Pre-Planting Preparation Underway

Farmers Facing Tighter Squeeze

Emphasizing that he does not have a crystal ball, and that he is not an economist, Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley made several longrange predictions on farming in Bailey County for this year.

Citing a moisture deficit at this time, Tanksley said he believes farmers may get enough moisture to plant a crop, but in many parts of the predominantly dryland farm area, from three to six inches of moisture will be needed to produce what would be considered a 'bumper' crop.

"Looking at the total county today," he commented, "Moisture and the high wind we are having are the two factors which will determine what crops will be planted in this area. The high winds have severely caused a moisture loss. In the southern part of the county, dryland wheat has been lost."

The county agent said the wind has caused many fields to look flat and look like the dust bowl days. Tanksley said that until moisture is received for this type conditions, farmers cannot get into the fields to do necessary pre-planting.

He added that in other areas, the soil is tighter and is staying in good farming condition.

Most of the activity at this time is in the north and western parts of the county said the county agent. Farmers are active in land preparations, applying herbicides, fertilizing and bedding. Corn planting is expected to be in full swing around April 10.

"I expect to see some corn planted before April 10, but planting will really be moving along by mid-April, he predicted. In addition, alfalfa is being watered and cotton land preparations are underway.

Tanksley said the former will be in a very tight situation this year due to several factors.

"We all realize that farmers, along with the rest of us are feeling the

Registration For Voters

Lagging Here

Persons who are eligible to vote and who have not registered must register at the tax office in the Bailey County courthouse in order to be allowed to vote in the May Primary.

LaVayne Williams, Bailey County Tax Assessor, said the final date to register is Thursday, April 3.

At this time, a total of 3,331 registered voters are shown on the roll at the tax office, but Mrs. Williams said that is probably less than half the eligible voters in the county.

Gil Lamb Ends Career With Muleshoe Radio

Gil Lamb has asked the Journal to announce that he is no longer associated with KMUL Radio, the radio station he founded in Muleshoe 26 years ago. He said he was terminated by Leola Randolph, president of Muleshoe Broadcasting Co., Inc., a resident of Portales.

Lamb said it was 'rather a low blow to him' coming just two days after he was presented the Citizen of the Decade award at the annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture on Saturday, March 15.

Longtime radio personality Gil Lamb originated KMUL from his home in 1954. At first, KMUL was a news program originating in his home and broadcast through KICA Radio in Clovis. From February, 1954, he began his daily news broadcasts, instituting the famous "Muletrain News."

"The song 'Muletrain' was used to intro-

Also thought to tie in with the burglary was the reported theft of a battery from a pickup east of the VFW, said the deputy sheriff.

Mrs. Jack (Magann) Rennels said she received a notice from the Texas Employment Commission that she had been granted unemployment compensation after her dismissal from KMUL Radio.

Little League Future Looks 'Doubtful' Now

Four years ago, the future of Little League Baseball in Muleshoe was very doubtful. Despite meetings conducted in an attempt to secure a president of the league, along with other officers, little to no interest was found.

Once again, the future of LL here is in jeopardy. Last Thursday night, only seven or eight people showed up for a meeting to elect officers, and no one indicated they wanted the responsibility of being officers for the league.

Vice President Galen Bock said he would not have time to devote to Little League this year, and Sam Gonzales, who has acted as president for the last three years said he plans to coach in the league.

At this time, there are four minor leagues and four major leagues which need coaches and managers. This is exactly half of the 16 teams in the two leagues.

Operational funds are available, explained Bock, "But, we need people who are willing to work in the league."

Another meeting has been scheduled for this week to try to work out the problems, which not only involved the 240 young

Tornado Season Is Near; Safety Tips Are Outlined

"We interrupt this program for the following announcement...This is a tornado warning. A tornado has been sighted north of town. All residents are urged to take cover immediately...I repeat, this is a tornado warning..." These words, along with the piercing sound of sirens, often strike terror in the hearts of those who live in areas prone to tornadoes. Too often, however, the warnings are not taken seriously enough.

How you react if a tornado strikes your town may determine whether you survive the almost certain devastation.

The Insurance Information Institute stresses the importance of staying inside during the storm. Above all, it warns, do not attempt to flee from the path of the tornado in an automobile. Tornadoes are too swift and erratic.

Last April, when a tornado struck Wichita Falls, 26 of the 43 persons who were killed and 30 of the 59 who were seriously injured were attempting to flee the tornado in their car, according to a study by a team of epidemiologists.

One item which a lot of people pay but little attention to when they are buying a new car is the tires. For very little more you can own steel belted radials on your new car with the advantage of getting almost twice the miles from them and yet spend only very little more money. The manufacturer is making radials standard equipment on the luxury models but it is still good business to check the tires and the difference in price at the time of purchase no matter what model of automobile you buy. If you are one who really make the tires important the dealer will get you what you want. This may sound like a little item but it can be one which will make your car more enjoyable for a longer period of time.

price of energy as energy costs continue to rise. This combined with unbelievable inflation rates and the interest rates for money, which are at an all time high, are possible problems the farmer must face," he commented. "Add to this the political problems between the United States and Russia, where we have lost exports. It is very questionable to what market prices to expect for crops at fall harvest time.

"Put all of this together," he continued, "energy cost, inflation, high interest and the farmer is looking at a tight squeeze in terms that make the difference in profit and loss.

Bock said that any interested person should make grain sorghum acres in the dryland areas," he predicted.

County Agent Tanksley said vegetables, sunflowers, soybeans and alfalfa acreage is expected to be just about the same as it has been for the last three year average.

He said that even with the wind and sand, irrigated wheat in Bailey County is in good condition, but dryland wheat has a very low potential for harvest.

If no moisture is received within the next two to three weeks, especially the dryland areas will begin to feel the pinch of not being able to plant early crops.

late Ola Belle Lamb, purchased a house on West Third Street, and continued their broadcasts through KICA in Clovis.

Lamb's daughter and her family, the Jack Rennels, reside in the former location on West Third Street at this time.

On July 26, 1956, KMUL Radio went on the air in Muleshoe, broadcast from Muleshoe. John Burroughs, who at the time was governor of New Mexico, and Leola Randolph, both of Portales, asked Lamb to manage the radio station here. He purchased a partnership in the station.

In 1962, KMUL was opened in its present location on West Eighth Street and in 1958, Lamb hired Noe Anzaldua to broadcast a Spanish-language program on the air on Sunday afternoon. After it was seen that his first Spanish-speaking program was gaining popularity, it was increased to each afternoon, seven days a week, and all afternoon on Sunday.

Lamb then put KMUL-FM on the air in 1966. The station features easy-listening music. Lamb also instituted the 'Storm Alert' system which also operates through KMUL.

Long a champion of the 'underdog' Lamb has been associated with all major fund raising campaigns in this area, including the Law Enforcement Center, Library, a new Methodist Church United Fund, Scouts, baseball, and any other worthwhile cause.

The manager and part-owner of KMUL Radio has won every major award that could be presented to any persons in this area.

Since he left the station, 'Muletrain' has been removed from the air during the past week, and has reverted to a 'straight' news program.

prone areas should identify and reinforce some interior portion of their house as a shelter.

2. Mobile-home parks should provide a community shelter for their residents.

3. All public buildings should have clearly designated tornado shelters.

4. People in motor vehicles should seek shelter immediately when they hear a tornado warning.

Although more tornadoes occur in Texas than in any other state, no state is entirely free from the threat, the Insurance Information Institute notes. Since these killer storms often strike suddenly and with little or no warning, knowing what to do can save your life.

According to the Institute, the safest place in the home is in the basement. In houses that do not have a basement, residents are advised to take shelter in a bathroom or closet on the lowest level of the structure or under a piece of heavy furniture. Stay away from windows.

If a tornado strikes during school hours, teachers should keep children away from windows and seek shelter either in a designated area or in interior hallways. Concerned parents should not attempt to go out in the storm to pick up their children at school.

The Institute advises office workers or shoppers to seek shelter in an interior corridor on the lowest level of whatever structure they are in and to stay away from windows or exterior walls. All personnel should be aware of the location of designated shelter areas in their building.

For motorists who happen to be in their car as a tornado approaches it is best to abandon the vehicle and seek shelter in the nearest ditch or depression. Again DO NOT try to drive out of the path of the tornado.

AFTER THE STORM
Broken power lines, shattered glass, splintered wood and other sharp objects are some of the hazards that residents may encounter after the storm has passed. Extreme care should be taken when moving about in the area damaged by the tornado. Home owners and businessmen who have suffered damage to their property are advised to make temporary repairs to

Rate Case Is Settled For SPS

Bert Ballengee, executive vice president of Southwestern Public Service Company, announced March 19th that Southwestern Public Service Company and the Steering Committee representing South Plains and Panhandle cities have reached an agreement on the Committee's recommendation of its member cities concerning SPS's 1980 rate case. The Steering Committee recommended the following: municipalities in the SPS Texas service area set the revenue deficiency at $31,923,000; rates to correct this deficiency should become effective with the May billing cycle; there will not be any differential in the summer-winter rates and the Public Utility Commission should eliminate the requirement to show the fuel costs adjustment as a separate item on the bills.

Ballengee said the Southwestern Public Service Company accepted this proposal for three reasons. "We have settled because of SPS's need for immediate relief in order to maintain its current construction program and the quality of service our customers require. Our original request was projected for two years; however, present economic uncertainties on the national scene make it very difficult to project exactly what will happen in the future. By accepting less, we may have to ask for additional rate relief sooner than previously anticipated. By implementing the rates in May, we will hopefully be able to save our financial bond ratings which are vital to our customers' long range benefit," Ballengee concluded.

prevent further loss from rain, wind and looting. They should also call their insurance representatives as soon as possible, since prompt service is usually available within hours after a tornado or other disaster strikes a community.

During the tornado season, the Institute suggests that businessmen, schools, churches, or other public facilities keep a battery-operated radio, flashlights and a supply of fresh batteries on hand.

Home owners are also advised to make a complete inventory of their personal belongings before a tornado or other disaster strikes. This inventory should be kept in a safe deposit box or in a safe place away from the premises.

The Institute emphasizes the importance of staying inside during the storm and exercising extreme caution when venturing out after a tornado has passed.

4-H Program Will Help Farm Youth

By Jim Irwin
Asst. Extension Agent

Many youths 14 and 15 years of age seek agricultural employment every year and find that they are not allowed to accept work involving certain machine operations because of child labor laws that apply to agriculture. However, there is a procedure whereby youth can be exempt from a portion of these laws to operate certain agricultural equipment if they have completed 4-H training in the Tractor and Machinery Safety Program.

The Department of Labor has ruled that certain occupations in agricultural are particularly hazardous for the employment of children under age 16. Hazardous operations include operating a tractor over 20 PTO horsepower, operating certain machinery, handling certain chemicals and working with certain animals.

The basic purpose of the Child Labor Regulation is to prevent accidents. There is a means, however, for qualified youth in the 14-15 year age bracket to obtain exemption certificates to operate certain, but not all, hazardous equipment. In providing a means for exemption certificates, it was not the intent of the Department of Labor to open up possibilities for youth to get around department regulations, but to permit youth to take advantage of training and knowledge they have already acquired.

The Department of Labor has ruled that Extension Service may establish training programs for youth under 16 to meet the requirements for exemptions from the Hazardous Agricultural Occupations Order of the Department of Labor. Under this program, the County Extension Agent and a 4-H leader certifies that participants have completed established training programs meeting exemption requirements.

All 4-H programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are open to all youth ages 9-19 regardless of socioeconomic levels, race, color, sex, religion or natural origin.

All youth 14-15 years of age interested in participating in this program, to obtain an exemption certificate for operating certain hazardous equipment, should contact Jim Irwin, Assistant County Extension Agent by April 4. Come by or call the Extension office in the courthouse at 272-4556.

It's about time for baseball fans to watch training camp games.

Muleshoe Native Meets African Leader

Uganda's President Godfrey Binaisa met at State House in Entebbe on January 30 with Evangelist Wayne Bristow, president of Outreach Evangelism International, a Lubbock-based missionary organization.

Bristow, a Muleshoe native, had just completed a two-week tour of the battle-scarred country to survey physical and spiritual needs in the aftermath of eight years of terror under Idi Amin.

Uganda was liberated in April of 1979 when a combined force of Tanzanian and exiled Ugandan soldiers invaded the country. The Texas clergyman discussed with the president the mammoth problems his government faces in rebuilding a nation whose economy, industry, agriculture, transportation system and political machinery have been ruined.

Upon learning that Bristow is from the agricultural hub of West Texas, the president shared his vision of developing a cotton and soybean industry in Uganda that would rival the coffee and tea for which the country is already famous. Binaisa said American investment and assistance in helping his country realize this goal would be welcome.

"We would like to have big schemes," said the president, "patterned on outgrower schemes, where we will have somebody big, government or otherwise, in the center where we will establish an estate and have agronomists, soil chemists, and a tractor-hire service to hire out tractors and farming equipment to the outgrowers."

These will essentially be tenant farmers on a small scale, farming something like five to ten acres with an assured market. They would market whatever they produce to the center. Relative to soybeans, I intend to buy plant machinery from the Carolinas or from Texas, to extract the oil from the soybean, leaving me the husk, out of which I could make livestock feed and poultry feed because of its high protein content."

President Binaisa told Bristow that he would like every peasant farmer in Uganda to have a real strike in the country. He said, "I am thinking of one or two areas in Uganda in particular, where we have ample rainfall, beautiful land and something like 300 square miles ready for development tomorrow, if we only had the equipment, the tractors and plows. In some areas we are going to use oxen plows."

The president indicated he would welcome any advice or help that might be offered by West Texas farmers or agricultural experts from a school such as Texas Tech in developing cotton and soybeans in Uganda.

During a trip to the country's fertile northwest districts of West Acholi and West Nile, Bristow encountered a British team already surveying the area's potential for cotton as a cash crop.

Commenting later on the country's agricultural opportunities, Bristow said, "The northwest districts are very similar to the South Plains of West Texas, and the area is blessed with ample rainfall. It is just waiting for development to become the bread basket of Africa."

Amnesty International has estimated that 500,000 people were murdered in Uganda during the dictatorship of Amin. Speaking of the devastation this horror has wrought on the morale of his people, President Binaisa said, "The moral rebuilding of the country is the biggest problem we face."

The president, who regularly attends services at All Saints Church (Church of Uganda) in Kampala, describes himself as a product of Christian missionaries. He told Bristow of his strong desire to see a series of evangelistic crusades scheduled throughout Uganda. He said, "We must speak to the spiritual needs of our people. We may not convert everyone, but the crusades will certainly help."

Bristow met the president in the company of Missionary Webster Carroll, a veteran of 17 years of Southern Baptist missionary work in Uganda. Binaisa asked Carroll to undertake the organization

Foreign language

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — The chairman of The University of Texas Classics Department views American indifference to learning foreign languages as "a failure to live up to the expectation of world leadership."

Dr. Karl Galinsky believes Americans have relied too much on technology to stay ahead of other nations and not enough on the need to understand the thoughts and cultures of other peoples.

In Dr. Galinsky's opinion, the challenge of foreign-language educators is to find a successful way for combining the study of both language and culture, to go beyond the appreciation of literature that has traditionally marked language study.

of the crusades, and the missionary promised to come back to him soon with concrete plans. Bristow expressed his organization's willingness to help in any way possible.

When asked about America's relationship with Uganda, President Binaisa confirmed that his people hold the United States in "very high esteem" because it has never been a colonial power in Africa and can come to the continent "with clean hands."

The president was especially appreciative of the fact that the United States was the only large Western country which consistently opposed Idi Amin's gross violations of human rights.

While expressing his thankfulness for the $6.5 million in American aid that has gone to Uganda since the fall of Amin, and for the $20 million that has been committed for his fiscal year, the president expressed the urgency of even more help.

"The Western press has been telling us that capital is shy because we are not stable; but," the president answered, "we need the instruments of stability. We've got to have some basic equipment, and this is why I still appeal to the United States."

Binaisa recalled that the United States not only opposed Amin verbally but put its opposition into action by Congress' passing what he described as "a most unique and unusual law" placing an embargo on trade and business dealings with Uganda as long as Amin was still in power. The president, who spent his exile from the dictator's regime in America and who is a member of the New York State Bar, pointed out that no United States Congress had passed such a law since 1812.

In 1972, Bristow led a group of American pastors and laymen to Uganda for a month of evangelistic work in cooperation with Southern Baptist missionaries. At that time Amin was already in power. The evangelist's recent return to the country was in keeping with the intense interest he has maintained in the troubled nation and its people.

Concerning the trip and his meeting with the president, Bristow said, "President Binaisa is a man of great integrity and mental alertness. He has the right goals for his people, and Uganda is certainly a country that is worthy of all the aid that can be given. With the proper equipment, Uganda can help itself. America has an opportunity there to cement a real friendship, and to take a major step toward stabilizing one of the most strategically located countries in Africa."

GOING UP...

A building is being erected. It is made of strong materials, steel and concrete. The foundation is firm and deep. The edifice is built to endure.

We need to build our homes to endure. They need a strong foundation. They need to be built on the rock of Christ. Psalm 127:1 reads, Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it. Attend church regularly that your house may be instructed in the ways of the Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Why joggers ache

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) - A physical education professor at The University of Texas knows why runners and joggers ache.

Because he has diagnosed hundreds of runners in UT's Rehabilitation Laboratory, Prof. Karl Klein says most running problems occur because one leg is shorter than the other, ankles turn inward, the tension between muscles on the front and back of legs is unbalanced, and many fail to run "pigeon toed" (a toe-inward position with the outside of the feet parallel).

He advises stretching exercises for muscle flexibility and, in the running shoe, heel lifts (to balance posture) and podiatry-designed devices (to turn ankles outward).

Gerald Ford, former President, reiterating he's not a candidate: "If my party wants me..."

FCA

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes met Thursday, March 13, 1980, in the home of Sandy Dunbar. Susie Pierce led the opening prayer, followed by a short business meeting. The organization has begun plans for their Spring golf tournament, with several committees being organized.

Clifford Watson led the closing prayer with Monti Vandiver reading a short scripture from Proverbs.

On Monday, March 17, the FCA attended the First Baptist Revival as a group.

The FCA would like to thank the Dunbar family for letting us meet in their home.

The next meeting of this organization will be held in the home of Clifford Watson, March 27, 1980 at 6:30.

The Reason
 BMI--You brag about your ability to judge people by their dress. What about that little blonde over on the beach?
 SN -- Insufficient evidence.

The Fatalist
 Londoner--I went bald, so I spent a small fortune on hair restorer.
 Scotchman--When I went bald I sold my brush and comb.

Positive
 "Are you sure your wife knows I'm going home with you for dinner tonight?"
 "Knows? I should say so! This morning I argued with her about it for half an hour."
