Violence Awareness Set

October has been designated Domestic Violence Awareness Month, according to Janet Watts, Executive Director of Tralee Crisis Center.

Each year in the United States about 3-4 million women are physically abused by their mate. Because understanding the problem is the first step toward solving it. Tralee is sponsoring a ribbon campaign in honor of those women who have lost their lives at the hands of their partners. Everyone is asked to wear a purple ribbon, which Tralee is providing in each community served, during the month in support of this cause.

TRAILEE -

During the last year in the eight counties served by Tralee, services were provided to 335 adults and children. Sexual assault cases accounted for an additional 20 victims.

Tralee Crisis Center is a nonprofit organization whose belief is that every person has the right to live free of violence. The center offers a 24 hour hotline manned by volunteers, a shelter open 24 hours a day, advocacy for crime victims and various support groups. If a woman a woman chooses not to stay at the Shelter but is subjected to an abusive partner, there is a councilor who provides help for her. Recently, a children's program has been formed for residents' and non-residents' children who have been emotionally and/or physically subjected to the abuse.

Brenda Wilkinson, Victim Services Coordinator, also serves as the Outreach Representative for Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler, Collingsworth and Donley Counties. She is available to serve anyone by appointment in these communities on Thursdays. Linda Wright of the Borger office serves Carson and Hutchinson counties.

There is also offered a 12 step program, HEART, Helping End Abusive Relationship Tendencies, which meets bi-monthly and is open to the public.

The center is always in need of dedicated volunteers. Anyone who is interested in serving in that capacity is urged to call the office at 669-1131 or if in an Outreach area, 800-658-2796. Any donations or financial assistance are always appreciated.

Representatives are always available for programs and presentations for clubs, churches or organizations can be arranged by calling 669-1131.

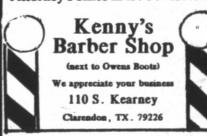

Ribbons may be picked up at Bivens Pharmacy in Clarendon.

Governor's Training Conference Attended

Tane Watts and Brenda Wilkinson of Tralee Crisis Center were two of 400 attendees at the Governor's Training Conference on Crime victim Assistance held in Austin, Sept. 15-18. The seventh annual gathering of victim assistance providers from across the state included representatives form law enforcement agencies, prosecutors offices, community organizations and victim advocacy groups. The event was sponsored by the Texas Crime Victims Clearinghouse, a division of the Governor's Office, and the State Bar of texas crime Victims and Witnesses Committee.

"The people who attend this conference are on the front lines of victim assistance," said Governor Ann Richards. !69They are often the first contact a person has after the crime has occurred. The work they do has a tremendous impact in helping victims and survivors recover from the trauma of an act

The conference offered 70 workshops designed to help providers assist victims with their legal, emotional and financial needs. Wilkinson states that the principles addressed in these workshops were beneficial in maintaining an effective program in the areas of family violence, sexual assault, child abuse, prosecution and crisis intervention.

In addition, conference participants heard a keynote address by Anne Seymour, Director of Communications and Resource Development for the National Victim Center. Seymour's speech, entitled"Changing Lives" focused on the challenges facing service providers as the victims' rights movement enters its third decade.

What Is Texas Main Street?

In most small Texas cities, the downtowns are in a serious state of decline. The automobile, suburban housing, and the growth of local and regional shopping centers and malls have greatly reduced the traditional role of Main Street as the principal center of economic activity, Many governments programs such as urban renewal and various city beautification programs have failed to halt the decline of Main Street.

In the last 11 years a new philosophy for revitalizing central business districts has evolved. The concept is simple: rehabilitation of existing structures capitalizing on the unique character of the buildings, coupled with development of progressive marketing and management techniques. Preservation and rehabilitation of historic commercial buildings provide the necessary image for area and serve as a unifying factor to encourage area merchants and building owners to reinvest in downtown. While this historic image can establish the tone of the revitalization effort, a commitment to a full-time program manager and utilization of progressive marketing and management techniques are critical elements in the Main Street

The Texas Main Street Program of the Texas Historical Commission works to bring the proven approach to downtown revitalization to towns across the state. Each year the program accepts applications for official designation to the program from cities with populations under 50,000. Up to five cities are selected annually. The cities are required to fund a full-time program manager who is employed by the city and reports to the city manager. Cities under 5,000 population qualify for the program by employing a half-time Main Street manager. In turn, the Texas Main Street Program works with each of these communities for three years, providing start-up assistance and developing more local initiative and expertise in the second and third year. Training and supervision of the local program manager is provided as well as professional assistance and supervision in design, restoration, marketing, parking, and other areas where the community does not have local expertise.

Flu Season Is Approaching

Both influenza A and influenza B could circulate during the 1992-1993 flu season, and people in high risk groups should get vaccinated early.

The influenza strains expected to dominate this season are A/Texas (H1N1), B/Panama and B/Qingdao, said Dr. W. Paul Glezen, epidemiologist at the Influenza Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

A/Texas and B/Panama are covered by the 1992-1993 vaccine. B/Qingdao is not included in the vaccine, Glezen said, but is closely related to B/Panama. The Similarity will provide vaccine protection during what is expected to be mild to moderate season.

influenza variants are named according to where they were first identified. The A/Texas strain was originally isolated in October 1991 by Baylor's Flu Center.

"People in high risk group should get vaccinated soon, Glezen said, "in case this season's outbreak occurs early."

Flu usually appears in early or mid December and peaks in january and February, but the 1991-1992 epidemic began earlier.

In most areas, the vaccine should already be available at physicians' offices and community health centers. It takes two weeks for a flu shot to provide full protec-

The people most at risk of flu complications are the elderly as well as people with heart disease; lung disease, including asthma and chronic bronchitis; diabetes; chronic kidney disease; chronic anemia, including sickle cell disease; and immune-system disorders.

Also recommended for vaccination are care-givers likely to come in contact with those in the other high-risk groups.

Influenza produces fever, generalized muscle pain, weakness, and a dry, hacking cough. Victims should rest and drink liquids.

In treating symptoms, people younger than 21 should use only aspirin-free pain relievers. Aspirin has been associated with Reye's syndrome, a flu and chicken pox complication that can cause vomiting, convulsions, brain damage and death in children.

Amantadine, an antiviral drug, will provide specific treatment for influenza A infections; however, it is not effective for influenza B. Treatment should be started within 48 hours after symptoms begin.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for optional Custom Calling Services and Touch-tone service, effective March 15, 1993, unless otherwise

These proposed rates will not increase or decrease the Company's overall revenues; the net effect will be neutral to the Company's annual revenues The Company proposes to decrease the rates for Touch-tone service for residential customers from $1.00 to 68 cents, and also to reduce the Touch-tone rates for business customers from $1.75 to $1.70. In addition, the Touch-tone rates for business PBX trunks will be reduced from $3.15 to $2.18. This proposal to decrease the rates for Touch-tone service does not change the commitment that the Company made in the Docket No. 8585 Stipulation to reduce the rates for Touch-tone service in 1993. The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three Way Calling, Speed Calling-8 and Speed Calling-30. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

Most of the Company's residence and business customers who subscribe to Custom Calling Features and Touch-tone service will be affected by the proposed

It is expected that the restructuring of Custom Calling Features will result in a rate increase for approximately 2.9 million residence customers and 280,000 business customers. The reduction in rates for certain Custom Calling Services and Touch-tone Service will affect approximately 4.3 million residence customers and 1.7 million business customers.

This rate restructuring is expected to have a "revenue-neutral" effect on the Company's annual revenues. The proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $19.8 million; while the reduction in Touch-tone rates will decrease the Company's annual revenues by

Theme Park Planned Near Palo Duro Canyon

A meeting was held, September 29, 1992 in the executive Room on the lower level of the First National Bank in Amarillo, with representatives of OMNIS Corporation from Los Angeles, California.

Jim Ishi, President of OMNIS, and Chuck Stabe, the company's financial analyst was on hand to answer questions and to explain the plans being developed from the unique theme park concept planned for development near Palo Duro Canyon.

The Los Angeles based firm has developed an international reputation for its development of theme parks and other leisure projects. In addition to work for Disneyland and other projects across the United States, the Company has worked on projects in Japan and Korea.

Neil Hess, well-known Amarillo residents and director of the Lone Star Ballet and the Musical "Texas", is one of the principles in The Great Frontier, Inc., the corporation established to pursue development and construction of the park. Several area residents are involved with the project, which is planned in three phases with an estimated completion cost of slightly more than $100 million.

"This project will have a tremendous impact on the Panhandle, not only economically, but also culturally and artistically," said Nona Barnett, Amarillo Civic leader and patron of the arts.

"Economically, it will help boost tourism in this area and complement existing attractions, museums and activities to help position this area as a major destination point for tourists, travelers and conventions," added Jeff Baird, a local attorney who has been involved with the project.

According to Hess, "It also will provide a venue for further development and enhancement of the arts in this region." Work on development of "The Great Frontier" began about three years ago. Feasibility studies have been completed and the project is moving into the master plan phase of development. Hess described the planned park as a combination of the best offerings of San Antonio, Texas, Santa Fe, N.M., Bronson, Mo., and Disneyland. Preliminary drawings completed for the project depict development of the theme park areas are based on the influences of Native Americans, Mexicans and the American Cowboy in the development of the Texas

Heavy emphasis will be placed on live entertainment, including fully developed dramas, musicals and other performance arts. Adventure rides, a water park and extensive hand-on activities for children also are included in plans for the proposed park.

Provisions have been made to accommodate concerts and the completion of a major hotel on the site should draw conventions to the

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has asked the Public. Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to offer new optional ID) and Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR).

Caller ID is a new optional phone service which allows subscribers to see the phone number and/or name of most local calls before they answer the phone. Caller ID also allows the recording of the date, time, name and/or phone number of calls. Currently, Caller ID would work only on most local calls, not long distance calls. It would also require that a separate display unit be connected to the telephone. These units that attach to the telephone will be available from various retail vendors, including Southwestern Bell, at a cost starting at approximately $50.

Southwestern Bell is also proposing that all customers be able to "block," or stop their name/number from being transmitted and displayed on a Caller ID device, free of charge. You would have this option of "blocking" your name/number on each call free of charge. There would be no need to subscribe to this service. All customers would have this capability when Caller ID is introduced in their area.

If you want to block your name or number, you need only press *67 on your touch-tone pad (or dial 1167 from a rotary phone) before dialing the telephone number. The person you're calling would see displayed a message such as "private" or "anonymous" on their Caller ID display unit.

Southwestern Bell also proposes that qualified domestic violence and law enforcement groups have the option of free per-line blocking, or free per-call blocking.

Anonymous Call Rejection (ACR or "block the blocker") allows subscribers to automatically reject all calls that have been marked anonymous, or "blocked" by the person calling. It is not necessary to subscribe to Caller ID Name/Number to subscribe to ACR. With ACR, your telephone will not ring if the person calling you has "blocked" his/her name or number. The person calling whose identification is blocked will receive a message to hang up and call back with caller identification unblocked. Following are the proposed monthly rates for Caller ID and ACR.

Proposed Rates (monthly)	Residence	Business
Calling Number only	$6.50	$ 8.50
Calling Name only	$6.50	$ 8.50
Calling Name & Number	$8.00	$12.00
Anonymous Call Rejection	$3/$1	$3/$1

* These rates are in addition to the initial installation charges and monthly basic service rate. For residence customers, installation charges are $2.70 per feature, with a maximum charge of $5.40. For business customers, the charges are $5.40 per feature, with a maximum charge of $10.75.

** Anonymous Call Rejection is $3 per month if purchased without Caller ID and is $1 per month when purchased with Caller ID Name or

A Brief History of the J.A.

Reprinted in part from The Clarendon News 1932

In 1876 Charles Goodnight of Colorado decided to drive his cattle, a herd of 1800 head, to the Palo Duro Canyon. He, with the three Dyer brothers and a few helpers, started on the long journey on July 4, and following the old Indian trail arrived on the caprock between the canyon Blanco and the main Palo Duro canyon in November. The descent was so abrupt and steep they were compelled to unload the wagons and take them to pieces and let them down into the valley below with ropes. At that time the nearest settlement was Henric ta, two hundred miles away.

Charles Goodnight, the first white settler in the Panhandle holds a most prominent place in the history of the development of this country. After getting his cattle and men well established for t the winter, he returned to Colorado to make arrangements to bring his wife to their home the following summer. While in Colorado, Goodnight met John Adair and they formed a partnership, Adair furnished the money to buy land, and Goodnight having the management of the ranch, to be known as the J.A.

Just one year from the time Goodnight started with his first herd of cattle to the Palo Duro canyon, he was ready to make the second trip accompanied by Mrs. Goodnight, Mr. and Mrs. Adair, a number of cowboys, four loads of freight supplies and building material, and one hundred head of high grade Durham bulls. Mrs. Goodnight drove one of the wagons all the way, and Mrs. Adair rode a horse the entire four hundred miles from Trinidad, Colorado to Palo Duro canyon. The trip was not without its hardships; they were three days without water for the stock; and they had one fright from what they thought were Indians in the distance, but this Goodnight explained to them was but a patch of beargrass in a mirage.

Goodnight, in describing his second entrance into Palo Duro canyon said, "We crossed the upper Palo Duro, coming more south by east until we were opposite the old Home Ranch. All hands were put to road building, keeping all the outfit within rifle range. We reached the mesa, which overlooked the entire canyon, on the third day. The large park below us held some thousand or fifteen hundred buffaloes grazing at sundown."

Goodnight found that Col. Jot Gunter of San Antonio had put in a blanket survey covering the whole section of country he had planned to use for his ranch. He bought 12,000 acres from Gunter and contracted for 12,000 acres more the next year. The land was surveyed in such a way that over sixty miles of the Palo Duro canyon is on the J.A. Ranch. The first 12,000 acres bought was located in Donley County, with headquarters south of Washburn on what is now known as E.D. Harroll place. The headquarters remained there until 1879, when it was move to Palo Duro, the present location.

In the years 1885-1886, L.E. (Shan) Atteberry carried the mail to the J.A. Ranch from Old Clarendon in a buckboard, with Spanish ponies, reaching the ranch at noon, changing teams, then on to Quitaque Ranch, located about seven miles beyond the present town of Quitaque. He spent the night there and with fresh horses made the return trip in like manner.

Another danger of the early days was the outlaw and rustler. As there was no county government, the better class citizens form the Canadian on the north to the Matador ranches on the south, met to see what could be done. At Mobeetie in 1880, a permanent organization was established, known as the Panhandle Stock Association, with Goodnight as its first President. The first few years it was very hard to get a conviction in the court, which was held in Wheeler County.

When the J.A. Ranch was first established, Trinidad, Colorado was the nearest place to obtain supplies. These were hauled by ox-freight, which cost one cent per hundred pounds for one mile. Later the supplies came from Dodge City, Kansas and still later Colorado City, Texas. When the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad was built to Wichita Falls it was the trading point. In 1887 Clarendon became and is still the source of obtaining supplies. The first wire fences were built by Mr. Henry W. Taylor in 1882, on the north boundary of the J.A. Ranch.

The J.A. Ranch, now reduced to four hundred thousand acres is the best equipped an most favorably situated of all the ranches o the Southwest. The headquarters, ideally located in Armstrong County just at the foot of the caprock, is surrounded on the south and west by a series of hills, to the north and east it ever looks at a beautiful flat. The headquarters is composed of the following buildings: The Big House, bunk house, bookkeeper's home, wagon-boss' house, Delco lighthouse, garage, blacksmith shop, and the wagon yard. The Big House was the old Adair Home. It is a large two-story structure of nineteen rooms, four of which are the old log house built by Charles Goodnight of logs cut in the canyon when he first established the headquarters here in 1879.

Some of the men employed on the J.A. Ranch in an early day were: Henry Taylor, Joe Horn, Charlie Johnson, Mitch Bell, Theo Crabtree, Charlie Murphy, Charlie Heisler, Charlie Phillips, Tom McFarland, Jeff Campbell, Wint Bairfield, Will Terrell, Vince Terry, Jack Hall, George Doshier, Harry Piercy, Charlie Parks and Ed Carlson. Dick Walsh was manager a number of years and Whit Carhart, bookkeeper.

Thank You

We would like to say a very special "Thank you" to Virinia Patton and everyone at The Grocery Store for the lovely lunch they brought for our new pastor and family, The Robert Burns, and for all the helpers and for all the helpers at the Parsonage, Saturday.

It was such a nice and thoughtful thing to do, and enjoyed by all. We appreciated it so much, plus all the other nice things you all do to help others. You sure make
