Judge orders city to pay up

McCoy's decision requires Clarendon to compensate Williams $88,000 for repairs

The City of Clarendon has been ordered to pay the sum of more than $88,000 to a local contractor for work done during the rehabilitation of US 287 two years ago.

The judgment signed by District Judge David McCoy on September 14 says the city is bound to compensate Roy Williams for repairing a section of brick paving on First Street.

"I'm happy with the judge's decision," Williams said Tuesday morning. "I believe he's saying that I was right all along."

When US 287 was rehabilitated, the Texas Department of Transportation required the removal of water and sewer lines running under Second Street. As part of the relocation, ditches were dug along two blocks of First Street from Kearney to Jefferson. Williams says he replaced 77,684 bricks to cover the ditches and repair the street.

According to the "Findings of Fact" from Judge McCoy, Williams' work was "authorized by the City of Clarendon by and through its City Superintendent Jim Roberts and/or the then mayor, Steve Smith."

The work lasted for nine months from October 1996 to June 1997, Williams said. The ditches were filled and shaped; then a bed of sand was put down. Four to five inches of concrete with rebar were laid on top of that, and then another one-inch bed of sand was put down for the bricks to sit on. The cracks were filled with a mixture of sand and cement.

Williams' said he billed the city for $78,772.50 for more than 4,200 hours of labor put in by him and some part-time help. The city reportedly paid Williams $6,800 and purchased some of his material.

Mayor Tex Selvidge could not be reached for comment Tuesday morning, but the Amarillo Daily News quotes the mayor regarding the ruling.

"It wasn't the decision we would have liked, but I think Judge-McCoy did the best he could with what was introduced at the trial. We'll be talking about it at our next meeting," the mayor told an Amarillo reporter.

In past meetings of the Board of Aldermen, city officials have indicated that they felt Williams' work was going to be paid for by the state as part of the renovation of US 287.

While Williams is happy with the ruling, he says the judgment cannot compensate him for the business he has lost due to the conflict with the city.

"The repercussions have hurt me financially," he said, "but something is better than nothing. I was right and I feel comfortable in what I charged because I know what the work is worth."

Judge McCoy's "Findings of Fact" would add $5,000 if the city should appeal his decision and lose and would add another $2,500 if the city takes the case to the Texas Supreme Court and loses.

Cookoff to be held Saturday

The fifth annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff is set for this Saturday, September 25, on the grounds of the Saints' Roost Museum, and museum officials are looking for a big turnout.

In addition to the fun-filled day of family activities and Western nostalgia, this year's event boasts something new - free admission. There will be no gate fee, and the museum board is hoping that will bring out a big crowd.

"We hope the free admission will draw a larger crowd from Clarendon and Donley County," cookoff committee member Judi Synek said. "We want them to come out and see what we have to offer."

Sixteen wagons are registered to compete for top prizes this year, and trade booths have been reserved for eleven Western exhibitors, including Kenneth Wyatt Galleries and Leon Parks Custom Knives, as well as local artisans such as silversmith Jack Craft and potter Frank Howell.

"I'm really excited about this year's cookoff," said museum president Ruth Robinson. "Judi has done a fantastic job, and the nicest surprise has been the support shown by the Chamber of Commerce, the Economic Development Corporation, the City of Clarendon, and the Donley County Commissioners' Court."

This year's cookoff will also be attracting statewide attention. Representatives from Texas Highways are expected to be on hand to take pictures and do a story on the event.

The gate opens Saturday at 8 a.m., and the Chamber of Commerce will provide breakfast and lunch concessions. The tradeshow opens at 10 a.m. Museum tours will be available throughout the day and will be conducted by the Clarendon High School Junior Historians.

Entertainment will begin at 11:00 a.m. and performances are scheduled all day. Performing groups will include: The Rimrockers from Claude, featuring Don and Joe Minkley, Scott Pepper, Kent Watson, Karen Walters, and Glen Spiller along with Rooster Morris from Nara Visa, NM; the Tall Grass Prairie Strings, featuring Chet Calcote, Joe Gillis, and Jean Warren from Amarillo; Jimmy Burson from Silverton; and the Saints' Roost Band from Clarendon.

The authentic Chuckwagon supper will be served at 5:00 p.m. Supper tickets are $10 per plate, and may be purchased or reserved at the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce office at 806/874-2421 or at Henson's at 806/874-3517.

All proceeds will benefit the Saints' Roost Museum, which is located just off Hwy 70 South on the grounds of the former Adair Hospital.

The event is just one of two annual fundraisers for the museum, according to Robinson.

"The money we raise helps us keep the museum doors open and pay for our operating expenses," she said. "Hopefully we can also raise enough to keep working toward our goal of restoring the old depot building."

VFW to sponsor Voice of Democracy essay contest

Commander James Owens of Donley County Memorial Post #7782 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States announced the start of this year's VFW and Ladies Auxiliary "Voice of Democracy Scholarship Contest."

Local students have the opportunity to compete in the 53rd annual audio essay contest.

"Voice of Democracy" is the VFW's and its Ladies Auxiliary premier youth scholarship program. Open this year to all student in the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades, it provides more than $2.5 million annually in awards and scholarships.

Created in 1947, the contest gives students a chance to extol the virtues of democracy and experiment with the technologies of radio broadcasting.

Today, thousands of students participate worldwide in each of VFW's 54 Departments. Those 54 Department winners all receive a trip to Washington, DC, for a tour of historic landmarks in the nation's capital. While there, they compete for $132,000.00 in national college scholarships, including a $20,000 first prize.

VOD's format requires contestants to write and record a 3-5 minute essay on audiocassette based on that year's theme. Each year's theme is based on some aspect of democracy. This year the theme is America's Role for the Next Century.

Inquiries can be made through the Clarendon or Hedley High School offices or you may contact VOD Chairman Bill Holden at 874-3813.

Remember all entries must be received by November 1, 1999.

Speaker pulls out of Borger banquet after story runs

By David Stevens
Southwest News Services

A Vietnam veteran scheduled to speak at last Saturday's POW-MIA banquet in Borger canceled the appearance amid allegations that he had misrepresented his military background.

Larry Barnett of Fritch, who arranged for Ray Jennings of El Paso to speak at the banquet, said he received a fax from Jennings on Tuesday, September 14, canceling the appearance.

"He said ... he didn't like to come to a place where he wasn't welcome," Barnett said.

Barnett, a local chapter president of Vietnam Veteran's of America, said Jennings received an anonymous letter that read, "Please do not come, you're not welcome." Barnett said Jennings believed the message was meant to discourage him from speaking in Borger. Jennings' fax also said he was experiencing medical problems, another reason he was canceling his appearance.

Barnett said he had been unable to contact Jennings since receiving the fax.

A press release sent to area newspapers earlier this month described Jennings as a former member of the U.S. Special Forces in South Vietnam. It also said Jennings had received the Distinguished Service Cross, a medal awarded for heroism second only to the Medal of Honor. Barnett said all of the information in the press release was supplied by Jennings.

Bob Jack, a Special Forces veteran who tracks members of the elite Army group, said he began looking into Jennings' background after receiving a copy of a story about the Borger banquet that was published in The Clarendon Enterprise.

Jack, a retired Staff Sgt., who lives in Williamsburg, Va., said terminology in the story initially caused him to question Jennings' military service history.

Jack said he then conducted research that disputes Jennings' claims. Some of that research, he said, includes Jennings' military service records obtained by members of the Benavidez-Patterson All Airborne Chapter in El Paso in 1998. The records show that Jennings could not have been a member of Special Forces, Jack said.

"I have reached conclusions that he was never in Special Forces," Jack said. "He is a wannabe." Jack said Jennings' name also is never included on heavily researched comprehensive lists of Distinguished Service Cross winners.

"Every human being is guilty until proven innocent in this country. I served two tours in Vietnam and won numerous awards. Just print that," Jennings said.

Jack said he has tried to contact Jennings, but messages left with friends and on Jennings' home telephone have not been returned. Jack said he believes Jennings knows that his background is being questioned.

Barnett said he does not know if Jennings misrepresented his service record, but he is disappointed the con-

Politics of grief spurred onward by senseless act

The politics of grief continues unhampered. This time the cry "to do something to prevent tragedies like this" follows on the heels of a shooting spree in Ft. Worth which left seven innocent people dead.

Leading the charge in the rush to ban guns is none other than America's top crybaby, Sarah Brady.

Readers may remember that Brady's husband, Jim, was a member of President Reagan's staff who took a bullet in the head during the 1981 assassination attempt.

Ever since then, Mrs. Brady has tirelessly worked toward the dismantlement of the Second Amendment protection of the right to bear arms. From waiting periods to banning certain types of firearms, Sarah Brady has been right there in the fore front.

This week, a Reuters story on abcnews.com quotes Brady as saying, "The shooting can only renew the nation's anguish and outrage at the cowardice of elected officials who blame everything for the carnage - except the guns that are the common denominator for every shooting."

Brady misses another common denominator present at every single shooting - people. Crazy people. Deranged people. Hateful people. Evil people.

As far as I know, there has not yet been a reported case where a gun walked out of someone's house, went down the street, entered a school or church or business, and started killing people under its own power. Believe you me, if guns were indeed doing that, I'd be right there with Mrs. Brady trying to wipe them from the face of the Earth.

But since guns are inanimate objects, we must look at the other common denominator when trying to pin the blame for these sad happenings. We should take steps to punish and correct the people who commit these crimes rather than the trying to rid ourselves of the tools they used. In looking at this nutcase in Ft. Worth, one has to wonder why this lunatic wasn't institutionalized years ago.

The responsibility for criminal acts lies with the criminals. Justice will not be served by limiting or restricting the freedoms of the innocent majority. America should not attempt to limit freedom while blinded by the grief borne of a senseless tragedy. As for Sarah Brady, after 18 years, it's way past time for someone to stand up and tell her to get over it.

Here we go again...

Impeached president Billy Jeff Clinton is at it again. Now our Liar-In-Chief is waging a war of words in an effort to defuse any public support of the Republican's minuscule tax cut bill. And, in typical fashion, Billy has pulled out his trump card - "It's all for the children."

In Saturday's weekly radio address, little Billy said the mean old GOP tax cut would result in "the worst cuts in education in our history." He said, if passed, the Republican proposal would result in a 50 percent cut in education spending over the next 10 years.

"If the Republicans send me a bill that doesn't live up to our national commitment to education, I won't hesitate to veto it," Clinton said.

Our national commitment to education? I hate to bring this up again - after all I only explained it two weeks ago - but there is no "national commitment to education." If this man had ever read the Constitution, he would know that education is a duty to be performed by the states. Clinton, however, has other uses for that esteemed document other than reading it or honoring it. He generally just blows his nose on it or wipes his feet on it.

The impeached president also claimed that the tax cut might lead to 5,000 of the teachers hired through his class-size initiative program being laid off. Oh, now that would be a shame. What the devil are the federalies doing in the business of hiring teachers? Don't teachers work for local school districts?

If Americans continue to buy into these bleeding-heart, all-for-the-children programs, they will see their freedoms eventually slip through their fingers. As our government, it usurps the powers first of the states then of the people.

Eventually, the Constitution itself will be rendered impotent and irrelevant in the face of an all-powerful extra-constitutional government.

In this instance I wish Clinton were telling the truth. The federal government's current role mucking around in education is unconstitutional, and if the members of Congress had any gumption, they would zero-out the entire Department of Education and return that whole sum to the taxpayers. That isn't going to happen unfortunately.

As for the tax cut bill, it should be signed into law. It doesn't amount to a hill of beans in the grand scheme of things. It just throws some crumbs to the peasants. But if by some miracle it actually reduces the size of the government, Americans will be better off.

Suicidal maniacs, don't take others with you

Years ago, if a person wanted to commit suicide, he just hurt himself and his family. Now, if you want to kill yourself, it's trendy to take a few folks along with you.

It has become such a problem that some experts are calling it death by police. This is how it works: A person who can't work up the nerve to pull the trigger provokes police by committing an illegal act. Then law officers are forced to defend themselves from deadly fire by shooting at the suicidal maniac. In the end, the person who wanted to die is killed without ever having to turn the gun on himself.

Many suicide persons kill others so that the police are forced to shoot to kill.

This new trend is sick and gutless.

Don't take me as an advocate for suicide, but if you are set on doing it, then do it alone. Think about your family. It would be easier on them to bury one person, instead of living with the stigma of having a mass murderer in the family.

on the Mark with Christi Ross

Just last week, a very ill man decided to end his life in Ft. Worth. But before he pointed the trigger at himself, he gunned down seven others at a Wednesday night worship service in a Baptist Church.

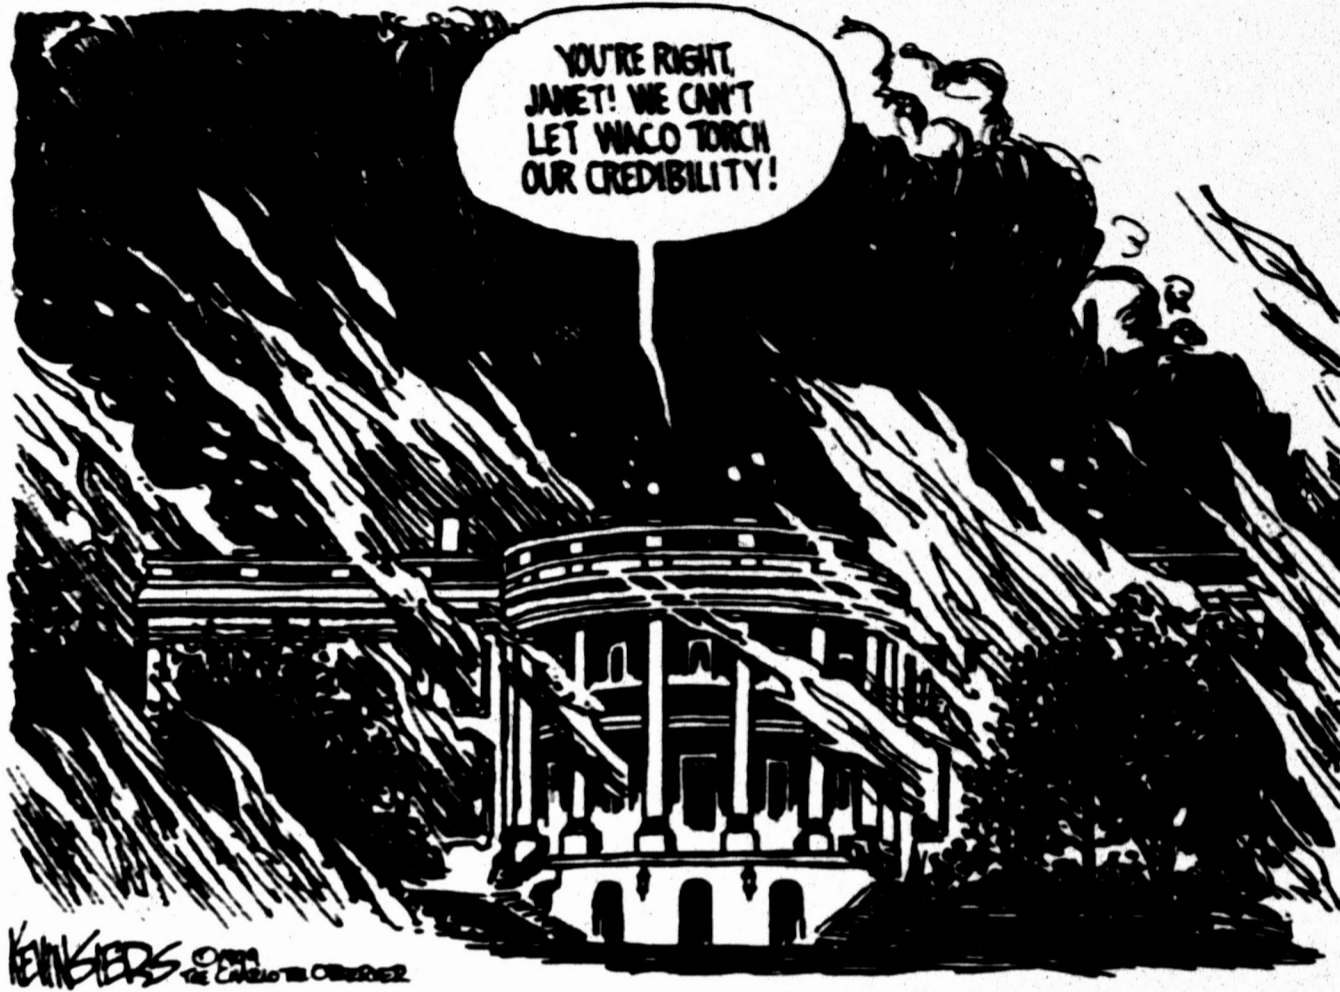

This man chose to end his demented life but first snuffed out the promising futures of four teenagers and three adults. In one moment, seven innocent people went from praying to God to meeting him on their way to Heaven. The only thing the gunman got was a one-way ticket to the fiery depths of Hell.

I'm sick and tired of reading news articles about incidents like the Ft. Worth church shootings or Columbine High School or the Atlanta day trader killing spree.

Suicide is the weak way out. It takes guts to seek out counseling or some type of profession help. And help is what I recommend to anyone considering ending it all.

If you are beyond being talked out of a self-inflicted death and you want to leave this world in a blaze of glory, don't go on a shooting rampage and kill innocent, life-loving people. Instead, invest your last moments into doing something good for someone. Then, just maybe, you'll realize what life is worth.

Congress nearing agreement on HMO bill

It has been six years since the Clinton Administration tried to impose a massive, government-run health care system on our country.

A lot has changed since that time. One of the biggest changes has been in the number of people who now get their health care through an HMO.

As of 1997, over 160 million Americans were in some kind of managed care plan. With that figure rising each day, some are concerned about making sure that medical decisions are made by patients and doctors according to what's in the best interest of the patient.

issue Update with Rep. Mac Thornberry

I'm not about to support any plan that imposes a socialized medicine bureaucracy on America. But I do believe that a bill may be needed to protect the rights of patients in managed care plans.

Among other things, such a bill should give people the right to choose their own doctor and hold their HMO accountable for the decisions it makes. Such a bill must also take into account the important fact that health insurance is already expensive, and that adding more mandates which increase the cost makes it harder for people to afford coverage.

A number of bills have been introduced in Congress attempting to strike the right balance. While none of these bills is perfect, I hope an agreement on the issue will be reached and that a patient protection plan that is responsible and will truly make a difference will be passed and signed into law.

VFW celebrating one hundred years of service

By Bill Holden

Today we celebrate 100 years of achievement, service, dedication, commitment, concern, and patriotism. Today we celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

The VFW is more than just a veterans organization; it's a rallying force for all Americans. Through our programs and projects, we serve veterans, their families, our communities, and our nation.

We address the major issues of our times through a dynamic legislative program and provide congress with information on what veterans need in the way of entitlements. And as an organization, we move that legislation through Congress and onto the President's desk.

Through our national security and foreign affairs program we work to ensure that America has a strong national defense and a firm foreign policy. As veterans, we do not want to see what was won at great cost in wartime lost in peacetime.

Through our many projects, we meet the needs of our times. When the troops were sent to Operations Desert Shields and Desert Storm, the VFW was there to send them gift packages through our operation Hometown. And when those troops returned, we were there to meet them in our Operation Homecoming. These two projects carried on a tradition of care and concern for those on active duty that goes back to our founding in 1899.

Today as we celebrate our first 100 years, we stand on the threshold of our next century of service. We will build the legacy for the next 100 years of VFW history. We hope and pray that we can be as successful in our time as our founders were in 1899.

Clarendon helps raise funds for Muscular Dystrophy telethon

Dear Editor:

The people of Clarendon have done it again! They really pulled for us this year and helped make the 1999 Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon a winner with $53.1 million in pledges and contributions.

By taking parting local MDA events, by calling in pledges to the Telethon broadcast on KFDD-TV Channel 10, by helping "my kids" in other ways, CLARENDON ENTERPRISE readers have made a huge difference for families throughout Texas and across the nation.

They've helped speed MDA-funded research around the globe. Moreover, they've helped maintain the national network of clinics that resulted in MDA becoming the first organization honored by the American Medical Association with a Lifetime Achievement Award "for significant and lasting contributions to the health and welfare of humanity."

In Texas, MDA has 18 clinics offering the best in patient care.

For making the 1999 MDA Telethon a bell-ringer, thanks, Clarendon.

Jerry Lewis
National MDA Chairman

DEAR CLARENDON ENTERPRISE:

Thanks for the yellow reminder regarding the subscription to you. I kept putting off writing "Tomorrow Morning" ohh dear "I'll write it tonight."

When I moved to Clarendon in 1972, the pictures in the paper were usually horrible. Hooray that they are so much better. Congrats on the articles by Mac Thornberry and Peggy Watt regarding Hedley. I used to play the organ at First Methodist Church in Hedley. Peggy led the singing. Hi, Peggy. I don't believe I know Cynthia Hall, but Joe and I lived in Howardwick for 20 years, and I so enjoy reading about the happening there. "Hi" to Howardwick friends whom I still miss.

Thanks ENTERPRISE, I learned that in the September 2, 1999, edition you pictured the class officers. Most are strangers to me, but I recall Catherine Chamberlain, the sophomore I knew and the freshman I know Kelsey McQueen. (The latter are from Howardwick - Hooray).

AND, ENTERPRISE, I know what is going on at Senior Citizens (hi there!) and the new preacher at First Methodist Church, Rev. Edwards, I knew and loved them all when they lived there in earlier years. God bless you and the girls.

I now live in a retirement center in Lawton, Oklahoma, and have been here just a little over one year. I can no longer afford to keep my car, but I drive (in town, out of town, wherever) for a gentleman who is in a wheelchair or on crutches. And I still play piano for Sunday afternoon church service here in Ten Oaks.

New columnist looking for Clarendon's news

As a new member of the Clarendon community, I was hesitant about offering to write a column about community activities. After all, I've only been here a month. Many Clarendon residents have been here their entire lives. I don't know many people, and those I do know, I have trouble remembering their names or whether I've even met them before.

But I kept reading about the doings in Hedley and in Howardwick and thought Clarendon ought to have the same recognition. And what better way to get to know the community than to write about what people are doing?

However, I am going to have to count on you, the citizens of Clarendon, to keep me up to date. I can learn what the college is doing and what's going on at the Junior High and at the First Baptist Church, since my own life is wrapped up in those institutions. But I want to know what is happening with the Methodists, and the Presbyterians, and the other churches. How did St. Mary's day go at St. Mary's Catholic Church?

Which grades are performing at the elementary school PTA program? (Flash: The third grade has the November program.) Is the high school doing a fall play? Who's in it? Who has come to visit, and who has gone on an exciting trip? Or even a boring trip? The rest of Clarendon wants to know, so if you tell me, then I can tell them.

Here's what I know already: Chance McClaren, the Clarendon Junior High 7th-grader who broke his leg in football practice, got to come home last week, and if he does what the doctor ordered, he may be able to return to school next week. Stay in bed, Chance, mind the doctor, and heal that leg. We want to see you up and around again. And the rest of you boys, don't get hurt. I don't want Robert describing your injuries to me. He gets way too graphic.

Tuesday, the Clarendon College Board of Directors held a reception honoring Dr. Myles Shelton and his wife Gail (a.k.a. me), to introduce us to the community. Over punch, fresh fruit, cheese, and some really excellent cookies and hors d'oeuvres, we talked with Dr. Gilkey, Tommie and Lucy Saye, Delbert Robertson, Jack Moreman, Ruth Robinson, Doug and Martha Lowe (our neighbors across the street), Mike Butts, Cenett Rhode,

When did rude behavior become acceptable?

I'm hearing a lot of news about "rage" these days. It seems that everybody who does something they're ashamed of, or commits a terrible crime against someone else, is blaming it on some kind of rage.

The other day I was in a local store. There were two people ahead of me in the check out line. A man and woman got in line behind me, and he immediately began to complain.

"What's the hold up? We're going to be here all day. Can't we move it along any faster?"

I glanced at him and saw he was holding a bottle of shampoo. I really doubt if he was in an emergency situation involving shampoo. Yet, he continued to be abrasive and loud, although the checkout clerk was doing the best they could. I stepped out of line and told the guy he could go ahead of me, and he was obviously in a terrible hurry and I wasn't.

His wife said, "Thanks. He always acts like this."

Excuse me!?!? Since when did rude behavior become so acceptable? I'll tell you - since we started blaming our actions on everything or everyone but ourselves.

This guy must have had a traumatic experience in the local variety store as a child, right? It affected him so deeply, that he is now compelled to be hostile whenever he has to stand in line somewhere. Yeah...right!

Why didn't his wife just say, "You will have to excuse my husband because he is a loud, obnoxious, self-centered idiot."

You all remember hearing about the lady over in England who killed her husband and blamed it on PMS, don't you? That's right - she told the judge that she had PMS at the time of the killing and therefore was not responsible for her actions.

What she should have said was, "Your honor, he dropped his dirty underwear on the floor one too many times, and I snapped. Yes sire, I'm guilty, and I'm ready to take my punishment."

Then there's Road Rage - the all-American favorite for driving like a maniac.

"Yes officer, I did ram Mr. Smith's car five times and run him off the road, but you see, I suffer from Road Rage."

Psychiatrists all over the country are making a killing off people being treated for rages of all kinds. Something is very wrong here.

When I was growing up, "rage" was not tolerated. If I got angry and whacked my little brother on top of the head with whatever was handy, justice was swift.

"Why did you whack your little brother on top of the head?" one or both parents would ask.

"I don't know."

"You know what's going to happen now, don't you?"

Yes maam...I surely did!

It never crossed my mind to tell them that my actions were due to Sibling Rage. I just admitted to the deed, took the punishment, and went on. When I think about all the things I could have gotten away with, if only I had blamed it on rage of one sort or the other...I could cry. All those excuses - wasted.

There wasn't any Rage Defense in the old west, either.

"Did you steal this horse?"

"Yep - you caught me."

"Can we borrow your rope?"

I'm not saying that people don't have bad things happen to them in their early years, I'm just saying it's

Sometimes everything goes wrong all at once

What do you do when everything goes wrong at once? For approximately a year, Su-San and I have planned a trip to Mississippi to visit my friends, Lora and Reuben Cleaveland. We left on Friday, September 3 and arrived there early Saturday morning. We spent the day visiting and on Sunday attended church at the Yazoo City Baptist Church. Everyone who's heard of Jerry Clower knows about Yazoo City.

Monday we spent driving around and seeing the sights in Vicksburg. Let me tell you the people in Mississippi know about good food. I didn't eat a thing that I was supposed to all the time I was there.

Tuesday we went into Greenwood to enjoy more food.

We left Wednesday and drove to Kaufman and spent the night with Fred's sister and brother-in-law, Virginia and Edwin Ayres...and more food.

Thursday we went on to Rochester, Texas, and spent the rest of the time with Lora's twin sister, Dora and Troy Brown. We came home Sunday. Lora and Dora Durham and I have been friends since I was in fifth grade at Hedley Schools, more years ago than I like to remember. We went to classes together, skipped classes together, played hooky together, spent the night with each other, and did all the things girls do together.

I was only blessed with brothers, and they filled the places of the sisters I wanted. I've treasured their friendship for more than fifty years.

When we got home things started to go wrong!

We were somewhere in Louisiana when Su-San asked me.

"What did you do about your newspaper copy?"

I told her not to worry; I'd mailed it before I left home. WRONG!

The first thing I saw when we got home was the copy, all stamped and ready to mail, along with my phone bill, my electric bill, insurance payment, and various other less important things, on the dining room table.

First thing Monday morning, I called the ENTERPRISE, explained the situation to Cheryl, and told her I'd bring the copy for next week later that day. WRONG!

I'd left my car at Johnny Davis' shop for repairs; and when I called to see if it was ready, he told me it would be Tuesday before I could get it. So I called Karen to come the first thing Tuesday morning so I could get the car and get the copy to the paper.

She did, but when she got to the house, there were some cattle on the right-of-way. By the time we got them in, and she'd fixed the fence, it was long past the deadline for the newspaper.

Late Monday evening, the phone company turned my phone off because my bill was late.

Wednesday when I went out to start my car, it wouldn't start. There I was, seven miles from town and no car, no phone, and almost out of groceries.

I was glad to see Keith when he got to my house Saturday morning. Things could have been a lot worse. I could have had an insulin reaction while I was stranded. Or something worse.

And while I was gone Keith and John Morrow put a pump on the well so I no longer have to depend on the vagaries of the wind for water. John put in a new pump that has a computer instead of a pressure switch. It only pumps when a faucet is turned on, one faucet it pumps a little water, two faucets, a little more, three...and so on. I don't understand computers, but it seems to work fine. The cattle have water, I have water, and I can water the yard and garden. All at once. Before, if the wind didn't blow, the water was rationed, with the cattle having first priority.

Johnny Davis washed my car while he had it, and I've had about 3.5 inches of rain since I've been home. I told you God would take care of the rain situation without raising taxes. All we had to do was ask.

The community was saddened by the death of Flora Sanders. She touched a lot of lives during her lifetime and will be missed. Our condolences to her family.

Remember, I need your news items. You can call me at 874-9186, or e-mail me at magys@ls.net. (That's a numeral one, not a lower case L.) I look forward to hearing from you.

Burton Memorial Library to hold book sale Oct. 16

Burton Memorial Library will disclose its immense "garage sale" Saturday, October 16. According to Carolyn and Barbara, library equipment and abundant supplies of books will be on sale all day, beginning at 8:00 a.m. Sounds like an event we won't want to miss. Agree?

Your library is so fortunate to have many concerned citizens who continue appreciated book contributions from personal libraries and purchases.

The Harry Potter young adult books, currently receiving rave reviews from parts of two continents, were purchased by Friends of the Library. Two of the three-book series are available for check out now. I have only skimmed The Sorcerer's Stone, the first of author J.K. Rowling's popular series. The initial pages quickly swept me into a fantasyland of wizards and unicorns where Harry Potter's unusual experiences involve all types of magical artistry. Time magazine, September 20 issue (available at the library), devotes several pages to this "international phenomenon."

Also recently received from individuals' home libraries, a large variety of paperbacks are noticeably displayed. Among this collection is The Chains of Sarai Stone by Texas born Cynthia Haseloff. In 1980, Haseloff was proclaimed as "one of today's most striking new Western writers."

Versatile Christian-fiction writer Lori Wick offers wholesome reading entertainment in Every Little Thing About You. The story amusingly begins with the arrest of former Texas Ranger Slater Rawlings by Liberty Drake, part-time deputy for her sheriff brother in Shotgun, Texas. (A woman deputy in 1881?) Events will delight readers as "Slater and Liberty struggle to understand their own feelings and find common ground in their beliefs. God's hand gently guides the way in this unpredictable, heartwarming romance."

Contemporary works of Rosamunde Pilcher, light mystery from Phyllis Whitney, suspense thrillers by Dick Francis, and Jeffrey Archer's fast-moving dramas embody four-book series in individual sets. Jessica Fletcher's and Donald Bain's mystery writings, basis for popular television series, Murder, She Wrote, comprise another appealing set.

Thanks again to all of you whose generous donations benefit reading pleasure for our entire community. Remember October 16. Why not check it out?

Usenet: world's largest bulletin board on the Internet

Part 1 of 2
By Eric Spellmann

Most of you have probably heard of the World Wide Web and E-mail (the two most popular uses of the Internet). However, the third most popular use of the Internet may surprise you: the Usenet.

Think of the Usenet as the world's largest bulletin board. While e-mail is one-to-one (You send one e-mail message to one person), the Usenet allows you to "post" a message that anyone on the Internet can read. Talk about power! With the 160 million or so people that have access to the Internet, that creates quite a lot of messages.

The Usenet was one of the first Internet tools (after e-mail) to be created. Back in the "old days" of the Internet, the primary users were government and college-based researchers. A way was needed for these scientists to share information in an online forum without filling up everyone's e-mail boxes.

Enter the Usenet. Basically, here's how it's laid out: The Usenet is actually subdivided into thousands of smaller bulletin boards called "newsgroups." Each newsgroup is devoted to a specific subject and contains all of the messages people post about that subject. The newsgroup names are cryptic looking, though. When the Usenet was first created, the researchers only needed a handful of newsgroups. They labeled them as biz, comp, misc, news, rec, sci, soc, talk, and alt. Each of these nine newsgroups existed for discussing certain topics, such as: biz—Business, comp—Computers and related subjects, misc—Discussions that don't fit anywhere else, news—News about Usenet itself, rec—Hobbies, games, and recreation, sci—Science other than research biology, soc—"Social" groups, often ethnically related, talk—Politics and related topics, alt—Controversial or unusual topics; not carried by all sites.

However, as more and more people started using the Internet (and the Usenet), these groups became too crowded. Subsets of these newsgroups were created to handle the various topics. For instance, the group "rec.humor" was created for general joke-telling and rec.humor.lawyers was for posting lawyer-specific jokes (a very busy place, let me tell you). Today, you'll find upwards of 70,000 newsgroups (with billions of messages) on the Internet.

Where are all the messages stored, you ask? No central repository exists for these messages. The traffic is too high. Each Internet Service Provider (ISP) has its own Usenet server at its facilities. When you post a message, it first gets posted at your ISP's server. That server, in turn, then sends copies of your message to other nearby Usenet servers, which, in turn, do the same, and so on, and so on. Eventually, your message is posted on every Usenet server in the world. This process takes roughly three days.

A variety of ways exist to access the Usenet. If you use Netscape, pull down your "Communicator" menu item and choose "Newsgroups." Then pull down the "File" menu and choose "Subscribe."

When you "subscribe" to a newsgroup, you are not sending any information to the server. Nor are you going to receive a bill in the mail. Think of "subscribing to newsgroups" as Usenet bookmarks stored on your PC. By subscribing to newsgroups, you can easily list just the groups you are interested in instead of having to scroll through the 70,000 or so groups every time.

In Internet Explorer, click the "Mail" toolbar button and choose "Read News." You'll be asked a series of questions about your provider. Your ISP should have given you a sheet with all of this information on it so that you could enter it.

In newsgroups, not everyone is a fast typist. Over the years, certain abbreviations have sprung up, replacing common phrases. For instance, if someone says, "TIA", they are saying "Thanks in advance." Here are some others: BTW - By the way, OTOH - On the other hand, IMHO - In my honest opinion, LOL - Laughing out loud (usually as the result of a joke).

Also, use emoticons. Emoticons are special characters put together that look like a face. The most common emoticon is the smiley. :))

Turn your head to the left to see what it looks like. Put smileys after particularly sarcastic statements. This will prevent anyone reading your posting from taking offense at your attempt at humor.

Next week, I'll discuss other places you can go for newfeeds and also how to download songs and pictures from this informational archive. See you in Cyberspace!

PCS agency receives state recognition

The Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs presented Panhandle Community Services with the state's largest merit award. PCS has led the state in receiving the award for the last six years. Executive Director Johnny Raymond and Deputy Director Phyllis Cook received the award while attending the Annual Executive Director's Conference held in San Antonio.

At the conference, Raymond was also presented a Lifetime Achievement Award for over 25 years of service to the people of the Texas Panhandle.

Criteria for selection of the merit award were PCS successful case management, operational efficiency, and transitioning welfare families out of poverty. The agency led the state in this role as the 15 local centers helped 346 families get out of welfare during the past year. The entire state transitioned just over 600 families out of poverty.

In accepting the awards, Raymond said, "Welfare reform is the new push from the federal and state governments. Our agency has been addressing welfare problems for 33 years, long before the federal mandate. Our Families in Training program has over 150 single parents in colleges throughout the Panhandle right now, and we're seeing an average salary of $22,108 a year as they complete their training."

PCS serves the largest geographic area of the state covering the 26 counties of the Panhandle. Organized in 1966, the community action agency provided assistance to 7,581 families this past year. Programs consist of rural transportation, weatherization, housing rental, emergency food assistance, vocational assessment/counseling, retired senior volunteers, homebuyer assistance, and information/referral services.

"This is for POW and MIA recognition," he said. "It's not a smear campaign."

Jim Boyd of Fort Worth, who said he edits a Texas Vietnam veteran's publication, said he has known Jennings since the early 1990s. He said Jennings was a past president of El Paso's Vietnam Veteran's of America chapter and that there is no question Jennings served two tours in Vietnam.

Boyd said he had never questioned Jennings' claims that he'd received the Distinguished Service Cross and was a member of Special Forces until talking with Jack.

Boyd said he asked Jennings about the allegations, and Jennings told him that efforts to discredit him were political and have been ongoing for several years.

Bob Chisolm, a member of the 82nd Airborne Division Association in El Paso, said his organization has been investigating Jennings' background for about two years.

Chisolm said Jennings appeared at a military event and raised suspicions when he declined to answer questions raised by members of the 82nd Airborne Division. The association then sought and received Jennings' military records from the army under the Freedom of Information Act.

Those records offer no evidence that Jennings ever qualified for the Special Forces, Chisolm said.

According to Jack, only about 5 percent of Army soldiers who attempted to attain Special Forces status were successful during the Vietnam War. Soldiers were required to pass stringent tests and then undergo six months to a year of special training before achieving the designation.

Jack said he attempts to expose those who falsely claim to be Special Forces members because they dishonor those who were members of the elite group.

"I have lost too many friends (in combat) to let these people claim to be something they're not and dishonor us with their stories," Jack said.

WTU: Coming seeking to recover fuel costs from customers

proximately 21.2 percent higher during the period from December 1999 through November 2000 than the levels upon which WTU's current fuel factors are based. To keep the increase in the overall cost of fuel and purchased power costs below the expected 21.2 percent increase in natural gas costs, WTU continues to take steps to reduce fuel costs including:

- Using coal generation to the fullest extent reasonably possible.
- Using purchased power when available at prices below the variable generation costs at WTU's gas-fired plants.

If approved, the proposed surcharge will increase the average monthly bill for a basic residential customer who uses 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity by approximately $1.84 or 2.5% during the six-month period from January through June 2000. The effect of the surcharge will vary depending on the rate schedule under which the customer takes service.

The proposed fuel factor will increase the average monthly bill by approximately $3.25 or 4.3% for residential customers who use 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month, beginning in December 1999.

A monthly electric bill is made up of two components that include the base rate plus a fuel charge. Senate Bill 7, the electric utility restructuring legislation that was recently passed by the Texas Legislature, required utilities to freeze their base rates, beginning September 1, 1999.

WTU's request for the fuel recovery surcharge and fuel factor increase are not a part of base rates. Utilities cannot raise base rates, however, the PUCT allows recovery of under-collected fuel costs, and adjustments to the fuel factor to more closely mirror estimated future costs.

When Bret Knocked The Power Out In South Texas, We Put Our Heads Together With Some Really Great People.

A Special Thanks From CPL.
Hurricane Bret did its best to knock the power out in South Texas. But Bret was no match for the restoration crews of Central Power and Light Company and our sister utilities, Southwestern Electric Power Company in East Texas and Louisiana and West Texas Utilities Company.

Thousands of our customers were affected when the storm hit. And the men and women of SWEPCO and WTU generously rushed to South Texas to join CPL in our recovery efforts.

They worked day and night - and got the power back on quickly and safely. So, to all the men and women at SWEPCO and WTU who worked so hard to get the power back on, thank you for showing us the real power...teamwork.

Sportsman Club forms for area marksmen

The Rolling Plains Sportsman Club held their first meeting September 14, 1999, in Memphis with 14 people present to organize the newly formed club.

Officers elected were Dwight Clayton, President; Mike Godfrey, First Vice President; Dan Hawthorne, Second Vice President; Bob Tribble, Secretary; and Mark White, Treasurer. Bylaws and Articles of Incorporation were approved. The Board and Officers will proceed with obtaining a Charter from the State of Texas as a non-profit organization and when that is received, apply to the IRS for a tax-exempt status.

Membership classes were also adopted. For those joining before January 1, 2000, the annual membership will be $25 per year (continuous membership). Lifetime memberships (paid before January 2000) will be $250. Approval was given for members to pay the Lifetime Membership in installments. After January 1, 2000, the annual membership will be $35.00 and the lifetime membership will be $350. Daily membership will be $5.00.

Membership is open to all individuals that may legally own and possess a firearm and/or archery equipment. Membership is not geographically limited, so all parties interested in the club are invited to join. A membership allows the member's immediate family to accompany him or her to the facility. As well, a member may have two out-of-town guests to accompany him/her to the facility. The guests must live more than 20 miles from Memphis.

Those associated with the project believe that the range will be useable shortly after the first of the year. The proposed range will be located just south of the City of Memphis on Sixth Street. The range will face the south, which is pastureland for several miles.

Current plans are for five pistol stations (50 yards), two 100-yard rifle stations, and two 200-yard rifle stations (200 yards). Archery will have two lanes. Trap and Skeet will have one station.

Space and plans will allow for expansion when funds are available. The club hopes to secure a grant to help with the construction of the project. They have identified sources for grants, and when tax-exempt status is obtained, they will proceed with the application for the grants. With charter membership (those before January 1, 1999) and work in kind, they are optimistic that they will be successful in obtaining a grant to help with the construction of the facility.

Plans are also being considered for an archery competition this fall.

Any interested party may contact Dwight Clayton, Mike Godfrey, Dan Hawthorne, Bob Tribble, or Mark White with their questions. You may also e-mail your questions to mwhite@firstmemphis.com with your questions or call 259-2808 after 6 p.m. Interested parties are invited to attend the next meeting on October 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the Bronze Room of the First Bank and Trust in Memphis.

Fourth grade class collects 500,000 tabs

Mrs. Hankins fourth grade class has reached the halfway mark of 500,000 on their way to seeing what 1,000,000 tabs look like. The class began collecting the tabs in September 1997.

These tabs are used to help with place value, volume, and other parts of math as well as in other subjects taught. After they reach 1,000,000, they hope to be able to use the tabs for a good cause that they are looking into. With the continued help and support of the community and area, they hope to reach their goal by the end of the school year 2002.

Boxes are placed around town for you to place your tabs, or you may bring them to the Elementary school.

Mrs. Hankins fourth grade class has finally reached the half way mark with 500,000 tabs collected. The project that started in 1997 hopes to reach its goal of 1,000,000 by 2002.

Lady Bulldogs take third in Vernon tourney

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs (2-6) placed third in pool play at the Vernon Regional Junior College Volleyball Tournament on September 17 and 18.

The Lady Dogs came in third behind Vernon Regional Junior College and Lon Morris College but also came away from the tournament with their first two wins of the season.

CC was defeated by Lon Morris College in the first game of pool play 8-15, 15-9, 6-15.

"We were not ready to play mentally in a match we should have won," said Denise Reed, CC head coach. "Ultimately this cost us getting into the single elimination tournament."

Sophomore Shayla Weatherly led the team with 9 points, 6 kills, 1 block, and 2 aces. Miranda Rollins also contributed 10 assists and 2 aces.

Also scoring were Miranda Rollins, 7; Jennifer Terry, 6; Lacey Lee, 5; Kristen Hohensee, 1; and Wendy Russ, 1.

The Lady Dogs then faced Cisco Junior College in the second game of pool play. CC won 15-8, 12-15, 17-16.

"This was the first win ever by the Clarendon College volleyball program," Reed said. "This is a pretty excited group of young ladies. Not always great play, but always great hustle and determination."

Kristen Hohensee led the Lady Dogs with 9 points, 12 kills, and 4 blocks. Miranda Rollings also came in with 16 assists, 7 points, 2 kills, and 2 aces.

Other scoring were Lacey Lee, 8; Wendy Russ, 8; Shayla Weatherly, 7; and Jennifer Terry, 5.

CC earned their second win against Cedar Valley College 15-6, 5-15, 16-14.

"This was a great second win for our program," said Reed. "The team showed great hustle and enthusiasm to come back 10-14 to win 16-14."

Hohensee and LaQuisha Washington led the team in kills and blocks. Hohensee came in with 9 kills and 1 block while Washington had 5 kills and 2 blocks.

CC played Vernon Regional Junior College in the final match of pool play. VJRC defeated CC 5-15, 3-15, 3-15.

Coach Reed credits the loss to the experience and ability of VJRC.

"Vernon has a seasoned program with a national ranking and national tournament experience in 1998," said Reed. "They are definitely the best team we have played so far."

The Lady Bulldogs faced Lamar Community College on Tuesday, September 21 and are tentatively scheduled to play Grayson County Community College in Dennison on Friday, September 24 and Southwest Assembly of God University in Waxahachie on Saturday, September 25.

Broncos prepare for Memphis match up

By Dean Stanzione

The Clarendon Broncos, coming off a 2-0 start, suffered their first loss of the season to the Stratford Elks this past Friday.

The Broncos' offense turned the ball over six times while losing to Stratford, 34-7. Head Football Coach Mark Howard, feels that turnovers affected the game.

"We didn't do what we were supposed to do. Against that team (Stratford), you can't turn the ball over that many times and expect to win."

The Bronco offense gained only 55-yards rushing, and 115-yards passing during the game. The Broncos' only touchdown of the game came late in the fourth quarter off of a 15-yard pass from Colt Floyd to Shanon Martin.

Coach Howard feels that there were some positive points that came with the loss on Friday.

"Our kids never quit. They still believe that they have a chance, showing us coaches a lot of maturity, and that is a big improvement from last year."

"We look at this loss against Stratford as something good for us. I told the guys to look at it not as we are glad it happened but look at it as something for us to learn from," said Howard.

This week the Broncos have their eyes set on the Memphis Cyclones. The game will be in Memphis beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Friday.

"It's very important that we execute. We must also be very disciplined in what we do. It is critical on what we do, and how we react to what Memphis does. We are going to concentrate on staying very focused this week. We will also concentrate on getting back on the winning track," Howard said.

Lady Broncos place fifth at White Deer

The Clarendon cross-country teams competed this weekend in the Rattlesnake Roundup outside White Deer.

The high school girl's team placed fifth out of fifteen teams. Freshman Emily Sparks ran in her first high school competition and placed first for the Lady Broncos and fifteenth overall to medal in a time of 13:44.

Other competing for the Lady Broncos were April Bryley, 24th, 14:06; Geri Butler, 29th, 14:13; Claire Rodriguez, 34th, 14:25; Christine Holden, 36th, 14:27; Jamie Sawyer, 52nd, 14:48; Danielle Holden, 66th, 15:07; and Amanda McCabe, 106th, 17:29.

The Broncos were represented by Junior Rodriguez who finished 22nd in a time of 19:17.

"I'm very pleased with all the outcomes of the meet. Our top four varsity girls were competing in their first meeting of the year. With about a month to go before the District meet, we should be able to bring all those times down considerably," said Head Coach Steve Schmidt.

The Junior High girl's team placed sixth out of 14 teams. Running for the Lady Colts were Brittney Hall, 23rd, 15:43; Kayla Martindale, 26th, 15:48; Meghan Gribble, 29th, 16:02; Laura Dziedzic, 44th, 16:29; Jessie Anderberg, 51st, 16:45; Destiny Weatherton, 60th, 17:12; Cierra Benavidez, 70th, 17:34; and Shannah Shelton, 70th, 18:03.

The teams will have Saturday, September 25, off to help with a car wash located next to Country Bloomers Flowers & Gifts. They will resume competition on Saturday, October 2, in Wheeler.

Junior Varsity Bronco squad rolls over Highland Park, 26-18

By Dean Stanzione

The JV Broncos improved to 3-0 this past Thursday beating Highland Park, 26-18. The Broncos' attack was led by quarterback Jeremy Ray who threw for two touchdowns and rushed for one touchdown.

Ray's first touchdown pass was to Clay Sawyer from 20-yards out, and his second was a 15-yard throw that connected with Jared Lax. Ray then ran from 3-yards out for another Bronco touchdown. The Broncos' last score was a 15-yard run by Shayne Gail.

This week the JV was scheduled to play Claude, but Claude is without a JV squad. At press time, the JV team does not have a scheduled game. The JV team may suit up with the varsity on Friday.

4-H Horse Project Club to have planning meeting next week

By Leon J. Church, County Agent

A meeting of the Donley County 4-H Horse Project Club will be held on Tuesday, September 28.

The meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m., in the Panhandle Community Service Building, located just south of the Post Office in Clarendon.

All interested people are urged to attend this important meeting. Parents are especially encouraged to come and give input into where we want the horse 4-H club to be heading.

A discussion will be held on what types of activities the parents want their youth to be involved in and what the youth would like to have available. Leon Church, County Extension Agent, will be present to make a presentation on the opportunities available to 4-H horse members and the direction provided by 4-H.

This is a very important meeting for the future of the horse project area. Everyone's input is critical.

The 4-H Horse Project is one of the larger project areas throughout the State of Texas and the United States. Donley County youth can learn a great deal from participating in this project area.

Besides the horsemanship and horse care aspects, members learn safety, horse nutrition, how to work with others, responsibility, decision making, and public speaking.

For further question or additional information contact the Extension Office at (806) 874-2141.

Girl Scout mobile shop coming to Clarendon

The Mobile Shop will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Burton Library.

Items available include uniform components, handbooks, T-shirts, camping equipment, and accessories. Girl Scouts may use their "Cookie Currency" they earned from selling cookies earlier this year to purchase items. "Cookie Currency," which is spent just like regular money, must be used by November 30, 1999.

The council's Mobile Shop is a service providing Clarendon Girl Scouts an opportunity to buy Girl Scout items without having to go to Amarillo. For more information call Linda Cotter, council shop manager, at 356-0096 or 1-800-687-4475.

Thank You
 I would like to say thank you (along with my parents, Doug and Annette, and my grandparents, Jeff and Beth Walker and Faylon and Nancy Watson), to everyone who helped me when I was bitten by the rattlesnake and for all the prayers, cards, and visits during my stay in the hospital and my recovery at home. I feel much better now.

Jordan Walker
 To the people of Clarendon, Donley County, and surrounding area: In 1977 my family and I chose Clarendon to become our new home. Little did we know, at that time, that Clarendon and its people were to become our family. Thank you to all that have loved and supported us. Your outpouring at my retirement party was tremendous. Thank you so much. Our lives have been richly blessed because of all of you.

Jerry and Lois Morris

THANK YOU

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, Or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a floral piece, If so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, As any friend could say; Perhaps you were not there at all, Just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts, We thank you so much whatever the part.

Dep. Schoolcraft moves on, Hill accepts position

The Donley County Sheriff's Office said goodbye to one deputy and said hello to another last week.

Steve Schoolcraft has accepted a position with the Police Department in Allen, Texas.

Dep. Schoolcraft came to Donley County Sheriff's Office in September 1995 and has contributed a lot of hard work, long hours, and knowledge to the department, officials say.

Prior to coming to Donley County, he worked as a dispatcher and deputy in Armstrong County. He was raised around Dallas.

Schoolcraft, along with his wife, Francis, and daughter, Shanna, will be making his home in Princeton, Texas.

Schoolcraft was honored by Sheriff Thompson and his co-workers at a farewell reception on September 15.

Department officials say they enjoyed working with Schoolcraft and wish him well in his new job.

Joining the department as a new deputy is Kelly Hill, who has been a resident of Clarendon for 34 years.

Hill joins the Sheriff's Office after 14 years at Pantex. He has been a reserve officer for 16 years and has been a member of the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department for 16 years as well. He is married to Linda Hill, and they have three children.

Department officials say they welcome Deputy Hill and look forward to working with him.
