Public School Lunch Policy Is Announced

Dear Parent or Guardian:

The Clarendon Public School serves nutritious meals every school day. Students may buy lunch for 45c and 50c.

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown on the scale are eligible for free meals or meals at the reduced prices of 20c for lunch. If your income is greater than those shown but you have unusually high medical bills, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of your income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses, your children may still be eligible.

To apply for free or reduced price meals for your children, at anytime during the year, check the scale page 2 in this paper and check with the school. The school will let you know whether or not your children are eligible within 3 days of receiving your information. If you do not agree with the school's decision you have a right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing Jeff L. Walker, Supt. at the Administration Building. The phone number is 874-3551.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If you have such children living with you and wish to apply for such meals for them, please notify us.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color, or national origin.

If we can be of any further assistance or if your income changes during the year, please contact us.

Sincerely,
Jeff L. Walker, Supt.

Three Run-Away Youth Crash Gas Pumps At Shields

Three Colorado Springs youth, that had run away from home, knocked over two gas pumps at Shields Conoco last Thursday afternoon. The pumps caught fire but were quickly extinguished by Herb Shields, owner of the business.

The youth, driving a Lincoln Continental, fled the scene and were speeding across town when sighted by Police Chief Gary Gerdes who took chase. He stopped the car but when he got out to talk to the boys, they fled again but returned to the Conco Station. They reported the car engine died as they entered the station rendering the power steering useless and this was what caused them to hit the pumps.

Chief Gerdes took the youth, two 14 years of age and one 15, to the Amarillo Detention Home where they were held until their parents picked them up the next day.

Shields reported the damage would run over $2,000 as the end pump was one of the new computer type pumps and quite costly. I am just happy that a more damaging fire was avoided and no one was injured, Shields added.

State Capitol Highlights and Sidelights
By BILL BOYKIN

Investigations of the Huntsville prison siege and shootout and of right to privacy issues moved into the spotlight this week.

A joint legislative committee on prison reform slated a Friday (August 23) meeting to discuss the Huntsville tragedy.

The prison violence, which followed convict Fred Gomez Carrasco's seizure of 13 hostages, is also being probed by the Department of Public Safety and a Walker County grand jury.

Meanwhile, a select Senate sub-committee is moving out with a broad study of invasion issues. Public hearings will follow initial staff inquiries into alleged improper surveillance by state agencies and non-governmental groups as well.

The sub-committee was appointed after Robert Pomeroy of Farmers Branch complained he was made the subject of a DPS intelligence agent's inquiry because he led opposition to a nuclear power plant at Glen Rose.

Many other rumors followed—including one that DPS had made checks on staff aides and some members of the joint committee on prison reform, and another that the agency had investigated job applications for private businesses.

DPS denied improper use of its investigation procedures and said its intelligence information is available only to local, state and federal law enforcement personnel.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe asked for a full report on why and how DPS conducts intelligence investigations and assurances that practices comply with state and federal law.

ALLOWABLE STANDS — The Texas oil production allowable was retained at 100 per cent of potential for the 30th straight month.

Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Langdon said all states must "maximize" efforts to solve energy needs.

"Texas is continuing to strain to do its best for the state and the nation to meet the demands for energy," said Langdon. "We need the total cooperation of the entire nation to meet goals."

The commission chairman suggested states which have oil offshore should drill for it and those which can build offshore facilities to handle supertankers should be willing to do so.

CONVENTION ON — A U. S. district judge in San Antonio rejected a suit by Jewish delegates to delay the State Democratic Convention here September 17.

The long-standing controversy over postponing the convention arose from the fact the meeting date falls this year on a high Jewish holy day, Rosh Hashana.

Judge Adrian A. Spears said he saw no violation of constitutional rights in refusal of the State Democratic Executive Committee to alter the date.

Plaintiffs, however, moved to continue their fight with an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

CONVENTION PLANNING, meanwhile, moved on.

AUDIT ORDERED — Texas Water Rights Commission ordered Duval County Conservation and Reclamation District to prepare an audit of its affairs through a certified public accountant.

Chairman Joe D. Carter said federal court cases had raised questions of propriety of fund use. The district was directed to submit the name of a qualified CPA by September 15.

AG OPINIONS — Texas has no more enforceable laws regulating abortion, but may regulate facilities and services in hospitals performing abortions, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

Physicians do not have to be physically present at all times to supervise employees performing physical therapy services without a license from the board of physical therapy examiners.

Information on Menard school employees' salaries is public and is covered by the open records act.

CONTROLS FEARED — Air control officials are concerned that federal land use planning controls may be applied based on air quality considerations.

They think Environmental Protection Agency permits for highway modification, airports and parking lots may have a major effect on economic growth and development of Texas.

The new regulation, effective January 1, launches a permit system with applications requiring information on indirect air pollution effect of proposed facilities.

Charles Barden, executive director of Texas Air Control Board said the state cannot enforce federal regulations without parallel state authority.

DISTRICT HEARING SET — Texas Water Rights Commission will hold a public hearing October 2 here to consider dissolving 29 inactive water districts.

The commission can dissolve any district which is not active for five consecutive years and which has no bond debt.

Districts involved in the hearing reach from East Texas to the Texas Panhandle and from South Texas and the Gulf Coast to the northern boundary of the state.

CROPS DAMAGED — Drought already has taken a heavy toll on Texas, 1974 wheat, cotton and sorghum crops, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported last week.

Wheat yields have been on the decline since January — to the present total of 52.8 million bushel dropoff from the 1973 record yield.

Cotton production is off 1.6 million bales from 1973, and the grain sorghum production is projected at 295 million bushels, a 122 million bushel decrease from 1973.

ENERGY CRISIS DOUBTED — A Houston and Colorado County survey by the governor's energy advisory council showed Texans think the energy crisis of recent months was phony.

The questionnaires indicated citizens doubt truth of information from both the government and oil companies on energy supplies and judge the situation largely on availability of oil and gas products.

Those Old Timey Preachers

Dr. James O. Brandon
Pastor First Baptist Church

With the settling of the new community that was tagged "SAINTS ROOST" or Old Clarendon came a host of the people of God. Not only did they build their homes, but they built also the houses of God. Missionary endeavor was everywhere to be seen as each denomination involved itself in the task of influencing people for the Lord. Out in the forefront of all this spiritual fervor were the old timey preachers of the gospel.

Today you would probably call these old timey gospel preachers hippy. Many of them back in the 1880's and 90's had long beards and their hair most often fell to their shoulders. Others had mustaches and goatees, while still others had bushy side burns running down into a big bushy beard. Some had side burns that bloused out on the sides of their head. Not many of them were smooth shaven. In fact, in one church, where all their pastors were photographed and hung on the wall of the church building, not one of the ministers was clean shaven until 1935. Yes, today, many would call these old timey preachers hippy, and if one of these gospel - fire - breathing angels of God was to step into a modern day pulpit, everybody would be personally offended at his bushy beard, hair falling to the shoulders, or long beard touching his belt line, and he might be called untidy.

But preach, they did. They heralded such topics in their sermons as: "Repent ye for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand;" "He that cometh to God must believe..." "God is a consuming fire;" and etc. They preached about faith, grace, judgment, the new birth, heaven, and hell, and etc. They proclaimed the Ten Commandments as the moral code of ethics for life and living. They were vehement in their denunciation of sin. They never got confused about good and evil. Wrong was wrong no matter where or what and they never split hairs over it. They yelled for the backslidden to turn from their slothful imitation of Christ and the gospel, forsake their worldliness and return to the Lord begging forgiveness. They demanded that men renounce their sins not keep them.

Out in the front trenches they went before the church, and welded the church of God out of the rough and rugged jewels they found, polishing them until they glistened and sparkled like diamonds befit the service of the Divine Master.

It wasn't easy for these heroes of the faith. They didn't have an air-conditioned Buick with which to get to their appointments, but neither did anyone else. They rode horseback, rode in wagons, or walked.

I was told of one Methodist minister who walked many miles without food and water in order to get his preaching appointment. About famished and wore out, he came late in the day to a little clump of trees where two cowboys were enjoying their simple meal and coffee. Said the minister, "I knew that God would provide the sustenance for this trip;" whereupon, the two men invited him to dine with them on beans, jerkey, and coffee boiled twice.

One old Baptist minister related to me a humorous story. As was so often the custom in those days because money was scarce, the preacher was sometimes paid in chicken, eggs, pigs or other such commodities. One dear person brought the minister a ham bone with no meat on it that had already been boiled once. He said that they made soup out of it and were glad to get it.

These men lived and died in the faith that they preached and so doing they left a mark upon the Lord. They readily confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims in the earth. They declared plainly that this world was not their home and that they sought a country whose builder and maker is God, a better country, that is an heavenly; "wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God for he hath prepared for them a city" (Heb. 1:13-16).

These men of God fed the flock of God taking the oversight, not by constraint, but willingly, not for material gain, but with a ready mind, as examples of the flock of God. "Wherein the chief Shepherd when he shall appear, will give them a crown of glory that fadeth not away" (1 Pet. 5:2-4).

As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace and bring glad tidings of good things" (Rom. 10:15).

Thanks to Mrs. W. W. Taylor, O. C. Watson, and Rev. S. R. Respass for sharing with the life and times of these old timey preachers.

The Peril Of Greed

By: Weldon Rives, Pastor
First United Methodist Church

I Timothy 6:10a - "For the love of money is the root of all evil".

To want is a natural human drive. There are those wants of an infant which cause him to cry out to gain the attention of parent or other responsible person. Similar wants develop through our relationships and experiences of life as we grow older. Thus, we all seem to possess inborn drives at all ages which cause us to respond in certain patterns of behavior. Such an example is told of the elderly woman who was extremely wealthy. Yet in her younger days she and her husband had a hard time financially. She learned to pinch pennies to survive and in her old age and time of extreme wealth she continued to secure stocks, bonds and put money in the bank, saying: "I love to see money pile up in my bank account." Yet, she confided that "When I was younger, I wanted things but could not afford to buy them. Now, that I can afford them I no longer want them."

The human proneness to want more things than we have need gave rise to the tenth Commandment: "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house... wife... manservant... maid-servant... ox... ass... or anything that is thy neighbor's" (Exodus 20:17). How can people build a strong life and nation if greed controls their actions? This, as do other commandments, goes to the heart of the problem showing that covetousness begins inside a person and is the bitter root from which numerous other sins grow. Covetousness is greed for that which you don't need and which belongs rightly to another person. This greed so consumes one that he resorts to any means whatever to get what he craves. Distinctions between fair and foul, good and bad, and right and wrong dissolve in its heat.

I believe a modern day example is in our midst although I cannot produce facts beyond reporting so called facts by news reporters whose job it is to know and report facts - for whatever that is worth - and then to offer my surmise. A brief time ago we were in the midst of a "fuel crisis." Let me say that I did not believe it then and I don't believe it today, not the way it was presented. Sunday evening it was reported by an Amarillo newsman that those oil companies who were "out of fuel oil" and needed an increase in price for further development and oil production had massed such an abundance of money that they were having trouble finding places to spend it, yet the oil company executives say go down - so you and I continue to get the ax put to us! One oil company attempted to use its accumulated wealth to buy a financially troubled insurance company. Another attempted the largest "take over" from the standpoint of price by attempting to buy one of the nation's largest retail syndicates of which Montgomery Wards is but one branch.

Hospital insurance protection is extended automatically, without premium charge, to people reaching 65 who are eligible for social security or railroad retirement benefits - and to disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more. The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the medical insurance program and adjustment of the monthly premium rate to cover the estimated medical expenses of Medicare patients. The 40-cent increase in July is related to a rise in the cost of medical services and compares to a 50-cent increase in the medical insurance basic monthly premium rate in 1973. Medicare hospital insurance premiums were also increased starting July 1. The basic premium rates went from $33 to $36 a month.

like a climbing vine which reaches the tops of surrounding trees, smothering them and killing their growth. Today this peril of Greed is not limited to an occasional individual, but has spread to the larger and more powerful industrial agents of our nation. If they are allowed to go unchecked as they have for the last eighteen to twenty-four months, the major industrial companies will control the economy of our nation and will be able to squeeze our pocket-books beyond their ability to provide our minimum essentials of living. Therefore, I call upon every American to pray for, work, and support the new economic council of President Ford that we may all continue to enjoy our economic prosperity and yet see our run-a-way economy due to inflation brought under control.

GRACE AND PEACE.
THINK ON THIS: We should defend our neighbor, speak well for him, and put the best construction on everything.

DES Certification Meetings Are Set August 22-23, 1974

Briefings which will outline the new Canadian livestock and meat import requirements will be held Thursday and Friday (August 22 and 23) in five major livestock producing areas of Texas. Officials will explain to producers how to certify that their cattle and sheep are diethylstilbestrol (DES) - free and eligible for exports to Canada.

Attendance at one of these meetings is mandatory if producers plan to sell cattle or sheep now or in the future to Canada. These are the only meetings scheduled.

Because of their involvement in carrying out functions under this agreement, accredited veterinarians, local packers and market representatives are encouraged to attend, as well as producers and feeders.

These meetings will be as follows:

1. Plainview - Thursday, August 22, 1:00 p.m. Chamber of Commerce Board Room, 710 W. 5th Street;
2. San Angelo - Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, Highway 87, 10:00 a.m. August 22;
3. Hereford - Friday, August 23, 10:00 a.m. Bull Barn;
4. Dumas - Friday, August 23, 3:00 p.m. Moore County Community Building (located at 16th and Maddox);
5. Uvalde - Friday, August 23, 2:00 p.m. Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center.

Texas Agricultural Extension Service is charged with the responsibility of conducting the educational meetings in association with officials of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) of the USDA.

USDA officials explain that in order to export sheep, cattle, or any meat products thereof, to Canada, an owner must certify to the best of his knowledge and judgement that the meat or livestock identified on the certificate have never been fed or implanted with DES and that he has had the livestock in his possession for at least 120 days. Livestock cannot be exported to Canada without this certification. Producers must attend a USDA certification briefing.

U. S. meat plants exporting to Canada must identify and certify specific lots delivered for slaughter as being DES - free. Arrangements must be made by the plant to have written certification from the producer or feeder accompany slaughter animals to be used for export of meat to Canada.

In addition, an accredited veterinarian adds his verification to the owner's certification. In the case of meat, the owner certification will be delivered to the inspector - charge at a slaughter establishment before ante-mortem inspection. The inspector must be satisfied that the identity and integrity of livestock are maintained until export shipment arrangements are made.

Medical Transcript Course At WTSU

A course designed to train office personnel for work in the medical field will be offered at West Texas State University this fall. The course will cover transcribing medical records, typing medical forms (insurance, admission, discharge, etc.), and learning medical terminology.

The course is open to those in the medical field who are interested in advancement, new high school or business college graduates, or those resuming work after several years of homemaking. No field offers a more rewarding future than medical health care and the position of medical secretary is one of the highest paid secretarial jobs. The course will be a practical starting point for qualifying to do this kind of work.

The course will be BE 276-4, offered on Tuesday night from 7:00 until 9:40. Enrollment will be August 31, 1974, in the Activities Center at West Texas State University. For additional information, contact Dr. Roland Johnson, 656-3136.

Dr. R. Deane Shure Publishes Storyette

Old timers of this area will be interested to learn of a new publication by R. Deane Shure, head of the Music Department of Clarendon College from 1909 through 1919. Now 89 years old, Deane Shure has achieved national recognition as a composer and author of short stories.

Dr. Shure's latest storyette, "Granny Becht and Her Three Sons" relates interesting happenings about the Buffalo Ranch of Colonel Goodnight. There are 20 copies available, all autographed, which he will share with local residents. Read his advertisement for particulars.

Dr. Shure came to Clarendon College through Dr. Slover, President of the College at that time, and saw the institution grow from one wooden building, four attractive brick structures housing hundreds of boys and girls, this during the period the college was a four year institution.

BOA CONSTRICTOR IS KILLED SAT. BY A CAR

Fred, the friendly Boa Constrictor being kept for the summer by Lloyd V. Risley for Clarendon College, met his death about noon Saturday. He was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Steve Rogers in front of the Harold Gerner home. The snake was in the act of crossing the road. Though Mr. Risley worked with him for about thirty minutes after he was struck, Fred lost his life.

The Boa Constrictor escaped from his cage one Sunday morning five weeks ago and had not been seen since that time. When struck he was about two blocks from the Risley home. He was about 4 inches around, 6 ft. long and weighed 10-15 pounds.

Many are missing Fred, especially Miles Risley and others who had handled and cared for him thru the school year and the summer months.

Much has been said lately pro and con about the good and the bad in regard to Nursing Homes. This has become a way of life for millions of our older citizens that are dear to us, and comes ever and ever closer to each of us who live into the so-called Golden Agers group. We do not feel capable and won't try to cover the subject but we do believe that on the whole many improvements have been made and great strides are in the future hopes. The Government must find more ways to help, but an area that we seem for the moment so vitally interested lies in the making of each old person's day more like the life was at home. Making the Home less like a strict disciplined hospital and more fitted to the routine of the life from which they came.

The following verses are lifted from a longer poem that was the heartfelt prayer of a nurse as she privately pondered the serious calling of the work she loves. The poem was framed and hanging in the Home where she works. Part of the verses went like this;

A NURSES PRAYER
 May my hands be always gentle,
 May my words be always kind.
 Help me ease the loss and sadness
 In an old one's troubled mind.

Help me curb my terse reply
 While someone bares their soul;
 For in listening to their pleadings
 It somehow makes me whole.

Help me bring a ray of sunshine
 In their dark and empty day;
 Help me nurture Hope Eternal,
 And brighten someone's way.

Help me Dear Lord I Pray
 To brighten someone's smile
 And clasp the hand of a lonely soul
 And to love them all the while.

Please be with me every day
 In the tasks I have to do.
 For in caring for the lonely
 My Only help comes from You.
 By G. W.

We close this column by bowing our own head along with Uncle Zeb in a Special Prayer that God will answer this young lady's Prayer.

VISITS IN OKLAHOMA

Mrs. Lillie Knox returned home Sunday evening after a visit in Oklahoma City. She accompanied Dr. Frank O. Baugh and wife, and a daughter and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Cooper, to Oklahoma City August 9. While there she and her daughter, Mrs. Baugh, visited an aunt of the late Van Knox, Mrs. Bessie Clark at Shawnee. Also, while there, Mrs. Knox attended the Lawrence Welk Show staged in the recently completed Myriad entertainment and convention center in downtown Oklahoma City. Mrs. Knox laughingly remarked that she did her best to get to dance with the famed musician but was defeated by the big crowd. There were 15,000 in attendance that evening.

The Howardwick Party Line

By Sharon Mills

Hello, is it too quiet at your house, now that school has started again? We hope each student will have the best year yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Benges son and family, Ray and Judy Benges, and sons, Barton and Jason of Amarillo, and Mr. Roy Hassell of Childress were here for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bright and children went to Ft. Worth to visit her parents who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. We wish Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Evans many more of bread than in the 1947-49 period — 20 percent compared with 25 percent.

MILLER. The miller's share has bounced around over the past quarter of a century from 0.5 cent as recently as 1970 to its high of 1 cent as recently as last year.

Over the years, the miller has not played as big a role in price increases as the baker or the retailer. In fact, his 3 1/2 percent share of the price of a pound loaf of bread last year was 1 percentage point less than it was in 1947-49.

"OTHER." ERS lumps the cost of several minor nonfarm ingredients and charges for relatively minor functions under "other spreads." These charges have fluctuated over the year, but reached a high last year of 1.7 cents. They represent the difference between the cost to the baker for all ingredients and what the miller and farmer get.

BAKER. The baking industry last year got a little better than half the price of a loaf of bread — 14 cents. Back in 1947-49 bakers were receiving a little less than half the total.

About half of the baker margin goes for wages and salaries, including fringe benefits.

Over the years, output per man-hour in bakeries has not kept up with wage increases, resulting in higher labor costs per loaf. Hourly earnings for production workers in bakeries in 1972 were about $3.70 or about triple the $1.15 average in 1947-49.

In general, the costs of baking and selling bread are trending up. With costs increases, the baking industry has increased mechanization to raise output per man-hour of production labor used. For example, bulk methods of handling flour have largely replaced bag handling methods. Bread can now be delivered in bulk by train or truck and moved by air pressure through tubes into storage bins where, in many instances, it is moved into an automated bread production line.

Profits after taxes per dollar of sales have trended down slightly over the years according to a large sample of baker firms. In 1965, they were nearly 3 percent and have gradually declined to 1.3 percent in 1973. However, profits after taxes as a percent of stockholders' equity have trended up in the industry much of the time since 1961. For example, returns to equity were at the rate of 8.4 percent in 1961 and rose to 12 percent in 1967. But the rate of return dropped sharply in the first half of 1973 to an unusually low 6.5 percent.

RETAILER. Over the past 25 years, the retailer has taken a slightly larger share of the price of bread. Last year, he received 5.4 cents, more than double the 2.2 cents he averaged in 1947-49. His share of the total rose to 20 percent.

Indications are that the retailer's share is smaller for bread sold under a store's own label than for wholesale bakery brands. This would be attributable to lower prices, the larger volume sold by supermarkets, and the streamlined distribution system of bakeries serving them.

Here's a look at how the 1973 average price of 27 1/2 cents was accounted for:

FARMER. He got on the average about 5 1/2 cents from a 27 1/2 cent pound loaf last year. For the previous 6 years, he received from 3.3 cents to 3.8 cents. Still, farmers got a smaller share of the price of a loaf anniversaries.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill-
Attorney General

The mail order business is booming. In 1973, consumers bought $50 billion in goods or services by mail in response to several billions' worth of direct mail advertising.

Proponents of direct mail advertising say it offers "armchair shopping" and brings special items to the attention of persons who otherwise might never be aware of them. They say it is convenient, allows consumers to consider purchases in the privacy of their own home, and that it is a boom to elderly or handicapped persons who find it difficult to get out of the house to shop.

Opponents call it "junk mail" and point to the growing problems of mail order fraud experience in the U. S. as mail orders increase. They complain that their names are purchased by direct mail advertisers in group mailing lists without their permission and that, as a result, they receive much unwanted mail.

The truth probably falls somewhere in between. It is correct to say that the incidence of mail order fraud has risen. U. S. Postal Service inspectors report that more than $160 million was lost last year by consumers in deceptive mail order schemes. But it is also true that some legitimate mail order businesses are trying to see that consumers get what they pay for. Many of them belong to an organization known as the Direct Mail Marketing Association, which is working with the White House Office of Consumer Affairs to devise standards for direct mail marketing.

How do direct mail advertisers get your name for their mailing lists? There are several ways. They can buy membership rolls from some organizations, they can purchase some publication subscription lists, they can buy customer lists from some businesses, or they can deal with agents who supply such material. Prices can range from $15 to about $35 per thousand names.

Direct mail advertisers can also obtain from the U. S. Census Bureau tracts showing the average value of houses in a certain area, match Postal Service zip codes to areas with more expensive houses, and check with the Internal Revenue Service for the average income of certain zip codes for a period five years earlier.

Once they acquire such information, direct mail marketers can target their sales pitches to persons of a general income bracket who can more likely afford their products.

According to the DMAA, the best prospects for direct mail marketers are persons with higher than average incomes who are active in several organizations and who have responded to direct mail advertisements in the past.

DMAA officials say they believe most people don't mind being on direct mail advertising lists, but that they are happy to oblige those who want to get off them.

They have a mail preference service to remove names of persons from all of their members' mailing lists. Consumers who fill out the necessary form and return it should notice a decrease in direct mail advertising in their mailbox within two months, according to DMAA, since it claims to represent between two-thirds and three-fourths of all direct mail advertisers in the country.

The DMAA also has a mail order action line to help consumers who have problems with Mail orders. Our Consumer Protection attorneys suggest that you first complain directly to the firm yourself. Often difficulties can be resolved in this manner.

Our attorneys say that many consumers who lose money in direct mail purchases sometimes do so because they are too willing to believe glowing promises or exorbitant claims. They urge that you use common sense and caution in evaluating claims for mail order products or services and that you do not rely on pictures that may accompany the sales pitch.

No gadget or "special plan" can turn an obese figure into a svelte one overnight. And no "investment secrets" can make you a financial genius if you have trouble adding two and two.

Our attorneys, as well as reputable direct mail marketers, also suggest that you follow these tips when shopping by mail: NEVER send cash with your order, make sure a guaranteed delivery date is mentioned in promotional material, indicate if you are willing to accept any substitutes, and keep a record of your order.

If you have a consumer problem, call our Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Sometimes you may want a television, stereo, movie projector, or other appliance for a particular occasion and not wish to buy it. Or maybe you want to try out such equipment before purchasing to make sure it's what you want.

Many stores offer "rental-purchase" plans to accommodate such customers. These allow consumers to rent items and apply any rental payments to the purchase price if they decide they want to keep the merchandise.

Some merchants aim their advertising at certain groups such as college students or persons in a lower income bracket. They may emphasize that credit ratings are unimportant, or that credit checks are not even necessary for such rental agreements. This can be reassuring to someone who has not yet established a credit record, or to someone who perhaps has a bad credit record.

Information from the Federal Trade Commission indicates that a few businesses offering rental-purchase plans with such "easy credit" terms actually do require past credit experience or a favorable credit rating contrary to their advertising. Some stores may require a person produce credit cards, along with some identification such as a driver's license, before a rental-purchase contract can be completed.

A few stores that have been reported to promote such rental-purchase plans by advertising easy credit, low monthly payments, free delivery and service, and the right to apply rental payments to the purchase price tack on a large deposit charge.

When a consumer decides to enter into such an agreement the FTC notes that some of these merchants may assure the consumer that he will own the appliance after a certain number of payments, but that such stipulations are not included in the contract.

The agency also calls attention to the practice of some unscrupulous merchants who allow or even encourage consumers to miss payments, or to make late payments, early in the rental-purchase contract period. Then, when ownership of the merchandise is about to pass to the consumer, the merchant may point out a clause in the contract stating that payments cannot be late and repossesses the merchandise.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys recommend that consumers check several things before entering into a rental-purchase agreement.

1. If you know in advance that you want to buy an item instead of renting it, check several local stores for prices on the equipment. You may find that the price paid under a rental-purchase plan is considerably higher.
2. Do not be swayed by offers of easy credit.
3. If you decide to rent an item with the idea of trying it out and perhaps buying it, be sure that your contract states that rental payments can be applied to the purchase price. Any reputable merchant will be happy to have his promises written into the contract.
4. Note carefully if the rental-purchase contract requires that each payment on the merchandise be made by a certain date. If it does, be sure your payments arrive on time, or you may risk having the merchandise repossessed later.
5. And, finally, deal with merchants who have the reputation of providing good products or service at a fair price.

If you have a problem with a rental-purchase agreement or need other consumer information, contact our Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Information Service
1100 Commerce Street
Dallas, Texas 75202

Q—As a veteran's widow, I was drawing Veterans administration pension until my remarriage. Can I get back on the pension roll, since my second husband died recently?

A—Yes. Current law allows a formerly eligible widow to regain her pension if the subsequent remarriage ends in death or divorce—provided her income and net worth do not exceed limitations.

Q—Does the recent law which extended GI Bill benefits from eight to 10 years for veterans separated from service between 1955 and 1966 apply to me? Because I was discharged in 1965 before the current GI Bill was passed, my eligibility had already expired as of May 31, 1974 - eight years after the bill was passed.

A—If you hadn't used all your benefits by the former May 31 deadline, PL 93-337 (July 1974) extended them by two years.

Q—I have been out of military service six months but I have been unable to find a job. What would you suggest?

A—If you haven't already done so, visit your local state employment service office and take along your DD Form 214. If a suitable job is not available, you will be allowed to apply for unemployment compensation. If you live near a VA regional office or a U. S. Veterans Assistance Center, you should also check these.

Q—I understand that the Veterans Administration since World War II has approved GI home loans worth over $102 billion for 8.5 million veterans. What I wonder is, have they been good credit risks?

A—Yes, and they continue to be good credit risks. An overall 3.5 percent foreclosure rate on mortgages testifies to their credit worthiness.

Q—A friend of mine says it has cost $29 billion to train about 15 million veterans under three GI Bills administered by the veterans Administration. Can this expenditure be justified?

A—The expenditure could be justified purely on fiscal grounds alone, since it is estimated that veterans will repay more than their amount in added Federal income tax on increased earnings.

Q—My husband retired last month after 20 years in military service. Am I eligible for CHAMPVA, the Veterans Administration's health care program?

A—No, dependents of military retirees are not eligible for CHAMPVA. However, you probably are eligible for the military's health care program, CHAMPUS. Suggest you have your husband check this out.

Q—How long do veterans separated from military service between April 2, 1970, and Aug. 1, 1974, have under the Veterans Insurance Act of 1974 to apply for the new Veterans Group Life Insurance?

A—They have until Aug. 1, 1975, to apply, but they must provide evidence of good health, except for VA-rated service-connected disabilities.

Q—What Veterans Administration benefits should a veteran make his family aware of in the event of his death?

A—A Veteran's family should be especially apprised of such VA benefits as dependency and indemnity compensation for service-connected deaths, nonservice-connected death pensions for widows, or children where widow is ineligible because of excessive income) and burial benefits. Q—I was honorably discharged last month after three years of military service, and I would like to use the GI Bill to go to school in France next year. Is this possible, and do many veterans study outside the United States?

A—Yes, to both questions. Eligible persons may study abroad where courses approved by VA, lead to college degrees. During fiscal year 1974, a total of 65,000 veterans, servicemen, dependents and survivors studied outside the United States.

Social Security

by Travis C. Briggs

Q—Did the 1972 social security amendments provide any changes to help the survivors of a disabled person who died before filing an application for disability benefits?

A—The 1972 amendments modified the application required for disability benefits to provide that an effective application may be filed within 3 months following the month of death.

Q—My husband had worked under covered social security for 30 years. He became ill and had to quit work on October 15, 1972. He died in August 1973, at age 55, never having filed for disability benefits. Would there be any disability benefits due after his death?

A—Possibly, but you must have filed an application within 3 months after the month of your husband's death. A 5-month waiting period is required for benefits effective January 1973 on. Assuming a period of disability were established beginning 10-15-72, disability benefits would be payable on his record for April 1973 through July 1973.

Q—If I enroll for Part B during a general enrollment period, would it take effect immediately?

A—No. It would not take effect until July 1 of the year in which you enroll.

Q—How much will I have to pay for Part B?

A—You will pay the same premium as enrollees who are 65 and older. At the present time, this monthly premium is $6.30 for those who enroll at their first opportunity. Enrollment during the later periods means an increase in the premium amount.

Q—My son is 24 years old, has been in and out of the State Mental Hospital since his father died 6 years ago. He was previously denied for childhood disability benefits. Would the recent changes in social security help him?

A—The new provisions do make it possible for a child to receive disability if he becomes disabled after age 18 and prior to age 22. You should contact your nearest social security office at once to file an application.

Accent On Health

J. E. Peavy, M.D.,
Commissioner of Health

With summer heat scorching Texas, there is the possibility you could become a victim of sunstroke or heat exhaustion during the blast-furnace weather ahead, advises the Texas State Department of Health.

The combined effects of the sun, exercise, heat and excessive perspiration with water and salt loss can produce serious symptoms and may even be fatal.

Exposure to excessive heat may result in heat exhaustion, heat stroke, and heat cramps, with heat exhaustion being the most common. In exhaustion cases, the persons temperature is approximately normal; in stroke, it is high. Most likely to be affected are the aged, the obese, the very young, alcohol addicts, and those suffering from any disease that impairs the strength of the entire body, say state health officials.

Sunstroke is caused by over exposure to the hot sun while heat exhaustion is due to prolonged exposure to high temperatures indoors or outdoors. In sunstroke the body overheats. Usually the victim has a severe headache and everything looks red to him. Often the victim becomes unconscious.

Heat exhaustion is caused by prolonged heat and high humidity, but it is very different from sunstroke. The victim is usually conscious but weak and dizzy. His temperature falls instead of rises, and he feels cold and clammy.

In either case, call a doctor at once. The victim should be moved into the shade or a cool place and any tight clothing loosened.

Simple, common-sense precautions will nearly always prevent these conditions. During hot weather:

Don't expose yourself to the heat when you don't have to.

Don't go out in the hot sunshine without a hat. Don't wear heavy or tight clothing.

Don't exercise strenuously in the sun or heat. Don't exercise just before or after meals.

Don't overeat. Don't overindulge in alcoholic drinks.

On sultry days, keep the air circulating to help the evaporation of perspiration. Keep shaded windows open and use an electric fan.

Profuse perspiration helps cool the body, but it draws fluids and certain chemicals away. If you perspire freely, you may need extra water and salt. Drink water often throughout the day, one glass at a time. The amount of salt needed depends on how much you lose through perspiration. Office workers probably get enough in their food, but others doing heavy labor may need salt tablets periodically or a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a glass of water every hour. Elderly people are prone to develop heat stroke. It may appear in them on hot days during such apparently mild activity as a walk. But they are not the only victims.

Heat cramps usually involve the abdominal muscles or the limbs. Loss of chemicals in profuse perspiration precedes the cramps. The condition may be associated with heat exhaustion. Heat cramps usually respond better to firm pressure than to vigorous kneading.

Remember, the aging, the very young, alcoholics and people with heart trouble are easily affected by sun and heat.

Get In Shape For Hunting Season

Fall dove hunting in Texas heat can be exhausting work, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

The exertion of walking combined with September heat can drain the hunter's energies quickly. For this reason, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials stress physical conditioning before the season starts in September.

Hunters, they say, should try to spend some time outside their air conditioned confines and try to get in some walking.

If they have been sedentary most of the summer, hunters should start slowly with any exercise program. A check with the family doctor is a good idea preceding the new fitness regimen.

The better fit the hunter, the more he can enjoy the sport because of better endurance. And if he is physically fit, the hunter can recover faster from a fatiguing day tramping the fields.
