Archaeological Society to Organize

Everyone interested in forming an archaeological society in Clarendon will have an organizational meeting on May 15, at 8:00 p.m. at Sam Hill's Pit Barbecue.

The purpose of the first meeting will be to determine whether there is enough interest in the town to justify such an organization, and to elect a slate of officers. The new officers will then have the summer to prepare to launch the new organization in the fall.

Clarendon is rich in pre-history, and in fact the Clarendonian Stage of the Pliocene Epoch, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica, "was named for exposures studied near Clarendon, Texas, and is characterized by the presence of distinctive mammalian fossil forms." Remains of prehistoric man and of historic Indians are also found in the area.

An archaeological society, should supplement, not conflict with, the work of the historical society, which concentrates on the ranching and pioneer history of the region.

Panhandle Archeological Society of Amarillo will be sending some members to help with the organization and to lend advice on such subjects as how to affiliate with the Texas Archeological Society, getting tax-free status, programming, and numerous other questions.

There are several archeological projects in the Panhandle this summer which members will have an opportunity to visit, and in a few months we can expect to be doing some work of our own.

All interested persons are urged to attend and become charter members. Note: the restaurant is closed on the evening in question, so there will be no food served, and no conflict with customers.

Coyote Control Training Set

The Donley County Extension Service, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Agriculture, will be sponsoring a coyote control meeting on May 1, 1990, at Clarendon College in Room 102 of the Classroom Building. The meeting will start at 5:00 p.m.

The meeting will start with a Texas Animal Damage Control Service representative demonstrating the proper use of control devices such as traps, snares, etc. Following this demonstration, ranchers will have an opportunity to become a certified M-44 applicator by attending the three hour training session presented by the Texas Department of Agriculture. The M-44 training should start around 6:00 p.m. for those that can't make the first part of the training.

Ranchers attending the training will become certified M-44 applicators, which will allow them to use the very effective M-44 device. Without this training, ranchers can not purchase the toxicant that is used in the M-44.

For more information, contact the Donley County Extension office at 874-2141.

U.I.L. Students Qualify

Three Clarendon High School students qualified for the University Interscholastic League Academic State Meet, May 3 - 5 at The University of Texas at Austin.

Kay Hayes, Clarendon High School teacher coached the qualifiers: Wil Burlin - Headline Writing - 1st place, Danny Smith - Literary Criticism - 2nd place, Kayla Hunt - News Writing - 3rd place.

The students earned eligibility by placing 1st, 2nd, or 3rd at the U.I.L. Regional Meet held April 21st at Abilene Christian University in Abilene.

"Reaching the State level of academic competition shows determination and preparation on the part of the contestant and sponsor," Dr. Bailey Marshall, UIL director said. "Students who compete at the UIL State Meet represent the elite in their field. The development of the skills to handle the intense competition and the attainment of knowledge required to achieve this honor will benefit the contestant beyond the high school years.

Contests range from headline writing to Lincoln-Douglas debate, calculator applications to accounting. Of the million and a half students who participated in UIL activities in the 1988-89, over one-half million students competed in one or more of the 20 general academic contests.

In participating at the State Meet, students qualify for Texas Interscholastic League Foundation scholarships. During 1989-90, the TILF awarded more than $468,000 in scholarship grants to 361 college students who competed at the UIL State Academic Meet. In 1990-91, the TILF expects to award an estimated 370 new and renewed grants, valued at approximately $489,000. The TILF funds are made possible through grants from foundations, individuals and families. The TILF has almost $2,000,000 in endowed funds.

Screening To Be Held

A free skin cancer screening clinic will be held on Saturday, May 12 at the Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dermatologists and nurses will be on hand to do a full skin examination or to check anyone's moles or other suspicious areas on the skin.

The clinic is sponsored by the American Cancer Society, The American Academy of Dermatologists and the Harrington Cancer Center. Last year's screening drew nearly 400 people, and 197, or 50%, had suspicious areas and were referred to their physicians for follow-up.

The skin is the body's largest organ, and skin cancer is the most common form of cancer. Research has proven that we live in an area of the country in which skin cancer is prevalent. Heavy sun tanners, farmers, ranchers and construction workers who spend their days in the sun and those who use tanning booths often show signs of skin cancer.

Sun exposure can happen even when the body is covered if the rays of the sun penetrate light weight or light colored clothing or the rays are reflected from the clothes onto the face even if the person is wearing a hat. "Tanning" not only increases the chances of skin cancer development, but also contributes to the aging appearance of the skin.

In general, skin cancer is characterized by a waxy, pearly nodule which may eventually ulcerate and crust, or by a red, scaly, sharply outlined patch according to the National Cancer Institute.

The NCI says most skin cancers appear after the fifth decade of life, and unfortunately, few people take any preventive measures until they develop their first cancer. But harmful effects of sunlight begin early and may be severe by the age of 20.

Over 500,000 new cases of skin cancer will be diagnosed in the U.S. this year and about 80% of these will be basal cell carcinomas.

"Basal cell carcinoma," says Diane Drake, R.N., M.S.N. of Harrington Cancer Center, "usually occurs most often on the head, face, neck, hands and trunk of the body--areas that are usually exposed to the sun. But if they're detected and treated early, there is a 95% cure rate of basal cell carcinoma."

Drake adds, "Squamous cell carcinoma is the second most common form of skin cancer. These skin cancers resemble wart-like growths that ulcerate in the center. They typically develop on the ears, face, lips, mouth, hands and other sun-exposed areas of the body. These can be cured 95% of the time if they're detected and treated early."

Malignant melanoma is the most serious skin cancer. melanomas appear without warning and can develop from or near a mole. Although melanoma is less common than other skin cancers, it is increasing at a faster rate than other forms of skin cancer. In its later stages, melanoma spreads to other organs and usually results in death. Excessive sun exposure in the first 10-15 years of life increases the chances of developing melanoma threefold, according to Drake.

The American Academy of Dermatologists suggests people "mind their ABCD's" in looking for signs of malignant melanoma.

A - Asymmetry--one half a mole or pigmented spot is unlike the other half.

B - Border - irregularities--scalloped or poorly circumscribed border.

C - Color varied-- from one area to another; shades of tan and brown; black, sometimes white, red or blue

D - Diameter larger than the size of pencil eraser.

Medical experts suggest exposure to the sun by using sun screen correctly:

- * avoid excessively exposure to the sun by using sun screen correctly

- * do not sunburn
- * wear protective clothing and hats when out in the sun

- * inspect your skin regularly
- * see your dermatologist for any suspicious skin changes

Anyone in the Panhandle and surrounding states is encouraged to come to the free skin cancer screening clinic. For more information, contact Harrington Cancer Center at (806)359-4673 or 1-800-274-4673 or the American Cancer Society at (806)353-4306.

directors from Districts #1 and #4 to serve a three-year term. District #1 is composed of all of Wheeler County east of U.S. Highway 83. District #4 is composed of all of Collingsworth County south of the Salt Fork River, including Childress County.

In early April, each member will receive by mail a notice of the meeting, along with the Co-Op's annual report. Everyone is encouraged to look over the report before the meeting since the financial statements in the report will be reviewed during the business session. Directors, management, and employees of GEC will be at the meeting to answer any questions that members may have concerning the Cooperative.

The annual membership meeting dates back to the very beginning of Greenbelt Electric Cooperative. The founding directors, back in 1938, felt the members should have a specific opportunity each year to learn more about their organization and to participate in a forum in which they could receive answers to any questions concerning the Cooperative. The directors felt the annual meeting was so important to the success of the Cooperative that the bylaws of the Cooperative were written to provide for such a meeting.

Greenbelt Electric Cooperative was established as a non-profit organization with its goal to bring electricity to the rural communities which were lighted by kerosene lamps and heated by wood, and places where water was pumped by hand.

Before the Cooperative was established, the existing power companies refused to serve the rural areas because they felt the expense involved in building electric lines would outweigh the return they would receive in electricity sales.

Greenbelt Electric was created when concerned rural people of the area realized that if they were ever to have electric service they would have to provide it themselves.

Today, as when it was founded, Greenbelt observes basic cooperative principles in its operation:

- * Each member, no matter the amount of electricity purchased, is entitled to one vote.

- * Nonprofit operation with affordable electric service to members is the primary objective of the Cooperative.

All members are encouraged to mark their calendars today to be at this year's annual meeting April 27. Without members' involvement and concern, Greenbelt Electric cannot continue serving as it has since 1938.

IT'S JUST LIKE A DIAMOND.

You know it's an imitation. But what about the many people today who have decided they are just like a banker? From stockbrokers to retailers, from credit unions to insurance men, to savings and loans, they all seem to be saying, "You don't need a banker, we'll do just as well." Oh, no they won't. Because no one else has the banker's hundreds of years of banking experience behind them. Nor do they enjoy the kind of trust that bankers do from the majority of Americans.

So why settle for an imitation when you can have a real banker at our Full Service Bank?

A Single Girl In A Lighthouse

Bernardine "Boots" Broussard of Angleton, Texas, spent ten years of her life as a single girl at the Sabine Pass Lighthouse.

Life in lighthouses wasn't as beautiful and serene as romantic novelists might have us think, though it wasn't necessarily bad either. It all depended on what the people you lived with were like.

Mrs. Broussard moved to Sabine Pass with her parents, two sisters and one brother in 1938. The lighthouse, however, was far older than that, having been built by the federal government back in 1857.

The lighthouse still stands just above the mouth of the Sabine River on the Louisiana side of the channel. It is an octagonal red brick tower that was whitewashed during all its years of service.

At the base of the tower stood a large apartment-like dwelling for the keeper and his assistants, an oil house, a boathouse, and other outbuildings, all of them up on wooden pilings above the surrounding marshes. "We had three rooms," Mrs. Broussard remembered, "living room, bedroom and kitchen," and these for a family with six members.

Every day one of the keepers and assistants went by boat across the river to Sabine Pass, Texas, for groceries and mail, while all the children from the light station went to school in the Texas town. Otherwise the people at the lighthouse were isolated from all direct contact with anyone except for visitors by boat.

"It was a lonely life," Mrs. Broussard related. "My mother hated it. She said it was so lonely. To pass the time she crocheted."

The Broussard girls frequently walked to the end of the long wooden pier from the lighthouse out into the Sabine River Channel, where the boathouse was built. There they would sing song after song, their voices being audible across on the Texas side.

"We'd go down to the end of the dock and sing all the songs we knew," she said. "La Paloma" was one of them; "Old Spinning Wheel" was another. "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was my mother's favorite."

OTC Pain Relievers: Guidelines

Almost all medicines (prescription and over-the-counter) can cause side effects. Pain relievers which contain aspirin can cause ringing of the ears, stomach and gastrointestinal irritation, an increased tendency to bleed, and Reye's syndrome, a rare but sometimes fatal health problem which occurs primarily in children and young adults. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently published guidelines for using over-the-counter pain relievers. These guidelines suggest that you:

- Always read the label before taking the medicine. Take note of printed instructions in the medicine container package.
- Stay within recommended dosage ranges.
- Limit use of pain relievers in adults to no more than 5 days for fever and 10 days for other illnesses, unless directed otherwise by a physician. Use of pain relievers in children should be for no more than 3 days for fever and 5 days for other uses.
- Avoid aspirin in children age 2 to 20 for relief of chicken pox, flu, or flu-like symptoms.
- Avoid aspirin during the last 3 months of pregnancy.

Water District Contemplated

On Monday April 9th, the Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District and other interested people met with the Commissioners' Court to discuss the possibility of creating a water district for Donley County. After the meeting, a steering committee was formed. This committee will start the research needed to determine the need of a Water District for Donley County. This committee will look at both the positive and negative effects of a water district and also try to determine whether a water district would be better as a single or a multicounty district.

The preliminary steering committee members are Bob White, Earl Shields, Jim Taylor, Carrol and Renee Duncan, Jack Moreman, Jenks Boston, Harold White, Dick Bode, John Morrow, Jim Shelton, Tim Trimble, and Ted Shaller. These people may also be contacted for additional information.

CHS Dedicates Annual to Renovation of Building

By Roger A. Estlack

Yearbook themes are not often accurate in their representation of a school year, but "New Beginnings," the theme of the 1990 Broncho, is an exception. The 1989-1990 school year marks the embarkation of the Clarendon Independent School District (formed in 1888) into its second century of existence. As we celebrate our 101st anniversary this school year, many fascinating things are occurring in our school system. The most spectacular of which is the renovation of the old college building. The Annual Staff feels that it is appropriate at this time to step back and reflect on the history of the building that is the highlight of the year.

In 1908 the Methodist-Episcopal Church South (now First United Methodist Church) of Clarendon constructed the building to house the administration and class rooms of Clarendon College. The three-story structure was a beautiful local landmark with brick columns and intricate masonry work gracing its facade. Inside the auditorium, the building sported a magnificent balcony above the regular seating area.

Clarendon College attained status as a full rank senior college in 1926 and existed as such for only one year. Then conflicts within the Methodist Conference caused the endowment for Clarendon College to be given to McMurry College in Abilene. The building and property were sold to the Clarendon Independent School District, and Clarendon College opened as a municipal junior college in the fall of 1927. Clarendon High School moved into the building with the college the same year.

In June of 1941 Clarendon was hit by a tornado. The twister completely demolished the third story and north wing of what is now the old gym building. It also knocked down the east wall of the football stadium. At the main building, the storm destroyed the top of the auditorium, ruined the balcony within, and severely damaged the decorative masonry. Tragically, despite some protests from the public, the balcony was not restored; and what little remained of the masonry had to be removed. Thus, leaving the building with a plain yet stately image.

The ag classes of the 55-56 school year sodded the school yard with bermuda grass. Despite criticism by some locals that "nothing would grow on that rocky hill," the grass did well and much of it remains today. The following year, the ag classes planted trees and shrubs as a landscaping project.

In January of 1962, the high school moved into a new building. The college separated from the CISD that year and move to its modern campus six years later. "Old Main" was left virtually vacant with the exception of the band and a couple of other classes. During the next several years, the building quickly began to deteriorate because of lack of maintenance.

The school reforms of Housebill 72 in 1984 created the need for more classrooms in public schools. The school board considered demolishing the old building to make way for new classrooms. Ultimately, however, they tossed the idea aside because of the building's sentimental value to ex-students and its standing as a local landmark. The school board decided instead to renovate the old building.

In late 1988, a demolition team began the gutting of the interior of the building. By summer of 1989 construction of the building's new steel interior had begun. The project is expected to be completely finished in about two weeks at this writing. It now contains such luxuries as: carpeted class rooms, an elevator for handicapped individuals, a student lounge with vending machines, a new auditorium with dressing rooms, and (best of all) central heating and air-conditioning!

All of this creates quite a paradox for the laymen's names for the school buildings. Should the 1908 structure now be called the "new building" and the 1962 structure the "old building;" or should it be the "new-new building" and the "old-old building;" or should it be the "new-old building" and the "old-new building;" or is it the other way around? No one seems to know for sure, and everyone is confused.

Nevertheless, the history of "Old Main" is certainly remarkable, and it makes one wonder as to what the future holds for its "new beginning." But one thing is definite: the 1990 Clarendon High School building will be here for a long time to come.

Excise Taxes Unfair to Poor

A recently released study by the House Ways and Means Committee of Congress indicates that federal taxes in 1990, including consumer excise taxes, will be more regressive than in either 1977 or 1980.

The study shows that the bulk of consumer excise taxes burden those in the lower income bracket. The lowest one-fifth of the population paid 17.8 percent more, and the top one-fifth percent paid 11.7 percent less overall in consumer excise taxes between 1980 and 1990, according to the study.

Additionally, the study shows that the poorest 20 percent of the population paid 16.1 percent more in total federal taxes during the 1980s, but their real income actually declined by 3.2 percent. In contrast, the richest 5 percent paid 9.5 percent less in total federal taxes, while their real income increased by 46.1 percent.

by T. Lindsay Baker Santone Was Too Strenuous

One of the best known Texas telegraphers a century ago was a one-legged man now remembered as Peg, so-called from his wooden limb. He was as noted for his story telling ability as for his remarkable speed at the telegraph key.

Peg had lost his limb in a railway accident. The railroad patched him up in one of its hospitals and gave him a fine wooden leg on the condition that he say nothing more about the matter.

Peg had an additional wooden leg for everyday use. Looking more like an ordinary broomstick than anything else, it was less ornamental but worked just fine. Peg was wearing this "everyday leg" on an occasion when he visited a vaudeville house in San Antonio in the 1880's.

All Aboard the Nation's "Skinniest" State Park

Authentic steam engines make daily runs through the Texas State Railroad, Texas' "skinniest" state park. The park is dedicated to railroading's golden age.

The whistle and chug of steam-powered trains still echos in the silence of East Texas' Piney Woods, thanks to a remarkable state park in northeast Texas—the Texas State Railroad.

Touted as the longest, skinniest state park in the nation, the Texas State Railroad makes daily 51-mile round-trip excursions between Victorian-style depots in the towns of Rusk and Palestine. Five steam engines pull restored passenger cars dating back to the turn of the century.

Built by the state in 1896 to service an iron foundry and other industries at the State Prison in Rusk, the line was turned over to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in 1972.

Today, it is a rolling historical park dedicated to the preservation of steam locomotives and railroading's golden age.

The Texas State Railroad crosses 30 bridges on its trek, winding through pine and hardwood forests and pastureland. Passengers see birds, deer, wildflowers and precious little civilization.

The train runs five days a week, Thursday through Monday, beginning Memorial Day. In the fall, it operates on Saturday and Sunday until closing for the winter in November. Advance reservations are recommended. In Texas, call toll-free 800/442-8951. Out-of-state, 214/683-2563. The office is open seven days a week, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

LIGHTHOUSE--

A constant concern for people in the lighthouse service was the sudden and unexpected arrival of government lighthouse inspectors. Mrs. Broussard's father seemed always uneasy about their coming and finding things out of order, and his fears spread to all the members of his family.

"You had to make every bed. It had to be spotless," Mrs. Broussard stated.

On one morning, she related, "We were going to Beaumont and we saw a boat coming and we knew it was government inspectors. We just put the dirty dishes in the oven. They didn't have any business looking there," and they didn't.

Mrs. Broussard's father had a habit of always blaming someone else for his difficulties. "My mama and dad were in a skiff," she stated. "They were throwing nets for bait and he got caught in the net and went overboard. He lamed my mother for that."

Bernardine Broussard was twenty years old when she moved to Sabine Pass in 1938, and she remained a single woman the whole ten years that her family lived there. Her father was opposed to any young men coming to the light station to call on any of his daughters.

Nancy Hunsucker Manny called on Tuesday, April 17, to say that her mother, Billie, was released from the hospital that morning, and that she was moving into an apartment at 4601 71st Street, Box 104, Lubbock, Texas 79424. Billie is anxious to hear from her many Hedley friends.

Luiz and Eva Garcia had a cake party April 13 with members of their church. The cake was enormous. The occasion was their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Gerald Bland continues to undergo treatment in Saint Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo, but he was hoping to get to come home this week.

Verda Hinds was taken to Childress General Hospital late Sunday evening, having suffered an apparent heart attack.

Future Homemakers' Advisor Peggy Allred and Dena Moore will attend the state FHA convention, to be held April 26, 27, and 28 in Dallas.

Members of the local FFA chapter will attend a District meeting in Memphis on Tuesday.

The Hedley Owls stretched their baseball record to 2-0 last Tuesday with a win over Kelton. Kevin Johnson, Anthony Carson, and Stephen Carson each had doubles, and Curtis Neeley had a home run. The final score was 8 to 3. On Monday the 23rd, the team traveled to Childress to play the leader in District 1-3A. We'll have a report on that game next week. On Thursday, there will be a scrimmage in Hedley with some of the men of the community.

There are still some copies of the 1990 school yearbook available. They are $10 each. The books are selling considerably faster this year. Get your copy before they're gone.

A Plea from the Pigpen

by Jon Leggett

Mudhole #3
Pigpen Alley
Faraway Country
Date: Far too many days from home

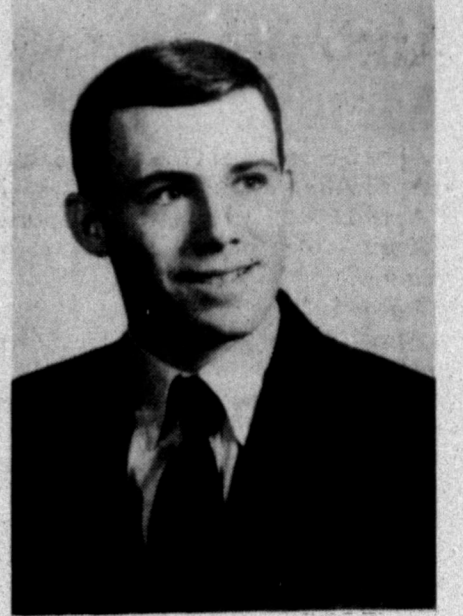

Dear Dad,
I've begun this letter so many times and have wadded it up and thrown it away just as many times. I've wanted to write to let you know I'm okay, but the truth of the matter is, I'm NOT okay. And I've wanted to let you know how much I love you, but somehow the words must ring so hollow in your ear.

You probably won't believe this, but when I left home, I cried for several miles along the road. It was hard, even for me, leaving all that was familiar and secure. But I certainly can't deny that I was anxious to get away. You were always so good to me, but I just had to do things my way for a while.

Dad, I have known what it is like to live like a king. The first few weeks after arriving here, I thought life simply could not be better. You just wouldn't believe what money will buy--friends, food, fun, fads,

School Names Honor Graduates

Anthony Trent Carson has been named Valedictorian of the Hedley High School Class of 1990. Anthony's four-year grade average is 91.714. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Carson of Quail.

Robert Howard Long, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Stephens of Hedley, is the Salutatorian. Robert's average over the four years of his high school career is 87.603.

Congratulations to Anthony and Robert, and to the other members of the Class of 1990. Graduation is slated for Friday evening, May 25.

fashion. The world really takes care of its own.

I really believed that, Dad, up until the last few weeks. When the money was gone, so was everyone and everything else. Friends whom I had wine and dined for weeks would not give me so much as a crust of bread. One even loudly denied in the midst of his newly-found crowd that he knew who I was. My best friend, Heshbon, got me a job on a pig farm, but now even he pretends he's not at home when I knock. The world takes care of its own? What a joke!

Dad, it hurts so much to be abandoned by friends, but, as painful as that is, that's not the really bad part. My mind has locked in on two thoughts, and I seem incapable of thinking about anything else.

First, I remember how many times you taught me from the Proverbs: "...The commandment is a lamp...to keep thee from the evil woman...Lust not after her beauty in thine heart; neither let her take thee with her eyelids." It has come to the point that I can hardly sleep for the guilt and shame of my filthiness. Will I ever feel clean again? I wonder. I really wonder.

Secondly, my mind continually forces me to contrast how I've spent my money--your money, really--and how you always use yours. As I toss and turn in my hay-bed near the pigs, I think of how you constantly help the poor, contribute generously to the synagogue, and help finance virtually any community project. My only consolation is that, even though I've dragged your name through the mud, I feel as though you're untouched by the filth because of your goodness.

Oh, dear God! How I wish I'd listened to your instruction! But I've learned one thing from this nightmare: I don't need, or even want, things. I only want to be near you.

Oh, Dad, is it possible? Remember the little hut the shepherds occasionally use on the back side of the mountain? Is it possible--just possible--you would let me stay there and help with the flocks? I know you must burn with anger and shame at the thought of how I've disgraced you. But Dad--please!--no one ever comes to the hut from the village, and I've grown a beard and lost lots of weight. No one would even recognize me. Your men could tell me how you're getting along. You'd never have to look at me. Please!?

I'd give my very life if I could feel you could even begin to forgive me. But no, I've already asked too much. If you only knew what a paradise that little hut would be after the hell I've created. Please!

I love you.
--Your son-who-is-no-son

New Videos Available on Weed, Brush Control

College Station, TX—Two new video programs about weed and brush control on Texas grazing lands are now available for viewing from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The program titled "Chemical Control of Weeds and Brush" provides an overview of how herbicides can fit into integrated range and pasture management. The tape covers benefits of control, broadcast and individual plant treatments, application timing and follow-up.

The second program, "Chemical Control of Mesquite," details the chemical tools, timing and techniques to improve the degree and longevity of mesquite control. Follow-up measures also are covered.

Scenes in the two programs were taped in Bell, Brazos, Brown, Coryell, Falls, Freestone, Navarro, San Saba and Stephens counties.

The programs were produced by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service under grants from DowElanco.

Phil Davis, San Saba county Extension agent, demonstrates high volume foliar spraying of mesquite.

Copies have been distributed to the 14 Extension district offices for use by specialists and county agents. To view the tapes, farmers and ranchers should contact their county Extension agent.

The new programs are the second and third in a series produced under DowElanco grant. The first program, "Individual Plant Treatments of Brush," also is available through county Extension offices.

SANTONE-Cont'd from p. 8

of the theater, the telegrapher had been enjoying the typical vaudeville fare of music and comedy routines when an apparent drunken cowboy swaggered into the auditorium. Peg described him as having "two big guns strapped round his waist and a bowie knife that looked like a young sword."

After loudly ordering a bottle of champagne, the cowhand spotted the slightly elevated boxes with seats on either side of the stage and made for one of them. He climbed up the outside into the box and then proceeded to order three more bottles of champagne.

By this time the show had ground to a halt. A male singer on stage then began singing the next song, whereupon the drunk ordered him to stop. Ignoring the distraction, the singer continued, but the cowboy maintained his distraction by hammering on the box with a champagne bottle and by making other raucous noises.

Finally the singer stopped the show and asked if there were any law officers or anyone else in the house who would restrain the inebriated cowboy. No one volunteered, so the singer decided that he would undertake the job himself.

After climbing most of the way up into the box, the singer was then bodily lifted upward and into the box by the burley drunk. "They dropped to the floor in a clinch, but as they fell I saw the cowboy had his knife in his hand," Peg related. After a minute or two of scuffling, the cowboy was seen to cram the singer's face into a wall, and then, as the telegrapher narrated, "he...rammed that big knife through him twice, and then, slamming it plumb through between the shoulders, he left it sticking."

At this point the audience made for the exit in one solid mass. "When I struck the sidewalk, I let out in good style and ran two blocks before I stopped," Peg said. Then he spotted a San Antonio policeman and breathlessly reported to him, "You had better go down yonder. A cowboy just murdered a man in the theater down there."

The officer calmly replied, "That's all right...They have been killing that same man for two nights now. It's part of the show." Peg then realized that he had been "taken."

"Hold on," Peg interjected in telling the tale, "That story is not finished yet."

The next evening Peg, still wearing his everyday leg, returned to the theater to see what happened that night. The show continued as it had the previous evening, but the mass exodus started earlier than he had expected.

"There was a big Dutchman near me and he stamped at the first flash of the knife and took the whole tier of seats with him," Peg remembered. In the rush, his wooden leg got jammed into the seat and broken off. "They walked all over me, and I never saw a thing."

"When the dust settled," Peg continued, "they found me all spraddled out on the floor." The proprietor of the theater, according to the telegrapher, "acted pretty square." "He set'em up two or three times, sent me home in a hack and next morning early they had a carpenter come around and fix me stem."

The excitement of San Antonio was too much for Peg, however, and the next day he left for El Paso. "Santone was too strenuous for me."

LIGHTHOUSE—

"There wasn't no courting going on," Mrs. Broussard stated. "He didn't believe in that."

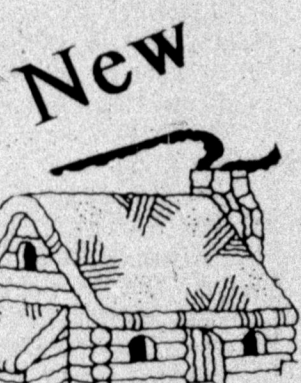

"You'd go across to the mainland and maybe you'd meet somebody, but that was it." So insistent was her father that no suitors could call, "To get away from there we had to get married."

And that Bernardine Broussard did, spending a good life on the Gulf coast and now living in retirement in Angleton.

Dear Editor,

In preparation for the restoration of the Texas Capitol, the Old 1857 General Land Office, and the Capitol grounds, we have some exciting mysteries to solve and are looking for any photographs dating prior to 1920. We also need interior views of the rotunda, corridors, foyers, and offices in the Capitol prior to 1959.

The State Preservation Board invites you to join us in our quest and we ask that your readers help us by searching through their family photographs for snapshots taken while visiting the Capitol. Quite often the building or an interior of a room is only visible in the background, but such a photograph can still provide invaluable details about furniture, carpet patterns, or light fixtures.

Surely, your readers' grandmother, grandfather, aunt, uncle, mother, father, brother or sister took great joy in standing in the middle of the rotunda to have their pictures made. Surely, someone through the years has gone "Kodaking" to the State Capitol and taken just the kind of snapshots we are looking for.

If your readers have any photographs of the Texas Capitol, the Old General Land Office, or the Capitol grounds, we ask them to please forward a xerox copy to us as soon as possible. We will be more than happy to give them credit for any photographs that provide new information.

Thank you for any help you can give us on this joint, statewide effort. Together, we can make Texas' beautiful Capitol second to none in Victorian restoration magnificence and authenticity for the future enjoyment and pride of Texans everywhere.

• Consider using a leaf shredder accessory and large capacity leaf bag for fall clean-up—Lawn-Boy's shredder, for example, reduces leaf volume up to a ratio of 8-to-1—and then bag the leaves or discharge them on your lawn for a quick winter mulch.

By spreading the mulch beneath plants and between garden rows, you can control weed growth and increase water retention. The yard wastes will work first as a mulch and then as a soil enrichment as decomposition proceeds.

NOTE: Grass which has been treated with pesticides or weed killer should not be used as mulch immediately after mowing. Some of these chemicals take six weeks to break down, so compost treated grass clippings instead of using them as mulch.

You can recycle yard wastes, whether you bag the clippings or use a mower mulching plate attachment (inset).

If you have a garden, trees, shrubs or even planter boxes, you can also make the natural choice to compost. Composting is a biological process in which bacteria, over time, break down plant tissue, with the resulting organic material returned to the soil.

Here's how compost makes soil healthier:

• The organic matter produced by composting improves plant growth by loosening heavy clay soils for better root penetration; by improving the capacity of sandy soils to hold water and nutrients; and by adding essential nutrients to any soil.

• Improving your soil produces healthy plants which help clean the air and conserve soil.

Fallen leaves, grass clippings, weeds and the remains of garden plants can all be used as raw materials for composting. An inexpensive, easy, non-polluting way to compost is with a holding bin. A four-foot by four-foot holding bin is recommended to begin a compost pile. The bin can be made with snow fence, woven wire, spaced bricks (to allow air to circulate) or wood. Prefabricated bins are also available for purchase.

The bottom of the bin should be open and situated on soil, not sod or paving. As yard wastes are collected, drop them into the holding bin. Chopping all garden wastes or running them through a shredding machine will speed their composting. Turn the pile monthly so the most decomposed material at the bottom is brought to the top and new clippings are shifted to the hot bottom of the pile. Adding some water each time speeds composting. As the wastes decay, their volume will reduce by about 70 percent. The compost is ready to use when it is dark and crumbly like rich soil.

If you can't use your yard wastes, Lawn-Boy suggests finding a neighbor who can, or checking to see if your community has a municipal composting program that can use these materials in its recycling efforts.

The City of Clarendon Requests That You Do Not Put Grass Clippings, Limbs, or Tires Into the Dumpsters. Until the City has a disposal site ready for Grass Clippings and Limbs, they may still be taken to the City's Open top Dump Box after getting a key to the gate at City Hall. Tires may be put into the Open Dump Box also if they have first been quartered. When the new EPA regulations go into effect, landfills will no longer accept grass clippings, limbs, and unquartered tires.

The City Thanks you For Your Cooperation

Recycling Yard Wastes Makes Ecological Sense

With landfill space at a premium, recycling yard wastes is considered a sound environmental alternative to conventional dumping.

According to Lawn-Boy, a manufacturer of lawn care equipment, grass clippings left on the lawn while mowing are a good source of natural fertilizer. For the times when you want to rake or bag—when the grass is too long or thick, around swimming pools, or occasionally for appearance sake—the company suggests using the clippings, leaves and brush as a mulch in garden or planting beds, or to begin a home composting program.

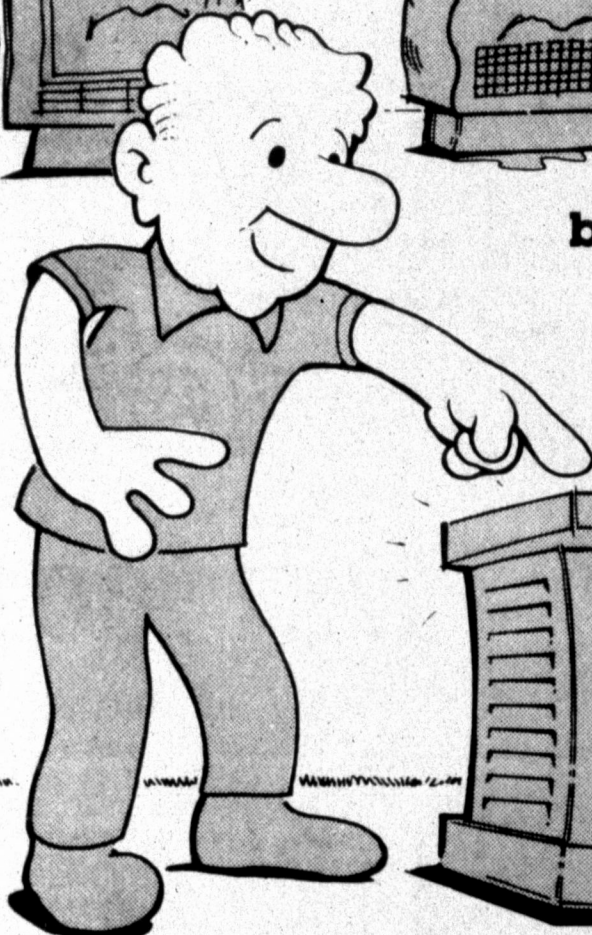

To get a mulch program started:

- Use a sharp mower blade to get finer grass clippings and then bag the clippings.
- Rent or purchase a chipper/shredder for wood materials up to one inch in diameter, or cut them with hand tools.

Thinking of buying a new air conditioner or furnace?

Today many home owners are buying neither one because the smartest unit to buy is an all season heat pump.

A heat pump cools your home in the summer and heats it in the winter. And not only that, it'll pump savings back into your pocket because it's one of the most energy efficient cooling and heating systems you can buy.

As a WTU customer, you can qualify for $500 cash when you install an electric heat pump and your home meets WTU's Energy Saving Plan requirements.

For more information on an all season heat pump, call your cooling and heating dealer or WTU.

THANK YOU

The family of Epifanio Jaramillo wishes to thank each and every one who helped us find our Dad. Without the help of the Clarendon, Hedley, Police, and volunteer Fire Department, and all the nice people who devoted their time to help us this wouldn't have been possible, we really appreciate your help. May God Bless each and every one of you. A special thanks to Larry & Lura Helms and Mr. & Mrs. San Thompson and also for the food that was prepared for all the people.

Thank You Again,
 The Jaramillo's Family
 Sanchez, Lucero, David
 We wish to express our deep appreciation to all who gave of themselves so generously while we were undergoing the loss of our loved one, Donald Harlan.

Special comforting acts and deeds which come to mind are: The people who brought food, served us and came to be with us. The people who sent beautiful flowers and memorials. The church of Christ, both here and at Tulia who provided us with food, visits and a beautiful and meaningful service. The prayers, the cards, and the calls will always be a treasured memory.
