TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18th DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

New Wheat Legislation?

The majority of the nation's wheat growers, by their resounding "no" vote in the Wheat Referendum this week, have turned thumbs down on high wheat prices through rigid, federally-enforced controls.

vote by the farmers themselves, it deserves a fair trial — no further wheat program will be necessary.

In advance of Tuesday's referendum, I made it clear to farmers in our district that they should study all the facts before making a decision.

Already, some of those who strongly opposed a "yes" vote in the referendum are saying they believe Congress will provide new wheat legislation before this Session ends.

abling legislation under which the defeated program was proposed to the wheat growers, and also the primary political orientation of most Members of Congress.

Most Congressmen are from urban areas. My Texas colleague in Congress, Bob Poage, the chairman of the Livestock and Feed Grains Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture, estimates that not more than 6 per cent of Members of Congress are from major wheat producing areas.

A study last year showed that 300 Congressional districts are urban, 137 are rural. By sections, the breakdown is as follows: South, 58 urban, 62 rural; East, 109 urban, 20 rural; Midwest, 84 urban, 45 rural; West 49 urban, 10 rural.

City Congressmen realize, however, that it is an obligation of government to help prevent economic calamity. If the approval of a program for loose controls and low price supports threatens disaster for a substantial portion of rural America, I feel confident that these Members of Congress will be receptive to corrective proposals.

"I am not too much of a preacher..." So said Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper as he spoke Tuesday before a joint meeting of the House and Senate.

"Help guide and direct all of us that we may shape our lives to be much better Christians, trying to help one another, and to work with one another rather than fighting and bickering."

prize. In my opinion the Jax beer ads on television are very good reminders. The cartoon-like characters who mumble-jumble back and forth about the subject can't help but remind us of someone who was full of the product.

We are not an avid reader of Western Stories. But do receive through the mail a publication called Frontier Times. It was sent complimentary by a cousin Ferris Weddle, who writes stories and articles for this and other western magazines. This month we were just about to discard an issue when we noticed a story about Bones Hooks. You will remember him as the popular negro cowboy who attended so many barbecues and old-settlers programs over this area. In the latter part of his life he would almost always present a white flower in memory of some old-timer and as a token of friendship between the races. The story was written by Jean Ehly of Amarillo, Texas, who has many articles in The Amarillo Citizen.

Not only was the above article interesting but several quotes from his philosophy of life seemed well worth pondering and repeating.

"Never tell anybody all you know, keep something back."
 "The only thing wrong with the Panhandle is that the cowboy perfected his calf before he did his son."

 Speaking of magazines, Glenn Corbin brought us a copy of the Woman's Home Companion dated February, 1898. The selling price then was five cents per copy and with one year's subscription at one dollar you could get several dollars worth of extra prizes.

The ads were a revelation. For instance one ad guaranteed that after taking their mail order course you could get a job paying three dollars per day.

A large ad displaying the latest thing in corsets had them priced for the healthy poor at only $1.50, and the elaborate black satin finish that should appeal to the uncomfortable wealthy for $3.00. You could buy an Edison Graphophone for $10.00 with the long loudspeaker. I had more fun than that with the last one of these we remember just calling the cows through the end of it.

At first we thought that times had changed a lot and then we read a soap ad; The mistress one day found her servant crying

To clean the parlour wainscot vainly trying

"I've tried all soaps" she sobbed, "But can't improve it There's still dirt on it, but I can't remove it."

The mistress sympathising said, "Don't trouble

The soaps you're using make your labor double

Just try Sapolio, and you will not mope so."

She used it with success — at least let's soap so...

And if the above soap ad wasn't enough to prove that times don't change so much in 65 years, there was an article on Nervous Tension for the women. It complained that the responsibilities of the home plus trying to take over in the place of men were making nervous wrecks of the ladies. Thought this all just happened lately...

Brush Control Has Proven Successful & Profitable

by Douglas Cunningham
 Area Range Conservationist

Over the past several years many thousands of acres of brush have been controlled in the Panhandle Area. This control of undesirable brush has put valuable rangeland back into production.

Texas ranchers have invested millions of dollars in search of effective brush control methods in order to increase forage production, and to obtain economical returns from their land. In many cases, ranchlands that required supplemental feeding to support even limited numbers of livestock, now, following brush control, carry more grazing animals and are producing economic returns for the first time in many years.

Brush control is the best means of range improvement per dollar invested, that we know of, for brushy rangeland. Results of grazing brush controlled pastures have proven to have carried 24% more cattle, increased gain per head 31 pounds, and produced 48% more beef per acre during a 10 years grazing comparison.

The brushy plants which cause considerable problems in the Texas Panhandle are: Mesquite, shinnery oak, sand sagebrush, yucca (also called small soapweed, or beargrass). The undesirability of these plants lies chiefly in their ability to compete successfully with better forage plants for moisture that would otherwise produce livestock feed.

The control of brush by spraying or mechanical means is only the start of restoring brushy range. Good grazing management must follow, to get the most economical return for the money invested. The area that has received brush control should be deferred a full growing season, following brush control to allow existing grasses to re-establish and reseed. Live-stock should also be carefully managed on brush controlled areas to prevent their destroying young native grass plants that may be replacing. Stocking is important and improved desirable grasses are in suppressing and establishment of brush. The proper selection of control methods to a particular situation, coupled with good grazing management, enables the rancher to convert brush infested areas into productive grasslands.

Governor Proclaims "Highway Week"

AUSTIN, Texas, May 23, 1963 — "Highway Week" in Texas was today announced by a gubernatorial proclamation which urged Texans not to rest on their highway laurels — but to keep a wary eye on the road ahead.

Highway Week is to be observed in Texas and nationally during the dates May 26-June 1.

The proclamation urged "every citizen to view with concern the needs incurred by increasing population and traffic, to support a sustained improvement program, and to improve standards of driving safety."

Governor John Connally signed the proclamation today in the presence of the Texas Highway Commission and State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer. Herbert C. Petry, Jr., is Chairman of the Highway Commission while Hal Woodward and J. H. Kultgen are members.

HIGHWAY WEEK PROCLAIMED—While the Texas Highway Commission looks on, Governor John Connally (seated) signs a proclamation declaring "Highway Week" in Texas for May 26-June 1. National Highway Week is being observed on the same dates. Looking on are, left to right, D. C. Greer, State Highway Engineer; Hal Woodward, member of the Highway Commission; Herbert C. Petry, Jr., Chairman of the Commission; and J. H. Kultgen, member of the Commission.

The proclamation declared that "today's Texas highway system is contributing immeasurably to the future growth potential of the economy of the state" and paid tribute to the Texas Highway Department. "The Highway Department is to be commended for its accomplishments in an effort to keep pace with the ever-increasing flood of traffic."

But a note of concern was sounded, keyed to expanding highway needs. "... the very growth of the state's economy has posed future highway needs of a serious nature," the proclamation pointed out, "since the state's population has increased by 25 per cent since 1950. The state now has more than five million registered motor vehicles, and the miles traveled by these vehicles now total well in excess of 40 billion a year."

Mowing Sorghum Alum In Preparation For Seeding Native Grasses

In preparing an area of sorghum alum for seeding native grasses into, let's consider the practice of mowing or shredding. There are two times during the growing season that will be best for mowing sorghum alum for the best results in killing or greatly depressing it.

1) In the summer when the plant is actively growing with plenty of green leaf material, the roots will be at their lowest reserve (usually in June).

2) The other time is in the fall prior to frost preferably in the boot stage of growth before the food reserve goes back to the roots; at this time the plant is putting much food into seed production and is at a low reserve level.

These two mowings or shreddings should be followed next spring by an early seeding of native grasses. By the end of the first growing season, the native grass should be well enough established that mowing will no longer be needed for controlling competition.

Within the Great Plain Conservation Program, mowing in conjunction with range seeding is cost-shared at the rate of 80%. This should well be worth the extra money in establishing your grass.

The Donley County Soil Conservation District stresses the importance of this practice and its correct application. Contact your local Soil Conservation Service Office for additional information.

Irrigation Planning

In planning an irrigation system, a person should determine the need for irrigation, the feasibility of irrigation, the most practical method of water application, and the type of delivery system to be used.

Irrigation is primarily a means of supplementing the climatic factors which affect the growth habits and requirements of plants. The system should be operated to supply the crops with the needed amount of water at the right time to get maximum production. The cropping system plays a big part in planning an irrigation system. Utilization of water for the crops to be grown should not be greater than the source of the available water to get maximum production. The depth of the soil should be considered for water holding capacity for the crop to be grown and frequency of water application.

A practical method of applying the water is determined by the slope of the land and the texture of the soil. On land with less than one foot of fall per hundred feet and fine to medium textured soil can be row or flood irrigated without too much expense in land preparation. On steeper slopes, more expense can be expected on land preparation. On the coarse textured soils which take water fast are more suitable for sprinkler irrigation and are generally subject to erosion when any water movement is involved.

If you have any questions in planning an irrigation system, contact your local Soil Conservation District Office.

FACT AND OPINION

The morning after Charles Lindbergh flew the Atlantic non-stop from New York to Paris, an associate of Charles Kettering rushed into the research expert's laboratory in Dayton, Ohio, shouting: "He made it! Lindbergh landed safely in Paris." . . . "He did it all by himself." Kettering looked up from his work momentarily and remarked quietly: "When he flies it with a committee, let me know."

From the Carlsbad, New Mexico, Current-Argus: "Half of the U.S. women getting married now do so before the age of 20, and the men they wed are two and a half to three years older. Assuming that this pattern continues, there will be about 90,000 more women than men of typical marriage age by 1965. The following year, maidens will outnumber youths by almost 365,000. That will be the high point of imbalance, but as late as 1968 the young women are still expected to be substantially more numerous than the young men."

LAW ON DEER HUNT RIGHTS CLARIFIED

AUSTIN — Of special interest to hunters and landowners who charge for hunting rights is a recent opinion by Attorney General Waggoner Carr. The opinion was given in response to an inquiry by Howard Dodgen, Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Briefly, the opinion confirms the Commission's long held view that "A landowner may allow the use of his land for hunting purposes contingent upon a successful hunt, such success being measured at a specified price for each deer, the price being paid in advance and refunded if the hunter does not kill a deer."

Further, the opinion confirms the authority of the Commission to prohibit sale of antlerless and/or doe deer permits. The sale of deer has been prohibited by law for many years. Also, under the law the hunter must obtain the special permit from the landowner before hunting or killing an antlerless deer. The permits may not be sold under any circumstances, nor may they be used on any other land than that for which they were issued.

Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation, Sandra Sue Stargel from Memphis, Texas, welcomes grain sorghum seed from Argentina. In past years seed has been exported by the U. S. for planting in Argentina. During the 1963 season, the active demand for certain varieties prompted the shipment of top quality Argentine produced seed to the U. S. This seed was recently harvested and quickly sent to Lubbock, Texas. After grading, treating and re-bagging it has been moved into the distribution channels. Although the seed is grown in Argentina it is genetically the same as that produced in the United States. Look for the tag "Grown in Argentina," in your shipment this year. It is an example of greater agricultural cooperation between American countries. Miss Stargel is a Freshman at Texas Tech in Lubbock, Texas.

jury insurance or security requirements under the driver financial responsibility law from $5,000 for one person and $10,000 for two or more to double those amounts.

Estimates are that it will cost the average driver about $5 a year for the extra coverage. This will enable him to keep his driver's license and car license should he be involved in a collision in which someone is hurt.

It was a hard fought issue in the House. But Fairchild won, 68-67, with the vote of Speaker Byron Tunnell breaking the tie.

In the Senate, passage was by voice vote, with 12 Senators recording themselves as voting no. Argument for the bill is that it would bring requirements up to a more modern figure. Court judgments in personal injury cases, resulting from auto collisions, often exceed $5,000.

Argument against it, voiced by Rep. Eligio de la Garza of McAllen, was that 35 per cent of the drivers cannot afford to carry liability insurance at present rates. So there will be even more uninsured motorists on the highways after the Fairchild law takes effect.

WIND UP — Regular session of the 58th Legislature ends Friday. That's three days earlier than the constitutional requirement.

Hundreds of the 1,500 proposed new laws submitted by the 181 legislators were left to die in committees and on the crowded calendars of both houses.

Other hundreds will become law when Gov. John Connally signs them. Rush of business at the session's end is pouring them into his office by the score.

All legislative proposals are important to someone. In a few cases, it is a single person.

One proposal would allow a newspaper editor to practice law. It was killed on the floor.

Another would permit the practice of architecture, by a qualified person who failed to apply for a license before the deadline arrived. It died in committee.

But the major issues of the session appear to be fairly well settled.

COURTS — An exception is judicial redistricting.

Rep. Henry Stollenwerck, a Republican from Dallas, vainly tried to move some rural district courts to the cities. This to follow the people who have moved into the population centers.

Stollenwerck presented statistics showing that some courts are handling only 150 cases a year, while others in major cities have towering caseloads even after disposing of five times that many cases a year. Bill was killed in committee.

Rep. Bob Johnson of Dallas persuaded the House to pass a bill under which a judicial redistricting board, made up of the Lieutenant Governor, House Speaker and Attorney General, would reapportion district courts if the Legislature did not. Bill died in the Senate.

HOUSE MINORITY LEADER — In the waning days of the session, House Republicans ceremoniously announced their 8-member delegation leader, Rep. Horace B. Houston of Dallas.

Houston has some sort of seniority since he previously served a term when he ran as a Democrat.

Speaker Byron Tunnell quipped, "From now on, when you folks have complaints about your bills, you can take your troubles to the House minority leader."

Houston then cast his first vote as G.O.P. leader in favor of extending the Veterans Land Program, while his followers cast votes against it.

MORE JUNIOR COLLEGE'S — State Board of Education named a committee to study Snyder's request for a junior college. appointees were Penrose B. Metcalfe of San Angelo, Herbert O. Willborn of Amarillo, and Paul Mathews of Greenville. Committee will meet on May 31, in San Angelo.

Recently, the board authorized a junior college election for Travis County voters. Claim is that even though the University of Texas is in Travis County, entrance requirements are too stiff for many local youngsters to enroll.

AUSTIN — Many Texas drivers who carry insurance will need to notify their agents to increase their public liability insurance after August 24.

By the narrowest of margins—a single vote — the House adopted a bill by Rep. Bob Fairchild of Center to raise the bodily in-

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people do. They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features . . . designs . . . and prices, for example. People not only read about products and services; they show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples; they tear out ads to take along when they go shopping.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales. Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?

"Read aloud to your children. If your children vary widely in ages, make an effort to read with individual children. Trying to read the same story to several ages is hard because the simple books bore the older ones and the younger children have a hard time keeping interested if the story is too complicated.
 "One woman read to her seven-year-old after she had put the youngest to bed. She says, 'His grades at school jumped a letter after we began these reading sessions. He had just gotten bogged down in the simple stories that he could read by himself and wasn't finding them interesting. When I began reading more advanced stories to him, he started to take more interest in all his school work, even his arithmetic.'
 "Provide variety in the forms of literature you present.
 "Vary your reading procedures to add interest.
 "Enjoy 'homemade' stories. 'Measles are no Fun' is a story our seven-year-neighbor wrote — and you can guess the occasion. Writing skills develop enough in the seventh and eighth year that writing a short story isnt too much work. Creativity should be encouraged.

 "Now take stock of your own reading diet. There's a rich reading menu available for you, too. Don't let your life get so busy you can't be well read and informed. Remember — your reading habits are catching!"

GRASSROOTS OPINION
JUNEAU, ALASKA, EMPIRE:
 "It might make the present-day situation clearer in some minds if we realize that we are floundering between two different philosophies of government — not only in Alaska but just about everywhere. The first philosophy is that of the founding fathers of the United States. It's a philosophy of individual independence and freedom... The second philosophy holds that government is responsible for its people... The government is expected to maintain the health, welfare and prosperity instead of merely providing protection under which the people might maintain these conditions for themselves. The second philosophy, carried to its extreme, is, of course, socialism or communism."

LIBRARY NOTES:
 EDITH BARNES

A memorial gift has been given to the library to be dedicated to the memory of Clarendon's first doctor, Doctor Jerome D. Stocking and to his wife, Mrs. Sarah Ward Stocking. This gift will enable the library to buy at least 35 new books, which have already been ordered. They are books that have been read by one or all of Doctor and Mrs. Stocking's children and found to be not only good but highly readable.
 May I remind parents to encourage their children to use their library memberships. Please don't make it a have to thing but something to enjoy.

Giants Beat White Sox In Little League Play

The Giants took an 8 to 5 decision from the White Sox in the opening game of the 1963 Clarendon Little League Baseball Season Monday night at Hart-Moore Field. The Cubs were leading the Yankees 2 to 1 after three and one-half innings of play in the second game when the game was called because of high winds.

The Giants rallied for five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to ice the game away from the White Sox. The White Sox were leading 5 to 3 at the time. All the Giant runs in the fifth were scored after two men were out and all were unearned. L. Smith opened the inning by grounding to third baseman Everett Monroe who made a great pick-up of the ball and also a great throw to first for the first out. B. Leeper also hit a ground ball to Monroe and this time the little third baseman threw wide at first and Leeper was safe. Catcher Jim Risley then hit a pop-up to second baseman Gary Bennett. Bennett dropped the ball but picked it up in time to double Leeper for the second out. Then, the roof caved in on the White Sox. J. Elliott and Steve Adams hit successive singles. Chuck Atkins was safe on a fielder's choice. Ike O'Neal drew a base on balls and Joe Shadle cleaned the bases with a double. B. Sims grounded out to Monroe at third to end the inning but the damage had been done.

The other Giant runs were picked up one each in the first, second and third innings. In the first inning, Risley singled, took second on an error and scored on Elliott's double. In the second inning, O'Neal walked and scored on a triple by Sims and in the third inning, Leeper walked and scored on a wild pitch and an error.

The White Sox rallied for four runs in the third and one in the fifth. In the third inning, Johnny Hill opened the inning by striking out but the next batter, Joe Yankee, was awarded first base because of interference by the catcher. Bennett then singled and both he and Yankee scored on Steve Land's triple. Land scored the third run of the inning on Byrd Atkin's single. Atkins took second on a passed ball and tried to score on Monroe's grounder but was thrown out at the plate. Monroe then scored on a base on balls and two fielders' choices. Then in the fifth inning, Monroe opened the inning with a walk and scored on Scooter Tarver's double.

Steve Land pitched for the White Sox and Steve Adams did the pitching for the giants. Each pitcher gave up six hits. Land struck out seven batters and issued four bases on balls. Adams struck out eleven and gave up five bases on balls.

In the second game the Yankees scored their run in the first inning and the Cubs scored both their runs in the second inning. For the Yankees, R. Weatherton opened the game with a walk, went to second on an error and scored on Moore's single. In the second inning for the Cubs, after two men were out Barrow was awarded first because of interference by the catcher. Charley Deyhle was safe on an error and both runners scored on Donnie Mooring's single. The Yankee-Cub game, however, was called after three and a half innings of play and will be continued at a later date.

FARM NEWS

from County ASCS Committee

Wheat Referendum Results
There were 211 votes cast in the wheat referendum which was held May 21, 1963. 147 voted against the 1964 wheat program and 64 voted for the program. This was very much like the nationwide picture on the voting. It failed far short of the 66.7 yes vote needed to carry.

Any farmer who does not have soil bank on his farm may plant all of the wheat he wishes and sell on the open market. Price support will still be available at 50% of parity (approximately $1.25 per bushel) for farmers who stay within their allotments.

There follows a list of the community committeemen for our county. If you have any questions concerning ASCS, why not talk to any of these fellows and see if they can help you.

A: John Fraser, III, Andy Brown, Stanley Lamb.

B: Harold Graham, C. E. Jackson, Pete Land.

C: C. C. Hearn, Donald Ballew, E. W. Barbee.

D: David Bennett, Marvin Jones, Ed Dishman.

E: W. R. Christal, W. O. Mooring, Earl Shields.

F: W. H. Clay, Tommy Bain, Woodroe Farris.

G: Ray Altman, Don Springer, W. B. Wiggins.

H: T. C. D'Spain, Mayburn Trout, Granville Simmons.
