NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK

National Newspaper Week - persons outside the profession obably see it as an occasion for back patting and proclaiming what a good job the newspaper is doing.

Observance of the week does offer an opportunity to express pride in a profession and note the mark it has made in history.

More important, however, it is an occasion for soul searching. Sometime during this week, each person truly dedicated to the business-from the reporter to the publisher will ask himself "Am I doing an adequate job?"

The composing room is faced with the problem of quality typographically.

To the reporter, adequate means covering the news as fully, as factually and as accurately as he can.

To the management, the same word means putting out a well rounded, informative paper serving subscribers, advertisers and also as a guide for other newspaper owners. All of this must be done with an eye to making a profit during the doing.

C.H.S. Plans Gala Homecoming For Friday & Saturday, October 14-15

Homecoming festivities are always something to look forward to and this year is no exception for a fine program of events has been planned for this coming week end, Friday and Saturday, October 14-15 at Clarendon High School

Events get underway with the football game at 8 p.m. in Broncho Stadium. The game this year is non-conference but should offer plenty of excitement, and baring mishaps and bad breaks the Broncs should have an easy victory over the Canadian Wildcats. The team has shown a steady improvement since the opening of the season. They eaked out a close win over Wellington last week by a score of 13-12. After the game there will be an open house and visiting at the Canteen.

Registration will get underway at the High School Saturday morning, October 15, at 10 a.m. and continue until 2 p.m. During the morning hours an informal In the past several years, more coffee for ladies whether exes exes from out-of-town have been ned and will be held in the home here in the area. "STUDY THE PAST" "THE PAST IS PROLOGUE"

Dear Fellow Texan: Two statutes flank the building here in Washington housing The National Archives, the repository of the Constitution and Declaration of Independence and all the permanently valuable non-current records of the Federal Government. On the base of one statue are the words, "Study the Past." On the other are these words: "The Past Is Prologue." These are properly carved in stone, for their lesson is vital and inescapable: A nation that forgets its history is bound to repeat the mistakes of the past; the accomplishments of the future will have had their foundations in days gone by.

A new school year is beginning and millions of young Americans will for the first time begin studying the history of their country ind states, the nature of demo-

As President Harry Truman said 15 years ago in commenting on the work of the National Historical Publications Communists do not have a Fifth Commission, "I am convinced Amendment. If they ever get conthat the better we understand the history of our democracy, the better we shall appreciate our rights as free men and the more determined we shall be to keep our ideals alive."

There are signs that the lessons of our past are poorly remembered by some Americans. It is not enough to pay lip service to the ideals set forth in the Constitution. Those ideals are not to be set aside at the first sign of trouble. We find among us today men who would overturn thoroughly ingrained principles of American democracy, who would abolish civilian control of the military (turning over the country's security to military chiefs free to direct our armed forces as they see fit; (who would diminish the role of Congress on the flimsy pretext that in the nuclear age Congress is too slow to Act); who yould destroy the free enterprise system through a combination of devices, including excessive government regulation and consolidation of economic units and destruction of fiscal stability. In this context, I recently had occasion to respond to a letter vriter who had asked why we kept the Fifth Amendment in the Constitution. This is the Bill of Rights guarantee which contains many towering elements of an American's basic freedoms, stating: " No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law, nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation." The concentration of the critics is on that portion of the Fifth Amendment ordaining that no person "shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself." That Appeal To Our Readers Dept Mrs. Bertha G. Hayes, whose address is East Barrington, New Hampshire 03825 wants to know the author of My Kitchen Prayer. This poem appears in part on many little kitchen plaques and the like. If you know who wrote it please send the information to Mrs. Hayes. It would please us to help her out because even though we have never met Mrs. Hayes she has been one of our dearest friends. Please ladies, look in your scrapbook and send this help to our friend. She wants it for a very special reason.

WELCOME EXES

This is Homecoming week for Clarendon High School. Homecoming is a time for renewing old acquaintances and friendships. We hope to see a lot of familiar faces around "Ole" CHS and cheering the Bronchos on to victory against Canadian. Don't forget the dance Saturday night at 9:00 in the old red brick gym.

FEARFUL REPORTS

Private Eye Fearful finished his first case Saturday afternoon He received an anonymous phone call and was informed that his first suspect was Jeanie Castner.

Monday morning Private Eye Fearful received a phone call from a Canadian Scout to be on the watch for a certain Broncho player. He was reported to be under six feet tall because of his foot ball suit, it was not certain as to what the rest of him looked like.

3:02 Monday afternoon Detective Fearful followed the Broncho eam to the fieldhouse hoping to find his suspect but his investigation was short lived when the boys trampled him in the ground when they came out of the field He went home battered, bruised, and depressed hoping to have better results Tuesday.

Tuesday morning trying to get an early start, he was washing dishes and got his finger caught in the drain and couldn't get it out until his mother came back from shopping. His finger was so badly swollen he decided to go to bed with his "TEDDY BEAR" to recuperate.

On Wednesday Fearful observed his suspect in the typing room typing 7's.

At the time this report is being written, Fearful has not made much progress. If you know the true identity of the football player don't tell Fearful until after the game as it might hurt the Bronchos.

This year's Greenhand FFA officers are as follows: President, Charlie Deyhle; Vice-President, Jim Risley; Secretary, Jimmy Jackson; Reporter, Ferol Shelton; Treasurer, Bobby Sims; Sentinel, Willie Craft.

The player of the week following the Groom game was Steve Land.
