Old Settlers Of Donley County In 7th Annual Tate Grove Picnic Tomorrow

TATE GROVE TO DRAW HUNDREDS

PRACTICALLY EVERY FAMILY IN COUNTY WILL BE REPRESENTED AT PICNIC.

Practically every family in Donley County is making preparations to attend the Old Settlers' Picnic Friday at Tate Grove.

This annual affair, held in the large grove near Hedley, has had W. I. Rains as its president since organization seven years ago.

Homer Mulkey heads the program committee this year and has prepared a varied and interesting program with volunteer numbers being given in the afternoon.

The program will open at 10 o'clock with the song "America" and a band concert by the Clarendon High School Band under the direction of Ray Robbins. The band members will gather at the Junior High Friday morning at 9 and go in a body to the picnic spot.

Sam M. Braswell, principal speaker, will deliver the address at 10:30 a. m., following which a community sing-song will be held.

At 11:30 string bands will furnish music and lunch will be served at noon.

The business session for the election of officers will be at 1:30 p. m. and the afternoon program promises to be full of interest.

Cal Farley of Amarillo wrote program Chairman Mulkey this week that he intended to bring entertainers to the picnic for a number and will probably be there himself. Mrs. Hooker has promised accordion numbers and two surprise numbers.

Everyone must bring well filled baskets, enough for his family and some friend. Cups, glasses and paper plate must be brought, as the association is not furnishing such articles this year. Iced tea and coffee will be furnished by the association.

All who will appear on the afternoon program are requested to give one's name to the program chairman or come to the picnic and announce his number.

Tobacco Crop Is Failure This Year

For the first time in four years, P. A. Buntin, only tobacco raiser in this entire section of the state, will have a crop failure.

The aged Clarendon citizen reported planting tobacco here at his home four years ago, and each year since has raised a bumper crop, enough for his own use and to give his friends.

However, his crop was planted this year approximately two months ago, just after the good rains. Hot weather was too much for the tender plants, and his crop is blighted.

THREE INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

ASHTOLA RESIDENTS RECOVERING FROM NEAR-SERIOUS INJURIES FRIDAY.

W. P. Holley, D. F. Randel and Miss Gladys Holley were released Monday from the Adair Hospital where they were taken for treatment of injuries received when their car overturned late Friday afternoon between Goodnight and Ashtola.

Mr. Holley and his daughter were badly bruised and lacerated and Mr. Randel suffered a slight brain concussion.

The three occupants were returning from Amarillo in a light sedan and pulling a trailer containing a thousand pounds of feed. Although none of the three could explain how the accident happened or could recall its occurrence, it is believed a tire blew out or a wheel fell off. The sedan turned over several times and was completely demolished. The top of the car was prized off to release Miss Holley, who was driving at the time of the accident.

A Buntin ambulance rushed the three to the Adair hospital where they regained consciousness Friday evening. At their homes in the Ashtola community, they are rapidly improving, although still confined to their beds and are receiving medical attention.

Bill Hilliard made a business trip to Seymour Tuesday.

Lions Hear Judge Link On Amendments

In the absence of President Burton, and Vice-President Patrick, 2nd Vice-President A. W. Hicks was in the chair Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the Clarendon Lions Club. A light attendance was present due to many members away on vacations at this period.

The program of the day consisted of a discussion of the various proposed amendments to the State constitution which the voters of Texas will pass on Monday, Aug. 23rd, given by Judge W. T. Link who gave an unbiased explanation of the arguments, pro and con, for the measures to be voted on.

Tail-twister Buddy Knorr fattened the kitty-box by numerous fines from members who appeared without necktie and with open-collared shirts.

Brother Of County Superintendent Dies

Paul Kavanaugh, 25, brother of County Superintendent G. W. Kavanaugh, died Thursday in Shamrock at the Shamrock Clinic. He suffered from a heart disease and had been ill many months prior to his death.

Funeral services were held from the Shamrock First Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 4:30. Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh attended the last rites.

BAPTIST REVIVAL TO START AUG. 23

STATE EVANGELIST WILL CONDUCT SERVICES FOR TWO-WEEKS MEETING.

Dr. W. Y. Pond, State Evangelist, will conduct the services of the First Baptist Church revival starting Monday, August 23.

The services for the revival will begin Sunday, August 22, with Reverend J. Perry King preaching both the morning and evening sermon and thereafter during the two-weeks revival, services will be conducted by Dr. Pond.

The Reverend C. B. Stephenson, pastor of the Magnolia Park Church at Houston, and a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Taylor, will have charge of the song services.

NEW AUTOMOBILES

Three new automobiles have been registered during August. Registration of automobiles have been made for the following: Lon Rundell, '37 Chevrolet Coupe; J. H. Howard, '37 Plymouth coupe, Lelia Lake; and L. L. Woods, '37 Plymouth Sedan.

DONLEY STRIKES OIL IN BUCKETS

OIL STILL BEING DIPPED FROM OLD HOLE DRILLED IN 1919.

Oil is still being dipped up in buckets from the well on the Kate Johnson farm near Lelia where drilling operations ceased in 1919 and the derrick was left to mark the spot where Clarendon people hesitantly spoke of the "unsuccessful drilling efforts in Donley County."

The hole was left with the casing in it until two weeks ago when Mrs. Johnson decided to have a hydraulic case puller from Borger pull the casings.

Gas blew from the hole for over one hour when the first casing was pulled and oil, which is unmistakably crude or live oil, is being dipped up out of the hole in buckets.

Efforts started again this morning to hook onto the casing at the 1,000 foot depth and pull it. Providing there is another gas and oil showing there, immediate action will be taken by numbers of people who have already started oil movements in this county.

Scores are becoming interested in drilling alongside this well, Mrs. Johnson said, in assuring The News that there would be drilling operations in that vicinity.

Mrs. Haley Ward of Chickasha, Oklahoma is visiting with her sister, Mrs. W. B. Holtzclaw.

REV. AUSTIN RE-NAMED MINISTER

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH COMPLETES SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

Reverend Robt. Austin of the First Christian Church was selected to lead the congregation for another year, at a church business meeting Sunday to make plans for the beginning of a new church year, September 12.

Rev. Austin completed his first year of service with the local First Christian Church with a score of triumphs for christianity on the record.

During his ministry here, twenty have come into the church by baptism and seven by letter.

The church has made many improvements in the building including a decoration and new curtains for the baptistry.

The meeting, conducted here by Minister E. G. Cays of Fairview, Okla., brought seven by baptism into the church and one by statement.

Rev. Austin held a three weeks meeting in February in Fairview, Oklahoma and together with Mrs. Austin appeared on program at the District Christian Endeavor Convention at Hereford in April.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Austin took a leading part in the state convention at Fort Arthur in June and Mrs. Austin taught a class of young people at the Young People's conference at Happy in June.

Goldston School Opening Monday

Goldston school will open Monday and eight grades will be taught this year. Opening exercises will be held.

C. E. Buck is principal for this year and teachers are Nova Cook primary and Viola Barker, Intermediate.

County Board Will Route School Buses

A County Board Meeting will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. in the office of the County Superintendent and all board members are urged to be present.

This meeting is highly important as buses will be routed.

CROPS STANDING UP

Although hot winds the past week have done considerable damage, crops in the Brice community are standing up well with the last good rain falling June 14. The Benson farms have good cotton with some of it, planted June 10, standing knee-high.

AERIAL PHOTOS MADE OF FARMS

NEGATIVES WILL BE SENT AGENT; PLANE CIRCLE FARMS PAST WEEK.

Aerial photographs have been taken of Donley farm lands to be used in measuring the farms in compliance with the government program, County Agent H. M. Breedlove said.

The agent received word this week that the photographs had been taken and negatives would reach this county in the near future.

The photographs are made of all farm lands, taking plots of a certain size at a time, while the planes fly at a given altitude.

A delicate measuring instrument is used on the photographs and each plot of land can be figured to near perfection. Government tests have shown the photographic measuring is less than one half to one percent in error.

After the measurements are made with the instruments, County Agent Breedlove stated probably committee members would visit the various farms to determine the crops planted.

Photographic blueprints of all farms in the county will be sent here and measurements will be made and checked.

Last year, measuring of farm lands for compliance in the farm program was a tedious job, done by crews of men using chains.

Commissioners Are In Session Monday

County Commissioners met Monday in the Donley County Courthouse and after hearing reports of county officials examining and stamping approval on each, it was unanimously voted to designate the Donley County State Bank as depository for county funds. The bank was selected as depository for county funds in the amount of $20,000.00, pledging United States Government bonds for security.

The motion also included selection of the bank to be depository for public school funds which included a pledge deposit of $15,000 in U. S. Government bonds.

Motion was unanimously passed to transfer $1500.00 from the Permanent Improvement Fund and $1000.00 from the Jury Fund to the County General Fund.

Little Relief Brought By Two Light Showers

Three days out of six the past week, temperature has reached the 109 degree mark and light showers falling Sunday and Tuesday nights have resulted in two slight temperature drops.

Rainfall Sunday measured .12 of an inch and Tuesday night .07 of an inch. Temperature for the week has been Friday 109, Saturday 108, Sunday, 109, Monday, 105, Tuesday, 109, and Wednesday 105.

CITY INVITED TO WELLINGTON FETE

BOOSTERS FROM WELLINGTON HERE WEDNESDAY; PLANS BIG PARTY.

Ten cars of boosters from Wellington were in Clarendon yesterday morning advertising that city's Harvest Festival, which will be held Saturday, August 14. The festival will start Saturday afternoon with a gigantic parade featuring Comanche Indians, three bands, a hundred floats, one full block devoted to a panorama of early day life, and many oddities, novelties and freaks.

The parade will introduce the night show that will be staged at the football stadium Saturday night. This show, "Two Minutes to Live," is a drama in pantomime of a Collingsworth County father, dying of a broken heart for his boy who went away to war never to return. It is a Cavalece of Collingsworth County as the father recalls that progression of events that surrounded the boyhood of his son as they lived together.

Elaborate scenes and lighting effects will be used to show the various stages in the development of the son, starting from his birth in a half-dugout on the prairie and ending in a realistic re-enactment of the "Battle of Chateau Thierry" in which the Collingsworth youth gave his life.

A between act specially will feature the drum of fate, a mammoth twenty-foot drum copied exactly from one used in a religious ceremony in Tibet. Its use lends a weird and hypnotic effect to the between act scenes.

The afternoon parade will also have its share of fireworks with a great sky parade of daylight fireworks, but these will be only a reminder of the unusual spectacle of the night show.

OVER 800 WILL ATTEND SCHOOL

CITY SCHOOLS WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 6 WITH FIVE NEW TEACHERS.

Schools will open in Clarendon September 6 with more than eight hundred students enrolled.

Five new teachers, Harold Walker, Coach, Myrtle Hall, fifth grade, T. H. Stewart, Jr., College Science, Etiole Sirman, English in Junior High, and Dorothy Lucille DeValt, first grade, will be here.

The school census report showed 658 scholastics in Clarendon and bus student number approximately 700, making a total of 818 to attend school in Clarendon this year.

At the present, it is not known whether the new High School building will be occupied for lack of equipment.

THREE KILLED AS TRAIN HITS TRUCK

J. M. BOZEMAN AND TWO GRANDSONS KILLED BY NOON TRAIN FRIDAY.

Two were killed instantly Friday noon when a Burlington southbound passenger struck their light truck eight miles west of Martin and the third occupant of the car died Sunday night in the Adair Hospital where he miraculously held to life for more than fifty hours after the accident that mutilated the bodies of his two grandsons and virtually scalped him.

James Murrice Williams, 27 and James Henry Bozeman, 19, were killed instantly and their grandfather, J. M. Bozeman, 70, was brought to the Adair Hospital where he died Sunday night.

The accident occurred at noon Friday when the men, after loading their light truck and trailer with canteloupes for an Amarillo market, left the George Bulman farm and were struck by the noon passenger as they crossed the tracks on a rural road. Mr. Bulman, who was standing in his field, saw the automobile as it was hurled into the air.

The cause of the accident is unknown, but clear view of the tracks is not possible as the crossing is only a rural road, and the track makes a curve just above the crossing. The truck was a twisted mass, and pieces of the car were thrown for hundred of feet from the tracks.

J. M. Bozeman and the two youths for years lived in Donley County in the vicinity of Hedley and Lelia Lake. Only a few months ago Mr. Bozeman and Mr. Williams moved to Amarillo to make their home and Young Bozeman, son of J. W. Bozeman, moved to Pampa.

A Buntin ambulance brought the accident victims to Clarendon. Double funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Hedley First Baptist Church for Mr. Williams and Mr. Bozeman.

The Reverend M. E. Wells, pastor, and Minister Melvin J. Wise of Abilene Northside Church of Christ, conducted the last rites.

School Re-built So Ashtola Celebrates

Cotton Dusting Machine Is Made

A second cotton-dusting machine, fighter of the cotton flea, is being operated in Donley County. H. W. Holland of Ashtola made the machine and at the cost of approximately forty cents per acre for the sulphur is dusting his own and adjoining farms.

The cost of making the machine was low and its operation is effective. The first dusting machine was purchased by a group of Hedley men.

Cotton flea damage in the Ashtola vicinity has been heavy the past few weeks.

Bus Will Bring Memphis Students

Memphis students who want to attend Clarendon College will again be accommodated by a bus running daily from Memphis to Clarendon, Dean R. E. Drennan said this week after many inquiries from Memphisites who wish to attend Clarendon College.

This arrangement, tried for the first time last year, was made again with the Memphis school board before the close of school.

Stolen Automobile Recovered Friday

A 1937 Oldsmobile, stolen from Fire Chief Moore of Amarillo, was recovered near Clarendon Friday and turned over to the custody of Amarillo officials.

The car was stolen Friday afternoon in Amarillo and a radio broadcast concerning the theft was made at 4:30. A Claude citizen was listening in on the radio at the time and as the announcement was made, noticed a car fitting the description pass through Claude.

Officials notified Amarillo officers who called Sheriff Pierce. Pierce and Keith Stegall parked on highway 5 but the car, which had been running on a flat since leaving Claude, stopped and Sheriff Pierce made the arrest.</

"TOO MUCH COTTON" AND THE TARIFF

Like a plumed knight of old, swinging his battle axe in deadly precision against the massed battalions of the enemy hordes, Peter Molyneux, editor of The Texas Weekly, and perennial warrior against the high tariff walls which are gradually destroying the foreign markets for cotton, the chief product of the South, continues his powerful attacks on the policies of the Democratic Administration, which was pledged by the party platform of 1932 to reduce the tariff, and which has steadfastly reused, so far, to do anything about it.

In last Saturday's issue of The Texas Weekly, Editor Molyneux takes up the cry of Washington that we are to have "too much cotton," and deftly shows the trouble to be governmental policies, and NOT too much cotton production. This situation brings into account the Hawley-Smoot tariff, and the proposed Black-Connerly "wage and hour" bill—and the impending disaster which threatens the whole South if the Democratic party doesn't return to Democratic principles.

Mr. Molyneux is convinced that the situation is the most perilous Texas and the South has faced in a half century—but read his opening paragraph for a lucid explanation of so threatening an attack on the welfare of our section of the country:

"Too much cotton is again the cry in the land. Of course, it is rather early to do any sure-thing betting on how much cotton there will be this year, because nobody knows how the weather in Texas and Oklahoma is going to behave during the rest of August. But even with the most favorable weather there really is no "danger" that the crop of American cotton will be in excess of 15,000,000 bales. This would be 500,000 bales less than the average annual world consumption of American cotton during the three years ending July 31st, 1929. And average annual world consumption of all kinds of cotton during those three years was 4,350,000 bales less than world consumption of all kinds of cotton during the past year. Yet today the prospect of a crop of 15,000,000 bales raises the frantic cry of "too much cotton." And the "farm leaders" and the gentlemen in Congress from cotton-growing States are behaving as usual in such circumstances. On Monday there was a meeting of the Texas Cotton Welfare Committee and the State Commission of Agriculture at Dallas and after reviewing the situation these gentlemen adopted a resolution calling upon the Federal Government to make loans on cotton on a basis of 15 cents a pound. Spot cotton sold on the Dallas market on that day at less than 10 1/2 cents a pound. Some of the "leaders" in other cotton States were a little more modest in their demands as to the price basis. And a group of Congressmen from cotton-producing States, after getting word from the White House that there would be no cotton loans until Congress enacted new crop-control legislation, decided to ask for loans on a basis of 10 cents a pound and a Government bounty to the farmers sufficient to make the average price 12 cents. This group threatened to block the Black-Connerly so-called "wages and hours" bill unless its demands were met. Whereupon a group in the Senate, headed by Senator Black of Alabama, countered with a proposal that the President call a special session of Congress in the fall to enact a crop-control measure. In response to this, the first report was that the President would call a special session if the House Committee on Agriculture has a farm bill in the House Committee to consider by that time. Later it was said the President saw no need of such a session. The Committee on Agriculture, it should be explained, has been delayed in the preparation of such a bill because of a failure of various farm groups and leaders to agree on its provisions. Chairman Marvin Jones of the committee announces that it is working faithfully on such a measure and should have it ready in time to be passed before next plantings. So the outlook now is that we shall not have a special farm session in the fall, and it is likely that in the meantime some kind of a price-pegging loan will be provided for. And, of course, the gentlemen of the lower house will not block the Black-Connerly bill. That bill will be passed, no doubt, in due course. But nothing apparently will be done to deal directly with the situation which makes an American crop of 15,000,000 bales "too much cotton" at a time when the world is consuming about 30,000,000 bales of cotton, as compared with an average of 25,650,000 bales a year during the three years ending with 1929. Two and a half years ago the Senate Committee on Agriculture made an "investigation" to determine why American cotton was being shut out of foreign markets, but nothing in the way of legislation resulted from it. The answer to that question had already been given clearly in the Democratic platform of 1932. That platform declared that the "prohibitive rates" of the Hawley-Smoot Tariff bill had "destroyed international trade" and "robbed the American farmer of his foreign markets and increased his cost of production." The truth is that the rates of the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act had already made pretty good progress in the direction of destroying the foreign markets for American cotton when the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was enacted to finish the job. And since then the world has been abandoning the use of American cotton as rapidly as other sources of supply could be developed. Faced with the effects of this process, the Democrats of Congress, completely in control of both houses and with a Democrat in the White House, have seemed willing to do anything except tackle the job of bringing down "the prohibitive rates" of the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act, which, according to the 1932 Democratic platform, "destroyed international trade" and "robbed the farmer of his foreign markets." This process is continuing inexorably, and the foreign market for American cotton continues to decline in spite of record-breaking consumption of cotton throughout the world. Four years ago they told us that tariff revision was too slow, that something had to be done at once because an "emergency" existed. Now after four years of "saving the farmer" we are faced again with another "emergency," and the saviors of the farmer are proposing to meet it by the same old methods. How long will this sort of thing continue?"

CHANGE IN ELECTION DAY

Not many people have noticed that the August election this year changes a custom in Texas of many, many years. Voters have become accustomed to the August primary coming on Saturday, but the election this year on proposed constitutional changes by amendment has been set for Monday, August 23rd.

Along with many Texas voters, the Editor of The News likes to get away from Saturday voting in Texas, with the long hours for the judges which oftentimes runs through the night and over into Sunday.

We hope that Texas voters will like the experiment on Monday elections and that we may have more of them as time marches on.

MARTIN

(By Billie Ruth Bulman)

Community News
Sunday school and church was very well attended Sunday morning. Seventy were present. Our meeting started last Friday night. Everyone seem to enjoy the good singing and preaching. Our pastor, Bro. Brister came Monday to be with us during the meeting.

Personals and Locals
Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCraw and children visited Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jordan Sunday.

Several young folks enjoyed an ice cream supper in the Joe Greene home Thursday night. Those present were Earl and Margaret Sue Easterlings, John Dale Gray, Eva Fulton, Jack and Ernest Lamber-son, and Cora Lee Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Easterling and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jordan visited in the J. H. Easterling home.

Mrs. Fletus Plant from Stamford returned home Saturday after a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Pool.

Those visiting in the George Bulman home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Earthman and girls, Bro. Stovall, Doris Culver and Robbie Zoe Moreland.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Peabody and little son, Mrs. A. M. Peabody and sons visited in Lelia Lake Sunday.

Junior and Gene Bulman spent Saturday night and Sunday with Billy Frank Moreland of Midway.

Those visiting in the Shannon home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Christie and children, Doris and Darrell Bailey, Kitty Ruth (Baley and Oleta Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis and Miss Bennie McClung visited Mr. and Mrs. Jess Davis during the week-end.

A Car and Train Wreck

Last Friday everyone was frightened and also saddened when the 12:30 o'clock train ran into a car as it was crossing the railroad track about one-half mile west of the Martin service station, very near Mr. George Bulman's farm. Three men were in the car, two of them were killed and the other one died Sunday night about ten o'clock. The three men were Mr. Bozeman from Amarillo, Texas and his two grandsons.

LOS ANGELES VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Campbell of Los Angeles are in Clarendon visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. White. Mrs. Campbell, nee Dorothy White, was heartily welcomed back by scores of friends.

The WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONAL

by MAX BERNS

Lessons of History

What about our Constitution during emergencies?

The framers of our Constitution, said Chief Justice Chase in 1866, "foresaw that troublous times would arise, when rulers and people would become restive under restraint, and seek by sharp and decisive measures to accomplish ends deemed just and proper; and that the principles of constitutional liberty would be in peril, unless established by irrevocable law. The history of the world had taught them that what was done in the past might be attempted in the future.

"The Constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and in peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men, at all times and under all circumstances. No doctrine, involving more pernicious consequences, was ever invented . . . than that any of its provisions can be suspended during any of the great exigencies of government. Such a doctrine leads directly to anarchy or despotism, but the theory of necessity on which it is based is false; and the government, within the Constitution, has all the powers granted to it, which are necessary to preserve its existence."

AUSTIN. — The courts took a hand, and the legislature indicated it would do so next month, in the political controversy raging over the $22 per capita school apportionment this week. Hearing on an injunction issued by the district court at San Antonio, forbidding the state board of education to reduce the per capita apportionment below the $22 figure set last month, was scheduled, with Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw in a warm spot politically. By law, McCraw must represent the board, and oppose making permanent the injunction; but a majority of the board, led by Ghent Sanderford, Ferguson appointee doesn't want to do what the injunction forbids the board from doing. So McCraw has worked out what he considers a nice solution. He will tell the court that the injunction can not legally lie, and should be dissolved; but he will reassure the school lobby at the same time, but declaring the reason it shouldn't stand is because the board can not legally act to change the apportionment after Aug. 1, and because schools have already contracted obligations based upon the $22 figure, and these obligations can not now be impaired. McCraw declared he believes present tax revenues will yield sufficient to pay the full $22 apportionment, anyway. If they do not, then the deficit resulting will be chargeable against next year's per capita apportionment, and this appears to be the sole actual difference between the conflicting actions taken by the state automatic tax board, and the state board of education.

POLITICAL IMPLICATIONS
But however small the actual difference between the two boards, the controversy has stirred a political cyclone. L. A. Woods, the state superintendent of education, up next year for re-election to a fourth term, has taken the stump and is making speeches all over Texas, lambasting Allred and Comptroller George Sheppard for reducing the ad valorem tax rate, charging the schools have been robbed by the "big interests." Allred, leaving for his Mexico City vacation, fired a blast in the form of spirited written defense of himself and Sheppard, which he sent to every weekly newspaper in Texas with a promise of more to come later. Meanwhile, the senate committee seeking better supervision of rural aid distribution met with the board of education, and heard two members, R. S. Bowers of Caldwell and Ben F. Tisinger of Dallas, caustically criticize Woods' action, charging him with being "derelict in his official duty," and rewrote 16 sections of the regulations to remove any possibility of "pressure" being put on the assisted rural schools to buy unnecessary phonographs and other equipment as a predicate for receiving aid grants.

MONTGOMERY NAMED
Julian Montgomery, lauded throughout the state by his colleagues as one of the most capable engineers in Texas, will become chief highway engineer Oct. 1, upon retirement of Gibb Gilchrist, who becomes dean of engineering at A. & M. college, Montgomery, who headed the PWA setup in Texas — the government work-relief organization operated by Ickes, which got something permanent in the way of improvements for every dollar it spent — has been the final authority on expenditure of many millions of federal money in Texas, sums comparable with the millions the highway department uses to build and maintain roads. Incidentally, his appointment was forecast in this column two weeks before it occurred, ahead of any daily newspaper in Texas, and while one of the leading dailies was declaring him eliminated and not being considered.

pension law enacted by the regular session of the legislature, H. B. Satterfield of Lufkin, is named by those on the inside as Gov. Allred's choice, with the appointment to be made soon after the governor returns from his Mexico City visit.

GOVERNOR ISBELL SERVES
From Rockwall, tiniest county in Texas, this week came a new governor of Texas—Claude Isbell, genial and popular state senator, Isbell served by reason of his being president ad interim of the senate. With Gov. Allred in Mexico, Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul paid a visit to Oklahoma, where he taught school 20 years ago, and Isbell automatically became Texas No. 1 executive during his absence. More than 100 friends and colleagues gathered at a hotel dinner to pay tribute to Gov. Isbell and his charming wife, with ex-Sen. George Purl of Dallas (who may try a comeback next July) presiding as toastmaster.

To Big Spring, as the best location, went the new $2,500,000 state insane hospital authorized by the regular session this spring. It will house 540 patients and relieve county jails of insane patients which existing insane hospitals can not accommodate. . . Improvement in conditions on Texas prison farms, where wholesale escapes and other unsatisfactory incidents have occurred recently, is expected by state officials, following appointment of Dr. C. W. Bulter Jr. of Crockett and Denver Chestnut, widely known Texas newspaper publisher of Kennedy, as chairman and board member, respectively. Chestnut, former president of the Texas Press association, has written this column that he "hopes to be able to render a real service to Texas" in the new post . . . LIBRARY NOTES (By Mrs. C. A. Burton)

Our Texas Centennial last year brought to the public a long list of writers on all sorts of subjects—Texans spurred by this incentive to test their ability to write. But this urge seems not to have been limited to our own state. Books of the Southwest are being written and published in greatly increasing numbers.

Notable among the latter is a recent publication by the University of Oklahoma Press at Norman entitled "The 101 Ranch." It is written by Ellsworth Collins, a professor of Education in the University of Oklahoma, in collaboration with Alma Miller England, daughter of the founder of the ranch. Of this ranch J. Frank Dobie, in a criticism of the book says, "It was well worth a history, and now a history has been written about it that is well worth reading. It was not a typical or a representative ranch; in many ways it was more, it was absolutely unique; it was extraordinary."

The founder of the ranch, George W. Miller, came to Oklahoma from Kentucky soon after the Chisholm Trail opened, bringing with him not only enough money to start operations, but the traditions of plantation hospitality, open-handedness and grandeur. Thus his three sons, Joe, George and Zack, who inherited the ranch and kept it undivided, came naturally by their nature to operate in grand style. Their operations ran into multiplied millions, but more than they loved money and profits they loved the game and more than they loved the land. For the Miller men, the 101 was an institution of their own. They planted thousands of acres in grain and cotton, set out fruit trees and black walnut by the tens of thousands, established a packery, then a tannery and a harness and saddle factory; they struck oil and they built a refinery. At ranch headquarters they built a laundry, a hotel, a tourist camp, an ice factory, etc. A thousand Ponca Indians were dependents of the ranch and they made Joe Miller, who could talk their language and who was as a father to them, their chief. Their greatest plunge and the gesture that gave the ranch itself fame—and then broke it—was the 101 Ranch Wild West Show. That show for a time made the name of Miller Brothers almost as familiar to America as the name of Buffalo Bill. "This and quite a little more by J. Frank Dobie makes one feel that the book is a real contribution to the history of the Southwest."

Dr. Rosalie Slaughter Morton, author of "A Norman Surgeon," has recently sailed for Athens to complete arrangements for a several month's journey through Turkey, Iran Arabia, Afghanistan, India and Java. For several years she has been working on a preliminary study of the feminist movement in Mohammedan lands, and this trip is planned in order to complete the work.

Thomas Mann, German author and political exile, visited this country the past spring, but has resumed work on his current book based on Goethe's later years. Mr. Mann plans to return to America in the late Autumn.

Trygve Gulbranssen's "Beyond Sing the Woods" was a best seller last year which is rather unusual for a first book. Now he has a new novel, "The Wind From the Mountains," which is a continuation of the story of his first. The stories are legendary, mystical, stories of Norwegian life a hundred years ago. A critic has said of him, Trygve Gulbranssen's prose has a strength and fineness that seem especially suited to the grandeur of the setting and the inherent nobility of the characters. He is worthy of carrying on the great tradition of Scandinavian literature."

Misses Mildred and Helen Martin who are leaving Clarendon, their long-time home, this week, gave the library several years' numbers of the National Geographic and other magazines and a large number of books, including some valuable sets—for all of which we are very grateful.

SIDELIGHTS... Of the Trip...

By LOWELL LAFON

Just thinking: Of the expression on Charlie Murphy's face when he fell in the cold mountain stream in Cimarron Canyon.

Of the satisfied look on Dempsey Robinson's face after scattering feathers in everyone's bedding one night.

Of the way Ben Hill and Homer Charles Speed can go to town on "Oh my Darling Clementine" and "Rio Grande."

Of the time when Mrs. Gillham got hit on—well, got hit with a golf ball.

Of the night below Red River when Charlie Murphy, Jelly McGowen, and this reporter slipped off and when to Red River City, and of the fun we had at Tony's Place.

Of the look of surprise on Dempsey Robinson's face on getting hit on the head by an overhanging branch on one of the mountain roads.

Of the appropriate answer Joe Williams gave when a none-too-polite fellow asked him if he couldn't refrain from stepping on his heels while going through the caverns.

Of the terrible face Jelly McGowen made on taking a big swallow of red hair oil that had carefully been put on his empty cherry cider bottle by none other than Mr. Gillham.

Of the way Eugene Putman kept Sunshine under his shirt.

Of the way Allan Pittman yelled with delight when he got a free "Sunset Bar" at Roswell.

Just Wondering: How much fun W. D. Tomlinson, Dempsey Robinson, Allen

Pittman, J. H. Green, and Jo Frank Heatherton had at Socorro one Tuesday night.

Why Billie Goodman, Rex Shannon, Allen Pittman, and Pete Morrow nearly got left in Raton.

How Johnnie Leathers managed to lose his suitcase the first day out and then his hat the next day.

Why Rayburn Smith doesn't write a book because, well just because.

Why more of the boys didn't get knives like Beatty Hillman's and Billie Goodman's at the Cavern Supply House.

Why someone always managed to spill or pour ice water on somebody who was trying to sleep.

And last, why the FFA boys can not take another trip like this or one to the centennial since we had so much fun on this trip.

The present day call of the world to the church is, show us the way. Both the world and the church seem to be in a wilderness of bewilderment. Christ has been preached for centuries as the truth. It seems that it would be well now to change the emphasis and preach Him as the way, for He claimed to be the way as well as the truth. The challenge which confronts every church today is one of the most exhilarating and fascinating undertakings ever to

AN ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL OF TEXAS HERE

Judge Leonard King of Austin, assistant attorney - general of Texas under General McCraw, and formerly of Childress, was a Clarendon visitor Monday, and visited with the News editor, enroute to Amarillo on departmental business. Judge King is very much interested in the race for governor in Texas next year, since his chief will be one of the candidates.

NEPHEW OF MRS. BRASWELL LOSES ARM AND LEG. AUG. 2

Louis Spencer, nephew of Mrs. Sam M. Braswell, fell beneath the wheels of a fast Pennsylvania train Monday, August 2 at Franklin, Indiana and both his right arm and leg were severed.
The child is the 12 year old son of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Spencer, who is president of Franklin College. He was riding a bicycle and did not see the 3:15 train. Scores of Franklin citizens are offering blood for transfusions for the youth who is in the Franklin hospital. "There's a lot one can do without an arm or leg," he told his parents, according to press reports.

He Will Be In Clarendon Thursday

It is hard to believe that the Wild Water Buffalo is one of the most dangerous animals on Earth, an enraged Bull will attack any thing, and often wins even against such antagonists as Tiger or Elephant.

However, after several thousand years of patient tutelage on the part of the Chinese farmer, the Chinese Water Buffalo is today, not only one of the most important, but one of the most affectionate and dependable animals on Earth.

Hii, the featured animal actor used in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production, "The Good Earth," is a good example of this, for though in appearance he looks as ferocious as his wild ancestors, he is in reality one of the most docile of beasts.

Thirty-six of his forty years were spent in China, where he was really one of the members of his owner's family, and among his other numerous duties, acted as guardian for the farmer's small children. Since becoming one of the great acting family at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, Hii has on all occasions maintained his affectionate reputation.

Hii is now making a country-wide tour, in conjunction with the picture, and will arrive in Clarendon aboard his caravan of Chevrolet Trucks, on Thursday, Aug. 17 at 11 a. m. He will be exhibited at the Pastime Theatre, where he may be free, and freely seen by all from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.

Farm Cash Income Increase Is Seen

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 11 — An increase in farm cash income for Texas during June is reported by Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas. Using the average monthly farm cash income during the sixty months from January, 1928, to January, 1932, as a base and adjusting for seasonal variation, farm cash income had increased nearly 64 per cent over the base period in June, against 54 per cent in May and 8 per cent in June, 1936, Dr. Buechel estimated. Thus the improvement from May to June last year was 6 per cent and from June last year to June of the current year the gain was 52 per cent, he said.

"Much of this phenomenal gain in farm income during June reflects the increased shipments and improved prices of live stock and wheat," Dr. Buechel explained. "In the Edwards Plateau region wool shipments also contributed materially to the sharp increase in income."

Dr. Buechel predicts that farm cash income during the remainder of the year will maintain the favorable year to year comparisons. In the wheat areas of the State July comparisons with a year ago are expected to be even more favorable than those of June and income from live stock and wool stock products should be maintained on the higher level in comparison with last year, which has prevailed for many months.

"Present indications point to a material increase in cotton production over last year," Dr. Buechel said, and if prices are maintained at present levels, the farm cash income from this source should be well above that a year ago during the next six months."

The actual and prospective improvement in farm income, together with the relatively high level of urban payrolls, furnishes a reasonable basis for optimism with regard to industry and trade in the State during the last half of the year, Dr. Buechel declared. The oil industry, too, is relatively prosperous, he said.

Clarendon Couple Wed In Lubbock

Miss Martha Bell Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Logan of Lubbock became the bride of Harry E. Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hart, of Hollis Sunday morning. The impressive garden ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's brother, W. H. Logan with Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, Methodist minister officiating.

The nuptial vows were spoken before a beautiful arch of giant dahlias and fern. On either side of the arch were baskets of dahlias. Pre-nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. George M. Garrett. The bride wore a navy blue marquisette dress with a corsage of pink asters.

After a two weeks trip to points of interest in Colorado, the couple will be at home in Clarendon.

Mrs. Hart, graduate of Texas Technological College, has for several years been a teacher in the Clarendon Public Schools and will continue teaching here where they will make their home. Mr. Hart is associated with the Russell Market.

Perryton Set For 18th Celebration

The stage is set for Perryton's 18th Birthday celebration and plans are being made for entertaining thousands of visitors. Many new features are planned for this year's event scheduled for Monday, August 23.

The walking marathon which has proved so popular in the past will be held again this year and an event for women has been added.

In the men's contest a distance of twelve miles will be covered and in the women's, six miles. Prizes of $50.00 first, $15.00 second and $5.00 third will be awarded successful contestants in the men's race and $15.00 first, $5.00 second and $2.50 third in the women's.

Creating equally as much interest as the marathon race is the beauty revue in which many young ladies from Perryton and surrounding communities will compete.

The revue will be held at the city's new municipal swimming pool where a water carnival will also be staged. Cash prizes of $50 will be awarded successful contestants in the bathing revue, the winning young lady to be designated "Miss Perryton" and the second and third place winners her attendants. All entrants must register with the Perryton Chamber of Commerce not later than 10:00 a. m. Monday, August 23.

Other features on the one-day program will be children's contests, terrapin race (sponsored by American Legion), baseball game, and a dance in the evening at spacious Donley hall.

Crops Protected Against Insects

Many county agricultural agents in the Northwest Texas section report that farmers have the best prospects for a good cotton crop in recent years. Many farmers are protecting their cotton against insect infestations.

The cotton flea hopper, which has not done much damage in Donley county cotton in the past, is presenting a severe problem here at this time. At a recent meeting held at Hedley, a group of farmers bought dusting equipment on a co-operative basis. Using sulphur at the rate recommended by the county agricultural agent, the farmers have dusted their cotton at seven day intervals.

The infestation has been checked in the cotton that was dusted, and the amount of bolls set on the dusted areas, as compared to check plots, warrants the expectation of a good harvest in the fall.

Probably the first effort to control the cotton flea hopper, which has been responsible for considerable damage to Haskell county cotton in the past, is being made by S. N. Reed on his farm near O'Brien. Before beginning his operations, Reed made a trip to South Texas to observe the methods and equipment used there to control the insect. On the basis of his observations, he purchased a six row duster with which he has treated from 50 to 100 acres in a day. The demonstration is being watched with interest by Haskell county farmers.

An infestation of caterpillars which were threatening the cotton owned by W. D. Everett, of the Gail community in Borden county, was checked by an application of calcium arsenate. A home made spray rig was used to apply the poison.

WHAT NEXT?

Decorative Sun Dial

The sun dial has survived largely because it has a decorative and romantic value, and in the above sketch, that value is heightened as one is built into a bubble bowl in a flower setting. If the bowl is placed in a sunny window, it will record the passing of time after the shadow of the slanting rod is cast on the side of the bowl. By moving the bowl from the east to the west side of the house in the mornings and afternoons, it will accurately tell the time from sun rise to sun set.

WHY I GO TO CHURCH

1. I go to church from habit, just as I go to work and feel put out if I don't. This is a poor reason but a good habit.

2. I go to church because people expect more of me if I do than they would if I didn't. It helps me for my friends to expect something of me.

3. I go to church to encourage the preacher and the other members who are trying to carry on the most important work in the community. I have no right to discourage them by indifference and then criticize them for doing no better.

4. I get a "kick" out of going because there is something about it that makes me want to be decent on the inside as well as on the outside.

5. I like good company and the folks at church are about the most orderly and serious-minded people I know of anywhere, at least while they are there and that helps me.

6. The church is one place that I can see myself and my affairs as they really are. Sometimes a scripture lesson or hymn will clarify and enlarge my whole vision of life.

7. I go to church because it makes me feel that right is right for right's sake and not as a matter of policy. Somehow the church gives me a different standard of values from that I get on Main Street.

8. Going to church helps me to see beyond my own yard's fence and beyond my own community. It gives me a sense of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man and out of this some moral obligations are born. When I leave there I can make juster estimates and fairer decisions even if it costs me something to do it.

9. I go to church to meet one or more great souls whose very presence is an encouragement to virtue. They help me.

10. I go to church to meet with those struggling ones who like myself are conscious of their failures but somehow keep on trying as if they were determined to succeed in being the right sort of folks. They encourage me and I hope I encourage them.

11. I go to church to find a company and an atmosphere where it is easier to find God and to see things as they are than it is elsewhere.

12. I go to church to join in worship with the only sort of people in the world who are under bond to take Christ seriously and to make Him ruler of this world in all other things. It's a big job and far from finished but I want to do what I can towards it. I at least can count for one more on that side.

13. I go to church because it is the truest democracy in the world. Nobody is blackmailed who confesses penitence and a desire to live right. A hog thief or a harlot can get in as easily as honest and reputable folks. Judas and John are still in the church, where John sometimes gets impatient and wants to burn things up, while Judas still has good impulses that end in disaster because of lack of character to see them through.

14. I go to church because it is the one place that offers forgiveness for the past and a fresh start in life as though we had never lived before and had been born then and there. So many of us have done something in an hour of weakness that we would give a right hand to have undone but cannot until life would be a curse if it were not for the pardoning and healing power of the Christ of the church. I know He can heal elsewhere but it is as little as I can do to join in with the other poor cripples and lepers that He has healed in singing His praises.

15. I go to church because it is the only place that speaks with certainty about life beyond. Death has broken up my home and carried away my friends. It is silently destroying my own body. The church not only arches 'all these graves with the rainbows of hope but sets beneath its center Him who is a sample of the future harvest—the first fruits of them that sleep.

For those and other reasons I shall keep on going to church so long as there is a breath in me and when that has left me I want my children to carry my body there, even as my parents carried me there as a babe to dedicate me to God, so that my life here may begin and end at the altar of the church with its solemn ritual and hopeful songs.—Bascam Anthony in Christian Advocate.

The Rest of the Record

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

SAN LUIS POTOSI, MEXICO, August 7, 1937.

In Texas we boast of our southern hospitality; in Mexico, the people don't boast of it; they live it! From the moment when Mrs. Dominguez, wife of the Mexican vice-consul at Laredo, presented a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Allred as we crossed the international boundary until now, I have never witnessed such courtesy, such hospitality as has been extended to us on every hand.

As I told you last week, the Mexican Government invited us to be their guests, even furnishing transportation over the railroad. We have now passed through the capital cities of three Mexican states and at each one great crowds, including the Governor, the Mayor, representatives of the military and the business men have met us at the station with a band, presented beautiful bouquets to Jo Betsy (my wife), and given us the very best of entertainment as long as we were with them. Of course, we realize this is an honor they are extending not to Jimmie Allred, but to the Governor of Texas; and that's why I'm prouder than ever before of the high honor the people have bestowed upon us.

We spent one day at Monterrey, capital of Nuevo Leon. It is quite modern and somewhat Americanized. We saw many Texas people there, most of them tourists, of course. We visited one of the most beautiful and modern hospitals I have seen anywhere, the gift of a fine old Mexican gentleman, a Mr. Murguerza. One of the finest glass factories in the world is located in Monterrey. It is almost unbelievable to see how they melt sand in furnaces, then drop it in red-hot pieces into various kinds of moulds where it is shaped as it cools into bottles, vases, pitchers, plates and glassware of every character. As I watched this preparation put through the burning fire, yet emerge fine-spun and clean and beautiful, it made me wonder if sometimes human beings aren't put through a torturing, searing fire—a great sorrow, for instance—that they may emerge, tested and tried, a finer, cleaner character.

American money is of course, more than Mexican money. You exchange one dollar American money for $3.60 Mexican. I got $36.00 in Mexican bills and silver for a ten dollar bill. It made me feel quite "flush" to have so much money in my pocket. I owed Jo Betsy ten dollars when we left Texas so I paid her the same amount in Mexican and still had $26.00 left. Your money seems to go farther here, everything is considerably cheaper.

Our next stop was Saltillo, once the capital of Texas when we belonged to Mexico. It is a beautiful little city of 60,000, nestling a mile high in the mountains, nice and cool in the daytime and almost chilly at night. I was surprised to find it quite an educational center. They have just started an experimental agricultural school there, trying to teach the sons of farmers to whom the Mexican Government has recently given lands the practical side of farming, stock raising and dairying. It is remarkable to see how these people, who were torn by revolution and war less than twenty years ago, have progressed; and how hard they are trying to better conditions for the underprivileged classes here.

We have met many wonderful people here, some of them educated in Texas. On every hand were evidences of culture and refinement—a wonderful art gallery, fine school buildings and music everywhere. The people are overly friendly. They are completely wedded to the "Good Neighbor" policy of President Roosevelt; they love him almost as much as we do and they adore their own President, Lazaro Cardenas. I felt like saying in Saltillo, "Thank God for a people with friendship in their hearts and music in their souls."

As you perhaps know, a fine new highway has been completed all the way from Texas to Mexico City. It is wide open, a marvelous drive and perfectly safe. Since things are so much cheaper, I want to suggest to all of you who can that you make plans to spend a vacation down here some time in the future. You will enjoy it. My wife's mother and my oldest son, Jim Boy are with us, and they, too, are having the time of their lives. Like every other boy of his age, Jim Boy is full of curiosity. He has been all over the train to find out how things work, turning off lights, turning on water, etc., but he is a little timid about scouting around these Mexican places much.

The Mexican Government sent consul Dominguez from Laredo with us, and the American Government ordered Bill Blocker, our

Hogs On Parade

By FRED HALE
Chief, Division of Swine Husbandry, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

On Tuesday of this week top hogs were sold for $12.35 on the Fort Worth market—the highest price paid for market hogs in ten years. The spring pig crop for the United States is reported to be 7.4 per cent less than the small crop of a year ago and the number of sows bred to farrow is estimated at 3.4 per cent less than in the fall of 1936. It looks like a short pork crop and high prices for the next eighteen months or longer. The condition offers ample opportunities for profits for those able to properly appraise the situation. There is a distinct shortage of seed stock in the country and owners of this commodity will find themselves in an enviable position.

There are many hours of labor, both mental and physical, waiting for the farmer who raises hogs as a cash crop and many difficulties will present themselves, but it is said, "The optimist sees opportunities in difficulties—while the pessimist sees difficulties in opportunities." Too many hog producers sell out lock, stock and barrel during price depressions and find out later when prices are like they are today that they should have kept a few brood sows about the place for just such conditions as now prevail.

A 225-pound market hog selling for $27.75 at Fort Worth today means that one brood sow raising twelve market hogs per year would gross $333.00. With present feed prices, about $80.00 of this amount should be net profit. For this reason, one will find high class bred gilts and good boars selling for unusually high prices at the present time. A good registered bred gilt now will sell for $50.00 to $75.00.

The wise farmer or hog owner, however, will know that the present high prices of hogs and the present favorable corn-hog ratio will not go on forever. Hogs will be cheap again, and unless one can see a good source of feed supply being produced on his farm this year, he had better get slow in getting into the hog business. It takes such times as now exist, however, to convince some farmers that money can be made with hogs. One can not overlook the fact that the hog makes one hundred pounds of gain on less feed than does any other farm animal; sells for higher average price per pound than do other farm animals; returns come quickly due to the fact that pigs may be marketed within six months after birth; the initial investment necessary to engage in the hog business is comparatively low; hogs use by-products and waste to good advantage; and finally, hogs furnish a meat for home use that is almost ideal, being high in food value and is peculiarly suited for home use on farms because of the ease with which it can be cured and kept throughout the year.

Not every farmer is suited to the raising of a large number of hogs, but we believe that every farmer can afford to raise his own meat requirements as a minimum. There is a place on practically every farm for at least one brood sow. One sow will produce enough pork for home use, besides a few surplus hogs which usually can be sold at a very nice profit. Success in the hog business is readily attainable by any good farmer who will equip himself with the knowledge of the practical methods of swine production. As feed represents about 80 per cent of the cost of producing pork, its importance is apparent. It is necessary that farmers understand the feed question or its importance in producing the greatest gain in the quickest time, at the least cost, in order to obtain the greatest financial return with hogs.

The annual increase of swine is from 500 to 1000 per cent, with the possibility of doubling this. It therefore, makes a difference whether the sow produces from eight to ten pigs twice per year or only three to five twice per year, or perhaps six once per year. This shows the importance of selection, with proper management in breeding, sanitation, feeding, and caring for the sow. It is a simple business proposition to designate the profitable sow. The unprofitable sow should be fed and consigned to the pork market now while prices are high (a 500-pound packer sow will sell for $50.00 on today's market) so that she will not be bringing into existence a strain of inferior small-litter breeders.

With the present prospect of higher prices for hogs, breeders should gain much by preparing and exhibiting a show herd this fall. At the fairs, one comes in direct contact with a great many hog men and new buyers, and if one has creditable exhibit, it is bound to bring new customers. Beginners and those with less exper-

Big Spring Given West Texas Asylum

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 6 — A new West Texas hospital for the insane, to care for at least 540 patients, was located at Big Spring in Howard County by the Board of Control Friday as it called for bids on the first projects in a $2,500,000 building program to relieve overcrowded conditions in eleemosynary institutions.

The new hospital will be the seventh in the State's group for the insane and the first to be located west of the 100th meridian. The Legislature appropriated $817,000 for it in its building program funds which become available Sept. 1. Other hospitals for the insane are at Austin, Terrell, Rusk, San Antonio, Wichita Falls and Galveston.

Bids were asked by the board, receivable Aug. 27, for two ward buildings, each of seventy-five-bed capacity, at the Austin State School farm colony, a branch of the institution for the feeble-minded here. The cost for both buildings will be $120,000.

The rest of the $2,500,000 building program probably will be put under contract within ninety days as the board has appointed architects and preliminary sketches have been submitted.

Many Await Admittance

The program was made to relieve badly overcrowded conditions in eleemosynary institutions and to provide facilities for several hundred insane persons now confined in jail. The board reported that the five main hospitals for the insane and the psychopathic hospital at Galveston, which cares for less than 100 patients, had a rated maximum capacity of 11,724 but held 11,934 inmates. The capacity for good results is 11,500.

With existing facilities handling more than capacity, the board reported that 427 are awaiting admission, many of whom are in jails, and 319 more are being cared for by relatives, with 1,400 on furlough or having escaped.

Overcrowded conditions will be relieved to some extent with the completion soon of six buildings on which construction was started during the present fiscal year. They are almost ready for occupancy and will add space for several hundred patients.

Thirteen West Texas cities bid for the location of the new hospital, including Colorado, Slaton, Abilene, Amarillo, Lubbock, San Angelo, Kermit, Sweetwater, Lamesa, Plainview and Odessa.

Conditions of Offer

In announcing location Chairman Claude D. Teer said the board decided Big Spring offered the best opportunity of conveniently serving the people of West Texas. The location was contingent upon the city complying with the terms of its offer.

The board said Big Spring offered to furnish 580 acres of smooth, fertile, tillable land, all in a high state of cultivation, overlooking the city about one and one-half miles north of the center of town on the west side of Highway 9, bounded on three sides by public highways.

Connection for water, electric power, sewage and natural gas utilities and a railroad spur to the buildings are to be furnished without cost to the State. The city agreed to furnish 300,000 gallons of water a day at 10c per 1,000 gallons and to furnish sewage service at 5c a day per person.

It proposed to deed to the State a tract of land with five water wells which will produce 300,000 gallons a day, with connections already made to city water mains, with the option that the State may pump water through their lines at $1 a year, or may purchase water from the city at 10c per 1,000 gallons.

Texas Voters to Decide Fate of Six Amendments to State Constitution At Election Slated for August 23

(Editor's Note: Six proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Texas which will be voted on in a special election scheduled for August 23 are summarized in the following article written by Booth Mooney and appearing in a recent issue of The Texas Weekly.)

Once more the conscientious citizens of Texas face the problem of deciding whether or not to amend their State Constitution. Many amendments have been added to that document since it was adopted by the State, and many more, of course, have been proposed and defeated. And again this summer the people of Texas will be called upon to decide what is to be done with six proposed constitutional amendments. A special election will be held on August 23 for the purpose of making this decision. So it is not too early now to consider what these amendments would do in case of their adoption. No attempt will be made in this article to pass upon the merits of the various proposals, for that is something to be done by the individual voter. This article proposes, not to try to tell voters how they should vote, but rather to set forth as clearly as possible the terms of the half-dozen proposed amendments to the Constitution of Texas.

Most controversial of the proposed amendments unquestionably is that which would restore the fee system of paying local officers. It will be recalled that the voters of Texas abolished this system only a few years ago, substituting for it the salary basis which is now in effect. The method of paying local officials directly out of fees collected by their offices was voted out following rather startling disclosures by a Senate investigating committee. And then, during the closing days of the recent regular session of the Legislature, this amendment restoring the fee system was rushed through both houses, after Governor Allred recommended its submission. The Governor pointed out that he had backed salary payments when the measure abolishing the fee system was passed, but had come to the conclusion that the added expense to the State had not been justified by an improvement of service expected through abolishment of the fee method of payment.

It is said that most county officials, although reluctant to express themselves publicly on this amendment, favor the return of the fee system and consequent elimination of the present salary system. Some, however, have placed their opposition to the amendment on record, basing that opposition on the fear that abuse would crop out again under the old method. Newspapers in every part of the State have carried extended comment on the proposed amendment; they hold varying opinions as to its wisdom. This amendment is, as a matter of fact, the only one that has aroused outspoken interest over the State.

Despite the fact that the amendment restoring the fee system of paying local officials is getting the lion's share of attention, it is not by any means the only important one of the six. Taxpayers of the entire State have a definite interest in the amendment authorizing the Legislature to set up a discount system for property taxes of the State and all political subdivisions. This proposed amendment would provide for a 3 per cent discount if current taxes are paid by the end of October, 2 per cent if paid by the end of November, and 1 per cent if paid by the last day of December. The change would become effective January 1, 1939.

Interestingly, the Legislature, if it wished, could apply the discount system to municipalities and in fact to every taxing unit, in the event the amendment is adopted. The amendment says that "the Legislature shall have the power to provide that the taxpayers shall be allowed by the State and all governmental and political subdivisions and taxing districts of the State" the discount set up in the proposal. This amendment is based, of course, on the theory that so long as penalties are imposed for failure to pay taxes on time, discounts should be allowed for payments made before taxes become due and delinquent. The plan of discounting State and county taxes is not altogether an unknown quantity, since it was tried in Dallas County in 1935 by authority of a legislative act; however, the plan had to be discontinued when courts held the method unconstitutional. It is said that current tax collection in October, 1935, in Dallas County, under the discount plan, doubled those for the same month of the previous year, with large taxpayers, such as public utilities and owners of office buildings, being quick to take advantage of the system.

One of the amendments to be voted on August 23 has the official backing of the Texas Bankers Association. That is the one which conforms State banking laws to the Federal banking acts, particularly permitting the removal of the double liability of stockholders in State banks which become insolvent. At its annual convention, held May 18, 19, and 20 in San Antonio, the Texas Bankers Association unanimously passed a resolution endorsing this amendment, the resolution also going on to "urge the voters of Texas to adopt said amendment to the Constitution," and to "pledge the support of all the banks in Texas to the end that said amendment shall be adopted." At this same convention, Zeta Gossett, State Banking Commissioner, remarking that "both houses of the Legislature have passed and the Governor has signed the bill authorizing the submission to the people of the repeal of the double liability on State bank stocks," declared: "It now behooves all of us to work together to cause the people to eliminate what I believe to be the last major discrimination against State banks and in this program we earnestly solicit the influence and assistance of every national banker in Texas." Incidentally, provision recently was made in Oklahoma for stockholders in State banks to escape the double liability by insuring deposits with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation; this was a legislative measure, embodied in Oklahoma's new banking code, rather than a constitutional amendment.

Indicative of the continued trend toward "social security" measures whose fate Texas voters will decide next month. One of these amendments would permit the Legislature to appropriate a sum not to exceed $1,500,000 annually to aid destitute children up to fourteen years of age. Under the terms of the amendment, eight dollars a month would be provided for the first child of a family, with a limit of twelve dollars a month to any family. The Federal Government would pay one-third the cost of the program, one phase of social security in which Texas does not now participate.

The legislative history of this amendment is rather interesting. The proposal first met opposition in the Legislature on the ground that it was not sufficiently restrictive and that its cost to the State would be prohibitive. Some of the legislators made estimates that as many as 50,000 Texas children would qualify under terms of the measure, while others placed the number as high as 80,000. The amendment first proposed to give aid to "dependent" children, but, in an effort to lower the probable cost of such aid, it was revised to stipulate "destitute" children, and restrictions were tightened, the maximum age being cut from sixteen to fourteen. Destitute children, as defined by the Legislature are children deprived of parental support through death, continuous absence, or physical incapacity. If the new security program embodied in this amendment is authorized by the voters who go to the polls on August 23, it will become immediately effective under an enabling act already adopted. This same act provides for a department of public welfare to administer the service, along with all other security activities now performed by the State, and aid to the needy blind which is proposed in the second of these "social security" amendments. This latter proposal provides for payment of not more than fifteen dollars a month from State funds to indigent adult blind and thirty dollars maximum with Federal money added.

One of the six proposed amendments applies only to Harris county, permitting that county by vote to create a fund to be used in constructing permanent roads and bridges.

The regular session of the Legislature also authorized the submission of a constitutional amendment eliminating the present anti-dueling provision in the oath of office taken by public officials. This proposal will not be voted on next month, however, but will be held over until the general election in November, 1938.

Now, all but one of the six amendments to come before the electorate on August 23 are of State-wide interest and they deserve the thoughtful attention of Texas voters. Unfortunately, it is probably true that a very great many qualified voters will not trouble themselves either to study these proposed amendments or to go to the polls to vote on them. Admittedly, it is difficult enough at any time to arouse the interest of Texas voters in proposed changes in their fundamental law, and that task becomes more difficult than ever during an "off" year, politically speaking. That condition ought not to prevail, of course, and it is to be hoped that it becomes less apparent this year. Probably the newspapers of the State can do more than any other agency to cause the citizenry to take an active interest in the fate of these proposals, and they can do that best by publishing concise explanations of just what changes in the law of the State would be made by the adoption of these amendments. The text of the various amendments has been printed, of course, in newspapers all over Texas, for that is the law. But that is not enough. No one needs to be told that few newspaper readers take the trouble to study the amendments when they are presented in their legal form. True enough, newspapers already are groaning—and with reason—because of the many things they are told they should do. But it seems to me that here is another one of the many services they actually owe to their readers.

These amendments are important. At least some of them represent trends in government that were hardly thought of only a few years ago. They should be earnestly considered for that reason if for no other.

Pioneer Stockman Dies In Ft. Worth

After a lingering illness Col. C. C. French, for half a century identified with the development of livestock raising in the Southwest and one of the organizers of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, died at his home in Fort Worth Thursday night. Colonel French was 84 and came to Texas from Pennsylvania in the early 80s when as a young man he helped trail cattle to Dodge City, Kan., and to Wyoming.

Col. French was often a visitor in Clarendon in interest of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and Southwestern Fat Stock Show.

For years Colonel French was in charge of boys' pig club work in Texas and in later years he became industrial manager of the Fort Worth Stockyards Company. Several years ago he began writing his memoirs which were printed in the late Bunker's magazine. He had a keen grasp of Southwestern agricultural and livestock needs and opportunities and was a frequent speaker at farmers' gatherings in all parts of Texas and other States.

FORMER PASTOR VISITS HERE MONDAY NIGHT

The Reverend S. R. McClung, former pastor of the local First Baptist Church but now of Perryton, spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holtzclaw. Rev. McClung is now conducting a meeting at Lakeview and his son, Clloyd, is leading the singing.

FFA Boys Take Six-Day Trip By Truck Through New Mexico

(By LOWELL LAFON)

Meeting at the City Hall Sunday morning, August 1, a party of nineteen FFA boys, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gillham and Mr. and Mrs. Don Matheson prepared to leave for a six-day trip to New Mexico and the mountains.

Leaving for Raton, the party traveled by way of Amarillo, Dalhart, Clayton, Des Moines, and Capulin. After stopping shortly in Raton, we made the drive up Raton Pass, gaining an excellent view of the surrounding country on reaching the top. Returning to Raton, the group started down Cimarron Canyon passing through Cimarron and Ute Park. Pitching camp about ten miles from Eagle Nest Lake, the group enjoyed its first night in the mountains. (Several, however, we understand, nearly froze due to the cold mountain air).

The following afternoon we started on to Eagle Nest, stopped only briefly, and then journeyed on to Red River, making one of the prettiest mountain drives of the entire trip. Camping below Red River City about three miles, the party went back to town about dusk to see the city.

Tuesday morning, we started for Taos and the Indian pueblos. The pueblos proved very interesting and picturesque as did other scenes around Taos. In Santa Fe we saw the oldest Mission in the United States and the Old Palace of the Governors. Herein we found many old relics, historical data and other work of early pioneers and old Indian tribes. We also saw the chair in which Lew Wallace, one time governor of New Mexico and famous author of "Ben Hur," sat when he wrote the last portion of this book.

On leaving Santa Fe, the party went to Albuquerque, but stopped only shortly, driving down to Socorro seventy-five miles distance to spend the night. Wednesday morning, the group started for Ruidoso by way of Carizozo. Arriving in the mountains again and the Lincoln National Forest, we soon came to Nogal and to Nogal Lake. Turning off a few miles below Nogal, the party went up to the old Parsons silver mines which were very interesting. The mines were closed down in 1919 and were never re-opened. Driving on to Ruidoso, the group spent the night at one of the many nice camps surrounding the town.

Thursday the party left for Carlsbad, going by way of Roswell and Artesia. Arriving in Carlsbad, the party enjoyed a swim at the Municipal Beach and then a picture show in Carlsbad. We spent the night at Camp Livingston just north of the city.

Friday morning, the party started for the Caverns, arriving about 7:30. Our party started through with the first group at 8:30 o'clock. Another group started through at 10:00 and another at 11:30. On inquiry, one of the guides informed us that three groups had only been going through for the past few days. In the first group there were five hundred and eight persons, two hundred and sixty three of which were Texans. Of all the beautiful and impressive scenes, we considered the one where all were seated about the Rock of Ages as one of the best. Especially all the statistics were given and the lights were turned out leaving everyone in total darkness for thirty seconds. And then, the singing of that old hymn, "Rock of Ages," with the lights coming on successively from afar. A very impressive ceremony, indeed!

Returning to Carlsbad, we all went swimming at the beach again. Altering our plans somewhat, Mr. Gillham decided that the party should drive home Friday evening, so we left Carlsbad about 4 p. m. and arrived in Clarendon by way of Roswell, Clovis, and Amarillo at 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

In all, we had a very good trip, seeing lots of pretty mountain scenery, mountain drives, and many historical points of interest and otherwise throughout the trip. Some of the boys tried their hand at fishing, others at golfing, and everyone enjoyed a softball game. Mountain climbing offered recreation to many while some preferred to lounge around in the shade and sleep and rest. These were only a few of the things furnishing amusement and pastime for the party. This FFA organization had one of the best all-around good natured groups of boys in the country and through this fact everyone had a very, very enjoyable trip.

Dalhart Stages Great Reunion

A group of Clarendon folks attended the XII Reunion at Dalhart Monday and report the "best celebration ever staged in this entire section of Texas."

Everyone who attended brought back an enthusiastic report of the reunion. Artist Harold Bugbee attended to sketch many of the important old timers, and Homer Mulkey, XII hand in 1899 reports a splendid day but remarked that he saw only one of the men with whom he worked. Mr. Mulkey was one of the earlier-day employees.

W. D. Landers and Pink Rodgers, also former XII Cowboys were among the honor guests. Others from Clarendon mingling among the XII cowboys were J. C. Estlack, Mrs. Will Lewis and daughters, Betty Lou and Ann, E. M. Ozier, L. O. Lewis and T. M. Ellis.

Following is a newspaper clipping concerning Homer Mulkey:

At The XII Reunion

Homer Mulkey, Clarendon picture show operator, had a pretty strong head or he might not now be in Clarendon. He worked for the XII ranch for eighteen months in 1899 and 1900 at Buffalo Springs with Tobe Pitts as foreman. He had his mind set on getting married and going in business at Clarendon. It took $250 to accomplish that goal so he worked until he got the $250 and then "walked off like a contrary bay steer."

"Old Tobe had tears in his eyes when I left and he had done everything to make a good cowboy out of me," said Mr. Mulkey. "He had given me every opportunity and it was a shame that I did not tell him I was only going to stay until I got the $250."

Mr. Mulkey went down to Claude, married Lema Duke and then established a photo shop in Clarendon. In 1906 he won second prize for his photography in a statewide contest.

On August 13, 1910, Mr. Mulkey went into the picture show business and has continued to operate the shows in Clarendon since. He is the oldest continuous show operator in Texas.

Mrs. J. T. Wilson Dies In Clarendon Sunday

Mrs. J. T. Wilson, 73, was buried here Monday afternoon and services were held from the First Methodist Church at 4 o'clock with Dr. G. S. Hardy, who was president of Clarendon College when the members of the Wilson family attended school, officiating.

Pallbearers were Allen Bryan, Frank Whitlock, Marvin Hall, Joe Goldston, J. R. Bartlett and Frank Hommel.

Those in charge of the flowers were Mesdames Frank Hommel, W. O. Hommel, F. E. Crisp, J. R. Bartlett, Joe Cluck, Melvin Cook, Nathan Cox and Jess Mann.

Interment was in the Citizen's Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilson died at 3 p. m. Sunday at the family home in Clarendon after a lingering illness. She was born Genio Burns September 2, 1863 in Shongaloo, La. In her early girlhood, she moved with her family to Texas and in 1883 was married at Wylie, Texas to J. T. Wilson. In 1887 the couple moved to Greer County, Oklahoma and in 1903 they moved to Donley County, where Mr. Wilson was a prosperous farmer, owning land both in Donley county and in Alanreed. Mrs. Wilson united with the Methodist Church in her girlhood.

Mr. Wilson died here at the family home in November, 1936. Survivors are four daughters, Mrs. Frank Williams, Dalhart, Mrs. Dewey Wood, McLean, Mrs. Fanny Rector, and Mrs. John Goldston, Clarendon, and three sons, Ernest W. of Dallas, Jarrett of Pampa; and Roy of Alanreed.

All members of the immediate family attended the funeral services.

VISITS SISTER

Mrs. J. H. Heartick spent the week-end in Fort Worth visiting with her sister.

VISITING AT RECTORY

House guests of the Reverend and Mrs. Newton C. Smith this week are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ward of Quanah.

Buy Gas By Milage - Not Gallons

It's miles you want from your gas—not gallons! And Texaco gives you the extra miles that cut your driving costs and carry you farther with fewer fills. Give your motor a chance to show its real economy. Drive in and let us put Texaco in the tank—your speedometer will prove the rest.

We recommend Texaco Crystalite Kerosene for your oil-burning refrigerator.
