Fund Started for Fire Victims

Farly Sunday morning, between 6:00 and 7:00 a.m., a fire broke out in the home of Morris Crump. He was out tending to livestock at the time and the house was destroyed.

Word spread around town fairly quickly. Willis Clark telephoned from his restaurant to tell his son about the disaster. The Lloyd Parker family of Fort Worth happened to be passing through Clarendon at the time and overheard Willis telling about the fire. Before they left the restaurant, they donated $100 to help someone that they had never met. Soon a number of local residents added donations of their own.

Clark's has a large glass jar on the counter. Anyone who wants to do so may put in a donation to help out a neighbor who has been burned

National Cotton Women Say Textile Imports Hurt Economy

The National Cotton Women's Committee want to make more urban consumers and retailers aware of how the textile import problem is hurting the U.S. economy.

The decision to take this message to more city-dwellers in 1989 was agreed on during the election of new NCWC officers at the National Cotton Council's 51st annual meeting in Dallas Jan. 29-31.

The NCWC will continue to carry out other goals of the "Grown and Made in the U.S.A." campaign, urging retailers to stock and consumers to buy more U.S. made products of U.S. grown cotton.

"The benefits of buying U.S. Grown-U.S. Made products extend far beyond the Cotton Belt," said NCWC state chairman Kathy Lowman Bishop. "Imports of cotton, wool, and man-made fiber products have increased nearly 200 percent in the past decade, closing 1,000 manufacturing plants and leaving 350,000 textile and apparel workers and farmers unemployed. Buying cotton merchandise made here at home can make a positive difference in our nation's economic

The organization, created two years ago, is comprised of hundreds of cotton industry women like Mrs. Lowman who volunteer their time to spread the "Grown and Made" message to thousands of consumers through speeches, letters, shopping mall booths, and various special events at buyer's markets.

Retail activities will be stepped up this year through additional mall and department stores promotions. At least one major mall promotion is scheduled for each region of the Cotton Belt. Promotions also will be carried out at more state fairs this year because some 60 percent of those who attend are urban con-

Progress Begins on Hedley's Standpipe Tank and Fire Hall Construction

Hedley Citizens who have been waiting almost a year for a new standpipe water tank and fire hall should start seeing progress on these facilities in the next few months. At a recent City Council meeting, the City of Hedley awarded a $112,000 contract to Bulldog Steel Products, out of Clyde, Texas, for the construction of a 238,000-gallon standpipe water tank.

Plans are also in the making for the fire hall building. Ober J Engineering, along with the Hedley Volunteer Fire Department, are working on final design plans for a 45' by 75' steel building proposed to house the fire department's trucks and equipment. Invitations for bids are expected to be published in March.

In 1988, the City of Hedley was one of eight lucky winners in the regional competition for $1.2 million of Texas Community Development Program Funds. Thirty-eight communities competed for over $6 million in projects throughout the Panhandle with only eight projects funded.

The Hedley project scored well at the regional level primarily due to tremendous local support pledged by citizens and organizations in the area. At two public hearing held in November 1987, Hedley citizens came together in support of the water tank and fire hall by promising $12,000 in volunteer labor and $12,000 in cash donations for a total of $24,000 or 14 percent of the project costs. The Texas Department of Commerce will provide the additional 86% or up to $153,300 to build the tank and fire hall.

The Texas Department of Commerce has given the City of Hedley and the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (administrators for the project) the go ahead for both facilities. Individuals in the community and organizations are now hard at work to provide the money and labor necessary to complete the project. If anyone is interested in helping this effort in donations, fund raising, or volunteer labor, please contract Hedley's City Hall. Your support will ensure that the citizens will continue to have the water supply and fire protection necessary for this community.

Three Seconds to Save a Life

Take a moment to think...how much time does it take to buckle your seatbelt? Now compare that to the vears often spent rehabilitating headinjured individuals who must struggle to regain the skills they have lost in an automobile accident. Skills such as brushing their teeth and feeding themselves, skills you and I simply take for granted.

" 'Buckle up' becomes almost cliche," says Dr. Alton Hodges, Regional Director for New Medico Head Injury System. "But the few seconds it takes to buckle up is such a small price to pay. Everyday I see the struggle a person must go through in order to regain skills they've lost; I see them trying to piece their lives back together after a serious car accident. It could have been prevented.'

Most of us know that every day, hundreds of deaths occur in automobile accidents; thousands of people are seriously disabled as a result of unsafe car design, careless drivers and improper use of child safety seats. But do we ever take the time to think that we can prevent these numbers from growing? Most people don't realize the high risk they take when they sit behind the wheel of a car and don't know the facts. According to the National Head Injury Foundation, approximately 250,000 people will sustain a severe head injury in car accidents this year, 70-90,000 persons will lapse into coma and more than 140,000 Americans will die as a result of head injuries. Now, isn't it worth your time to think?

Before you operate a motor vehicle, follow these preventative tips:

Insist that everyone in your automobile wears their seatbelt. Carefully read the instructions on your child's car safety seat some seats are designed only for backseat transportation. Know the laws in your area - each state differs in the use of seatbelts and the fines for those who don't obey the law.

More accidents occur when speeding is involved; drive the posted speed limit.

 Demonstrate good driving skills when operating your automobile remember, someday your children will be behind the wheel and they will imitate your driving habits.

Use caution and common sense whenever you operate or are a passenger in a motor vehicle: wear your seatbelt. Make the roads a safe place.

CHILDRESS-B3R Country Meats - B3R Ranch - the only place in Texas where hormone-free beef is produced.

This is what brought a television crew from West Germany to Childress County Tuesday.

"We learned you are the only place in Texas...", explained Dr. Helmut Reitze, Washington Correspondent, German Television ZDF, in response to Minnie Lou Bradley's question: "What brings you here?'

Dr. Reitze was accompanied by Jens Heik, cameraman; Berthold Tritschler, sound engineer, and Sabine Sievers, research.

The group explained that German people are most interested in this "hormone-free" production of beef. The program to be produced by this crew will air in Germany and in Great Britain on BBC.

As crew members conversed with Mrs. Bradley about procedures in their operation, she responded while preparing a "cowboy dinner." The menu included chicken fried steak, mashed potatoes, red beans, rolls, gravy, salad, etc.

Questions and answers included: Why don't you use hormones?

"We are trying to go into health food markets in the United States. We opened the meat plant, B3R Country Meats, Oct. 31, 1986. We received our first USDA label for the last 100 days we have them in our possession and have not implanted with hormones nor fed antibiotics. The second label certifies no implants nor hormones in feed from conception to consumption," Minnie explained.

How big is your operation?

"Very, very small...in a week's time we produce 50,000 pounds which is 70 head."

Minnie identified the issue as What does the consumer want?" Europeans are in the forefront in community awareness..and are becoming more health conscious, according to Dr. Reitze. "Let's give people a choice," Minnie suggested. "If I want green don't push red at me."

Asked about profits through health food markets, Minnie replied that they pay a premium for beef with no implants nor hormones whereas most supermarkets do not.

Step-by-step, she outlined the time spent on the Bradley's central system including records from birth to death on every calf.

In addition to information on the Bradley operation, the group compared experiences with representatives of The Childress Index. for them to receive appointments with politicians. "We represent no votes," Dr. Reitze added.

All a person has to do is call any Social Security office and ask for a request for statement of earnings from. Today's kites provide enjoyment for people of all ages.

Kites Are Flying High

By Tom Clifford PM Editorial Services

To many people the warming temperatures and strong winds of March mean one thing: great kite-flying

Kites, believed to have been invented in Greece between 400 and 300 B.C., are more popular than ever before, thanks to recent advances in materials and design.

"Most people remember the basic paper kite as their experience with kites," says Anne McCarter, store buyer for Kitty Hawk Kites in Nags Head, N.C. But, McCarter adds, the traditional diamond design is "really the hardest kite there is to fly in light of today's new designs. Most often we advise people not to buy your traditional diamond design."

The kite most popular and easiest to fly nowadays is the "delta" design, a triangular shape that comes in many different sizes.

"You can give a 4-year-old a 4½foot delta kite and he's going to be happy all day long. And you can give a 40-year-old a 12-foot delta and he's going to have a blast," McCarter

Advancements in kite-building materials also have made kiting easier to enjoy. Hollow graphite supports and lightweight nylon now allow kites to fly in the lightest of winds. The flying of stunt kitesusually controlled by two lines—has developed into a semiprofessional materials are now available to the home kite builder.

"We suggest that people use plastic garbage bags when building a kite at home because they are durable and lightweight and can be held together with tape rather than glue," says Corey Jemsen of Monterey, Calif., former president of the 2,000member American Kitefliers Association. "Field adjustments are also easier with the plastic bags and tape" than the traditional newspaper and glue, Jemsen advises.

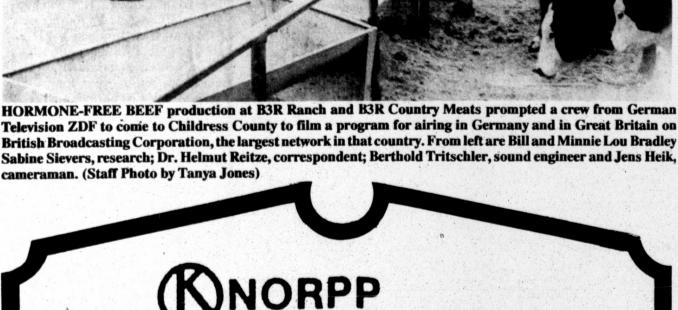

Jemsen points out that just as kites provide hours of enjoyment to their pilots, they also serve other purposes. Kites, he explains, are important in "fostering children's interest in flying and in aerospace. Kite flying allows people the thrill of flying without the risks."

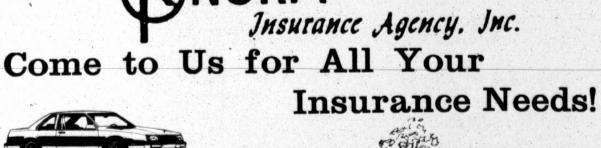

There are, however, a few rules for safety that every person should follow when making and flying a kite. Metal should never be used in making a kite—it could attract lightning. Kites should never be flown near any sort of electrical power line, transmission tower or telephone line. Kites should never be flown during a storm because of the danger of being struck by lightning. And wire or wet string should never be used to fly a kite-it provides a direct conduit for electricity to the body.

"Kiting is more than 2,000 years old," McCarter says. "But now you have modern technology jumping in-

by Cinda Courtney

Valentines come in all colors, shapes and sizes. If you don't agree, just ask Mary Bray what Goodwin chose to give her this year. The key word is "Bray", which may have inspired Goodwin to bring home the loveable two-some, Candy and Andy, the newest sweethearts of Donley County. Just because they happen to be "donkeys" doesn't mean they weren't given in the true spirit of the season. (I hope Mary wasn't expecting two tickets for a Caribbean cruise!) Aside from being a most thoughtful Valentine present, the donkey can be a very useful ranch

According to an article in the Dallas Morning News last November, ranchers from Big Spring say "donkeys are proving to be good shepherds", as well as "effective deterrents to predatory dogs", which usually means that pesky coyote. Goodwin had such good luck with a previous "braying" to his son, David, to help with his coyote problem on his Lorenzo farm), he decided two might be better than one. Here's hoping that Candy and Andy have a long and happy life on the Bray ranch and serve as a constant reminder to Mary that Valentine sentiments don't always come from a chocolate box.

Colts

The Colts played their last game at home against Shamrock, Feb. 2. The seventh grade girls and boys came out with victories. The girls score was 18 to 11. The boys score was 39 to 11.

The eighth grade girls were defeated by the Irish by a score of 14 to 22. The eighth grade boys won their game with a score of 40 to 26.

For our last game the Colts traveled to Memphis, Feb. 9, for four exciting games. The seventh grade girls played a super good game, but were defeated at the end by a score of 12 to 15.

The seventh grade boys played a fast pace game and came out on top with a score of 55 to 24.

The eighth grade girls and boys were both defeated in an exciting game. The girls score was 20 to 30 and the boys score was 39 to 46.

We would like to Thank everyone for all the support that was given the kids, during this season. We are very proud of these athletes for a job well

Major Cawthon said, "Even though a date for a recruit school has not been determined, we will begin testing all year long. This change in testing periods, will allow the applicant to take the test, more so, at his convenience and will allow the D.P.S. ample time to conduct the background investigations and hold the interview boards."

Grapefruit Berry Sherbet - This light, sweet and creamy sherbet is a delightful dessert.

A Dieter' Delight - Sweet, Creamy and Light Sherbet

Sherbet with very little sugar? Sounds too good to be true, yet Grapefruit Berry Sherbet is made with only three ingredients: Texas Ruby-Sweet grapefruit, sweetened strawberries and milk-- and no sugar. The unique sweetness of the Texas Ruby-Sweet makes this magic possible.

to add to the magic, this homemade sherbet is ready to eat in less than 10 minutes. The secret is two-fold. The first secret is to make the sherbet with fruit that is frozen. Peel and section the Texas grapefruit, place them in a single layer on a baking sheet and freeze until firm. (This usually takes only about 30 minutes, but you can do it days ahead. Buy frozen, sliced strawberries sweetened or in heavy syrup.) The second part of the secret: place both fruits-- still frozen-- in the food processor. In just a matter of minutes, the frozen fruits and a splash of milk turn into creamy smooth sherbet. The result is elegant enough to serve in stemmed glasses with a splash of orange-flavored liqueur to your finest dinner party and nutritious enough to serve to your children after school.

There are only 60 calories in a half-cup serving of Grapefruit Berry Sherbet, compared to 118 calories in commercial sherbet and as much as 187 in some commercial ice creams. You can decrease the calories even more by using unsweetened strawberries and substituting skim milk for whole milk. And how many desserts like this luscious Grapefruit Berry Sherbet can also add vitamins A and C, potassium, calcium and phosphorous to your diet?

Using a grapefruit spoon to remove the sections can make this recipe even quicker. Serrated tipped spoons have many uses. Their sharp tips give you bite-sized pieces of grapefruit or other fruit with a

Ruby-Sweet Grapefruit will be in good supply from now until May. Texas fruit is easy to identify: look for blushes of pink showing through the thin yellow skin. There is no need to worry about ripeness: Texas grapefruit are ripened on the tree before being picked and sent to market. As the season comes to a close, buy a few extra Texas rapefruit to peel, section and freeze so you can enjoy Grapefruit Berry Sherbet all summer long.

Baby Pageant Survey

Donley County Young Homemakers have traditionally conducted a baby pageant for residents of Donley County. Now, the event may have to be canceled due to lack of interest on the part of the community.

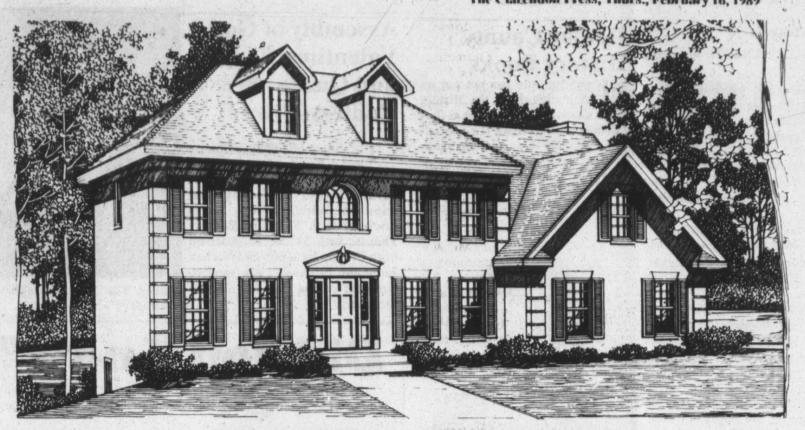

The 1988 pageant was the seventh sponsored by the organiza-

Two years after the pageants began, the Young Homemakers expanded them to include babies from birth to four years-of-age, in place of the original zero to two. Last year it was expanded again to

As one of the leaders of the Young Homemakers said, "We have worked hard and we have been dedicated to making these pageants successful and enjoyable. We feel like we have had every element necessary to make these pageants successful except one: community response."

The profits from the pageant are earmarked for establishing a memorial scholarship in honor of Edie Robertson. "If we do not receive community response on this survey, we will have to discontinue having our annual baby pageant and we will find it necessary to develop a new fund raiser in order to continue our scholarship fund."

Those who are interested in seeing the pageant continued should contact Sharon Adams, 874-3227 or Denise Bertrand, 874-2846. Or the Homemakers can be reached by mail at P.O. Box 633. Response to this notice will determine whether or not the event will be abandoned or continued?

Delta Kappa Gamma Meets

by Evelyn Messer

Gamma Kappa Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met in the homemaking department of Clarendon High School Saturday, February 11, 1989 at 2:00 pm.

Because of conflicting events and health reasons the attendance was very light.

In the absence of President Thelma Shields, Evelyn Messer presided at the meeting.

Janct Word of Childress, was program chairman. She introduced Jane Westberry, assistant superintendent of Childress Schools, who gave a very interesting and enlightening program on Russia. Ms. Westberry has visited Russia two years ago. She shared her trip with us by showing slides of some of the outstanding places and people whom she saw there.

One interesting bit of information she gave was related to the excellent discipline found in the schools there. If peer pressure does not correct the problems, the child's parents are called; if this is not sufficient correction, the parent's employer is called. There are not many discipline problems.

Ms. Westberry is also a new member of Gamma Kappa Chapter. She transferred from an Amarillo Chapter.

After adjournment the Donley County members served refreshments. These members were Betty Veach, Pauline Hardin, and Evelyn Messer. The first airplane purchased by the J.S. government was called the Miss Columbia and bought from the Wright brothers in 1909.

Fever Reducing Medicines

The control of body temperature takes place in an area of the lower part of the brain referred to as the hypothalmus. It is here that temperature is maintained at between 97.7 and 99.5 degrees F. The hypothalmus balances the production and loss of body heat with the assistance of the nervous system. Fever is generally defined as body temperature which exceeds 100 degrees F. The substance which accumulates in the cells and causes a rise in body temperature is referred to as prostaglandin E-2.

Persons with high fever (103 to 105 degrees F) lasting for 12 to 24 hours should be evaluated by a physician. Fever that goes above 105 F requires immediate medical care.

Fever-reducing medicines such as aspirin, acetaminophen, and ibuprofen are used to relieve fever discomfort. These medicines prevent the formation of prostaglandin E-2 through their action on a specific enzyme system. According to the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, aspirin and acetaminophen are equally effective fever reducers and have the same onset and duration of activity. Acetaminophen and ibuprofen are preferred by many physicians because of the association between aspirin use and Reye's syndrome in children.

GENERIC CHRISTIANITY

A few years ago discount supermarkets started selling "generic" merchandise. That was their term for flour or beans that were sold in plain black-and-white labels with no brand name. About the same time, many states passed legislation allowing pharmacists to sell "generic" drugs—medicine of the same chemical composition as the "name-brand" products, but without a royalty to the corporation that promoted the trademarked product.

"Generic Christianity" is now long overdue. Brand names, trademarks and advertising gimmicks are fine for Del Monte or Jordache or Black-and-Decker but they are utterly inappropriate for Christians—and far too expensive.

Jesus did not advertisé Methodist Christianity or Roman Catholic Christianity. He never spoke of Eastern Orthodox Christians or Assembly-of-God-Christians. He did not tell people to become Baptist Christians or Presbyterian Christians or Church-of-Christ Christians or Christian Church Christians.

Instead, Jesus talked about servants (with a lower case "s") and disciples (with a little "d"). He told his followers that they should love their neighbors, and his example of neighborly-ness was the good Samaritan. The one sign that the Servant Messiah authorized for his followers was not carved above the door of a building or painted on a sign out near the curb. Jesus said, "By this all men will know you are my apprentices: if you love one another," (John 13:35).

The apostles understood Jesus teaching very well. They referred to Jesus teachings as "the way", and sometimes applied that term to his followers (Acts 19:9; 22:4). They referred to each others as brothers (Rom. 14:10; 16:23), as disciples (Acts 6:vss; 9:vss; 11:26), as believers (Acts 5:14; II Tim. 4:12), as the household of faith (Gal. 6:10; Eph. 2:19), and as the body of Christ (I Cor. 11:27--12:27). Yet they did not use any of these terms as a "trademark" or a "brandname".

In fact, such "trademarks" and "brandnames" (and similar methods of denominating and discriminating) are expressly forbidden in I Corinthians 1:12-4:1. Believers belong to Christ-period.

A believer is not the property of the Vatican, the Missouri Synod, the Southern Baptist Convention or North American Christian Convention. Not one soul is the property of the Boston Church of Christ or of St. Anthony's Episcopal or of the Trueto-the-Bible,-Sanforized,-Orthodox,-Heretic-Free,-Only-Real-True- Church. Every Christian belongs to Jesus the Anointed, and Him only.

Jesus purchased each Christian with his blood (Acts 20:28). Any denomination or sect or congregation or clique that claims us tries to purloin that which belongs to the Son of God. And when we claim to "belong" to such a brotherhood or local church, then we lie. We must either belong to Jesus, or we belong to Satan. "No one can serve two owners, for either he will hate the one and love the other or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other," (Matthew 6:24).

Those who would be Christians cannot afford brandnames or trademarks. Such devices are conceived and designed to foster "product loyalty". And "product loyalty" is utterly incompatible with obedience to God. Satan will tempt us with other loyalties, just as he did Jesus. But our answer must be the same as Jesus' answer on the high mountain: "You shall worship the Lord your God and Him only shall you serve," (Matthew 4:10).

Those who would proclaim the Good News of Christ and make disciples for Him cannot afford brandnames and trademarks either. Denominational or sectarian allegiances divide the loyalty of the evangelist and preoccupy him with trivia. Such divided allegiances dilute the message and confuse the listener. Ultimately it may wreck the missionary's effort.

The alcoholic who abandons the bottle in order to adore the Faith Christian Mission may be just as much an addict as when drunk. The Hindu who forsakes his stone idol to worship the Church of Christ or the Watchtower Society is as much an idolater as he was before. Paul said, "I decided to know nothing among you except Jesus Christ and Him crucified," (I Corinthians 2:2). How dare any modern evangelist add to that?

Those who seek to be generic Christians must aim for maximum purity. In this respect, generic Christianity is very different from generic groceries. Generic strawberry jam may be second quality. It may have more "filler", more artificial flavor and artificial coloring than the brand names. Generic Christians, by contrast, seek absolute purity. Their faith rests in the power and veracity of God. Their beliefs come from the Scriptures. They try to discard any additives that might come from tradition, denominational philosophy or secular society. Generic Christians try to live lives as pure as Jesus. They try to follow the leadership of the Holy Spirit, not some bishop or editor or popular leader. In short, generic Christianity is superior in quality to sectarianism.

Generic Christians should be more productive, as well. They are not restrained by territorial jealousies. Their service is not curtailed by some jealous pastor. They are free to see opportunities for service all around them--where ever there is human need.

The generic Christian does not care whether or not an orphan belongs to his sect--he has no sect. He or she does not care whether the poor are white, black. brown or yellow. He or she sees need, not races, for the generic Christian remembers Jesus' words, "in as much as you did it for the least of these you did it for me," (Matthew 25:40).

The generic Christian responds to spiritual poverty with the treasure of the Gospel--nothing more and nothing less. His good news is that Jesus came and gave his life as a ransom for sinners. Those who trust Jesus, who are born again of water and the Spirit are given new lives by God. They are adopted as his children and loved by Him. That is indeed good news!

Generic Christians are not only more free to serve, they are free to love and share with other Christians. Sectarian traditions and denominational leaders may try to restrict their flock's association with others. But the generic Christian is free of such restraints. He knows that where ever God has a child, he has a brother or sister. He can love such brothers and sisters without demanding that they agree on every detail of teaching and methodology. While he may find it necessary to exhort them about what he believes is a serious error in their faith or practice, but he can do so gently and lovingly. He is always apt to teach, and always apt to learn. Since he knows that all truth is from God, he is free to accept truth from any quarter, provided only that it is consistent with the Scriptures.

Generic Christianity requires nothing more and nothing less as a condition of becoming a Christian than the apostles required nineteen-and-a-half centuries ago. It does not demand adherence to a creed or require subservience to a governing body or call for a vote on a candidate's acceptability.

Generic Christianity teaches what all Christians have always believed. It emphasizes the Scriptures, a common ground, a universally accepted norm that is acknowledged, at least in theory, by virtually everyone who has ever claimed to be a follower of the Christ. It emphasize those areas in which there is universal or near-universal consensus. In areas where there are differences of interpretation, the generic Christian will follow the Canon as closely as possible, teaching as forcefully as possible, in all sincerity, but forbearing judgment of those whose interpretations are different. Where possible, in areas of controversy, the generic Christian will "follow the path which leads to peace"; he will seek the course that is universally acceptable. Yet in deferring to others, he will insist upon freedom for brothers and sisters who in all good conscience follow a different practice. The generic Christian will never forget, and never stop reminding others, that Jesus is the Christian's gracious redeemer and ultimate judge. It is He who has the authority to judge, and no others have been delegated that power. Instead of praying "Lord thank you that I am a member of this religious group", he will pray, "O God, be merciful to me a sinner."

The generic Christian will copy his Savior. He will serve and build. He will love and teach. His life will be active, not passive. His attention will be focused on Jesus Christ and Him crucified. That scene of Jesus on the cross will govern every priority in his life.

Are you a generic Christian?

Have you listened to the Good News that Jesus came, taught, died and was raised from the dead? Do I believe that fact, and do you trust Jesus, and Jesus alone, to save you me from sin and death?

Have you wept because of your past sins, and turned away from selfishness and from doing what you knew was wrong?

Have you been buried with Christ in the waters of baptism and raised to live a new kind of life in Him?

Is your life devoted to copying Jesus: accepting, loving and serving others and proclaiming deliverance from Hell?

Am you a generic Christian?

Jesus made no other kind.

A plea for Christian unity from the believers who meet at Third & Gorst (a Christian church). We invite you to join with us: in praying "that [Christians] may all be one"*, in aspiring to abandon human creeds and traditions, in seeking to follow Jesus as Lord, in trying to develop "a sincere love of the brethren", in trying to live as servants of our neighbors, in praying for forgiveness for our failings and in giving thanks for the grace of God.

Deuteronomy 6:7-9

Food For Thought by Mack Garrison

Do you ever have times when those infinitely unanswerable questions seem to drive you crazy? Or maybe thoughts of grandeur that seem to take you over. Possibly you are puzzled with some aspect of Science, Literature, Religion or maybe even God.

At one time or another in our childhood we probably all pondered over questions like: Who made God? or Where did God come from? These are questions that cannot be answered by we infinitesimal beings with our finite minds. But if you still have a mind bent on wondering or a mind intrigued by the question of eternity, let me interject a thought or possibly a question (depending on the person) into your thinking. We'll just call it "food for thought."

I believe that every person reading this paper today believes in God. Whether they admit it or not. I also believe that many know God in a personal way and study the Word of God regularly. But unfortunately many do not. They have the faintest idea who God is. Therefore I would like to write two words in conjunction and I would ask that you ponder the two to see if they go together or not. The words have to do with the character of God.

The words are: Omnipotent Restraint.

These are words about God that cannot be explained or even discussed in this short article. They may even be referred to as an oxymoron. So I ask you to read the Bible and notice these two qualities of God throughout the history of 12:00 Noon Lunch; 84 Club; 5:30 mankind.

How can the Holy One of Israel, the Almighty, the Ancient of Days also be the jilted lover we find in the book of Hosea? How can the One who anxiously pleads with lost souls. be "Majestic in Power!"? God is All God. And we can't easily tone down either one.

God's power and God's mercy. An Irresistible Force meets an Immovable Object! What an awesome and exhilarating thought.

We find an example of these wonderful attributes in Genesis 18 and 19 where we find Abraham dealing with the Lord to save Sodom and Gomorrah. He asks the Lord to save the city for fifty righteous within the city. The Lord quickly agrees. Then Abraham cautiously deals the Lord down to ten righteous within the city. The Lord's mercy is shown when He wouldn't destroy a city of thousands of wicked for the sake of ten righteous.

But when the angels of the Lord arrive at Sodom they do not find ten righteous so to make a long story short God did destroy the city but not until Lot, his wife and two daughters were removed. Notice God's mercy again in Gen.19:15,16."And when the morning arose, then the angels hastened Lot, saying Arise take thy wife and thy two daughters which are here lest thou be consumed in the iniquity of the city. And while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand and upon the hand of his wife and upon the hand of his two daughters. The Lord being merciful unto him and they brought him forth and set him without the city."

We could talk about God's mercy and power forever. But the most beautiful example of God's Omnipotent Restraint happened on Calvary. There God's Omnipotent Judgment was satisfied as He offered up His own Son. And His Glorious Restraint shone through because it wasn't me on the cross dying for my own sins.

Have you seen God's Omnipotent Restraint in your life? Have you let Jesus Christ cleanse you from your sins?

There on Calvary the Irresistible Force met the Immovable Object and we won! Hallelujah!

Hedley Schools To Celebrate 25th Anniversary

by Glyndoll Holland--Supt. Hedley Schools

A proximately twenty five years ago, Hedley Citizens began a notable, far reaching project. This venture would influence the history of Hedley for years to come; and without it, it is very likely that Hedley would have ceased to be called a town. This project was not without opposition in the community, but for the most part, the will of the majority was accepted. The event referred to is the bond issue and construction of a new school building for Hedley School.

In April of 1964 the Board of Trustees then composed of: President--Buford Holland, Vice-President--Earl Wheatly, Secretary--W. L. Stewart, and members--A. B. Spalding, James Evans, Ray Altman, and Harold White called a special meeting to gather public sentiment concerning the present

Faculty Member Building Remarks... R. K. Sams Alma Mater... and Audience

Benediction. Doyle Messer

Thank You Many, many thanks to all the nice people who telephoned, visited, sent cards, or said prayers for me while I was in the hospital recently and since I came home. A special "thanks" goes to all of our children for their loving kindness and attention. The wonderful care I got at Northwest Texas Hospital was really appreciated.

Best wishes to all of you. Slats and Peggie DeBord Hedley, Texas
