Suspect Arrested in $30,000 Local Theft

Area law enforcement personnel have issued warrants for the arrest of a suspect in a $30,000 theft. They expected to have the suspect in custody by midweek, bringing him back to Donley County from Albuquerque. The situation began when Bois M. Smith, a local landowner, picked up a man calling himself Glen Tywater. Smith gave the man a job, reportedly paying him about $240 per week, plus food. Smith is said to have sold a vehicle to the new employee for $250 down and the remainder on credit. Soon after he was employed by Smith, Tywater brought his wife, Francis, to Donley County from Irving.

About December 1, the Smiths took Mrs. Tywater back to Irving to get some belongings. According to the complaint filed with the Sheriff's office, Tywater went to a local garage while his employer was gone and offered to sell a gun and a welder. Both were apparently the property of Smith. The mechanic declined the purchase.

The documents allege that Tywater then stole some $21,480 worth of Kugerands (South African gold currency), two $100 bills, two $20 bills, $4,125 in silver coins, a welder, generator, and assorted tools, as well as "other items too numerous to mention."

Investigators say that Tywater then left, going first to Amarillo, then to Albuquerque, selling stolen merchandise along the way. When he was apprehended in Albuquerque, he was reportedly living in a luxury motel, but had spent most of the money from his theft.

Officials believe that "Tywater" is actually Claude W. Wallace, 53, who was out on parole. He appears to have a long criminal record.

The name "Glen Tywater" apparently belonged to Wallace's brother-in-law, who had been dead about eight years. It was one of at least 11 aliases that officers think the suspect used.

Investigating officers in the case were Donley County Sheriff Jimmy Thompson, Constable Blackie Johnston, Deputy Joe Neal Shaddle, and Texas Ranger Gary Henderson.

KACV-TV Explores Alzheimer's

It used to be when a person began to forget things or their behavior became more bizarre and eccentric they simply blamed it on old age. Now, however, they have a name for this progressive, degenerative disease that attacks the brain and impairs the memory, intellectual abilities and behavior. It is called Alzheimer's disease and more than four million American adults are affected.

On Thursday, January 27th at 9 p.m. KACV-TV presents Alzheimer's: Holding on to Hope. This special one hour-documentary is made possible through the support of the Junior League of Amarillo. As with past KACV-TV local productions, League members have spent the past four months researching this topic and assisted in the show's preparation.

Alzheimer's: Holding on to Hope will explore the impact of this devastating disease on the lives of three Amarillo families. Following the pre-produced 30 minute portion of the program there will be a live in-studio segment featuring a panel of physicians, Alzheimer's caretakers and support group organizers to talk about the latest treatment for the disease and the other services available to victims and their families. Viewers will have an opportunity to call in with their own questions regarding the disease.

In addition to the January 27th program, KACV-TV will rebroadcast Alzheimer's: Holding on to Hope on Saturday, January 30th at 7 p.m. and on Thursday, February 4th at 1 p.m. on channel 2 or cable channel 3 in the Amarillo area.

A Dream Come True

Only a few people knew what went on in downtown Clarendon, the evening of March 30, 1992. Actually, this activity was linked to an event that took place on June 26, 1927, almost 65 years before.

On that Sunday in 1927, the parents of Jack P. Forbess, were married in Hobart, Oklahoma.

PART OF CLARENDON now has new home on storage shed of Jack Forbess in Plano, Texas.

Energy Program Announced

The Energy Crisis Program (ECP) is one of the many programs administered by Panhandle Community Services. Funds are now available in your area.

The primary purpose of this program is to make funds available to help households with weather related, supply shortage and energy related emergencies. In order for a household to receive ECP assistance they must meet all three of the following criteria:

- * Have a bona fide energy crisis.
- * Have a gross annual income which is less than 125% of the current Poverty Income Guidelines.
- * Have at least one U.S. citizen or legally-admitted alien residing in the household.

A bona fide emergency energy crisis exists when extraordinary events have created problems in meeting the basic household expenses.

Priority will be given to eligible households containing one or more persons age 60 or above and/or a handicapped individual.

Proof of income for the past thirty (30) days will be required. Such proof consists of checks, check stubs, award letters from Social Security and/or employer statements showing the gross monthly income.

For more information contact Panhandle Community Services in your area.

Additional criteria included a demonstrated record of participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, service to West Texas State University and potential for future achievement.

Texas Ranks Second

Texas ranked second as a state travel destination, with nearly 139 million visitors in 1991, according to 1991 Report of Travel to Texas, a recently released study commissioned by the Texas Department of Commerce Tourism Division.

Among the findings from the survey is that 138.8 million people traveled in and to Texas during 1991, ranking the state second, as compared to all states in the U.S. California ranked first with 242 million travelers, and Florida was third with 128.1 million travelers.

Texas ranked third in 1991 in the category of percentage of total travel days with 5.5 percent of the total number of travel days, based on the report's estimate that there were approximately 5.563 billion travel days in the entire U.S. during 1991. This estimate includes both business and leisure travel. California ranked first and Florida was third.

Texas Panhandle growers must continually seek methods to improve irrigation management and efficiency. For more than tow decades, producers have looked to the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference as the place to get practical information on irrigation use and the newest technology stemming directly from research innovation in the field.

At this time each year, producers have the opportunity to see the latest in new and improved products and equipment as demonstrated by major industry suppliers.

The Jan. 7 conference starts at 8:30 a.m. with registration, refreshments and exhibits at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo West Blvd. Moderators for the program are Extension Agents, Dennis Newton of Deaf Smith County who will lead the morning session and Robert Harris of Moore County who will conduct the afternoon program.

Dear Editor,

At the November 10, 1992, Howardwick Council meeting, I, Nell Derr was on the agenda of the meeting, on Ordinance #63, and when the meeting came, they had me on water. So the mayor went ahead and gave me permission to speak on Ordinance #63. I and a few more had gathered legal matter on this Tax Ordinance #63 that the Mayor of Howardwick is trying to put on us people at Howardwick.

Howardwick is not a City. It does not have a City Charter. In the law books it is listed as a Municipal Type B Township. Some of this information I got from our own Donley County Judge. After I had read this information, I asked the people of Howardwick, if they wanted Ordinance #63 rescinded and all hands went up. The law states the majority rules. There were 70 people present. Then at the December 8, 1992 Council meeting, the secretary had not recorded any of this and said nothing was done about Ordinance #63, which was false. According to the law, there has to be a service rendered before a tax can be put on. Howardwick gets its water through the Red River Water Authority, their electricity from Greenbelt Electric, Clarendon hauls off the trash. As far as we know Howardwick Township does not render a service for the people. All 70 people that were at the November 10th meeting of the Council can verify this.

Respectfully,
Nell Derr
A Citizen of Howardwick

Recycling—What You Can Do

Today, many communities throughout the United States have curbside recycling programs. It's likely that your community is recycling, or that it is considering doing so.

Why is that important? The average American generates more than four pounds of garbage each day, or nearly three-quarters of a ton per person per year.

One part of the solution is recycling. Over the past several years, there have been great strides in the area of recycling. Even many plastics are recyclable.

It's important to remember that recycling is not a cure-all. It is not the only solution to our solid waste problem. We probably could recycle everything, but the costs would be prohibitive, raising the price of everything from packaging to computers. Any waste management program must be based on a balanced, economically sensible, integrated strategy. It must include source reduction (making less in the first place), the conversion of waste to energy through incineration and land-filling as well as recycling.

Still, recycling is something each of us can do. For example, last year alone, 651 million pounds of plastics packaging were recycled in the United States, an increase of 44 percent from 1990. In all, 14 percent of all plastic bottles were recycled in 1991, up from 9.3 percent the previous year.

Another example: last year, 327 million pounds—36 percent of total production—of plastic soft drink bottles were recycled. That represented an increase of 19 percent over 1990.

Polystyrene—the material used to make coffee cups and other food containers—was also recycled in record amounts last year: 24.5 million pounds. Today's coffee cup might become tomorrow's building insulation or video cassette case.

There are many exciting efforts underway in recycling. Many companies—Union Carbide Corp., Occidental Chemical Corp., Quantum Chemical Corp. and Phillips Petroleum Co. among them—are operating major facilities for recycling plastics. Bottles and other packaging made from these plastics are now being marketed by Procter & Gamble, Clorox and others. Packaging makers are being encouraged to "design for recycling."

What can you do? If your community has a recycling program—participate. If it doesn't, contact your city council and help start one. And more important, help create a market for recycled products by buying them whenever you can.

What are some tips for recycling? Many communities now recycle newspapers and other white paper; just be sure the paper doesn't have wax or other coatings. To recycle cardboard, flatten boxes, remove liners. For aluminum or steel cans, empty and rinse—you don't need to remove labels. Carefully crush aluminum cans so they take up less room. Glass bottles and jars often can be recycled—remove and discard lids and rinse clean.

Many plastic bottles that have a neck smaller than the base now can be recycled. Check with your community first; probably they will accept soda and milk bottles. They also may accept other plastic bottles, including those used for laundry detergent, bleach, shampoo, salad dressing and ketchup, to name a few. For plastic bottles, remove and throw away caps and pumps; rinse; no need to remove labels or neck rings; crush by carefully stepping on them.

And then, to complete the "cycle," it's important to look for and buy recycled products.

The average stay in Texas, according to the report, was 1.5 days. Texas residents leisure travel averaged 5.5 days, and Texas resident business travel averaged just over 5 days. Non-Texan leisure travel to Texas averaged 4.5 days, and non-Texan business travel to the state averaged 3.6 days, with an overall average of 4.2 days. For Texas residents, there were 66.6 million single-day trips.

The report estimates that an average of $70.70 is spent per person per day. Texans spend slightly less, $58.70 per person per day. Non-Texans average spending is $86.5 per person per day.

Texas' top feeder (household origin) states are California, Oklahoma, (with a strong business pull) and Louisiana. During the colder seasons of the year, leading northern feeder states are Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio.

Another interesting statistic in the report is that of all Texas travel, 44 percent comes from non-Texans and 56 percent from Texans. Texas and California are the only two states in the nation where more than half of the travelers to that state are their own residents.

Destinations to Texas also are ranked in the report, along with the percentage of the total that destination represents. The top 10 destinations for 1991 were Dallas at 16 percent, Houston at 14 percent, San Antonio at 11 percent, Austin at 7 percent, Fort Worth/Arlington at 5 percent, Waco at 4 percent, Corpus Christi at 4 percent, Brownsville/Harlingen at 3 percent, Amarillo at 2 percent and Rural at 16 percent. Rural is defined as counties not part of a Metropolitan Statistical Area.

The travel survey includes data for both business as well as leisure travel, and the research includes both Texas residents and non residents. Travel is defined as any trip of 50 or more miles one way, or an overnight trip for either business or leisure purposes.

The report, compiled for the Tourism Division by D.K. Shifflet & Associates, analyzes the travel behaviors of 30,000 families each month. The report is part of an ongoing survey to census-balanced households in the continental U.S. Slightly more than two-thirds of those surveys were returned each month.

Safety Tips Given

Thousands of people have their holiday season ruined each year by family tragedies. For the sake of your loved ones—as well as your own well being—consider the following safety tips.
 Traffic accidents injure and kill hundreds. One of the major causes of such accidents is driving and drinking.
 Fires are a major cause of tragedy, too. It is worth a few minutes to check for hazards. Is the Christmas tree safe. Are its lights ornaments in good shape? Is there paper or other things around the heater, range or water heater?
 This is an exciting season. But some excitement is unwelcome. A few minutes thinking about potential hazards could prevent a life-long tragedy.

[This message is dedicated to Doney County Fire, Emergency and Law Enforcement personnel, with the hope that they have a quiet Christmas and an uneventful New Year's Day.]

Did You Know?

Not all trolls are created equal! The impish nymphs from the 60's are more popular than ever, but they're not all the same...

Livvy, Henry and Gretta, the biggest Norfins of all, are dressed for play and ready for action.

Here are some surprising facts about trolls.

- The original trolls, so popular in the 1960's, were designed by the Danish artist Thomas Dam, who carved his first troll as a gift for his daughter.
 - Norfins are the second generation of the original trolls with faces designed by troll creator Thomas Dam. Because Norfins are original designs, they are preferred by collectors.
 - There are over 200 Norfin characters with more than 30 different faces.
 - Trolls are among the hottest toys in the industry and are expected to be one of the best selling toys this holiday season, according to the Toy Manufacturers of America.
 - One ardent fan, smitten by troll love, has 1800 trolls in her troll family.
 - Each Norfin has a unique personality and expression.
- It's even possible to join a Norfin Troll Fan Club. For a membership application, write: Norfin Fan Club, Dept. 1, 164 Central Avenue, Farmingdale, NY 11735. Indicate where you read this article and get $1.00 off the $12 annual membership fee.

The couple were on their way to a Colorado fishing honeymoon, when about 7 p.m. they arrived in Clarendon. There was a nice, fairly new hotel just a block off the highway downtown. It was called in those days the Antrobus Hotel. They stopped and went in. Mr. Forbess signed his name and started up the stairs. The innkeeper said, "Hey, did this woman come in with you?" "Oh, yeah," Forbess said, thoughtfully, "she's my new wife!" This was a good start for a long and happy marriage.

Since that time, many trips have been made through Clarendon. First: by Ruby and Jess Forbess, the vacationing couple; then: by the whole Forbess family, including their two sons, Robert and Jack. Occasionally, the vacationers would turn right at the red light in Clarendon and just drive by the old hotel to provide Ruby a quiet moment of reminiscing. Jess and the older son, Robert are gone now, and Ruby, at almost 92, lives most of the time with her son Jack.

On the afternoon of March 28, 1992, Patty Miller and Jack Forbess, were driving through Clarendon on the way to Amarillo. They drove by the hotel to show Patty where Jack's folks spent their wedding night. The hotel was near ruin. Windows missing and boards covering the openings. It was in worse condition than Jack had remembered.

The only part that was in fair condition was the small pointed roof over the side door on the north side. Jack decided he would like to have those tin shingles on that roof.

Jack Forbess and Patty Miller attended a Beauty Show in Amarillo, on Monday, March 30, and left for Lawton, Oklahoma. It was about 7 p.m. when they stopped at the Dairy Queen in Clarendon, Texas to get a bite to eat. As they ate, they noticed a nice looking lady in a booth across from them. Jack asked her if she knew who owned the old hotel downtown or who he should see about getting the roof. He told her of his parents getting married there and the whole story. She said that the owner had sold the building to the city for $1.00 and that the Mayor would know everything.

After getting permission to get the shingles off the roof of the hotel, Patty and Jack left the Dairy Queen, and went to the police station to tell them that they were going to dismantle the roof, and that he had permission from the Mayor's secretary. At the sheriff's office he talked to Deputy Joe Shadle and was asked if he had a ladder. At that point, Jack was informed that James Owens would meet him at the hotel in ten minutes with a ladder.

In about ten minutes a pick-up pulled up in front of the hotel and out steps James Owens who pulled a ladder out of the back and set it up under the roof. Jack Forbess started to carefully pull out the nails and hand the shingles to Patty. Patty numbered each shingle in order to rebuild the roof exactly as it was originally.

As Jack climbed higher on the ladder, James Owens decided the ladder was not safe enough. He disappeared and soon returned with a taller, stronger ladder. James hopped up on it and started pulling out the nails. Jack's car and James' pickup were parked with their lights on in order to see, soon a third set of lights came upon the scene, belonging to deputy Joe Shadle. He had come to see and offer his assistance. He had brought leather gloves, because he knew the tin shingles would be sharp on the corners. As they worked, another pick-up came by to see what was going on. The last piece to come down was the dome at the top.

There were 18 shingles, 2 cap pieces, and 2 other pieces.

Patty Miller and Jack Forbess loaded the items carefully in their car and headed for Lawton, where Ruby was staying. The next morning they laid out the shingles on Ruby's front porch and showed her their treasure. She was so excited. She couldn't believe it. She cried a little, as women do.

Since that night, Jack had tried to figure out the best way to display the roof. It was too large to put inside the house, and he didn't have a pointed roof. Jack constructed a second roof on his storage barn in his backyard and placed the shingles on it. Above are pictures of his completed project. A little bit of Clarendon is displayed in Plano, and has made a mother truly happy. The Forbess's would like to thank everyone that helped to make this dream come true.
