Snow, ice and freezing weather blankets Donley County last week end

Last week, the Texas Panhandle was hit by record breaking snow. The Amarillo airport was closed for several days, roofs of buildings in Lubbock and Amarillo caved in due to heavy accumulations of snow. Although I-40 and Highway 287 were never closed, they were icy and caused hazardous driving conditions.

The Donley County Sheriff's Dept. reported a truck jack-knifed on Highway 70, a pickup overturned on Highway 287 and they worked 8-10 minor accidents. No injuries were reported in any of those accidents.

What started Wednesday with freezing drizzle, turned into snow by Thursday and before it stopped on Friday, an unofficial 5 inches had carpeted Donley County. Most Donley County residents were without power at one time or another. Most of the power was restored by Friday morning, but Greenbelt Electric Cooperative officials said that 75 percent of their rural customers between Canyon and the Oklahoma State line were without power Friday afternoon. At one time Friday afternoon, all of Hedley, Lella Lake and most of Clarendon were without power. We've had reports of residents having no electricity for as much as five days.

The storm had some effect on the Clarendon schools. The buses ran an hour late and school were dismissed early Friday afternoon. The Hedley school closed Friday due to the bad weather.

PIK sign up started Jan. 24th in Donley County

Signup for PIK will begin January 24th and continue through March 11th.

On January 11, 1983, the Payment-In-Kind Program was announced for 1983 crops of wheat, corn, grain sorghum and cotton. This newsletter is to inform you of some of the program details. Signup will run from January 24th through March 11, 1983.

You have several alternatives:

1. To participate in PIK, you must enroll in the previously announced program.
2. To enroll your farm in the PIK program, you must set aside a minimum acreage equal to 10 percent of the farm base and may vary from this level to 30 percent of the base.
3. You may also bid on the whole base for the farm by submitting a sealed bid.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

1. The PIK commodity will be delivered at a time, to be announced for each commodity based on normal harvest for the crop in the area.
2. Producers entering PIK with outstanding regular or reserve price support loans must make the commodity under loan available to Commodity Credit Corporation for use in the program in return for liquidating loans. If a producer has no commodity in loan locally, he will receive compensation from the nearest warehouse.
3. Acres diverted under PIK must be maintained the same as other conserving use acres with the exception of winter wheat already seeded which may be grazed or hayed up to the wheat disposition date.

REGULAR PIK SIGNUP

1. Payment-In-Kind payments will be made on 95 percent of the wheat farm yield, and on 80 percent of cotton, grain sorghum and corn yields times the acres for PIK.

2. Compensation will be in standard amounts for grain (No. 1 wheat, No. 2 corn and grain sorghum) and historical average grades for cotton for this area.

3. Compensation will be made in warehouse receipts. Adjustment in quality will be made in pounds or bushels.

4. You will have 5 months from the date PIK commodity becomes available to accept title to the commodity. Storage will be paid by CCC until that date. Producers who liquidate farm stored loans will receive up to 7 additional months storage.

WHOLE BASE BIDS

1. The amount of base accepted will depend on the supply/demand situation for the commodity, conditions in each community and other factors, in no case to exceed 50 percent of the county base.

2. Sealed bids will be based on a percentage of the farm established base for 1983.

3. Commodity Credit Corporation reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

4. The County Committee will evaluate the bids in a public open meeting on March 18th. If bids are accepted, they will be approved in order of lowest to highest until the county limit is reached.

5. All interested persons on a farm must sign the contract before March 11th. Hopefully, shortly after the 24th, we will have the full details of the program and will be able to help you work out your farm operating plan on an individual basis.

JAMES THOMAS is presented Scouting Award by Donnie Garman.

Thomas receives Scoutings Award

The Appreciation Banquet for the Kiowa District of the Adobe Walls Council Boy Scouts of America was held January 22 at Pampa.

During this ceremony, James Thomas of Clarendon was bestowed the District Award of Merit. This is the highest honor that can be given within the Kiowa District to honor an adult Scoutmaster.

The District Award of Merit is given each year at the Annual District Appreciation Banquet to honor the different leadership positions of adult leader. The Award of Merit is presented on the basis of noteworthy service to youth inside the District. Taken into consideration are services outside of Scouting as well as service and tenure to Scouting. The District is limited to one award for each 25 units or fraction over.

The award was presented to James by Donnie Garman, of Clarendon and a 1981 winner. James was nominated for this award by Tommy Saye, Scoutmaster of Troop 433. The letter reads as follows:

Dear Sirs:
I would like to recommend James Thomas, Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 433, Clarendon, for the District Award of Merit. James is 24 years old and has been in scouting for 13 years. He has served as my Assistant Scoutmaster for 6 years.

As a Scout he earned his God and Country Award in 1972 and his Eagle Rank in 1974; was inducted into the Order of the Arrow in 1972 and received his brotherhood in 1980.

As an Assistant Scoutmaster he has served as a Counselor for the God and Country Program for 4 years for the First Baptist Church and helped six young men to achieve this honor.

James is the oldest of four brothers and under his encouragement and assistance the three younger brothers followed his example and all achieved the God and Country Award and Eagle Rank.

James is a splendid example of what scouting can do for a young man. He has served the unit faithfully in all Scouting activities for the past six years. He attended Show and Do at Camp in November of 1982.

I have depended heavily on him as Assistant Scoutmaster. Much of the success of our Troop has been through his efforts.

Even while attending College and now as a full time Texas Highway Department employee, his interest in the Troop and its boys has remained high.

Junior Livestock Show a success

The 1983 Donley County Junior Livestock Show which had been scheduled for Saturday, had to be postponed until Monday due to bad weather.

We are not printing any pictures or listing the premium prices in this weeks issue of the paper, because due to the overwhelming response the community had made toward this first premium auction, the total list of bidders and donations made to these FFA and 4-H youngsters are not complete. Rather than take the chance of overlooking some of the donors, the Donley County Junior Livestock Association has asked that the paper wait until next week to print pictures and a complete list of all the winners.

As an example to the response Lisia Fuston Grand Champion Hereford Heifer received a bid of $350 at the auction, but due to the many donations contributed to her ran the grand total up several hundred dollars.

However, we would like to print the grand champions and reserve grand champions: Lambs, Brett Harbert won grand champion, while Mykie Patterson took reserve grand champion and showmanship was won by Doug Hawkins.

Hogs: Doug Hawkins, grand champion; Christie McAnear reserve grand champion; Tim Cole, Showmanship. Steers: Lori Robinson,

Watch for pictures, auction prices, winners and a complete list of donation in next weeks paper.

Emergency loans available from FmHA

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers, or aquaculture operators are available through county offices of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), Marvin Crabtree, FmHA county supervisor, said.

Mr. Crabtree asked that those who need farm credit as a result of flood, hail, or wind from May 1, 1982 thru July 1, 1982 make their needs known at the Farmers Home Administration office at 416 South Kearney, Clarendon.

Applications for assistance in the disaster stricken counties will be accepted by Farmers Home until October 20, 1983 for physical and production losses.

FmHA loans covering actual physical and production losses may be used to replace installations, equipment, or buildings, (including homes) lost through this disaster. Funds may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to meet interest and depreciation payments on current real estate and chattel debts.

Funds can be used for essential operating and living costs, Mr. Crabtree said. Applicants that certify that other credit is not available

Intrastate long-distance rates approved

The new intrastate long-distance rates approved Jan. 11 by the Public Utility Commission of Texas for Southwestern Bell apply to all customers placing intrastate long-distance calls. The rates were increased by 10 percent, effective Jan. 11.

Jimmy Bennett, Memphis operations manager, said

Bell administers the tariffs which contain the rates approved by the commission. "We are partners in the provision of long-distance services," the manager said. "All intrastate long-distance revenues and expenses are placed in a pool administered by Bell. Bell then returns to the other telephone companies' expenses plus a return based upon each company's investment." The telephone company manager said that even though General Telephone feels long-distance earnings are still not at the level they should be, the company is pleased the commission approved some increase to

The telephone company official said any increased revenues General Telephone obtains from the new long-distance rates will ultimately help reduce the upward pressure on local basic service rates.

Other changes affecting General Telephone customers predominately business customers, are increases in Wide Area Telephone Service (WATS) and changes in charges for customers in General cities with a direct line to a Bell service area with an associated Bell telephone number.

CREEPING NEGLECT CAN BE COSTLY

Everyone feels a bit remiss from time to time when neglecting such duties as dental checkups, dripping faucets or overdue shoe repairs. Basic preventive maintenance on our cars is another responsibility which deserves attention.

Engine tune-up, for example, is among the automotive services which, if ignored too long, can penalize the car owner in terms of wasted gasoline, inconvenience and delays.

Statistics are working against us, according to Car Care Council. The average car age is increasing while the size of the vehicle engine is decreasing. The negligent motorist, therefore, becomes more vulnerable to car trouble. When one spark plug in a four-cylinder engine stops firing, the performance drops off much more noticeably than it would in the case of a larger engine.

How do you know when your engine needs a tune-up? The Council lists the following symptoms:

1. A noticeable increase in fuel consumption. Keep a running record of fuel consumed versus mileage driven to be aware of increasing consumption.
2. Rough idling or roughness on acceleration.
3. Hard starting.

The Clarendon Press, USPS 947040, is published every Thursday, at Clarendon, Texas 79226, Box 1110, 316 B. South Kearney and entered as Second Class Mail at the post office at Clarendon, Texas.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character of any person or firm appearing in these columns will be gladly and promptly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the management.

4. Dieseling or "run-on", where the engine continues to run a few seconds after the ignition is turned off.

5. Knocking or pinging, especially under load.

6. Noticeable drop in power or performance.

While the new breed of American car is vastly more fuel efficient than its counterpart of just a few years ago, it still requires periodic service and adjustments, replacement of necessary fuel and ignition components to keep it running that way.

GARDEN

By NAOMI GREEN

Princess Grace book on flowers. The trick is to plant several lavender plants nearby.

Verdie is anxious to get some overbearing Bermuda dug out of her beds as soon as the ground is thawed. She is looking for an enterprising boy who likes to dig. I share this problem and have not yet trained a grandson but I am working on it. Another dilemma that Verdie and I shared last spring was dandelions. We found spray cans of Weed-B-Gone much more effective than the "Spray & Wash" that Mayor Shirley Clifford recommended several years ago. There are liquid mixtures of Weed-B-Gone that can be mopped or sprayed when mixed with water that are more economical but the spray cans are handy if one can catch a day without wind in West Texas.

If you want to hear about "larping eating" you ought to get Verdie to describe the strawberry patches she picked in Arkansas. Thelma Hall recommends about the fifteenth of February for setting a new bed here. Be sure and put plants on the bed. I tried a flat bed and ruined the plants through sprinkle irrigation-flooding is proper method to keep mildew and diseases off plants.

Several years ago Verdie got a pacemaker. One wonders from the pace she sets it, it was not for the purpose of slowing her down a bit. She has brought pleasure and service to others in coming to Dopley County for her retirement years.

slow starters when I had tried that, she suggested soaking both roots and cuttings in "Root Tone" before bedding them.

Verdie has the frame work up in anticipation of a vine house this summer using vinters, clematis and trumpet vines; no annuals due to the work of tearing down residue each year. She will be using the vine house to bring out house plants that need shade or a place to rest and serve tea to friends and interview reporters, we hope. When I suggested honeysuckle for aroma, I was not aware that wasps like it also. Found a remedy for that in

VERDIE HERRINGTON

Verdie Herrington is a transplanted West Texas gardener. She retired from cage-layer and Arkansas farming and came to Clarendon in 1972. A really active Methodist and member of several clubs, she quickly established roots. Verdie's speciality is growing and arranging flowers. She has helped countless hostesses during almost every season with her floral exhibits.

Some of the plants on her present homestead are cuttings she has brought with her from Arkansas. She has a healthy poi plant which grows outdoors in Hawaii.

When I tried to root mine it was unsuccessful.

An Arkansas wild flower that astute Verdie brought seed and tamed to West Texas climate is the sweet rocket. This plant blooms about the same time of iris. Planting method recommended is to throw them on a snowbank. We have needed the seed in hand this past week.

Verdie suggests a considerable savings for those on fixed income can be had by pulling geraniums in the Fall and storing them root side up in cardboard boxes in the cellar. When I complained that my plants were

Clergy marriages not free from marital problems

COLLEGE STATION — Ministers marriages may be made in heaven, but they're lived out on earth — a place where even husbands and wives in the clergy encounter problems, according to the results of a study conducted by a Texas A&M University graduate student.

In the study of 30 clergy and 30 lay couples, Scott E. Barber found that clergy couples experienced as many marital problems as those not in the ministry.

Jaws of Life to be displayed Jan. 29

The Clarendon Fire Department has received its Jaws of Life rescue tool which the community has so overwhelmingly supported. On Wednesday evening, January 12, a representative of the Amkus Company from Baton Rouge, Louisiana visited the local Fire Department and demonstrated the Amkus Jaws of Life for local firefighters who were on hand for the presentation. He had previously been contacted by local fire department personnel and performed the demonstration Wednesday evening after delivering the same tool to the Amarillo Fire Department earlier in the day. The Jaws of Life committee had already pretty much decided on this particular make after evaluating cost and specifications of other makes and models. It has much more force than any other and costed significantly less than the others. Also this tool has the ability to have the spreader/puller and the cutter hooked to the engine simultaneously and rescue personnel can switch from one to the other and back again by simply moving a switch on the engine. Those who saw the demonstration of McLean's rescue tool will remember that with that particular make, rescue workers had to stop spreading and pulling and remove the tips and attach a cutter. With Clarendon's tool, workers can go from spreading or pulling to cutting in less than one second instead of several minutes. This significantly decreases extrication time allowing the victim to be rescued more quickly by fewer personnel. This tool also has much more power. The spreader has a spreading force of 20,000 pounds, a pulling force of 13,000 pounds, and an opening of 30 inches. It weighs just 30 pounds. The cutter which weighs just 25 pounds, has a cutting force of 40,000 pounds. Also purchased by local personnel was a gasoline powered engine/hydraulic pump combination. The engine is a 3 1/2 hp four cycle motor and powers the hydraulic system. Also purchased was a hand pump for use in explosive atmospheres or if the gasoline engine should become disabled. Both units are easily carried by two men.

The total cost of everything purchased was $8460.

Thanks to the response by the citizens of the county, there were plenty of funds to pay for the unit on the spot. Other support equipment, such as lighting and some support tools are needed but funds continue coming in and hopefully these can be purchased fairly soon. The company representative also demonstrated a set of hydraulic rams which would be a great asset to the department personnel performing rescue and it is hoped that these can be added later on.

The firemen have been overwhelmed to say the least at the response of Donley County citizens who have contributed so much in such a short period of time to make the dream of having a super rescue tool available at all times a reality.

The Jaws of Life will be on display at Gibsons from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, January 29. The public is invited to come by and view this rescue tool during these times. Firefighters will be on hand to answer any questions you might have about it.

Hints for Homemakers TIPS TO HELP YOU

Many families these days have at least one member who must adhere to a special diet, be it low sodium, low cholesterol, sugar-free or some other restriction. This can pose extra problems for the family cook, preparing separate dishes aside from regular meals. Such special diets can become as simple as everyday meals if you prepare the foods in quantity ahead of time.

More and more people are freezing their own complete dinners, to be heated up in just minutes, thanks to the convenience of the new Vacuum Seal-a-Meal* from Dazey. Seal-a-Meal bags close with the touch of a finger and the vacuum action protects freshness, locking out flavor-stealing air and vapors.

It's a good idea to set aside a specific section of your freezer for "special" diet meals. This eliminates last minute searching. Freezer experts also advise labeling packages as to contents and date.

Bentsen talks about potential shortage of workers

"TIS A PUZZLEMENT" sings a baffled King of Siam as he reasons through his country's dilemmas in the popular play and movie "The King and I".

Well, how's this for a modern-day puzzlement?

More Americans are out of work than at any time since the Great Depression: 12 million, including those too discouraged to continue the job search. There are some 500,000 Texans out of work, the most ever.

Yet, in the midst of this massive job shortage, we also face a potential shortage of workers.

I'm talking about technically skilled workers. Some 57,500 industrial machinery repairmen, 28,000 computer operators, 21,300 machinists and 19,000 licensed practical nurses will be needed each year until 1990.

Department of Labor statistics indicate that during this decade some 2.5 million jobs will not be filled because the people with the required technical skills won't be there.

The best solution to this problem, of course, is to provide the education and the training that American workers need to compete for high paying skilled jobs.

But that will place a heavy burden on our technical and vocational training programs, which already are plagued by obsolete equipment and faculty shortages.

About half of the technical and industrial training programs in the United States are teaching with tools and equipment more than 10 years old, according to the American Vocational Association.

Our colleges and universities report 2,000 to 2,500 vacancies in engineering faculty. The demand for engineering school graduates in both the academic world and private industry continues to exceed supply.

To help beef up our training capacity, I introduced legislation last summer that I am submitting again to the new Congress. It will help bring the schools needing equipment and teachers together with the businesses needing workers and the workers needing jobs.

The Bentsen Skilled Worker Training Program, a package of three bills, would provide tax incentives for schools and businesses to help each other. And it does this without starting any new federal programs or new government bureaucracies.

Businesses that donate or share modern equipment with schools and colleges could claim expanded tax credits. Students could train on the equipment, for instance, at a business facility outside of regular office hours.

Industries and businesses that lend their engineers to teach at colleges and universities, or that make grants to these schools for hiring faculty, would earn tax deductions. Tax credits also would be given employers who allow participation in skills training programs by their employees.

It is, indeed, a puzzle. The more we succeed in easing the shortage of jobs, the more critical becomes the shortage of skilled workers. The solution is to provide adequate education and training. That will be one of my top goals in the coming year.

Conservation Tillage Seminar in Hereford set

High Plains farmers who are interested in learning more about cutting operating expenses, increasing profits, and reducing soil and water erosion are invited to attend a Conservation Tillage Seminar at Hereford, Texas, February 9-10, 1983.

Jim Donaho, district conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service at Clarendon, said the meeting will be held at the Bull Barn in Hereford starting at 9:00 a.m. both days. Attendance is free.

"The meeting will feature farmers who are using conservation tillage farming systems as well as speakers who will discuss the use of herbicides, computers, and other related technology," said Donaho. "Several kinds of conservation tillage equipment, including planters, sweeps, and chisels, will also be on display."

On the afternoon of February 10, there will be a demonstration of conservation tillage equipment on a farm near Hereford.

The seminar is sponsored by the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District, the Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America, the USDA Agricultural Research Service, and the Soil Conservation Service.

Billy C. Griffin will become state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Texas effective January 9, 1983.

Billy C. Griffin new state conservationist

Griffin has been state conservationist for Mississippi since January 1981.

A native of Waelder, TX (Gonzales County), Griffin is a 1950 graduate of Southwest Texas University where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Agricultural Education.

After serving in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict (25th Infantry Division), he began his conservation career in 1954 at Stephenville. He then worked at Bandera, San Antonio, and Pecos before moving to Temple in 1972 where he was an area conservationist and assistant state conservationist. He was promoted to deputy state conservationist in Mississippi from 1976 to 1981.

Griffin received awards for outstanding work in 1965, 1968, 1973, 1978, 1980, and 1982. He replaces George C. Marks who retired.

Plans are underway for a Musical Pictorial. This production will involve the music and photography department of the Fine Arts Center at Clarendon College. Mrs. Joburta Helms, Instructor of Music, is preparing many popular songs for the choir to perform. Some of the selections include a tribute to Air Supply and

Anne Murray. Other selections include music by the artists—Earth, Wind, and Fire; Ronnie Milsap and many more of the top music of the 1970's and 1980's. The photography department will provide pictures to coincide with the music. The photographers have been taking pictures of students on the campus and the surrounding community. Mr. James Edwards, Instructor of Art, is supervising the pictorial part. The production will be held at the Fine Arts Center on February 27, 1983 in a 2:00 Sunday matinee. With the combined talents of these two departments working together should prove to be very enjoyable for all, so please make plans now to attend! For additional information call the Fine Arts Center at 874-2574.

the fourth quarter told the final story when the Rockets pulled out in front with a lead of 11 points in the last few minutes of the game. The final score was 47-36.
 High point for the night was Linda Weatherton with 11 points.
 The Varsity guys also played the Rockets. It was an exceptionally well played game.
 The Bronco managed an 8 point lead in the first quarter which did not make the Rockets very happy at all. It looked as if the Rockets might catch up during the second quarter, but the Broncos were bound for victory. They pulled out in front and gained a substantial lead and pushed on to win. The final score was 67-50. High point for the night was Ray Crump with a whopping 32 points. All of which came from the field.

Guitars needed

Clarendon College has recently expanded the music department to include courses in Guitar. The class grew in size this semester and many of the students are without guitars. If anyone has an extra guitar, please consider donating it to our department or allowing an individual student to purchase it. This contribution will be greatly appreciated. If you would like to be a part of this course, please feel free to register before January 27, 1983. Our class meets at 4:00 p.m. on Monday afternoons. If your guitar is available, please call the Fine Arts Center at 874-2574 and ask specifically for Joburta Helms, instructor of music or Mrs. Helms at her home phone number 874-2528.

very close with a score of 20-21 going into the fourth. The fourth quarter proved to be the most crucial of all. During the last few minutes of the game, Quannah caused several turnovers which finally led to an Indian victory of 30-37.
 Leading scorer for the Lady Broncos was Linda Weatherton with 14 points all of which came from the field.
 The Clarendon Boys Varsity played next. They virtually dominated the entire game. The team was ahead by 14 points going into the second half.
 The Broncos kept their lead and went on to trample the Indians in a 52-30 victory.
 High point for the night was Kelly Hill with 16 points (4 from the field and 2 from the line).

Broncos and Indians have it out

The district contests between the Clarendon and Quannah Varsity teams last Tuesday at Quannah were very competitive.
 The Lady Broncos played a tough game that night. It seemed as if the Indians could do no wrong. The first half was very close but the Ladies were behind by 2 points when the buzzer sounded.
 The third quarter was also

Broncos vs. Rockets in District Bout

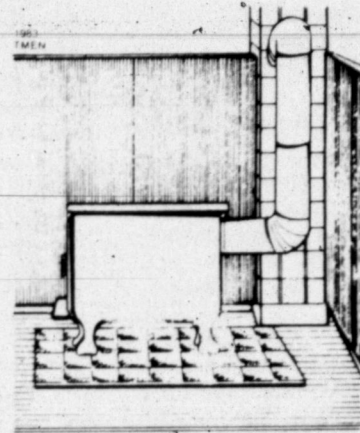

Another district game for the Clarendon Varsities was played Saturday night against the Wellington Skyrockets.
 The Lady Broncos played a very competitive game against the Skyrockets. At the end of the first half the Ladies were behind by 6 points with a score of 16-22.
 The second half was a tough one, also. However,

TWO LOW-COST BUILD-IT-YOURSELF WOODSTOVE HEAT SHIELDS

Two staff members at THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS were recently presented with clearance problems when installing their woodstoves at the onset of the heating season. We're sure that anyone who is contemplating the use of wood heat in their own home will find it interesting to look at the approach these people used to establish the safest possible installations (within the guidelines of the National Fire Protection Association) while maintaining maximum living space.
 By positioning a sheet-metal "guard" one inch out from a combustible surface, it's possible to significantly reduce the temperature to which the flammable wall would otherwise be subjected by a woodstove's radiant heat. The metal barrier—in this case, 24-gauge galvanized steel—is itself heated by the stove, and establishes a rising convective air flow in the space behind the sheet metal, effectively cooling the back of the steel and preventing the flammable wall from becoming dangerously overheated.
 Building a sheet-metal thermal barrier is very easy, but there are a few important considerations to keep in mind while planning the design. First, there must be a one- to two-inch space between the floor and the steel to allow air to pass underneath and behind the barrier. And, of course, the lumber that braces the metal (our staffers used 1-1/16" square stock) must be positioned vertically to avoid impeding the convective flow.
 In addition, the wooden supports should be insulated to prevent conductive heat transfer from the steel. We accomplished this by nailing the wood strips to the wall independently—deep-sinking each nail a quarter-inch into the lumber—and then slipping a section of aluminum window molding between the steel and the wood before tacking the pieces together with 1-1/4" aluminum roofing nails.
 The cost of materials to construct two "tin" barriers (including a 4' X 12' sheet of 24-gauge galvanized steel, 24 feet of window molding, three 1-1/16" X 1-1/16" X 8' boards, twenty 1-1/4" roofing nails, and a can of flat black high-temperature paint) totaled less than $20. The heater is now a mere 16 inches from the wall, and the wood behind the barrier is barely warm to the touch.
 Another—perhaps simpler—answer to the woodstove heat dissipation problem can be found right at your local heating supply store. Buy a 4' by 10' sheet of foil-covered fiberglass duct board, and slice it to match the dimensions of the wall area you're going to protect.
 After the thermal barrier's been cut to size, it's a simple matter to locate the studs in the wall and secure the panels firmly—foil side out—using 1-1/4" aluminum roofing nails. (You can also "trim" the exposed edges with aluminum tape for a neater appearance.) Finish the faces of the boards with heat-resistant paint... and your project's complete. The insulative material will absorb heat evenly over its entire surface, and—providing the stove is positioned a commonsense 18" or so from the wall—the wood behind the shield will remain protected... at an easy-to-live-with cost of about $20!

ALL-WEATHER VISIBILITY

More and more of America's 140 million drivers are getting a clear idea of how to protect themselves from frost or mist forming inside their windows.

The answer? Frost and mist shields that help give you safe, all-weather visibility. Here's how it works.

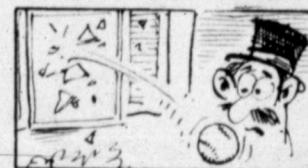

Just peel off the protective backing and place the shield on window.

When they are installed on the inside of the vehicle, air is trapped between the shield and window forming a dead air insulation gap. This prevents frost buildup on the inside.

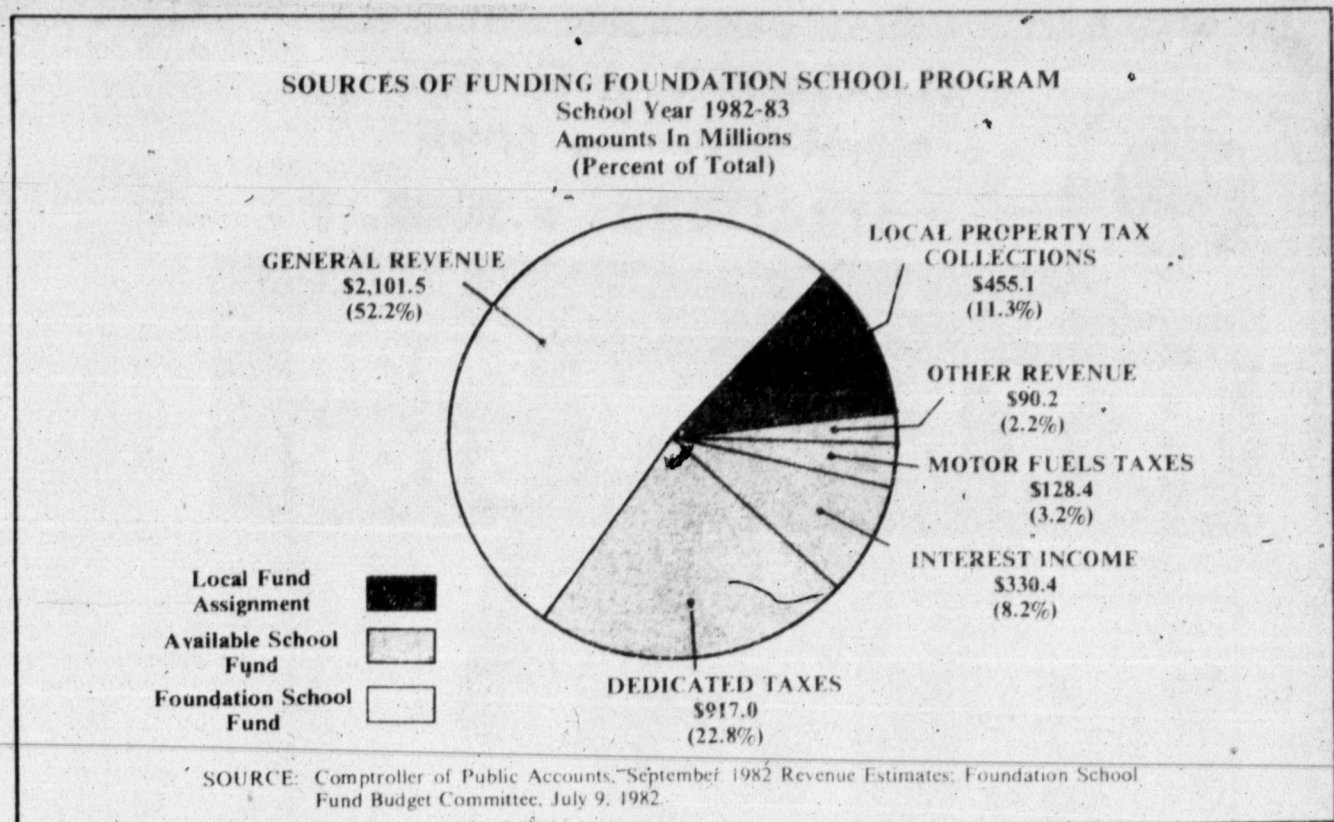

The shields, manufactured by Phillips Temro, a Budd Company subsidiary, a major manufacturer of automotive aftermarket products, are easy to install. Just peel off the protective backing and it is ready to place on window. Each shield has its own adhesive and the practically invisible space-age plastic resists discoloration.

Ideal for small cars that fog up faster than large cars, the shields provide clarity in winter and are flexible for use on curved glass.

All in all, a visibly better way to put you and your car on the road to safety.

Texas A&M chancellor chairs employer support committee for National Guard and Reserve

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Texas A&M University System Chancellor Arthur G. Hansen is the new chairman of the Texas Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve, announced Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger.

Weinberger's announcement of the appointment of Dr. Hansen cited the continuing need for support of Texas employers on behalf of their employees who serve in the National Guard and Reserve Forces.

"The support of employers is critical to the strength and readiness of the Guard and Reserve," Weinberger said. "Guard and Reserve members' decisions to stay in the Reserve forces are influenced by the possible conflicts between civilian career responsibilities and part-time military duties. Statistics show that employment conflict is one of the major reasons why Guard and Reserve members leave the service."

that the Guard and Reserve remain a strong and viable activity within our defense establishment and I am honored to have the opportunity to serve as a part of the effort to support this facet of our military," he said.

Dr. Hansen said one of his primary goals will be to help employers realize the importance of the Guard and Reserve and to urge them to let their employee participants take part in training activities.

"It also will be part of my general plan to meet with groups throughout the state in collaboration with leaders in various fields to discuss the Guard and Reserve generally and build even greater support for them," he added.

SASSY SANGRIA

Did you know canned pineapple juice makes a great mixer?

It's naturally tart and sweet at the same time, and blends well with soda, rum, wine or other fruit juices.

A festive drink for get-togethers, year 'round is Sassy Sangria—a combination of red wine, pineapple juice, canned pineapple chunks and colorful slices of lemon and lime. Especially nice on hot summer days!

- 1 gallon dry red wine, chilled
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 can (46 oz.) Dole Pineapple Juice, chilled
- 1 can (8 oz.) Dole Chunk Pineapple in Juice
- 1 orange, thinly sliced
- 1 lime, thinly sliced
- Ice cubes

In a large punch bowl, mix together wine and sugar. Stir in pineapple juice and undrained pineapple chunks. Float orange and lime slices on top for garnish. Add ice cubes, if desired. Makes about 1-1/2 gallons.

LIVESTOCK HEALTH TIPS

From the Animal Health Institute

Keep Livestock Healthy During Cold Days Ahead

Weather forecasters are calling for another winter of record, bone-chilling cold.

That's bad news for people twice as bad for livestock. Frigid temperatures cut disease resistance. Pigs get hit with bacterial scours and coccidiosis. Calves, too, plus shipping fever complex. Pneumonia attacks all species.

With recent, relatively higher prices in the livestock markets, you want those extra weight gains from disease-free animals. So it's vital to protect herd health.

Shelter your animals from the cold, especially the wind. Feed them well. Keep them clean. You know this will make a good start.

You can also draw on an arsenal of more than 650 pharmaceutical and feed additive products and some 300 veterinary biological products to help prevent and fight disease according to the Animal Health Institute, Alexandria, Va. Be sure to consult your veterinarian if you need advice on specific problems and the products used to treat them.

When drawing on that arsenal, there's one important point to keep in mind. Read the label. Take time to follow the label. That's what the eye-clock symbol reminds you to do.

And read the label each time you use a particular drug or medicated feed. Labels change. So do approved uses.

It's important to feed or administer only the dosage recommended on the label or feed tag. These dosages are scientifically determined for effective and safe use following years of research and examination by both the manufacturer and the federal regulatory agencies.

Don't overdose. The adage "if a little bit is good, then a whole lot more is better" definitely does not apply to animal drugs. By the same token, don't underdose. You need enough of the active drug ingredient in the animal's system to do the job.

Observe withdrawal periods, if required. When recommended dosages and uses are not observed, illegal residues may occur, and the consequences may be disastrous to your bankbook. If just one animal with a violative residue is found by federal inspectors, the entire shipment will be held and tests run to determine whether other animals contain residues. You won't be paid for condemned carcasses.

Federal authorities can also prosecute the producer for repeated violations. The first conviction may bring a maximum fine of $1,000 and/or one year in jail, the second, $10,000 and three years.

Perhaps the greatest penalty for misuse of a drug can fall on all of livestock agriculture through the loss of a valuable health product. If misuse persists, it can happen. The Federal government has the power to remove misused products from the market. It has happened before.

Finally, those rigors of winter can play havoc with animal health products. The freezing and thawing that can take place outdoors or even in a cold barn or shed can affect animal drugs. Check the label for storage instructions.

So protect your animals from the frigid blasts of winter. Feed them well. Keep them clean.

And use animal health products wisely by taking time to read and follow the label.

Home food production up

More and more Americans are growing their own groceries.

"Home food production continues to increase—the growth is really phenomenal," says Dr. Sam Cotner, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Texas A&M University System.

According to Cotner, more than half the households in America—and in Texas—grow food for their tables last year. Citing figures from a recent survey by the Gallup Poll and Gardens for All, the national association for gardening, Cotner says that some 53 percent of American households grew some or all of their own produce in 1982—a record number for the second consecutive year.

"People are growing vegetables and fruit wherever they can find space," notes Cotner. "They are using backyards, flowerbeds, patios and rooftop containers. Community gardens are popular in many locations across the country but really haven't caught on yet in Texas."

Some 2 million acres are devoted to home and community gardening across the U.S.

"Interest in home and community gardens has risen sharply the past few years, triggered by rising food prices and the desire to return to nature," points out Cotner. "Although food prices have declined recently, home vegetable production has remained steady because folks have found it to be an enjoyable and healthful as well as profitable activity. Also, gardening can be a family affair."

The recent Gallup-Gardens for All survey found that vegetable gardening has become the nation's number one outdoor leisure-time activity.

More people would likely take to gardening if they had adequate space, says Cotner. Many, especially those in urban areas, would like to have permanent sites set aside for community vegetable gardens. No doubt community gardens will soon become popular in Texas.

Diabetes Education Program available

What do Mary Tyler Moore and Menachem Begin have in common?

Probably not too much—except that the TV star and the Israeli prime minister both have diabetes.

Teaching other people to live with the disease is the purpose of the High Plains Baptist Hospital Diabetes Education Program.

Beginning January 31, classes will be held from 1:30 p.m. until 2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, 8th Floor, High Plains Baptist Hospital, 1600 Wallace Boulevard in the Amarillo Medical Center. Diabetes screening is also available.

Classes will be taught by Patient Education Instructor,

Theresa Bunkers-Lawson, a registered nurse.

In addition, individual instruction is also available. For an appointment or for more information, call 358-5405.

The program is free. High Plains Baptist Hospital is initiating the community service to correct dangerous gaps in patient education. National and regional studies show the majority of patients with diabetes don't know very much about the disease.

Diabetes is a chronic (meaning lifelong) disease that affects the way the body digests and uses food. The key to diabetes control are medication (when required), diet, and exercise.

HOT TIPS ON HEATING

A Public Service From INTERTHERM Inc.

Cutting Heating Bills Down To Size.

The family is in the den watching television, playing cards and just talking. Outdoors, temperatures are sliding below freezing. The central heating system is working hard—heating rooms no one is using.

A waste of energy, not to mention money.

Energy conscious families have come to realize that they can turn down the central heating system thermostat and still comfortably and economically heat the room being used.

They put a properly sized hot water electric baseboard heater on the floor adjacent to an exterior wall. By convection heating, the portable heater automatically warms the room evenly and efficiently. When the family disperses throughout the house, the central thermostat is turned back up.

For a free booklet on electric supplemental heating, write INTERTHERM Inc., Softheat Dept., P.O. 10820 Sunset Office Drive, St. Louis, MO 63128.

FARM POPULATION PROFILE

Farm Population Profile

Only about one American in 40, or 2.6 percent of the nation's population, lived on a farm in 1981, according to the latest look at the farm population by USDA's Economic Research Service and the Bureau of the Census.

The long-term decline in the number of farm residents continued during the last few years. In 1920, 30 percent of the U.S. population lived on farms, says ERS researcher Vera Banks.

Banks analyzed recent population data to present a statistical profile of farm residents and to compare their demographic, social, and economic characteristics with the nonfarm population. She found, for example, that farm residents are older, on the average, than their nonfarm counterparts.

The median age of farm residents is about 36 years, compared with 30 for the nonfarm population. About 51 percent of farm residents are 35 or older, while only 42 percent of nonfarm residents fit into this age group.

Until the last few decades, the farm population was the younger of the two. In 1920, 70 percent of farm residents were under age 35, compared with only 64 percent of nonfarm residents.

"This change results, in part, from the heavy outmigration of young adults from farms during the last generation," Banks says.

Among Banks' other findings:

- Ninety-five of every 100 farm residents are white. Among nonfarm residents, the figure is 86 percent. Blacks make up only 3.8 percent of the farm population, though they constitute 12 percent of the nonfarm group. Today, just 1 percent of the black population lives on farms, down from nearly half in 1920.

- Among adults 20 and older, farm men far outnumber women. The proportion: 107 men for every 100 women. It's the opposite in the nonfarm population where there are only 88 men for every 100 women.

- Farm residents, women particularly, are more likely to be married and living with a spouse than are nonfarm residents. This applied to 72 percent of farm women 15 and older, but only 54 percent of nonfarm women.

- Farm women bear more children than nonfarm women, based on June 1980 data. The average number of children born per 1,000 women age 18-44 was 1,813 for farm women and 1,498 for nonfarm women.

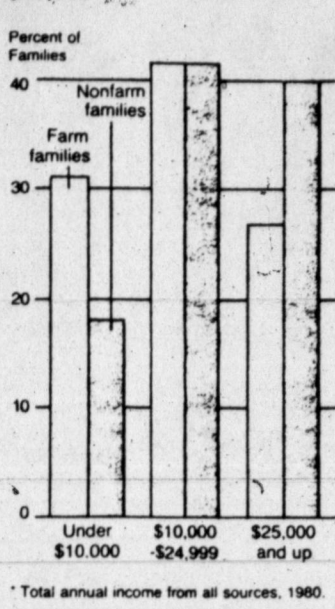

- A slightly larger proportion of farm than nonfarm residents—64 percent versus 62 percent—were in the labor force, either working or seeking work, from fall 1980 to the end of last year. But the edge extended only to farm men.

Though labor force participation grew from 30 percent of farm women to 47 percent between 1960 and 1981, this still didn't match the 51-percent participation level of nonfarm women.

- The rate of unemployment remains low in the farm population. In 1981, only 3 percent of farm residents were without jobs and looking for work. In contrast, 8 percent of the nonfarm labor force was unemployed. However, one misleading factor in lower farm unemployment figures is the frequency of dual employment on and off the farm, so that even when farmers and farmworkers lose needed off-farm jobs they are not counted among the unemployed.

- Farm families continue to trail their nonfarm counterparts in total income. In 1980, the difference was more than $5,000 in median family income, with farm families earning $15,755 (farm and off-farm income) and nonfarm families earning $21,151. When the inflation rate is figured in, both groups suffered declines in real income from 1979 to 1980, though farm families were hit hardest.

Nearly a Third of Farm Families Earn Less Than $10,000*

A Flexible Answer To Promote Healing

Few homes are without wounds can be an extremely important part of the healing process. Bandages provide protection and help to prevent reinfection or reinjury. A new flexible fabric bandage is now on the market that's both lightweight and body-conforming. It promises to overcome those often-voiced objections to bandages.

Understanding Your Child

Share A Fun Learning Experience

Here's a fun game to play with your child. Find the nine Blue Birds in the bush.

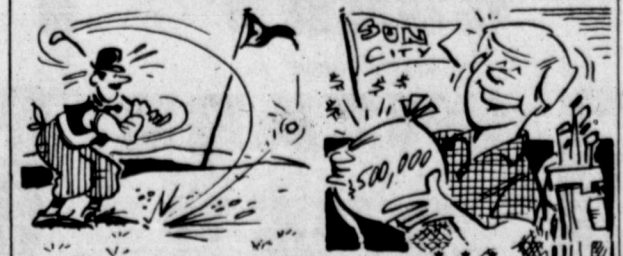

One way to become a bigger part of your child's life is to share a special experience. Many parents are doing just that by volunteering their time and helping out at their child's youth organization.

One group that many parents and children are becoming a part of is the Blue Birds, an organization for the youngest members of the national Camp Fire program. Open to all boys and girls in the first, second or third grades, it can be a great way for children to have fun and learn about their communities at the same time.

Camp Fire Blue Birds meet regularly under the guidance of a leader who has received special training. They work on projects such as building, drawing and cooking. They go on camping trips. Other times they might visit a farm, go to a museum, or tour a factory.

If you and your child would like to meet some new friends and share some special times, you can find out more from the Camp Fire Council in your area.

Par For The Course

Willie Anderson is the only player to win the U.S. Open golf championship three consecutive years. He accomplished the feat in 1903-1905.

Johnny Miller won golf's biggest purse in history when he won $500,000 in last year's Sun City Golf Challenge played in Sun City, Bophuthatswana.

According to Figgie International's Rawlings Golf, a player can use up to 14 clubs, usually four woods, nine irons and a putter.

The world's oldest amateur golf tournament is the British Amateur Golf Championship. It has existed since 1885.

The C. F. Mosses celebrated 50 years of marriage

Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Moss were honored by their children with a reception on their Golden Wedding Anniversary on January 15, 1983. They were married on January 14, 1933 at Memphis. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moss, Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Osburn, and Irene Gerner.

The reception was held at the Clarendon Senior Citizen's Center. The table was covered with a lace cloth. The four tiered cake was white on white topped with wedding bells, and was baked by Alice Kay Roden of Memphis. The punch was served from a crystal bowl. A centerpiece of gold roses and baby's breath was flanked by cream colored tapers in bronze holders. Oddie's corsage and Clarence's boutonniere were of gold roses.

Granddaughters, Holly Gerner, Cheryl Gerner, Linda Moss and Deborah Moss served. Granddaughter Dorcas Osburn registered guests. The gift table was centered with a lovely arrangement in gold tones, a gift from the Senior Citizens Singers.

Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moss from Lamont, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Randy Moss of Bakersfield, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rotan from Carlsbad, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Larry Moss and Deanna of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eddings of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Reding of Liberal, Kansas, George Williams of Memphis, Darrel and Jeff Munger of Fritch, and Rev. and Mrs. Robert Shugart of Texola, Okla.

Oddie and Clarence enjoyed the afternoon visiting friends, and received a number of lovely gifts. They were pleased and surprised to receive a card of congratulations from President and Mrs. Reagan.

Following the reception, the family gathered at the B.B. Osburns for supper and to view the film of the reception which had been video-taped by Larry Moss.

WINE-BURDEN?

Wine has been interwoven in all the known civilizations of the world. Here are some facts about it you might not know:

- No one knows who the first winemakers were. Wine's origins have been traced to the days of the early Egyptians.
- The Bible makes many references to wine and it has come down through the ages as part of religious celebrations such as the Roman Catholic mass, Jewish ceremonies and some Protestant Communion services.
- Wine is produced in many countries of the world, including Germany, France, Italy, Spain and the United States.

FACTS & FIGURES

It is estimated that there are more television sets in America than telephones, refrigerators, or bathtubs.

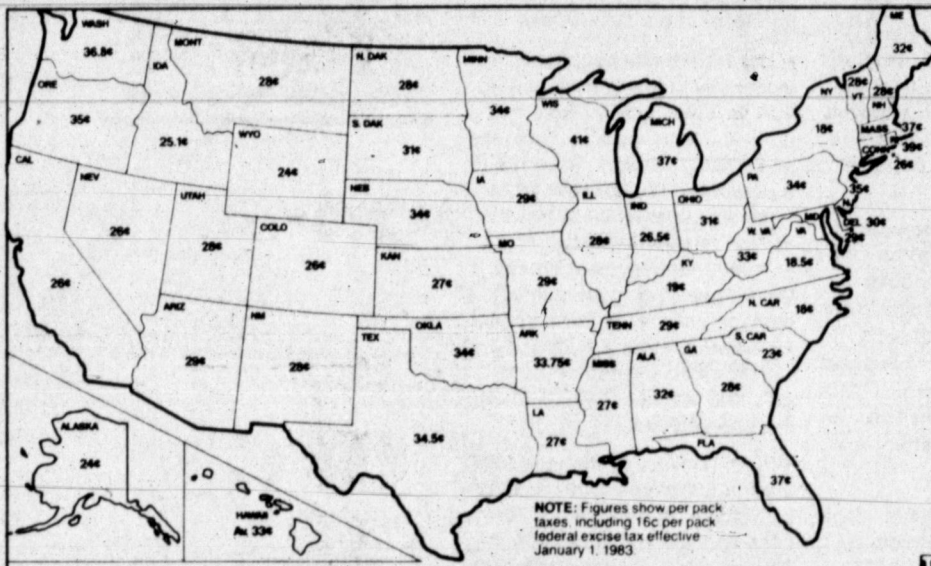

How old is television? You may be surprised to find that the earliest television patent dates back to 1884, almost one hundred years ago! The patent details a system using a rotating disc with spiral perforations to "scan" a scene.

NEWS FOR SHOPPERS

THE TAX HIKE: HOW CONSUMERS ARE REACTING

The map shows federal and state taxes per pack of cigarettes as of January 1. Lower-cost generic cigarettes offer smokers quality at a savings of 10 cents to 15 cents per pack.

When your favorite product increases in price how do you react? If you're like most Americans you either buy that product fewer times, or look for a lower priced product of the same or better quality.

Cigarette smokers are no different.

With the federal tax hike on cigarettes bringing the cost of a pack of branded cigarettes to a dollar or more, cost-conscious smokers are looking for ways to get the same quality but at a lower price. Increasingly, they are turning to generic cigarettes, those with no name, usually packaged in a plain wrapper.

These "no-name" cigarettes, sold in supermarkets and discount stores, are priced at an average of 10 to 15 cents less per pack (or $1-$1.50 less per carton) than national brands.

Market research has shown that nearly 85 percent of the smokers who try generics like them as well or better than their current brand, and 94 percent of those who try them would buy generics again. According to a spokesman for Gary Tobacco Co., the nation's leading manufacturer of generics, "You can get someone to try a product once because of the price, but they will not buy it again at any price unless it has the high quality they're used to."

Generic cigarettes manufactured by Gary can be found under more than 110 private label varieties in stores around the country. Marketing experts believe the increase in the use of generics is a classic case of the consumer getting what he wants. Smokers seem to want a quality, American-made cigarette at a low price. By offering generics of high quality, the manufacturer has been able to provide an alternative. The price is lower than brand name cigarettes because the advertising and packaging costs have been kept down.

Advertising Ideas

By Candace Lieberman
North American Precis Syndicate

If you know how to write the right kind of ads, selling could seem more like smooth sailing. Here are a few hints.

1. There should be a dominant illustration or headline that instantly telegraphs the message. The reader should be able to tell at a glance what the ad is about.
2. The ad Lieberman should have a recognizable logo. It should include your store's name, address and telephone number, with perhaps some additional information such as store hours, credit info, etc.

3. Aim the headline at the target audience.
4. Put the benefits or news in the headline.
5. Make the copy complete and specific. It should have enough details so that a reader can pick up a phone and order with confidence.
6. The language should be simple and direct.
7. The prices should be clear and visible.
8. The reader should be urged to act immediately. It's an essential part of closing the sale.
