Clarendon's Dollar Days Friday-Saturday

July 3rd Celebration Will Mark 50th Anniversary Of Clarendon

DOLLAR DAY TO INTEREST MANY

FIRST SERIES OF CLARENDON NEWS CITY-WIDE DOLLAR DAYS BRINGS BARGAINS.

A new form of summer Trades Day, Dollar Day, begins in this city Friday and continues through Saturday to bring the largest crowd in many months to Clarendon "bargain seeking". Sponsored by The Clarendon News, the Dollar Trades Day is unlike other Trades Days featured in this community, due to the fact that every citizen receives the benefit through the exceptional bargains rather than one person or a few benefiting by prizes given by the merchants.

Twenty-nine progressive merchants of Clarendon joined The News last week in starting the Dollar Day series.

For the first time in many years, this series of Trades Days is the first united effort of merchants to offer co-operatively outstanding bargains through any designated days.

Large crowds will throng the city both days and Saturday, an outstanding program will be given downtown.

Merchants have offered a wide selection of bargains for one dollar, and determine to show the people of Donley County that the American Dollar goes farther toward having one hundred cents value in Clarendon than in any surrounding town or trading center. Bargains in dry goods, drugs, household equipment, service station and gasoline products, groceries, beauty work, hardware, cleaning, building materials, and baby chicks may be purchased Friday and Saturday at remarkable savings in Clarendon.

In submitting advertising copy to The Clarendon News, merchants have pointed out by naming the original value of the commodity, that the Dollar Day values are real bargains, such as will induce people to not only participate in the May Dollar Day but to anticipate the June Dollar Day.

P.W.C. PROJECT GIVEN HOPE

ACTION OF HOUSE MAY SOLVE PROBLEMS OF PWC PROJECT, JUDGE PORTER SAYS.

"The $10,000,000 appropriation voted for construction of small dams, reservoirs, and ponds for water conservation in the Great Plains drought area by the House of Representatives, will be the ultimate realization of the Panhandle Water Conservation's aims," J. R. Porter, PWC director for Donley County said yesterday.

Although subject to reversal by a later vote of the House, the amendment sponsored by Representative Marvin Jones is expected to be retained.

Jones was elated with the House action, which he declared would be of invaluable benefit to the dust bowl section of Texas and Oklahoma. After the vote, he is quoted as saying, that administration of the fund, if finally enacted, probably would be turned over to the Soil Conservation Service.

In many sections of the county, it was necessary for farmers to replant after the heavy rainfall.

MEMPHIS EDITOR IS CO-OPERATOR

There are more co-operating and neighborly newspaper men in the Panhandle than usually found in any one section of the Nation. Editor Claude Wells of the Memphis Democrat is that kind, and has a record of constructive helpfulness over the years. Commenting on the Clarendon News' editorial on the need and desirability of co-operation between Clarendon and Memphis on projected highway routes, North-South and East-West with the junction in the Brice country, Editor Wells put Memphis on record in the following neighborly words:

"Sam Braswell, editor of The News, has given the matter of highways much thought, and his suggestions of co-operation are timely. The Panhandle section of Texas is way behind in highway building, and citizens of the Panhandle should work shoulder to shoulder in attempting to secure any highway, no matter if it is to be located in another county or still farther away.

"At the present time it seems that the Texas Highway Commission will not consider any road except the extension of the Hollis road from Highway 4 in Childress County west to Memphis. Later, they will likely want to extend the highway west through the Palo Duro Canyon. Memphis and Clarendon should keep in touch and at the proper time use every possible influence in getting the North-South and the East-West roads designated by the Commission.

"Memphis and Clarendon have always been friendly and neighborly, and with roads to be built in the future that will vitally affect all, this neighborly feeling should be fostered and kept alive."

CO-OPERATION

The welcome accorded the two members of the Highway Commission upon their recent trip to the Panhandle is just another example of what co-operation will do.

Had it not been for the harmony which prevailed between the towns of Dumas, Borger and Pampa it would have been impossible to show the distinguished visitors that we not only wanted, needed and should have the hard-surfaced road from Pampa to Dumas, but it also would have been impossible to create that unity of spirit and cohesion of objectives that so impressed Mr. Bobbitt and Mr. Hines.

Certainly Clarendon and Amarillo too are in line for congratulations. The banquet last Friday night in the aforementioned city was one of the most delightful affairs it has ever been our good fortune to attend. Friends and neighbors gathered together for two purposes. The first of which was to mix and mingle with their fellow man, to learn to know and like him better and the other was to undertake an objective that was to be helpful not only to themselves but to their neighbors and coming generations.

Fortunate indeed is that section of the country that can maintain that altogether admirable spirit of friendliness which characterizes the Panhandle of Texas.—Pampa Press.

PEACE, NOT WAR, PROMOTES PERMANENT WORLD TRADE

There is no more forceful exponent of world trade from the standpoint of the South, or world peace from every standpoint, than Hon. Peter Molyneux in his "Texas Weekly".

His pungent editorials from week to week against the present mistaken policy of the administration in the matter of trade agreements, tariff policies, debt settlement attitudes; all of which are robbing the South of world markets, cry loudly for the support of Secretary Hull in the policies he would put into effect if given the power.

In last Saturday's issue of the Texas Weekly, Editor Molyneux brings pointedly to the attention of his readers a matter which many have misconstrued as being proof of recovery, when actually it means something totally different. Commerce based on war armaments cannot mean prosperity—it can only mean war, and more depression of world trade. Read the article in question:

"Increased world trade was reported by the League of Nations last Tuesday in a dispatch from Geneva. The League's statisticians pointed out that the gold value of international trade in the first quarter of 1937 was 18 per cent higher than in the corresponding period a year ago. This was headlined in the newspapers as gratifying news of the progress of recovery, but there was no mention of the sinister circumstance that hidden in this "favorable" news was the alarming fact that the big cause of this "improved" situation was the increased expenditures of governments for armaments.

At the very time this news was being released at Geneva, Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board of the Irving Trust Company of New York, was telling the Texas bankers at their convention at San Antonio that world expenditures for armaments last year reached the enormous total of eleven billion dollars, or about three times the comparable figure for 1932, and that proposed rearmament programs during the next five years call for the expenditure of between forty and fifty billion dollars. 'We must not be misled into thinking of rearmament as a permanent stimulus to business', he said. 'It involves a level of government expenditures which cannot be indefinitely continued without wrecking government credit'. Mr. Pierson added that the only sound way to restore international trade and thus to put the world on the road to real recovery is by 'removing the shackles and obstructions which have been placed on international commerce'. These restrictions are as much a cause as an effect of the kind of narrow nationalism which has set the nations of the world feverishly preparing for 'the next war', and unless this sort of thing is checked and the tendency reversed it is going to result ultimately in the destruction of civilization. It is an amazing fact that men can hear declarations like those made by Mr. Pierson at San Antonio, that they can even applaud them vigorously, and then go about their own business unconcernedly, without a thought of attempting to do anything about the condition described.

"Undoubtedly many of the bankers who heard Mr. Pierson accepted what he said as the truth and even took the trouble to tell him that it was 'a good speech'. But it is not likely that this busy banker made the long trip from New York to San Antonio merely to deliver 'a good speech'. What he came for, more than probably, was to tell Texas bankers about an alarming condition in the world in which they live and in which they conduct their business and to point out what might be done and what ought to be done to deal effectively with this condition. How many of those who heard him, we wonder, feel today like doing something about the matter? Not many, we are quite sure. We say this with confidence because the Texas bankers are like most average Americans. All of us hear things like this frequently and we react about such things in the newspapers almost daily. But very few even consider for a moment the possibility of doing anything about them. Indeed, many continue to do and to say things which tend to increase and to intensify the kind of narrow nationalism which chiefly is responsible for the situation."

TWENTY BUREAUS FOR ONE JOB

In a plea for reorganization and consolidation of Federal bureaus, Senator Byrd of Virginia, recently pointed out some astonishing instances of duplication and overlapping. For example, at least 24 agencies have been created to deal with lending government funds, and five similar agencies are now in liquidation.

At least three agencies have been concerned with insuring deposits and loans.

At least ten agencies have been concerned with government construction.

At least nine agencies have been concerned with credit and finance.

At least twelve agencies have been concerned with home and community planning.

At least sixteen agencies have been concerned with wild life conservation.

So it goes, down a long list. Every one of the purposes for which these agencies have been created may be beneficial and legitimate—but certainly there can be no excuse for setting up 20 bureaus to do one bureau's job. Nor can there be any excuse for permitting bureaus to grow unchecked and to eat up tax funds in unimaginable quantities. Senator Byrd also points out that one bureau has 13 addresses in Washington alone.

Untold millions of public dollars are thrown away annually through duplication. Congress can have no excuse for failure to adopt at once a reorganization plan such as the President recently proposed.

Sunburn Seekers Suffer Seriously

Austin, Texas, May 27.—"One of the striking examples of over working a good thing is the enthusiasm displayed by thousands of persons in trying to secure a sun tan too quickly. Under a misguided conception of the sun's health giving power, such persons either deliberately or thoughtlessly submit their unprotected faces, back and legs to over-exposure and suffer painfully, sometimes seriously, as a consequence", comments Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

"The discomfort and annoyance of even mild sunburn should deter people from repeating this folly from year to year. However, especially where younger persons are concerned, the enthusiasm for fun and the desire to become speedily tanned are likely to exact the inevitable price with painful irregularity.

"It is one thing to apply the principles of sun treatment scientifically and quite another one to place the tender skin unrestrainedly under the direct rays of the sun. It should be understood that when the sun is employed as treatment patients are exposed for but a few minutes at a time, the periods being gradually extended as the tanning develops.

"The uninformed and the thoughtless, on the other hand, give the sun free rein, submit themselves frequently to hours of continuous exposure and naturally reap misery and illness as a direct consequence.

"Before becoming too ardent over sunbathing, one would do well to ponder that many a vacation or week-end excursion has been ruined solely because the blistering and illness-producing power of the sun's rays upon the tender skin was insufficiently appreciated."

Country's Gardens To Be Scenes Of Wholesale Slaughter, Carnage

This is a murder story. But it isn't a mystery murder. Plans for the crime are now being made throughout the country. Everybody knows about the imminent disaster that is about to sweep across the nation. And, believe it or not, most everybody is rejoicing over the whole affair.

The scene for this wholesale slaughter that is about to take place is in almost everybody's garden.

With garden vegetables just beginning to show their heads in this section, Miss Nannie Mae Gaines, home management supervisor for the Resettlement Administration, is warning all gardeners to stand guard against insects which annually infest gardens and which, unless destroyed, damage or completely destroy garden truck.

There are two distinct types of insects which invade and attack plant life. They are commonly classified as the biting and the sucking insects. Biting insects are combated by applying poisonous chemicals to parts of the plants attached so that each insect will take some of the poison into its stomach when it swallows the plant particles. The sucking insect is destroyed by physical contact with the chemicals, ordinarily applied to plants in dust or spray form.

The most commonly used control mixtures are Paris green, Bordeaux mixture and nicotine sulphate. These chemicals are among the most expensive ones and can be purchased at any drug store or seed store, with instructions for mixing.

Miss Gaines warns gardeners about the use of Paris green. She says it should not come in contact with anything which cannot be thoroughly washed or peeled before eating.

The Resettlement Administration is encouraging all borrowers to raise bigger and better gardens as a very definite step in rehabilitation and health. She also suggests that persons desiring to obtain complete information about methods of control for all plant and insect and plant diseases write for bulletins now available from their state extension service, through their county or state agricultural college.

Thomas, Misses Bertha Mae Thomas and Alvis Darnell. Members present were Mesdames C. R. Skinner, J. D. Stocking, M. E. Mongole, G. J. Teel, H. Tyree, Eva Womack, L. Ballew and Mrs. Rowland, the hostess.

SHOULD CONTROL GULLEY BEFORE IT "GROWS UP"

The time to start controlling a gully is before the gully "grows up", says the Soil Conservation Service. A little attention to natural waterways in the early spring or late fall may save a big "doctor's bill" later.

Before a natural draw in a cultivated field shows signs of gullying, it should be seeded to well-adapted grasses. Vegetation in the waterway spreads surface water more evenly and lessens the danger of erosion damage by preventing its rapid concentration in a narrow channel. Such vegetated waterways can easily be mowed and often provide a supplemental hay crop.

State recommendations should be followed with regard to kinds and amounts of seed mixtures to use. Rates of seeding should be slightly greater than for general pasture or meadow seeding because a denser and more rapid growth is important. If a nurse crop of small grain is clipped when nearing maximum height, the tops lodge in the stubble, provide a mulch and give added protection to the young grass plants.

New Refrigerators Cut Living Expenses

The 1937 electric refrigerators cut food costs by as much as ten percent for the average family, according to V. L. Taylor, of Clarendon Radio and Electric, local Leonard electric refrigerator dealer. Mr. Taylor attributes these new economies to bulk food purchasing, abolition of food spoilage, and reduced operating costs.

"Such improvements in the new electric refrigerators for 1937 as the master dial, give positive temperature control at all times, ruling out waste through unnecessary current consumption", Mr. Taylor states. "Twelve freezing speeds, checked by a built-in thermometer, allow safe, adequate food preservation with operating costs cut to a minimum. Special master dial settings for vacations, when food supplies are low, mean further economy. The giant-size compressor mechanism in the 1937 Leonard has the most economical refrigerating capacity of any ever used. It operates but a fraction of each day and then only at the user's command."

The housewife this year will be enabled to buy foods in larger quantities and at reduced prices if her storage problem is provided for by an improved electric refrigerator. Mr. Taylor emphasizes. Consequent elimination of waste through food spoilage will effect even greater savings he points out.

"Protection of the family against infection, by safe, adequate refrigeration of the food supply", states Mr. Taylor, "will ultimately mean even more important economies in improved health that cannot be measured in dollars and cents."

Mrs. Harold Bugbee and John Bugbee returned Tuesday evening from Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they attended the last rites for H. G. Officer.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Sayre and Mrs. Cliff Chastain of Mineral Wells were visitors at the Blocker ranch from Wednesday until Saturday.

Amarillo visitors Saturday were Mrs. George Norwood and Mrs. Floyd Lumpkin.

Eugene Blocker of Childress spent Thursday at the Blocker ranch.

Promoted Above

By Mrs. Johnny Moss

I entered once a schoolroom filled with noise
Of twice a score of happy girls and boys.
One face so passing lovely seemed to me
It stamped itself upon my memory.
But when I went again it was not there,
Instead I saw a little empty chair.
The teacher in my face the question read:
"Promoted to the room above," she said.
Within my house there stands an empty chair;
The child it held is now no longer there.
The dimpled hands and face I used to kiss,
The clinging arms, the fond embrace, I miss
No voice I hear from morn till night in play;
No little footsteps in my home all day.
The child I loved is gone—but oh, not dead.
Promoted to the room above instead.

Mr. Darnell Weds Miss Taylor Today

In a beautiful sunrise ceremony this morning at 7 o'clock, Miss Agatha Taylor became the bride of Mr. R. Enoch Darnell at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crockett W. Taylor.

The Reverend J. Perry King, Baptist pastor, read the ring ceremony before a large open window, banked with ferns and floral decorations in the living room. The rising sun streamed through the window and cast a beautiful glow on the couple, who met at the altar to exchange vows.

The ceremony was read on the thirty-fifth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents and the thirteenth anniversary of her sister, Mrs. C. B. Stephenson. Mrs. Taylor wore a corsage of pink carnations, similar to the one worn at her own wedding, and Mrs. Darnell, mother of the groom wore white carnations.

Mrs. Grady Halbert of Kirkland gave a musical reading, "Oh Promise Me" with accompaniment by Mrs. Allen Bryan. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Bryan.

The living room was a myriad of sweetheart roses and pink and blue larkspur, the bride's chosen color scheme. Tall pink tapers in Cambridge blue holders were used.

The bride was lovely in a tailor frock of shrimp pink with accessories of navy blue. She carried an arm bouquet of Bridesmaid's rose buds. The hand-made handkerchief, carried by her mother thirty-five years ago, was carried by the bride.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mrs. H. C. Brumley invited the guests to the dining room for an informal reception. The dining table, laid in Normandy lace, was centered with two three-tier candelabra of Cambridge blue with tapers of pink. The arrangement was on a reflector encircled with sweetheart roses, baby's breath and larkspur.

Mrs. Joe Goldston presided over the silver service and the wedding cake, individual squares with dainty pink rose buds topping them, was served by Mrs. J. Perry King. Misses Madelyn Taylor, Dorothy Jo Taylor and Janette Hood of Memphis assisted in serving chicken cream patties, beaten biscuits, cake and coffee.

Miss Ethel Crane of Amarillo former school mate of the bride, caught the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Darnell attended Clarendon high school, Clarendon College, Sul Ross at Alpine, Las Vegas, Normal at Las Vegas, New Mexico, and West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon. She is a member of a pioneer family of Donley County, being the granddaughter of the late H. W. Taylor. Mrs. Darnell taught last year in Chamberlain and has taught for several years in Donley County schools.

Mr. Darnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Darnell of Vigo Park, completed his schooling at Los Vegas Normal. He also attended Montezuma College at Los Vegas. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Los Vegas, where they will enter school. They will teach school this fall at Vigo Park.

Wedding and reception guests were Mrs. Dan Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Enoch, Mr. and Mrs. Shield, Misses Edna and Ethel Crane, Mrs. Leonard Darnell, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Darnell of Vigo Park, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. At The First Baptist Church

THERE IS ALWAYS WORSHIP—FELLOWSHIP—SERVICE

One of the joys of life is service. We have many things to vex us and try us almost to the breaking point, but not so with service. It is rare that one ever finds an unhappy person who is actively engaged in service for his Lord to humanity. A long time ago one of the greatest of men said, "We know that our labor is not in vain in the Lord". Service pays a dividend in life, in death, and after death. Invest in the happy privilege of service through the week days, and then climax with the worship hours in your church on Sundays. There you will find God, good friends, and a glorious fellowship. Regular services Sunday morning and evening at the Baptist Church. We were happy to greet many new friends and visitors in the services last Sunday in addition to the faithful loyal regulars. God bless you and make you happy always when you go into the house of the Lord. We never tire saying, we are glad to see you. J. Perry King, Pastor

Those present were Misses Mary Frances Word, Geraldine Clayton, Geraldine Ryan, Margaret Fay Wadsworth, June Adams, Bobby Jo LaFon, Neta Jane Cornell, Ella Jean Speed, Florene Sherman, Betty Jo Bain and Messrs. Mrs. T. G. Stargel and daughter, Jeanne, of Oklahoma City, are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Antrobus. Mr. Stargel brought them over, but returned Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Duncan spent Sunday in Wellington visited her sister, who is confined to a hospital there. They also attended church services in Childress Sunday.

POPPY DAY PLANS COMPLETED HERE

CLARENDON TO JOIN IN ANNUAL TRIBUTE TO WORLD WAR DEAD TOMORROW.

Saturday will be Poppy Day in Clarendon and in thousands of other cities and towns throughout the United States. Millions of bright red poppies will be worn in America's annual tribute to the World War dead.

Women of Aubyn E. Clark unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets early Saturday morning with baskets of the memorial flowers, offering them in exchange for contributions to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead. They will continue working throughout the day, giving everyone an opportunity to "honor the dead and aid the living" by wearing a poppy.

Preparations for the observance of Poppy Day here have been completed by the auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. C. Huffman, general chairman. Poppies will be distributed by auxiliary women all working as unpaid volunteers. Money received from the flowers will be used to help maintain the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary among disabled veterans and fatherless families during the coming year.

"The little red poppy worn above our hearts Saturday is the truest symbol of our remembrance for those who gave their lives in the

Senator Connally For Low Interest Rates On Federal Farm Loans

Washington, D. C.—Senator Tom Connally declared early this week that he will actively urge the extension of the 3½ per cent interest rate on certain federal land bank farm loans.

House Bill Number 6763, which would extend the 3½ per cent interest rate, has been favorably reported to the House of Representatives. Unless this or some similar bill is passed before July 1, the interest rate on such loans will automatically revert to the original higher rate of 4½ to 5 per cent.

Senator Connally's views on the matter are set forth in the following statement:

"I strongly favor and shall insist upon the passage of a bill to continue and extend the 3½ per cent interest rate on federal land bank farm loans. It would be utterly unwise to increase the interest rate on loans to the Federal Land Banks at this time. One of the greatest services which the government can render is to make it easy for farmers to become the owners of the land which they till.

"The government can afford to continue the 3½ per cent interest rates on such loans. By doing it may enable farmers to meet interest payments and to pay a portion of the principal indebtedness. To increase the interest rate at this time would have the opposite effect.

CONSERVATION COMMITTEE SETS MONTHLY DATE FOR CONSULTATION

College Station, May 27.—The Wednesday after the third Monday of each month has been set aside by the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee to receive farmers and committeemen who may wish to consult with the group on matters connected with the Agricultural Conservation program, according to George Slaughter, chairman of the committee.

The committee, which determines the policies of the Agricultural Conservation program in Texas, will hold regular monthly meetings to discuss routine matters in addition to aiding individual farmers and committeemen.

The establishment of farm homes ought to be one of the cardinal policies of the federal government. Those farmers who have purchased homes and have loans on them in the federal land banks are making earnest efforts to complete their payments and become the absolute owners of the land upon which they live.

"The government can afford to continue the 3½ per cent interest rates on such loans. By doing it may enable farmers to meet interest payments and to pay a portion of the principal indebtedness. To increase the interest rate at this time would have the opposite effect.

"In the Senate I shall advocate strongly the enactment of the bill providing for the extension of the 3½ per cent rate."

Dates on which the latter may consult with the group fall on May 19, June 23, July 21, and August 18.

Slaughter pointed out that the 12 members of the committee were selected from different portions of the State, and that those who meet with the group will find a representative familiar with their section of Texas.

The committee is made up of George Slaughter, Wharton, Wharton County; J. H. Watson, New-Castle, Young County, vice chairman; Donald L. Cochran, Cavi- Slaton, Lubbock County; A. E. Gates, Laredo, Webb County; R. M. North, Ecleto, Karnes County; John Weatherby, Appleby, Nacogdoches County; B. B. Ingle, Grandview, Johnson County; Howard Kingsberry, Santa Anna, Coleman County; F. B. Seale, Benches, Robertson County; A. H. Montgomery, Darrouzett, Lipscomb County, and T. A. Kincaid, Ozona, Crockett County.

Every item needed by the individual, the home or the farm is slowly advancing in price, so even if there were no special offers made for Dollar Day, the daily selling price would be a saving to the buyer over what he will have to pay in the weeks to come.

New Administration-Library Building—University of Texas

With only a few minor details yet to be attended to, the new unit of the Administration-Library Building of The University of Texas, located in the center of the main campus at Austin, is ready for occupancy. The cost of the two units comprising the imposing structure, including fixtures and furniture, totaled approximately three million dollars. Not a penny of this sum came from the taxpayers.

From an architectural standpoint, the tower, 308 feet high, with its 28 book-stack stories, is its outstanding feature. Its higher elevation causes it to rise several feet above the Capitol dome. In addition to book stacks, its space will be devoted to offices for a number of members of the faculty.

The new unit of the building contains the offices of the president, registrar, auditor, comptroller, librarian and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Among the many attractive features are two rooms, exposed on three sides, and entirely glass-enclosed, for pleasure reading.

Students who attend the 1937 summer session will be the first to have opportunity to use the building in its completed form.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin. — With a strangely mixed record of good and bad legislation, the 45th legislature's regular session was brought to a final end in the wee hours of Sunday morning, with its clocks turned back, as members prepared to pay a flying visit home and return to resume their efforts at the first called session scheduled by Gov. Allred for Thursday of this week.

The governor specified nothing but repeal of pari-mutuel betting on horse races in his call, but pointed out omission of the usual reservation of his right to submit other matters did not preclude his doing that thing, provided progress on the race repeal measure justified submission of other matters. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, author of the repeal bill in the house, planned to hold one-day hearings Friday and report the bill to the house floor immediately. Prompt passage by the house by a large vote was foreseen. What the senate will do remained doubtful. Frank Rawlings, shrewd senator from Tarrant County, who single-handedly blocked action throughout the special session of the senate, was expected to resume the battle to prevent a senate vote.

Appropriations Up

Appropriation bills, rushed through conference committees in the dying hours of the session, further complicated the state's woeful financial condition. Budget appropriations for the biennium were hiked approximately $10,000,000 total, as forecast in this column last week. John Redditt, chairman of the senate finance committee, constant comforter of the special interest's lobby, which fears taxation, however, promptly came to bat with an optimistic statement that he believed only $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 additional revenue would be necessary despite the current 10 million-dollar deficit and the upped appropriations.

DeBerry Is Confirmed

Nomination by Gov. Allred of Tom DeBerry, former senator from Red River, to succeed John Wallace as member of the board of control on Jan. 1, 1938, was confirmed by the Senate, but brought out much political discussion. Allred's unprecedented action in submitting this and other nominations far in advance of vacancies in the offices brought the question on the senate floor as to whether the governor planned to resign to accept a federal judgeship. This Allred denied, but his denial was carefully worded, and served merely to strengthen the growing belief here that he will quit and take the federal post if it is offered him. Wild rumors that the deal had fallen through because the national administration had determined to "punish" Tom Connally, junior senator, for his opposition to the Roosevelt court plan were discounted here by those who knew of Connally's close personal relationship with Roosevelt and John Garner. They pointed out Connally has opposed the president vigorously on the NRA, the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and other measures—and remained one of the most influential administration senators in Washington.

Advertising Bill Dead

If Texas voters are to be given an opportunity to vote on whether the state shall advertise to attract industrial capital and tourist trade, it will not be for another two years. Despite valiant effort of Lieut. Gov. Walter Wood-ward, who piloted the resolution through the senate, the house failed to vote on it. Friends of the bill declared they received lit- tle support from Bob Calvert, speaker of the house, in getting it up, although Calvert saved the measure from defeat once by supporting it on a tie vote.

Veto on Dental Bill?

Final passage of the silly measure which would prohibit dentists from advertising in newspapers, with signs or otherwise, drew predictions that Gov. Allred would veto it on constitutional grounds. Newspaper publishers and others who have opposed it on the ground that it involves a principle questioned its validity and urged the governor to strike it down. They declared the legislature might decide next to forbid grocery stores, filling stations or restaurants to advertise their wares.

Seek Road Money

The eyes of Texas this week were turned toward Washington, where members of the Texas highway commission and good roads advocates throughout the state were wiring Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham urging support of the Cartwright amendment to the emergency relief appropriation for 1937-38. The amendment would designate a substan-

MEDICO'S MEETING TODAY MEMPHIS

DOCTORS OF THIRD MEDICAL DISTRICT MEET AT MEMPHIS FOR SYMPOSIUM.

Memphis, Texas, May 27.—Refreshers courses for doctors of the Third Medical District on the subjects of pediatrics and obstetrics, and a general lecture for the general public dealing with the same subjects will feature a two-day post graduate symposium to be held May 27 and 28 in Memphis, according to word received from Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

This is the first in a series of three such meetings to be held in the Third Medical District, the second to be held in Amarillo on June 10 and 11, and the third to be held in Lubbock on June 24 and 25.

Local committeeman Dr. C. C. Hyder of Memphis, is co-operating with Dr. D. T. Vinyard of Amarillo, councilor for the Third Medical District, in making the Memphis meeting of interest to both doctors and the lay public.

Technical lectures for attending doctors of the district will be held each of the two days at the high school building, while the lecture for the public will be held at 7:30 o'clock on the evening of May 27 at the high school auditorium.

On these two days an exhibit from the Texas State Department of Health with special reference to maternal and child health problems, will be on display at the high school building, and the public is invited to attend this exhibit.

Dr. J. N. Burditt of Abilene will lecture on obstetrics and Dr. R. L. Nelson of Wichita Falls on pediatrics.

Final sum out of the president's $1,500,000,000 relief fund for highway construction, sending it through regular channels, including the U. S. bureau of roads and state highway commissions. It would be applicable for federal aid and farm-to-market roads, and would bring to Texas about $9,000,000 additional highway money without additional federal matching. The legislature adopted a joint resolution memorializing congress to approve the plan, pointing to the permanent benefit derived from other relief money spent in this manner and citing the useful employment resulting. Congressional action was anticipated this week.

Notes

Political kites were flying in Austin as the legislature adjourned. . . . Coke Stevenson, ex-speaker, of Junction, and Senator Will Pace of Tyler will likely be opposing candidates for lieutenant governor. . . . There still is talk of Elliott Roosevelt of Fort Worth getting into this race, and one senator remarked, "The Lord help him if he should win and try to preside over the senate!" . . . Doyle Settle, youthful Lubbock legislator, is nursing a boomlet for commissioner of agriculture. . . . Claude Westerfield, senator from Dallas, was elected president pro tem of the senate from Sunday until Thursday, when a new president will be named for the special session. . . . If the Allred resignation should go through before the sessions end the president pro tem who succeeds Westerfield will automatically become lieutenant governor. . . . The national house has passed the bill adding a federal judge in the Houston district, which is the post Gov. Allred is expected to fill. It now goes to the senate for final action.

LIBRARY NOTES

(By Mrs. C. A. Burton)

Some months ago the Book Club gave a library membership to each family of Clarendon in the Sunnyview school. The teachers of the school then put on a reading contest, offering another three months membership to the child in each of the six grades reading and reporting on the largest number of books, the Book Club again being responsible for these memberships. They have given me their check for these six additional memberships and these six homes will again share the joy of our books. Such a splendid act on the part of the Book Club!

And now comes the news that "Gone With the Wind" has been awarded the Pulitzer Prize, and also that a suit alleging plagiarism has been brought against MacMillan Company by Susan Lawrence Davis of Washington, who claims that Margaret Mitchell has "unfairly used and appropriated material and substantial parts" of Miss Davis' "Authentic History of the Ku Klux Klan". Margaret Mitchell expressed amazement at the charges, saying she had never heard of the book until eight months after the publication of her own story.

But more interesting than the above is the statement that on April 1 Helen Keller sailed from San Francisco for Japan, taking with her for shipboard reading "Gone With the Wind" in twelve volumes in Braille. And this reminds us how little we realize what a wonderful thing is Braille for the thousands of blind all over our country. The Reader's Digest is printed in Braille by The American Printing House for the Blind at Louisville, Ky. This company prints it without profit, but even at that it costs $10 per year. Each issue becomes three bulky volumes, larger than a city telephone directory. These are passed on from one blind reader to another, going to twenty countries.

Maxwell Anderson's fantasy, "High Tor", won the New York Drama Critics' Circle award for the best American play of the 1937-37 season. He won a similar honor last year with his "Winter-set". The prize is a silver plaque by Henry Varnum Poor, depicting a scene from the old John Street Theater. Maxwell Anderson is also the author of "Mary of Scotland" and co-author with Lawrence Stallings of "What Price Glory".

A London literary review recently conducted a contest to determine the most popular authors in England and the three selected were Lord Dunsany, Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells.

I was quite interested recently in an advertisement of books which listed twelve Pulitzer Prize winners of recent years. They were as follows: "The Magnificent Ambersons", Booth Tarkington; "The Age of Innocence", Edith Wharton; "Alice Adams", Booth Tarkington; "The Able McLaughlins", Margaret Wilson; "So Big", Edna Ferber; "Arrowsmith", Sinclair Lewis; "Early Autumn", Lewis Bromfield; "The Bridge of San Luis Rey", Thornton Wilder; "Scarlet Sister Mary", Julia Peterkin; "The Good Earth", Pearl Buck; "Lamb in His Bosom", Caroline Miller; "Honey in the Horn", E. L. Davis; "Gone With the Wind", Margaret Mitchell. But the most interesting thing to me was the fact that everyone of them is already on our shelves.

The Theodore Roosevelt memorial award contest has recently resulted in the choice of "The Supreme Court and the National Will", by Dean Alfange, and the book was announced for publication the past week. The prize was $2500, and was for a manuscript dealing with a major aspect, international or national, of American and American life; the author to be an American citizen and one who had never before published a book.

Dr. Lin Yutang is in America writing a book on the art of living. His Chinese book, "My Country and My People", is still a best seller eighteen months after publication.

Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People", is given second place as a non-fiction leader in the April report from 25 of the largest city li-

"THE ODYSSEY OF MRS. BROWN"

BY J. C. MATTHEWS

State Department Director, P.-T.A.

Chapter VIII. Under Five Banners

"I like to think", said Anna Brown at the next meeting of her study group, "of the school children of Texas as marching toward an enlightened maturity under the flags of five great fields of knowledge, yet all united behind the shining banner of Truth.

"These five great divisions of knowledge, as delineated by the State Curriculum Revision Program are: first, the language arts, which include reading, writing, spelling, grammar and composition in English and the foreign language; second, social studies, which embraces history, civics, government, sociology and geography; third, science and mathematics; fourth, the creative and recreative arts, which include the fine arts and physical and health education; and fifth, the home and vocational arts.

"It may give you a somewhat clearer picture of just what is happening in these fields if I project the military metaphor I have used one step further. To get a father realistic picture of the teaching methods of the past, we may think of each of more than a dozen divisions as being an entirely separate army, each with its own generals (the teachers) and each marching toward its particular goal with little or no thought of the plans of the four other armies. The generals (the fault was the system's, not theirs) planned their campaign (the course of study) as if their army was the only one in the field, and made little effort to co-ordinate their movements with those of the other armies. As always, when persons within an organization work at cross purposes or ignore the others, the result was discouraging.

"Now, happily, we are witnessing a reorganization and realignment of these armies into five well co-ordinated ones that hold great promise. No longer are these five armies separate and independent of each other. All have been marshaled under one command, and having one common objective: The education of the pupils who form their ranks for the great business of living and making a livelihood. Their objective has always been just that, but we were too short-sighted to see it.

"We may think of this one Grand Army of the Schools as going into battle against the forces of ignorance, intolerance, greed, fear, and superstition under the common banner of Truth; but still, in a modified way, keeping their five flags of the various branches of learning. On the far side of the battle ground loom the five lofty hills of knowledge. Each division has as its objective one of these five hills. Thus, when the battle is won, we will find that the five divisions have taken the entire chain of hills, and have achieved the common goal, even though each still fought, to a certain degree, under its own flag.

"Now, to be more specific and realistic, let us see just what the teachers in each of these areas hope to accomplish through the revised courses of study.

"First, the language arts field. Each child should be able to express, both orally and in writing, his thoughts correctly, clearly, and concisely. Writing, spelling, grammar, and the rules of composition are to be considered not as the end, but solely as the means to the end of self-expression. Literature is to be thought of not as an end in itself, but as a means of self-development through knowledge and appreciation of the best works of American and foreign authors. We believe that only through literature and the other arts can a person achieve the intellectual and spiritual stature of the cultivated man.

"Next social studies. Each child, says the School Studies Committee of the Curriculum Revision

Program, should acquire 'an increasingly adequate understanding of, and creative participation in, contemporary society and the social processes'. A few other quotations from the Committee's report in the Handbook for Curriculum Development will give you a better idea of their point of view than I can hope to.

"The committee has not concerned itself with a narrow interpretation of society. It is concerned with a world society, closely corporate technologically and commercially, very loosely knit and somewhat dislocated from the point of view of ideology and social functioning'.

"... it conceives that the proper approach to a grasp of world society for the children of Texas from the Texas scene, so far as Texas is isolated from the total American scene in important particulars. The social functions are conceived in world scope, and the aspects of social living are conceived as generally as possible, leaving the teacher the broadest possible latitude in devising meaningful child experiences leading to a grasp of these generalizations'.

"Far from limiting itself to a fusion of the conventional materials, the committee has had to resort to the fields of anthropology, sociology, social psychology, economics, history, government, and geography'.

"Turning to the field of science and mathematics, we find that, through the experiences in science, the pupils should have opportunities to develop (1) an ability to interpret the natural phenomena of his environment; (2) an ability to use the findings of science that have applications in his own experiences; (3) an understanding of and an ability to use some of the methods of study that are used by creative workers in the field of science'.

"In the field of mathematics, the State committee has this to say concerning its general aims: 'We should never think of mathematics as a mastery of facts and skills, isolated and independent of life situations, but rather as meaningful growth in abstract modes of thought which can be used for more thorough understanding and appreciation of life itself at the present time as well as in later experiences'.

"In the division of creative and recreative arts, we find that through experiences in the fine arts each child should have opportunities to develop an appreciation of the beautiful through art and music, as well as 'interests, creativeness, knowledge, skills, and abilities'. Every child by nature cannot become a musician or an artist, but he is capable of developing a taste for these arts that will enrich his entire life.

"Every child should have opportunities to develop, as far as is possible, a sound body, sound health, and should possess knowledge of the rules of both health and clean sportsmanship. Sportsmanship is not confined to athletic contests; we need much more of it in the infinitely greater game of life.

"And lastly, we have the home and vocational arts. The experiences in home arts should provide opportunities for each pupil to develop an understanding of 'human relationships, care of self and properties, and daily habits in relation to food, clothing, and shelter'. Baseball Fans To Match Wits With "Babe" Ruth

At the mike, Ruth offers to match wits with baseball fans.

CAN you outsmart "Babe" Ruth, the greatest ball player of all time? Baseball fans have an opportunity to try during a new series of Sinclair radio programs headlined by the famous Sultan of Swat in person.

Each week the "Big Bambino" forecasts winners of a number of important Big League games, while the fans employ their own knowledge of the diamond in an effort to outsmart the Home Run King. In addition, Ruth also interviews prominent players in the leading circuits and gives pointers on the game for the benefit of sand lot players and twilight leaguers.

"Babe" Ruth smacks one into the bleachers.

Sinclair Refining Company, sponsors of the "Babe" Ruth microphone talks, also offers fans 522 prizes each week for the best answers to a series of questions about baseball. Major prizes each week are two deluxe 1937 model Nash Ambassador Eight sedans and 20 RCA Victor Auto Radios. In addition, 500 Spalding Official National League baseballs "Babe" Ruth autographed will go to winners each week. Entry blanks in this "Babe" Ruth contest are being distributed without charge by Sinclair dealers in this community.

Sparks Risks His Dead - Pan Record

The unconscious ribbing of Ben Bernie by an unknown extra on the set during the filming of the Twentieth Century-Fox hilarious musical comedy show, "Wake Up and Live," at the Pastime Theater, almost won for him the unofficial award promised to anyone who can make Ned Sparks laugh.

Sparks, with Ben Bernie, Walter Winchell and Alice Faye, was doing a scene in the anteroom of a modernistic nitery. Into this glittering showplace, with its elegantly attired extras, walked a bearded, disheveled old man, wearing a voluminous patched and soiled overcoat. No one knew who he was, or what he was doing on the gorgeous set in such a costume.

Walking up to the Old Maestro, the man said, in a very familiar accent, "Boy! Have I got a hot tip on the third race at Santa Anita!" The whole company burst out in laughter, and it was the suggestion of a grin on the dead pan of Ned Sparks that led to the investigation of the identity of the old man.

It was Gregory Ratoff, who had wandered over between scenes from the "Seventh Heaven" set for a bit of a poke at the orchestra leader. When last seen, Winchell was buying the dialectician a cup of coffee.
