids, it will be their first flight in an airplane. For all, the event should be a great adventure.

The mission of the Young Eagles Program is to provide a free-of-charge and meaningful flight experience for one million people, primarily youngsters, by the year 2003-the 100th anniversary of the Wright Brothers first powered flight and the 50th anniversary of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA). There are a number of objectives in the Young Eagle Program. Young people will have an opportunity to gain new perspectives on their community, their lives and the world they live in as they fly high above their city on a brief round-trip adventure. Additionally, the program hopes to make young people aware of the many career possibilities provided by aviation. Participants will gain knowledge of what they may need to do in order to become an aviator. Pilots who donate their time and aircraft will place strong emphasis on staying in school, continuing higher education and pilots will also encourage youngsters to pursue goals. By involving young people in the program, the EAA hopes to also address the possible shortage of military and commercial pilots, which is projected to occur by the year 2000.

EAA volunteer pilots will donate their time and aircraft, many of which cost $40 to $50 per hour to operate and maintain. During the Childress event, each pilot may accumulate eight to ten hours on their aircraft as they provide the free rides and travel across country to and from Childress from outlying areas. The actual expense for volunteer pilots may cost approximately $400. Local civic organizations are encouraged to help defray some costs by providing lunch for participating pilots or by contributing to a fuel fund. If the event is well received by visiting pilots and regional visitors, the experience may offer an opportunity to expand and enhance other airport/aviation events in the future.

Education Is A Lifestyle

Isn't it interesting how the children from some families excel in school while the children from other families sometimes struggle? While this generalization is not always the case, it often happens this way. Why is this the case? The emphasis that the family places on school achievement, study time, school attendance, completion of homework, involvement in activities, and a host of other areas directly influences the student's success in school. That is why it is said, "Education is a life style."

Phil Barefield, school superintendent of Clarendon ISD, stated that his staff is very interested in parental involvement in the education of local students. "This involvement goes far beyond parent visits to the school and teacher conferences. We feel parental support of students in the home is much more important. When parents are truly involved in their children's education on a daily basis, we see students that are motivated, care about how they do at school, and generally achieve at a higher level. We seldom see children become school dropouts from families where parents are involved on a daily basis." When parents show a daily interest in how the child did at school each day, children understand that education is important to the parent, and it becomes important to the child. Parents that read to their children, limit television viewing, attend events that involve their children, and keep check on their children's achievement provide a foundation for school success for their children. Maintaining a life style that nurtures learning is vital to the education process.

A Recognized Status Certificate of Acknowledgment for academic performance on the supplemental college admissions testing (SAT and/or ACT) indicator will be awarded January 30, 1995. The award ceremony will be January 30, 1995 with invitations being mailed in mid-December 1994. Congratulations to the students, teachers, administration, board, and community on the testing performance accomplishment.

Christian Congregation Commits to Mission Work

In a business meeting attended by virtually the entire congregation, the First Christian Church reaffirmed its commitment to support a mission effort. The meeting took place in the basement of the church building on Sunday night, October 9.

The church decided a month before to make a more concerted effort in foreign evangelism. This initial step dedicates ten percent of the congregation's budget to work overseas, probably in the geographical area that was formerly Soviet Union. But this is just a first step.

"Our ultimate goal is to spend more on others than we spend on ourselves," said Everett Stevens, minister for the congregation. Those sentiments are widely shared in the group. Like most churches, this congregation of Christians spent the majority of their budget on a minister who works within the congregation, on utilities and on the building. The new goal focuses instead on serving others, especially in evangelism and benevolence. The new goal will not be realized overnight. It is a long-range commitment.

The opportunities are vast. "Russia has 275 million souls," said David Lowrie, a member of the congregation, "it covers 11 time zones. And the people are hungry for God." There is a sense of urgency, as well. Christians must act while the opportunity is available.

The next few weeks will be spent researching and planning. The group expects to have several special sessions on Friday nights to hear speakers who have been to Russia. There will also be some special teachers for the Sunday morning services.

The congregation invites all Christians to share in the Lord's Supper each Sunday morning at 10:45.

Dallas Site Of School Meeting

The annual convention of the Texas Association of School Boards took place in Dallas on September 30 through October 2. Members of the Clarendon ISD School Board attending this meeting were: Lynne Williams, Elmonette Bivens, Dan Hall and Joe Lemley along with school superintendent, Phil Barefield.

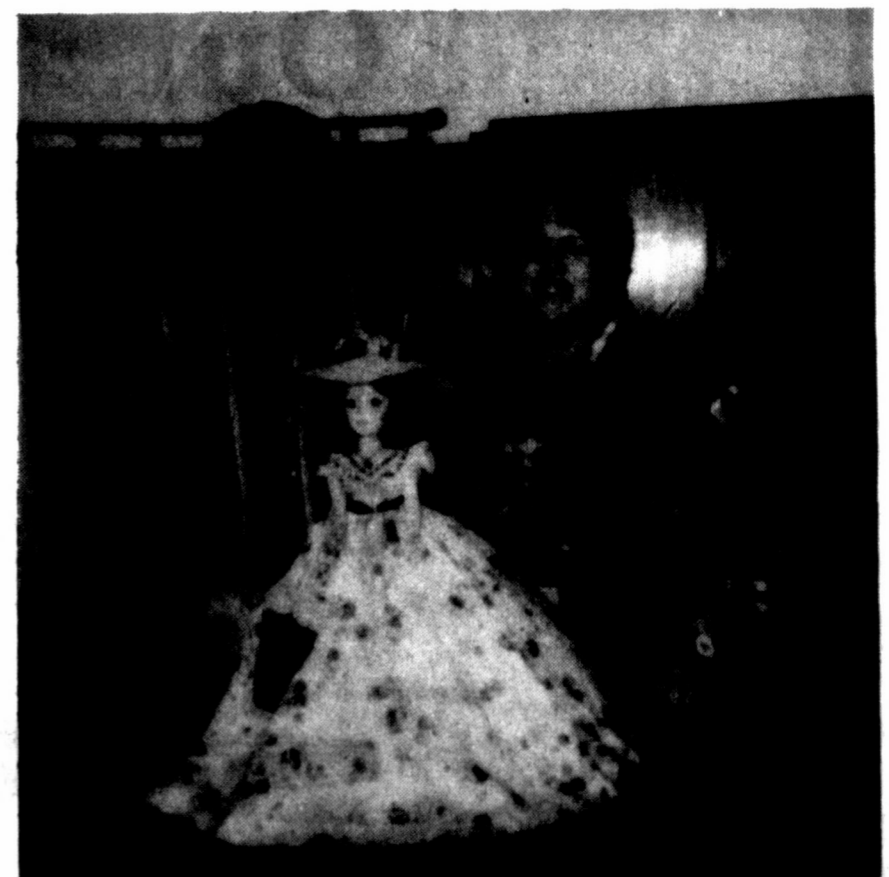

The group reported very informative and interesting meetings on a variety of current educational topics. With over 10,000 in attendance, local members were able to benefit by visiting with others from all over the state. Being informed on current trends, regulations and issues assists the board and administration in making informed decisions.

Featured Business of the Week

by Shelley Tongate

This week's featured business is Petty's Antiques, located at 222 S. Kearney. The store has been open since last October, and is owned and operated by Dennis, Ruth, Lester & Shirley Petty. Dennis and Ruth have two children, Ashley age 5 and Ryan age 7. Dennis also works at Petty's Texaco, and Ruth is an LVN and works for Dr. Gilkey. Ruth has always collected antiques, and finally had the chance to open an antique store here in Clarendon.

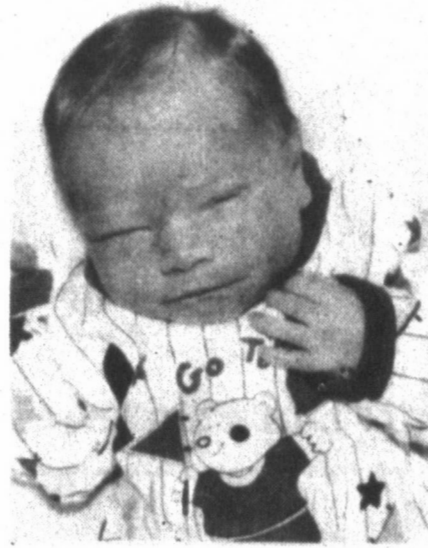

Petty's Antiques carries a wide variety of old antiques such as Depression Glass, old dolls, and various pottery. Dennis enjoys having the store in Clarendon and feels that antique stores draw a lot of attention to the town, which helps the economy. He states, "It's a lot of fun and we enjoy serving the people of Clarendon and the surrounding areas!"

Restoration Forum Set

Abilene Christian University will host Restoration Forum XII November 1-3. Several people from Clarendon anticipate attending. The Forums began in 1984 when members of the Churches of Christ and independent Christian Churches met in Joplin Missouri to discuss relations between the two groups. Both groups have common roots in a frontier ecumenical movement that began in the late 18th and early 19th Century. Historians call the heritage "The Stone-Campbell Movement", but it is also known as "the Restoration Movement", a name that several other, unrelated, groups also use. The forums are open "to anyone interested in serious scriptural consideration of matters that unite and divide Christians." There will be a large number of speakers from both the Churches of Christ (non-instrumental) and from independent Christian churches. For more information, call or write: Restoration Forum Registration, ACU Station, Box 8429, ACU Station, Box 8429, Abilene, TX 79699-8429. Advance registration (before October 21) costs $15 for individuals or $25 for families. Registration at the conference will be $20 for individuals or $30 for families. Senior Citizens News

The Donley County Senior Citizens Center appreciates everyone who helped to make the Christmas in October Crafts Bazaar last Saturday a great success. Their volunteers put in many hours making wonderful things to donate to the Center. Some of their members made cash donations. Several local businesses made donations of cash or items to be sold in the bazaar. Many hours were spent by volunteers setting up tables, putting out merchandise, and cooking and serving the noon meal. A project like this could not be attempted if it were not for the support of local volunteers, members, and merchants. They would like to let everyone know how much they appreciated everything they did. A special thanks to The Clarendon News for the excellent coverage they received regarding the bazaar.

Loans for Small Businesses

The First Bank and Trust is committed to our community. That includes the small businesses that are the backbone of our local economy.

Businesses have come to the First Bank and Trust for years. And for years we have worked together to build sound enterprises.

Businessmen and businesswomen have taken out loans for new facilities. They have enlarged their inventory and branched out into more profitable areas. And the First Bank was there to help.

But the bank has provided other valuable help as well. Loan officers have offered informal counseling that sharpened merchants' competitive skills. Bank people have suggested additional markets and other possible opportunities.

The bank is still committed to helping businesses grow, for as such businesses grow, they create new jobs, they bring new money into our community and ultimately they benefit all of us.

Autumn Merchants Carnival Set

The Clarendon Merchants Association will be sponsoring an Autumn Carnival on Halloween, October 31, from 5 to 7 p.m. on main street. Each merchant is invited to participate by placing an activity in front of their store, such as hop scotch, balloon throwing, ring toss, etc. Merchants can wear a costume if they desire. The public is invited to participate and join in on the fun.

It is also time to start thinking about the 4th Annual Parade of Lights. They ask that every business, resident, and organization be thinking about putting up lights. These lights can be purchased at Henson's. Also, dues for the merchant members are due by Oct. 1st.

Hospice Sponsors Grief Support Group

Many people in grief can feel overwhelmed by the changes and emotions they are experiencing. In recognition of these feelings, Hospice of the Panhandle is sponsoring four grief support group sessions on Thursdays, Oct. 20 through Nov. 10.

"When people are experiencing grief, they can feel isolated in their pain," says Ellen Corcoran, Hospice bereavement coordinator and support group facilitator. "Grief support groups can be helpful to persons who are grieving by helping them learn more about the grief process and by helping them better understand what they are going through. They will also see that they are not alone in what they are experiencing."

Support group meetings are scheduled for 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, 525 N. Gray, Pampa on Oct. 20, 27 and Nov. 3, and 10. Participants are asked to enter the parlor door. Presentations, videos, and handouts will be used in the discussions.

Support group sessions are free and open to the public. Corcoran recommends that participants have not experienced a death of someone close to them within the past three months.

For more information, or to sign up for the support group, call Hospice of the Panhandle at (806)665-6677.

Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions

QUESTION: What is the most difficult period of adolescence, and what is behind the distress?

DR. DOBSON: The 13th and 14th years commonly are the most difficult 24 months in life.

It is during this time that self-doubt and feelings of inferiority reach an all-time high, amidst the greatest social pressures yet experienced.

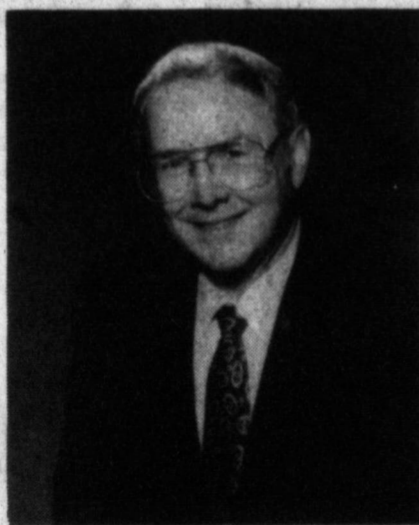

An adolescent's worth as a human being hangs precariously on peer group acceptance, which can be tough to garner. Thus, relatively minor evidences of rejection or ridicule are of major significance to those who already see themselves as fools and failures.

It is difficult to overestimate the impact of having no one to sit with on the school-sponsored bus trip, of not being invited to an important event, of being laughed at by the "in" group, waking up in the morning to find seven shiny new pimples on your bumpy forehead, or being slapped by the girl you thought had liked you as much as you liked her.

Some boys and girls consistently face this kind of social catastrophe throughout their teen years. They will never forget the experience.

Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner, eminent authority on child development at Cornell University, told a Senate committee that the junior high years are probably the most critical to the development of a child's mental health. It is during this period of self-doubt that the personality is often assaulted and damaged beyond repair.

Consequently, said Bronfenbrenner, it is not unusual for healthy, happy children to enter junior high school, but then emerge two years later as broken, discouraged teenagers.

I couldn't agree more emphatically with Bronfenbrenner's opinion at this point. Junior high school students are typically brutal to one another, attacking and slashing a weak victim much the same way a pack of northern wolves kill and devour a deformed caribou. Few events stir my righteous indignation more than seeing a vulnerable child being taught to hate himself and despise his physical body, and wish he had never been born.

QUESTION: I keep hearing that it is unwise to get too carried away with the successes of your kids, but I can't help it.

Is it wrong for me to feel a sense of fatherly pride when my son succeeds in basketball? How can I not care about the quality of his performance?

DR. DOBSON: There's nothing wrong about feeling good about the successes of our children. The problem occurs when parents care too much about those triumphs and failures

... when winning is necessary to maintain their parents' respect and love.

Boys and girls should know they are accepted simply because they were created. That's enough.

I'm reminded of John McKay, the former football coach from the University of Southern California and a former National Football League coach. I saw him interviewed on television at a time when his son, John Jr., was a successful football player on the USC team.

The interviewer referred to John's athletic talent and asked Coach McKay to comment on the pride he must feel over his son's accomplishments on the field. His answer was most impressive:

"Yes, I'm pleased that John had a good season last year. He does a fine job, and I am proud of him. But I would be just as proud of him if he had never played the game at all."

Coach McKay was saying, in effect, that John's football talent is recognized and appreciated, but his human worth does not depend on his athletic ability to play football. Thus, his son would not lose respect if the next season brought failure and disappointment.

John's place in his dad's heart was secure, being independent of his performance. I wish every child could say the same.

crash only added 60 days to the penalty for the DWI violation.

Repeat offenders convicted of a third DWI will now face up to 10 years in prison. Under the old law the maximum sentence for such offenders was five years in prison.

Boating while intoxicated convictions and out of state convictions for DWI can now be used to enhance DWI penalties in Texas.

"The legislature and the Governor have sent a very clear message. If you drive drunk, you're going to lose your license and you're going to spend some time in jail. If you seriously hurt someone, you could spend the next 10 years of your life in prison and if you kill someone, you could be in prison for the next 20 years," said Bill Lewis, Legislative Liaison for the Texas office of MADD.

"Texans have had it with people who think it is no big deal to drink and drive. Under the revised penal code, drunk drivers are treated the same way other violent criminals are-with heavy fines and long prison terms," said Lewis.

Social Security News

by Jim Talbot, Social Security Manager at Amarillo

MEETING THE CHALLENGE OF CHANGE

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act on August 14, 1935, he characterized it as a building which is by no means complete. His words were prophetic.

Since then, the Social Security Act has been amended many times. Some changes extended coverage, others added new programs, and other changes increased the financing of the program. The law Roosevelt signed in 1935 covered a limited number of workers in commerce and industry. Today, more than 9 out of 10 workers are covered and benefits are being paid to one out of six persons in the population. They are retired and disabled workers and their families, and the families of deceased workers.

Today's textbooks devote relatively few pages to the passage of what was undoubtedly one of the most far reaching pieces of legislation in American history. With the signing of the Act, the federal government was for the first time assuming a role in the economic security of the individual. It was an admission that, in an industrialized society, a worker may no longer be capable of independent self-support and is dependent on many factors outside of his or her control. Historian Arthur Schlesinger described the times in his book, "The Age of Roosevelt." "The Great Depression had an even more devastating impact on the elderly. Unemployment among older workers was estimated at 30 percent. Fewer than 18 persons out of a hundred were covered by pension plans. And those who had businesses were bankrupt. Many savings institutions had folded, so people could not get their savings. Families and charities found it a very heavy burden to provide for the elderly. But what could they do?"

Against this backdrop, a strong federal role seemed imperative. The law Roosevelt

Over the next two decades, program coverage expanded rapidly. Coverage was expanded in the 1950's to include most jobs in the economy. In 1956, the disability insurance program was signed, recognizing the "forced retirement" of the disabled worker.

The next major program change came in 1965 with the passage of the Medicare program. It had become clear that for the elderly, the cost of health care was the number one enemy. It depleted income and savings and eroded whatever financial security the Social Security benefits provided. Medicare initially provided protection for people 65 and over. It includes two parts --Part A for hospital bills and Part B for doctor bills and other bills not paid under the hospital insurance coverage. In 1972, Medicare coverage was extended to people receiving disability benefits for two years or more.

Also in 1972, two other changes occurred that resulted in the Social Security program much as we know it today. First, the benefit formula was changed to provide automatic cost-of-living increases to help benefits resist inflation. The idea was to take the program out of the realm of politics by making unnecessary the periodic increases the Congress was forced to legislate and to provide greater security for beneficiaries. A second change transferred the State adult assistance programs under the Social Security Act for the aged, blind, and disabled to the federal level, administered by the Social Security Administration. A new program was created--"Supplemental Security Income"-- or SSI. SSI payments were designed to provide a nationwide, uniform, floor of income protection for aged, blind and disabled persons with limited income and resources. The SSI program is financed from federal general revenues, not from Social Security payroll taxes.

Since 1972, amendments to the program have mostly been designed to strengthen its financing in the long term. The benefit formula was changed in 1977 because benefits were being over-adjusted for inflation, and the solvency of the Social Security program was threatened. In 1983, the Congress implemented recommendations of a bipartisan Social Security Commission to strengthen the program to pay benefits into the far future. Since then the trust fund reserves have steadily increased and are expected to help pay benefits in the next century when the baby boomers are ready to retire.

It is this record of surviving and adapting to changes that makes us feel confident that Social Security will adapt to meet future changes. Through it all, however, its basic structure is expected to remain.

Letter To The Editor

Not to the editor, but to the people

When I was a boy here and went to school we were taught that we had a government Of the People, By the People, and For the People. We no longer have that. What we have now is a government of the Politicians, by the Politicians, and for the Politicians. They have no thought for the people but for themselves. They give themselves raises, not by a vote of the people but because they have found that it can be done. To them the people are too dumb to understand and so they do as they please.

The courts sentence a man to 10 years, so they let him out in 10 months. It is alright to steal, to use dope, to destroy, because it isn't their fault. They see the politicians steal, lie, use dope, cheat and nothing is done so they can do it too.

At first we had a President that could not tell a lie. Now they can't tell the truth. The founder of the Country did not do it to see how much they could take out, but how much they could give. Washington, Jefferson, Ben Franklin used their money to get this nation started.

They didn't try to see how much they could make out of it.

Now we have President Hillary and Slick Willy wanting to change this [to] a Socialist Government. With the help of some of those in office and without us stopping them they will do it. Do you want to be ruled by the world government? Do you want to be told what to do by someone in England, France, or Russia? This is what they want. Next will come another Hitler. Be careful people, get out and vote and let us get back a Government of the People.

signed established two social insurance programs on a national scale to meet the problems of old-age and unemployment: a federal system of old-age benefits for retired workers who had been employed in industry and commerce; and a federal-state system of unemployment insurance. Old-age and unemployment were the natural priorities to be covered: the depression had wiped out much of the lifetime savings of the aged and had reduced opportunities for gainful employment.

The Social Security Act also provided for federal grants-in-aid to the States to help them give financial assistance to three groups of needy persons—the aged, the blind, and dependent children. It established other federal grants to enable States to extend and strengthen maternal and child health services for crippled children, and child welfare services. The retirement, survivors, and disability program of contributory social insurance is what has become known as the Social Security program.

In 1939, a year before the first benefits were paid, the law was changed to extend coverage to dependents of retired workers and established the survivors insurance program for survivors of deceased workers. These provisions had been under development when the first act was signed, and established the concept of family protection that was to become characteristic of the growth of the program over the years.

Early Detection Key to Breast Cancer Survival

Recent advances in genetic research have brought breast cancer again to the forefront of the national discussion about health and disease. But while a true test for genetic predisposition toward breast cancer may be years away, education and early detection can greatly increase the chance of survival for breast cancer patients today.

The Society recommends that women have a screening mammogram by age 40; women 40 to 49 have a mammogram every 1-2 years; women age 50 and over have a mammogram every year.

Also, a doctor should conduct a breast examination every three years for women 20 to 40 and every year for those over 40. The Society also recommends monthly breast self-examination for women 20 years and older.

Breast cancer is the most prevalent form of cancer among women, and it is second only to lung cancer in its deadliness. The American Cancer Society estimates that about one of every nine American women will develop breast cancer by age 85.

The date of the flight and the pilot's signature will also be included on the certificate. Parents or legal guardian must sign and complete a brief registration record before the flight. Each flight will take place in an FAA registered airplane flown by a licensed pilot. Many of the aircraft used in this event are "type-certificated" and built by manufacturers such as Piper, Cessna and Beechcraft Aircraft Corporation. Children who express further interest in flying can contact the EAA and become an active in the "Sport Aviation Club," an organization designed specifically for kids. The club features a bimonthly publication called Sport Aviation for Kids, personalized membership card, colorful patches and decals featuring the club logo.

The Young Eagle program has been highly successful across the United States. During the month of May, the Abilene EAA Chapter flew 492 young people in various aircraft during Young Eagle Day. The event started shortly after Abilene Mayor Gary McCaleb made a proclamation commemorating the event. Although Mr. McCaleb did not fall into the target age group of youngsters from 8 to 17, he did take a flight in a WWII, AT-6 aircraft during the weekend long event. Youngsters from around the Panhandle region of Texas and surrounding Oklahoma area are encouraged to participate in this educational and fun filled event. EAA representatives suggest arriving early to insure an opportunity to fly with one of the members. Opportunities may be limited and will be accommodated on a first come, first served basis. The event will close precisely at 3:00 p.m. In the event of inclement weather, the event will be rescheduled for the following weekend, October 29. Those who wish to attend are encouraged to verify and call the afternoon and morning of the event. Contact the Childress Municipal Airport Manager at 817-937-8309. Local volunteers are needed to coordinate activities on the ground such as registration, parking and crowd management. Anyone who might provide lunch for pilots working the event are asked to contact EEA member Sterling Brooks in Childress at 937-2571.

Remember
BOSS'DAY Oct. 14

Remember your hero.
Sweetest Day is October 15th
 You make the list. We'll make the arrangements.

Most people think Sweetest Day is another Valentine's Day, a romantic holiday to remember the one person you're closest to. It is not!

Sweetest Day was originally created to help us recognize all of the people who make our lives a little better. A day to send a surprise gift of flowers or plants to anyone who has been especially nice.

Look around -- there's the neighbor who looked after your house while you were away; the carrier who keeps your newspaper high and dry despite the weather; that special person who cares for your children while you work; that person whose simple presence puts a smile on your face. All of them are heroes to us! That's what Sweetest Day is all about.

Make a list, check it twice, and perform a random act of kindness - surprise your hero. You'll get the sweetest feeling on Sweetest Day.

An estimated 9,200 new cases of breast cancer will be diagnosed in Texas women during 1994. About 2,300 Texas women will die of the disease this year.

Ninety-three percent of women diagnosed with localized breast cancer survive five years.

For cancers that haven't spread to other parts of the body, the survival rate approaches 100 percent. Seventy-one percent of women whose breast cancers have spread regionally survive, while 18 percent of women whose cancers have spread further survive five years.

Risk factors include: age over 40; personal or family history of breast cancer; and never had children or had children late in life.
