12 At College

Make Who's Who

Twelve students of Clarendon College have been named to Who's Who of American Junior Colleges for 1974-75.

Receiving the honors were Mike Booth of Clarendon, Mary Gilbreth of Antonita, Colorado, Frank Griffin from Gruver, Amy Lemley of Hedley, Katrina Messer from Clarendon, Judy Peters of Wellington, Martha Flores, Clarendon, Jess Wall of Perryton, Melody Parker from Wheeler, Mary Plain of Follett, Bruce Ferguson from Turkey and Barry long of Wellington.

The students were selected by a committee for this honor based on their accomplishments and abilities in the areas of scholastics, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship, service to the school and promise of future usefulness.

"Gimme some room!" That could be the idea in Bulldog Terry Blank's mind in this shot from Monday night's game, when Western Texas Junior College, top-ranked in the Western Conference, put the squeeze on Clarendon, 78-60. Donald Warrior (40) moves in to assist.

Lions And Mates Will Attend Mid-Winter Amarillo Confab

Lions Club members and their Lionesses will attend a mid-winter conference at Amarillo January 31 and February 1.

Registration begins Friday afternoon at the Hilton Inn, and a group from one of the Amarillo high schools will provide dinner music. Following dinner, all Lions and wives will attend a theatrical production, "The Fantasies," at the Amarillo Little Theater.

Following a leisurely Saturday morning, the Lions have invited their ladies to lunch with them at noon and hear Lion Ed Skypala, state secretary, speak.

While the Lions are in afternoon session, the ladies will be entertained with a style show by models showing Blackburn Brothers fashions.

To conclude the conference, Lions and Lionesses will dine together and hear Lion Ebb Grindstaff, past international director, speak.

Reservations should be made in each case for the Friday dinner, the theatrical performance, the Saturday luncheon and the Saturday dinner, so that adequate plans may be made.

Police Chief Gerdes presented the program at the weekly Lions Club luncheon Tuesday. He gave a talk on the local drug problem, presented a display of the various drugs and drug-related paraphernalia confiscated locally and related some experiences from his professional encounters with users.

At the close of the meeting, a small sample of marijuana was burned so that the Lions might identify the unique odor.

Greenbelt Board Okays Proposal

In a called meeting Monday night, the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority board unanimously passed a resolution calling for the re-financing of $8 million in bonds held by the Texas Water Development Board.

This is the first official step in a long process of administrative and legislative measures which must be taken before Greenbelt Authority can proceed with plans recently undertaken by consulting engineers Freeze and Nichols of Fort Worth for a $1,454,700 improvement package.

The improvements covered by the estimate would turn the Authority's water distribution system from gravity flow to a system with water pumped through the lines under pressure, therefore allowing an increased volume of water to pass through the lines.

The Authority, which serves member cities Childress, Clarendon, Crowell, Hedley and Quanah, also provides water for 22 other communities and about 60 ranches served by Red River Water Authority.

In summer months, manager Jimmy Kuhn said, the Authority is already pumping at full capacity, and demands for water continue to increase annually over the area it serves.

The improvements planned include a one million gallon reservoir and pump station at Quanah, an elevated tank at Medicine Mound and temporary work at the filter plant on Greenbelt Lake, all in the top priority. The second phase of work would include a Pease River pump station and a raw water pump station and permanent filter plant improvements at Greenbelt Lake.

The third priority calls for a four million gallon reservoir at Childress.

If all goes according to plans, a FHA grant of $700,000 may finance about half of the improvements.

Before the Authority can receive the grant money, however, its charter from the Texas 53rd Legislature in 1954 must be amended by another act of the state legislature. The charter expressly forbids Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority from entering into any sort of financial contract with the federal government. A bill to this effect has been discussed between board president R. A. Yarbrough of Childress and legislators, Kuhn said.

The motion passed at Monday's board meeting at Childress was put forward at the board's regular January 16 meeting, but was tabled since some of the board members were unfamiliar with the plans.

The Junior and senior students of Clarendon High School surprised Mrs. Todd on her birthday, Friday morning, with homemade cakes and punch. They gathered in the cafeteria for refreshments and to present Mrs. Todd with roses and a charm bracelet. Mr. Todd also attended.

Early Donley Rivals Gunsmoke

Clarendon Peace Justice Ralph Jefferson ruled in an inquest held at the Goodnight Ranch Section House that Will Meredith, 32, "came to his death by (a) concussion of the brain produced by a stroke with a gun and being thrown from the train by the conductor."--February 26, 1888.

That is the first entry in one of Donley County's public records, the peace justice's inquest book. Conductor P. Reagan was arrested by Sheriff Al Gentry for disposal of the case by District Court on July 2, 1888.

These public records provide a panoramic view of the history of the county in those rough-shod days prior to 1910. And, for the imaginative mind, they provide a tableau more dramatic, more realistic, than any episode of Gunsmoke. Imagination is required, for the old hand written records--some in beautifully archaic hand, others in a barely legible scrawl--are often cryptic.

For example, on July 23, 1921, J.J. Greenwade's death was examined by Clarendon Peace Justice Leon Lewis (no relation to the present Peace Justice, Carroll L. Lewis). Greenwade was shot through the lower part of the abdomen, with the projectile coming out the small of his back. He also had several knife wounds on his body and two gashes about his throat.

After hearing a man and his wife who were witnesses and consulting with others, Lewis ruled "that deceased came to his death as the result of above described wounds all of which was self-inflicted."

The importance of the Fort Worth-Denver Railroad in the early days of Clarendon and Donley County cannot be underestimated. Death due to accident, negligence or malice on the trains was even more common than having one's life blood course over a searing bullet.

The power of the railroads in those days must have been awesome. On September 1, 1913, 16-year-old Lee Baker fell under a moving freight train. Clarendon Peace Justice A.F. Barnett recorded that with his dying breath he said he did not blame the railroad in any way.

An unknown man with a sandy beard, apparently an umbrella repairman from the truck he bore, was killed by the morning 209 as he walked down the track on April 17, 1907. Since he apparently did not hear the work train, we may surmise that he was deaf.

Some 10 months later, February 14, 1908, the very next entry in the ledger records the similar death of J.B. Hensley, struck by the morning passenger train.

Peace Justice Jefferson ruled on October 30, 1888, that William Hall, about 24, who died in a collision of cars on the Fort Worth-Denver Railroad, was stealing a ride and therefore the railroad was not responsible, as his ticket was not found.

Railroad fireman William Shelley, about 25, died of injuries and scalds when the engine turned over. Clarendon Peace Justice G.A. Jackson ruled on January 28, 1889.

In a practically illegible account, Peace Justice R.F. Wood wrote on November 2, 1905 that C.H. Garrett was killed in a collision of train cars when three cars from Express No. 203 broke loose and were hit by Express No. 204. After hearing the conductor of No. 204 tell his side of the story, Wood wrote:

"The cause is without evidence as to the cause of the said and without the evidence at hand to place 203 breaking loose or getting away from the train. Negligence, if any negligence occurred, on the part of train crew No. 203...the court is of the

"...shot through the abdomen...several knife wounds...gashes about the throat--death the result of above described wounds, all of which was self-inflicted."

T.F. Autry died on March 20, 1909, from a gunshot above the left ear suffered during a holdup on the train just this side of Giles. G.R. Miller from Acme had got on the train there in a car with two or three other men and reportedly decided to rob them of what money they had. He was captured at Hedley by deputy Gamblin as he washed the blood from his hands in the back of a grocery store, and some Clarendon citizens still remember that June day in 1910 when he was hung for his crimes by Sheriff J.T. Patman.

Miller, who had been preying on hoboes riding the train cars, confessed to killing 11 men on the train after his sentence was passed. He reportedly got 50 cents for the opinion that train crew on Exp. No. 204 or (sic) not guilty according to any evidence here...

killing for which he was hung, and deputy Gamblin of Hedley got a $1,000 reward for his capture.

Reportedly from a family of toughs, Miller escaped briefly from the Donley County Jail, but Sheriff Patman used bloodhounds to quickly trace him to Ed Bromley's barn, within three or four blocks of the jail. After that, he was placed in the death cell.

Practically the whole town of Clarendon and the entire population of Donley County and many people from miles around turned out for the 10:30 morning hanging, the last legal hanging in the Panhandle, though there have been others, before and since. Many a family discussed whether the children should attend the event, but one who saw it as a child said it has had a strong influence for right on him since.

Justice in the old west was served on G. R. Miller, convicted of the shooting death of T. F. Autry and hung in 1910. Miller confessed to 11 murders during his career as a highwayman. His was the first legal hanging in Donley County and the last legal hanging in the Texas Panhandle. Pictured before the crowd that flocked to see the execution are Methodist minister, Rev. Shelton, and an unidentified Catholic priest administering last rites, Miller, Sheriff J. T. Patman and an unidentified deputy. Deputy Gamblin made the arrest at Hedley and was given a $1,000 reward.

A Catholic priest and Methodist Rev. Shelton administered the last rites, the curtain around the scaffold was drawn, and Sheriff Patman administered justice as decided by the jury: L.F. Beckner, Thomas Lacy, R.A. Callahan, W.T. McFarland, J.A. Barnett, W.A. Womack, Joe Penland, J.S. Spradlin, W.D. Dishroone, C. Risley, C.R. Skinner and G.D. Greaves.

It was not until December 26, 1917, that Donley County recorded its first death due to an automobile accident, which gave Peace Justice Leon Lewis cause to remark in the official ledger that it was a most "unusual death." George (Ichabod) Shepherd died that day when the auto he was driving overturned, pinning him beneath it. He was more than likely dubbed Ichabod because of his penchant for the new-fangled contraptions in the first place, and his death probably reinforced the faith of the populace in the horse.

The people probably did not recall that Looney Howerton, about 16, died of a horse or mule kick to the skull on September 12, 1888, according to Peace Justice Jefferson.

Clarendon's Jeffers Lake, northeast of the courthouse, was involved in the disappearance of an unknown man believed to be from Fort Worth which will probably never be solved. On August 8, 1905, that man was found floating in the lake. Clarendon Peace Justice R.F. Wood held that he drowned.

An overdose of morphine while under the influence of alcohol took the life of Joe Shaw, about 23, who was missing one leg at the knee, on April 20, 1889. Peace Justice Jackson ruled.

Another victim of the readily available morphine-based drugs in those days was W.H. Morrison on May 27, 1902. Clarendon Peace Justice Arn Beville ruled that he died of heart disease compounded by an overdose of strong heart tonic.

Bean Garrison was bushwhacked by an unknown party on July 5, 1892. Clarendon Peace Justice George W. Graham held the inquest. That is one case that even Sheriff Al Gentry couldn't crack. Others who followed the code more closely were often not as lucky.

Of the various accounts of death by gunshot listed in the old reports, the one that arouses the most interest in those who have read them is the running tale of one J.F. Green, who at 37 years of age, shot and killed Bill Babb on May 10, 1892. That is the way the inquest report reads, but there has been some speculation that it should read Bill Bell, since a family feud was evidently involved.

Unlike others guilty of murder, Green was charged by Peace Justice Graham with being "the cause of death" of Babb (or Bell, as the case may be), and he was released on $1,000 bond in the pistol shooting. The three witnesses examined were Dr. J.D. Storking, Dick Williams and W.R. Butler.

Less than two months later, July 5, 1892, Bell brothers Robert and Eugene ran across Green in a downtown Clarendon saloon on Sully Street. They had words there, and (from sketchy reports told long-time residents by their fathers) Green crossed the street and entered the Eilers Saloon, located where Mulkey Theater is now.

Green drew his pistol and placed it on the bar. The Bell brothers soon followed him into the Eilers Saloon, and when the smoke cleared Robert Bell and Green lay dead. Green was hit above the left ear and twice in the right side of the chest.

Sheriff Gentry arrested Eugene Bell after Peace Justice Graham held that he and Robert Bell did with malice afore-thought kill Green, pending $5,000 bail.

It's amazing what the power of advertising can do. For weeks now, we have watched the television commercials announcing the coming of some new shows that might provide a little better entertainment than some of the others being aired.

The major new attraction of the year on the ABC network was a highly touted "Hot L Baltimore" program that, if you believed the advance advertisements aired by the network, would become a must for every television viewer each week.

We watched the initial telecast of this program Sunday night and our opinion of this "hot new sensation" is that it stinks to high heaven. We have seen programs on the boob tube before that we didn't think were so hot, but this one should take the prize this year for the least likely to succeed in program ratings.

The advance advertising put out by the television networks on their new shows is a good example of what advertising can do, however. All advertising works this way and is not limited to television, and by adding the element of human curiosity to an advertising campaign, anyone can sell an item (or show) one time. The repeat selling may come a little harder (or hopeless) if the item is of inferior quality, but it just goes to show that people can be drawn by advertising.

Since Ford and General Motors joined in the rebate program on certain models of cars, interest here in Clarendon has been stimulated some, most dealers report, but the public is still not breaking down doors to buy.

The rebates have helped to stir some interest and create some additional showroom traffic in most dealerships but apparently most people around here are not interested in the compact size car.

We have had some of our out of town visitors tell us that in the larger cities, the compact cars have just about taken over because of the energy crunch of a year ago and because of the initial outlay is considerably less than on the full size models.

Here, there is higher demand for full size luxury models than the smaller variety. Perhaps not as much demand as most dealers would like, but the feeling for luxury and comfort still rate high with buyers.

We have been taken to task by at least one person here in Clarendon over a statement appearing in this column last Sunday concerning the food stamp program. This individual has not spoken directly with this department but has contacted some of our associates and at least one of our advertising accounts.

The remark apparently centers around an army officer with income in excess of $17,000 who qualified for food stamps. Although this man was not a personal friend, somewhere at home we do have his name on file.

This particular case was at Ft. Hood, Texas, where anyone can plainly see the food stamp program is being abused by the military simply because it's there. It is not uncommon for an enlisted man whose total income exceeds $600 per month apply for and receive food stamps.

Of course, this program is not the only one abused. Upon completion of an enlistment, or at retirement, military personnel qualify for unemployment benefits after separation from the service. One warrant officer we remember received $804 per month (or so he said) in retirement pay, received full medical privileges at army medical facilities and maintained privileges at the military commissary, went to work only after his unemployment checks ran out because he "needed something to keep me busy."

Another of the more common frauds to be found in places such as the Killeen-Ft. Hood area are the deliberate attempts (many quite successful) of obtaining welfare checks. Although we can't remember offhand of anyone ever being charged with fraud while living in that area, we did meet several couples who obtained a divorce and lived separately until the wife could qualify for welfare payments. They would then live together as man and wife but would not remarry.

Although we would seriously doubt that there is any fraud taking place with most of the programs carried out locally, we have seen these programs abused to a great extent in other areas. Our contention is that the overall programs leave something to be desired in the realm of justice. While following the law to the letter, some deserving people may be denied their right to financial help while others who are not have taken advantage of the letter of the law and found some way to qualify for state and federal handouts.

It is these areas of injustice that we would like to see corrected. As we stated Sunday, we firmly believe in financial help to the aged who must live with a fixed income, and to those people who, because of no fault of their own, cannot maintain their families.

However, for those people who WILL NOT work because they know someone will give them handouts, and won't work even though jobs are available that they can do, welfare, unemployment and food stamps should be cut from their grasp.

We received a column this week from Washington stating: "...These quarterly surveys (a survey compiled by the National Federation of Independent Business by Faculty Associates) are showing, among other things, that even in a time of high unemployment, jobs all over the country are going begging, some as long as six months."

Apparently, even with the headlines screaming about the high unemployment rates, there are jobs available that are not being filled. Why? Because the bulk of these unemployed people are receiving benefits ranging from state and federal unemployment compensation, union aid, welfare benefits...and, in all probability, food stamps, most of which are paid for by the taxpayers.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN, Tex.—Gov. Dolph Briscoe served up a smorgasbord of legislative recommendations which could keep lawmakers jumping for the next four months, even if they had no proposals of their own.

Briscoe offered a 10-part package, assigning top priority to complete restructuring of the public school finance system and again serving warning he will not approve a tax bill.

He said he hopes the 64th Legislature will be known as the "Public Education Session."

The governor made no mention of two much-discussed issues: Constitutional revision and creation of a public utilities commission.

He called for the "weighted pupil approach" to distributing state aid. That would base state and local spending on actual cost of instructional programs geared to individual district needs and measured against the best 42 districts. The local district's ability to pay would be based on taxable value of its property.

Briscoe placed heavy emphasis on legislation to assure individuals' right to privacy.

He drew some of his best applause with proposals to expand powers of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, to give it a veto over new higher education construction programs and creation of new departments. Many college boards of regents can be expected to fight the bill.

The Governor's many recommendations included repeal of the state sales tax on utility bills and steps to remove problem drivers from the road.

COMMITTEES NAMED—The decks were cleared for action in the House of Representatives with Speaker Bill Clayton's appointment of standing committees which process legislation.

Clayton named Rep. Bill Prenal of Bryan, 42, chairman of the budget-writing Appropriations Committee. Prenal is a conservative cattleman, and called for a tight-fisted approach to spending.

Rep. Tom Massey of San Angelo, another conservative, will be chairman of the Public Education Committee, which will process school finance reform measure. Rep. Fred Head of Athens was designated chairman of the Higher Education Committee.

Rep. Tom Uher of Bay City will head the workhorse State Affairs Committee. Rep. Ben Grant of Marshall will chair the Judiciary Committee.

Rep. Fay Hutchison will be chairman of the Constitutional Revision Panel; Eddie Bernice Johnson of Dallas, Labor; Tom Craddock of Midland, Natural Resources; Craig Washington of Houston, Criminal Jurisprudence;

Luther Jones of El Paso, Elections; Bill Sullivan of Gainesville, Environmental Affairs; Joe Hubenak of Rosenberg, Agriculture and Livestock;

Chris Semos of Dallas, Business and Industry; Jerry Donaldson of Gatesville, Financial Institutions; Pete Laney of Hale Center, House Administration; Lane Denton of Waco, Social Services; Lynn Nabers of Brownwood, Health and Welfare;

Ben Bynum of Amarillo, Insurance; E. L. Short of Tahoka, Intergovernmental Affairs; Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad, Judicial Affairs; Benjie Bock of New Braunfels, Liquor Regulation; Felix McDonald of Edinburg, Calendars and Tom Schieffer of Fort Worth, Local and Content Calendars.

WELFARE SPENDING UP—Welfare spending during the last fiscal year came to $613.7 million in Texas, the State Welfare Department reported.

Of the total, $405.8 million was in federal funds. Medical expenditures increased sharply, but average family payments declined slightly. More than a million Texans received food stamps at the end of fiscal 1974.

AG OPINIONS—Atty. Gen. John Hill held the legislature is limited in the amount of its appropriations to state employees and teacher retirement programs by a constitutional ceiling of six per cent of salaries paid participants.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- A school board may meet in closed session to discuss salaries of individual employees, but not to discuss salaries of a class.
- A commissioner's court must pay reasonable attorneys' fees for lawyers named to represent indigent defendants.

The Department of Public Safety must supply on request a magnetic tape containing data on Texas drivers over age 64.

Class A and B misdemeanor complaints may be lodged before a justice of the peace.

The Jefferson County Commissioners Court has no authority to prepare, approve or amend Jefferson County drainage district budgets.

The Texas State Board of Landscape Architects may not authorize its licensees to perform plumbing acts without a plumbing license.

MANY CRIMES UNREPORTED—Only a half to a third of all crimes are reported to law enforcement agencies, according to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

J. Robert Grimes, LEAA regional administrator, said increased reporting probably accounts for a large part of the 16 per cent jump in national crime.

Current figures indicate no Texas city has failed to report a rise in the "Part I" crimes of murder, manslaughter, rape, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft. Figures indicate the rates are in keeping with the national trend, LEAA said.

PUSHING REVISION—Attorney General Hill carried a plea for support of constitutional revision this year to the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Hill also has asked the top officials to support his plan for article-by-article revision, with an effort to get proposals through the legislature in regular session and on a November 1975 ballot.

APPOINTMENTS—Ford D. Albritton Jr. of Bryan was named to the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board, succeeding Loren Bryce Meaders of Dallas who resigned.

Others appointed by Governor Briscoe included William Ralph Elliott of Sherman, 59th district judge; John D. Bevers of Lubbock, 72nd district judge; Ted Z. Robertson of Dallas, 95th district judge; Pat McClung of Dallas, juvenile court No. 2 judge of Dallas County; Belisario D. J. Flores as assistant adjutant general for air, and Brigadier Gen. Willie L. Scott as assistant adjutant general for Army.

JOB BILL SIGNED—Extended jobless benefits will be available for 25,000 Texans 6 months early, due to passage last week of the first bill of the 64th Legislature.

The bill allows Texas to receive $5 million in federal funds during the next month in recession-fighting aid. Unemployment benefits can be extended 13 weeks beyond the normal 26-week period by the act.

ushers were Billy Talley and Larry Green; groom attendants Dan Naylor of Crowell and James Hall, best man; brides attendants, Miss Lou Ann Drum and Miss Peggy Talley.

The receiving line for the reception was formed in the foyer of the church for the reception which followed the ceremony. The reception was held in the fellowship hall.

Refreshments were served from a beautiful table covered with a white cloth carrying out the chosen colors of the bride, white and pastel blue. The table had a three tiered wedding cake and was centered by a beautiful arrangement of white shasta daisies and blue candles. Other appointments were crystal. Serving at the refreshment table were Miss Peggy Talley, Miss Ellen Green, Mrs. Bernie Green and Mrs. Larry Green.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in the Martin community.

CJC Enrollment Up 36% From Year Ago

With several days remaining for students to register for the Spring Semester, Clarendon College has already passed the fall enrollment for this year and has a 36 per cent increase over last spring's enrollment.

The count of 407 students is an increase of 104 students compared to last spring's enrollment of 303. There were 405 students enrolled during the fall semester of this year.

Lloyd Waters, Director of Information at the College was unable to give a breakdown on the increase due to registration still being open until February 5. However, Waters felt that the increase was due to the expansion of off-campus programs by the college in Pampa, Childress, McLean and Valley High School.

Predictions were that spring enrollment would be slightly less than the fall enrollment, as this is the usual case. Therefore the increase is more significant then it would appear because it runs counter to the usual trend.

During the business meeting, following the reading and approval of the minutes, Miss Mongole, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following names as officers for 1975-1976, after which they were elected by the club:

Bronco News

by CAMILLE MANN

Friday night the Broncos and Broncettes traveled to Claude to complete district action against them for this basketball season. Although both teams were defeated, it was only in score.

The Broncettes, challenged by the past years of defeats with Claude, were resolved to change the ordinary outcome. Despite their tremendous effort throughout the entire game, the Broncettes were defeated by a narrow margin of 46-43.

Trailing 14-24 at half, the Broncettes returned in the third quarter to pull the game within three points. In the final period, the Broncettes displayed great determination, poise, and persistence playing as they managed to equal and excel the Mustangettes drive. Time ran out, and Claude held the three point deficit. Pearly Butler led the Broncettes with 28 points while Pam Mooring added nine points and Chris Craft six points.

"I think my girls played better than they ever have by far this year," Coach Keeney said. "Claude got too far ahead in the second quarter and that really decided the game."

"They were shooting for us. We just felt fortunate to win," Claude coach Jim Kirkland said. "They really played well."

The Broncos, putting forth a bold battle but retained by lack of team experience, fell to Claude 47-78. The Broncos never yielded the Mustanges an easy bucket through the entire game.

Three Broncos reached double figures: Howard Weatheron made 14 points, Irven Thomas 12 points, and Gary Jack hit for ten points. The Broncos continued to improve with each game played since the arrival of four promising athletes advancing from the B-team.

Coach Keeney commented that he felt with time and experience the boys should begin to improve.

"The key right now is playing experience," he said.

Early Bulldog Grip Slips; WTC Takes 78-60 Victory

The Clarendon College Bulldogs slipped from an early lead to fall to number one ranked in the Western Conference West Texas College 78-60 here Monday night.

WTC took the tipoff and opened the scoring, but the Bulldogs turned the early tide for an eight point lead, 14-6, on a characteristically fine outside shooting performance of Archie Hughes.

Hughes, a 6' 1" guard from Philadelphia, Pa., who is one of the top conference scorers, paced the team with eight field goals and one free shot for 17 points.

Second half of the season addition to the Bulldogs John Hagan, 6' 3" freshman from Hazard, Ky., turned in five field goals and three from the line for 13 points. Also listed in the top conference players, the transfer student from Cumberland College at Williamsburg, Ky., is averaging 17 points per game.

Freshman Donald Warrior, 6' 5" from Checotah, Ok., netted three field goals for six points. And his fellow Oklahoman, 6' 4" sophomore from Hugo Davy Graham, tallied five points.

Early in the first half, the Bulldogs pushed their edge over WTC to 10 points on a field goal by Hagan and maintained the margin up to 23-13, but WTC, with a remarkable display of strength, had cut down the Bulldog dreams to tie the score 24-24 at 5:10 in the first half. They took the lead they were to hold through the rest of the game on a free shot with 4:39 remaining in the half, their first advantage since their opening score.

With the Bulldogs plagued by loss of more than their share of rebounds, WTC pulled away to leave the score at 31-27 going into the half.

WTC returned to the court to widen their margin to eight or 10 points, a margin that was to remain till the Bulldogs began a last ditch effort at comeback, risking more longer shots and losing still more rebounds.

The fast ball passing that Clarendon used effectively in the first half to wear down WTC was notably lacking in the second half as the Bulldogs were more eager to settle the score. That technique of wearing down the opponent by forcing them to shift defensive positions repeatedly in rapid succession was used against the Bulldogs in last week's games with Frank Phillips

Junior College and Amarillo College.

Thursday, January 30, the Bulldogs travel to Levelland to challenge South Plains, and Saturday, February 1, they play Wayland Junior Varsity at Plainview.

The Bulldogs host New Mexico Military from Roswell Monday, February 3.

Store License Is Abolished

Comptroller Bob Bullock reminded Texas business operators Saturday that the state store license requirement has been abolished.

Bullock said his office has been besieged with calls and letters this month by businesses which were unaware that the license requirement was repealed as of Dec. 31, 1974.

"Obviously, the past administration didn't get the message out," Bullock said. "I consider it good news that we've been able to do away with the store license."

The store license, which started at $5 for a single store, was a minor revenue source. Its repeal by phases was ordered by the Legislature in 1971.

Bullock said that some 240,000 stores in Texas had previously been covered by the license act.

He said his office is returning license money still being sent in by businesses unaware of repeal.

"It's gratifying to see businesses voluntarily trying to do right and pay their taxes, but in this case we are saying 'thanks, but no thanks,'" Bullock said.
