County wins grant!

State awards $2.9 million to restore courthouse

Work could start by year's end; Architect to be picked Monday

By Roger Estlack

Donley County has been awarded nearly $2.9 million in a matching grant to restore the 1890 courthouse.

The Texas Historical Commission (THC) announced the grant recipients of the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program at its quarterly meeting last Thursday, May 4.

Donley County Judge Jack Hall flew to San Antonio for the meeting and said he couldn't sleep after the announcement was made because of his excitement.

"We're really excited and very pleased," Hall said during Monday's meeting of the commissioners' court. "We're looking forward to getting the courthouse restored."

The funds from the state will allow the Donley County Courthouse to be returned to its original design, and the project will include reconstruction of the third floor of the tower and dormers that were taken off in the 1930s.

Additionally, structural problems will be addressed, the roof will be properly repaired and sealed, and the bats will be removed from the attic. The building will also be rewired, all mechanical and plumbing systems will be updated, and air-conditioning will be installed.

Commissioners will hold a special meeting next Monday to choose an architect for the project.

Jean Stavenhagen, Chairman of the Donley County Historical Commission, said her group had a good feeling about the grant from the beginning.

"We felt we had a very good chance because of our connections with the THC and their work on the courthouse in the past," she said. "I never dreamed that we'd get everything we asked for, and now I can hardly wait for them to begin."

Construction could start as soon as this December, officials say. The county will need to submit architectural plans and specifications for the improvements to the THC before then.

Matching grants totaling more than $42 million were awarded to 19 counties. Donley County's total grant was $2,891,408.

"I join the members of the Texas Historical Commission in congratulating the inaugural grant recipients of the Texas Courthouse Preservation Program," said Gov. George W. Bush. "Because we acted today to preserve these historic buildings, years from now Texans will be able to ascend the steps of historic courthouses throughout the state."

"Historic courthouses are a profound reminder of the spirit and vision of our ancestors," said THC Executive Director Larry Oaks. "Today, it is our responsibility to honor this irreplaceable legacy by empowering local communities to use preservation as a way to promote heritage tourism and revitalize local economies."

The 1890 Donley County Courthouse will be completely restored - including rebuilding the third story tower, and dormers - thanks to a grant of nearly $2.9 million from the state. Enterprise wins award for efforts on preservation

THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE received the Texas Media Award - Honorable Mention during the Preservation Honor Awards banquet in San Antonio last Friday, May 5.

The award, given by Preservation Texas, was presented in conjunction with the annual State Preservation Conference.

The ENTERPRISE was honored for its reporting on the Donley County Courthouse in the March 9, 2000, issue. The edition featured a summary of the master plan submitted to the Texas Historical Commission (THC), the financial impact of its restoration, and the significance of the 1890 courthouse.

Using digital photo imaging to super-impose the image of the original courthouse over the current courthouse, the paper showed how the building has changed over time.

The ENTERPRISE also actively endorsed citizens' commitment to the courthouse restoration plan and invited readers to share their views on the courthouse.

During the banquet, a slideshow presentation was made featuring ENTERPRISE pictures of the courthouse.

"This was quite an honor for us," said publisher Roger Estlack, who accepted the award for the ENTERPRISE. "We were pleasantly surprised, and I would like to express my appreciation."

Apathy marks local elections last Saturday

Most voters just decided to stay home last weekend as three local governments held elections.

Howardwick

The City of Howardwick reported the best turnout with 29 percent of that city's eligible voters casting ballots for three positions on the Board of Aldermen.

Incumbent Nancy Davis was returned to the board, and Vernon C. Byars and Lynn Dishong will be new members on the board.

The vote was as follows: Byars, 79; Davis, 60; Dishong, 59; and Dennis Sell, 33.

Clarendon College

Clarendon College had five candidates running for three positions on the Board of Regents. All three incumbents were returned to their positions.

Only 7.7 percent of registered voters cast ballots.

The results were as follows: Delbert Robertson, 117; Mike Butts, 108; Doug Lowe, 107; Ted Shaller, 100; and Jim Aveni, 91.

Donley Hospital Board

Of the four seats open on the Donley County Hospital District Board of Directors, only one race was contested.

Recently appointed Helen Land defeated challenger Cindy Hewett for the Place Five, 141-74.

Onita Thomas was re-elected to Place Seven with 199 votes. Sue Leeper received 178 votes for Place Six, and Anna Gay Ceniceros had 169 votes for Place Four.

Approximately 8 percent of county voters cast ballots in the hospital board election.

Jean Stavenhagen:

Totally
HONORABLE, Totally
HONEST, Totally FUN

By Valerie Avery

Once inseparable for 25 years, longtime Clarendon educators Kay Hayes and Jean Stavenhagen met for a long-awaited reunion in the restroom at last week's UIL Literary Meet to discuss of all things - Hayes' hair.

"I asked her how she liked my hair," Hayes said last week from her home in Center Point, where she moved in June 1999. "I told her I thought it was looking better. She never has liked that I color it. She told me that she didn't like it and that she wished I would let it turn the color of my mother's hair, which was white."

"A woman who was in the bathroom overheard us talking and said we must be really good friends for her to say that," Hayes said laughingly.

That small snapshot into a very strong and interwoven relationship speaks volumes about Stavenhagen and Hayes and the passions they share.

The two have whispered nearly every dream, wish, disappointment and educational secret into each other's ears since they began driving to Canyon to earn their master's degrees in 1978.

"She is by far the best friend I've ever had," Hayes said. "We still talk all the time. In fact, Jim (Hayes) remarked awhile back that it would be cheaper for him just to set up a direct phone line between our house and hers," she said.

At the end of this school year, Clarendon will lose the second and third member of the "Big Three" that has anchored the Clarendon ISD English Department for the last quarter of the century. Hayes left last year to be closer to her family.

Stavenhagen and longtime English teacher Helen Estlack will retire at the end of this school year. And with their retirements, Clarendon will lose the final pieces of the cornerstone that has produced numerous UIL champions.

For 29 years, the upbeat Stavenhagen - known simply as "Mrs. Stave" to students and teachers alike - has taught or helped students research Hayes' legendary massive research papers using leather-bound encyclopedias. Recently, she has turned her attention to surfing the Internet on slick computers for an additional avenue of information.

She oversaw changing the library from a card catalog to automated check-out on the computer although she was wary initially.

"At first I wouldn't do it. I didn't trust the technology," Stavenhagen said. "But now, I think it's wonderful. I'm going to donate the card catalog to the museum. It's an antique."

The changes in the library have been numerous but changes for the better.

"It's been a fantastic thing, and we're fortunate enough to get it done," she said. "We still have books, and the teachers still require the students to use printed material as sources. We certainly need to expose the students to all kinds of media."

"I don't think books are ever going away." Life at Clarendon ISD has changed tremendously since the feisty teacher arrived in 1971 fresh out of school from West Texas State University. The Hedley native didn't travel far to put out roots: she has raised one son and countless others.

She always demanded the most out of her students.

"She just gave my own children fits," Hayes said. "Rick (Hayes) would ask her why See 'Stavenhagen' on page 6.

Town ought to take a cue from county's project

Opportunity knocked, Donley County answered, and now the future is before us.

With a $2,891,408 grant from the state, the 1890 courthouse will be fully restored to its 19th century splendor - including reconstructing the third story elements that were removed in the 1930s.

Oh, to be sure there is a lot of work to be done before construction can begin - county offices in the courthouse will have to be re-located temporarily, the county records will have to be moved, and there are tons of paperwork that the county will have to wade through. But in the end, we will have something that we can all be very proud of.

What once seemed like an impossible dream will become a reality.

As we went through the process of compiling the master plan and applying for the grant, Judge Jack Hall was an endless source of optimism.

Could we possibly get such a grant? "I just don't see it any other way," Hall would answer.

Was there any way that our county could get funded for a nearly $3 million project? "I just don't see it any other way."

Could we really see the third story - something that has been gone for more than 60 years - restored? "I just don't see it any other way."

Judge Hall and the members of the Commissioners' Court have shown vision and leadership as they guided us thus far. Many people have helped, but it is those men who have stuck their necks out as elected officials. They will need - and deserve - the continued support of the people of this county as this project proceeds over the next several months.

Following Thursday's announcement of grant winners by the state, my brother and I attended the State Preservation Conference in San Antonio this past weekend. The ENTERPRISE received an award for our coverage of the courthouse and other preservation efforts. I was constantly bombarded with praise and comments for not just our newspaper but for Donley County in general.

At the banquet Friday evening I was privileged to sit with representatives from Preservation Texas as well as members of the Texas Historical Commission. One of those members was THC Commissioner Shirley Caldwell of Albany. She and other politically appointed commissioners were the men and women who actually made the final decision as to which counties would receive funding.

"You will have the jewel of the plains when your courthouse is restored," she said.

That sort of comment makes you sit a little straighter and stick your chest out like a Bantam rooster.

"You're from Clarendon," people at the conference would say when they saw my nametag, and then they would make a statement about our courthouse. The name of the town was on the tag, so it's not like I was famous or anything. But still people realized I was from some place special or important.

We've got a lot going on right now here in old Donley County.

The work on the courthouse will be a major focus of activity, and the Saints' Roost Museum's efforts to refurbish the old depot building will be happening at the same time.

And yet, with all that's going on, compared to what other communities are doing, we are standing still.

As I visited with other conference attendees and as we drove through many towns between Clarendon and San Antonio, I found there are just a lot of places that are more on the ball than we are.

We have a wonderful town, and the restoration of the courthouse will open the door for more heritage tourism in our area. It's time we start looking for other projects like this one that preserves our past and bolsters our economy. Grant money is out there that we don't even know about, and we should be looking for it.

Perhaps a revitalization of our downtown is in order. Some of the buildings on Kearney Street are as old as the courthouse. It would be nice to see new life breathed into them. Imagine how nice our town would be if the Mulkey Theater looked as it did in the 1950s or the Antro Hotel could be returned to its 1926 appearance. Can you envision Kearney and Sully streets with 1920 era lampposts?

We've lost too many landmarks and too much history. It's time we try to go the other way.

The courthouse restoration will show that we can all work together, that we honor what our forefathers left us. It will reveal that yes, by golly, we do have at least a glimmer of that pioneer spirit left in us.

Can we take the lessons of the courthouse project and apply it to the rest of the town? Can we preserve our rich heritage and build on our predecessors' legacy? Can we insure that future generations will consider Clarendon to be the jewel of the plains?

I just don't see it any other way.

Kids should be first responsibility of parents

Hats off to Dr. Laura Schlessinger for standing up and saying what needed to be said.

In case you're not familiar with Dr. Laura, she is a top-rated radio talk show host and licensed therapist by trade. She is also the author of several best-selling books, and this fall Dr. Laura will debut her much-anticipated television show.

With her new book, Parenthood By Proxy, Dr. Laura has really ruffled some feathers, especially with the liberal National Organization of Women (NOW).

NOW is so opposed to Dr. Laura's conservative viewpoints that its members planned to picket outside of several large Barnes & Noble stores.

Basically, Dr. Laura states in her new book and always on her radio program that parenting should be our first priority and that if you plan to have children, make the full commitment in raising them.

Parenting is the toughest and most important job one will ever have, and thus we should do everything possible to raise them in a healthy manner and to instill our beliefs, morals, and religious viewpoints.

on the Mark

with Christi Ross

In the end, Dr. Laura advocates for more parents to become stay-at-home moms (and, yes, dads) and to actually raise the children you beget rather than shipping them off to pre-schools, daycares, and nursery schools.

Of course, this is not a viable option for everyone, but Dr. Laura has preached that if you can afford to postpone your career for the few years of your children's crucial developmental stages, then absolutely do so.

"Today's culture attempts to make college-educated women, who decide to be full-time, stay-at-home moms, feel guilty about their decisions," said Dr. Laura on the Sunday edition of The O'Reilly Factor on Fox News.

This belief is what has NOW all upset. The group has brainwashed females into believing that careers come first, then families. And, that women can have it all - top jobs, stable marriages, well-balanced children, and an exciting social calendar with absolutely no sacrifices anywhere.

Many college graduates who are now mothers are finding NOW's statements to be a lot of hogwash and baloney. Record numbers of women are leaving the workplace to go home and do the most difficult job of all - raising children.

I'll admit I used to feel guilty for leaving a rewarding and good paying job to stay at home and change diapers, make bottles, and read The Velveteen Rabbit.

But this Mother's Day, I and thousands of other stay-at-home moms realize how important our jobs are.

So what if we're not conducting meetings, planning presentations, or making the big sales?

Instead, we're home teaching our children how to say "please," "thank you," and grace before mealtimes. These are crucial job duties, and truthfully they are more rewarding than any outside career.

Reader offended by cartoon about Ritalin

I was very offended by a recent cartoon entitled "The 3R's - Reading, 'Riting, Ritalin" that ran in your paper on Thursday, April 27. It shows the name of Rex Babin in the right-hand corner. Rex or whoever is responsible for this obviously has no knowledge of ADD, Attention Deficit Disorder or ADHD, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder for which Ritalin is prescribed, or they would not be making light of this serious epidemic among children today. I was especially offended by the eyes of the children having big black circles around them in the last picture.

Everyday, Ritalin is essential to functioning in society for millions of children. It is more essential than reading and writing, because some of these children literally cannot read or write without it! Do you actually believe that parents would give their child(ren) amphetamines daily if they didn't have to?

I feel the cartoon is very insensitive to those of us who depend on it. My 10-year-old son had ADHD. You have no idea the burden we as parents of children with ADD/ADHD must carry without people like you making fun of or questioning what we must do. God help you should your child or grandchild ever be diagnosed with ADD/ADHD so that you will have to see and experience the challenges we face daily!

Hedley resident comments on beautification, gardening

Since credit must not be taken where credit is not due, I must disclaim the starting of the 2000 beauty projects in Hedley. I heartily commend those that did, however. Credit goes to our energetic Baptist brethren led by a dynamic pastor and schoolteacher, Bruce Howard. This large new addition will probably house any Hedley community meeting comfortably, with an enlarged kitchen capacity so serve residents far and wide.

Those of us who have labored in the past on the Methodist grounds were inspired by them to begin creating an outdoor living area with trees and blooms and benches where the entire community could congregate for any service, or any individual could find rest and respite at any time. We worked during our own lifetimes, flowering plants planted, and work begun on resurrection of our dying rose beds. In the midst of our outdoor area our most cherished object was placed, a roughly hewn cross made from one of Bill and Juanell Carson's farm trees; cut, saved, and erected by Jim Mitchell. With our Easter silk flowers ready to place at its base, we felt we were ready to invite the community or the whole county to our Easter Sunrise Service, led by our communal minister, Neeley Landrum, shared with the First Methodist Church in Memphis. They were glad that we had guests from both Memphis and Clarendon.

We can observe that just as the ancients loved to embellish their signature with fancy, trailing, curly ques, so have spinners of tales loved to punctuate their narratives with dramatic statements for emotional effect. There is another set of writing rules for a totally different purpose. If we wish to pass any English class in the land, writing must be like our old cop show, "Just tell the facts, ma'am." It is only that kind of writing that we gardeners in this windswept land must adhere. So, when we surveyed those long neglected flowerbeds where so many of Red Dougherty's beautiful old roses had already been overcome by that greedily avaricious and aggressive nemesis plant, bindweed, we shook our heads in dismay; for heretofore, Texas A&M had published one sure way to be rid of the abominable plant is to graze sheep on it. None of us had any sheep to tether in our beds, but if we did, they would eat the remaining rose bushes also. To fellow workers, I shared an article, a variant of a method that I know many professional landscapers have profitably used to spare themselves man-hours. It was to encourage our oldest hard working cohort, Helen Lamberson, that I tried to encourage with the article that said layered wet newspaper and plastic would eliminate undesirables anywhere. I varied their practice in one way; we put recycled wood chips atop the plastic. To your local columnist I spoke only once, for I can only do one thing at a time; and our work demanded all the attention I could give. When she said that her mother had the most beautiful flowers and yard but never did all this work, I said I bet she would have had her beds over run with bindweed. And I've not asked her, but I bet Lola would.

Now, fellow gardeners does this, theoretical method really work? About three weeks into this experiment, we can unequivocally say yes. Are our roses safer and happy? Yes! And we had enough to grace our serving table after church Sunday when we served coffee and dessert to celebrate Helen and J.T. Lamberson's 67th wedding anniversary. We celebrated the beauty of such a marriage and the beauty our pink roses!

Midge Lemley,

p.s. One correction I forgot: never would I advocate the indiscriminate use of a powerful chemical in an entire flowerbed. It was used only on three upstart elms roots which were under our cement borders.

Jesus brings healing to local woman who was bedridden

I had been real sick for a week. I was so weak that I had to lay down because I felt that I was dying. I started praying to God and I told him make me well or let me die because I can't take being sick anymore. I cried myself to sleep. I was awakened by someone telling me to sit up that he had something for me.

I didn't open my eyes and I said, "What is it?" because I thought it was my husband.

The voice said "Sit up, I got something for you." So I sat up and looked up at the same time and I saw Jesus standing at the foot of my bed. I saw his shoulder length light brown hair and his beautiful criss-cross white robe. And he said put your hands out and I did and he laid a beautiful bouquet of purple flowers on my hands. I looked down at they beautiful purple flowers and I said, "Jesus today is the day that you came back from the dead. Today is Easter Sunday. It's your resurrection day and I should be bringing you some flowers."

I looked up but I couldn't see his face, but I said, "Jesus have you come to take me home?"

I was looking at him and trying to see his face, and I couldn't. I saw the whole room in a purplish-blue color. And I said, "Jesus, why is everything purple?" And he said, "That is my blood that you're looking at." He said, "I am going to cover you with my blood to make you well."

I woke up, and I was sitting on the edge of my bed holding the beautiful flowers, and I looked up, and Jesus was gone.

I believe in Jesus with all my heart and soul.

I truly believe that Jesus visited me on Easter Sunday and made me well. Psalm 71.

HHS team wins state

The Science Team at Hedley High School has won tremendous victories the past three years, including numerous invitational meets against larger schools and three straight 1A regional championships that earned them trips to the UIL State Meet.

This year on their third try at state they own the biggest prize of all, the school's first UIL academic state championship.

Lowell Ellerbrook was second overall, Rachel Howard was sixth overall, and Lana Wallendorf was sixteenth overall as Hedley beat second place Valley View by 90 points. Lenora Grady was third, and San Antonio was fourth in the 90th annual State Academic Meet for the University Interscholastic League.

Hedley's math team of Ellerbrook, Wallendorf, and Lauren Hill also competed at state this year, winning third place team honors. Ellerbrook placed sixth overall in the math competition.

The UIL is the oldest organization of its kind in the country and offers the most comprehensive competitive academic program in the nation with over 500,000 participants in 36 contests every year. The math and science teams were in competition with over 30,000 1A students from around the state.

"I am extremely proud of our teams," said Linda Rowland, Math Team sponsor for Hedley. "They have demonstrated what it takes to be truly successful: hard work, desire, and teamwork."

"Our kids have caused math and science coaches from around the region and now from around the state to sit up and take notice," said Science sponsor Bruce Howard. "We couldn't be prouder of their scholarship and maturity. They are a credit to their parents, their school, their town, and their county."

You can tell a mother by the things she does

With Mother's Day almost here, I want to borrow a line from Jeff Foxworthy who invented "You Might Be A Redneck..."

You might be a mother if...during the birth of your first child, after 23 hours of hard labor, you called your husband something other than his given name.

You might be a mother if...you couldn't wait to leave the hospital after giving birth to your first baby. You're definitely a mother if after the second and third babies you pleaded with your doctor to allow you to stay in the hospital for at least ten days!

You might be a mother if...you can sit all night in a rocking chair holding a sick baby and wake up the next morning with the baby still in your arms - not on the floor.

You might be a mother if...someone asks you if you've read the new best seller, and you immediately assume Dr. Seuss has written a new book.

You might be a mother if...your weekends are reserved for soccer games, Little League games, bake sales, and birthday parties.

You might be a mother if...you've ever left the porch light on, then sat in a dark living room waiting to hear a child's key turn in the lock.

You might be a mother if...you've ever taken out a loan to buy roller blade equipment, bicycles, or running shoes!

You might be a mother if...your long-distance phone bill resembles the national debt, and you're on a first name basis with the college guidance counselor.

You might be a mother if...you and your husband finally have the house to yourselves, but you suddenly don't want to redecorate those rain or Shine

empty bedrooms.

You might be a mother if...you have two closets full of homemade valentines, construction paper calendars in the shape of little hands, recipe holders made from Popsicle sticks, and Christmas ornaments made of aluminum foil and yarn.

You might be a mother if...your husband suggests that you clean out those closets - throw everything away, and you tell him you will throw him away first!

You might be a mother if...you've ever said, "Don't marry that guy. He's not good enough for you!"

You might be a mother if... you've ever said, "She's just an air-head! Don't marry her!"

You might be a mother if...you went to the wedding anyway.

You might be a mother if...your youngest baby is 40-years-old, and when he takes you out to dinner you still have an urge to cut up his meat.

You might be a mother if...you think you can fix anything that is broken - even a heart. You know you're a mother when you can't fix it, and your heart breaks too.

Here's to all the mothers everywhere! The world couldn't function, and things would probably fall completely apart without you. If you don't believe it, just ask the fathers!

And here's to my own, dear mother! I don't know if I've turned out like you wanted, but you've been the best mother in the world to me. I love you with all my heart.

CC alumni meet for 62nd reunion

The Clarendon College Ex-Students Association held its 62nd annual alumni reunion April 29 and 30 at the Bairfield Activity Center.

Registration began Saturday morning in the Bairfield Activity Center where alumni enjoyed donuts and juice while getting reacquainted with old friends.

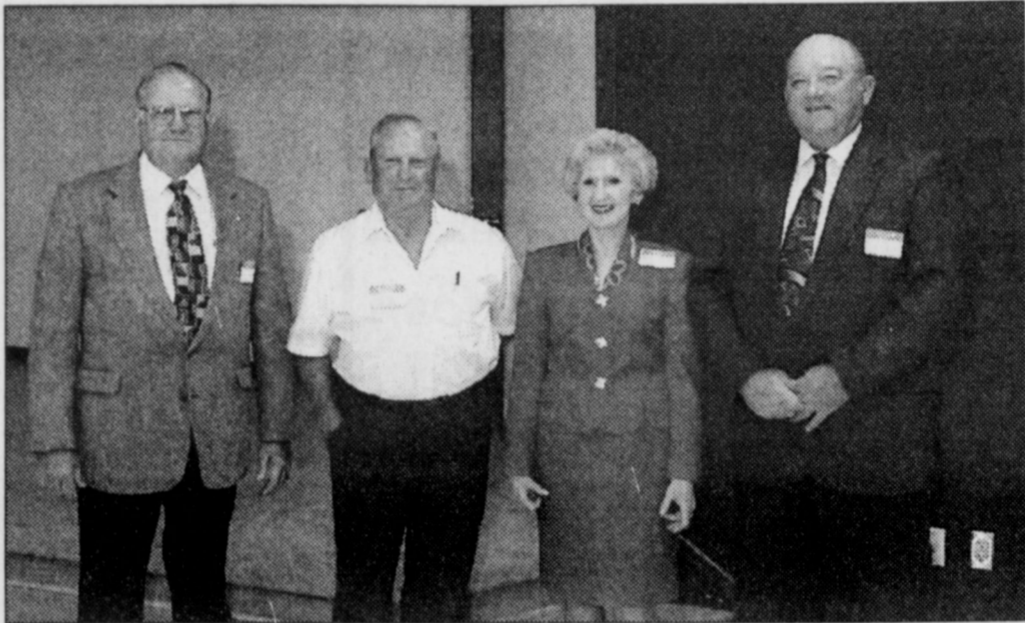

Saturday evening the annual banquet was held in the Bairfield Activity Center, and several current students were honored at that time for their academic achievements.

Anniversary classes were recognized for their 50-, 25-, and 10-year milestones. Members of the Class of 1950 in attendance were Chauncey Hommel, Walter Warner, and Doug Lowe of Clarendon and Ira Jean (Estlack) Chunn and Billy Phillips of Amarillo.

The Class of 1975 also had four members in attendance: Roy Bertrand and Danny Askew of Clarendon, Sherry (Atkinson) McKelvey of Lubbock, and Mary Ann (Gilbreth) Porter of Alamosa, Colo. Raymond Jaramillo of Clarendon represented the Class of 1990.

Awards were given to alumni in three categories: Longest Distance Traveled - Mary Ann (Gilbreth) Porter of Alamosa, Colo.; Earliest Graduate Present - Ethelyn Grady of Clarendon and Royce Lummus of San Antonio; and Most Recent Graduate Present - Teresa Dronzek of Clarendon.

The exes were entertained Saturday with the Sunday, alumni enjoyed lunch in the CC Dining Hall and then adjourned to the Bairfield Activity Center for a business meeting.

CC President Myles Shelton addressed the group and gave an update on activities at the college, and alumni president Roger Estlack gave an overview of the proposed Alumni Courtyard to be built between the Bulldog Gym and the Bairfield Activity Center around the Centennial Monument.

Officers elected for the coming year were Roger Estlack, president; Ruth Robinson, vice president; and Hazel Guy, secretary/treasurer. New or re-elected board members will be Frankie Henson, Ethelyn Grady, and Raymond Jaramillo.

Members still serving on the board are Grett Betts, Jim Blackerby, and Jennie Owens. Leon Schaffer will also stay on the board as the association's immediate past president.

First round of year-end activities comes and goes

The first of the end-of-the-school-year events have come and gone.

Last Monday, on May Day, the Clarendon Colt Athletic Banquet was held to recognize the 7th and 8th graders who participated in sports during the 1999-2000 school year. Bairfield Student Center was festively decorated with uniforms from all of the sports, and even old rusty lockers. (I hope that those weren't lockers actually in use in the gym locker rooms, but I don't have much expectation of it.)

I am firmly convinced that Dusty Martindale volunteered to call out the names of the cheerleaders and twirler in order to get hugs as the young ladies were presented with their certificates, though he didn't get as many as he could have. Most of the students made multiple trips to the front of the room as very few of these kids participated in only one sport.

But the festivities became something of a sob-fest as the students said their good-byes to Coach Mark Howard who will be moving on to Brownfield, and to his son Zach, who will of course be moving with him. When a person inspires poetry on the event of his departure, you know that that person really meant something to those he is leaving behind, and both the coach and Zach were presented with original poems from the eighth grade athletes. Despite the grammar, the poems were obviously from the heart. Clarendon will truly miss this family. (Poetry isn't one of my accomplishments, or I'd write one for Elaine and Lindzi.)

The final band concerts of the year are taking place this week. Clarendon College graduation has sent another class out into the world, or off to more college. More banquets and parties are coming up.

In our own family, we're slipping off to Lubbock for another graduation as the son-in-law finishes up a degree in physics. (Don't know about you all, but I'm really impressed.) Then we'll be saying good-bye in the next month or so as he carts the daughter off to the frozen northland of Pittsburgh so he can get a doctorate from Carnegie-Mellon University. She's supposed to go to graduate school too, but she has been suffering from severe procrastination over the past several months and hasn't applied anywhere.

If anyone knows a good procrastination cure, I'd like to hear from you. I need a dose myself on occasion...

Okay, I know this is a short column. That's because I'm not really in town. I abandoned ship and deserted my family to go visit my parents and play with my friends in Louisiana. But I will be back. Please take that as a promise, not a threat.

Military-style class teaches fathers what to expect

By Steve Lannen, Greeley Tribune
Reprinted with permission

GREELEY, CO - Boot camp is hell.

Push-ups, running, and don't forget the mind games. It's all designed to make ordinary people into soldiers as quickly as possible.

Although most men these days don't experience the pain and challenge of military basic training, many choose to go through something tougher, more draining, and scarier than the drill instructor who makes his mother drop and give him 20.

What could possibly be so daunting? Fatherhood. Yup. Bringing up baby.

That bundle of joy doesn't come with an owner's manual, but even before baby arrives, there are plenty of concerns and questions.

"Boot Camps for New Dads," a one-day class modeled after the military training, tries to turn men into lean, mean daddy machines.

Led by veteran dads, the class brings together fathers-to-be and recent new dads one Saturday morning per month. Questions are asked and advice given on a variety of topics including:

- Holding a baby - "Just slide (the arm) up to his head and rotate."
- Crying - "There's no 'off' switch or volume control with these models."
- The delivery room - "You could be there 24, 36 hours, or you could be there two hours."
- Babysitters - "You wouldn't necessarily trust this person with your wallet or your car, but you're giving them your kid."
- Diapers - "If they pee in it, the diaper swells. If he messes in it, you can smell it."

The 4½ hour class is also one of the few times men are the focus in the prenatal world filled with Lamaze and breast-feeding courses.

Ken McElroy is the boot camp instructor. He grew up in Clarendon and is the son of Ailene McElroy.

"Dad just feels that when the baby comes, there's all these books, classes, videos and they're left out of the process," said McElroy who is also the senior pastor at Mountain View Evangelical Free Church. "In here, these guys are doing it. It's hands-on baby basics."

On a recent Saturday morning, one of the new dads, Rob Robinson, used one of his twins to give a diaper-changing demonstration.

"Make sure the new diaper is tight. If you don't, you'll have blow-outs, and that's worse than a stinky diaper," he tells Todd Gummer, a 31-year-old veterinary student at Colorado State University. It's the first of hundreds of diapers in Gummer's future. His wife is due this month.

"I'm the youngest child in my family. I've never really been around younger children," he said.

"Ah, it's OK. I've done worse on myself," he said.

After diaper-changing and holding, conversation drifts into how to keep a social life, deal with the mother-in-law, and how to stay on the new mom's good side. Let her get away and take a break and figure it out for yourself is the answer, said Roger DeWitt, another camp instructor.

Senior Citizens to hold Community Wide Bargain Sale

By Vida O'Neal

We will be having a Community Wide Bargain Sale on June 3. The Donley County Senior Citizens will be sponsoring the sale on the Herring National Bank parking lots. Get all your goods gathered and call the center (874-2665) for more information on your space reservation. Each individual or group will be responsible for their own booth.

We would like to have a 55 Alive Defensive Driving Class. If you are interested in taking this class, please call Tammy or Vida. If we have enough interest, the class will be held in two afternoon sessions. The date is pending to see if we have enough to make the class. The class will enable you to get a ten percent discount on your insurance.

The smokeless indoor electric grill for our Friday fundraiser will be sold by Dolly Cole this week.

Get well wishes to JoAnn Kidd, Max Hennigh, Rosa Lee Watson, Avis Benson, Tiny Bernabe, and Larinda Pettit.

Our condolences go to Blackie and Nora Hartwick in the loss of Blackie's brother.

CC has Elderhostel spaces available

Want to take an inexpensive vacation close to home with like-minded people who have an interest in the history of the Texas Panhandle?

Clarendon College has limited spaces available in its Elderhostel program scheduled for June 4-10. Cost of the one-week program, which includes room and board and a week of learning and fun is $368.

Elderhostel participants will learn about the Clarendonian Age and the prehistoric animals that roamed the Panhandle back then. The ranching industry in pioneer days is compared to what it takes to produce beef today. Those with good memories will enjoy identifying the old tools and equipment found on the pioneer ranch.

Additionally, participants will enjoy museum visits, country dancing, and the opening night barbecue dinner and performance of the musical drama TEXAS.

Elderhostel is for adults 55 and over, but an age-eligible participant may bring an underage spouse or adult companion. For additional information or to enroll for this summer, contact Nena Hunt at 806-874-3571.

United Men's Breakfast to be Thursday, May 18

The United Christian Men will hold their monthly breakfast at 7 a.m. on Thursday, May 18, at the First United Methodist Church.

The speaker will be Brother Gene Allen, Pastor of the Assembly of God Church.

The Monroes in 1950.

The Monroes today.

Monroes celebrate 50th anniversary with reception

Everett and Hazel Monroe of Amarillo celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, May 6, 2000, in Clarendon at the Church of Christ Family Life Center. The reception was hosted by their children and grandchildren.

The couple plans to take a trip to Canada at a later date as a second honeymoon.

Everett Monroe and Hazel L. Hanagan were married on May 13, 1950. Monroe is retired from the Texas Department of Highways and Transportation. He is currently employed with J. Lee Milligan Construction Co. Mrs. Monroe is a homemaker and former secretary and bookkeeper. The couple are members of the West Amarillo Christian Church.

Children of the couple are Everett Monroe, Jr. and wife, Tonya, of Lubbock; Roy Monroe of Clarendon; and the late Danny Monroe and wife, Shauna, of Hedley. Grandchildren of the couple are Dana Ford, Jennifer Monroe, and Dustin Monroe.

Spivey president-elect of State Bar

Broadus A. Spivey of Austin was recently elected as the president-elect of the State Bar of Texas.

The former local man will become president of the organization in June 2001.

Spivey told the AUSTIN AMERICAN-STATESMAN he will emphasize the need for attorneys to provide legal assistance free of charge to those who can least afford it and remind those in his profession that they are dealing with human beings.

"One of the great deficiencies in the medical schools and law schools is that they don't have required courses in humanity and humility," Spivey told the STATESMAN. "Lawyers are taught to deal with legal issues and to a very minor extent dealing with people."

In the campaign for president-elect of the State Bar, each candidate was asked to respond to a series of questions. One question was "What advice would you give a young person interested in becoming a lawyer?"

According to Spivey's wife, his response was called "typical Broadus" by Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon).

"I cannot imagine a job that brings more personal satisfaction than what we do as lawyers," Spivey responded. "I have never experienced 'dreading to go to the office.' No profession on this earth can offer you more involvement in the greatest issues of our time - representing another human being who is on trial for his life; being an advocate for a neighborhood whose tranquility and safety is threatened by a refuse dump; championing the cause for a small child who is a victim of a carelessly designed piece of machinery; helping an immigrant become a citizen; or representing the State of Texas in a dispute over entitlement to offshore drilling rights.

"There are other employments that bring more financial remuneration, but there is no other method of earning your daily bread that allows an opportunity to be as much a part of influencing our course on this planet as does the practice of law. Go for it!"

The 63-year-old Austin trial lawyer was born in Hall County and attended schools in Lakeview, Friendship, Memphis, and Goodnight before coming to Clarendon High School to play football. He was president of his senior class and president of the student council at CHS in 1954.

He married the former Ruth Ann King after they completed two years at Clarendon College, and the couple moved to Austin to continue their education at the University of Texas.

He graduated from the UT School of Law in 1962. He practiced law in Lubbock for ten years and then returned to Austin where he has practiced law as a civil trial lawyer in all kinds of civil litigation. He has been with the firm Spivey & Ainsworth, P.C., since 1998.

Spivey has received several recognitions and was elected Dean of the International Academy of Trial Lawyers in 1999. That same year, Spivey was presented the President's Award by the president of the State Bar of Texas when he and three other lawyers represented the State Bar in its attempt to disbar a prominent Houston attorney. Spivey put in about 1,500 hours on the case and only received $1 as compensation.

Spivey is the son of the recently deceased Claude C. and Mary E. Spivey, both of whom were long-time Clarendon residents. Spivey has described his parents as being

"upwardly mobile" farmers because they moved "from smaller cotton patches to larger ones."

Spivey's father-in-law, the late R.Y. King, was a lawyer in Donley County from 1913 to 1958 and was a tutor and moral inspiration for Broadus during law school and his early years of law practice.

Broadus and Ruth Ann have two children, Danny and Marci, and one grandson, Marci's son John.

Free skin cancer screening to be held in Amarillo

The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center will hold a free skin cancer screening clinic on Saturday, May 20, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Dermatologists recommend periodic self-examinations as one way to guard against melanoma and other types of skin cancer. They suggest becoming familiar with your individual pattern of moles, freckles, and "beauty marks." Be alert to any changes in the number, size, shape, and color of pigmented areas. If any changes are noticed, call your dermatologist.

The screening clinic is open to the public and will be held on the first floor of the Harrington Cancer Center at 1500 Wallace Blvd. No appointment is necessary. Sponsors for the event are Amarillo Area Dermatologists, Academy of Dermatology, American Cancer Society, and the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center.

Participating dermatologists are Turner M. Caldwell III, MD; Elaine R. Cook, MD; William R. East, MD; Larry C. Roberts, MD; and Jack D. Waller, MD.

For more information call Cinda Courtney, Director of Community Relations, at 806/356-1913.

Lonesome Cedar Ranch new member of American Angus Association

Lonesome Cedar Ranch LLP in Clarendon is a new member of the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with more than 34,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on over 13 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members.

These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle, which are then recorded with the American Angus Association. Most of these registered Angus are used by the US farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for US consumption.

Head Start program taking applications

Head Start will be taking applications May 16-17 to fill 16 openings next school year at Clarendon Elementary.

Stavenhagen: Veteran UIL coach retiring from Clarendon ISD

he had to follow all these rules. Faulkner and Hemingway didn't have to follow rules. And she'd tell him, when he wrote like them, he wouldn't have to follow the rules."

Teachers who have come in contact with Stavenhagen over the years tell you her quirky humor and good-natured kidding, coupled with her unsatiable attitude toward learning, are the traits that made her a beloved fixture at Clarendon.

Home economics teacher Maurine Butts has taught next door to Stavenhagen for 15 years, and the two came to depend on each other both inside and outside the school system.

"She used to love it when we cooked because we always took her samples, or she'd come in to try our cooking," Butts said.

"She was the person I turned to when I had had enough and needed to vent. And she would come over and vent. We were friends outside of the teaching arena because we just shared things with each other over the years. Coupled with our teaching, we were friends above that."

"She is a joy; an absolute joy."

Stavenhagen's work with Hayes and other teachers coaching UIL competitors has been phenomenal. The extracurricular activity was and is one of her true loves. Longtime Junior High Reading Teacher Beth Sharp said Stavenhagen left for the most recent UIL Literary Competition with "that bounce and enthusiasm that she always had."

Her first major success story was a young Mac Thornberry, who advanced to state in persuasive speaking.

"Mac was an excellent speaker and still is," Stavenhagen said.

That's an understatement. The man she trained was tabbed several years ago for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives and continues to win re-election campaigns easily.

It still gives her a thrill to see him speak in public or on C-SPAN.

"It's hard for me to take credit for that," she said laughingly. "He was always very gifted. He never stumbled. What was so funny about him is that he always knew he wanted to be in politics. I knew he had great potential."

"He was a good speaker and an intelligent speaker, but it wasn't because of me."

Thornberry (R-Clarendon) thinks otherwise. Even though he is highly successful and more than 20 years removed from Mrs. Stavenhagen's watchful eye, he still feels the presence of his former UIL coach at every political speech and every whistlestop he makes on the campaign trail in the Texas Panhandle.

Mrs. Stavenhagen tends to some students from Beth Sharp's class. After 29 years at Clarendon ISD, Mrs. Stave is retiring this year.

"For better or worse, Mrs. Stave started me speaking in public," Thornberry said this week from his Washington D.C. office. "To this day, I sometimes hear her voice in my head telling me to slow down or be more expressive or something."

Although Stavenhagen will be remembered as a gifted teacher and librarian, her skills at pushing students to excel in UIL events are what put her over the top, Sharp said.

"I felt that I have almost had two separate careers in education: one as a classroom teacher and one as a librarian," Stavenhagen said. "I have enjoyed doing both, but my constant love has been working with students in UIL - any age - any event - I like them all. I like the competition, whether it is throwing a football or making a speech; competition is the great motivator."

Stavenhagen has produced state qualifiers in Informative and Persuasive Speaking, Prose and Poetry, Literary Criticism, Current Events and coached the only One-Act play cast from Clarendon to qualify for state.

When she became the school librarian, she started assisting the elementary students in UIL. "They are such fun to coach; so responsive," she said.

Stavenhagen's expertise in literature almost always guaranteed UIL winners in her Oral Reading competition, Sharp said.

"She has helped me so much with every child and believes they all should be successful readers," Sharp said. "She motivates them by her selection of books. Jean just has a love for children. She has that love of being a schoolteacher, and I know a little bit about that."

Sharp, herself, has taught for 40 years.

But the librarian in her loves the research. She absolutely thrives on it. When Stavenhagen uncovers one morsel of information, it leads to another nugget, which can turn into another rabbit trail which takes her to an entirely different topic.

"I always loved doing research papers," Stavenhagen said. "And, of course, being a librarian for the last several years, it's kind of like a treasure hunt. And I get a lot of satisfaction in looking for information about a subject. I guess that's what it is."

That passion for research and scouring through long-forgotten documents has been a huge help in securing a $2.9 million grant to renovate the Donley County Courthouse from the Texas Historical Commission, said Donley County Judge Jack Hall.

"She has been so active in getting this grant for the courthouse, and she just has done it without any big flamboyancy," Hayes said. "She just goes about it and gets things done."

"She was a great help," Hall echoed. "She was helpful in the selection of the architects of the master plan and helpful going to meetings with me in regards to the master plan. She was important in getting letters of support for the courthouse and was a big help in writing a short narrative history of the courthouse."

"She just wanted to help and volunteered."

Her semi-retirement (she may continue to teach on a part-time basis) will allow her to dedicate more time as the Chairperson of the Donley County Historical Commission and as a board member of the Saint's Roost Museum.

She also has written a grant for the museum's Clarendon Depot restoration effort. The museum must raise $40,000 to get a grant of about $160,000 from the state to refurbish the old depot and turn it into a transportation museum.

"I am very interested in historic preservation," she said. "I feel I still have a lot to contribute to the community, but I also want to be free after retirement to spoil my grandsons."

Stavenhagen flip-flopped on whether to retire for an entire year before deciding to walk away from a fulfilling career. It took the birth of her second grandchild, Casey, in December to make up her mind.

"Casey was born in December, and I thought I wouldn't be available to spoil him. They're not babies very long. I just got to thinking it would be nice to have more free time."

When I gave my resignation, I told them I wanted more free time. I want to do more things for my family and for my community."

"The reason that she will be missed is she has worked so hard in her teaching career for the Clarendon school system," Sharp said "Clarendon is her home; and as a person and an educator, she has always had a major role in that one school. I feel as if she's respected by the children and the teachers and the parents and the school board and the community."

"I will miss the fun and the laughter and the love she has had for all the children."

But beneath the outward belly laughs and quick smiles and the penchant for holding her head in her hands when she's thinking, there lies a person who is genuine and affectionate and real.

"I think the thing that is probably number one about her is that she is totally and completely an honest and an honorable person," Hayes said. "I don't think in all of the years and our closeness, I've ever seen anything that deviated from that. I don't know if you could say that about everybody."

A reception honoring Stavenhagen and Helen Estlack will be held Sunday, May 21, at the Church of Christ Family Life Center from 2 to 4 p.m. The public is invited.

Hedley Aldermen hold regular meeting

The Hedley Board of Aldermen met May 4, 2000, at 7 p.m.

The board approved a motion for the city not to apply for a FY 2001-2002 TCDP grant and instead will focus its efforts on the FY 2000 grant.

The Drought Contingency Plan was discussed, but no action was taken.

Doug Hagler addressed the board about animal control problems. Several citizens expressed concerns and offered suggestions about dogs being allowed to run loose and dogs on chains barking constantly.

Randy Shaw presented the 1999 Drinking Water Quality Report. He stated that the report would be mailed to all Hedley water customers in the next couple of weeks.

Career camp to be offered at CC in June

In conjunction with Tech Prep, Clarendon College is offering Career Camp 2000 Sunday, June 11, through Wednesday, June 14.

Check-in will be at 2 p.m. at the Bairfield Activity Center. Students will stay in the residence halls. Career exploration, computer software designed to sample career possibilities, and field trips to area businesses will assist students in their career search.

Job sites for the camp include Northwest Texas Hospital, KVII-TV, Amarillo National Bank, The Big Texan (tourism), and the Hastings corporate office.

Space is limited to 30 students on a first come/first serve basis and is open to students in the eighth grade who will enter the ninth grade this fall.

Cost of the camp is $35 and must accompany release forms and registration forms that may be picked up in the counselor's office at Clarendon College. Call 874-3571, and forms will be mailed to you. If you have any questions, contact Linda Frye at CC.

Trottin' Tanners nab Walk Across Texas traveling T-shirt

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent
The Trottin' Tanners captain, Teresa Dronzek, reports that she was forced to turn into a drill sergeant in order to get her team motivated to win the traveling T-shirt for Week 5 of the Walk Across Texas (WAT) campaign but it all paid off.
Bill Holden's Deputy Dogs have kept the T-shirt for three out of the five weeks but have turned it over to the Trottin' Tanners. The other team who earned rights to the traveling T-shirt the first week of the campaign was Gail Edes' Herring National Bank Buckaroos.

Vic Jeters' Herring National Bank Shufflers have been just a few miles behind the lead team each week, but like in horseshoes, "close doesn't count." Before long we will probably see him imposing specific walking times on his team members so they earn the shirt before the eight weeks is up.

As of Week 5 the Deputy Dogs are in the lead having walked just 15 miles shy of this year's destination which is South Padre Island. They have walked a total of 720.5 miles as a team. Collectively the 13 registered teams have walked 5,714 miles averaging well over 1,000 miles a week.

Again, congratulations to the Trottin' Tanners! Drill Master Teresa promises to lighten up after May 19.

Try night fishing to beat summer heat

This past weekend was a scorcher! The heat was really tough when I was trying to catch up on the yard work. It seems like the weather jumps from winter to summer. Where did spring go? I really miss those cool days when the bugs were still dormant, and the sun didn't burn you so quickly. To me, outdoor activities get tougher as the season gets warmer. The flies, gnats, mosquitoes, horseflies, sweat bees, wasps, deerflies, etc. are really irritating. You can only put on so much insect repellent. I personally like to eat my bologna sandwiches without the added taste of suntan lotion, insect repellent, and sweat. I suppose it just comes with the season.

When golfing, I find it difficult to make a ten foot putt with a swarm of gnats buzzing in my face or swatting at a deerfly on my arm when I am trying to hit the ball. Although, I do like it when a fly lands on my ball when I am about to tee off. In the process of trying to kill the fly, it seems like I can hit the ball 400 yards.

My daughter plays softball, and she really hates the bugs, too. The heat was stifling in the double header she played Saturday. I feel sorry for them all having to wear those long pants. And the poor catchers who have to wear all the extra padding. You know they were hot. Thank goodness for bottled water and Gatorade.

All right, enough griping about the heat and bugs. There are many positive things about the warm weather. Swimming on a hot day can be exhilarating. And getting a suntan is a lot cheaper than paying for the tanning booths. It is easier to play tennis without having to wear a jogging suit or to play volleyball with a coat on.

If you are like me, I have worked very hard cleaning out the flowerbeds and starting the garden. If not for the heat of the sun, we could not enjoy the beautiful colors of the landscape or enjoy those ripe tomatoes off the vine.

When it starts getting too hot for fishing in the daytime, I start fishing

Upcoming test dates announced at CC

Clarendon College has announced several important dates for standardized tests coming up soon.
The Quick TASP will be offered Wednesday, May 24, at 8 a.m. in Room 101 of the Administration Building. Students must have two forms of I.D., and one must be an official photo I.D. Check or money order should be made out to N.E.S. Call Linda Frye at 874-3571 to register.

The Regular TASP registration deadline is May 19, 2000. The test will be June 17, 2000, and registration bulletins may be obtained at the counselor's office at Clarendon College.

The ACT will be given June 10, 2000. Registration packets are also in the CC counselor's office.

CHS to hold annual awards day assembly

Clarendon High School will be holding its annual awards day assembly on May 22, at 10:00 a.m. in the high school auditorium. All honors received during the school year will be recognized.

Parents and friends are invited to attend. Bring your camera and video camera to record the moments of your child's life.

at night. The insects don't bother me quite as bad, except for mosquitoes. When the sun goes down, I start getting serious about fishing this time of year. It is true that the insects will attack your lanterns at night, but you can always move them aside.

I have found in the past 25 years that night fishing can be as prosperous as day fishing. It is a little more of a challenge, but I am always up for a good challenge when it comes to fishing.

The fish are still biting good this time of year and are still in shallow water. When bank fishing at night, instead of trying to cast as far as you can, try fishing closer to the bank. The fish are feeding on minnows, crawdads, etc., and generally these baits are close to the bank at night. There are several species of fish that bite better after dark, such as wall-eye, catfish, and yes, even crappie. You can also bass fish at night. If the heat bothers you like it does me, give night fishing a try.

Hunting News
Now that hunting season is over, isn't it funny how you see all the game you were trying to hunt? The quail, deer, and turkey seem to be everywhere looking at you and saying, "Ha ha! You can't shoot me now!"

Although the season has ended, it doesn't mean hunting in general is over. You can keep in practice by trap shooting, skeet shooting, or varmint hunting.

Here lately, the big thing I have been hearing about is bobcat and coyote hunting. Calling these animals up with a distress caller can be quite a challenge. Last year was the first time I tried this. I managed to call up a 28 lb. bobcat, which came out of some brush within 10 yards of me. Beginner's luck was on my side.

Upcoming Events:
Tune your radio to 1550-AM KZRK and listen to the newest outdoor program in our area called Panhandle Outdoors. Ken Mayer and Karen Taylor will be hosting the program. The program will air each Thursday at 6:06 pm.

Ken is a Clarendon resident and owns All American Hunting. All American is an outfitter for Donley county, including hunts for quail, deer, and turkey. Ken has a lot of knowledge on hunting and will be covering the hunting topics on the show.

Karen is a resident of Canadian. She is the tournament director of Texas Team Bassin' tournaments for our area lakes. There are several of these tournaments held at Lake Greenbelt. Karen also writes an outdoor column for Amarillo Globe-News. She will be covering the fishing reports on the show.

The program will be covering fishing and hunting reports in our area, as well as weather conditions for those events. I will be submitting fishing reports on Lake Greenbelt. You can call in during the show at (806)320-1550 or (888)448-1550.

Property Tax Protest and Appeal Procedures

The law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these procedures if you have a concern about:

- the market or special appraised value placed on your property;
- the unequal appraisal of your property;
- the inclusion of your property on the appraisal roll;
- exemptions that may apply to you;
- qualifications for an agricultural appraisal;
- the taxable status of your property;
- which local governments should be taxing your property;
- the ownership of property
- the change of use of land receiving special appraisal;
- you think the appraisal district has done something else that adversely affected you.

Your Appraisal District staff urges you to review the value records of your property at any time prior to the day of the Appraisal Review Board Hearings tentatively set for July 14, 2000, at the Donley County Appraisal District office. Some protests result from errors or misconceptions which we are pleased to correct.

Review by the Appraisal Review Board: If you can't resolve your problem informally with the county appraisal district (CAD) staff, you may have your case heard by the appraisal review board.

The appraisal review board (ARB) is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with appraisals and other concerns listed above. It has the power to order the appraisal district to make the necessary changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a notice of protest) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You'll receive written notification of the time, date, and place of the hearing. Prior to your hearing, you may ask to review the evidence the CAD will use to uphold their determination. The CAD may ask you for a copy of the evidence you plan to present. The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented. The CAD has the burden of establishing the property's value by a preponderance of the evidence presented. You can get a copy of a protest form from the appraisal district office at 307 S. Sully or PO Box 1220, Clarendon 79226; phone 806-874-2744.

Note: You shouldn't try to contract ARB members outside of the hearing. The law requires ARB members to sign an affidavit saying that they haven't talked about your case before the ARB hears it.

Review by the District Court: After it decides your case, the ARB must send you're a copy of its order by certified mail. If you're not satisfied with the decision you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

Tax Payment: If you appeal and your case is pending, you must pay the lesser of the amount of taxes due on the portion of the taxable value not in dispute or the amount of taxes due on the property under the order form which the appeal is taken.

More Information: You can get more information by contacting your appraisal district at 307 S. Sully or PO Box 1220, Clarendon 79226; phone 806-874-2744. You can also get a pamphlet describing how to prepare a protest from the appraisal district or from the State Comptroller's Property Tax Division at PO Box 13528, Austin, TX 78711-3528.

DEADLINE FOR FILING PROTESTS WITH THE ARB*

Usual Deadline: On or before May 31 (or 30 days after a notice of appraised value was mailed to you, whichever is later).

Late protests are allowed if you miss the usual deadline for good cause. Good cause is some reason beyond your control, like a medical emergency. The ARB decides whether you have good cause. Late protests are due the day before the appraisal review board approves records for the year. Contact your appraisal district for more information.

Special Deadlines: For change of use (the appraisal district informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land), the deadline is before the 30th day after the notice of determination was mailed to you.

For ARB changes (the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change didn't result from a protest you filed), the deadline is before the 30th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

If you believe the appraisal district or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually Feb. 1). The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

*The deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or holiday.

The Texas Media Award honors news media that support historic preservation efforts and provide outstanding reporting of preservation projects and issues and local history. The awards banquet is an annual program of Preservation Texas, honoring individuals and organizations across the state for their work in preservation.

"All preservation is grassroots," said Elizabeth Ann Gates, Executive Director of Preservation Texas. "As the advocate and partner of local preservation organizations, we are pleased to celebrate the many notable accomplishments of these groups through the Preservation Honor Awards."

Other award winners included The Marshall News Messenger, the reconstruction of the Hill County Courthouse in Hillsboro, the Houston Area Urban League, the San Antonio Conservation Society, and Judge John Garth of Bell County.

Preservation Texas, Inc., is a not-for-profit membership organization whose mission is to protect the historic resources of the Texas. Founded in 1985 and named a Statewide Partner of the National Trust for Historic Preservation in 1998, Preservation Texas is a leader in advocacy for the preservation of historic courthouses.

Preservation Texas represents more than 16,000 Texans as their statewide voice for historic preservation.

On Saturday, April 29, these teachers and students went to Amarillo and participated in the March of Dimes Walk. They had fun while they raised money for this worthy cause. They walked 4.2 miles and raised $917 for the March of Dimes. Two students, Carmen Hamilton and Kaitlyn Howard, raised over $100 each. Those who volunteered were Jeremy Howard, Chase Thornberry, Mrs. Lewis, Meghan Gribble, Will Drackley, Lydia Hartman, Brittney Hall, Alice Hommel, Will Betts, Cierra Benavidez, Robert Johnson, Ty White, Cody Scrivner, Tim Peterson, Jessie Anderberg, Kaitlyn Howard, Mrs. Elam, Carmen Hamilton, Melanie Johnson, Edie Mincey, Claudia Thomas, Haley McClellan, Caitlan Hall, Anndria Kidd, Kristin White, Michael Butler, and Erin Rayborn.

Grant: Local courthouse is oldest in area state government. The THC calls Texas courthouses a "symbol of strength, pride, progress, and democracy for more than 150 years."

The local Romanesque Revival style courthouse was designed by the firm of Bulger and Rapp of Trinidad, Colorado, and was completed in 1891. The structure is asymmetrical - meaning no two sides are alike - which is an unusual feature for a building of its type in Texas at that time. It is now the oldest functioning courthouse in the Texas Panhandle.

The building currently has serious problems with water infiltration and with bats infesting the attic due to a deteriorating metal cornice.

The only other Panhandle area county to receive funding under Round I of the grants was Gray County, which received $3,825,773 - a larger amount than any other county in the state.

Other Round I grant recipient counties included: Atascosa, Bexar, Ellis, Erath, Grimes, Hopkins, Lampasas, Lee, Llano, Maverick, Milam, Presidio, Rains, Red River, Shackelford, Sutton, and Wharton.

There were 58 qualified applicants for the Round I grants. Counties not funded during these first grants will get another chance to apply for funding in Round II later this year.

Emergency lights and sirens mean pull to the right

By Gregory Collins, Associated Ambulance Authority

Driving down the street, you turn down the car stereo because you think you hear a siren. Looking for the source of the siren, you see an ambulance coming up behind you in your rear-view mirror. What should you do?

As part of Texas EMS Week, Associated Ambulance Authority and the Texas Department of Health remind drivers that Texas law requires all vehicles to carefully pull over to the right side of the road and stop when an emergency vehicle with lights flashing and sirens sounding approaches, whether the emergency vehicle is a police car, a fire truck, or an ambulance. This law applies on all roadways, including freeways. The only time state law does not require drivers to pull over for emergency vehicles is if a median separates you and the emergency vehicle.

The reason for this law is simple. While the emergency vehicle is responding to someone's call for emergency help, its speed may be above the legal speed limit, and it may need to turn at any time, including in front of you. If you pull to the right and stop, this will give the emergency vehicle a clear driving path to proceed to the emergency. Consistently pulling to the right and stopping for emergency vehicles also will help other drivers see the emergency vehicle.

"We know that people in Donley County expect us to respond as quickly as possible when they need help," said Gregory Collins, Director of Operations. "When the other traffic on the road pulls to the right and stops, letting us know that the way is clear for our emergency vehicle to come on through, then we can respond that much quicker."

The Lion's Tale

By Allen Estlack

Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting on May 9.
 We had 16 members and four guests: Mrs. Lyndal Gillen, Melissa McAnear, and Valerie Taylor - the Junior Historians - who presented the program, and Russell Estlack, guest of Lion Allen Estlack.
 It was reported that Lion Joel Zehr's tailgate was missing off his pickup. It may have been the subject of many "tailgate" parties at the college.
 We will install the new windows Saturday at 9:00 a.m.
